The recipient of the service is required to account for the VAT due in Moldova at the time when the service is imported or paid, whichever is the earlier (with certain exceptions provided by the law).

The VAT on imported services calculated under the reverse-charge mechanism is declared to the tax authorities in the monthly VAT return required to be submitted by 25th of the month following the reporting month.

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse-charge mechanism is applicable to business entities that procure on Moldovan territory the property of other business entities registered for VAT, declared in the insolvency process (according to the provisions of the Insolvency Law). In the case of goods sold by the insolvent business entity (seller) to another business entity (buyer), the latter calculates and pays the VAT amount to the budget, subsequently having the right to deduction. The taxable object constitutes the value of the acquired property of the insolvent entity. Additionally, the domestic reverse-charge mechanism is applicable to business entities that procure on Moldovan territory the pledged property, mortgaged property, forfeit property of other business entities registered for VAT.

Digital economy. The place of supply of digital services (i.e., electronic communication services, broadcasting and television services, services provided by radio-electronic means) is the place/residence of the customer. This means that nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Moldova. Instead, the customer is required to pay VAT on the imported services under the reverse-charge mechanism. For B2C supplies, the individual should pay the VAT simultaneously with the payment for the imported digital services and declare the related VAT until the 25th of the month following the reporting month by filing a VAT return. However, in practice this is not commonly carried out.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Moldova.

Online marketplaces and platforms. From 1 April 2020, nonresidents that provide services through electronic networks (i.e., digital services through online marketplaces and platforms) to Moldovan resident individuals, as well as nonresident intermediaries who receive payments from Moldovan resident individuals for the services provided through electronic networks, for which the place of supply is considered in Moldova, are subject to VAT and should register for VAT in Moldova under a specific procedure (see the Special schemes, Digital services subsection below, under Section I. Records and payment). The respective mechanism applies to B2C supplies only. In case of B2B supply of digital services, no VAT registration is required for the nonresident, since the customer should pay VAT on the imported services under the reverse-charge mechanism.

Registration procedures. To register as a taxable person, the local entity should file a VAT registration application form before the last day of the month during which the VAT registration conditions are met. The application form shall be filed in a hard copy format or electronically by online registration, together with a list of supporting documents (including the list of sales invoices and invoices for acquired goods and services, contracts concluded with the suppliers and clients, bank statements, breakdowns from the statutory books of payables and receivable accounts, expenses and income accounts, as well as other additional information) required by the local tax authorities to establish the correctness of the data submitted by the applicant. A tax audit is usually performed for VAT registration purposes, where additional documentation and information can be asked by the tax authorities.

The taxable person is considered to be VAT registered starting the first day of the month following the month during which it filed the application form and with the condition that the VAT registration requirements are met. Although the local legislation does not provide for a specific deadline during which the tax authorities should finalize the tax audit and confirm the VAT registration, in practice this process can take up to 30 days after filing of the registration application form.

Referring to the nonresidents that provide services through electronic networks (i.e., digital services) to Moldovan resident individuals, as well as to the nonresident intermediaries who receive payments from Moldovan resident individuals for the services provided through electronic networks, for which the place of supply is considered Moldova, they are not required to register for VAT in Moldova under the general registration procedure. They are subject to a simplified registration scheme to be performed via an online platform provided by the tax authorities.

Deregistration. Deregistration as a taxable person is subject to a tax audit to be performed by the tax authority. The date of deregistration is considered the date of issuance of the tax audit report based on which the tax authority decided to perform the respective deregistration.

In case of suspension of the VAT taxable supplies, the taxable person is obliged to inform the tax authority. Deregistration is performed according to the procedure provided by the state fiscal inspectorate.

Additionally, the tax authority has the right to deregister the taxable person if:
- The taxable person has failed to file the VAT tax return for a certain amount of tax periods (arguably for at least 12 months)
- The taxable person has presented untruthful information with regard to its headquarter registration address

Changes to VAT registration details. There is no specific procedure in relation to notifying the tax authorities for changes in a taxable persons' VAT registration details. In case any changes occur (such as the company name, address, administrator, etc.), this is done automatically through the Public Services Agency (Trade Register), which exchanges information with the tax authorities, so VAT records are also updated.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a VAT rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rates: 8%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Some supplies are classified as exempt from VAT with the right to deduction, known as exempt with credit (i.e., zero-rated), which means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover the related input tax.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0% (i.e., exempt with credit)

- Exports of goods and related services
- International transport of persons and freight
- Electric and thermal power
- Supplies of water to the public

Examples of goods and services taxable at 8%

- Bakery products
- Dairy products
- Agricultural products
- Drugs
- Natural and liquefied gas produced and imported in Moldova
- Phytotechnics and horticulture products in natural form, zootechnical products in natural form, live and slaughtered produced and/or delivered within the territory of Moldova
- Beet sugar produced, imported and/or delivered within the territory of Moldova
- HORECA industry supplies (hotel, restaurants and café services). Such supplies were reduced from 12% to 8% with effect from 10 August 2023. However, such supplies can be reduced to 6% during a state of emergency period declared on the entire territory of Moldova by the Parliament or by the National Extraordinary Public Health Com-mission. This reduced VAT rate applies to food and/or beverages (excluding the alcoholic products), prepared or unprepared, for human consumption, together with the related services allowing their immediate consumption, provided as part of activities included in Section I of the Moldovan Classifier of Economic Activities, as well as to accommodation services, regardless of the level of comfort (e.g., hotel, apartment-hotel, motel, tourist villa, bungalow, tourist boarding house, rural boarding house, camping, holiday village or holiday camp) that are included in Section I of the Moldovan Classifier of Economic Activities.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Dwellings
- Land
- Cars (until 31 December 2025)
- Long-term tangible assets contributed into share capital under the special rules approved by the government
- Tractors and other agricultural machineries
- Food for children
- Financial services
- Educational services
- Insurance
- Betting and gaming
- Books and periodicals

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Moldova.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In general, a taxable person becomes liable to account for VAT at the time of the earliest of the following events:

- The receipt of partial or total payment from the customer
- The performance of the supply
- The issuance of the fiscal invoice

Taxable persons must make payments for every tax period. The standard tax period is a calendar month.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Moldova for deposits and prepayments (refundable or nonrefundable). As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Generally, a taxable person becomes liable to account for VAT if it receives (or received) a partial or total prepayment from the customer in relation to a supply of goods or a supply of services. If no supply is performed and the prepayment is returned to the customer, the taxable person should be able to adjust/claim back VAT it accounted before on the received prepayment.

Continuous supplies of services. If the goods and services are supplied regularly (continuously) during a certain period of time stipulated in the contract, the time of supply is considered the date of the performance of the supply or the receipt date of each regular payment, whichever is the earlier.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Moldova for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For B2B services supplied by nonresidents, the tax is payable on reverse-charge services by 25th of the month following the month in which the service was imported or paid, whichever is the earlier.

Leased assets. If the assets are supplied under a leasing contract (financial or operational), time of supply is considered the date of the lease payment specified in the contract. In cases of receiving the lease payment in advance, time of supply is considered the date of this advance payment.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Moldova, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on reverse-charge services.

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax. The right of deduction may be exercised in the tax period in which the purchase documents are entered into the recipient's books of account.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Moldova. This mean that, effectively, the input tax may be carried forward indefinitely until its complete recovery. However, a six-year time limit applies for certain cases of VAT refunds.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Private expenditure
- Cost of goods that are lost, stolen or destroyed
- Expenditure that is not allowable for income and corporate tax purposes
- Business gifts
- Bad debts (a purchaser acquired goods and services but never paid the supplier)
- Repair, maintenance and operating expenses of cars used by company management above the specific limits provided by the legislation

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for cars used by the company management, subject to certain limits
- Purchase, hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for vans and trucks
- Parking
- Books
- Attendance at conferences, seminars and training courses
- Mobile phones
- Advertising
- Transport
- Hotel accommodation

Partial exemption. Input tax deduction is not available when it relates to supplies that are exempt from VAT without the right to deduction. If a taxable person makes supplies that are both taxable and exempt from VAT without the right to deduction, it may recover only input tax related to supplies that are taxable. Supplies that are exempt from VAT with the right to deduction are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

Taxable persons who make supplies that are taxable and exempt from VAT without the right to deduction may deduct VAT on purchases by the application of the pro rata method to the amount of VAT related both to supplies that are taxable and exempt without the right to deduction.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Moldova. Special methods are not allowed in Moldova.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure related to fixed tangible and intangible assets subject to depreciation. Input tax incurred on capital goods used wholly for taxable supplies can be recovered in line with normal input tax recovery rules. Input tax is deducted in the month in which the goods are acquired.

If the capital goods are used for both taxable and exempt supplies, the partial exemption rules described above shall apply. Where the use of the capital good changes from taxable to exempt, the input tax related to the net book value of the capital good is not allowed for deduction and is reported to costs or expenses.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a monthly period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, the taxable person may request a refund of VAT if the excess VAT results from any of the following:
- Supplies performed from 1 January 2023 by using e-invoicing and/or tax receipts issued by equipment connected to the tax authorities' electronic sales monitoring system
- Supplies that are exempt from VAT with the right to deduction
- Supplies made by companies that produce and sell bread and dairy products
- Capital investments by business entities registered as taxable persons, except for investments made in certain types of buildings and means of transport
- Capital investments in motor vehicles for passenger transportation
- Overpaid tax

The following special procedure applies if a taxable person requests a VAT refund:
- The taxable person must submit a request to the tax authorities
- Before the repayment is made, the tax authorities perform a special tax audit to ensure that the amount claimed is accurate

In practice, it may be difficult to receive a refund in these circumstances and substantial delays may be experienced.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Moldova is not recoverable.

Bad debts. If the output tax related to a supply in the VAT return is all or part of it considered, according to the legislation, as a bad debt, the taxable person has the right to adjust the amount of VAT calculated starting with the fiscal period in which the bad debt was detected.

The tax code allows the recovery of VAT on bad debts, subject to the following conditions:
- The liquidated entity has no successor of rights
- The business entity declared insolvent does not have any goods
- The individual who does not perform any business activity, and the farmer or individual entrepreneur does not have, within two years from the day of the appearance of the debt, goods or is insufficient of goods that could be collected in order to extinguish this debt
- The individual has died and there are no more persons obliged by law to honor its obligations
- The individual, including the farmer's household members or the individual entrepreneur who left its residence, cannot be found during the limitation period established by the civil legislation
- There is a respective act of the court or of the executor (e.g., decision, conclusion or other document provided by the legislation in force) according to which debt collection is not possible
- The debt is up to MDL1,000 with an expired limitation period

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Moldova.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Moldova is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. In general, a taxable person must provide a fiscal invoice for all taxable supplies, except in several circumstances provided for by the Moldovan law. A fiscal invoice is necessary to support a claim for an input tax deduction.

Credit notes. No laws exist with respect to credit notes. The taxable amount of the taxable supply of goods and services, after their supply or payment, can be adjusted if there are supporting documents providing the following conditions are met:
- The amount of the taxable supply, agreed initially, has changed as a result of changing prices
- The taxable supply was returned to the seller, either partially or in the full amount
- The taxable amount of the taxable supply was reduced due to a discount provided

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Moldova for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Moldova. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Moldova. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

It is mandatory for taxable persons that perform supplies under public procurements, i.e., B2G (except for electricity, heat, natural gas, electronic communications services and communal services supplies), supplies of gasoline and diesel (both B2B and B2C), as well as for the taxable persons who are included by the authorities in the mandatory list of taxable persons required to use e-invoicing (both B2B and B2C). Other taxable persons can use electronic invoicing voluntarily.

Taxable persons who use electronic invoicing should be registered as users of electronic tax services and have digital or electronic signatures issued in accordance with local legislation. An e-invoice must be issued via a specific online platform provided by the tax authorities. The purpose is to streamline the collection of taxes and duties to improve the collection rate of VAT, thus leading to the prevention of tax evasion.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Moldova. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Moldova.

Proof of exports. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, export supplies must be supported by evidence confirming that the goods have left Moldova. The law provides for a specific list of supporting documents proving the exportation, which vary according to the type of exported goods or services (e.g., customs declarations, invoices, sales agreements).

Foreign currency invoices. Fiscal invoices cannot be issued in a foreign currency in Moldova. All fiscal invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Moldovan leu (MDL).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Generally, in case of retail supplies made by taxable persons to private consumers, no fiscal invoice is required to be issued, unless it is requested by the purchaser.

Records. Each taxable person is obliged to keep track of the entire volume of goods and services delivered, as well as all the goods and services purchased.

In Moldova, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the fiscal invoices related to purchases/deliveries and the generalized record (see below). The fiscal invoices must be recorded in the respective ledgers in the order of their receipt/release. Damaged or canceled fiscal invoices shall be also kept by the business entity. The purchases and sales ledgers shall be prepared and filled by the 25th of the month from the end of the reporting month. The accounting documents are kept by the entity on paper or in electronic form.

For each reporting month, a generalized record must be kept that includes the following:
- Input tax amount on acquired goods and services
- Output tax amount on delivered goods and services
- Adjustments that impact the VAT amount
- The VAT amount to be paid to the budget or the input tax amount to be carried forward
- VAT amount paid to the budget
- The VAT amount to be carried forward to the next fiscal period
- VAT amount subject to be refunded from the budget

In Moldova, VAT books and records must be held within the country. Generally, the taxable person should hold the records at their registered office.

Record retention period. According to the local legislation, the fiscal invoices, as well as the accounting ledgers must be kept for six years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Moldova. Archiving must be made in paper form only. VAT returns, as well as other related registers and supporting documentation, should be printed and kept in hard copy by the taxable persons.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT return periods are generally monthly. The VAT return periods for the provision of digital services by nonresidents to Moldovan individuals are quarterly.

Returns must be filed by the 25th day of the month following the end of the return period.

Periodic payments. Payment in full must be made by the same date as the VAT return deadline, i.e., by the 25th of the month following the end of the return period. The VAT must be paid to the tax authority through bank transfer.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Moldova for all taxable persons. Taxable persons are obliged to file VAT returns by using a specific online electronic program provided by the local tax authority. The service "Declarație electronică" is the tool for creating, verifying and filing tax returns by taxable persons online (via servicii.fisc.md platform). The tool can only be used with electronic signatures issued by accredited centers. The tool also offers the option to upload pre-prepared returns into taxable persons' accounting programs.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Moldova.

Special schemes. Digital services. A special scheme applies to nonresidents who provide services through electronic networks (i.e., digital services through online marketplaces and platforms) to Moldovan resident individuals, as well as nonresident intermediaries who receive payments from Moldovan resident individuals for the services provided through electronic networks, for which the place of supply is considered Moldova. The respective mechanism applies to B2C supplies only. The nonresident should register in its own name with the local tax authority, under a simplified online procedure, within the first fiscal period (i.e., quarter) in which the obligation to calculate and pay the VAT arises, before the return filing. The VAT due for digital services should be declared and paid quarterly by the respective nonresidents.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Moldova.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Moldova.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A voluntary disclosure is required to be submitted to the tax authority for the underpayment of VAT, and the taxable person should file an amended VAT return for the respective period. In case the taxable person finds that the previously filed tax return contains an error or omission, it has the right to submit a corrected tax return, according to the form and completion method in force for the tax return to be corrected. The corrected tax returns are filed by using the same specific online electronic platform of the tax authorities that is used for filing the regular VAT returns.

Digital tax administration. Electronic invoicing. A taxable supply performed under the public procurements should be documented with an electronic invoice (e-invoice) by using a specific online platform provided by the tax authorities. Also, there is a list of taxable persons approved by the tax authorities for which the use of electronic invoice is mandatory. For further details, see the subsection Electronic invoicing above.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Failure to register or late registration for VAT is penalized with a fine from 7% to 10% of the amount of taxable supplies, excluding supplies exempted from VAT with the right to deduction.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Failure to comply with the tax reports preparation and filing rules (including non-filing, late filing or filing of untruthful information) will be penalized with a fine, from MDL500 to MDL1,000 for each tax report, but no more than MDL10,000 for all tax reports subject of tax infringement, applied to business entities.

Interest for delay in payment of the understated taxes is calculated for the period starting with the due date until the day (including) of effective transfer to the budget (the rate varies from year to year based on the refinancing basic rate, provided by the National Bank of Moldova plus five points). For example, the annual interest rate for 2023 year is equal to 27%. At the time of preparing this chapter, the interest rate for delay in payment is not known, as the refinancing basic rate has not been published by the National Bank of Moldova.

Penalties for errors. The understatement of VAT by submitting to the tax authorities a VAT return with invalid information or data is sanctioned with a fine from 20% to 30% of the understated VAT amount.

Failure to issue in time the tax invoice, as well as failure to register the tax invoice in the general electronic register of the fiscal invoices, will be penalized with a fine from MDL3,000 to MDL3,600 per each fiscal invoice but not more than MDL72,000.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Evasion from calculation and payment of VAT will be penalized with a fine from 80% to 100% of the respective VAT amount.

If the infringement is qualified as a tax evasion and the income tax exceeds in total 50 average forecast salaries (approximately MDL585,000), criminal investigations could be initiated (both for the company and its responsible person), subject to a list of financial and other type of sanctions to be imposed based on the decision taken by the court. At the time of preparing this chapter, the average forecasted salary for 2024 has not been published.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Moldova. Filing of tax returns with untruthful and/or incomplete information will be penalized with a fine from MDL450 to MDL1,500 applied to responsible person. Failure to file the tax return within the term established by the legislation will be penalized with a fine from MDL300 to MDL600 applied to responsible person. In case of infringements qualified as a tax evasion, there can be initiated criminal investigations with regard to company responsible person.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Moldova is four years. Generally, under the current law, the tax authorities may normally audit tax-related matters retroactively for four years. However, no statute of limitation is applied if the filed tax return contains misleading data or if it reflects facts representing tax infringements or if the tax return is not filed to the tax authority.

An amended tax return can be filed to voluntarily correct errors contained in the original tax return if no tax audit was announced or performed by the tax authorities for the respective fiscal period.

Mongolia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Ulaanbaatar GMT +8

Ernst & Young TMZ LLC
Certified Tax Consultants
Suite 200
Naiman Zovkhis Building
Seoul Street 21
Ulaanbaatar
Mongolia

Indirect tax contacts

Martin Richter (resident in Hong Kong)	+852 2629 3938 martin.richter@hk.ey.com
Khishignemekh Regzedmaa	+976 11 314032 khishignemekh.regzedmaa@mn.ey.com
Myagmarsuren Lkhagvadorj	+976 11 314032 myagmarsuren.lkhagvadorj@mn.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Нэмэгдсэн өртгийн албан татвар (НӨАТ)
Date introduced	1 July 1998
Trading bloc membership	Mongolia and Japan economic partnership agreement (EPA)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance of Mongolia (https://www.mof.gov.mn/) Mongolian Tax Authority (http://www.mta.mn) (MTA)
VAT rates
Standard	10%
Other	0-10%, zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (TIN) with 7 digits
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	MNT50 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following types of transactions of individuals and legal entities:
- All types of goods sold in Mongolia
- All types of works and services provided in Mongolia
- All types of goods, works and services provided to customers in another country
- All types of goods, works and services received from suppliers in another country

The term "sale" refers to a transfer of the ownership of goods to another person or the performance of services. The term "goods" includes all types of property other than money capital, and the term "services" includes any activity.

The provision of services includes but is not limited to the following:
- Providing electricity, heat, gas, water, sewers, postal services, communication and other utilities
- Leasing, possessing or using goods
- Renting immovable and movable property (other than rental of houses for residential purposes) or allowing possession or use of them in other forms
- Selling, transferring or leasing new inventions, new product designs, patents, copyright-protected work, trademarks, know-how, software and other proprietary information
- Performing work and services provided for repayment of debts owed to other entities
- Sale of goods and provision of works and services by a nonresident person to a resident
- Organization of lottery, paid quiz or gambling games
- Providing intermediary services (intermediary of special rights, trade representation, commission and similar services)
- Receiving interest, fines and penalties arising from misconduct or noncompliance
- Offsetting of any debts through the transfer of goods, performance of works or provision of services

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Mongolia, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

While the Mongolian VAT law does not contain explicit "effective use and enjoyment" rules, the location of a purchase determines whether it is subject to VAT. Any goods, works or services imported to Mongolia, exported from Mongolia or sold within the territory of Mongolia are subject to VAT. This rule applies regardless of whether the transaction is business-to-business (B2B) or business-to-consumer (B2C). Mongolian VAT is not applicable to a transaction involving Mongolian VAT agents that takes place outside of Mongolian legal jurisdiction.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Mongolia. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

However, issuing, selling, transferring or accepting stocks is exempt from VAT. In certain cases, this would allow ownership of a business to be transferred without incurring VAT. For example, if a business is transferred from one entity to another through the transfer/sale of stocks, VAT will not be applicable to this transaction.

Transactions between related parties. In Mongolia, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated on an arm's-length basis. This is in the context of transfer pricing rules for VAT purposes in Mongolia. In addition, there is a specific VAT valuation rule that applies for transactions between related parties if the prices are not arm's length, which the VAT law stipulates that when the prices of goods and services exchanged between related parties are either higher or lower than the market value, then tax authorities would apply the market value on such transaction when determining the tax liability. This provision is complimentary to the general arm's length principle.

C. Who is liable

In general, a taxable person (or VAT agent) is any individual or legal entity (including a foreign legal entity and individual) that is engaged in the import and export of goods, as well as the sale and manufacturing of any goods, performance of work and rendering of services in the territory of Mongolia. Any individual permanently or temporarily employed under a labor contract is deemed not to be a VAT-taxable person.

Taxable persons must be registered for VAT when taxable turnover exceeds MNT50 million in a given financial year (subject to certain anti-avoidance measures).

Exemption from registration. If a taxable person has not reached the registration threshold of MNT50 million within a given financial year, the taxable person is exempted from VAT.

Individuals and entities engaged exclusively in VAT-exempt goods, works and services specified in VAT law may not be registered as a VAT agent.

Individuals and entities whose business activity is exclusively VAT exempt, shall submit the following evidence in online and paper form to the MTA annually by the 10th of January: the application for exemption from registration as an agent; proof of exemption for goods, works and services; business license, electronic payment receipt, contract and source documents, etc.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Taxable persons can voluntarily register for VAT when taxable turnover reaches MNT10 million. Supporting documents are required to prove the expected sales reach MNT50 million in the next 12 months, such as contracts and sales orders, etc.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Mongolia.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Mongolia, where a business may instead register a permanent establishment (PE) or representative office of a foreign corporation in Mongolia. In terms of comparability, the PE is closest in function and form to a fixed establishment. The PE rules described in the CIT law also apply to the VAT law, as Mongolian tax legislation uses the definition of PE found in the CIT law in all contexts relating to PEs. A PE is defined to be at least one of the following:

- Places of management, e.g., branches or offices
- Workshops
- Warehouses
- Mine, oil or gas wells, or other places where mineral natural resources are extracted
- Factories
- Construction sites, buildings, assembly or installation sites that last for a total of 90 days or more during a consecutive 12-month period, as well as units for construction, and management activities related to such activities
- Business activities providing technical consulting, management and other services to taxpayers located in Mongolia, through their own employees or contractors for a total of 183 days or more during a continuous 12-month period

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment in Mongolia.

Foreign legal entities or individuals that sell goods, perform work or render services in the territory of Mongolia will be subject to VAT. As such, the recipient of the services or goods must act as a tax agent and withhold the VAT under the Mongolian reverse-charge VAT system. Foreign legal entities and individuals are not entitled to recover any input tax (VAT on purchase) unless they have a permanent establishment that is registered for Mongolian VAT purposes.

If a non-established business that does not make supplies incurs input tax and wishes to recover input tax, they may register as a VAT agent by establishing a PE or representative office. See the subsection G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses below.

Tax representatives. VAT agents are allowed for non-established businesses to enable them to recover input. See the subsection G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses below.

Reverse charge. Reverse-charge VAT is applied to payments for works and services supplied by foreign legal entities and individuals not registered as taxable persons in Mongolia to Mongolian legal entities or individual entrepreneurs. Under the reverse-charge mechanism, the liability to impose, pay and report VAT rests with the recipient of the supply that acts as a tax agent.

However, input tax incurred on reverse-charge VAT paid on services provided by nonresidents is non-recoverable in Mongolia. See Section F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons for more detail.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Mongolia.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules relating to the taxation of the digital economy. Normal VAT rules apply. Nonresidents that provide electronically supplied services are not required to register and account for VAT in Mongolia. The local customer self-accounts for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism. This applies for both B2B and B2C. The customer must act as a tax agent and withhold the VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism. See the Non-established businesses subsection above.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Mongolia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Mongolia.

Registration procedures. Individuals and legal entities shall submit a request letter to register and application form ТТБ-01-А for VAT registration to the relevant tax office within 10 business days from the date the documents proving the threshold has been met. Non-exhaustive proof of documents includes bank statements, cash receipt orders, sales contracts, company certificates and electronic invoices.

The registration application for VAT agent is filled in and submitted to the tax authority within 10 working days after the threshold is met by either online or by paper. Log into online portal (https://e-tax.mta.mn) where individuals and companies can apply online for the registration of VAT and upload the following documents: sales agreement, bank account statement, invoices and state registration certificate to prove sales revenue. The application is subject to verification from the tax administration who may request additional supporting documents to verify sales. The MTA shall register a taxable person as a VAT agent within three working days after receiving the application of the person specified in VAT law and issue a certificate.

Deregistration. An individual or legal person registered for VAT shall be excluded from the taxable persons' registry and their certificate shall be canceled if it has been proven by financial statements for a business entity or organization or by income and tax sheet for an individual taxable income amount for the subsequent 12 months after being registered for VAT is less than MNT50 million.

Changes to VAT registration details. A VAT agent should keep their VAT registration details up to date. Taxable persons may change their information details in the tax online portal. The taxable person is obliged to notify the MTA about any changes on the taxable person's registration certificate within seven days. Details that the taxable person must update for its tax registration are business structure, information of the business owner, amount of owner's equity, licenses issued to taxable persons and transferred to ownership, name of company, type of business, etc.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 10%
- Special rates: 0-10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods (works and services) unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Goods exported from the territory of Mongolia and declared with the customs organization
- Passenger and cargo transportation services rendered from the territory of Mongolia to foreign countries, from foreign countries to the territory of Mongolia, as well as from foreign countries to third countries transiting through the territory of Mongolia, pursuant to the international treaties to which Mongolia is a signatory
- Services provided in a foreign country (including tax-exempt services)
- Any rendering of services (including "nontaxable services") to a nonresident person
- Any services of air navigation management, technical and fuel services, and cleaning that shall be provided for both foreign and domestic airplanes conducting international flight and sale, food and drink services provided for air crew members or passengers during flight
- State medals and coins manufactured domestically on the order of the Government or the Bank of Mongolia
- Mining finished products that are exported (the government approves list of final mining products)

Examples of goods and services taxable at special rates 0%-10%

- Imported and manufactured gasoline and diesel fuel only; the government shall set the exact rate considering the specifics of the sector.

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Passengers' personal use goods (subject to permitted amounts and approval by customs authority)
- Goods received through humanitarian and grant aid from foreign governments, NGOs and international or humanitarian organizations
- Special purpose appliances, equipment and machinery designed for physically challenged persons
- Civil passenger airplanes and spare parts thereof
- Revenues from the sale of establishments used for housing or portions thereof
- Blood, blood products and organs to be used for purposes of specified treatment
- Gas fuel, gas fuel containers, equipment, special purpose machineries, mechanisms and related mechanics
- Sale of gold
- Experimental products related to research and scientific work
- Mining products other than mining finished product that was exported
- Cereal, potatoes, seeds, vegetables and fruits domestically grown and sold by farmers and domestically produced flour
- Asset-backed loan portfolio or claiming rights derived from financial leasing arrangements transferred by banks, nonbanking financial institutions (NBFI) or other legal entities to other banks, special purpose companies or mortgage corporations
- Imported woods, timbers, cut materials, planks, wooden pieces and semi-processed wooden materials
- Exported cashmere and leather that has been raw processed (cleaned and brushed)
- Import of special purpose machinery, equipment, parts, raw materials, and chemical or explosive substances imported by contractors and subcontractors to be used for crude oil and nontraditional crude oil industry for the first five years of an exploration period or for exploration periods of less than five years
- Import of equipment, tools and accessories for renewable energy production and research
- Currency exchange

- Banking services, such as the receipt or transfer of money, or any dealing with money, any security for money or any note or order for the payment of money and the operation of any savings account
- Services of insurance, reinsurance and registration of property
- The issuance, transfer or receipt of any securities and shares, and underwriting of such securities
- The issuance of loans
- The provision or transfer of an interest related to a social and health insurance fund
- Loan interest, financial lease interest, dividends, loan guarantee fees or insurance premiums by banks, NBFIs or saving and loan cooperatives
- Rental of residential houses and apartments
- Medical services
- Services of religious organizations
- Services provided by a government organization; this shall include public services provided by the government, its agencies and budgetary organizations
- Public transportation services
- Tour operating services
- Weapons and special equipment imported for the needs of the armed forces, police, state security, enforcement of court decisions, state special protection organizations and the anti-corruption agency
- Notary services
- Goods imported for the use of diagnosis and treatment of COVID-19 such as diagnostic tests, medicine, medical equipment and disinfectants

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Mongolia.

E. Time of supply

The moment when VAT becomes due is called the "time of tax imposition," also known as the time of supply.

For taxable persons, the time of tax imposition is the earliest of the following dates:
- The date when the seller receives the payment for goods, works or services
- The date when a payment receipt and an invoice is issued for sales of products and services
- The date when the purchase of goods, works or services is exercised

Deposits and prepayments. The time of supply for a deposit, prepayment and advance payment is the end of the calendar month (VAT return period) in which the prepayment is received, even if the supply has not been made. This treatment applies to both supply of services and goods.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Mongolia for continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval or for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Mongolia for supplies of goods sent on "approval" or for "sale or return" conditions. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above), and when the goods are sold, and it can be reversed with approval of the buyer. Mongolia employs an electronic VAT system where all supplies of goods and services are recorded. The seller can request a return of the goods to the buyer through the electronic VAT system.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Mongolia for the supply of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. Leased assets are subject to VAT. The time of supply rule for the supply of leased assets that results in a transfer in ownership shall be in accordance with the agreed schedule for the finance lease payment.

Imported goods. Imported goods are subject to customs VAT at the time of customs clearance. Payment of import VAT is required for imported goods to enter Mongolian territory. The time of supply for imported goods shall be at the earliest date of the following operation:
- The day when the vendor receives a sales revenue
- The day when the payment receipt is invoiced for goods and services sold
- The day when goods and services are purchased

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods (works and services) supplied for carrying out activities within the scope of VAT. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods (works and services) in Mongolia, VAT paid on the import of goods and VAT paid to the Mongolia budget by a buyer acting as a tax agent with respect to the acquisition of goods (works and services) from a foreign legal entity.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Mongolia is one month. The claim for input tax credit must be made in the monthly VAT return on self-assessment basis, provided the supporting documents are maintained.

If the amount of input deduction for a given month exceeds the amount of tax payable in the same period, the tax administration shall apply the following methods:
- Offset against the potential tax payable in the subsequent periods if any
- Offset against the other types of tax payable
- Refund in cash

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax cannot be recovered on purchases of goods (works and services) and property rights that are not used for making supplies within the scope of VAT (for example, goods purchased for private use by an entrepreneur).

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal expenses
- VAT paid for the spare parts of auto vehicles
- Reverse-charge VAT paid on services provided by nonresidents
- VAT incurred on mineral exploration and pre-mining operations
- VAT incurred for the purpose of tax-exempt supplies

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Inventory
- Utility bills

Partial exemption. If a Mongolian taxable person makes both exempt supplies and taxable supplies, the taxable person must account for them separately. Input tax directly related to taxable supplies is recoverable in full, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not recoverable and must be expensed for Mongolian profit tax purposes. Input tax that may not be directly attributed to taxable or exempt supplies (such as VAT on business overhead costs) must be apportioned. The statutory method of apportionment is a pro rata calculation, based on the value of taxable supplies made compared with the total turnover of the business.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Mongolia. Special methods are not allowed in Mongolia.

Capital goods. Input tax incurred on capital goods of businesses is allowed for input credit for taxable supplies (excluding tax-exempt supplies). The input tax shall be claimed on a straight-line basis with following periods:
- Building and construction: 10 years
- Plant and equipment: 5 years
- Mineral exploration assets: 5 years
- All other non-current assets: input tax is claimed in the period in which it incurs

Refunds. The VAT refund application must be sent to the appropriate tax authority. The appropriate tax authority will review, confirm the ending balance, and submit its proposal to the MTA within 15 working days. The MTA will review the application and proposal within seven working days and submit its opinion including name of the taxable person, registration number, bank account, refundable amount within two working days to the Ministry of Finance who will refund the amount within 45 days after the receipt of opinion. However, a refund of VAT shall not exceed 30% of the total VAT revenue to be paid into the state budget in a given month, quarter or year. Thus, a refund may take some time if the amount is sizable.

The VAT law requires the tax authorities to pay a refund no later than 45 days following the positive decision regarding the VAT refund claim of a taxable person. In practice, however, refund payments are often delayed.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Mongolia is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Mongolia.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities, is not recoverable in Mongolia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Mongolia is not recoverable.

To recover input tax, a non-established business must register as a VAT agent. The primary requirement for a business to register as a VAT agent is income. If the business only conducts transactions where they are the buyer of a product or service, they do not have the opportunity to register as a VAT agent. A business must produce supplies and become an established business to recover input tax.

When a business generates MNT10 million or more in annual income, they qualify for optional registration as a VAT agent. If a business earns MNT50 million or more in annual income, however, registration as a VAT agent becomes mandatory. Foreign legal entities have the additional requirement of registering a PE to qualify for registration as a VAT agent. It should also be noted that the implications of registering as a VAT agent are not limited to recovering input tax, and the business will be responsible for all the legal obligations of a VAT agent, such as tax compliance and reporting.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. In general, a taxable person must provide a VAT invoice. Invoices must be issued in Mongolian, but bilingual invoices may also be issued in Mongolian and any other language.

Credit notes. Credit notes are not allowed in Mongolia. A separate document is not issued for discounts, refunds and agreed price changes, etc. In practice, taxable persons must cancel the previous VAT invoice issued, and then reissue it with the different (agreed) amount. Also, if necessary, the submitted VAT return must also be amended.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing in Mongolia is mandatory for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Mongolia. It is mandatory for all resident taxable persons for all supplies (B2B, B2C, B2G). For nonresident taxable persons, it is allowed but not mandatory in Mongolia.

There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Mongolia. The re-quirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. Input tax can only be claimed when an electronic invoice is present.

Mongolia uses an electronic VAT system to reduce noncompliance. The invoice does not need to be verified by the tax authority before issuing. Where electronic invoicing is mandatory, it is also mandatory for all businesses, includ-ing individuals and legal entities (providing services or goods) to enter sales information into the system, regardless of their VAT status or type of services, goods and work.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Mongolia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Mongolia.

Proof of exports. Goods exported from Mongolia as well as some types of work and services related to exports are subject to a 0% VAT rate in Mongolia. To confirm the applicability of the 0% rate, the supplier must attach a customs declaration as supporting documentation. For works and services, a written agreement, invoice and bank statement should be attached as supporting documentation.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices cannot be issued in a foreign currency in Mongolia. All invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Mongolian tughrik (MNT).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For supplies from VAT-registered businesses to private consumers, a "payment receipt" must be issued by the seller for B2C transactions each time when goods or services are supplied. The payment receipt is generated from the designated equipment with unique payment number, date of payment, name and address of the seller and description, code and quantity, and price and amount of the payment.

Records. In Mongolia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all the primary supporting documents related to tax returns such as invoices, remittance and sales receipts, and other relevant accounting details.

In Mongolia, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. There is no specific requirement regarding whether taxable persons can keep records locally in Mongolia or outside Mongolia. However, records can be held in or outside of Mongolia, if upon a tax inspection, hard and original copies of the accounting records can be provided to the tax authorities.

Record retention period. All tax records must be held for a maximum of four years (tax statute of limitation period) in Mongolian territory. In addition, any financial supporting documents should be held no less than 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Mongolia. Archiving must be made in paper form only. While in practice, taxable persons aren't required to keep their VAT receipts in paper form because they are already in the VAT system, it is recommended to keep paper copies, because electronic archiving is not legally accepted in Mongolia.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Taxable persons must file VAT returns on a monthly basis. Taxable persons must submit a monthly VAT return by the 10th of the following month. The submission process is online. Taxable persons fill in lines with the amount of sales and expenses. The purchases and sales must match the electronic invoice system for the taxable person to be able to submit.

Periodic payments. The VAT amount per VAT return must be paid within the 10th day of the following month. VAT payable under the reverse-charge mechanism is accounted in the same VAT return. Online portals automatically issue unique numbers assigned to each tax invoice. With the tax invoice number, taxable persons make payments via online banking or at any local bank branch. Tax invoices with special numbers and barcodes can be downloaded from the tax department portal.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Mongolia for all taxable persons. There is no requirement to transmit a hard copy of a VAT return to the MTA, but the taxable person shall keep a copy for further reference. Taxable persons need an online account on the e-filing system to submit their VAT return. They must log on to the tax department portal (https://etax.mta.mn) for filing VAT returns online. Compute tax payable by uploading VAT purchases and sales from the E-barimt system (online receipt registration system of VAT). The taxable person will need to authorize it before they submit a VAT return and can digitally sign the file. The filing process is completed and verified (by the MTA), and the status of the tax return is "Verified."

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Mongolia.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Mongolia.

Annual return. Annual returns are not required in Mongolia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Mongolia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The taxable person (or agent) can make a self-amendment to information in the VAT return submitted to the e-filing system, by sending an online request to the MTA to correct any errors or omissions from prior filings. Once permission is granted by the MTA, the taxable person resubmits the return online.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Mongolia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. If an individual or legal entity that has exceeded the threshold for registration has not registered with the respective tax authority, then a competent state inspector shall assess and impose the VAT due and additionally impose an administrative penalty equal to the assessed VAT due.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Failure to remit tax to the MTA is subject to a daily late payment penalty of 0.1% of the due tax. Late payment shall start from due date of 10th of the following month.

Penalties for errors. Failure to charge tax on taxable goods and service is subject to a penalty equal to 30% of the due tax. Errors include the failure to register as a VAT agent when the threshold is met and failing to impose VAT on supplies, when registered for VAT.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details shall be subject to a penalty of MNT100,000 for an individual and MNT1 million for an entity. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty for tax evasion is due tax and an additional 30% of due tax as penalty. Types of tax evasion are concealed taxable income, understated taxable income or overstated expenses in the accounting records and destroyed/omitted accounting records on purpose. The penalty for a tax advisor is USD150 (approx. MNT418,000) for an individual, USD1,500 (approx. MNT4,178,000) for an entity, if guilty for assisting any fraudulent activity.

Personal liability for company officers. Company directors can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Mongolia. The penalty for a company officer is MNT100,000-500,000 for an individual.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Mongolia is four years. This covers tax reimposition, imposing of penalties and fines, tax credit and exemptions. Any voluntary correction or adjustment to VAT returns can be made for the periods including the current and preceding tax year only but it is not allowed for amendments beyond such periods.

Montenegro, Republic of

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Podgorica GMT +2

EY
Stanka Dragojevica bb, street,
Building Universal Capital Bank, II floor
Podgorica 81000
Montenegro

Direct all queries regarding Montenegro to the persons listed below in the Belgrade, Serbia office.

Indirect tax contacts

Ivan Rakić	+381 (011) 2095-794 ivan.rakic@rs.ey.com
Stefan Strovjanovski	+381 (011) 2095-775 stefan.strovjanovski@rs.ey.com
Gordana Ačanski	+381 (011) 2095-773 gordana.acanski@rs.ey.com
Miroslav Markovic	+381 (011) 209-5735 miroslav.markovic@rs.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Porez na dodatu vrijednost (PDV)
Date introduced	1 January 2002
Trading bloc membership	Central European Free Trade Agreement (CEFTA)
Administered by	Revenue and Customs Administration (https://upravaprihoda.gov.me/en/administration)
VAT rates
Standard	21%
Reduced	7%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	11/11-11111-1
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	EUR30,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods and services deemed to take place in the Republic of Montenegro (referred to as "Montenegro" in this chapter) performed by taxable persons in Montenegro against consideration while performing their regular business activity

- Importation of goods into Montenegro, regardless of the status of the importer
- Services purchased by taxable person in Montenegro from a service provider whose place of business is outside Montenegro, with Montenegro regarded as the place of supply (subject to the reverse-charge mechanism)

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Montenegro, all services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Montenegro, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the purchaser is a taxable person (i.e., registered for VAT, or becomes one at the time of the transfer. In addition, the acquirer must also continue to perform the same business activities as the original business that is being transferred.

Transactions between related parties. In Montenegro, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person (or "taxpayer" as referred to in the VAT law) is defined as any person who permanently and independently performs business activities.

Any person (entity or individual) who supplies goods and/or services, in the course of its independent business activity is liable for VAT.

The obligation to register for VAT purposes and to calculate VAT is triggered when total turnover, except for the supply of exempt services, in the previous 12 months exceeds EUR30,000. A taxable person whose turnover exceeds EUR30,000 in the previous 12 months is obliged to submit a registration form for VAT to the tax authorities within 20 days from the end of the month in which the prescribed threshold was exceeded.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Montenegro does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. An option is available for small taxable persons (annual turnover below EUR30,000) to register for VAT by submitting a registration VAT form to the tax authorities, thereby acquiring the rights and obligations to compute and deduct VAT. The minimum obligation to be VAT registered from voluntarily registering, to account and pay VAT is for three years. For further information see the Small taxable persons subsection below, under Special schemes and Section I. Returns and payment.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Montenegro.

Fixed establishment. In Montenegro there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, a fixed establishment is recognized to the extent of also being legally registered in a form of a branch or a representative office.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a registered establishment in Montenegro. A foreign entity that supplies goods or services in Montenegro may appoint a tax representative and register as a taxable person (only one tax representative can be appointed, either an individual or a legal entity).

A non-established business that does not make any supplies of goods or services in Montenegro may claim a VAT refund, under prescribed conditions.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are allowed in Montenegro, but not mandatory. Tax representatives appointed in Montenegro by a non-established business that does not have a legal presence in Montenegro is considered to be a tax debtor for VAT purposes. A non-established business may appoint a legal entity or individual who has a registered office in Montenegro as a tax representative and is a registered VAT taxpayer in accordance with provision of Montenegrin VAT law. The tax representative is jointly and severally liable for all liabilities of a foreign entity. A VAT representative must be resident in Montenegro and have been registered for at least 12 months before applying to be a tax representative. Where a non-established business does not appoint a tax representative in Montenegro, the recipient of goods/services will be considered as a tax debtor for VAT purposes.

Reverse charge. According to Montenegrin tax legislation, the reverse-charge mechanism is applied for goods and services supplied by a non-established business to a business that is established and registered for VAT in Montenegro, i.e., a business-to-business (B2B) supply, for which the place of supply is Montenegro, if the foreign supplier does not appoint a tax representative in Montenegro.

Domestic reverse charge. Domestic reverse-charge rules apply on the acquisition of natural gas, electricity and energy for heating or cooling, where the buyer is registered for VAT (i.e., B2B supplies) and has acquired these supplies for further sale or internal use.

Digital economy. In general, the place of supply of electronically provided services by an overseas business to both business and private individuals in Montenegro is deemed to be the place where the recipient of services has its seat or a permanent branch office, i.e., Montenegro.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Montenegro.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Montenegro. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Montenegro.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Montenegro

Vouchers. No special rules exist for vouchers in Montenegro.

Registration procedures. A registration form (PR PDV-1) is filed by the taxable person. After conducting the appropriate procedure, the tax authorities will issue a decision on the VAT registration. A taxable person whose taxable turnover exceeds EUR30,000 in the previous 12 months is obliged to submit a registration form for VAT to the tax authorities within 20 days after the end of a month in which the prescribed turnover was exceeded.

Additionally, if the above-mentioned taxable person does not submit the application for registration within the prescribed period, the tax authorities shall perform the registration ex officio.

Deregistration. A VAT taxable person whose taxable turnover is below EUR30,000 in the previous 12 months may submit a request for VAT deregistration. This request is submitted to the tax authorities. If a taxable person ceases to engage in the relevant business activity, the tax authority may initiate the process of terminating the VAT registration

Changes to VAT registration details. Taxable persons are obliged to notify the tax authorities on any changes that occur during the course of business, and which are related to the data entered in the register, within 15 days from the day when the change of data occurred (it applies to basic information such as company name, registered address, change in bank account, etc.).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are subject to VAT at the following rates:

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 21%
- Reduced rate: 7%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods
- International transportation services and related supplies
- Supplies of goods and services relating to aircraft and ships used in international traffic
- Services of enabling access and use of the system performed by an intermediary for the account of the operator of the system for the transmission of natural gas, electricity and energy for heating or cooling

Examples of goods and services taxable at 7%

- Supply of medicines and medical care devices (e.g., prosthesis)
- Supply of baby diapers and feminine hygiene products
- Supply of a wide range of food products
- Solar panels (with effect from 1 January 2023)

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Properties (except for first-time transfer of ownership)
- Land
- Supply of goods for which acquirer did not have the right to deduct input tax
- Rental of flats if used for housing (for a period which exceeds 60 days)
- Financial services
- Insurance services
- Postal services
- Education services
- Religious services
- Printing and sale of publications
- Public broadcasting services (except those with commercial character)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Montenegro.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." In general, the time of supply for goods and services is the date of issuance of the invoice.

If the invoice is not issued, the time of supply rule changes to the eighth day that follows the date of supply of goods or services. Further, if an invoice is issued, the obligation to calculate VAT arises regardless of whether the supply of goods or services was performed.

Deposits and prepayments. In case of advance payments, the time of supply is at the time of receipt of the advance payment, regardless of whether the supply of goods or services has been made. However, deposits do not trigger a VAT liability if they serve only as a guarantee.

Continuous supplies of services. For a continuous supply of services, (i.e., successive supplies which are performed through multiple tax periods) the time of supply is at the end of each tax period (i.e., end of the month), regardless of whether these services were performed or whether the invoice was issued.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Montenegro for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For reverse-charge services, the time of supply is the time of supply of the goods or services. It is considered that the goods or services are provided when the recipient of goods or services receives an invoice. If the recipient of goods or services does not receive an invoice, VAT should be calculated on the eighth day that follows the day of supply of goods and services.

Leased assets. The Montenegrin VAT law provides separate guidelines that sets out the conditions that must be met for a lease to be regarded as a sale of goods. If a lease is regarded as a sale of goods, the time of supply is when the goods are supplied (i.e., handed over). If a lease is regarded as a service, the time of supply is when the leasing provider issues an invoice for each individual lease installment in which the amount of the lease installment and the amount of VAT (calculated on the lease installment) is disclosed. In case the invoice was not issued, the rules for continuous supply of services, as described above, would apply.

Imported goods. For imported goods, the time of supply is the same time when the customs duties are due. Customs duties are due at the time of acceptance of the customs declaration. For goods that are not subject to customs and other import duties, VAT is calculated upon import.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may deduct input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to the taxable person for business purposes, provided formal requirements are met. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supply made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Montenegro is five years. A taxable person may exercise the right to recover input tax within five years from the day when the statute of limitations began to run, i.e., from the first day of the year following the year in which taxable person acquired the right for reclaiming input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Effectively, any expenditure that is not business related is nondeductible from an input tax perspective.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Vessels intended for sports and recreation, passenger cars and motorcycles, fuels and lubricants and spare parts and services closely related to them, except for vessels or vehicles intended for resale, rental (rent-a-car), transport of persons and goods (taxi) and training of drivers to operate the said means of transportation
- Expenditures for the business entertainment (e.g., catering, sporting events, recreation and other costs incurred in favor of business partners)

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Accommodation
- Employee expenses
- Car hire (e.g., by a rent-a-car or taxi agency)
- Business maintenance costs

Partial exemption. If acquired goods or services are used partly for purposes of taxable supplies and partly for exempt supplies, the taxable person may not deduct input tax totally. This situation is known as "partial exemption." If the taxable person cannot divide the input tax into the part that can be deducted and the part that cannot be deducted, the calculation of the amount of input tax that may be recovered is made on a pro rata basis by using the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Annual taxable turnover (without VAT)}}{\text{Total annual turnover including exempt supplies and subsidies (without VAT)}}$$

Subsidies are defined as any financial support received by the taxable person. Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Montenegro. Special methods are not allowed in Montenegro.

Capital goods. Capital goods are defined in Montenegrin VAT law as fixed assets and real estate used in a business over several years. Input tax is generally deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes in the period of five years from the first usage of the fixed assets and 10 years for real estate.

Refunds. If the input tax is higher than the output tax, a taxable person has the right to obtain a refund or to use this amount as a tax credit. To claim the input tax refund, the taxable person must tick the box in its VAT return or by submitting a subsequent request to the tax authorities for the input tax refund.

The refund should be performed, at the latest, 60 days after the deadline for submission of the tax return for the current period (or 30 days after the deadline for the taxable persons who mostly perform supply of goods abroad).

The tax administration is liable to pay interest on delayed tax reimbursements at the same rate of penalty interest that applies to taxable persons for late payments of VAT (this is a daily interest rate of 0.03%).

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person may deduct a proportion of the input tax incurred on goods purchased prior to VAT registration. The taxable person must be carrying out taxable activities and is in possession of the goods at the time of VAT registration. Input tax cannot be deducted on services purchased prior to VAT registration.

The proportional deduction of input tax is determined by the tax authorities, based on taxable person's accounting information and information on comparative stocks of goods for performing the same activity by other taxable persons.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., a bad debt) can be recovered in Montenegro. The taxable person may adjust its VAT base and the amount of VAT where the price has not been paid by the customer. This is only allowed if they have received a final binding court decision on the completed bankruptcy proceedings, compulsory settlement with debtors or closing of enforcement proceedings.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Montenegro.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Montenegro is recoverable. Non-established businesses that do not make supplies in Montenegro may recover input tax incurred via a refund claim (subject to the normal input tax recovery rules). However, this is not allowed for input tax incurred on services related to imports and for those services for which the reverse-charge mechanism applies (see the subsection Reverse charge above).

Montenegro legislation does not provide details on any reciprocity rules for the refund scheme for non-established businesses.

The refund request must be submitted for the minimum period of six months, while the maximum period covered by the request is a calendar year. The refund request may be submitted only for the amounts exceeding EUR300.

Non-established businesses that do make supplies in Montenegro can only recover input tax incurred by registering for VAT and recovering the VAT via the normal process.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. The invoice must comply with the requirements set out in the VAT law.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply of goods or services – provided the customer is a taxable person and has confirmed that the input tax has been corrected; a debit note may be used to increase the amount of VAT. Tax credit and debit notes must be cross-referenced to the original invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Montenegro, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Montenegro. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Montenegro. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. A taxable person may issue an invoice in an electronic form with the prior consent of the recipient of the invoice, in line with the law on electronic documents.

Simplified VAT invoices. For supplies to nontaxable persons, a VAT registered supplier is not required to issue a full VAT invoice. A simplified invoice can be issued, which is not required to contain information on the customer (name and address), and it also is not required to include the VAT base amount. However, the simplified invoice must include the value of goods or services with VAT included, as well as the amount of computed VAT.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Montenegro. In general, a taxable person who makes taxable supplies of goods and services is obligated to issue an invoice. However, under certain conditions, the invoice may also be issued by the recipient of the goods and services. Specifically, self-billing is allowed if both parties agree. As such, a document in which the supply of goods or services is calculated by their recipient is also deemed as VAT invoice. The supplier of goods or services is jointly liable for issuing the invoice in this case.

Proof of exports. VAT is not charged on exports. To qualify for zero-rated, exports must be accompanied by evidence that the goods have left Montenegro. Such goods must leave Montenegro within the same tax period as the supply being made, otherwise VAT must be accounted on the supply (and paid to the tax authorities) and later reversed when the goods actually leave the country. Suitable documentary evidence includes the customs declaration.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices may be issued in a foreign currency. However, the amounts must be converted into the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR). The exchange rate used for imports is determined by the customs authority, while the exchange rate for domestic VAT supplies is the middle exchange rate published by the Central Bank of Montenegro (CBCG) at the time when VAT liability arises. The exchange rate can be found on the CBCG's website (https://cbcg.me/en).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For supplies to nontaxable persons, a VAT registered supplier is not required to issue a full VAT invoice. A simplified invoice can be issued, which is not required to contain information on the customer (name and address), and it also is not required to include the VAT base amount. However, the simplified invoice must include the value of goods or services with VAT included, as well as the amount of computed VAT.

Records. Taxable persons are required to keep accounts and records necessary for accurate, correct and timely calculations and the payment of VAT due. In Montenegro, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include issued and received invoices, documents on import and export, documents on payments, documents on invoice amendments, financial documentation, documents evidencing the taxable person's obtained exemption from VAT, all other accounting documents related to the supply of goods and services, as well as all other documents of importance for the calculation and payment of VAT and deduction of input tax.

In Montenegro, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, while there is no provision in the Montenegrin VAT law on where the records should be held; in practice, records can be held in or outside of Montenegro. If the records are held outside of Montenegro, they must be easily accessible upon request by the tax authorities.

Record retention period. Registered taxable persons must keep books and records (examples listed above) for at least five years from the end of the year to which they relate. Additionally, the documentation related to real estate taxation should be kept for at least 20 years after the end of the year to which that document refers.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Montenegro. Books and records (examples listed above) can be kept in an electronic format, as long as they are retrievable when requested by the tax authorities. They must be held for at least five years from the end of the year to which they relate. Furthermore, legal entities, individuals and competent authorities are obliged to keep electronic documents originally in the information system or on the media enabling the permanence of the electronic record for the determined storage period.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax period is a calendar month. Returns must be filed within 15 days after the end of the tax period.

Periodic payments. The deadline for VAT payment is the same as the deadline for the filing of VAT returns, i.e., within 15 days after the end of the tax period. Upon submitting the VAT return electronically, the taxable person must pay the VAT liability by transferring funds to the prescribed public revenue account. Payments are typically made via bank transfers.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Montenegro for all taxable persons. The VAT return is submitted on the prescribed PR-PDV-2 form online. Taxable persons must use the "Taxis portal," which is the online tax authorities portal where taxable persons can carry out certain electronic services. For example, it enables taxable persons to be able to submit online tax forms with digital signatures, it can provide follow up on the status of submitted applications and faster and simpler fulfillment of obligations toward tax administration.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Montenegro.

Special schemes. Small taxable persons. Small taxable persons are not required to register and account for VAT on their supplies of goods and services. They do not have the right to indicate the VAT on their invoices and are not entitled to deduct input tax. Also, they are not required to keep records prescribed by the VAT law. This applies to those taxable persons that have an annual revenue threshold of less than EUR30,000. The minimum obligation to be VAT registered from voluntarily registering, to account and pay VAT is for three years.

Farmers. A farmer who is not registered for VAT is entitled to a lump sum compensation of input tax if it carries out supplies of agricultural and forest goods or services to taxable persons. Such taxable persons to whom farmers supplied the above-mentioned goods and services are required to include in the price of the supply the lump sum compensation of 5% of the purchase value of goods and services.

Tour operator's scheme. Tourist services provided by a tourist agency are considered as a single service. The place of supply of a single tourist service is the place where the service provider (i.e., the tour operator) has its principal place of business. The tax base of a single tourist service provided by a tourist agency is the amount representing the difference between total price paid by the tourist, without VAT, and actual expenses borne by the tourist agency, which are used directly by the tourist. A tourist agency has no right to deduct input tax charged by other taxable persons for supplies of goods or services used directly by the tourist.

Works of art, secondhand goods, antique goods. Taxable persons that supply used goods, fine art works, collector's goods, and antiques, determine the tax base as a difference between the selling price and purchase price of these goods, reduced by the amount of VAT calculated on that difference.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Montenegro.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Montenegro.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person who discovers that a submitted tax return contains an error or omission, must without delay, and no later than the statute of limitation (i.e., five years), submit an amended return in which that error or omission is corrected. The taxable person may amend the filed tax return no more than twice by submitting the amended tax return. Previous returns must be corrected online, through the Taxis portal. Exceptionally, a taxable person cannot file an amended VAT return after the initiation of an audit procedure, i.e., after the determination of tax liability by the tax authorities.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Montenegro.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. If a taxable person who is legal entity fails to register for VAT within 20 days from the end of the month in which the EUR30,000 threshold was exceeded, a fine ranging from EUR3,000 to EUR10,000 will apply. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity be fined in the amount of EUR800 to EUR2,000 in this case.

Penalties for late payment and filings. If a taxable person does not pay VAT within 15 days from the end of the tax period, the taxable person shall be fined between EUR6,000 to EUR20,000. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity shall be fined between EUR1,500 to EUR2,000 in this case.

For the late filing of a VAT return, a fine ranging from EUR3,000 to EUR10,000 will apply. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity shall be fined between EUR800 to EUR2,000.

Penalties for errors. If a taxable person does not calculate VAT in accordance with the VAT law, does not issue an invoice or does not keep the copies of invoices for supplies made, incorrectly calculates input tax, or does not calculate or incorrectly calculates output tax, they shall be fined between EUR6,000 to EUR20,000. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity shall be fined between EUR1,500 to EUR2,000 in such cases.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details within the specified time period may result in a penalty ranging from EUR3,000 to EUR10,000. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Montenegrin criminal law stipulates that whoever with intent to fully or partially avoid payment of taxes, contributions or other statutory liabilities, gives false information on legal income, objects and other facts relevant to determination of such obligations, or who with the same intent, in case of mandatory reporting (filing of returns) fails to report lawful income, objects and other facts relevant to the determination of such obligations, or who with same intent conceals information relevant for the determination of aforementioned obligations, and the amount of the obligation whose payment is avoided, exceeds EUR1,000, shall be punished by imprisonment of one to 10 years and fined.

Personal liability for company officers. The general rule for both criminal and offense legislation is that the responsible person in the legal entity is the person who on the basis of the law, regulation or authorization conducts certain managerial, supervisory or other functions in the legal entity, as well as the person who factually conducts certain work. This is presumably a director, although it can be proved that some other person/company official has been liable for certain activities of the company.

The penalties applicable for company officers are those listed above under each relevant subsection.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Montenegro is five years. This is the period in which the tax authorities may go back and assess any additional tax liability. The prescribed five years starts counting from the 1st of January of the year following the year in which tax liability was due. In addition to this, note that absolute statute of limitation is set at 10 years.

The relative statute of limitations of five years is interrupted by any action of the tax authorities and starts to run again. As such a law was introduced with the concept of absolute statute of limitations, which is 10 years. Upon expiration of the absolute statute of limitations period, the tax authorities cannot take any actions related to collection of taxes.

Morocco

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Casablanca GMT 0

EY
37, Boulevard Abdellatif Ben Kaddour
20 050
Casablanca
Morocco

Indirect tax contacts

Abdelmejid Faiz	+212 (522) 957 900 abdelmejid.faiz@ma.ey.com
Maria Chafii	+212 (522) 957 900 maria.chafii@ma.ey.com
Hosana Elinam Afla	+212 (522) 957 900 hosana.elinam.afla@ma.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Taxe sur la Valeur Ajoutée (TVA)
Date introduced	1 January 1986
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (www.finances.gov.ma)
VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	10% (transitional reduced rates 8%, 11%, 12%, 13%, 16%)
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	12345678
VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to all transactions involving the supply of goods and services performed in Morocco and to the importation of goods and services, including services provided remotely by nonresidents using dematerialized communications for the benefit of Moroccan residents, as well as the one-off supply or importation of goods.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Morocco, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Morocco, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the TOGC (e.g., goodwill) is considered as a civil act (non-commercial act), and hence, is not subject to VAT. However, the transfer of movable assets (furniture, equipment, etc.) is subject to VAT in normal conditions at the standard rate of 20%. The transfer should give rise to the application/regularization of the input tax initially deducted on immovable assets hold for a period less than 10 years for the remaining period.

Transactions between related parties. In Morocco, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value. The tax authorities outline this as when there is a taxable person (as the supplier) and a dependent nontaxable person (as the customer). In this case, the VAT due by the supplier must be applied to the selling price charged by the customer or, to the market value of the goods.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a person or legal entity that carries out a taxable transaction. A taxable transaction is a transaction involving the sale or importation of goods or services that is subject to VAT even if such transaction occurs only once. A person liable to VAT in Morocco must register with the local tax service.

Morocco does not provide a VAT registration threshold. A business registers for VAT when it registers for corporate or income tax purposes.

Exemption from registration. Morocco does not have a VAT registration threshold, and as such all businesses must register for VAT.

However, agricultural products (non-transformed), noncommercial activities, nonindustrial activities and civil acts are outside the scope of VAT. Therefore, a VAT registration is not required for individuals/entities exercising these activities.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. There is no threshold for VAT registration in Morocco, and as such VAT registration is mandatory. However, for certain businesses, VAT registration is not mandatory and voluntary VAT registration is allowed for the following:

- Traders and service providers who directly export products, objects, goods or services for their export turnover
- Manufacturers, service providers and liberal professions who do not exceed an annual turnover of MAD500,000
- Traders who sell without transformation, product and foodstuffs other than those that are exempted without the right to deduct the input tax
- Persons who affect premises for professional use intended for rental (other than furnished premises for professional use located in commercial complexes)

The taxable person should send the application for optional VAT registration to the local tax administration office that is responsible for the taxable person and takes effect after the expiry of 30 days following the date of the notification.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Morocco.

Fixed establishment. In Morocco, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the guidelines issued by the tax authorities refer to the general definition provided by the model tax treaties and define a permanent establishment (PE) as a fixed place of business through which the business of an enterprise is wholly or partly carried out. The said guidelines provide a list of examples of what can be considered a PE, among which are the following:

- Branch
- Office
- Factory
- Workshop
- Construction or assembly project, exceeding a certain duration (generally six months)

Non-established businesses. Non-established taxable persons that perform taxable activities in Morocco are liable to Moroccan VAT (subject to the normal VAT registration rules, as outlined above).

However, where a non-established business supplies services in Morocco to a private individual i.e., a business-to-consumer (B2C) supply, it must appoint a tax representative in Morocco to comply with all VAT filing and payment formalities as put forward by the Moroccan tax legislation.

For supplies made to a taxable person in Morocco, i.e., a business-to-business (B2B) supply, and the non-established business that has not chosen to appoint a tax representative in Morocco, the customer becomes legally bounded, via the reverse-charge mechanism, to account and declare the VAT due, on behalf of the non-established supplier. Therefore, due to this mechanism, the VAT filing and payment obligations pertaining to the tax due by the non-established supplier becomes legally the liability of the Moroccan customer. Therefore, if the Moroccan customer does not comply with the reverse-charge obligation of accounting and declaring the VAT due, the latter becomes liable for all pertaining penalties and surcharges.

Tax representatives. Under the VAT law, non-established taxable persons must appoint a tax representative to handle their VAT obligations (VAT returns, filings and payments). If a non-established taxable person does not appoint a tax representative, the Moroccan customer becomes liable for the declaration and the payment of VAT due on behalf of the non-established supplier on its own VAT return (auto-liquidation).

Reverse charge. Non-established entities performing VAT taxable activities are required to appoint a tax representative in Morocco to comply with VAT obligations and pay due VAT to the tax authorities on their behalf. In case the foreign entity does not appoint a tax representative, the mechanism of the VAT reverse charge applies. This mechanism provides that, in case a tax representative is not appointed, the Moroccan client is required to report and pay VAT on behalf of its foreign provider using its own VAT ID number. In other terms, VAT registration of the non-established taxable person is not mandatory if the Moroccan client declares and pays VAT to the tax authorities on its behalf.

Domestic reverse charge. The 2024 Finance Law introduced an optional VAT reverse-charge mechanism allowing persons liable for VAT to declare and pay the VAT on their purchases (except purchases of land and agricultural products) from suppliers who are not liable to VAT or who are exempt from VAT, without the possibility of deduction. The taxable customer is therefore required to report the amount excluding tax of the transaction on its own turnover return for the month or quarter during which payment for the transaction was made, calculate the tax due and simultaneously deduct the amount of tax due as reported.

Withholding tax on transactions carried out by service providers subject to VAT. The 2024 Finance Law introduced a provision concerning withholding tax on transactions carried out by suppliers of capital goods and works, as well as by service providers subject to VAT. Details are as follows:

- For suppliers of capital goods and works who do not present their VAT-registered customers with a tax clearance certificate issued less than six months previously by the tax authorities, the VAT due in respect of taxable transactions is withheld by the customers. This withholding obligation does not apply to the state, local authorities, public establishments and other legal entities governed by public law.
- For VAT-registered service providers who have presented their customers with a tax clearance certificate issued less than six months previously, a withholding tax of 75% of the VAT amount is levied by:
  - The state, local authorities, and public establishments and companies and their subsidiaries, as well as other public bodies that pay the remuneration for the said services to taxable persons (individuals or legal entities).
  - Legal entities governed by private law that are taxable persons and individuals whose income is determined according to the real or standard taxable income (RNR) or simplified taxable income (RNS) systems (as per the two regimes of corporate income tax company taxable income calculations in Morocco), who pay the remuneration for the said services to taxable individuals.
  - In the absence of the certificate, withholding tax is applied at 100% of the VAT amount.

Among the operations covered by this obligation:

- Installation, fitting, repair or refurbishment operations
- Furnished or equipped premises leases and premises fitted out for business use, as well as premises in shopping malls, including intangible elements of the business, and premises not fitted out for business use acquired or built with the right to deduct or exempt from VAT
- Transport, warehousing, brokerage, leasing of goods or services, transfers and concessions to exploit patents, rights or trademarks and, in general, any provision of services
- Transactions carried out by natural persons or legal entities during their profession in the capacity of lawyer, interpreter, notary, adel, bailiff, architect, quantity surveyor, geometrician, topographer, surveyor, engineer, consultant, expert in any field, chartered accountant and veterinary surgeon

Digital economy. The Moroccan tax code states that any service used or rendered within the Moroccan territory is subject to Moroccan VAT. For digital services, the VAT rate applicable is 20%. As the services rendered by the provider will be used in Morocco, the operation will be subject to VAT in Morocco.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are required to appoint a tax representative to handle their VAT obligations (VAT returns filings and payments). If no tax representative is appointed, the customer (i.e., the Moroccan business) is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies are required to appoint a tax representative in Morocco to comply with VAT obligations and pay due VAT to the tax authorities on their behalf. If no tax representative is appointed, a nonresident provider is required register and account for VAT due on its supplies in Morocco.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Morocco.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Morocco.

Registration procedures. When taxable persons apply for a registration, they must provide the following documents:

- "Declaration d'existence" a printed form delivered by the Moroccan tax administration (MTA) that includes, in addition to the corporate name of the non-established taxable person, the following information:
  Information regarding the non-established taxable person:
  - Name and place of the taxable person's registered office
  - Phone number of the registered office and, where applicable, that of the taxable person's main office in Morocco
  - The professions and activities carried on in each establishment and branch mentioned in the declaration
  - The location of all the taxable person's establishments and branches located in Morocco
  - Names, professions or activities and addresses of the natural or legal person resident in Morocco, accredited by the tax authorities
  - The indication, where applicable, of the option for flat-rate taxation in respect of corporate income tax

Information regarding the foreign provider's legal representatives (individuals):

- Last and first name of the legal representative(s)
- Function of the representative(s)
- Address
- City
- Copy of the contract signed by the non-established taxable person with the Moroccan client
- Representation letter signed by the non-established taxable person that allows the representative to collect, declare and pay VAT on its behalf
- Letter from the tax representative stating that it commits itself to fulfill VAT obligations of the non-established taxable person

The MTA usually provides the VAT ID certificate within one week.

The procedure above is applicable to non-established taxable persons. For resident taxable persons, a unique tax identification (VAT, CIT) is given upon the registration process of a taxable person in Morocco.

The VAT registration application (including the accompanying documents outlined above) must be submitted in hard copy, i.e., by paper to the tax authorities' office in Morocco (the address where the documents must be sent depends on which office the individual taxable person is allocated to).

Deregistration. Once the non-established entity ends its activities in Morocco and has appointed a tax representative, it is required to deregister from VAT. In practice, the deregistration process consists of sending a "deregistration letter" to tax authorities in which the non-established entity requests to be deregistered from VAT. The tax authorities do not provide a deregistration certificate.

Changes to VAT registration details. In the event of the head office transfer, the taxable person must notify the tax inspector of its new head office address, tax domicile or principal place of business by registered letter with acknowledgment of receipt or by delivery of the said letter against a receipt or by subscribing to a declaration established on, or according to, a model form of the MTA.

This declaration must be filed within 30 days of the date of the transfer or change. Failing this, the taxable person is notified and taxed at the last address known to the tax authorities.

In the event of a change in the VAT regime, taxable persons who wish to opt for the debit regime must make a written declaration before 1 January of the following year or, in the case of newly VAT-registered taxable persons, within 30 days of the date on which they started its activity. Aside from the changes outlined above, there is no requirement to notify the tax authorities for any other changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details in Morocco.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rates: 10% (transitional reduced rates 8%, 11%, 12%, 13%, 16%)
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

The 2024 Finance Law introduced a phased reform of VAT rates on certain products over a period of three years with the objective of converging toward two rates (10% and 20%) from 2026 onward. Transitional reduced rates will be increased or decreased in 2025 and 2026 to achieve either the 20% standard rate or the 10% reduced rate.

Per the changes of the 2024 Finance Law, the 7% and 14% rates have been phased out as follows:
- Downward adjustments – no changes for 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026
- Sale of electricity generated from renewable energy sources – 14% (2023), 12% (2024), 10% (2025), 10% (2026)
- Services provided to insurance companies by direct marketers or insurance brokers (contracts brought to the company by the direct marketer or broker) – 14% (2023), 12% (2024), 10% (2025), 10% (2026)
- Urban and road passenger and freight transport operations – 14% (2023), 13% (2024), 12% (2025), 10% (2026)
- Upward adjustments – no changes for 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026
- Refined or agglomerated sugar – 7% (2023), 8% (2024), 9% (2025), 10% (2026)
- Rental of electricity meters – 7% (2023), 11% (2024), 15% (2025), 20% (2026)
- Electric power – 14% (2023), 16% (2024), 18% (2025), 20% (2026)
- Passenger and freight transport (non-urban and non-road) – 14% (2023), 16% (2024), 18% (2025), 20% (2026)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%
(i.e., exempt with credit)

- Exported goods/services
- Goods placed under customs suspensive regime
- Fertilizers
- Machinery for exclusively agricultural use
- Investment goods recorded as fixed assets, acquired by taxable persons, for 36 months as from the start of the activity, excluding vehicles acquired by car rental agencies
- Pharmaceutical products
- Sales and deliveries of water for domestic use, sanitation services provided by sanitation organizations and water meter rental for the same use

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Petroleum products
- Banking transactions
- Hotel operations

- Restaurant operations
- Sales and delivery operations relating to art objects
- Edible fluid oils
- Solar water heaters and photovoltaic panels
- Sales and deliveries of water intended for public distribution networks, sanitation services provided by sanitation organizations and water meter rental operations not intended for domestic use
- Fishing gear and nets intended for maritime fishing professionals
- Economy cars and all products and materials used in their manufacture, as well as related assembly services

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services (i.e., exempt without credit)

- Sales, other than for consumption on the spot, of goods including fresh, frozen, whole or cut fish products
- Sales of recovered metals and water pumps that use solar energy or any other renewable energy used in the agricultural sector
- Services provided by insurance and reinsurance taxable persons
- Royalties and license fees included in the taxable amount for import VAT, up to the amount of VAT paid on importation in respect of these royalties and license fees
- School supplies and the products and materials used in their composition

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Morocco.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In Morocco, the "tax point" generally corresponds to the time when the payment is made.

The Moroccan tax code provides that the tax point is the date of cash receipt. After a taxable person receives cash for a taxable supply, the output tax becomes due, even if the cash received represents only part of the total outstanding amount for the goods or services provided.

The Moroccan tax code provides an optional regime under which VAT is due when the invoice is issued, or the transaction is booked in the accounts of the seller or service provider (whichever is earlier). However, if the payment precedes the invoicing, the time of payment constitutes the tax point.

Any taxable person that wants to use the optional system must file a declaration to the MTA before 1 January. A list of the taxable person's customers that sets forth the unsettled VAT for each of the customers must be attached to the declaration. Newly registered taxable persons must file the declaration within one month after the commencement of its activity.

Deposits and prepayments. A prepayment or deposit constitutes a tax point. As a result, the time of effective delivery of the goods or services is ignored for VAT purposes.

Continuous supplies of services. If services are received continuously but payment is made periodically, a tax point is created each time payment is made, unless the "debit system" is opted for (see the Leased assets subsection below for more detail) or a VAT invoice is issued, whichever is earlier. No specific regulation provides for the VAT treatment of continuous services.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The tax point for goods sent on approval is when the customer accepts the goods and a supply is made.

Reverse-charge services. The declaration and the payment of VAT to the tax authorities must be performed during the month following the payment of the non-established provider of services.

Leased assets. The time of supply for leased assets is the date of rent income cash collection. However, under the debit regime, the VAT is due when the rent income is booked in the accounts of the owner/lessor.

The following types of leases are not subject to VAT:
- Rental of unfurnished premises, whether or not intended for professional use
- Rental of equipped premises that does not exceed MAD500,000

The following types of leases are subject to VAT:
- Furnished premises
- Premises that are equipped for professional use
- Non-equipped premises for professional use acquired with input tax deduction or exemption
- Premises located in commercial complexes (malls)
- Machines
- Vehicles

Imported goods. VAT on imported goods is due at the time of customs clearance.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

Input tax is VAT charged on goods and services acquired by a taxable person for taxable purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax (VAT charged on supplies made). Input tax consists of VAT charged on goods and services purchased in Morocco and VAT paid on imports of goods. An input tax credit means that where input tax exceeds output tax in the same period, this generates a VAT credit in the VAT return for the taxable person.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Morocco is one year (12 months). The right to deduct arises in the month in which the customs receipts are issued, or the invoices or statements issued in the name of the beneficiary are paid in full. This right must be exercised within a period not exceeding one year, starting from the month or the quarter of the start of the said right.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes and that are considered to be nondeductible expenses for corporate tax purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). VAT charged on purchases, works or services, where the amount exceeds MAD5,000 per day and per supplier and MAD50,000 per month and per provider, is not recoverable unless a settlement is made by a check, bill of exchange, magnetic means of payment, bank transfer, electronic process or by compensation.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Goods and services not related to the business requirements
- Transport cars not used for the business needs
- Petroleum products not used as fuel
- Water pumps that run on solar energy or other renewable energy used in the agricultural sector

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchases and services related to a business use
- Transport cars of a business use

Partial exemption. Input tax deduction is granted for taxable supplies and for supplies that are exempt with a right to deduct. If a taxable person makes both taxable supplies and exempt supplies without credit, it may recover only input tax related to supplies that are taxable or exempt with a right to deduct.

The portion of deductible input tax is calculated as follows:
- In the numerator, the amount of turnover taxable and exempt with credit
- In the denominator, the numerator amount increased by the amount of turnover from transactions exempt without credit or transactions out of VAT scope

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Morocco. Special methods are not allowed in Morocco. The taxable person is required to comply with the calculation method as defined by the tax provisions in force (refer to the calculation details above).

Capital goods. Taxable persons may offset input tax incurred on purchases of fixed assets (non-capital expenses) against output tax on the same month's VAT return. No specific rules apply for the input tax recovery for capital goods. In cases when capital goods are used for both taxable and nontaxable activities, the portion of VAT that can be offset is determined as detailed in the previous section. Capital goods are defined as production tools that aim to create wealth within the business for a period of use of more than one year.

The basis of input tax calculation is the acquisition cost, which is calculated as follows:
- The purchase price plus customs duties and other non-recoverable taxes and duties, less trade discounts obtained and taxes legally recoverable
- Related ancillary purchasing expenses such as transports, transit costs, hospitality expenses, insurance – transport excluding legally recoverable taxes

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in the same period, a refund is not generally granted. In most cases, the taxable person must carry the excess forward to a future VAT period. Refunds of the excess are generally only available with respect to the following VAT:
- VAT incurred on supplies of exported goods except for recycling metals (ferrous and nonferrous)
- VAT incurred on supplies of goods and services that are exempt with a right to deduct
- VAT incurred on purchases of equipment goods (fixed assets)
- VAT incurred on purchases of other assets except office equipment and certain passenger transport vehicles
- VAT incurred on financial leasing activities

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Morocco is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Morocco, when the client is defaulting, except when the loss is justified through a complete judicial remedy.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Morocco.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Morocco is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Moroccan taxable persons must provide VAT invoices for taxable supplies, including exports, made to other taxable persons. Recipients of supplies must maintain copies of invoices.

Credit notes. Credit notes must be issued with VAT included. These are generally issued in cases of return of goods or products to the supplier; additional commercial/financial discounts; billing error to the advantage of the customer, etc. No specific conditions apply in Morocco to credit notes.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Morocco, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Morocco. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Morocco. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

However, in case of a VAT refund request, the MTA requires the original invoice in hard-copy format, including the company stamp. If taxable persons issue electronic invoices, then they must use an electronic billing system connected to the central billing station of the MTA.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified invoices are not allowed in Morocco. Full VAT invoices are required. However, see the Supplies to nontaxable persons subsection for more detail.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Morocco.

Proof of exports. Moroccan VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, export supplies must be supported by evidence confirming that the goods have left Morocco. The evidence required is the customs declaration, which must clearly identify the exporter, the customer, the goods and the export destination; and it must provide invoice information.

Foreign currency invoices. A VAT invoice for a domestic supply is generally issued in the domestic currency, which is the Moroccan dirham (MAD). VAT based on the applicable VAT rate must be shown on the invoice. It is possible to issue a VAT invoice in a foreign currency. This is, however, not allowed for supplies made to a resident business, (generally, VAT is invoiced in foreign currency if it is invoiced to a non-established business).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For supplies to nontaxable persons (i.e., private individuals), the receipt may be used as an invoice. Such receipt must include at least the following information:
- The date of the operation
- The identification of the seller or service provider
- The description of the product or service
- The quantity and selling price, with an indication, where applicable, of the VAT

Records. In Morocco, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include duplicates of sales invoices or sales receipts; supporting documents for expenses and investments; accounting documents required for the tax audit (in particular, the books on which the operations were recorded); the general ledger; the inventory book (the detailed inventories if they are not copied in full to this book); the journal book; and the customer and supplier files; as well as any other document provided by the legislation or regulations in force.

In Morocco, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. While there is no provision in the Moroccan VAT law outlining where the records should be held, in practice, records may be held in or outside of Morocco. However, wherever the records are held, in the case of a tax audit, the taxable person must be able to present such records to the tax inspectors in a timely manner.

Record retention period. Accounting records must be kept for no less than 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Morocco. Electronic archiving must allow the tax authorities to extract the documents as requested.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The filing of VAT returns may be on a monthly or quarterly cycle based on certain criteria.

The following taxable persons must file monthly VAT returns:
- Taxable persons that had taxable turnover during the preceding year of MAD1 million or more
- Non-established persons that carry out taxable activities in Morocco

The following taxable persons must file quarterly VAT returns:
- Taxable persons that had taxable turnover during the preceding year of less than MAD1 million
- Taxable persons operating through seasonal establishments, practicing periodic activities or carrying out occasional activities
- New taxable persons in their first calendar year of activity

The above taxable persons can opt for the monthly declaration system by filing a request with the MTA before 31 January.

Taxable persons under the tele-declaration and tele-payment system must file VAT returns within one month after the end of the relevant month or quarter.

Other taxable persons must file their VAT returns before the 20th day of the month following the relevant month or quarter.

Periodic payments. Taxable persons under the tele-declaration and tele-payment system must make VAT payments within one month after the end of the relevant month or quarter.

Other taxable persons must pay VAT due before the 20th day of the month following the relevant month or quarter.

Electronic payment of VAT due is mandatory for all taxable persons, regardless of the turnover performed. Electronic payment is made online through the portal of the Moroccan tax department (simpl-tva.tax.gov.ma).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Morocco for all taxable persons. This is regardless of the turnover performed and is carried out through the MTA's platform ("SIMPL").

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Morocco.

Special schemes. Debit regime. An optional method allows a taxable person to declare output tax upon invoice issuance or accounting record. Input tax under such system remains recoverable at cash payment.

Margin regime. Travel agencies that carry out purchase and sale operations of travel services used in Morocco are subject to the margin regime. The margin is determined by the difference between, on the one hand, sums collected by the travel agency and invoiced to the beneficiary of the service, and on the other hand, the total expenses, including VAT, invoiced to the agency by its suppliers.

In addition, the sale and delivery of secondhand goods by taxable persons are subject to VAT on the margin in case the goods were initially purchased from a nontaxable person (i.e., not registered for VAT). The taxable basis is determined by the difference between the sale price and the purchase price under certain conditions.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Morocco.

Supplementary filings. Input tax on petroleum supplies. Input tax incurred on petroleum products, which is claimed by a taxable person, must be reported in a special VAT return. Such supplies must be reported:
- Gasoline used for the operating requirements of vehicles of collective road transport of persons and goods and road transport of goods carried out by taxable persons on their behalf and by their own means
- Gasoline used for the operating needs of rail transport of persons and goods
- Gasoline and kerosene used for air transport purposes

Correcting errors in previous returns. Corrective returns can be filed voluntarily online through the electronic filing system. The corresponding penalties are calculated automatically. Such penalties are charged at 10% (5% if payment is made in a delay of less than 30 days) for late payment of tax due, plus 5% late payment interest for the first month of delay, and 0.5% late payment interest per additional month of delay. No supporting documents or letter explaining the corrections is required to be submitted to the tax authorities.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Morocco.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Late filing of the statement of corporate existence (Declaration d'existence) is subject to a penalty of MAD1,000. Besides, VAT due for the period preceding registration results in late filing and payment penalties.

Penalties for late payment and filings. In case of late filing of the VAT return beyond the deadline:
- 30 days within the deadline: 5% penalty
- Beyond 30 days following the deadline: 15% penalty

In the case of tax reassessment procedure due to lack of filing, the above penalty is increased up to 20%. In the case of a tax audit, the applicable penalty is increased up to 30%.

In the case of a tax audit, the applicable penalty is increased up to 30%.

If no VAT is due, the penalty equals MAD500. In case of late payment of VAT due:
- A penalty of 20% on the VAT amount due
- Additional 5% penalty in case of late payment within the first month and 0.50% per additional month (or fraction of month)

If the VAT declaration provides that no tax is due, but shows a VAT credit, a fine of 15% will be applied on the VAT credit of the period concerned with a minimum of MAD500.

Penalties for noncompliance with input tax recovery deadline. In case of recovery of input tax after the one-year period, a fine of 15% will be applied on the corresponding input tax, with a minimum of MAD500.

An increase of 1% is applicable on the VAT due or that would have been due in the absence of exemption, in case of noncompliance with the obligations of electronic filing and payment.

Penalties for errors. When the MTA identifies material errors in submitted returns, it will notify the taxable person by way of a letter, inviting the taxable person to submit a corrective return within 30 days as of the date of receipt of the said letter.

For late submission of a VAT return, a 5% surcharge applies. In case the rectification gives rise to payment of a supplementary tax, the additional penalties/surcharges apply:
- A 10% penalty
- A 5% surcharge for the first month of delay
- A 0.50% for each additional month or fraction of a month of delay

In the event of adjustment of the turnover for a fiscal year in the frame of a tax audit, a 30% surcharge is applicable, in addition to the abovementioned penalties and surcharges for late payment. The 30% surcharge is increased to 100% when the taxable person's bad faith is revealed.

As such, a fine equal to MAD50,000 per financial year is applicable to taxable persons who do not keep their accounting documents or copies thereof in electronic form for 10 years or failing that, in paper form.

Failure to comply with the VAT record-keeping requirements (as outlined above in the subsection Records) may result in a fine of MAD50,000 per year.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details (specifically a change in the details of the head office) may result in a penalty of MAD500. There is no specific penalty associated with late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT regime. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A fine equal to 100% of the amount of tax evaded shall be applicable to any person who has participated in maneuvers designed to evade the payment of tax or assisted or advised a taxable person in the execution of such maneuvers, regardless of disciplinary action if they perform a public function.

No implications are foreseen for tax advisors unless their direct involvement in the fraud is demonstrated.

Personal liability for company officers. In the event of noncompliance with VAT reporting and payment obligations, any person responsible for the financial or administrative management of the business or any beneficial owner of the amount of unpaid VAT remains jointly and severally liable, both directly and indirectly, for any tax due amount, as well as any penalties and increases arising therefrom.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Morocco is four years. Note that the four-year (calendar) time limit is the statute of limitation in respect of VAT, exceeding which the tax authorities cannot claim any VAT regularization (such as in the frame of a tax audit).

However, in case of a VAT credit carried forward, the MTA is entitled to audit four additional years. In such case, reassessments from these additional years shall not exceed the total VAT credit that were used during the audited period.

Mozambique

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Maputo GMT +2

EY
Rua Belmiro Obadias Muianga
179
Maputo 366
Mozambique

Indirect tax contacts

Tehcine Aboobacar
+258 21 353 201
tehcine.aboobacar@mz.ey.com

Mauro Daud
+258 21 353 207
mauro.daud@mz.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Imposto sobre o Valor Acrescentado (IVA)
Date introduced	1 April 1999
Trading bloc membership	South African Development Community (SADC) Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Mozambican Tax Authority [Autoridade Tributária de Moçambique (AT)] (http://www.at.gov.mz/)
VAT rates
Standard	16%
Reduced	5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	XXXXXXXXX (9 digits)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Mozambique by a taxable person
- The importation of goods from outside Mozambique

For VAT purposes, the Mozambican territory includes the land, the maritime zone and the air-space delimited by borders, comprising the areas where, under international law, the Republic of Mozambique has sovereign rights in relation to the prospecting, exploration and production of natural resources, the seabed, the subsoil and the suprajacent waters.

There are certain services for which the tax base for VAT purposes is reduced. This includes the supply of electricity and water (where the price is determined by the state regulator), and for the supply of basic infrastructure public works. For such supplies, VAT is only charged on 60% (basic infrastructure public works), 62% (electricity) and 75% (water) of the invoice amount billed.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Mozambique the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions [for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies]:

- Provision of services related to immovable property located in the Mozambican territory, including those in which its object is to prepare or coordinate the execution of real estate works and the provision of experts and real estate agents
- Works realized in respect to tangible movable assets, and expert reporting works in respect to the same, fully, or partially executed in the national territory
- Transport, for the distance traveled within the national territory

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Mozambique, transfers (onerous or not) of all or part of the assets of a company, which are likely to constitute an independent activity (going concern) are not taxable for VAT purposes, when the acquirer is or will be a taxable person that only carries out transactions that confer the right for deduction of the VAT.

Transactions between related parties. Although the VAT Code does not foresee special rules for transactions between related parties, as per the Corporate Income Tax (CIT) Code and transfer pricing regulations, transactions between related parties should observe the arm's-length principle. This principle is also applicable to VAT by virtue of a general rule that gives the possibility for the tax authority to correct the value of the transaction when it deviates from the market price.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is required to account for output tax on all goods and services supplied in Mozambique unless the supply is specifically exempted by the VAT law. A taxable person is a business entity or individual liable to VAT, and includes the following:

- The state, except if those activities are not carried out in a significant manner (including telecommunications, water, gas and electricity distribution, transport, ports and airports, TV and radio, etc.)
- Importers
- Any person carrying on an economic activity on an independent and regular basis
- Any person carrying on an operation on an occasional basis
- Nonresidents carrying on operations
- Any person who unduly charges VAT on an invoice

Mozambique does not impose a VAT registration threshold. Instead, a business is required to register for all taxes, including VAT, before commencement of any activities.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Mozambique does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Mozambique does not contain any provision for voluntary registration, nor special VAT registration rules for small businesses. Tax (including VAT) is a single registration and is mandatory for all taxable persons before commencement of any activities. However, taxable persons may choose to register under the VAT exemption or simplified regimes according to their annual turnover amount. For further details, see the Special schemes subsection below under Section I. Returns and payment.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Mozambique.

Fixed establishment. There is no VAT legal definition for fixed establishment and thus the permanent establishment (PE) definition for CIT purposes applies. If the conditions for the creation of a PE are met, the taxable person is required to register for tax in Mozambique, which also includes VAT. A PE for CIT purposes is defined as a fixed premise through which a commercial, industrial or scientific activity is undertaken, including the rendering of services.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Mozambique. A non-established business that makes taxable supplies of goods or services in Mozambique is liable to Mozambican VAT and required to register and account for VAT in Mozambique. However, they must appoint a tax representative to register and account for VAT in Mozambique. The compliance of the non-established business's tax obligations is carried out via a tax representative.

Tax representatives. A non-established business must appoint a tax representative to comply with its VAT obligations in Mozambique. Where a non-established business fails to appoint a tax representative in Mozambique, the tax obligations will automatically fall on the purchaser of the goods or the recipient of the services via the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection below). Any Mozambique resident taxable person may be appointed as tax representative.

Reverse charge. Non-established businesses that make taxable supplies are required to appoint a tax representative in Mozambique to comply with its VAT obligations and pay any VAT due to the tax authorities on their behalf. In case the non-established business does not appoint a tax representative, the reverse-charge mechanism applies on the supply of taxable services. This mechanism provides that, in case a tax representative is not appointed, the Mozambique resident customer, who is also a taxable person (i.e., a B2B supply) is required to account and pay the VAT on behalf of the supplier, using its own VAT ID number. In other terms, although VAT registration is mandatory, in case the non-established taxable person fails to appoint a tax representative, the VAT obligation is shifted to the Mozambique customer, who must then self-account for the VAT due.

The reverse-charge mechanism does not apply to all supplies, but only applies to the following services:

- Transfers and assignments of copyrights, patents, licenses, trademarks and similar rights
- Advertising and telecommunications services
- Services by consultants, engineers, consultancy bureaus, lawyers, accountants and other similar services, as well as data processing and supply of information
- Placement of staff/seconded staff and services of intermediaries that act on behalf of other persons in providing the services listed above

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Mozambique.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules relating to the taxation of the digital economy. General VAT rules apply. Non-established businesses that provide electronically supplied services are required to appoint a tax representative to account for VAT in Mozambique. Failure to appoint a representative, results in the local customer requiring to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism. This applies for both B2B and B2C supplies. The customer must self-account for the VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism. See the Reverse-charge subsection above.

The following services provided by non-established businesses are examples of supplies within the digital economy, and subject to VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism:
- Supply of websites, web pages, remote maintenance of programs and equipment
- Software supply and updates
- Supply of image, text, information and databases
- Supply of movies, music, online gambling, political, cultural, artistic, sporting, scientific and recreational emissions or manifestations
- Online learning
- Other similar services

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Mozambique.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Mozambique.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons must submit application form (Modelo 01/C) and a declaration of commencement of activities for tax purposes (M/02), to obtain and activate their tax number. The application form must be manually filled out and submitted at the tax department of the area where the taxable person is established. There is no deadline for the registration of the business for tax, but the declaration of commencement of activities must be submitted 15 days prior to commencement of activities. It normally takes around two days for the VAT registration process to take place and for a VAT registration number to be issued to the taxable person.

Deregistration. Deregistration is carried out when a taxable person ceases taxable activity and submits application form (Modelo 03) in paper at the tax department where it complies with its tax obligations. The deregistration form must be submitted along with the final tax returns and final accounts with reference to the cut-off date. The submission of the cessation of activities form must be done within 30 days from the date of cessation of activities or the date on which the income ceased to be earned.

The deregistration process generally takes one to three years and usually involves a tax audit.

Changes to VAT registration details. If there is a material change in a taxable person's VAT registration details, it must notify the tax authority as soon as the change takes place. Material changes may include the following:
- Name of business
- Address
- Business activity
- Contact details
- Use of any special VAT regime

The notification must be made via form M/01C. As per the VAT registration, the form is to be submitted in paper at the tax department where the taxable person complies with its tax obligations.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 16%
- Reduced: 5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports, associated services and international transport
- Supplies and services to vessels and aircraft in international transport
- The transfer, freight or rental of passenger vessels or vessels undertaking a commercial, industrial or fishery activity at high sea, maritime assistance and coastal fishing
- Basic food stuffs, including maize, maize flour, rice, bread, iodized salt, powdered milk for infants up to one year old, wheat, wheat flour, fresh or chilled tomatoes, potatoes, onions, frozen horse mackerel, lamp oil, domestic gas-LPG, jet fuel, ordinary bicycles, condoms and insecticides
- Transfers of goods and services carried out in the agricultural activity of sugar cane production and destined for the industrial sector, subject to certain conditions (in effect until 31 December 2023)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Medical health care services and related operations by private entities
- Teaching/training services and related, as well as the transfer of goods by private entities
- Services consisting of personal lessons on school or higher education subjects

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Banking, financial, insurance and reinsurance services, which are subject to stamp duty
- Rental of property for residential purposes
- Transfer of goods within the scope of agricultural, forestry and fishery activities
- Transfer of goods for the disabled
- Medical, sanitary, waste removal, educational, funeral and ambulance transport services education and related goods by public institutions
- Nonprofit organizations or public entity services and goods (including social assistance, sports and cultural activities, guide services at museums and state-owned parks)
- Services by the state or nonprofit entities cultural, educational or technical newspapers, magazines and books
- Supply of staff by religious or philosophical entities
- Sugar and certain sugar industry products
- Transmission of cooking oil and soap and the respective goods resulting from related activities (in effect until 31 December 2023)
- Gaming and betting
- Transmission of iron bicycles up to four speeds
- Services of garbage removal service when carried out by private entities contracted by public entities
- Transfer of production factors of solar panels for rural electrification, included in the Customs Tariff Schedule and detailed in Annex IV, which is an integral part of the VAT Code (until 31 December 2025)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. It is possible to waive the VAT exemption for the supply of transfer of goods within the scope of agriculture, forestry and fishing activities. Taxable persons who intend to waive the VAT exemption are required to submit a declaration to the tax authorities.

Once accepted, the waiver should take effect from 1 January of the following calendar year (making all subsequent supplies taxable at the standard rate), and it is mandatory to remain under this regime for five years.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." In general, the time of supply for goods and services supplied by a taxable person is the earliest of the following events:
- The date of issuance of the invoice by the supplier
- The date on which any consideration is received for the supply
- The date on which the goods are made available to the recipient or the services are performed

An invoice must be issued before the fifth business day following the time of supply.

Deposits and prepayments. In case of prepayments or advance payments (i.e., deposits) prior to the issuance of the invoice, the time of supply is the date on which the consideration is received. There is no different treatment for the supply of goods, provision of services, refundable or non-refundable amounts.

Continuous supplies of services. The time of supply for continuously supplied services is the end of each period in which each the payment is due.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The time of supply for the supply of goods sent on approval for sale or return is when the customer accepts the goods, and a supply is made. This is on the basis that the goods are not returned to the supplier within 180 days from the date the sale took place.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Mozambique for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. The supply of a financial lease is not subject to VAT (i.e., exempt), and as such, there is not time of supply rule. The supply of an operating lease follows the general rule of contracts with regular ongoing payments, and as such, the time of supply (i.e., when VAT is due) is at the end of each invoicing period.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is at the time of customs clearance.

Cash accounting. For supplies made under the cash accounting special regime, VAT is due and payable to the tax authorities regardless of whether payment of the supply has been received by the customer. There are no special time of supply rules in Mozambique for supplies made under the cash accounting regime. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). This is regardless of if payment for the supply has been settled or not.

Conversely there is a special regime applicable to public work in which the customer is the government, where taxable persons are only required to pay the VAT due once they receive payment from the government. The time of supply for supplies of public work is the time of payment of the invoice by the public entity.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A VAT-registered person may recover input tax (that is, VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes) by deducting it from output tax (VAT charged on supplies made) provided the VAT-registered person is in possession of a valid tax invoice and within 90 days from the issuance of the invoice.

The taxable person can apply for a refund of outstanding input tax, subject to certain conditions. See the Refunds subsection below.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Mozambique and VAT paid on the importation of goods.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Mozambique is 10 years. This is counting from the time that the credit starts.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes, as well as by taxable persons that undertake VAT exempt activities (e.g., banking supplies). VAT included on invoices that do not meet the legal requirements is also not deductible. In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Light passenger vehicles, recreational boats, helicopters, aircrafts and motorcycles
- Business expense trips
- Fuel used for cars and 50% of diesel fuel (diesel for tractors used for farming purposes and large vehicles transporting passengers and goods is fully deductible)
- Telephone communication costs (e.g., mobile phones), except if related to fixed line telephones in the name of the taxable person
- Entertainment, food, drink and tobacco and accommodation for individuals not connected to the business
- Luxury and entertainment expenses
- Tax paid on transfer of goods and services is subject to taxation at the reduced rate of VAT

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Acquisition of goods and services, and importation of goods
- Tax paid as beneficiary of taxable operations by non-established taxable persons, in cases where they do not have a legal representative and have not invoiced the tax
- Sale of light passenger vehicles, recreational boats, helicopters, aircrafts and motorcycles in the scope of its social object/business activity
- Repairs, maintenance and other provision of services related to secondhand goods
- Accommodation and food expenses incurred by independent professionals on their own account
- Telephone communication costs (landline)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to exempt supplies of goods or services is not generally recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full, as some costs are eligible for deduction, and some are not. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

Where a taxable person makes taxable and exempt supplies, it will not be allowed to deduct the VAT incurred on the acquisition of goods and services related to exempt activities (unless it formally renounces/waives exemption) but could be allowed to deduct the VAT incurred on acquisitions made in the scope of non-exempted (i.e., taxable) activities.

The method used for the partial deduction by default is pro rata, where the VAT paid on acquisitions would be deductible only in the percentage corresponding to the annual turnover of the previous year (provisional deduction, then subject to adjustments based on the sales performed in the respective year) resulting from the transactions that are eligible for deduction (not exempted).

Alternatively, the taxable person may formally request the tax authorities an authorization to perform deductions based on the direct allocation method, for deduction of the total tax paid on goods and services used for activities subject to VAT.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Mozambique. Special methods are not allowed in Mozambique.

Capital goods. In Mozambique there are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal rules outlined above apply. Capital goods are not defined in the VAT law. Input tax incurred on capital goods is deducted in the same way as any other purchase. If the taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, the pro rata deduction method applies, and this is for all inputs and not per item/asset. See the Partial exemption subsection above.

Refunds. Taxable persons may apply for refund of outstanding VAT credit provided the following requirements are met:

- The taxable person still has a credit of more than MZN100,000 after four months subsequent to the tax period in which the credit arose
- The business is changed to exclusively undertake transactions that do not give rise to the right of deduction, or an election is made for a taxation regime different from the normal taxation regime
- The tax credit exceeds MZN500,000 considering sequentially the credits in the current year
- The tax credit exceeds MZN20,000 if requested by exporters (upon the presentation of a guarantee, as well as other supporting documentation)
- Should the taxable person have a credit for more than 12 months in relation to the tax period in which the credit arose, it must request at least 50% of the VAT credit accrued

The application for the refund is made by paper with the submission of the VAT return, together with the presentation of the following supporting documents:

- Copies of the VAT returns resulting in the credit being claimed
- Supplier's statement (this is a list of suppliers prepared by the taxable person, outlining details of its suppliers, including name, tax number, address, invoice number, date, description, amount, etc.)
- Copies of the monthly balance sheets related to the period of credits
- DU (unique document) for importations
- Goods shipping proof, for international transportation services
- Copies of the service agreements

By law refund claims should be made within 30 days from the initial request. However, in practice, refund claims do not take less than four to six months to be processed, and in many cases take several years.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Mozambique is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Mozambique. A taxable person is entitled to claim the unpaid output tax by way of a special judicial process of execution, insolvency or bankruptcy.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Mozambique.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Mozambique is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a full VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made to registered taxable persons. A tax invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax recovery. A tax invoice must include such particulars as prescribed by the VAT Act.

Full VAT invoices must be issued by resident taxable persons, issued in duplicate, in the local language (Portuguese) and local currency [Mozambican Metical (MZN)].

Duplicate means an original and a copy. All taxable persons, including non-established businesses, are required to issue full VAT invoices. The difference is that the invoice issued by a non-established business is not required to be in line with the local requirements. Based on that invoice, the tax representative would issue a debit note to the Mozambique client for the VAT amount. For supplies subject to the reverse-charge mechanism, the Mozambique domestic customer of the services will self-assess and account for the VAT from the invoices received from the non-established business.

Credit notes. A registered taxable person may issue a debit or credit note in circumstances including, but not restricted to, the following: to reflect an alteration in the supply or correction of the tax rate that was applied, correction of the terms of a transaction or a return of goods or services to the supplier, etc. An explanation is required to be indicated on the debit or credit note for its issuance. Credit and debit notes must contain broadly the same information as a tax invoice. The supplier can only adjust the amended output tax if it has written confirmation from the customer acknowledging the VAT adjustment.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Mozambique, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Mozambique. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Mozambique. There is no limitation in respect of the type of taxable persons (with the exception of the ones registered under the simplified regime) that are eligible for the electronic invoicing.

Invoices may be computer generated or printed. It is only allowed provided that the invoicing software has been approved by the tax authorities (this covers both the invoice template and software for computer-generated invoices). Preprinted invoices should be printed by authorized entities.

The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. There are currently no separate requirements for the format of electronic invoices; however, they must contain the relevant information as required for a normal VAT invoice, and the original invoice should be available in case the tax authority requests it.

Simplified VAT invoices. For certain supplies, payment slips/receipts can be issued instead of full VAT invoices. Such documents must be printed and numbered by printers or tax devices authorized by the tax authorities. For further details, see the subsection Supplies to nontaxable persons below.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Mozambique.

Proof of exports. VAT is levied at the zero-rate on supplies of exports (i.e., no VAT is charged). To qualify as zero-rated, exports must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Mozambique. Suitable documentary evidence includes the single customs document, or a statement issued by the purchaser confirming the destination of the goods being supplied.

Foreign currency invoices. All invoices issued by Mozambique residents and established taxable persons must be issued in local currency and language (Portuguese). For non-established businesses, invoices may be issued in a foreign currency. However, the amounts must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Mozambican Metical (MZN), for VAT reporting purposes (i.e., in the VAT return). The conversion must be made using the Bank of Mozambique weighted average exchange rate, which can be found on the bank's website (https://www.bancomoc.mz/).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For supplies made to nontaxable persons, a VAT-registered supplier is not required to issue full VAT invoices. Instead, they are required to issue payment slips/receipts printed and numbered by printers or tax devices authorized by the tax authorities. Dispensation from invoicing applies to the transactions listed below whenever the customer is a private customer (i.e., B2C supply) that does not use the goods and services for the undertaking of a commercial or industrial activity and the payment is made in cash:

- Retailers or ambulant vendors (i.e., street vendors)
- Sales by means of automatic distribution devices
- Rendering of services for which it is common that an entry or transport ticket, ticket or any other bearer issued document is issued proving payment
- Other services whose value is lower than MZN100

For supplies to nontaxable persons, if the customer requests a full VAT invoice, then the supplier is required to issue it. Also, if the recipient of the goods or services is not the final consumer, then a full VAT invoice is still required, but retailers and service providers may issue an invoice with the price with VAT includes.

Records. Registered taxable persons are required to keep accounts and records that evidence all active and passive transactions and fixed assets, as prescribed by the VAT Act and local accounting rules. In Mozambique, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include VAT returns and records (e.g., financial statements, trial balance, invoices, etc).

In Mozambique, VAT books and records can be kept outside of the country. However, it is mandatory for a taxable person that has its registered headquarters, permanent establishment or tax representative based in Mozambique, to hold its records in Mozambique.

Record retention period. Registered taxable persons must keep books and records for at least 10 years from the end of the taxable period to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Mozambique. All records must be held in paper and for a period of 10 years from the end of the taxable period to which they relate.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT reporting period is monthly. Returns must be filed together with payment of the VAT due.

Returns must be filed by the end of the following month. For returns with a VAT credit position, returns must be filed by the 15th day of the following month.

Periodic payments. Any VAT due must be paid together with submission of the return, i.e., by the end of the following month. Payment of VAT can made via account deposit in person (i.e., cheque or cash into the tax authorities bank account), or wire transfer.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Mozambique, but not mandatory. An electronic filing platform has recently been implemented in Mozambique by the tax (https://edeclaracao.at.gov.mz/). At the time of preparing this chapter, the electronic filing platform is not available for all taxes, but it is allowed for VAT. Taxable persons still have the option to file returns manually, i.e., by paper.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Mozambique.

Special schemes. Exemption regime. The exemption regime allows certain taxable persons to not charge and account for VAT on their supplies and cannot recover input tax incurred on their purchases. This regime is optional for taxable persons that do not have, or are not obliged to maintain, organized statutory accounts; are not involved in imports or exports and have an annual turnover that does not exceed MZN750,000.

Simplified regime. The simplified regime allows certain taxable persons to only charge VAT at 5% on their supplies and cannot recover input tax incurred. This regime is optional for taxable persons that do not have, or are not obliged to maintain, organized statutory accounts; are not involved in imports or exports and have an annual turnover higher than MZN750,000 but not exceeding MZN2.5 million.

Mining, oil and gas sectors. Mining, oil and gas companies, as well as public projects funded by development agencies may benefit from a special VAT certificate and voluntary regularization regimes. The special regimes allow suppliers to charge VAT on their invoices as per the requirements of the VAT Code. The customer is then only required to pay the invoice net of VAT and deliver to the supplier the VAT certificate for the VAT amount. The special VAT certificate is issued by the General Directorate of Taxes on request.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Mozambique.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Mozambique.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If a taxable person discovers an error or an omission from a previous periodic declaration, this can be corrected through the submission of a substitution return. The correction can be made either by paper or online. Where the original VAT return for the period has a VAT refund credit, the credit for that specific tax period is suspended until confirmed by the tax authorities. In this case the following documentation must also be submitted:

- Copy of the VAT returns that relate to the credit
- A written note explaining the credit for the total period to which the credit relates, the type of transaction(s) undertaken, identification of the taxable person and base of incidence of the tax

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Mozambique.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A taxable person who fails to register is liable to a penalty between MZN3,000 and MZN260,000. The range is provided by the legislation and the graduation of the fine depends on the discretionary power of the tax authority based on the seriousness, intention, economic situation of the taxable person and amount of VAT payable. In general, the lower fine is applied, unless the offense is recurring.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to file a VAT return by the required due date is liable to a penalty between MZN6,000 and MZN130,000. In addition, a fine between the amount of the tax due and its double may also apply, which is reduced up to 10% in case of voluntary disclosure. In addition to the fine and tax due, there is also interest for late payment, which is calculated based on the Maputo Interbank Offered Rate (MAIBOR) (12 months plus 2%). At the time of preparing this chapter, the MAIBOR has been abolished by the Central Bank, but the tax law has not been updated with this change.

Where a taxable person fails to self-assess and pay across any outstanding VAT due, the tax authorities may proceed with a tax assessment. This assessment is based upon the VAT returns submitted in the previous months. If the taxable person fails to pay the VAT assessed or to object, within the established deadline, proceedings for coercive collection of the tax are triggered.

Penalties for errors. Errors and omissions that are not corrected by the taxable person within the legal deadlines (i.e., within one year, subject to penalties, and within the tax period following that in which the invoice was issued, without penalties) are subject to additional assessment by the tax authorities in line with the penalties outlined above under the Penalties for late payment and filings subsection.

Failure to notify, or late notification to the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details could result in a penalty varying from MZN3,000 to MZN14,000. In addition, it could have other implications, such as impediment of the tax authority to notify the taxable business, cases in which the lack of delivery of the notification could not be imputed to the tax authority, which means the notification would be considered as delivered, unless the taxable person proves that it has communicated the change of address to the tax authority. For further details, see the subsection above Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In addition to the penalties outlined above, there are also several types of VAT fraud offenses and crimes that are regulated and penalized by the tax legislation, as follows:

- Fraud is a tax crime subject to a fine varying form MZN30,000 to MZN500,000, and its recurrence may also result in a two-year imprisonment.
- Qualified fraud is subject to a fine varying from MZN100,000 to MZN3.5 million and two to eight years imprisonment.
- Tax breach of trust (e.g., nonpayment of withheld tax) is subject to a fine varying from MZN15,000 to MZN300,000. If the tax due is greater than MZN500,000, the fine will vary from MZN500,000 to MZN3 million.
- Refusal or obstruction of a tax audit procedure is subject to a fine varying from MZN25,000 to MZN350,000. Recurrence may result in two years imprisonment.
- Damage, omission and disposal of patrimony, with the intention to not satisfy tax debts is subject to a fine varying from MZN30,000 to MZN450,000 and one year imprisonment.

Tax offenses include transgressions, contraventions and crimes. The sanctions are determined on the basis of the illegality of the fact and the willful conduct, which include intensity of the willful conduct or negligence. Gross negligence or willful conduct would fall under fraud in the first bullet point above, which is defined as someone:

- Who hides or amends amounts that may be contained in accounting records or tax returns presented or provided for the tax authorities to inspect or determine the tax situation
- Hides facts or situations that should be revealed to the tax authorities
- Simulates a transaction

Those who are accomplices or cover the above are also subject to criminal charges.

Personal liability for company officers. Company directors, managers and persons that perform a managing/administration function are jointly liable for the penalties such as payment of fines. The covering and being an accomplice of the tax crimes stated above are also penalized as per the Criminal Code (e.g., imprisonment).

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Mozambique is five years. The tax authority has the prerogative to audit/correct the returns for a limit of five years. Taxable persons may voluntary correct errors on the returns through substitute returns until the following period without penalties, and within one year subject to penalties.

Myanmar

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Yangon GMT +6.5

EY UTW Advisory Limited
Junction City Tower
Unit 20-06 to 10, Level 20
No. 3A, Bogyoke Aung San Road
Pabedan Township, Yangon
Myanmar

Indirect tax contacts

Naing Naing San	+951 9253493 (ext.9) naing-naing.san@mm.ey.com
Moe Moe Aye	+951 9253493 (ext.9) moe-moe.aye@mm.ey.com
Thu Zar Win	+951 9253493 (ext.9) thu-zar.win@mm.ey.com

Namibia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Windhoek GMT +1

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 1857
Windhoek
Namibia

Street address:
Cnr Otto Nitzsche and Maritz Streets
Klein Windhoek
Windhoek

Indirect tax contacts

Nikia Bauernschmitt
+264 (61) 289 1276
nikia.bauernschmitt@na.ey.com

Friedel Janse Van Rensburg
+264 (61) 289 1211
friedel.janse.van.rensburg@na.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	27 November 2000
Trading bloc membership	Southern African Customs Union (SACU) Southern African Development Community (SADC) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Namibian Revenue Agency (NamRA)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	0123 4567
VAT return periods	Bimonthly
Thresholds
Registration	NAD500,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Namibia by a registered person
- Reverse-charge services received by a person in Namibia that is not entitled to claim full input tax credits (referred to as imported services)
- The importation of goods from outside Namibia, regardless of the status of the importer

Goods imported from countries in the Southern African Customs Union (Botswana, Eswatini, Lesotho, Namibia and South Africa) are not subject to customs duty but are subject to import VAT.

Note that the term "taxable person" is not used in the Namibian VAT Act, and instead "registered person" and "taxpayer" are used.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Namibia, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated of VAT. In Namibia, a TOGC is treated as zero-rated where the following conditions are met:

- Both the seller and purchaser are VAT registered prior to the supply taking place
- All the goods and services necessary for the continued operation of that taxable activity, or that part of a taxable activity, are supplied
- The taxable activity, or that part of a taxable activity, is carried on up to the time of its transfer
- A notice in writing signed by the seller and purchaser is furnished to the Commissioner within 21 days after the supply taking place

Transactions between related parties. In Namibia, for a transaction between related parties the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value. The value of a supply of goods or services, supplied by a VAT-registered person to a connected person for no consideration or for consideration less than the open market value, shall be valued at the open market value of the supply of the goods or services if the recipient is not registered for VAT and the amount of such consideration if the recipient is registered for VAT.

C. Who is liable

A registered person is required to account for output tax on all goods and services supplied unless the supply is specifically exempted by the VAT Act. Exempt supplies are specified in Schedule IV to the VAT Act.

A registered person is a person (business entity or individual) carrying on an activity in Namibia or partly in Namibia on a continuous or regular basis if, in the course of the activity, goods or services are supplied to another person for consideration exceeding the registration threshold or who has voluntarily registered for VAT. This includes persons who are registered for VAT in Namibia as well as persons who are required to register for VAT.

A person is required to register for VAT if the value of taxable supplies exceeds (or is expected to exceed) NAD500,000 in any consecutive 12-month period.

A VAT registration only becomes effective from the first calendar day of the month after registration was approved. The earliest the registration can become effective is the first day of the calendar month following the month in which application for registration was filed.

Deemed supplies. In addition to actual goods and services supplied by a registered person, the VAT Act deems certain supplies to be supplies of goods or services. The person making the deemed supply is liable to pay VAT. Deemed supplies include the following:

- Ceasing to be a registered person
- Short-term insurance indemnity payments

- Change in use
- Acquisition of used goods (excluding immovable property) from a person not registered for VAT

Import VAT. Goods imported into Namibia are subject to import VAT. The import VAT is payable at the time of import unless the importer has obtained approval from the Directorate of Namibian Revenue Agency (NamRA) to maintain a VAT import account, in which case the payment of the import VAT can be deferred and paid when the import VAT return is due for submission (see Section I). The Commissioner may require security or impose additional conditions before registration of a VAT import account.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Namibia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration if the value of taxable supplies made exceeds the registration threshold of NAD500,000 in a 12-month period.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person whose turnover is below the compulsory registration threshold may register for VAT on a voluntary basis provided that there is a reasonable expectation taxable supplies will be made for consideration after a period of time and that there is a reasonable expectation that future taxable supplies will exceed NAD200,000 in a 12-month period.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Namibia.

Fixed establishment. In Namibia there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. For VAT purposes, the liability to register for VAT is dependent on there being a "taxable activity" in Namibia. A taxable activity is "any activity which is carried on continuously or regularly by any person in Namibia or partly in Namibia, whether or not for a pecuniary profit, that involves or is intended to involve, in whole or in part, the supply of goods or services to any other person for consideration."

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Namibia. A non-established business that makes taxable supplies of goods or services continuously or regularly in Namibia must appoint a tax representative and open a Namibian bank account to register for VAT.

Tax representatives. Persons who make supplies in Namibia may appoint a representative who is responsible for registration and payment of VAT on behalf of the taxable person. Tax representatives are appointed by taxable persons or legally appointed, e.g., public officers of companies, treasurers of local authorities and unincorporated bodies, liquidators of companies in liquidation, guardians of legally disabled persons, agents appointed by the Commissioner for nonresidents, executors of deceased estates and trustees of insolvent or trust funds. Tax representatives are responsible for performing the duties under the VAT Act of the persons they represent.

Reverse charge. Recipients of services who make exempt supplies are liable to pay VAT on imported services, subject to specific provisions. Imported services are exempt from VAT if the services are specified in Schedule IV of the VAT Act. Exempt imported services include, but are not limited to, financial services, public transport services, medical services and educational services as defined. See the section below on Rates for more detail.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Namibia.

Digital economy. There are no special rules for the taxation of the digital economy in Namibia. There is no requirement for nonresidents that provide electronically supplied services to register for VAT in Namibia. Only where services are rendered in Namibia or partly within Namibia will a liability to register and account for VAT arise. Recipients of services who make exempt supplies are liable to pay VAT on imported services.

For business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions, the non-established business will only be liable to register for and levy VAT on the supply if it carries on a taxable activity in Namibia or partly within Namibia. To the extent that the customer is registered for VAT, VAT paid on invoices can be claimed as an input tax deduction. To the extent that the non-established business will not be liable to register for and levy VAT, no VAT liability will arise unless the customer makes exempt or mixed (taxable and exempt) supplies, in which case VAT on imported services will be payable by the customer on the inverse of its apportionment ratio.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Namibia. VAT on imported goods is payable by the importer.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Namibia.

Registration procedures. The Integrated Tax Administration System (ITAS) allows applications for VAT registration electronically. However, in practice a manual application is often processed quicker by NamRA. The VAT registration application (VAT 1) must be completed and submitted to NamRA in hard copy. The person applying for VAT registration should have a Namibian bank account and a fitness certificate for the premises from which they will be conducting the taxable activity. The VAT registration, once approved by NamRA, becomes effective on the first calendar day of the second month after the registration letter was received from NamRA. On specific application the registration can become effective on the first calendar day of the month following the receipt of the registration confirmation.

Deregistration. A person may apply for deregistration if the value of such person's taxable supplies in a period of 12 months (begin on the date of application) will be less than NAD500,000 per year.

Changes to VAT registration details. A registered person shall notify NamRA in writing within 21 days of any change to:
- The name, address, place of business, constitution or nature of the principal taxable activity
- The address from which, or name in which, any taxable activity is carried on by the registered person

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 15%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods and related services
- International transport of passengers and goods and related services
- Certain supplies of goods that are used exclusively in an export country
- Services supplied outside Namibia and to foreign branches and head offices
- Certain basic foodstuffs
- Supply of land to be used solely for residential accommodation purposes
- Supply of goods or services to erect or extend a residential building
- Supply of a business capable of separate operation as a going concern (provided all the requirements are met)

- Supply of goods subject to the fuel levy
- Supply of telecommunication services, electricity, water, refuse removal and sewerage to residential accounts
- Supply of livestock on the hoof
- Supply of intellectual property for use outside Namibia
- Supply of services to nonresidents subject to certain provisions
- Supply of goods or services to an export processing zone enterprise

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services as defined
- Fare-paying public passenger transport
- Educational services
- Medical services provided by registered medical professionals
- Hospital services provided by registered hospitals
- Rental of residential accommodation
- Fringe benefits provided by an employer to employees
- Services supplied to members in the course of the management of a body corporate
- Supplies of goods or services to heads of state
- Supply of services by a trade union to or for the benefit of members if the supply is made from members' contributions

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Namibia.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In Namibia, the basic time of supply is the earlier of the issuance of an invoice or the receipt of payment.

Other tax points are used for a variety of transactions, including successive supplies like rentals, sale of fixed property, betting transactions, construction, supplies made from vending machines and "lay-by" sale agreements.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Namibia for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). Deposits will only be subject to VAT once it is applied as a consideration for a supply.

Continuous supplies of services. The tax point for continuous supplies is the earlier of the date on which payment is due or the date on which the invoice relating to the payment is issued.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Namibia for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The import of services shall take place 30 days after the time of the import. The normal time of supply rules (as outlined above) will apply to the time of the import.

Leased assets. The supply of goods under rental agreements is deemed to take place at the earlier of when a payment becomes due or is received.

Imported goods. The tax point for imported goods varies depending on the source of the goods being imported. The following are the applicable rules:

- For goods that are imported from a member of the Southern African Customs Union – when the goods enter Namibia at the border post

- For goods imported from other countries – when the goods are cleared for home consumption
- For goods imported and entered into a licensed customs and excise storage warehouse – when the goods are cleared from the warehouse for home consumption

Periodic supplies. The tax point for periodic supplies is the earlier of the date on which payment is due or the date on which the invoice relating to the payment is issued.

Installment credit agreements. For installment credit agreements, the supply is deemed to take place at the earlier of when the goods are delivered, or any payment of consideration is made.

Immovable property. The supply of immovable property is deemed to take place at the earlier of the following dates:
- The date on which the registration of the transfer is made in a deed's registry
- The date on which any payment in respect of selling price is received (excluding deposits)

Supplies between related persons. The tax point for supplies of goods between related persons is when the goods are removed by or made available to the purchaser or recipient of the goods. The time of supply for supplies of services between related persons is when the services are performed. For services such as management services, the tax point is at the end of each calendar month.

Supplies to a branch or main business outside Namibia. The tax point for goods consigned or delivered to a branch or main business outside Namibia is when the goods are consigned or delivered. The tax point for services supplied to a branch or main business outside Namibia is when the services are performed.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person (i.e., registered for VAT) may recover input tax (that is, VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes) by deducting it from output tax (VAT charged on supplies made) provided the taxable person is in possession of a valid tax invoice. The VAT Act provides that a taxable person that wants to claim input tax must be in possession of a tax invoice by the time any return is submitted. This is to ensure there is an audit trail used by NamRA on VAT inspections.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Namibia and VAT paid on the importation of goods. The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Namibia is three years. A late claim is therefore valid for three years from the end of the period in which the registered person was first entitled to claim the credit.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for taxable purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur or goods and services used for making exempt supplies). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for specifically excluded business expenditure, such as entertainment.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase or rental of a vehicle principally designed to carry nine or fewer seated people including the driver (referred to as a passenger vehicle in the VAT Act)
- Business and staff entertainment, which includes accommodation, meals and beverages when traveling for business purposes
- Club subscriptions (excluding subscriptions to professional bodies)
- Acquisition of capital goods prior to being registered for VAT

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, hire and maintenance of vans and trucks
- Attendance at conferences and seminars

- Vehicle maintenance costs (including passenger vehicles, excluding if provided as fringe benefit)
- Mobile phones (excluding if provided as fringe benefit)
- Air transport of goods within Namibia
- Aviation fuel
- Trading stock
- Raw materials
- Marketing expenditure
- Stationery

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may recover only a portion of the input tax incurred. The direct attribution method is used to claim input tax if taxable and exempt supplies are made by a VAT registered person.

In Namibia, the deductible portion is determined using the following two-stage calculation:

- The first stage identifies the input tax directly attributable to taxable and exempt supplies. Input tax directly attributable to taxable supplies is deductible in full, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is denied in full.
- The second stage identifies the amount of remaining input tax (for example, input tax on general business overheads) that cannot be directly attributed to the making of taxable or exempt supplies. Such input tax may be deducted only to the extent that it relates to the making of taxable supplies. In general, the deductible portion is determined by comparing the value of taxable supplies to total supplies. However, a registered person may apply to the Directorate of NamRA for another equitable apportionment method (for example, apportionment based on floor space or activity), particularly if significant investment income, foreign-exchange gains or other nontaxable passive income is realized. The input tax ratio calculated for a financial year is applied to the following financial year and amended annually when a financial year comes to an end. A de minimis rule applies, and if taxable supplies are 90% or more of the total supplies, the full input tax deduction may be claimed and there will be no requirement to apportion the input tax claim.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Namibia. Special methods are allowed in Namibia, but subject to approval.

Banks must obtain approval from NamRA to apply the ratio for the following year.

Capital goods. Capital assets are defined in the VAT Act as any asset, or a component of any asset, that is subject to the deduction of capital allowances in terms of the Income Tax Act. The normal input tax recovery rules apply in respect of the acquisition of capital goods. Only the portion of capital goods used to make taxable supplies can be claimed as an input tax deduction. The normal timing rules apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, a refund of the excess may be claimed.

Pre-registration costs. No VAT paid may be claimed prior to the effective date of registration unless it relates to trading stock or consumables on hand at the date the VAT registration becomes effective, and the goods were acquired within four months of the effective date of the VAT registration. The VAT paid in respect of the acquisition of capital goods prior to registration may not be claimed.

Bad debts. A registered person will be entitled to claim the VAT as an input tax deduction where bad debts have been written off. There should be proof that the registered person did in fact try to recover the bad debts before the VAT can be claimed back. The tax fraction will be applied to the total debt amount to the extent it includes VAT.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Namibia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Namibia is not recoverable. However, VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered in Namibia may be recovered only with respect to goods that are subsequently exported from Namibia. A refund may be claimed from the VAT refund administrator. No claim may be made in respect of services (such as hotel accommodation and restaurant meals) consumed in Namibia.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Registered persons are required to issue a tax invoice for all supplies made if the consideration (that is, the total amount received exclusive of VAT) amounts to NAD100 or more. If the total amount in money for the supply is less than NAD100, the supplier may issue an abridged tax invoice. Only hard copy tax invoices qualify as valid tax invoices.

In order to claim input tax, the claimant must be in possession of a valid tax invoice for each supply including periodic supplies.

Credit notes. A tax credit note, or debit note may be used to reduce VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services. A credit note or a debit note may be issued only if the tax charged is incorrect or if the supplier has paid incorrect output tax as a result of one or more of the following circumstances:

- The supply has been canceled
- The nature of the supply has been fundamentally varied or altered
- The previously agreed consideration has been altered by agreement with the recipient of the supply
- All or part of the goods or services has been returned to the supplier

If a credit note adjusts the amount of VAT charged, it must be clearly marked "tax credit note" and must refer to the original tax invoice. It must briefly indicate the reason that it is being issued and provide sufficient information to identify the transaction to which it refers.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is not allowed in Namibia.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is not allowed in Namibia. The Namibian VAT Act requires that all tax invoices be issued in hard copy. In practice, invoices are often emailed but are then required to be printed for input tax recovery.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified invoices are permitted in Namibia. There is no requirement to issue a tax invoice if the supply is for less than NAD100. A receipt is sufficient.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Namibia. It is only allowed provided the Commissioner has provided prior written approval for the issue of tax invoices by a recipient. The recipient and the supplier must agree in advance that the supplier shall not issue any tax invoices where the recipient has issued a tax invoice in this regard. Then the tax invoice is provided to the supplier, and a copy thereof retained by the recipient.

Proof of exports. Exports can be classified as either direct exports or indirect exports. Direct exports (that is, the seller is responsible to deliver the goods at an address outside Namibia) can be zero-rated if the documentary requirements are met. The seller may not zero-rate exports if the goods are not delivered or consigned and delivered at an address in a country outside Namibia.

Documentation that must be retained to substantiate an export includes the following:
- The original customs export documentation (such as Form SAD500, Form 178 and any export certificate or certificate of origin)
- Commercial and tax invoices for the supply

These documents must be stamped by the customs and excise officials at the port of export.

The import documentation into the country of import may also be requested by the Directorate of NamRA in support of the export from Namibia.

Foreign currency invoices. In general, a tax invoice must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Namibian dollar (NAD). If an invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the NAD equivalent must be determined using the appropriate exchange rate on the date on which the invoice is issued and must be reflected on the tax invoice.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Full tax invoices are only required to be issued if requested by the purchaser. It is, therefore, not a requirement to issue full VAT invoices to private consumers; abridged tax invoices should be sufficient.

Records. In Namibia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all tax invoices, tax credit and debit notes issued and received, and import documents received. All records must be held in English in Namibia (specifically for tax invoices, tax credit and debit notes). In Namibia, VAT books and records can be held outside the country. This is only allowed if the accounting records are maintained on a centralized computer system that is linked to the registered person's place of business in Namibia, and NamRA can readily access the records.

Record retention period. All records should be retained for a period of five years after the end of the tax period to which it relates.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Namibia. The original tax invoices, tax credit notes and tax debit notes received, and copies issued, should be kept physically in Namibia. Accounting records can be kept outside Namibia but should be maintained on a centralized computer system that is linked to the registered person's place of business in Namibia.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax return period is bimonthly for all registered persons other than those persons who conduct only farming activities. Registered persons who carry on only farming activities may elect four-monthly, semiannual and annual tax periods.

VAT returns must be filed by the 25th day after the end of the tax period. If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, the due date is the next business day.

Import VAT returns for the declaration of the import of goods are due monthly by the 20th day of the month following the month of import and must be submitted even if no goods were imported in a particular month.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT is due in full on the same date as the VAT return submission deadline, i.e., by the 25th day after the end of the tax period.

Payment of import VAT is due in full on the same date as the import VAT return, i.e., by the 20th day of the month following the month of import. If the payment date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, the due date is the next business day.

All VAT and import VAT payments can be made electronically or in cash. It is important to use the correct payment reference number to make payment so that the payment is allocated to the correct tax liability.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Namibia, but not mandatory. However, while electronic filing is not mandatory, it is highly recommended, as manual submissions can only be used in exceptional circumstances. NamRA's new electronic system, Integrated Tax Administration System (ITAS), became operational from 1 January 2019. Taxable persons should activate their online tax registration to file returns electronically.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Namibia.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Namibia. However, special rules are applicable to various organizations and events in Namibia as provided for in the VAT Act and not on a case-by-case basis.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Namibia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Namibia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Errors made in previous returns should be corrected by submitting revised hard-copy VAT returns. The revised returns cannot be resubmitted electronically. Output tax should be declared during the tax period in which the supply was made. Where input tax was underclaimed, the additional tax invoices received can be claimed as input tax adjustments on the VAT returns.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Namibia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A person who fails to register will be liable for the payment of a penalty equal to double the amount of output tax payable from the time such person becomes liable to be registered until they file an application for registration. No input tax may be claimed in respect of the period that has lapsed during which the person was not registered.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty equal to 10% of the net VAT due is imposed if the VAT payment is made after the due date. The penalty is calculated as 10% for each month or part of a month the VAT remains outstanding, but the total penalty is limited to the tax due. However, a registered person may request that NamRA waive the penalty if the delay was not due to the intent of the taxable person to postpone payment.

An additional penalty of NAD100 is imposed for each day the VAT return or import VAT return is submitted after the due date.

Interest is charged at 20% per annum on late payments of the VAT liability or import VAT liability.

Penalties for errors. A person who fails to maintain proper records in respect of any tax period will be liable for the payment of a penalty of NAD3,000 for each day during which the failure continues.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a fine of NAD8,000 or a two-year prison sentence or both if found quality of noncompliance with the law by a court. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Additional tax not exceeding double the value of the VAT due may be levied in the case of evasion and where any person knowingly or recklessly makes a false or misleading statement.

Personal liability for company officers. Shareholders of companies and members of close corporations are liable to pay unpaid tax to the extent that the tax debt arose during the time the person was a shareholder or a member. Shareholders and or members will be held liable jointly or severally for a tax debt.

Statute of limitations. There is no specific statute of limitations in Namibia. NamRA may indefinitely conduct reviews/audits. Although there is no legislation prohibiting NamRA to go back indefinitely, it is unlikely that reviews will be conducted outside five years, due to the fact that accounting records are only required to be retained for five years in terms of the VAT Act.

VAT periods that have been audited by NamRA are also not likely to be re-audited. The selection of taxpayers and periods that will be audited is random and may be in respect of tax periods in which a refund is claimed, or VAT was paid. Current practice is that all VAT refunds are subject to audit before being paid to taxpayers.

In terms of voluntary corrections, for output tax, failure to declare sales in the tax period during which the sale occur could result in penalties and interest for late/underpayment being levied. For input tax, a registered person has three years to claim the input tax.

Nepal

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Kathmandu GMT +5¾

Direct all queries regarding Nepal to the persons listed below in the Kolkata, India, office.

Indirect tax contacts

Sidhartha Jain	+91 (33) 6615-3565 sidhartha.jain@in.ey.com
Avisekh Jaiswal	+91 (33) 6615-3449 avisekh.jaiswal@in.ey.com
Chirag Mehta	+91 (33) 6615-3421 chirag.mehta@in.ey.com
Arnab Dey	+91 (33) 6615-3696 arnab.dey@in.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	मूल्य अभिवृद्धि कर (ऍन)
Date introduced	16 November 1997
Trading bloc membership	South Asian Free Trade Area (SAFTA) Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectorial Technical Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC)
Administered by	Inland Revenue Department (IRD) (https://ird.gov.np/)
VAT rates
Standard	13%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	9-digit number which is same as the permanent account number (PAN), provided to persons registered under the income tax law of Nepal
VAT return periods	Monthly (where annual taxable turnover is greater than NPR10 million); four-monthly (where annual taxable turnover is equal to or less than NPR10 million)
Thresholds
Registration	NPR5 million for goods/NPR2 million for mixed supplies of goods and services, and for only services within the last 12 months
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Supply of goods or services within the state of Nepal
- Import of goods or services into the state of Nepal
- Export of goods or services from the state of Nepal

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Nepal, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Nepal, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the taxable person provides the information (and format) as specified in Schedule 4 of the Nepal VAT Rules to the tax authorities. The information must be provided by both the person transferring the business and the person to whom the business is transferred to, within seven days of transfer.

Transactions between related parties. In Nepal, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

VAT is imposed and payable on the taxable import and taxable supply of goods and services. The following persons are liable to pay VAT:
- For a taxable import – the importer
- For any taxable supply in Nepal – the supplier
- For a taxable supply of imported services – the recipient of such supply
- For any other cases – supplier or the recipient of services

VAT registration is required for:
- A person whose turnover exceeds the registration threshold of NPR5 million for supplies of goods only and NPR2 million for mixed supplies of goods and services or only services within the last 12 months
- Any person that has reason to presume that its annual transactions will exceed NPR5 million in the case of goods and NPR2 million in the case of mixed transaction of goods and services, and for services, must file an application for registration

If a person is required to register for VAT, it must do so within 30 days from the date on which the threshold is crossed.

Further, VAT registration is mandatory irrespective of turnover threshold for any person that imports taxable goods worth more than NPR10,000 in one consignment. The person is required to register its transaction except when it is engaged in tax-exempted transaction in Nepal.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Nepal does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Any person making taxable supplies that is not required to be registered (i.e., it does not exceed the registration threshold) may apply to register for VAT voluntarily. A person registered voluntarily pays tax from the first day of the next tax period following the date of registration and must preserve the required records and accounts.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Nepal.

Fixed establishment. In Nepal there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the definition for fixed establishments in the Income Tax Act shall apply for VAT purposes. As per the Income Tax Act "permanent establishment" (PE) is defined as a place where any person carries on a business fully or partly, and the term includes the following places:

- Agency PE:
  - A place where any person carries on a business fully or partly, through any agent except a general agent who acts independently in the ordinary course of carrying on business
- Equipment PE:
  - A place where any person's main equipment or main machinery is situated or used or installed
- Service PE:
  - One or more than one place in any country where any person has delivered technical, professional or consultancy service through an employee or in any other manner for more than 90 days at one or several times in a period of any 12 months
- Construction PE:
  - A place where any person is involved in a construction, installation or establishment project and has carried out supervisory works of that project for a period of 90 days or more

Any person that qualifies above to create a PE in Nepal is considered a tax resident in Nepal. Thus, if the nature of business of such a PE attracts VAT, then such PE must register under VAT as per Section 10 of VAT Act and adhere to the VAT laws.

Non-established businesses. There is no definition for non-established businesses in Nepal in the VAT law. Further, there are no conditions specified when a non-established business should account for VAT in Nepal. In practice, a non-established business is only required to register and account for VAT in Nepal if its supplies exceed the registration threshold.

There are special rules for nonresident digital service providers (see the Digital economy subsection below).

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are allowed in Nepal, but not mandatory. There are no specific rules or guidance provided by the tax authorities for tax representatives.

Reverse charge. A person who is registered or not registered for VAT in Nepal, that acquires a service from any person outside Nepal (i.e., both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies), is required to self-assess and account for the VAT due via the reverse-charge mechanism at the time of payment or at the time of acquisition of the service, whichever occurs earlier.

For B2C supplies, the consumer (i.e., the non-VAT registered person) is required to account for the VAT due via use of the tax codes specified by the Inland Revenue Department (IRD) for such reverse charge transactions.

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse charge applies in Nepal only to the supply of construction building services where the value of the property is greater than NPR5 million.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies are required to register and account for VAT in Nepal. This requirement became effective from 29 May 2022. Nonresident taxable persons, carrying out transactions of taxable digital services greater than NPR2 million within the last 12 months, must register and account for VAT from the date of registration.

The application for VAT registration must be made to the tax authorities within 30 days from the day when transaction exceeds NPR2 million. A nonresident person must obtain a permanent account number (PAN) by registering under Nepal taxation laws. Nonresident persons must file VAT returns online monthly, and payments of any VAT due must be made electronically. Note that a "nonresident person" means a person from outside Nepal who does not have a permanent business address or business representative or legal representative in Nepal. Additionally, a "consumer" means a person who consumes services and has a normal place of abode in Nepal. However, a person who purchases goods and services by separate arrangement for business purposes or to use in business shall not be considered as a consumer.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Nepal. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above). Electronically supplied services (known as "digital services" in Nepal) include the following services (whose delivery essentially requires information technology and provided automatically through the internet with minimal human intervention):
- Advertisements
- Movies, television, music, over the top (OTT) and other similar subscription-based services
- Data storage services
- Cloud services
- Gaming
- Service related to mobile application
- Online marketplace services and goods and services provided through it
- Supply and update of software
- Download of data, images and similar services
- Consultancy, skill development and training services
- Similar services to the above

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Nepal.

Registration procedures. A person that intends to engage in any transaction must file an application for VAT registration, in the prescribed format to the tax authorities, prior to carrying out any transactions. Where a person carries out any taxable supplies of goods or services, it must file an application for VAT registration, in the prescribed format to the tax authorities, which must be done within 30 days from the date of imposition of the tax or the date of commencement of such transaction.

The registration application along with the required documents must be submitted online. Generally, the VAT registration number is received in at least three working days.

The required documents to be submitted with the registration application include the following:
- Incorporation certificate
- Memorandum of agreement (MOA)
- Articles of association (AOA)
- Details of the directors (ID, proof of address, photographs)
- Rental/lease agreements
- Copy of the permanent account number (PAN) certificate

Deregistration. A registered person may apply for cancellation of its VAT registration (deregistration) for any of the following circumstances:
- In the case of a body corporate, if the body corporate is closed down, sold or transferred or if the body corporate in any manner ceases to exist
- In the case of an individual ownership, if the owner dies
- In the case of a partnership firm, if it is dissolved or a partner dies
- If a registered person ceases to be engaged in taxable transactions
- If the taxable person files a zero return or does not file a return at all within a consecutive period of 12 months

- If taxable transactions of the taxable person do not reach NPR5 million in the case of goods, and NPR2 million in the case of services and transactions involving both goods and services in past 12 months
- If registered mistakenly

An application for cancellation of registration must set out the circumstance(s) for cancellation of registration and be sent to the tax authorities within 30 days from the date of occurrence of the circumstance for cancellation of registration. The deregistration application is submitted online on the IRD's official website.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person is required to notify the tax authorities of changes in registration details within specific time frames that differ depending on the change.

Where there is a change to the principal place of business, a registered person must provide the relevant information to the tax authorities within 15 days of the change.

Where there is a change in the nature of the business activity, a registered person must provide information about the change to the tax authorities within 15 days of the change.

Where a registered person transfers ownership of a business or part of a business, it must provide the relevant information by setting out all the details (in the format as set forth in Schedule 4) to the tax authorities within seven days of the date on which the transaction was transferred.

For the above changes, the registered person may submit the information in the form of a request letter to the tax authorities outlining the required changes. In the case of a transfer transaction, since a format has been specified the prescribed format must be used.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 13%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Goods for export
- Services supplied to persons outside of Nepal
- Goods or services imported by a person or mission utilizing diplomatic facility and a person serving in a diplomatic mission enjoying tariff facility, on the recommendation of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Government of Nepal
- If any previous treaty or agreement provides for the sales tax exemption on imports, and local purchase is made from the taxable persons, on the recommendation of the concerned project, zero-rating shall be provided on such supplies, so long as such treaty or agreement is in effect
- Raw materials to be sold to and goods manufactured by any industries established pursuant to the laws in force and operated in the special economic zone
- Batteries used in the equipment and mechanism generating energy from solar power, which are produced by any domestic industry and to be supplied by that industry (the use of the zero-rate shall be provided to that industry on that transaction on the recommendation of the Alternative Energy Promotion Center and in accordance with the procedures specified by the Department).

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Basic agricultural products
- Goods for basic needs (e.g., salt, oil, electrical energy, etc.)
- Live animals and animal products
- Agricultural inputs
- Medicine, medical and similar health services
- Education
- Books, newspapers and printed materials
- Passengers (excluding air passenger and cargo transport, with effect from 29 May 2023)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Nepal.

E. Time of supply

The time of supply rules are the earliest of the following activities:

- When the supplier issued the invoice for the supply of goods or services
- When the supplier received consideration for the supply of goods or services
- For the supply of goods, when the recipient received or took possession of the goods from the supplies
- For the supply of services, when the service is rendered

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits and prepayments, the time of supply is when the supplier receives consideration for the goods or services. This will only be considered as the time of supply if it occurs before issuing of an invoice or the supply of the goods/services. Where the supply does not take place, the deposit will be refunded and no VAT will be due.

Continuous supplies of services. For continuous supplies of services, the time of supply is the time when the invoice is issued. There are no special time of supply rules in Nepal for continuous supplies of goods. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Nepal for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Nepal for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Nepal for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. For imported goods, the time of supply is determined on the basis of the customs law, which is at the time of importation.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A registered person may deduct the tax paid by it while importing or receiving any taxable goods or services during the concerned month or before that month from the tax collected by it while supplying any goods or services, in the following circumstances:

- In the case the goods or services in which a claim for tax deduction has been made, if they are directly related with the taxable business
- If the purchase has been made internally, and a tax invoice has been received
- In the case of imports, if import documents are available evidencing the payment of the tax at the time of import

"Import documents" mean customs declaration forms, cash receipts, invoices of goods and if the imported services are not imported through custom points, invoices for such import of services and such other related documents as prescribed by the department from time to time.

For tax deduction, the invoices or the import documents for up to one year before the date of the claim must be available.

If the amount of tax paid by a registered person for purchases or imports is higher than the amount collected by it for sales, the person may deduct such an excess amount in the next tax period. If such amount to be deducted in the next tax period remains in balance for a consecutive period of four months, an application for refund may be filed.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Nepal is in the month of purchase or up to one year from the date of the invoice. From this date a taxable person has four months to file the refund application.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax credit is not available for goods and services used for making exempt supplies or for a nonbusiness purpose. Further, the VAT law specifies a list of goods and services for which no input tax credit is available.

Input tax is only deductible when the tax invoice contains all the requisite information. In addition, for imports the documents must evidence the payment of tax at the time of import.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Alcoholic beverages such as liquor, beer
- Petroleum products
- Entertainment expenses

If a taxable person carries on a business of supplying goods or services that are out of the above-mentioned list as their principal business, tax deduction can be claimed.

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- On automobiles, only 40% of cost price can be claimed as deduction

Partial exemption. If a taxable person makes supplies that are both taxable and exempt and incurs costs that are used for making both taxable and exempt supplies, the taxable person may deduct the input tax incurred by calculating the proportion of value of taxable transactions to the total sales value. A formula has been prescribed for apportioning the credit, based on turnover of taxable and exempt supplies.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Nepal. Special methods are generally not allowed in Nepal. However, where the tax authorities feel that the tax cannot be calculated proportionally, it may seek direction from the department to calculate it through another alternative method.

Capital goods. In Nepal there are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal rules outlined above apply.

Refunds. A registered person may file an application to the tax authorities for a refund of the excess tax credit after adjusting for any outstanding amount for a continuous period of four months. The amount determined to be refunded shall be paid by the tax authorities and if it is not refunded within 60 days for the application filed, then the interest at the rate prescribed by the Government of Nepal will be paid along with the amount.

Any registered person, whose export sales for a month are 40% or more of its total sales for that month, may file an application for a refund of the excess tax credit after adjusting for any outstanding amount. The amount determined to be refunded shall be paid by the tax authorities and if it is not refunded within 30 days for the application filed, then the interest at the rate prescribed by the Government of Nepal will be paid along with the amount.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Nepal, is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Nepal.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Nepal.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Nepal is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Every registered person is required to issue a full VAT invoice to the recipient of its supplies, for both goods and services. However, there are special rules for retailers (see the Simplified VAT invoices subsection below).

No input tax credit shall be admissible against a tax invoice if the information specified is not included in such invoice.

Credit notes. A "credit note" means a supplementary invoice based on which the registered person can make a decreasing adjustment of one or more invoices issued earlier related to the amendment. A "debit note" means a supplementary invoice based on which the registered person can make increasing adjustment of one or more invoices issued earlier that is related to the amendment.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Nepal, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Nepal. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Electronic invoicing is mandatory for the following taxable persons:
- Taxable persons with an annual turnover greater than NPR100 million for all types of supplies
- Taxable persons engaged in the supply of internet services, furnishings, hotels and restaurants with an annual turn-over greater than NPR50 million

The above rules have been in effect from 17 July 2022.

For other taxable persons, it may only issue electronic invoices where it has obtained prior approval from the tax authorities. However, nonresident digital service providers and airlines are not required to obtain approval from the tax authorities to issue invoices electronically.

The tax authorities may by publishing a notice order specified taxable persons (as specified in the notice) to compulsorily issue invoices through an electronic medium and affiliate, such as the Central Billing Monitoring System (CBMS) of the tax authorities.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoices are allowed in Nepal for retail supplies. If any taxable person carries out retail sales of any goods or services, it can file an application to the tax authorities, and the tax authorities may then grant permission that the taxable person while conducting retail sales of any goods or services can instead of issuing full VAT invoices issue abbreviated tax invoices.

The main requirements of abbreviated tax invoices include the following:
- Where several goods of small value have been sold, the abbreviated tax invoice issued shall mention the name of each item of goods separately

- A registered person who issues an abbreviated tax invoice to the recipient must maintain the following records:
  - Prepare and maintain a duplicate copy of the original invoice
  - Where a transaction has been carried out by maintaining a duplicate of the till roll, the total thereof must be calculated and maintained every day
  - Maintain records of the value inclusive of tax of each transaction

If the above records are not maintained, tax authorities may cancel the permission granted to issue an abbreviated tax invoice.

If a retail transaction with a value exceeding NPR10,000 has been carried out, a taxable person cannot issue an abbreviated tax invoice, but a full VAT invoice must be issued instead. In addition, if a recipient requests a full VAT invoice for a retail supply, the taxable person must meet this request.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Nepal.

Proof of exports. A supply of goods from inside to outside the geographical limits of Nepal is considered to be an export of goods. For exports of goods, the following may serve as proof of export:

- Copy of bill of lading or airway bill or consignment note/truck receipt
- Copy of export general manifest
- Copy of export certificate
- Copy of certificate of receipt of goods, of payment or letter of credit
- Copy of proceeds realization certificate

Export of goods outside Nepal is zero-rated. To substantiate the same, a taxable person must analyze whether its supply can be classified as an export. There is no standard prescribed document as proof of export. However, the documents listed above are generally accepted as proof.

Foreign currency invoices. All amounts on a full VAT invoice (i.e., the price, value and taxes) must be reported in the domestic currency, which is the Nepalese rupee (NPR). Values in a foreign currency may also be reported on a full VAT invoice, as incorporation of any additional information on a tax invoice is permissible. If a foreign currency is used, the converted Nepalese amount must also be reported on the invoice, using the rate of exchange prescribed by the Nepal Rastra Bank on the day of the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Nepal. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Nepal, examples of what records that must be held for VAT purposes include the following:

- VAT account
- Records relating to business, accounts, cash receipts and payments
- Tax invoices and abbreviated tax invoices issued by the taxable person
- Tax invoices and abbreviated tax invoices received by the taxable person
- All documents relating to imports and exports by the taxable person
- All debit and credit notes substantiating the increase and decrease in the values of goods purchased and sold by the taxable person and other documents pertaining thereto
- Books of purchases and sales

In Nepal, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, such documents need to be also stored locally on a server or physically, which should be readily accessible by the tax authorities if required.

Record retention period. Every taxable person must maintain and keep records for a period of six years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Nepal. A taxable person may, with the approval of the tax authorities, maintain the required records by using computers or another similar mechanical system or the method prescribed by the tax authorities.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Every taxable person must file a VAT return for each tax period, by the 25th day of the following month. Where annual taxable turnover is greater than NPR10 million in a financial year (as per the Nepali calendar), the filing obligation is monthly. Where annual taxable turnover is equal to or less than NPR10 million, the filing obligation is four-monthly (i.e., the returns are filed every four months). The tax period in Nepal is the calendar month. Along with the VAT return, annexures such as sales and purchase register must also be filed.

All filing must be made online via the portal of the IRD. However, for taxable persons registered with districts that have no IRD office or Taxpayer Service Office, manual (paper) filing is allowed. A taxable person registered with a district that has no Inland Revenue Office or Taxpayer Service Office may submit the amount of tax and tax return to the Funds and Accounts Controller Office of the relevant district by the 15th day of the month by which it is required to submit its tax return.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT due must be made by the filing deadline (i.e., by the 25th day of the following month). Payments can be made online or offline, via specific methods as prescribed by each taxable person's registered tax authorities office. Such methods include a check guaranteed by a bank. The tax shall be deemed paid on the date of the payment in the case of a payment made through electronic means, and receipt by the office if the payment is made by check. If VAT is due to be paid, the VAT return cannot be filed until the payment is completed.

The payment must be made under codes specified by the IRD based on its nature (i.e., reverse VAT or normal VAT, etc.). The payments must be addressed to IRD, Nepal. Payments are accepted through checks, as well as through IPS Connect (the e-transaction portal of Nepal). If there is a shortfall in the payment made compared to the actual tax liability, the balance should be paid before filing the return.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Nepal for all taxable persons. Electronic filing is made online at (https://taxpayerportal.ird.gov.np/taxpayer/app.html). However, for taxable persons registered with districts that have no IRD office or Taxpayer Service Office, manual (paper) filing is allowed.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Nepal.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Nepal.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Nepal.

Supplementary filings. Excise returns. Excise duty is levied on the production of goods and services. The liability is on the producer producing the excisable goods and services. Further, excise duty is also levied on imports of goods. The producer or the importer is liable to file the excise returns. A person who has liability to assess and recover the excise duty must file the returns for excisable transactions for each month, within 25 days from the end of the relevant month. Details of excisable sales, exports, excisable purchases, imports and exempt purchases must be provided in the returns. The excise duty payable, refundable or carried forward is determined basis the above details.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Returns once submitted cannot be amended. Any omission or incorrect particulars should be disclosed or rectified in the subsequent period's return. No separate explanatory letter is required to be provided and there is no specified deadline by when the corrections must be made.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Nepal.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for not applying for registration within the prescribed time limit is NPR20,000 every time the taxable person does not comply with the provisions of law. Additional penalties and interest will also apply if there is any evasion of VAT on sales before registration.

There is no specific penalty in Nepal for the late registration of VAT. However, interest and fees may be leviable since late registration would lead to late payment of taxes. A fine of 50% of VAT due is charged if a person required to be registered engages in any transaction(s) without registration for VAT.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For the late payment of VAT due, a penalty at the rate of 10% per annum shall be imposed on the amount of tax due. Further, if any amount due to be paid is not paid within the time period, interest shall be charged at 15% per annum on the outstanding amount from the date of the expiry of the time period.

For the late filing of VAT returns due, a penalty at the rate of NPR1,000 per tax period shall be imposed or 0.05% of tax payable per day, whichever is higher.

Penalties for errors. Failure to display the VAT registration certificate in a conspicuous manner at the taxable person's principal place of business and additional places of business; or failure to use the VAT registration number for all transactions relating to VAT, excise and customs duty; and to other prescribed transactions attracts a penalty of NPR1,000 for each breach.

Failure to place the tax board at designated places attracts a penalty of NPR2,000 for each breach.

Failure to issue an invoice attracts a penalty of NPR10,000 for each breach, and NPR1,000 each time for not taking the invoice. "Not taking the invoice" applies to the procurer of goods/service who was required to obtain a VAT invoice for the transaction but failed to do so. For instance, purchasing services worth NPR2.5million. As the procurer is already aware that a person providing services greater than NPR2 million during the year is required to register for VAT, the procurer shall be held guilty for not obtaining a VAT invoice from the supplier.

Failure to maintain updated accounts of transactions attracts a penalty of NPR10,000.

Where a taxable person is found to have used a software for the issuance of electronic invoices that can delete or correct data, a penalty of NPR500,000 may be imposed.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, a general penalty of NPR10,000 may be imposed for each default. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. If a taxable person commits any of the following offenses, the tax authorities may impose on such a person the sentence of a fine of 100% of the claimed amount of tax or of imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or both:
- Preparing a false account, invoice or other document
- Evading tax by committing a fraud

- If an unregistered person acts as if it were a registered person
- Selling on under-invoicing

An accomplice who, intentionally or recklessly, aids or abets or entices or advises any taxable person committing any offense outlined above shall be liable to a fine of 50% of the tax paid less by such person.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Nepal. There are provisions for imprisonment in the following cases:

- In case of fraud as mentioned in the above subsection
- In case a seller issues an invoice without transferring goods, imprisonment of not more than six months

No other penalties are leviable on the directors apart from the above.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Nepal is four years. The tax authorities can go back four years from the date of the submission of the tax return to assess the taxable persons for any errors and impose penalties. There is no time limit for taxable persons to voluntarily correct errors in previous VAT returns.

Netherlands

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Amsterdam — GMT +1

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 7925
1008 AC Amsterdam
The Netherlands

Street address:
Antonio Vivaldistraat 150
1083 HP Amsterdam
The Netherlands

Indirect tax contacts

Folkert Gaarlandt	+31 (88) 407-0559 folkert.gaarlandt@nl.ey.com
Walter de Wit	+31 (88) 407-1390 walter.de.wit@nl.ey.com
Bas Breimer	+31 (88) 407-1005 bas.breimer@nl.ey.com
Gijsbert Bulk	+31 (88) 407-1175 gijsbert.bulk@nl.ey.com
Annemarie Sanders	+31 (88) 407-1179 annemarie.sanders@nl.ey.com
Michel Zeegers	+31 (88) 407-2152 michel.zeegers@nl.ey.com

Eindhoven — GMT +1

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 455
5600 AL Eindhoven
The Netherlands

Street address:
Prof. Dr. Dorgelolaan 12
5613 AM Eindhoven
The Netherlands

Indirect tax contact

Timo Bootsman	+31 (88) 407-4876 timo.bootsman@nl.ey.com

Rotterdam — GMT +1

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 2295
3000 CG Rotterdam
The Netherlands

Street address:
Boompjes 258
3011 XZ Rotterdam
The Netherlands

Indirect tax contacts

Remco van der Zwan	+31 (88) 407-8370 remco.van.der.zwan@nl.ey.com
Daniël Kroesen	+31 (88) 407-8361 daniel.kroesen@nl.ey.com
Caspar Jansen	+31 (88) 407 1441 caspar.jansen@nl.ey.com
Petra Pleunis	+31 (88) 407-3797 petra.pleunis@nl.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local names	Belasting over de toegevoegde waarde (BTW)
Date introduced	1 January 1969
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.minfin.nl)
VAT rates
Standard	21%
Reduced	9%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	NL1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 B 01
VAT return periods	Monthly (if requested by the taxable person or required by the tax authorities); Quarterly (in normal circumstances)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	None
Non-established	None
Distance selling	EUR10,000
Intra-Community acquisitions	EUR10,000
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods or services made in the Netherlands for consideration by a taxable person acting as such
- The intra-Community acquisitions of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State, for consideration, by a taxable person acting as such (see the EU chapter)
- The intra-Community acquisitions of goods from another EU Member State, for consideration, by a nontaxable legal person in excess of the annual threshold (see the EU chapter)
- Reverse-charge goods and services received by a taxable person and nontaxable legal entities in the Netherlands (that is, goods and services for which the recipient is liable to pay the VAT)
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the EU chapter. For documentary requirements see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

In the Netherlands, the Quick Fixes rules are applicable as of 1 January 2020. An overview of the changes are outlined below.

- VAT identification number and European Community (EC) Sales Listing: Adopted. For the supplier of goods to other EU Member States to apply the zero VAT rate, a valid VAT identification number of the recipient of the goods must be obtained. The VAT number of the recipient must be issued by an EU Member State other than the Netherlands (the EU Member State of departure). Further to this, the supplier is required to timely submit a correct EC Sales Listing in which the valid VAT number and other required details on the transaction are accurately reported.

- Evidence required for applying zero rate: Adopted, however, in the Netherlands, the existing rules for evidence required to apply the zero VAT rate continue to apply without any changes other than those mentioned under VAT identification number and EC Sales Listing. The EU rules are considered "safe harbor" rules.
- Simplified VAT regime for call-off stock: Adopted. The existing simplified VAT regime for both call-off and consignment stock that existed in the Netherlands was abolished upon introduction of the Quick Fixes. No transitional measures have been implemented for stock transferred to the Netherlands prior to 1 January 2020. The simplified VAT regime for call-off and consignment stock shipped from countries other than EU Member States, remains in place.
- Chain transactions: Adopted, no local derogations.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective EU countries.

In the Netherlands, no general use and enjoyment rules apply to services supplied to or from the Netherlands. Specific use and enjoyment provisions apply to designated services, such as transfers and assignments of copyrights, patents, licenses, trademarks and similar rights, advertising services and the services of consultants, engineers, consultancy firms, lawyers, accountants and other similar services, as well as data processing and the provision of information, that are supplied by taxable persons that are not established in the EU, e.g., to nontaxable legal persons established in the Netherlands and that are actually used and enjoyed in the Netherlands. See the EU chapter for more details.

Transfer of a going concern. For a transaction to qualify as a transfer of going concern (TOGC) in the Netherlands, the transfer must include elements that encompass whole or part of a taxable business. The buyer or recipient is required to continue taxable activities, or at least intends to do so, although it does not have to perform the same activities with these assets as the transferor.

Transactions between related parties. In the Netherlands, there are no specific rules for the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. However, the exception to this rule is where a business puts a company car at the disposal of its staff or other related persons. In that case, VAT must be paid on the "normal value" of the supply, which as a general rule is the cost price of the lease (i.e., the installments and other considerations paid).

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services, or intra-Community acquisitions or distance sales, in the course of a business in the Netherlands, on a continuing basis (i.e., not occasionally). Taxable activities also include "carrying on a profession" or the "exploitation of tangible or intangible property in order to obtain income on a continuing basis."

No VAT registration threshold exists in the Netherlands. A taxable person that begins an activity must notify the VAT authorities of its liability to register.

A domestic taxable person may also be liable for Dutch VAT on goods or services they purchase (see the subsection on the Reverse charge below).

Special rules apply to foreign or non-established businesses. See the subsection on Non-established businesses below.

Exemption from registration. The Dutch VAT rules do not contain a provision for exemption from registration, but from 1 January 2020, businesses whose global turnover does not exceed EUR20,000 per year can apply a special scheme. Under this scheme, these small and medium enterprises (SMEs) will have to register for VAT, but they will not have to issue invoices or file VAT returns. This means that they also cannot deduct any input tax. Businesses that decide to opt out of this scheme cannot reapply for a three-year period.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in the Netherlands does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration. Taxable persons established in the Netherlands with an annual Dutch taxable turnover below EUR20,000 can voluntarily apply for the SME-simplification (see above).

Group registration. Taxable persons established in the Netherlands (including fixed establishments) may form a VAT group if the members are closely bound by "financial, economic and organizational links." The formation of a VAT group no longer requires a decree from the tax office, which is issued after a written request. However, the tax office may also issue a VAT group decree on its own accord.

The effect of VAT grouping is to treat the members as a single taxable person. As a result, transactions between members of the VAT group are disregarded for VAT purposes. Members of a Dutch VAT group may file a single VAT return, or members may elect to file individually.

All members of a VAT group in the Netherlands are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and VAT penalties.

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group. Businesses are considered to be included in a VAT group for the period during which the relevant substantive requirements are met.

Holding companies. Holding companies established in the Netherlands with no other activities than the mere holding of shares are allowed to be included in a VAT group together with their subsidiaries, if they carry out "directing and policy-making activities" on behalf of the group.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f) has been implemented in the Netherlands. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in the Netherlands VAT law).

The supply of services by independent groups of persons to their members can be exempt from VAT in the Netherlands, provided that the group is performing VAT exempt or nontaxable activities, the amount of the recharge to the members does not exceed the amount of costs incurred by the group, the services are directly necessary for the activities of the members and the exemption is not likely to cause distortion of competition. Designated services, including but not limited to the provision of staff- and IT-related services, cannot be exempted from VAT.

Fixed establishment. A fixed establishment is generally understood to be a business establishment in the Netherlands of an entity established outside of the Netherlands, characterized by a sufficient degree of permanence and a suitable structure in terms of human and technical resources to enable it to provide the services that it supplies and/or to receive and use the services supplied to it for its own needs. A fixed establishment should be capable of acting as a taxable person independent of the head office.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that is not established and that has no fixed establishment in the Netherlands. A non-established business that makes supplies of goods or services in the Netherlands must register for VAT if it is required to account for VAT on those supplies.

Tax representatives. Nonresident businesses may register for VAT without appointing a tax representative. In limited circumstances, businesses that are established outside the EU must appoint a tax representative resident in the Netherlands to register for VAT (for example, for distance sales made from another EU country). Non-established businesses, regardless of whether they are established in or outside the EU, may choose to appoint a representative. In some cases, the appointment of a resident tax representative may be advantageous (for example, for dealing with imports using the "import VAT deferment" facility; see Section E).

Non-established businesses that do not appoint a representative must register at the Tax Office for Nonresident Businesses in Heerlen, at the following address (or electronically, see the Registration procedures subsection below):

Belastingdienst/kantoor Buitenland
Postbus 4486
6401 DJ Heerlen
Netherlands

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge provision applies generally to supplies of goods and services made by non-established businesses to taxable persons and to other nontaxable legal persons established in the Netherlands, provided that Dutch VAT is due on these supplies. Under the reverse-charge provision, the taxable person or legal person that receives the supply must account for the VAT due. If the reverse charge applies, the non-established supplier may not account for VAT in the Netherlands. The reverse charge does not apply to supplies made to private persons.

Domestic reverse charge. For certain specific transactions, even if they are carried out between locally established businesses, the recipient of the transaction is liable for the Dutch VAT on the supplies. This applies, for example, to:

- The supply of used material that cannot be reused in the same state, scrap, industrial and non-industrial waste, recyclable waste, partly processed waste and certain appointed goods and services
- Supplies of mobile telephones, integrated circuit devices such as microprocessors and central processing units, if the total value of the supply exceeds EUR10,000
- Supplies of telecommunications services between telecommunications services providers

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B, Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the EU chapter.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In the Netherlands, a (general) fiscal representative is mandatory if Dutch VAT applies to distance sales and the supplier is not established in the EU.

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:
- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

In the Netherlands, businesses can register for OSS via the standard tax portal. There are two portals, one for established businesses (login via e-Recognition) and one for non-established businesses, or at least not registered with the Dutch Chamber of Commerce (login via username and password).

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the EU chapter.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT. For more details about the IOSS, see the EU chapter.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination, and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

In the Netherlands, the import VAT can be paid by the supplier if the import is done in its name and on its behalf. If the import is done in the name of the consumer, import VAT is generally paid through the postal services/courier scheme, i.e., by the postal services/courier company.

Postal services and couriers scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

In the Netherlands, the detail on the special scheme for postal services and couriers on the Dutch Customs Authorities website is still under construction and not available.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the EU chapter.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:

- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply)
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State, as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

In the Netherlands, there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the EU chapter.

Vouchers. The Dutch VAT treatment of vouchers mirrors the EU VAT rules. Regarding face-value vouchers, a distinction is made between single-purpose vouchers (SPVs) and multi-purpose vouchers. A voucher qualifies as an SPV if, at the time of issuing or transferring the voucher, the place of supply of and the VAT amount due regarding the underlying transaction are known. If this is not the case, the voucher qualifies as an MPV. Issuing and transferring SPVs is treated as performing the taxable transaction for which the voucher can be redeemed. The actual redemption is not subject to VAT. This is the other way around for MPVs: issuing and transferring them is not subject to VAT and VAT will become due upon redemption. Other specific VAT rules exist in the Netherlands for transactions involving different types of "vouchers," such as tokens, coupons and discount vouchers.

Registration procedures. The easiest way to register is to do so online with the Dutch Chamber of Commerce (http://www.kvk.nl/). It is also possible to register directly with the Dutch tax authorities. Registration for non-established businesses can be done by way of sending the completed VAT registration form by post to the tax authorities. The registration form should at least be accompanied by a copy of the deed of incorporation and, depending on individual circumstances, a power of attorney to authorize Dutch contacts. This can be helpful as not all correspondence will be translated in English or German. Registration usually takes two to six weeks.

Deregistration. If a taxable person is no longer considered to be a taxable person for VAT purposes, they can deregister by sending a letter to the Dutch tax authorities stating that its VAT registration must be ended.

Changes to VAT registration details. Changes in the company address are generally automatically processed via the information available to the Dutch Chamber of Commerce. If the company is not registered with the Dutch Chamber of Commerce, the change in address should be notified to the tax authorities directly. Most changes, including the company name, address and bank account details, can and should be notified using the online portal. In case the VAT status of a company is changing from, e.g., established to non-established, the domestic VAT registration should be converted into a VAT registration at the Heerlen office.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 21%
- Reduced rate: 9%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Some supplies are classified as "exempt-with-credit," which means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover related input tax, e.g., certain financial services provided to a customer established outside the EU.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods
- Intra-Community supplies of goods
- Supplies to ships and aircraft used for international transportation
- Supplies of solar panels for installation on or near residential properties

Examples of goods and services taxable at 9%

- Foodstuffs (as goods and as services)
- Books (hard copy as well as electronic publications)
- Paintings and other "cultural goods"
- Entrance to museums, concerts and similar events
- Passenger transport
- Hotel accommodation

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Supply of immovable property
- Medical services
- Financial services
- Insurance services
- Betting and gaming
- Educational services

Option to tax for exempt supplies. For the supply and letting of immovable property, the supplier and customer can opt for taxation. Several conditions must be met. The most important condition is that the customer use the property for purposes that allow them to deduct at least 90% (in some specific cases at least 70%) of the VAT that is due on the supply or lease of the immovable property.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic EU VAT rule for determining the time of supply for goods is when the goods are supplied. The basic rule for determining the time of supply for services is when the service is rendered or completed.

In the Netherlands, an invoice must be issued ultimately on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply takes place if supplies are made to businesses and in other specific cases. The actual tax point is then the date on which the invoice is issued. However, if no invoice is issued or if the invoice is issued late, tax becomes due, at the latest, on the day on which the invoice should have been issued. If the purchaser is not a taxable person, the tax becomes due on the date of the supply.

If the consideration is paid in full, or in part, before the invoice is issued, the actual tax is due on the date on which payment is received (for the amount received).

However, some taxable persons are permitted to account for VAT on a cash basis (cash accounting). If cash accounting is used, the tax point is the date on which the payment is received.

Deposits and prepayments. If the customer pays the consideration in installments or makes a prepayment, the supplier must issue an invoice for each installment before the date it falls due or when it receives the prepayment. The tax point is the date of the invoice. If no invoice must be issued or is issued too late, the VAT becomes due at the time of receiving the prepayment.

Continuous supplies of services. For continuous supplies of services, the main rule (time of invoice) is applicable. However, there is at least one tax point per year.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in the Netherlands for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For services that are subject to the reverse-charge mechanism, the tax point is the time at which the services are rendered.

Leased assets. For operational leases, the section about continuous supplies of services is applicable. For financial leases, which are normally treated as the supply of a good rather than a service, the tax point is basically the time the invoice is issued (or should have been issued).

Imported goods. The general rule for determining the tax point for imported goods is the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime. However, taxable persons may delay that tax point by applying for permission to use the "import VAT deferment" facility. Under this facility, import VAT is reported in the taxable person's VAT return (and recovered in the same tax period as input tax, depending on the taxable person's VAT recovery status, e.g., partially exempt).

A non-established business must appoint a tax representative resident in the Netherlands to use the import VAT deferment facility.

Intra-Community acquisitions. The tax point for an intra-Community acquisition of goods is the date on which the invoice is issued, unless it is invoiced late (i.e., after the 15th day of the month following the month in which the acquisition occurred). In that case, the tax point is the date on which the invoice should have been issued (i.e., the 15th day of the month following the month of the acquisition).

Intra-Community supplies of goods. For intra-Community supplies of goods, the tax point basically is at the time the invoice is issued or should have been issued (i.e., at the latest on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply was made).

Distance sales. For supplies of distance sales of goods, the tax point is the time the invoice is issued or should have been issued (i.e., at the latest on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply was made).

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. Input tax is generally recovered by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT due on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT incurred on invoices for goods and services supplied in the Netherlands, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on the intra-Community acquisition of goods and reverse-charge goods and services (see the EU chapter).

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in the Netherlands is five years. Where input tax is not claimed in the respective period, it may still be reclaimed retrospectively within five calendar years.

A valid tax invoice or customs document must be kept in the accounts to support a claim for input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired by a business for private use). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure if the value of the private benefit to an employee exceeds an amount of EUR227, excluding VAT, per person per year, or for the purchase of food and beverages supplied in a restaurant, bar, hotel or similar to persons that are staying there for a short time. If the goods or services are used for private purposes, in specific situations, the business is deemed to make a supply of goods or services and output tax is due.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Private expenditure
- Business gifts (if the value exceeds EUR227 per recipient per year and the recipient cannot recover the input tax in its own right)
- Restaurant drinks and meals
- Home telephone costs

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for vans and trucks
- Car hire, subject to special rules, as well as the purchase, hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for cars put at the disposal of employees, subject to special rules
- Conferences, seminars and training courses (restaurant meals are excluded)
- Advertising
- Taxis
- Business travel costs
- Business gifts (valued at less than EUR227 a year or if the recipient of the gift could have recovered the input tax in their own right)
- Business entertainment (subject to the limit of EUR227 a year on employee expenses)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." Supplies that are exempt with credit are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

In the Netherlands, the amount of input tax that a partially exempt business may recover is calculated in the following two stages:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is 100% deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible.
- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, on general business overhead) that may be allocated to taxable supplies and recovered. This takes place via the "pro rata" calculation. The pro rata calculation is a calculation that is normally based on the percentage of the values of taxable and total supplies made in the period of a financial year. The recovery percentage is rounded up to the nearest whole number (e.g., 5.2% becomes 6%).

In specific situations other methods of apportionment may be used, based on the actual use of goods and services.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method or special methods in the Netherlands.

Capital goods. Capital goods are assets of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is deducted in the financial year in which the goods are acquired or first used (if this is a later year). The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the financial year of acquisition or first use. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted over time if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes during the adjustment period.

In the Netherlands, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets, for the number of years indicated:

- Immovable property: adjusted for a period of nine years after the year of first use
- Movable property subject to depreciation for income tax purposes: adjusted for a period of four years after the year of first use

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of first use, to a fraction of the total input tax (1/10 for immovable property and 1/5 for other movable capital goods). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared with the year in which the capital goods were acquired.

The adjustment is not made if it is insignificant (that is, less than 10% of the previously deducted amount for that specific year).

In the Netherlands, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services.

Refunds. If the amount of recoverable input tax in a period exceeds the amount of payable output tax in that period, the taxable person has an input tax credit. A taxable person may claim a refund of the credit by submitting the VAT return for the period. The refund is paid in cash.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax on pre-registration costs is deductible as long as the (future) taxable person can demonstrate that the goods or services were used in preparation of a future economic activity. In practice, this means the VAT on these costs can be deducted in the first VAT return of the company. No specific time limits apply, other than the statute of limitations of five years.

Bad debts. When the payment of a debtor is not expected to be received anymore, the VAT that was due on this payment can be reclaimed. VAT related to bad debts aging for 12 months can automatically be reclaimed in the regular VAT return. No separate refund request is required. If the bad debt for which VAT was reclaimed is (partially) paid by the debtor anytime in the future, the taxable person receiving the (partial) payment has the obligation to remit the reclaimed VAT (partially) to the authorities.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in the Netherlands.

Input tax directly related to noneconomic activities is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person performs both economic and noneconomic activities, it may not be able to recover input tax in full. This method of calculating the deductible proportion in such situation is referred to as "pre-pro rata."

In the Netherlands, the amount of input tax that a business involved in economic and noneconomic activities may recover is calculated in the following two stages:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to economic and noneconomic activities. Input tax directly allocated to economic activities is deductible according to the partial exemption rules as outlined above, while input tax directly related to noneconomic activities is in principle not deductible.
- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, costs relating to the business as a whole) that may be allocated to economic activities and hence recovered. This takes place via the "pre-pro rata" calculation. The pre-pro rata calculation is a calculation that cannot always be based on the percentage of the values of economic and noneconomic activities, as not all noneconomic activities are remunerated. The pre-pro rata calculation is a topic of many discussions with the tax authorities in the Netherlands.

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of first use, to a fraction of the total input tax (1/10 for immovable property and 1/5 for other movable capital goods). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared with the year in which the capital goods were acquired.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in the Netherlands is recoverable. The Dutch tax authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in the Netherlands. Non-established businesses may claim Dutch VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of EU Directive 2008/9/EC. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in the Netherlands during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details, see the EU chapter.

Find below specific rules for the Netherlands:

- Under EU Directive 2008/9/EG, the EU tax authorities of the country where the VAT was paid must decide upon the request for a refund within four months after the date of the refund claim. In case of a positive decision, the EU tax authorities of the country where the VAT was paid are required to repay the VAT within 10 days following the date of the decision. In the case of a late refund, the claimant is entitled to interest at the government interest rate in force at the time, in addition to the repayment.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive. For full details, see the EU chapter.

The Netherlands does not apply reciprocity requirements, meaning VAT is normally repaid to businesses from all non-EU countries (i.e., no countries are excluded from the refund mechanism).

Find below specific rules for the Netherlands:

- The formal deadline for refund claims under the EU 13th Directive is 30 June of the year following the year in which the input tax is incurred. However, a claim may be submitted within five years after the year in which the input tax is payable. In the case of late claims, no appeal is possible against negative decisions.
- Claims may be submitted in Dutch, English or German.
- The minimum claim period is three months, while the maximum period is one year. The minimum claim for a period of less than a year is EUR400. For an annual claim, the minimum amount is EUR5.
- Applications for refunds of Dutch VAT must be sent to the following address:

  Belastingdienst/kantoor Buitenland
  P.O. Box 2865
  6401 DJ Heerlen
  Netherlands

- The Dutch VAT authorities have committed to make refunds within six months after the date on which the claim is submitted for the refund.

Late payment interest. No interest (on arrears) is payable by the tax authorities in the Netherlands to non-established businesses requesting a refund of VAT. However, if a VAT refund is granted and a (negative) assessment is sent, but the actual refund is not made within six weeks thereafter, (negative) collection interest may apply.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made to other taxable persons, including export supplies and intra-Community supplies.

A VAT invoice is required to support a claim for input tax deduction or a refund under the EU Directive 2008/9/EG or EU 13th Directive refund schemes (see the EU chapter).

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply. It must be cross-referenced to the original VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in the Netherlands, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in the Netherlands. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU and 2014/55/EU (see the EU chapter). There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in the Netherlands. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

No specific requirements apply, as long as the issuer of the invoice ensures the authenticity, integrity and legibility of the invoice. It is not required to use a specific method, e.g., Electronic Data Interchange (EDI) or electronic signature, although these two meet the above requirements by definition. It is not necessary to receive an explicit agreement from the customer to be able to use e-invoicing (they may agree tacitly) and no prior approval from the tax authorities is required.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the EU chapter.

Simplified VAT invoices. Invoices are not automatically required for retail transactions, unless requested by the customer. However, the issuance of invoices for wholesalers is required.

A simplified invoice may be issued with respect to local supplies where the taxable amount of the supply is less than EUR100. Also, for credit notes, a simplified invoice may be issued. Simplified invoices should at least mention the following details:
- The date of issue
- Identification of the taxable person supplying the goods or services

- Identification of the type of goods or services supplied
- The VAT amount payable or the information needed to calculate the VAT amount
- Where the invoice issued is a credit note, a specific and unambiguous reference should be made to the initial invoice and the specific details that are being amended

Suppliers of public transportation services, petrol stations and hotel and restaurant services do not have to issue a VAT invoice. However, VAT recovery is allowed on public transportation tickets and taxi receipts and petrol station receipts (the latter only if the means of payment allows for identification of the purchaser).

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in the Netherlands. Both parties involved must agree to self-billing (there is no prescribed confirmation for this, but it is recommended to do this in writing). If the supplier on behalf of which the invoice was issued, does not want to accept the invoice issued on its behalf, it must inform the recipient (the issuer) of its objections. In that case, the invoice loses its status of VAT invoice. The supplier will have to issue an invoice itself unless parties can agree on a way of adjusting the original self-invoice. Beside the standard invoicing requirements, the following applies: each self-invoice must contain a sequential number that uniquely identifies the invoice, and in addition, the self-invoice must contain the references "Self-billing" and "Issued in the name and on behalf of the supplier."

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods or on the intra-Community supply of goods (see the EU chapter). However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports and intra-Community supplies must be supported by evidence that proves that the goods have left the Netherlands. Acceptable proof includes (a combination of) the following documentation:

- For an export, customs documentation, transport documentation, order forms and proof of payment issued by a foreign bank
- For an intra-Community supply, a copy of the invoice indicating the customer's valid VAT identification number (issued by another EU Member State), plus a range of commercial documentation (such as purchase orders, transport documentation, proof of payment and contracts) as well as a timely filing of the European Sales Listing that includes the transaction.

For the Quick Fixes, in cases where the customer is responsible for the collection/transportation of the goods, a special document is required to substantiate that the goods have left the Netherlands (a "pick up declaration"), containing, among other things, the license plate number of the vehicle collecting the goods and signatures from the supplier, the transporter and the recipient of the goods.

Foreign currency invoices. A VAT invoice can be issued in any currency, but the VAT amount must be indicated in the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR), using the daily conversion rate published by the European Central Bank (ECB).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Taxable persons don't have to issue VAT invoices for supplies to private individuals, with the exception of distance sales. Supplies of goods and services to nontaxable legal persons are generally required to be accompanied by a VAT invoice. If no VAT invoice needs to be issued, the documents ("invoices") that are issued do not have to meet any of the VAT invoicing requirements.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In the Netherlands, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records of all taxable supplies of goods and services, intra-Community acquisitions and imports, as well as all other data that are relevant for tax purposes, in the Netherlands or elsewhere in the EU. Furthermore, taxable persons are required to keep record of goods owned that are shipped to another EU Member State temporarily (e.g., for repair), as well as goods that are shipped to another EU Member State under the simplified call-off stock regime.

In the Netherlands, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. It is not required for the records to be kept in the Netherlands, but all records should be made available to the tax authorities upon request within a reasonable time frame.

Record retention period. Taxable persons must retain invoices and all other documents/records that are relevant for VAT for a period of at least for seven years. For invoices and other records/documents related to real estate, a taxable person must retain these for a period of 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in the Netherlands. Documents that are not originally in electronic form may be converted to a digital format, as long as the business can guarantee the authenticity, the integrity and the legibility of the documents. Businesses must decide for themselves how they do this. In practice, the Dutch tax authorities do not issue written approval of a system used by a business for this purpose. Also note that businesses will have to keep certain documents in their original form, such as documents that determine the amount of duties due upon importation or exportation, e.g., certificates of origin of goods.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns are submitted electronically in the Netherlands. They are submitted for monthly or quarterly periods, depending on the amount of VAT payable.

As a main rule, VAT returns must be filed quarterly. Filing the VAT return on a monthly basis can be requested by the taxable person at the tax authorities. If the VAT due is not paid in time, the tax authorities also may require the taxable person to file the VAT returns monthly. The return must be filed by the last day of the month following the end of the reporting period, together with full payment.

Non-established businesses registered for VAT in Heerlen must file their VAT returns before the last business day of the second month after the reporting period.

Periodic payments. The VAT due must be paid by the same date as the VAT return submission deadline, i.e., the last day of the month following the end of the reporting period.

Non-established businesses registered for VAT in Heerlen must pay the VAT due before the last business day of the second month after the reporting period.

The VAT amounts due must be paid in EUR and via (international) bank transfer, using a specific payment reference number provided when submitting the VAT return or can be derived via an online tool provided by the tax authorities. Cash, credit card or check payments are not accepted.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in the Netherlands, but not mandatory. When analog data is transformed into digital data, it needs to be guaranteed that the data is transferred one-on-one. The data must be preserved in such a way that they can be made readable in reasonable time. A digital administration therefore needs to be easily accessible. If a change of computer system occurs, it needs to be secured that the data from the "old" computer system is still readable. Also, the data needs to be stored appropriately. This means specifically that a backup will have to be made regularly.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in the Netherlands.

Special schemes. Small and medium enterprises. Such businesses can apply to be exempt from filing VAT returns and issuing invoices if their annual turnover is less than EUR20,000.

Supplies of art, antiques and secondhand or used goods. Such businesses that trade in these goods on a regular basis account for VAT on the margin instead of the full sales price, where they cannot deduct VAT included in their purchase price and where special invoicing rules apply.

Investment gold. Special VAT rules apply to transactions regarding investment gold.

Tour operators. A special VAT scheme applies to tour operators ("Tour Operator Margin Scheme" or "reisbureauregeling"), which resembles the margin scheme for used goods, art and antiques but also has special rules for determining the place of supply and some other specifics.

Fish. In the Netherlands, the importation of fish, shellfish, crustaceans and mollusks that are brought in by ships returning from fishing, as well as the supply of these animals to auctions are VAT exempt with credit.

Cash accounting. The Netherlands operates a cash accounting scheme, for retailers and comparable businesses. Under this system, an input tax deduction is allowed, even before the effective payment of the consideration.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in the Netherlands.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. A taxable person that trades with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of its sales or purchases of goods exceeds the applicable threshold. The threshold applies to intra-Community supplies (Dispatches) and intra-Community acquisitions (Arrivals) separately. Separate reports are required for Arrivals and Dispatches.

From 2023, there are no thresholds for filing Intrastat Arrivals or Intrastat Dispatches. If a taxable person is asked by the Dutch Statistics Office to file Intrastat returns, that taxable person will have to comply with this request. Noncompliance can result in penalties.

The Intrastat return period is monthly. The option to file the Intrastat return on an annual basis was canceled as of calendar year 2022.

The submission deadline is the 10th day following the return period. Intrastat declarations must be completed in EUR and submitted via IDEP+. Import templates are available on the website of the Dutch Central Bureau of Statistics.

EU Sales Lists. If a taxable person makes intra-Community supplies in any return period, it must submit an EU Sales List (ESL). An ESL is not required for any period in which the taxable person has not made any intra-Community supplies.

ESLs must be filed on a monthly basis if the total value of supplied goods exceeds EUR50,000. If the total value of the supplied goods does not exceed EUR50,000, the ESLs may be submitted on a quarterly basis.

Taxable persons must submit ESLs for services if all the following conditions are satisfied:
- The place of supply of business-to-business (B2B) services is located in another EU Member State
- The VAT due in that EU Member State is reverse charged to the customer
- The service is not exempt from VAT in the other EU Member State

The ESLs for services must be submitted on a monthly basis, but a business can opt to submit the ESLs on a quarterly basis.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Errors in previous returns that involve an amount of VAT less than EUR1,000 can be included in the current periodical VAT return. If the VAT amount involved exceeds EUR1,000, the error must be corrected by way of a separate supplementary VAT return. Dutch law requires a taxable person to file a supplementary VAT return as soon as it establishes that an original VAT return was filed incorrectly (i.e., VAT was either underpaid or overpaid). This supplementary VAT return must be filed electronically using a specific electronic form. If this is done correctly, this means that no penalties can be imposed, apart from interest for late payment if there is an underpayment of the VAT. However, failure to file the supplementary VAT return correctly, may result in significant penalties (see Section J. Penalties below).

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in the Netherlands.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in the Netherlands for the late registration of VAT. However, if the late registration results in the late payment of VAT or the late submission of VAT returns, penalties may be imposed.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Penalties are assessed for the late submission of a VAT return or for the late payment of VAT, in the following amounts:
- For the late submission of a VAT return, the maximum fine is EUR131.
- For the late payment of VAT, the minimum fine is EUR50, and the maximum fine is 10% of the VAT due, up to a maximum amount of EUR5,278.
- If the late payment is caused by negligence, intent or fraud, fines ranging from 25% to 100% of the VAT payable may be imposed.

For Intrastat, a penalty up to a maximum amount of EUR16,000 may be imposed for (structural) failure to comply with Intrastat filing and reporting obligations.

For ESLs, if a business does not file an ESL on time, it receives a reminder. If the return is still not filed, the VAT authorities may impose a fine. The amount of the penalty depends on the number of successive omissions. The following penalties apply:
- For the first omission, a fine of 2.5% to a maximum of EUR5,278 is imposed.
- For the second and third omissions, a fine of 5% to a maximum of EUR5,278 is imposed.
- For a fourth or subsequent omission, a fine of 25% to a maximum of EUR5,278 is imposed.

Under certain conditions, the VAT authorities may impose a maximum fine of EUR5,278 for missing ESL reports or ESLs with systematic errors or omissions.

Penalties for errors. Penalties in the following amounts are assessed for VAT errors:
- For errors in the payment of VAT, the maximum fine is 10% of the VAT due, up to a maximum amount of EUR5,278.

In addition, taxable persons must file supplementary returns if it appears that the information provided was inaccurate and/or incomplete. Noncompliance with the duty to file supplementary returns is subject to an offense penalty of up to 100% of the amount of the unpaid tax. This penalty may be imposed if the taxable person knew or should have known that the tax levied fell below the amount that was actually due.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, the taxable person can be held liable for penalties arising from the failure to notify, e.g., noncompliance due to not having access to important mail sent to a former company address. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Penalties for gross negligence, intent and fraud are assessed for where a taxable person know that errors were made in the payment of VAT and did not notify the tax authorities accordingly, a penalty may be imposed up to 100% VAT that was not reported and paid as a result of the error, i.e., 25% is the typical penalty for gross negligence, 50% for intent and 100% for fraud.

Personal liability for company officers. Directors cannot, in principle, be held personally liable for errors or omissions in VAT returns. However, should VAT due by the company remain unpaid, the director(s) can be held liable in case it can be proven that the fact that VAT remained unpaid is a result of maladministration by the director(s). Directors may enhance their protection against this liability by timely announcing the inability of the company to pay the VAT to the tax authorities.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in the Netherlands is five years. Dutch tax authorities can review, and correct VAT returns up to five calendar years. Taxable persons can (voluntarily) correct errors in previous VAT returns also up to five calendar years. However, if the correction results in a refundable amount of VAT, the correction is treated as a VAT refund request that was filed late (i.e., outside of the standard appeal period of six weeks following the VAT payment). This status has impact on further procedural rights and obligations for the taxable person.

An active information obligation exists in the Netherlands. That means that taxable persons are legally mandated to report and correct historic errors in their VAT returns (in the past five years) as and when these are detected. Corrections must be done without delay and penalties apply to taxable persons not reporting these corrections (in time).

New Zealand

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Auckland GMT +12

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 2146
Auckland 1140
New Zealand

Street address:
2 Takutai Square Britomart
Auckland 1010
New Zealand

Indirect tax contacts

Paul Smith
+64 274-899-866
paul.smith@nz.ey.com

Simon Dobson
+64 216-828-67
simon.dobson@nz.ey.com

Saket Sharma
+64 272-370-965
saket.sharma@nz.ey.com

Adelle Wright-St. Clair +64 278-093-527
adelle.wright-stclair@nz.ey.com

Jemisha Patel
+64 212-296-882
jemisha.patel@nz.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Goods and services tax (GST)
Local name	Goods and services tax (GST)
Date introduced	1 October 1986
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	Inland Revenue Department (IRD) (www.ird.govt.nz) and New Zealand Customs (www.customs.govt.nz)
GST rates
Standard	15%
Reduced	9% (effective rate based on GST valuation rules)
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
GST number format	XXX-XXX-XXX (IRD number)
GST return periods
Monthly	Annual taxable turnover exceeds NZD24 million (optional for other taxable persons)
Bimonthly	Annual taxable turnover between NZD500,000 and NZD24 million
Biannually	Annual taxable turnover below NZD500,000 or 80% or more of the person's taxable supplies for an income year occur within six months of the end of the income year
Quarterly	Non-established suppliers of remote services or (from 1 December 2019) low-value goods are required to file quarterly GST returns
Thresholds
Registration	NZD60,000
Recovery of GST by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

GST applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in New Zealand by a taxable person
- The importation of goods into New Zealand, regardless of the status of the importer
- The cross-border supply of remote services and intangibles made by a non-established business to New Zealand nontaxable customers

Remote services. From 1 October 2016, the supply of "remote services" by non-established businesses to New Zealand nontaxable customers is subject to GST at the standard rate (see Section D). "Remote services" are defined as services that, at the time of the performance of the service, there is no necessary connection between the physical location of the customer and the place where the services are performed. The definition of "remote services" includes any services supplied digitally or remotely, including electronic services and remotely provided traditional services (e.g., accounting, legal and consultancy work).

Remote services supplied to GST-registered New Zealand customers will be outside the scope of New Zealand GST unless the supplier chooses to treat the supplies as zero-rated (see Section D). Specific rules apply for determining the residence and registration status of the recipient of remote services.

Low-value goods. From 1 December 2019, offshore suppliers are required to register, collect and return GST on supplies of "distantly taxable goods" to New Zealand nontaxable customers, if the value of such supplies (and any other taxable supplies) in aggregate exceeds the GST registration threshold of NZD60,000 per annum. Distantly taxable goods (also known as "low-value goods") are defined as goods that:
- Individually have a value of NZD1,000 or less
- Are outside New Zealand at the time of supply (see Section E)
- Are supplied by a non-established business
- Are delivered to New Zealand, and the supplier makes, arranges or assists with the delivery

For low-value goods, the New Zealand Customs Service (NZCS) will not be collecting GST/duty at the border when the goods are imported. This is with the exception of fine metal, alcohol and tobacco products, which are subject to GST, excise taxes or customs duties at the border regardless of the value.

For imported goods valued more than NZD1,000 ("high-value goods"), no GST will be required to be charged by the offshore supplier. The NZCS will continue to collect duty and/or GST on the import. To minimize the compliance costs of identifying high-value goods, the offshore supplier can elect to charge GST on such goods, provided the total high-value goods are less than 25% of the total goods supplied to New Zealand customers. Once GST is charged, certain documentation is required to be provided to the NZCS, so that no GST would be required to be paid on these goods at the border.

New Zealand GST does not apply to supplies of low-value goods where the recipient identified themselves as a GST-registered business or provided their GST registration number or New Zealand Business Number. However, to minimize the compliance costs of identifying business-to-business (B2B) supplies, the offshore supplier may choose to charge GST on B2B supplies if such supplies are less than 50% of their total supplies to New Zealand customers.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for GST in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In New Zealand, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a GST-registered or GST-registrable business will be subject to GST at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated. In New Zealand, a TOGC is treated as zero-rated where the following conditions are met:

- It must be the supply of the whole or stand-alone part of a taxable activity (able to operate separately), from one GST-registered person to another
- It must be the supply of all the goods and services necessary for the continued operation of the activity
- Both the transferor and the transferee must agree that there is a supply of a going concern and record this agreement in a document
- Both the transferor and the transferee must intend that the activity is capable of being carried on as a going concern by the transferee
- The business must be a going concern at the time of supply and carried on up to the time of the transfer to the transferee

Transactions between related parties. In New Zealand, for a transaction between related parties, the value for GST purposes is calculated as follows:

- If the supply is made to a GST-registered associated person, GST is accounted for on the amount received.
- If the supply is made to a non-GST registered associated person, the consideration for the supply is the greater of the open (current) market value or the amount charged.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" is any business entity or individual that is registered or is liable to register for GST in New Zealand.

A person is liable to register if the taxable supplies made exceed the GST registration threshold of NZD60,000 per annum. The registration threshold applies in the following ways:

- Retrospectively to taxable turnover in the current month and the preceding 11 months
- Prospectively to taxable turnover in the current month and expected turnover in the following 11 months

Exemption from registration. The New Zealand GST law in does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A small business with taxable turnover of less than NZD60,000 a year may voluntarily apply to become a taxable person.

Group registration. Group registration is allowed for corporations or other taxable persons that are "under common control." For these purposes, a corporation is "controlled" if one or more persons own at least 66% of either the voting power in the corporation or the corporation's common market value interests.

Other taxable persons may form a group if any of the following control conditions is satisfied:

- One group member controls each of the others.
- One-person (outside the group) controls all the members of the group.
- Two or more persons carrying on a taxable activity as a partnership control the members of the group.

Certain investment funds may join a GST group with other companies or other investment funds that meet the eligibility criteria. A listed portfolio investment entity can also become part of a group for GST purposes.

Non-established businesses registered under the new "enhanced" registration system (i.e., non-established GST business claimant registration) for non-established entities cannot group with resident companies.

A group must appoint a representative member. Group members making supplies outside the group must issue taxable supply information if requested to do so. The representative group member must account for GST with respect to all group members' taxable activities and file the group's GST returns. Group members must adopt the same filing frequency and accounting basis for GST purposes.

All members of a GST group are jointly and severally liable for GST debts and penalties. However, on leaving a GST group, a member's joint and several liability can be waived, subject to approval from the Inland Revenue Department (IRD).

Transactions between group members are disregarded for GST purposes. This measure applies on the condition that the supply is made to a group member that would have been entitled to input tax recovery if the supplier had not been a member of the group.

If a taxable person's business is organized in branches or divisions, it may register the divisions or branches separately for GST purposes. To register separately, a branch or division must maintain its own accounting system and it must either be in a separate location or carry out different activities from the rest of the legal entity. A branch or division that is separately registered must obtain its own GST registration number and complete a separate GST return. GST is charged on supplies made between branches and divisions that are registered separately and the rest of the legal entity.

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a GST group.

Fixed establishment. In New Zealand, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for GST purposes. The permanent establishment rules that apply for income tax purposes do not apply for GST. However, as well as being resident for GST purposes on the basis that a business is resident for income tax purposes (including where a company is incorporated in New Zealand), a business will be resident for GST purposes to the extent it carries on a taxable activity in New Zealand while having a "fixed or permanent place" in New Zealand relating to that taxable activity or other activity. For GST purposes, the term "fixed or permanent place" is used instead, and no strong linkage is required between this fixed or permanent place and the New Zealand activity. It requires that the fixed or permanent place simply relates to the activity that is being carried on and does not require that the activity amount to a business, nor does it require that the activity be carried on in or through the fixed or permanent place. A "fixed or permanent place" is generally regarded as a physical presence in New Zealand, such as a branch office.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in New Zealand. A foreign or non-established business must register for GST if it makes taxable supplies in New Zealand that exceed NZD60,000 in any 12-month period. A non-established business may also register for GST voluntarily if its supplies are below the annual registration threshold.

A non-established business that does not make taxable supplies in New Zealand may register for GST, in order to recover GST incurred in New Zealand, under the non-established GST business claimant registration regime (see Section G). Prior to 30 March 2017, GST imposed by the NZCS cannot be recovered by a business registered under this regime. However, from 30 March 2017, legislation has been amended to enable the non-established suppliers registered under this regime to recover the GST by entering into an appropriate arrangement with the recipient of the goods, who is deemed to have incurred the import GST and accordingly may be entitled to recover the GST from the IRD.

Tax representatives. A non-established business is not required to appoint a New Zealand resident tax representative in order to register for GST.

Agents. When a taxable person makes a supply to a customer using an agent, the customer and taxable person (or principal) are considered to be dealing directly with each other for GST purposes.

A supplier and its agent may agree in writing to opt out of this rule so that a supply by the principal to the customer using an agent is treated as two supplies: one from the principal to the agent and the other from the agent to the customer. A purchaser and its agent may also agree in writing to allow agents and principals to opt out of the agency rules for a supply made to the principal. Opting out enables the parties to account for GST as though the supply was two supplies: between the supplier and agent, and between the agent and principal.

Reverse charge. A compulsory reverse-charge regime applies if all of the following circumstances exist:

- A supply of services is made by a non-established business to a resident.
- The supply would be taxable if made in New Zealand
- The recipient of the supply is registered (or required to be registered) for GST
- The recipient makes taxable supplies that are less than 95% of its overall supplies
- The recipient of the supply meets one of the following conditions
  - At the time of acquisition, it estimates that the percentage of intended taxable use of the services is less than 95%
  - It determines that the percentage of actual taxable use is less than 95%

The reverse charge is 15% of the consideration for the supply. An input tax credit may be claimed with respect to the reverse charge to the extent that the service was used or available for use in making taxable supplies.

Domestic reverse charge. There is no domestic reverse charge in New Zealand.

Digital economy. Non-established businesses that supply "remote services" and "low-value goods" must register and account for GST in New Zealand if the annual value of those goods and services supplied to nontaxable New Zealand consumers (i.e., business-to-consumer [B2C] supplies) exceeds NZD60,000 (approximately EUR35,7500 or USD38,750). For further details, see subsection Remote Services under Section B above.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Suppliers who only supply remote services and/or low-value goods to New Zealand customers through an "electronic marketplace" operated by a non-established business will generally not be required to register for GST in respect of the supplies made through the marketplace. Instead, the non-established operator of the marketplace is generally liable to register and return GST on behalf of its underlying suppliers, unless the supplier agrees to the GST obligation, the operator does not authorize the charge or delivery of the goods or services and various steps are taken to ensure the operator is not seen to be the supplier.

A non-established operator of a nonelectronic marketplace through which remote services are supplied to New Zealand customers can also register and return GST on behalf of its underlying suppliers if it obtains approval from the IRD to do so.

A re-deliverer of low-value goods who arranges or assists a non-GST-registered New Zealand customer in the purchase of goods outside of New Zealand could be held responsible for collecting GST on the low-value goods if neither the supplier nor an operator of a marketplace delivers or assists in delivering the goods to New Zealand.

The latest omnibus tax bill, i.e., Taxation (Annual Rates for 2022–23, Platform Economy, and Remedial Matters) Bill (No 2) was enacted on 31 March 2023, effective 1 April 2024. The changes include an extension of the GST rules for electronic marketplaces to the platform economy, where the operators of electronic marketplaces (both offshore and in New Zealand) through which supplies of "listed services" are made would be required to account for GST on the listed services where those services are supplied to customers in New Zealand. It is currently the underlying supplier's responsibility to account for the GST (if GST registered). "Listed services" include certain transportation services (ride sharing), beverage and food delivery services, taxable accommodation services (e.g., short-stay accommodation), etc. The enacted changes are due to apply from 1 April 2024.

Registration procedures. Before registering for GST, the taxable person must already have an IRD number. If not, the taxable person can apply for an IRD number and register for GST at the same time. IRD number and GST registration can be undertaken by submitting a hard copy form or by registering online. Registration online is done instantly, whereas registration by way of a hard copy form can take several weeks. The registration can be submitted either by the taxable person or by a tax agent of the taxable person. Online registration can be completed at www.ird.govt.nz.

The registration process for non-established businesses who only make supplies of remote services or low-value goods has been simplified, and the registration form can be submitted by email, by posting to the IRD or by registering online.

Generally, the following information and documentation will be required for an IRD number and GST registration:

- General business information, e.g., country of residence, registered name, address, business industry classification (BIC) code, certificate of incorporation or taxable person identification number, business start date, etc.
- Full name and address of all directors and shareholders (if less than five) and supporting documentation (i.e., passport page showing photo ID and name and proof of residential address) for at least one director
- A fully functional New Zealand bank account number and supporting documentation (not required for a non-established business)
- The business' turnover in the last 12 months or expected turnover in the next 12 months
- Choice of GST filing frequency and accounting basis

Deregistration. A taxable person that ceases to make taxable supplies must notify the IRD within 21 days after ceasing operations. If the IRD is satisfied that the taxable person's operations are not expected to recommence within 12 months, they may cancel the taxable person's GST registration. The taxable person is required to file a final return on deregistration and the GST on any remaining assets or liabilities in New Zealand at the date of deregistration needs to be accounted for.

A taxable person may deregister voluntarily if it can satisfactorily prove to the IRD that its taxable turnover in the following 12 months is expected to be less than NZD60,000.

Changes to GST registration details. Taxable persons should notify the tax authorities about changes in their GST registration details within 21 days of the change. This may be done by submitting a hard copy form or by updating the details in the IRD online portal (i.e., myIR).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to GST, including the zero-rate.

The GST rates are:
- Standard rate: 15%
- Reduced rate: 9% (effective rate based on GST valuation rules)
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of GST applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Sale of a business as a going concern
- Exported goods
- Goods not in New Zealand at the time of supply
- Certain exported services (excluding exported services that are acquired to enable or assist a change in the physical or legal status of land located in New Zealand)
- Services performed outside New Zealand
- Transport of goods to and from New Zealand (including the domestic leg of the international transportation)
- Services for ancillary transport activities, insuring or arranging insurance and arranging transport in relation to international transportation of goods
- First sales of refined precious metals for investment purposes
- Supplies of financial services to businesses that make taxable supplies in excess of 75% of total supplies where the supplier has elected to do so
- Certain transactions involving emissions units
- Exported secondhand goods if the recipient gives the supplier an undertaking in writing that the goods will not be reimported into New Zealand
- Certain supplies of which land is a component by GST-registered vendors to taxable persons
- Supplies of remote services made by non-established businesses to GST-registered New Zealand customers, where the supplier chooses to zero-rate

Some specific supplies have an effective rate of 9% through the GST valuation rules.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 9%

- Supplies of accommodation and other domestic goods and services in a rest home where nursing care and other services are provided
- Supplies of long-term accommodation in a hotel or motel

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to GST and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services (although some qualify for the zero rate)
- Sales of donated goods and/or services by nonprofit organizations
- Certain real estate transactions
- Supply of fine metals

Option to tax for exempt supplies. In some cases, suppliers of financial leases can elect to treat their interest income as taxable supplies instead of exempt supplies.

E. Time of supply

The time when GST becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." Under the general rule, a supply takes place when an invoice is issued or when payment is received by the supplier, whichever is earlier.

Taxable persons may opt to account for GST using the invoice basis (most common), the payments basis or the hybrid basis. These methods are described below:

- Under the invoice basis of accounting, a taxable person must account for GST when an invoice is issued or when payment is received, whichever is earlier. Input tax is recoverable on the basis of taxable supply information received (see Section F).
- A taxable person may use the payments basis of accounting if the total value of its taxable supplies in the preceding 12 months did not exceed NZD2 million or if its turnover is not expected to exceed this figure in the following 12 months. Under the payments basis of accounting, a taxable person must account for GST on the basis of payments received (except for a supply for which the consideration is more than NZD225,000 and a supply that is not a short-term agreement for the sale and purchase of property or services). Input tax is recoverable on the basis of invoices paid (see Section F). Non-established businesses registered under the GST business claimant registration regime must account for GST on the payments basis.
- Under the hybrid basis of accounting, a taxable person accounts for GST on sales and income when an invoice is issued or when a payment is received, whichever is earlier. Input tax is recoverable on the basis of invoices paid (see Section F). GST on expenses and purchases is accounted for when a payment is made, and output tax is returned on the basis of invoices paid (see Section F).
- Where the supplier and recipient are associated entities, the time of supply is the earliest of the issuing of an invoice, the receipt of payment by the supplier or the making available of the goods, removal of movable goods or performance of the services.

Deposits and prepayments. Where a binding contract exists, the receipt of a deposit applied to the benefit of the vendor may trigger the time of supply. This is regardless of whether at the time of the receipt the contract is conditional or unconditional. Where a deposit is paid to a person as a stakeholder, there will have been no receipt by the supplier and the time of supply will not be triggered. For nonrefundable deposits, if the facts show that the supplier is entitled to the deposit from the moment of payment, then the time of supply will have been triggered. For refundable deposits, if the facts show that the deposit is paid to a stakeholder and cannot be applied to the supplier's benefit until the happening of a specific event, then the time of supply will not be triggered until the event has occurred and the stakeholder obligations are at an end.

If a deposit is received but the supply does not take place (for example because the contract has been canceled), the vendor is still required to account for GST. However, the GST effect of entering into the contract will be reversed in the period in which the agreement is canceled.

The treatment of deposits does not depend on whether the supply is in relation to goods or services.

Continuous supplies of services. Under the following instances, each periodic payment is deemed to be a separate supply and the time of supply is deemed to take place whenever any periodic payment becomes due, is received, or any invoice relating only to that payment is issued, whichever is the earlier:

- Goods that are supplied progressively or periodically pursuant to any agreement or enactment that provides for the consideration for that supply to be paid in installments or periodically and in relation to the periodic or progressive supply of those goods

- Goods and services supplied directly in the construction, major reconstruction, manufacture or extension of a building or an engineering work and are supplied pursuant to any agreement or enactment that provides for the consideration for that supply to become due and payable in installments or periodically in relation to the progressive nature of that construction, manufacture or extension

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in New Zealand for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the normal time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The normal time of supply rules apply for the supply of reverse-charge services (i.e., the earlier of when an invoice is issued, or any payment received) with an exception where the supplier and recipient are associated persons.

Where the supplier and the recipient are associated parties, the time of supply is generally the earlier of the following:
- The end of the taxable period that includes the date that is two months after the recipient's balance date for the year in which the service was performed
- When an invoice is issued
- When any payment is received

Leased assets. Where goods are supplied under an agreement to hire (which generally includes leases where title to the assets is not expected to pass to the lessee) or where services are supplied under any agreement or enactment that provides for periodic payments, the time of supply is deemed to take place when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

Where goods and services are supplied under a hire purchase agreement (which generally includes leases where there is an option to purchase the leased assets), the time of supply is deemed to take place at the time the agreement is entered into.

Imported goods. There are no special time of supply rules in New Zealand for supplies of imported goods. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Related parties. There are specific time of supply rules for supplies between related parties. For goods, the time of supply is the date of removal of the goods (if removed) or the date the goods are made available. For services, the time of supply is at the time the services are performed. These specific rules do not apply if a tax invoice is issued or payment is made before the GST return relating to the GST period in which the supply would have been treated as being made under the specific rules is filed. For further details see the subsection Transactions between related parties above.

F. Recovery of GST by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is GST charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is GST charged on supplies made. Input tax includes GST charged on goods and services supplied in New Zealand and GST paid on imports.

Non-established businesses may recover GST costs without making taxable supplies in New Zealand under the GST business claimant registration regime (see Sections C and G).

Taxable supply information or a customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax for a supply greater than NZD200 (including GST). If a tax invoice is not issued by the supplier, the recipient of a supply can keep other records that are sufficient on their own or in combination to support the expense claims, e.g., invoices, supplier agreements, contracts, bank statements. From 1 April 2023, the threshold of NZD50 was increased to NZD200 and certain sets of information are required to be retained by both the supplier and the recipient for a supply for a supply greater than NZD200 (including GST) (see Section H. Invoicing).

To claim an input tax deduction on GST paid on imports, the following documents issued by NZCS can be used as "invoices":
- An electronic import entry once the entry has been passed
- A deferred payment statement issued to an importer
- A cash statement
- A manual invoice/statement

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in New Zealand is two years. A taxable person is effectively restricted from claiming input tax credits with respect to supplies that are greater than two years old except in certain circumstances. The exceptions under which a taxable person can claim input tax greater than two years include where the taxable person is unable to obtain taxable supply information, there is a dispute over the amount of the payment for the supply and where the failure to claim the input tax in an earlier period was a result of a clear mistake or simple oversight.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur).

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Nonbusiness expenditure
- 50% of business entertainment expenses

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, lease, hire, maintenance and fuel for cars, vans and trucks
- Conferences and seminars
- Advertising
- Accommodation
- Mobile phones
- Business gifts
- Travel expenses
- Capital raising costs

Partial exemption. A taxable person may recover GST, to the extent that the acquired goods or services are used for making taxable supplies. This input tax regime replaces the "principal purpose" test described below with an apportionment test. Under the regime, a taxable person apportions GST incurred on the acquisition of goods and services and claims an input tax deduction for goods or services that are used for making taxable supplies.

To determine the extent that goods or services are used for making taxable supplies, a taxable person must estimate how it intends to use the goods or services and choose a determination method that provides a fair and reasonable result. The taxable person then uses the estimated intended taxable use of the goods and services to determine the proportion of the input tax that corresponds to the estimated intended taxable use.

A taxable person is not required to apportion input tax if it makes both taxable and exempt supplies and has reasonable grounds to believe that the total value of its exempt supplies is no more than the lesser of NZD90,000 or 5% of the revenue from all taxable and exempt supplies for the period beginning at least 12 months from acquisition of the goods and services and ending on the person's balance date.

Taxable persons may be required to make further adjustments if the actual taxable use of an asset is different from its intended taxable use.

Approval from the IRD is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in New Zealand. Special methods are allowed in New Zealand. Taxable persons who principally make supplies of financial services are required to seek agreement from the IRD to use an alternative method of apportionment (i.e., a special method).

Taxable persons may obtain approval from the IRD to use an alternative method of apportionment and adjustment that is "fair and reasonable" if the taxable person is making supplies exceeding NZD24 million in a 12-month period, or the taxable person is associated with a specific industry.

A special rule has been introduced for situations in which land is used concurrently for a taxable purpose and a nontaxable purpose, such as when land is simultaneously advertised for sale (taxable use) and rented out as a dwelling (nontaxable use). The new rule requires a taxable person to calculate the percentage that the land is used for making taxable supplies by using the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Consideration for taxable supply}}{\text{Total consideration for supply}} \times 100$$

In the above formula, "consideration for taxable supply" is the amount received on a disposal of land in the adjustment period or the market value of the land at the time of making the adjustment. "Total consideration for supply" is the consideration for taxable supply, as described in the preceding sentence, plus the total exempt rental income payable since the acquisition of the land.

Special apportionment rules apply where certain assets (land, boats and planes) are used for both income-earning and private activities (i.e., "mixed-use assets"). If an asset is not used for at least 62 days per income year, expenditure relating to such assets is to be apportioned according to the following formula:

GST amount * (income days / (income days + private days))

In the formula, days can be substituted for a comparable unit, such as flying hours for planes or nights for accommodation. Some expenditure is fully deductible, such as costs incurred to repair damage caused when the asset is used to earn income, expenditure solely relating to the use of the asset for deriving income that derives no personal benefit (such as advertising) and expenditure incurred to meet regulatory requirements.

If goods and services were acquired principally for making taxable supplies but were also used for making exempt supplies, an output tax adjustment was required to the extent that the goods and services were used for making exempt supplies.

If goods and services were acquired principally for making exempt supplies or for nonbusiness purposes, an input tax adjustment was required to the extent that the goods and services were used for making taxable supplies. Some transitional rules relate to specific aspects of the changes are discussed above.

The latest omnibus tax bill enacted by the New Zealand government on 31 March 2023 included several amendments to the input tax apportionment rules.

Some of the key changes were:

- Providing an ability to elect to exclude assets from a GST-registered person's taxable activity at the time of purchase

- Introducing a principal purpose test for goods and services acquired for NZD10,000 or less (excluding GST) that would allow a GST-registered person to claim a full input tax deduction
- Allowing GST-registered persons to elect to treat certain assets that have mainly private or exempt use, such as dwellings, as if they only had private or exempt use
- Reducing the number of required adjustment periods
- Allowing IRD to approve a wider range of apportionment methods

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is not recoverable to the extent that the capital goods are purchased by a business for private use. Similarly input tax is not recoverable to the extent that capital goods are used to make exempt supplies (assuming the value of the exempt supplies is more than NZD90,000 or 5% of the total supplies made by the taxable person).

For land, the actual taxable use must be determined by reference to the percentage taxable use of the asset over the entire period from the purchase date to the end of the adjustment period. The resulting taxable use percentage is effectively the weighted average of the annual taxable use percentages calculated over the ownership period. Capital goods are subject to annual wash-up adjustments as stated above. The number of GST adjustments required is determined by reference to the value of the capital goods.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable, a refund may be claimed. GST refunds are generally made within 15 working days after the IRD receives a correct return unless the IRD investigates the return and determines that the taxable person has not complied with its GST obligations.

However, a refund can be withheld for up to 90 days for non-established businesses registered under the GST business claimant registration regime.

Pre-registration costs. Costs incurred prior to registration may be claimed, provided they were legally incurred by the company or person seeking to recover them, and they relate to the taxable activity of that company or person. Preincorporation expenditure cannot be claimed where the goods or services were acquired more than six months prior to the date of incorporation of the company. Input tax on pre-registration costs is claimable in the GST return period covering the income tax balance date. This includes goods or services acquired prior to the incorporation of a company, where the costs were incurred by a person who became a member, officer or employee of the company and was fully reimbursed for the costs, and where the goods and services were acquired for the purpose of a taxable activity to be carried out by the company and have only been used for that purpose.

Bad debts. The GST on bad debts may be recoverable by including the amount as a credit adjustment in the GST return, provided the debts are both bad and written off. If all or part of the bad debts is later recovered, the GST on the bad debts recovered must be returned to the IRD by including the amount as a debit adjustment in the GST return.

Noneconomic activities. A registered nonprofit body resident in New Zealand may recover input tax on expenses to the extent that the acquired goods and services are not used for making exempt supplies.

G. Recovery of GST by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for GST in New Zealand is recoverable. A non-established business that does not make taxable supplies in New Zealand may register for GST to recover GST incurred in New Zealand under the non-established GST business claimant registration regime. The following rules will govern the scheme:

- The non-established business must be registered for GST or VAT in its own country or be carrying on a taxable activity and making a sufficient level of supplies that would render them liable to be registered under the New Zealand legislations

- The GST refund resulting from the first GST return must be more than NZD500 or the non-established business is likely to be liable for GST levied by the NZCS in relation to the importation of goods (note that the NZD500 threshold does not apply here)
- The GST input tax credits only arise when the non-established business has paid for the expenditure
- The non-established business cannot form a New Zealand GST group with New Zealand resident entities unless the nonresident is registering for GST under the ordinary rules
- The non-established business must not be making supplies of services that are likely to be received by a person in New Zealand who is not registered for GST or is registered but is not receiving the services in the course of making taxable or exempt supplies
- The tax authority will not be legally obliged to refund the GST until 90 days after the GST return has been lodged

H. Invoicing

GST invoices. A New Zealand taxable person must generally provide taxable supply information for all taxable supplies that cost more than NZD50 (including GST) made to other taxable persons within 28 days after a request for the taxable supply information. Taxable supply information is generally required to support a claim for deduction of input tax for items that cost more than NZD50 (including GST).

Non-established businesses that supply only remote services are not required to issue taxable supply information to New Zealand customers. However, they can choose to issue taxable supply information where GST was incorrectly charged on a supply made to a GST-registered person and both of the following conditions are met:

- The consideration for the supply was less than NZD1,000 (by reference to the foreign currency amount converted into NZD at the time of supply)
- The customer has informed the supplier that it is GST-registered or has provided its GST/IRD registration number or New Zealand business number

Offshore suppliers of low-value goods are not required to issue taxable supply information to New Zealand customers. However, the supplier can choose to issue taxable supply information if the NZ customer is registered for GST and the supplier elects to treat their B2B supplies as being subject to GST (see Section B above). Alternatively, taxable supply information may be issued where GST is charged on a B2B supply of low-value goods by mistake. This allows the customer to submit a GST claim to the IRD for the GST they incorrectly paid to the supplier.

Offshore suppliers are required to issue receipts to the customers for the supplies of low-value goods if GST is charged on the supply. Receipts must be issued within 10 working days after a request for the receipt. The customer can then provide the receipt to the NZCS as evidence that GST was charged at the point of sale, so that the NZCS does not collect GST again when the goods are imported into New Zealand.

The above rules were in place until 31 March 2023. On 30 March 2022, the New Zealand government enacted the Taxation (Annual Rates for 2021–22, GST, and Remedial Matters) Act 2022, which contains the measures relating to GST invoicing simplifications. These rules, effective from 1 April 2023, change the threshold of NZD50 to NZD200 and modernize the GST rules for invoicing and record-keeping. There is no longer a requirement for GST-registered persons to create and maintain prescribed documents (such as tax invoices and credit notes) to support input tax recovery, with entitlement to input tax recovery instead being supported by business records showing the GST that has been borne on the supplies and holding certain sets of information. Various records such as invoices, bank statements, supplier agreements and contracts can be used on their own or in combination to support the figures in the GST return, Both the supplier and the recipient must retain the required set of information.

The words "tax invoice" have been replaced by the new term "taxable supply information." Taxable supply information refers to the minimum set of information buyers and sellers need to keep as evidence of a transaction. The taxable supply information that GST-registered persons need to provide or keep depends on the value and the type of supply.

The omnibus tax bill enacted by the New Zealand government on 31 March 2023 also includes several remedial changes to the legislation passed to introduce comprehensive changes to the existing GST invoicing rules (which came into effect from 1 April 2023). The focus of the changes is on ensuring that businesses are not burdened by additional compliance costs and obligations because of the changes, consistent with the overall aim of the GST tax invoice changes of providing more flexibility to business with respect to invoicing (aligned with modern business practices and government initiatives on e-invoicing).

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the GST charged and reclaimed on a supply if the value originally charged was incorrect. A credit note must indicate the reason why it was issued and must refer to both the GST originally charged and the corrected amount. The time limit for issuing a credit note for a supply made in an earlier period is generally four years from the end of the taxable period in which the supply was made.

With effect from 1 April 2023, the words "credit note" (and "debit note") have been replaced by the new term "supply correction information" under the new GST legislation (see the subsection GST invoices above). Supply correction information must be provided when the taxable supply information included an incorrect amount of GST, or when the supplier has included an incorrect GST amount in their GST return.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in New Zealand, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in New Zealand. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in New Zealand. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Where the originals are in hard copy form, the electronic recording of the documents is accepted provided that the soft copy, if printed, is identical in format and all other aspects to the original documents. Further, the information must be readily ascertainable and must meet the requirements of the Electronic Transactions Act 2002.

The omnibus tax bill enacted by the New Zealand government on 31 March 2023 includes several remedial changes to the legislation passed to introduce comprehensive changes to the existing GST invoicing rules (which came into effect from 1 April 2023). The focus of the changes is on ensuring that businesses are not burdened by additional compliance costs and obligations because of the changes, consistent with the overall aim of the GST tax invoice changes of providing more flexibility to business with respect to invoicing (aligned with modern business practices and government initiatives on e-invoicing).

Simplified GST invoices. Simplified taxable supply information is allowed when the supply is less than NZD1,000. Simplified taxable supply information means the name and address of the recipient and the quantity or volume of the goods and services supplied are not required to be shown on the invoice, but the invoice should include the consideration for the supply and a statement that GST is charged.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in New Zealand. Taxable supply information can be issued by a recipient of a taxable supply and is required to include the same information as taxable supply information issued by a supplier. In addition, the supplier and the recipient must agree that the supplier will not issue taxable supply information for the same supply and that the recipient will issue taxable supply information for each taxable supply by the supplier to the recipient. The supplier and the recipient must also record the reasons for entering the agreement for recipient created taxable supply information if the agreement is not part of the normal terms of business between the supplier and the recipient. With effect from 1 April 2023, approval from the IRD to issue recipient created taxable supply information is no longer required. GST-registered persons who currently issue recipient created taxable supply information are no longer required to include the words "buyer created tax invoice – IRD approved" in a prominent place; however, these can continue to be included. The document must still be provided to the supplier, with a copy to be retained by the recipient.

Proof of exports. In order to apply zero-rating to a supply of exported goods, the following documents are accepted by the NZCS as proof of export:
- Delivery evidence (e.g., bill of lading showing export by sea, or air waybill for export by air)
- Packing list or delivery note showing overseas delivery address
- Insurance documents
- Purchase order showing overseas delivery address

There is no specific wording requirement for an invoice issued relating to an exported sale.

Foreign currency invoices. Taxable supply information must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the New Zealand dollar (NZD). If taxable supply information is issued in foreign currency, the values used for GST purposes must be converted to NZD based on the exchange rate in effect at the time of supply. Exchange rates published by an approved bank (all registered banks in New Zealand are approved) or an approved bureau de change (e.g., American Express and Travelex Australasia Group, which includes Thomas Cook) are acceptable by the IRD.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no specific rules in relation to the invoices issued for supplies made by taxable persons to private consumers. No taxable supply information is required to be issued by a supplier of remote services, or if the value of the supply is less than NZD50. In other cases, the general tax invoicing requirements apply.

Records. In New Zealand, examples of what records must be held for GST purposes include books of account recording receipts, payments, income or expenditure and include vouchers, bank statements, invoices, taxable supply information, supply correction information, debit notes, receipts and such other documents as are necessary to verify the entries in any such books of account.

Records must be kept in English or te reo Maori, unless agreed otherwise with the IRD.

In New Zealand, GST books and records can be held outside the country. Generally, it is a requirement to store the records in New Zealand, unless approval is obtained from the IRD for offshore storage. Nevertheless, suppliers of remote services or low-value goods can store records in a language other than English or te reo Maori and outside of New Zealand without obtaining an approval from the IRD.

Record retention period. Records must be kept for at least seven years after the end of the taxable period to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in New Zealand. Records may be kept in a manual or electronic format. However, taxable persons should ensure the records being kept are sufficient to enable ready ascertainment by the IRD of the taxable person's liability to tax.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. GST returns are generally submitted monthly or bimonthly. Two cycles of bimonthly returns are provided to stagger submission dates. A taxable person may request a change in its GST return cycle to ease administration.

A taxable person whose taxable turnover exceeds NZD24 million in a 12-month period must submit GST returns monthly. Other taxable persons may opt to submit GST returns monthly if they wish to receive regular repayments of GST or if they find it easier to account for GST on a monthly basis.

A taxable person whose annual taxable turnover does not exceed NZD500,000 may submit GST returns on a six-monthly basis. A person may also apply for a six-monthly filing frequency even though their taxable supplies exceed the NZD500,000 threshold, if 80% or more of their taxable supplies in an income year are made within a six-month period that ends at any day within the last month of the person's income year, and the person had not had a six-monthly filing frequency under this criterion in the 24-month period before the application.

A non-established business who only makes supplies of remote services and/or low-value goods in New Zealand (and whose taxable supplies exceed the registration threshold of NZD60,000) must submit GST returns on a quarterly basis.

GST return periods generally end on the last day of the month. However, taxable persons may request different periods to align with their accounting records. GST return due dates generally fall on the 28th day of the month following the end of the return period, except for the periods ending 30 November and 31 March. The due dates for these periods are 15 January and 7 May, respectively. The GST return form indicates the due date for each return.

Periodic payments. GST payment due dates fall on the same day as the periodic GST return filing due dates as detailed above.

GST payments can be made in several ways, including the use of internet banking, debit or credit card, setting up direct debit payments in myIR or money transfer from overseas. Making payments electronically is the recommended approach by the IRD, as it is the most accurate and reliable method. The following references must be included when making an electronic payment to the IRD:

- The taxable person's IRD number
- An account type (e.g., GST)
- The tax period the payment relates to (ddmmyyyy)

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in New Zealand, but not mandatory. Retention of electronic records is subject to special requirements.

Payments on account. Payments on account are generally not required in New Zealand, except for certain taxable persons. For taxable persons that are provisional taxable persons, provisional tax installment dates should coincide with the GST return due dates. A provisional taxable person is a person that pays its anticipated yearly income tax liability in installments during the income year.

Special schemes. Non-established suppliers of remote services or low-value goods. Non-established suppliers of remote services or low-value goods are subject to special filing frequencies with quarterly filing as detailed above.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in New Zealand.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in New Zealand.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If an error has been made in a GST return that has already been filed, the taxable person should notify the IRD about the error before being audited to prevent or reduce the penalties being imposed. The taxable person will be liable to pay for the tax shortfall, the use of money interest on the tax shortfall (if over NZD100) and the shortfall penalty (see Section J. Penalties). An error can be corrected in either the next return or the same return under specific circumstances.

The error can be corrected in the next return if the mistake relates to miscalculation of annual gross income or the GST collected, resulting in the final tax amount being incorrect, and the tax difference caused by the error is NZD1,000 or less. An error made in a GST return, which caused the tax difference to be equal to or less than NZD10,000 or 2% of the annual output tax GST collected, can also be corrected in the next return, provided that the purpose is not to delay the tax payment.

The taxable person can also correct an error in a later return if the error relates to an unclaimed input tax that is within two years of when the claim was left out, or if the error relates to an inability of the taxable person to obtain a taxable supply information, a dispute over the proper payment amount for the taxable supply to which the deduction relates, a mistaken understanding that the supply to which the input tax relates was not a taxable supply or a clear mistake or simple oversight by the taxable person.

For errors that involve an adjustment to output tax or an overstatement of input tax, a voluntary disclosure should be made to the IRD and certain information relating to the error should be provided to correct the error in the same return. This can be done via calling the IRD or sending a letter by mail or email.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in New Zealand.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in New Zealand for the late registration of GST.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty is assessed for the late payment of GST. A penalty of 1% of the tax due is assessed on the day after the due date. If the tax remains outstanding, the following additional penalties apply:
- 4% of the tax that is due seven days after the due date
- 1% of the tax due each month that the tax remains unpaid

A late filing penalty may be imposed of NZD250 if the taxable person accounts for GST payable on an invoice basis or NZD50 if the taxable person is using the payments basis.

A penalty of NZD250 will apply for taxable persons that have chosen to file their GST return electronically but fail to do so.

Penalties for errors. Penalties are also assessed for underpayments of GST. This "shortfall penalty" is assessed as a fixed percentage of the tax due, depending on the nature of the error, in the following amounts:
- Lack of reasonable care or unacceptable tax position: 20% of the tax due
- Gross carelessness: 40% of the tax due
- Adopting an abusive tax position: 100% of the tax due
- Tax evasion: 150% of the tax due

Penalties may be reduced by the IRD in certain circumstances by up to 75%.

A reduction of the shortfall penalty to zero may apply if the penalty is imposed for not taking reasonable care and if the taxable person makes a voluntary disclosure before notification of an IRD audit or investigation.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's GST registration details may result in liability penalties being imposed (not exceeding NZD4,000 for a first offense), although such penalties are not generally imposed in practice. For further details, see the subsection Changes to GST registration details above.

In addition, use of money interest is calculated for underpayments and overpayments of GST for amounts equal to or over NZD100. At the time of preparing this chapter, the rate of interest is 10.91% for underpayments and 4.67% for overpayments.

Penalties for fraud. A shortfall penalty can be imposed for "tax evasion" or "adopting an abusive tax position." See the detail above for more information. Depending on the circumstances, a taxable person may also be convicted for criminal offenses in addition to the tax shortfall penalties.

Personal liability for company officers. There are no specific rules in relation to the personal liability for company officers in respect of GST errors.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in New Zealand is four years. The statute of limitations (or "time bar") for the IRD to amend a GST assessment is four years. Generally, the IRD may not reassess historical GST debts and amend the assessment to increase the amount assessed if four years have passed from the end of the GST return period in which the return was provided. However, the IRD may, at any time, amend an assessment to increase the amount of the assessment if the IRD considers that the person assessed has knowingly or fraudulently failed to disclose all the material facts that are necessary for determining the amount of GST payable for a GST return period.

Nicaragua

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Managua GMT -6

EY
Centro Corporativo Invercasa
Tower 3, 5th Floor
Managua
Nicaragua

Indirect tax contacts

Jose A Olivas	+505 2253 8433 jose.olivas@ni.ey.com
Rafael Sayagués (resident in San José, Costa Rica)	+506 2208 9880 +1 (212) 773 4761 rafael.sayagues@cr.ey.com
Guillermo Leandro (resident in San José, Costa Rica)	+506 2208 9887 guillermo.leandro@cr.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto al valor agregado (IVA)
Date introduced	21 December 1984 (revised 18 February 2019)
Trading bloc membership	Central American Integration System
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (Ministerio de Hacienda y Crédito Público) via the tax administration (http://www.hacienda.gob.ni; http://www.dgi.gob.ni)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Taxable person identification number (RUC) – 14 digits
VAT return periods	Monthly (general), biweekly (large taxable persons)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Transfer and supply of goods
- Supply of services within Nicaragua
- Use or enjoyment of goods
- Importation of goods
- Exports of goods and services

Taxable events include the sale, importation and nationalization of goods, the export of goods and services, the rendering of services and the use and enjoyment of goods.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Nicaragua, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Nicaragua, there are no specific rules or conditions for a TOGC to be treated as outside the scope of VAT.

Transactions between related parties. In Nicaragua, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

No separate VAT registry exists in Nicaragua. All businesses must register as taxable persons and obtain a taxable person identification number (Registro Único del Contribuyente [RUC]). The RUC is also used for VAT purposes. A taxable person for VAT purposes is any entity or individual that engages in taxable operations in Nicaragua.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Nicaragua does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Nicaragua does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration.

In accordance with VAT law in Nicaragua, there is no special VAT registration. This is only done through the general regimen registration that is open for all tax obligations for taxable persons. However, there is a special regimen for small businesses called cuotas fijas (i.e., fixed fees) that combines income tax and VAT obligations.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Nicaragua.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Nicaragua, where it meets the conditions of the permanent establishment (PE) rules, as defined in Nicaragua's domestic legislation as follows:

- The place in which a non-established taxable person carries out all or part of its business activity, including without limitation:
  - A central place of management
  - A branch
  - An office or a representative
  - A factory
  - A workshop
  - A mine, an oil or gas well, a quarry or any other place of extraction of natural resources
- It also includes:
  - A building site or construction or installation project or the related supervision activities, but only if the duration of such building site, projects or supervision activities lasts more than six months
  - Business consulting services lasting more than six months within a calendar year
- Notwithstanding the above, where a person, other than an agent of an independent status, acts on behalf of a non-established taxable person, then this enterprise shall be deemed to have a PE in Nicaragua in respect of any activities which that person undertakes for the enterprise, if such person:

  – Has, and habitually exercises, in Nicaragua an authority to conclude contracts and perform other activities in the name of the enterprise.
  – Does not have such authority, but habitually maintains in Nicaragua a stock of goods or merchandise from which it regularly delivers goods or merchandise in the name of the enterprise.
- Taxable persons that operate as branches or agents of foreign companies engaged in maritime or air transportation of passengers, maritime or air cargo, or international ground transportation of passengers, are excluded from the PE definition. These taxable persons will be considered as "non-established taxable persons."

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Nicaragua. If the non-established business is not registered in the Nicaragua tax system, it cannot register for VAT.

Generally speaking, if a non-established business habitually and commonly has economic activities in Nicaragua, it should register as a taxable entity in the Nicaragua tax system. To register for VAT, a foreign business must provide the VAT authorities with a copy of its articles of incorporation, legalized by a Nicaraguan consulate, together with an official translation in Spanish. In Nicaragua, branches should register the business before the Mercantile Registry as a first step, and then the process will continue in the tax administration.

Tax representatives. It is not mandatory to appoint a tax representative in Nicaragua; however, it is permitted. A tax representative can be appointed through a tax power of attorney. A permanent power of attorney can be registered with the tax administration.

Reverse charge. Nicaraguan tax legislation does not permit use of the reverse charge. There is no registration threshold in Nicaragua and, as such, non-established businesses that make supplies to domestic business customers in Nicaragua must register for VAT.

For imported services, there is no VAT due on such supplies. This means that if Nicaraguan businesses buy services from a non-established business, the recipient doesn't self-account for VAT, and the supplier doesn't have to register and charge VAT either. As such, no VAT is accounted on the supply.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Nicaragua.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules regarding the taxation of the digital economy for VAT purposes. However, general taxable events should always be observed regardless of whether or not they are transacted by digital means. A VAT liability will arise when the digital transaction involves one of the following:
- Transfer and supply of goods
- Supply of services within Nicaragua
- Use or enjoyment of goods
- Importation of goods
- Exports of goods and services

Furthermore, there is no different treatment for business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies. This means, for example, if a nonresident provides electronically supplied services within Nicaragua to a resident customer, it is subject to VAT. However, note that there is no reverse-charge mechanism in Nicaragua. It is not possible for a nonresident provider to register specifically for VAT in Nicaragua, but it must register in general with the Nicaraguan tax system to account for the VAT due.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Nicaragua.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Services provided from outside Nicaragua (i.e., abroad) through online marketplaces and platforms to be consumed/used in Nicaragua are not subject to VAT.

Services provided from a local Nicaragua supplier (taxable person) through online marketplaces and platforms to be consumed/used in Nicaragua are subject to VAT. VAT applied on services rendered by a non-established business to a local taxable person should be incorporated as part of the acquisition cost.

Sales of goods from outside Nicaragua (i.e., abroad) through online marketplaces and platforms to be consumed/used in Nicaragua are not subject to VAT. However, the importations of such goods must comply with the importations VAT rules.

Sales of goods from a local Nicaragua supplier (taxable person) through online marketplaces and platforms to be consumed/used in Nicaragua are subject to VAT.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons must register before the tax administration at the time they start selling goods or rendering services subject to VAT in Nicaragua.

For this purpose, taxable persons must file a completed VAT registration form with the following information:
- Incorporation documents of the company
- The registration of the company in the public register and copies of the identification number of the shareholders
- Information of the taxable persons domicile and a support document of the address (e.g., a copy leasing contract)
- Information of the legal representative of the taxable person in the country (include information of general power of attorney granted, ID number, domicile and telephone information); in practice, the Nicaragua tax administration does not allow the registration of a legal representative that does not have a Nicaraguan ID number or Nicaraguan residence ID number
- Information of the principal economic activity that the company will develop in the country
- Register of beneficial ownership

The VAT registration takes approximately one week and must be completed on paper by the legal representative or person who holds a special power of attorney. The information should be delivered to the tax administration office that is located nearest to the domicile of the taxable person.

Deregistration. To deregister as VAT taxable person, the following documents must be filed before the tax administration:
- Letter requesting VAT deregistration
- Accounting books
- Last invoice and the other invoices that taxable person will not use
- VAT declaration of final inventory
- Annual declaration of income tax
- Tax identification (i.e., RUC)

During a VAT deregistration, the tax administration may also initiate a tax audit.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person has the liability to maintain its VAT registration information in the Nicaragua tax administration system. Changes that must be notified include address, phone number, board of directors, legal representation and shareholders. Such updates should be carried out at least every two years.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
• Standard rate: 15%
• Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for as the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

• Exports

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

• Live animals and fresh fish
• Domestically produced fruits and vegetables that are unprocessed
• Basic foodstuffs, such as corn tortillas, rice, beans, certain dairy products, eggs and meat
• Used goods (unless imported)
• Crude oil
• Real estate transactions
• Life and health insurance
• Domestic transport
• Education
• Certain financial services
• Construction of social housing (as defined by law) and leasing of unfurnished accommodation
• Equipment used for agriculture
• Irrigation for agriculture and forestry
• Electricity used for irrigation
• Importation of goods, machinery and equipment for use by the media
• Books, newspapers and magazines
• Medicines and vaccines
• Local production of sanitary protection products and toilet paper
• Matches, kerosene, butane and electricity
• Veterinary products
• Insecticides, fungicides, fertilizers and seeds

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Nicaragua.

E. Time of supply

The time when the taxable event is considered to have taken place and when VAT becomes due is called the "tax point." Under the tax law (Ley de Concertación Tributaria), for VAT purposes, the taxable event varies depending on the type of supplies. The applicable rules are summarized below.

The time of supply for the sale of goods is when the invoice or corresponding legal document is issued, when the goods are delivered to the new owner or when the new owner has the ability to dispose of the goods as the owner, or when the price is fully or partially paid.

The time of supply for the rendering of services is when the purchaser becomes legally liable for payment.

Deposits and prepayments. In Nicaragua, the payment, in part or in full, of the price of goods and services is considered a tax point. Therefore, prepayments and deposits would trigger the payment of VAT when they are considered an advanced payment of the price.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Nicaragua for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above), and the taxable event is the issuance of the invoice.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Nicaragua for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above), and VAT would be due when the goods are sold.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Nicaragua for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. In Nicaragua, the leasing of assets is subject to VAT as a service (except the interest), even if it doesn't result in a transfer in ownership of the underlying assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Nicaragua for the supply of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules for services apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for the importation of goods is when the goods are made available to the importer at the fiscal warehouse.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT paid on the purchase of goods and services used to generate other goods and services. This is generally credited against output tax, which is VAT charged or collected on the sale of goods or the rendering of services. To deduct or credit input tax, all the following conditions must be satisfied:

- The goods or services must be part of the economic process of transferring goods or providing services. This measure also applies to zero-rated operations.
- The payment must meet the deductibility requirements for income tax purposes even if the taxable person is not subject to income tax.
- The payment must be adequately documented.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Nicaragua is four years.

Nondeductible input tax. VAT is not creditable in the following cases:

- When VAT is paid on purchases related to the exempt transfer of goods
- Services that are exempt from VAT
- Self-consumption (when it is a nondeductible expense for income tax)
- Expenses not related with the main economic activity of the taxable person

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Any item acquired that is not directly linked to the taxable person's economic activity is not creditable for VAT purposes

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- VAT paid to produce goods or services subject to VAT

Partial exemption. Generally, taxable persons may recover VAT paid for the purchase of goods and services used to generate other goods and services subject to VAT (i.e., taxable supplies). This is known in Nicaragua as VAT liquidation, which is determined by subtracting VAT credits paid on transactions needed to generate taxable income for VAT purposes (i.e., input tax) from VAT collected on the sales of goods or the rendering of services (i.e., output tax). VAT paid on transactions to generate nontaxable income for VAT purposes (i.e., exempt goods [bienes exentos]) are not allowed as VAT credits.

VAT incurred by a taxable person related to the making of exempt goods or the provision of exempt services does not generate VAT credit (i.e., it should be registered as an expense). Taxable persons must identify the VAT incurred in exempt and taxable supplies to recover the tax related to taxable goods or services. If such distinction is not possible, taxable persons may apply a percentage based on taxable turnover vs. total turnover.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Nicaragua. Special methods are not allowed in Nicaragua.

Capital goods. Capital goods are not defined in the local legislation; however, they are generally understood as the goods necessary for the generation of income. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal input tax recovery rules, as outlined above, apply. As such, when a taxable person purchases a capital good that is used exclusively for taxable activities, the input tax incurred gives rise to the right of tax credit in the same month of acquisition.

When a taxable person purchases a capital good that is used for both taxable and exempt activities, the input tax incurred must be apportioned based on the percentage of taxable activities over the total activities made by the taxable person, as per the Partial exemption subsection above.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a month exceeds the amount of output tax payable, the taxable person may carry forward VAT credits to offset output tax in subsequent VAT periods. Exporters and taxable persons that provide exempted activities may use their excess credits to offset other taxes (such as income tax) and then may request a refund.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Nicaragua is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Nicaragua.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Nicaragua.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Nicaragua is not recoverable. However, diplomatic consular delegations and international organizations and agencies are exempt from VAT. Consequently, these organizations are also entitled to a reimbursement for VAT paid in Nicaragua if reciprocal treatment is granted to delegates from Nicaragua.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable activities. An invoice is generally necessary to support a claim for an input tax credit.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply if the value is reduced for any reason (for example, a discount or bonus is granted, the price is changed, or the goods are returned). A credit note must generally include the same information as a tax invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is not allowed in Nicaragua,.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is not allowed in Nicaragua.

However, taxpayers can submit an authorization to the tax authorities to issue invoices through approved software. Taxpayers can request an authorization for invoicing through such approved software, and it applies for all transactions related with their economic activity (e.g., B2B, B2C and B2G supplies). General invoicing requirements for this software are outlined by the tax administration.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Nicaragua. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

However, there are special tickets issued by retailers (i.e., supermarkets) to final consumers. But these are not authorized to be used as support for input tax recovery. If the taxable person requires the invoice to support input tax recovery, they should request a full VAT invoice instead.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Nicaragua.

Proof of exports. Proof of exports in Nicaragua are the invoice and declaration of exportation. A Nicaraguan exporter must issue an export invoice on a free-on-board (FOB) basis. Once the goods pass the flange in the local port, they should be considered as exported. An "export invoice" is the same general invoice but used for exportation purposes. Therefore, there is no difference between a general invoice and an invoice for exportation purposes.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices can be issued in the US dollar (USD), as well as the domestic currency, which is the Nicaraguan córdoba (NIO). Where the invoices are issued in USD, the taxable person must provide the amount in NIO (and record the amounts in an accounting register) according to the official exchange rate.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Nicaragua. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Nicaragua, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include VAT invoices (issued and received), importation documentation, contracts, legal books, and support documentation for the VAT returns.

In Nicaragua, VAT books and records must be held within the country. This is to allow review by the tax administration, if so requested.

Record retention period. As a general rule, the statute of limitations is four years. Therefore, the record retention period should be at least four years. However, there are some cases, as for example the acquisitions of certain goods, that the retention period should be longer, for example, for depreciation purposes, for machinery. The records should be kept for the period of depreciation (i.e., 10 years for machinery), even though the statute of limitations corresponds to four years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Nicaragua. However, physical records must also be kept for archiving purposes in Nicaragua, as these may be requested by the tax authorities.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns can be submitted on a monthly or biweekly basis. Monthly and biweekly returns must be submitted by the 5th day of the month following the end of the return period. Monthly return filings are for regular taxable persons. Biweekly returns are for major taxable persons (grandes contribuyentes), which are defined as legal entities or individuals with income equal to or greater than NIO160 million.

Periodic payments. Return liabilities must be paid in NIO. VAT returns that are filed on a monthly basis must be paid by the by the 15th calendar day for regular taxable persons (including weekends and holidays) of the month following the period being reported, and by the 5th day for major taxpayers (income greater than NIO160 million) or principal taxpayers (income greater than NIO60 million and less than NIO 160 million). For biweekly returns, the payment must be made by the 5th calendar day (including weekends and holidays) of the biweekly tax period being reported.

The payments must be submitted using Form 124 and using the Tributary Electronic Window (Ventanilla Electrónica Tributaria [VET]). The VET issues a Tax Information Ticket (Boleta de Información Tributaria [BIT]) with the information of the filed VAT return filed. It can then be paid through electronic transactions with authorized banks by the tax administration.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Nicaragua for all taxable persons. The VAT return (Form 124) should be filed through the VET attaching a spreadsheet table describing the invoices issued, sales prices and VAT (output and input tax). The VET issues automatically a BIT indicating the amount of tax to be paid. The BIT should be paid immediately (on the same day as it is issued) to avoid fines and other charges.

Note that the VAT electronic filing system applies for all taxable persons, and as such is not treated as a special scheme (see the subsection Special schemes below).

Payments on account. Payments on account are generally not required in Nicaragua, except for certain taxable persons. Major taxable persons must make an advance payment of VAT within the first 15 days after the end of the VAT return period. They must make the full payment of VAT within five days after the advance payment.

Special schemes. No special schemes apply in Nicaragua.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Nicaragua.

Supplementary filings. Supporting details. In Nicaragua, for the electronic filing of the VAT return, a supporting spreadsheet table must be filed with the VAT return, describing the invoices issued, sales prices and output tax.

Amended VAT return. It is possible to make a supplementary filing/rectify a VAT return in case of excess payments to the tax authorities. An amended VAT return should be filed through the VET attaching a spreadsheet table describing the invoices issued, sales prices, output tax and input tax. The tax administration may request more information from the taxable person regarding this amendment. A new BIT/information indicating the amount to be paid or considered as credit should be issued by the VET.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person can correct any errors or omissions from prior periodic filings through a supplementary filing. This also includes rectifying a VAT return in case of excess payments to the tax authorities. An amended VAT return should be filed through the VET by attaching a spreadsheet table detailing the invoices issued, sale prices, output tax and input tax. The tax administration may request more information from the taxable person regarding the amendment. A new BIT indicating the amount to be paid or considered as credit should be issued by the VET.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Nicaragua.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. In case of late registration, a penalty of between 30 and 50 penalty units may be assessed. A penalty unit equals approximately USD1.

Penalties for late payment and filings. In the case of late registration, a penalty of between 30 and 50 penalty units may be assessed. Interest is charged on the tax due at a rate of 5% per month for the late submission of a VAT return. In addition, a penalty fine applies, computed as a minimum of 70 units of fine with a cap of 90 units of fine (each unit equals NIO25).

Other penalties may also apply, including a 25% penalty and surcharges ranging from 5% to 50%, both computed on the amount of unpaid VAT.

Penalties for errors. In the case of supplementary fillings for any errors, a penalty of between 30 and 50 penalty units may be assessed. A penalty unit equals approximately USD1. Also, interest is charged on the tax due at a rate of 5% per month for the late submission of a VAT return. In addition, a penalty fine applies, computed as a minimum of 70 units of fine with a cap of 90 units of fine (each unit equals NIO25). Other penalties may also apply, including a 25% penalty and surcharges ranging from 5% to 50%, both computed on the amount of unpaid VAT.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of a minimum of NIO750 (approx. USD20.47) to a maximum to NIO1,500 (approx. USD40.95). For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Tax evasion that does not constitute fraud is deemed to occur if the taxable person files an inaccurate return that results in the underpayment of VAT. The penalty for tax evasion is 100% of the VAT amount due.

Tax fraud is deemed to exist when information has been altered in a manner that causes the tax authorities to incorrectly compute the amount of VAT due. Tax fraud is considered a crime and sanctioned with a penalty of six months to three years in prison and a fine of twice the amount defrauded, pursuant to section 303 of Penal Code.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Nicaragua. In accordance with Section 19 of Nicaragua Taxation Code (NTC), the responsible persons for any tax debt are the persons that for the nature of its functions work or by law disposition should comply or make comply such obligations as the representatives, authorized agents or managers. The responsibility is limited to the value of assets that are administered or are under their responsibility. In case the administrator or person in charge has a hierarchical superior, who could warn in writing of the responsibility of complying in a timely manner with a tax obligation, and the second ignores such warning, the administrator or manager will be relieved of responsibilities for that case.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Nicaragua is four years. The time limit that the tax authorities can go back to review returns and identify errors and impose penalties is generally four years. However, this can be extended to six years, where the tax authorities prove that the taxable person has tried to hide information, goods and income.

There is no time limit for taxable persons to voluntarily correct errors in previous VAT returns. However, if the taxable person voluntary corrects a tax filing (including electronic VAT filing), the statute of limitation is interrupted and a new statute of limitation is established and counted from the following calendar day.

Nigeria

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Lagos GMT +1

EY
UBA House, 10th and 13th Floors
57 Marina
Lagos
Nigeria

Indirect tax contacts

Akinbiyi Abudu	+234 (1) 631-4554 akinbiyi.abudu@ng.ey.com
Olumide Akinpelumi	+234 (1) 463-0479 olumide.akinpelumi@ng.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 December 1993
Trading bloc membership	Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Federal Inland Revenue Service (FIRS)
VAT rates
Standard	7.5%
Others	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	01012345-0001
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	NGN25 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the supplies of goods and services other than those specifically exempt under the VAT Act as amended by the Finance Acts 2019 and 2020, as well as those included in the VAT modification order 2021. With effect from 1 January 2021, the sale, rental or lease of land and building is deemed as outside the scope of Nigerian VAT.

A taxable person is defined by the VAT law as persons who make supplies of goods and services and include an individual or body of individuals, family, corporations sole, trustee or executor or a person who carries out in a place an economic activity; a person exploiting tangible or intangible property for the purpose of obtaining income therefrom by way of trade or business; or a person or agency of government acting in that capacity.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Nigeria, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

In Nigeria the "destination principle" is used and is a concept that allows VAT to be retained by the country where the taxable goods or services are being consumed.

In Nigeria, goods are deemed to be taxable where the goods are physically present in Nigeria at the time of supply, imported into Nigeria, assembled in Nigeria or installed in Nigeria, or the beneficial owner of the rights in or over the goods is a taxable person in Nigeria and the goods or right is situated, registered or exercisable in Nigeria. In relation to services, taxable services are deemed to be supplied in Nigeria if the services are rendered in Nigeria by a person physically present in Nigeria, regardless of whether the service is rendered within or outside Nigeria or whether or not the legal or contractual obligation to render such service rests on persons within or outside Nigeria, or the service is connected with existing immovable property (including the services of agents, experts, engineers, architects, valuers, etc.). This applies where such property is located in Nigeria, and in respect of incorporeal, where the exploitation of the right is made by a person in Nigeria, the right is registered in Nigeria, assigned to or acquired by, a person in Nigeria, regardless of whether the payment for its exploitation is made within or outside Nigeria, or the incorporeal is connected with a tangible or immovable asset located in Nigeria.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Nigeria, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

- The TOGC is between resident taxable persons, i.e., Nigerian companies incorporated and operating in Nigeria
- One company has control over the other
- Both are controlled by some other person
- The companies are members of a recognized group of companies, and have been so for a consecutive period of at least 365 days prior to the date of the reorganization

Provided that if the acquiring company were to make a subsequent disposal of the assets thereby acquired within the succeeding 365 days after the date of transaction, the treatment of the transaction as a TOGC shall be rescinded and the companies shall be treated as if they did not qualify for TOGC.

Transactions between related parties. In Nigeria, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is subject to the transfer pricing regulations. The scope of the transfer pricing regulations is applicable to the sale and purchase of goods and services (which applies for VAT). There are specific transfer pricing rules that applies to transactions between related parties, of which such transactions should be calculated using the arm's-length principle. The VAT Act was recently amended by the Finance Act 2023 to introduce general anti-avoidance transfer pricing rules to combat fictitious agreements between related parties for VAT purposes. Section 7 of the VAT Act was amended to empower the Federal Inland Revenue Services (FIRS) to assess transactions to determine their credibility and competitive market value for tax purposes. The effective date of commencement of the Finance Act 2023 is 1 September 2023.

C. Who is liable

Taxable persons are persons that make supplies of goods and services. They are expected to register for VAT. The following are examples of taxable persons:

- Individuals or bodies of individuals, families, corporations with one shareholder, trustees or executors that carry out economic activities

- Persons exploiting tangible or intangible property for the purpose of obtaining income from the property in the course of a trade or business, including persons from or agencies of the government performing such actions

The following are required to deduct VAT on their suppliers' invoices and remit the VAT to FIRS:
- Oil and gas companies including oil-service companies
- Governments and government ministries, agencies and departments
- Resident entities engaging in transactions with nonresidents carrying on business in Nigeria
- MTN (with effect from 1 January 2023, as per a public notice issued in November 2022)
- Airtel (with effect from 1 January 2023, as per a public notice issued in November 2022)
- Money deposit banks (with effect from 1 January 2023, as per a public notice issued in November 2022)

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Nigeria does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Only taxable persons who make or expect to make taxable supplies of NGN25 million and above are required to register for tax, charge, collect, remit the tax and file monthly returns to the FIRS. A taxable person may voluntarily register, charge, collect, remit the tax and file monthly returns to the FIRS at any time even without attaining the NGN25 million threshold. Such a person shall notify the FIRS prior to doing so and shall be subject to all the provisions of the VAT Act applicable to persons above the threshold.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Nigeria.

Fixed establishment. In Nigeria there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, a fixed establishment is generally considered to be a location with a degree of permanence through which the business of an enterprise is wholly or partly carried on thereby giving rise to tax liabilities in that jurisdiction where it exists. In Nigeria, permanent establishment (PE) rules for direct taxation applies for VAT. If a non-established business has a fixed base (i.e., a PE) in Nigeria, it is required to comply with registration, charging, filing, payment and other requirements as if it is a resident Nigerian business. Such businesses must register using the address of their place of business in Nigeria (fixed base), issue VAT invoices, file returns, remit the tax, submit itself to tax examinations, etc., in accordance with the provisions of the VAT Act.

Non-established businesses. A non-established business that makes a supply of taxable goods or services in Nigeria or to a Nigerian resident is required to register for VAT with the FIRS and obtain a tax identification number (TIN). The non-established business is to use the address of the person to whom it is making the supply, as its Nigerian address, for the purposes of correspondence relating to the tax. The non-established business must include VAT on its invoice for the supply of goods or services made. The recipient of the goods or services in Nigeria is required to withhold and remit the VAT due on the invoice to the FIRS in the currency of transaction.

Non-established businesses making a supply of goods and services in Nigeria may choose to appoint a representative for the purpose of its filing obligations in Nigeria (see the subsection Tax representatives below).

The significant change made in relation to non-established businesses relates to the inclusion of the supply of goods (not services only) as a requirement for non-established businesses to register for VAT. This change takes place from 1 January 2021. Per the FIRS circular entitled "Guidelines on Simplified Compliance Regime for Value Added Tax (VAT) for Non-Resident Suppliers" No. 2021/19 dated 11 October 2021, the guidelines with respect to supply of goods are due to come into effect from 1 January 2024. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, the implementation of the regime has been postponed.

However, if a non-established business has a fixed base (permanent establishment) in Nigeria, it is required to comply with registration, charging, filing, payment and other requirements as if it is a Nigerian company. As such, this type of company must register using the address of its place of business in Nigeria (fixed base), issue a VAT invoice, file a return, remit the tax, submit itself to tax examinations, etc., in accordance with the provisions of the VAT Act.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are allowed in Nigeria, but are not mandatory. A taxable person may register for VAT and file returns directly in person or appoint an accredited tax representative to act on its behalf, which includes non-established businesses.

Reverse charge. There is a self-account mechanism in Nigeria for all supplies for which VAT was not charged. The self-account provision imposed a duty to withhold and remit VAT on a taxable person to whom a supply is made in Nigeria where the following are met:

- The supplier is a person exempt from charging VAT under the Act or otherwise failed to charge VAT
- The supplier is a foreign company without a fixed base (permanent establishment) in Nigeria, whether or not VAT is included in the invoice

The taxable person must self-account and remit the tax due in the currency of transaction on or before the 21st day of the month immediately following the month of the transaction.

The taxable person, in accounting and remitting the VAT, shall provide a schedule of all taxable transactions for which it is self-accounting, in the form prescribed by the service, indicating the tax identification numbers of the suppliers in the schedule.

Note that where a taxable person receives taxable supplies for which VAT was not charged from either a person below the threshold of NGN25 million or any other person, the taxable person receiving the supplies must self-charge and account for the VAT due. Also, the return for VAT self-accounted or self-charged must be separated in the form prescribed by the service.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Nigeria.

Digital economy. The Nigerian VAT Act does not make specific provisions for the digital economy. However, nonresident companies that render taxable supplies of goods and services to Nigeria are required to register for tax in Nigeria and obtain a TIN, while the taxable person to whom the supplies are made in Nigeria is required to withhold the VAT at source and remit the same to the tax authority in the currency of the transaction.

However, most business-to-consumer (B2C) customers are not tax registered, and therefore they are not taxable persons for VAT purposes. Consequently, they are unable to remit the VAT directly to the FIRS. As a result, in practice for B2C sales, the FIRS expects the nonresident companies to collect the VAT portion on such supplies and remit the VAT directly to the Revenue Authority to prevent loss of tax revenue. Nonresident companies may appoint a tax representative for the purpose of complying with the VAT obligations in Nigeria.

The rules for nonresident companies cover all taxable supplies made to Nigeria, regardless of the place or means of supply, for both business-to-business (B2B) and B2C supplies. As such, this provision applies to electronically supplied services, remote services and other types of taxable services.

Online marketplaces and platforms. The tax authority released a clarification circular in April 2020 wherein they clarified the provisions of the Finance Act. The tax authority specifically stated that services performed in Nigeria to persons in Nigeria irrespective of the residence status of the service provider; services provided to persons while in Nigeria, regardless of the medium of delivery of the service; and services rendered remotely, online or by other virtual means to Nigerian residents or persons in Nigeria are liable to VAT in Nigeria.

Registration procedures. To register for VAT in Nigeria, the taxable person is required to complete the VAT registration forms and provide its company registration documents to the tax authority. Upon completion, a tax identification number is assigned to the taxable person within one to two weeks. This process is the same for both resident and nonresident businesses.

The following documents are required for the VAT registration for resident businesses:
- Memorandum and articles of association (MEMAT)
- Certificate of incorporation
- Scanned particulars of a director of the company (e.g., identification card)
- Utility bill (to verify that the company is a resident company)
- VAT application letter on the business or tax representative's letterhead
- Completed VAT registration form
- Completed tax registration questionnaire
- Letter of notification of appointment of tax consultants

The following documents are required for the VAT registration for nonresident businesses:
- Memorandum and articles of association (MEMAT)
- Certificate of incorporation
- Scanned particulars of a director of the company (e.g., identification card)
- Utility bill (to verify that the business is nonresident)
- Completed VAT registration form
- Completed standard questionnaire
- Letter of notification of appointment of tax consultants (on the company's letterhead)

Deregistration. Where a taxable person permanently ceases to carry on a trade or business in Nigeria, the taxable person must notify the tax administration of its intention to deregister for tax purposes within 90 days of such cessation of the trade or business.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the tax authorities of any change to its address within 30 days of the change.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate. In addition, Section of 46 of the VAT Act as amended by the Finance Act defines taxable supplies as any transaction for sale of goods or the performance of a service for a consideration in money or money's worth.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 7.5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Goods and services purchased by diplomats
- Goods and services purchased for humanitarian donor-funded projects

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- All exported goods and services
- Medical goods and services and pharmaceutical products
- Basic food items

- Locally produced sanitary napkins
- Books and educational materials
- Petroleum products, renewable energy equipment, gas supplied to electricity generating companies (GENCOs) and electricity distribution companies (DISCOs)
- Airline transportation tickets, shared passenger road transport services
- Commercial aircraft, aircraft engines and spare parts
- Plant, machinery and goods imported for use in free-trade zones
- Plant, machinery and equipment purchased for the utilization of gas in downstream petroleum operations
- Tractors, plows and agricultural implements purchased for agricultural purposes
- Services rendered by unit micro-finance banks and mortgage institutions
- Plays and performances by educational institutions as part of learning
- Proceeds from the disposal of short-term federal government of Nigeria securities and bonds
- Proceeds from the disposal of short-term state, local government and corporate bonds; this exemption will only last 10 years from a commencement date of 2 January 2012

The detailed list of VAT-exempt goods with respective Common External Tariffs (CET) codes can be found in the VAT modification order 2021.

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Nigeria.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." Section 13A (2) of the VAT Act, Cap V1, LFN 2004 (as amended) states that "A tax invoice shall be issued on supply whether or not payment is made at the time of supply." For the purposes of VAT, a service is supplied when it is performed or an agreed milestone is reached, and when goods are supplied upon delivery or transfer of risk, whichever occurs first.

Provided that where it is not practicable to determine the time of supply as aforesaid, the service may rely on the dates indicated on the relevant invoices, bills, debit notes, goods-received notes, waybills, journal entries, etc.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Nigeria for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Nigeria for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Nigeria for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Nigeria for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. The time of supply rules for the supply of leased assets is when such asset becomes available for the use of the recipient.

Imported goods. VAT on imported goods is payable at the at point of customs declaration.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax that is charged on business purchases by offsetting it against output tax that is charged on taxable supplies. If the input tax exceeds the output tax, the taxable person is allowed to claim a refund of the excess input tax. An input tax refund may be claimed in any of the following manners:

- Credit method
- Direct cash refund
- By both credit method and direct cash refund

The most common practice is the credit method under which the taxable person may offset the excess input tax against the output tax in the subsequent month. This practice is expected to continue until the input tax amount is fully recovered.

The direct cash refund involves applying to the tax authorities for a VAT refund. This usually triggers a tax audit and could take years to complete. In this case, proper documentation of transactions relating to the recoverable input tax should be made readily available.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Nigeria. This means that, effectively, the input tax (VAT credit) may be carried forward indefinitely until its complete recovery.

Input tax is deductible from output tax if it relates to goods purchased or imported directly for resale and goods that form the stock-in-trade used for the direct production of any new product on which the output tax is charged. Input tax incurred on any overhead, service and general administration of any business that otherwise can be expended through the income statement (profit and loss accounts) and on any capital item and asset that is to be capitalized along with the cost of the capital item and asset, shall not be allowed as a deduction from output tax. As such, this means that input taxes incurred on services are not recoverable and they are to be expensed in the income statement.

Nondeductible input tax. A taxable person cannot reclaim VAT paid on goods and services used for nonbusiness purposes. In addition, input tax incurred on the purchase of fixed assets and expenses such as general administration and overhead costs, cannot be recovered from output tax.

Recovery of input tax is not allowed with respect to the supply of services and exempt supplies.

VAT on fixed assets should be capitalized together with the cost of the assets, but VAT on general administration, overhead costs and services should be expensed in a company's profit-and-loss account.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Supply of services
- Plant and machineries
- Rent

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Raw materials used in production of a taxable good
- Taxable goods purchased for resale

Partial exemption. There are no specific provisions in the Nigerian VAT Act with respect to partial exemption in the VAT Act. Any taxable person whose input tax meets the requirements for recoverability is required to provide a schedule of input tax recovered when submitting its returns to the tax authority. The tax authority may also request an input tax schedule during a tax audit.

If the total input tax incurred by the taxable person relates to goods allowable for deduction (i.e., taxable) and goods not allowed for deduction (i.e., exempt), the taxable person is required to devise an allocation method that accurately shows how much VAT was incurred on the goods imported or purchased for resale or used in the production of a new product on which output is charged.

Based on the strict interpretation of Section 17, as outlined above, the tax authority would ordinarily expect the taxable person to calculate the input tax on its cost of sales (for goods only as VAT on services is not recoverable). However, in practice, if the cost of sales cannot be easily allocated for input tax recoverability purposes (i.e., the input tax incurred on a purchased good cannot be easily traced to the goods produced and sold out), in practice, an argument can be made to the tax authority that the input tax can be calculated on the purchases (rather than cost of sales).

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use any partial exemption method of apportionment.

Capital goods. Based on the provisions of the VAT Act input tax on capital expenditure/fixed assets should be capitalized along with the cost of the asset. For capital assets, the input tax should be capitalized along with the cost of the asset. As such, no input tax deduction is allowed for such assets (depreciable), sold or used in the production of the goods.

Refunds. The FIRS Establishment Act provides for a cash refund within 90 days, subject to a refund application by the taxable person and an appropriate audit by the FIRS.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Nigeria is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Nigeria. However, based on accounting principles, there should be appropriate supporting documentation and approval(s) available to support the write-off of such bad debts to avoid this treatment being challenged in the event of a tax audit.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Nigeria.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Nigeria is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person that makes a taxable supply is required to furnish the purchaser with a tax invoice for that supply. A tax invoice must be issued at the time of supply, regardless of whether payment is made at the time of supply. VAT is payable in the currency of the transaction.

Credit notes. There are no specific provisions on credit notes in the VAT Act. However, as a principle in accounting, a VAT credit note should be used if the VAT payable on a supply is reduced or reversed because of a subsequent allowance or discount or an error. In practice, an annual reconciliation of total VAT per audited account with total VAT per monthly returns filed is carried out to ensure accurate VAT accounting and remittances. Accordingly, it will be helpful to have in place a credit note indicating a reversal of revenue and VAT initially recognized and accounted for.

The details of information to be contained in the credit note are essentially the same as that required in a tax invoice. However, the credit note should give a description of the initial invoice, the amount of which is reversed or reduced for ease of reference.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Nigeria for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Nigeria. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Nigeria. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

There are no specific provisions in the VAT Act on electronic invoices. While in practice, electronic invoicing is allowed in Nigeria, the tax authorities rely on paper invoices during a tax audit. This means that invoices must be made easily accessible to the tax authority in paper format or electronically upon request.

While there are no specific provisions in the VAT Act, per the FIRS circular entitled "Guidelines on Simplified Compliance Regime for Value Added Tax (VAT) for Non-Resident Suppliers" No. 2021/19 dated 11 October 2021, a nonresident supplier that makes taxable supplies for Nigeria electronically (goods, services or intangible) is required to issue an electronic tax invoice to its customer. Therefore, it is permissible for the invoice to be in the format utilized in the nonresident supplier's jurisdiction; however, it must contain the following key information:
- Name and the TIN of the nonresident supplier
- Description of supply
- Date of supply
- Value of supply
- VAT charged

This is applicable to all taxable supplies consumed electronically (i.e., B2B, B2C and B2G). The general invoicing requirement as stipulated in the VAT act applies.

For all other supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Nigeria. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Nigeria.

Proof of exports. There are no specific provisions in the VAT Act on proof of exports. However, in practice, documentary evidence that goods physically left Nigeria and evidence within the accounting system to confirm that a transaction took place should suffice. This documentation should be kept accessible should the Nigerian tax authority request this. In the event that no document is provided on request by the tax authority, a company may be required to account for VAT on an export sale.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices can be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Nigerian naira (NGN), or a foreign currency. There is no preference in the VAT Act as to which currency should be used to issue invoices.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Nigeria. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Nigeria, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include:
- Filed VAT returns
- VAT schedules
- Sales invoices (and purchase invoices)
- General ledgers and trial balance

In Nigeria, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Such records can be kept anywhere (i.e., in or outside of Nigeria), as long as they are made easily accessible to the tax authorities during a tax audit and upon request at any time. Note that holding records outside of Nigeria does not need to be approved by the tax authorities.

Record retention period. The statute of limitation for document retention is six years. Furthermore, the tax provisions provide that tax audits may be conducted on accounts dating as far back as six years. As such, tax documentation should be retained for at least six years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Nigeria. Archiving must be made in paper form only. There are no specific provisions with respect to the form in which records should be archived in Nigeria. This would depend solely on the policy of the organization. However, in practice, electronic archiving is not allowed in Nigeria. Archiving must be made in paper form only, as the tax authorities rely on paper invoices during a tax audit.

I. Returns and payments

Periodic returns. VAT returns must be submitted monthly on VAT Form 002. A taxable person is required to submit a VAT return on or before the 21st day of the month following the month in which supplies are made.

The VAT Act was amended by the Finance Act 2023 to empower the FIRS to appoint any person to withhold or collect VAT, and such person is obligated to remit the VAT withheld or collected in the currency of the transaction to the FIRS on or before the 14th day of the following month. Hence, effective 1 September 2023, VAT collection agents are required to submit their VAT returns on or before the 14th day of the month following the month in which supplies were made.

Periodic payments. A taxable person must pay the tax due by the due date when filing the VAT returns, i.e., by the 21st day of the month following the month in which supplies are made. Payment must be made via a bank-certified check/draft or wire transfer through designated banks to the local tax office that issues a receipt after confirmation of such payment.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Nigeria for all taxable persons. Electronic filling is done via an electronic software application provided by the tax authority (Tax Pro Max). This platform allows taxable persons to file their VAT returns electronically. To be eligible to register on this platform, the taxable person must be VAT registered, obtained a TIN number and complete the e-filing registration with the submission of all required documents requested for by the tax authorities. This process usually takes between three to seven days for completion. Upon completion, unique login details will be issued to the taxable person. This then enables the taxable person to file returns electronically.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Nigeria.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Nigeria.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Nigeria. However, it is recommended that an annual return (true-up filing) for reconciliation purposes is completed at the end of the reporting period, ahead of desk examination review or tax audit conducted by the FIRS, to avoid additional tax liabilities being imposed.

Supplementary filings. The VAT return must be accompanied by a schedule containing details of the supplies made and received within the tax period. For VAT deducted at the source by tax agents, there is a need to attach the schedule containing the details of the related transactions to the VAT return.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Corrections can be made by way of adjustments in the returns filed for subsequent months. Corrections are required to be compulsorily documented, indicating all necessary details with respect to the errors that have been made. This documentation must be done via a letter submitted to the FIRS.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Nigeria.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The VAT Act as amended by the Finance Act states that all taxable persons are required to register for VAT upon commencement of business. A taxable person who fails to register with the service within the time specified (as outlined in the Registration procedures subsection above) is liable to pay a penalty of NGN50,000 in the first month the failure occurs and NGN25,000 for each subsequent month in which the failure continues.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to submit a return will be liable to a fine of NGN50,000 in the month of default and NGN25,000 for every month in which the default continues.

If a taxable person does not remit the tax on or before the 21st day of the month following the month in which the purchase or supply was made, a sum equal to 10% of the tax not remitted per annum is levied as a penalty. Interest at the prevailing Central Bank of Nigeria minimum rediscount rate shall be added to the tax not remitted and the provision of this Act relating to collection and recovery of unremitted tax, penalty and interest shall apply.

Penalties for errors. The failure to issue a tax invoice results in, on conviction, a fine of 50% of the cost of the goods or services for which a tax invoice was not issued.

The failure to notify or late notification to the tax authorities of a change to a taxable person's address will attract a penalty of NGN50,000 for the first month in which the failure occurs and NGN25,000 for each subsequent month in which the failure continues.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details (specifically for a change in taxable activity, i.e., a taxable person permanently ceases to carry on a trade or business) will result in a penalty of NGN50,000 for the first month in which the failure occurs and NGN25,000 for each subsequent month in which the failure continues. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Furnishing false documents could result in a conviction for a fine of twice the amount underdeclared. There are no specific provisions on the implication of such action for the tax advisors.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Nigeria.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Nigeria is six years. In practice, the tax authorities have the power to review and audit the taxable person's returns and impose penalties (where necessary) going back six years. The taxable person may voluntarily correct errors in previous VAT returns before the tax audit commences.

North Macedonia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Skopje GMT +1

Ernst & Young Services Dooel Skopje
Str. Zeleznicka no. 41, Building 3, 5th floor
1000 Skopje
North Macedonia

Indirect tax contacts

Milen Raikov (resident in Sofia, Bulgaria)	+359 (2) 81 77 100 milen.raikov@bg.ey.com
Svetlana Radenkovic	+389 2 3101703 svetlana.radenkovic@mk.ey.com
Aleksandar Merdzanovski	+389 2 3113 310 aleksandar.merdzanovski@mk.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Danok na dodadena vrednost (DDV) Данок на додадена вредност (ДДВ)
Date introduced	1 April 2000
Trading bloc membership	Stabilization and Association Agreement with the European Union (SAA) European Free Trade Association (EFTA) Central European Free Trade Agreement (CEFTA)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.finance.gov.mk)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Reduced	5%, 10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	MK 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13
VAT return periods
Monthly	Turnover in excess of MKD25 million in preceding calendar year
Quarterly	Turnover of MKD25 million or less in preceding calendar year
Thresholds
Registration	MKD2 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- Supply of goods and services made in North Macedonia by a taxable person within the scope of its business activity
- Importation of goods into North Macedonia (other than exempt importations)
- Supplies by foreign legal entities to North Macedonian legal entities (i.e., business-to-business [B2B] supplies) subject to the reverse-charge mechanism

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In North Macedonia, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in North Macedonia. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

From a Macedonian VAT perspective, transfer of a going concern (TOGC) exists in transactions where the essential features of a taxable person's business or part of it are being transferred to the acquirer, who will further use them for its business activities. In cases where only part of the taxable person's business is sold, such transfer is also considered a TOGC provided that the transferred part constitutes an economically independent part of the business and is being capable of operating separately. Based on the VAT guidelines, TOGC is considered as supply of goods, subject to 18% VAT. The base for calculation of the VAT shall be the price agreed for purchase of the business or its independent part. The law and the related bylaws do not further regulate what is considered as essential features of a business. The merits should be done on a case-by-case basis, depending on the factual situation at the time when the transfer takes place. The mere transfer of assets is not considered as a TOGC. The existing entity shall be obliged to issue an invoice and charge 18% VAT on the agreed price. The new company, as acquirer shall be entitled to deduct the input tax charged on the transfer provided it is registered for VAT purposes.

Transactions between related parties. In North Macedonia, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a person that permanently or temporarily performs an independent business activity, regardless of the purposes of and the results from such business activity.

Taxable persons must register for VAT when their total supplies in a year exceed MKD2 million. Also, they must register if, at the beginning of a business activity, they project the making of total annual supplies exceeding MKD2 million. Taxable persons may voluntarily register for VAT at the beginning of each calendar year or at the beginning of their business activity.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in North Macedonia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Taxable persons may voluntarily register for VAT at the beginning of each calendar year or at the beginning of their business activity, regardless of if they have reached the VAT registration threshold.

Group registration. North Macedonian VAT law allows VAT group registration. Several VAT-registered entities may decide to be registered as a single VAT-registered taxable person if they have a proprietary, organizational or managerial relationship.

In addition, if the tax authorities detect violation of tax principles or the possibility for violation of such principles as a result of proprietary, organizational or managerial relationship among particular entities registered as separate VAT taxable persons, they can issue a decision ordering the entities to register as a single taxable person.

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group.

All members of a VAT group in North Macedonia are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. This is for the period in which they are members of the VAT group. In case of a VAT debt from any member of the VAT group, all members of the VAT group shall bear the liability for the debt. Also, for any VAT debt and interest prior to the registration as a member of the VAT group, the representative and any person in the VAT group will assume the responsibility for paying the VAT debt.

Fixed establishment. In North Macedonia there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses without a registered seat or branch in North Macedonia that perform supplies of goods and services in the jurisdiction to private customers (i.e., a business-to-consumer [B2C] supply subject to VAT) would be obligated to register for VAT purposes via a VAT representative (for further details see the subsection Tax representatives below*).* If a B2B or business-to-government (B2G) supply is made by a taxable person that does not have headquarters or a branch office in North Macedonia, the VAT reverse-charge mechanism applies.

Tax representatives. The proposed amendments of the VAT law regarding the concept of the VAT representative have been voted on and published in the Official Gazette of North Macedonia on 25 September 2023, and will enter into force as of 1 January 2024.

Foreign legal entities without a registered seat or branch in North Macedonia that perform a supply of goods and services in the country (B2C supply subject to VAT) would be obliged to register for VAT purposes (prior to commencement of the activity) through a VAT representative. The foreign legal entity can appoint only one VAT representative. The appointment of the VAT representative is performed by submitting the VAT registration form along with the necessary documentation (prescribed by the Ministry of Finance) to the tax authorities.

VAT representative can be appointed only if the following criteria are cumulatively met:
- Registered for VAT purposes at least 12 months before submitting the application for the appointment of a VAT representative
- On the day of submitting the application for appointment of the representative, there are no due and unpaid tax liabilities
- Bankruptcy or liquidation proceedings have not been initiated if it is a legal entity or, in case of an individual, if the same has not been legally convicted of a crime

The tax representative has an obligation for calculation of the tax, submission of a tax return, payment of the tax and interest in case of late payment of the tax, as well as to keep records on behalf of the foreign entity.

In cases when the VAT representation is terminated for any reason, the foreign entity should appoint another VAT representative for the purpose of performance of the supply by submitting a new application.

The VAT representative jointly guarantees for the VAT owed by the foreign entity.

Reverse charge. In North Macedonia, the reverse charge applies to the supply of goods and services by foreign non-established legal entities to North Macedonian established taxable persons (i.e., a B2B or B2G supply). Under the reverse-charge mechanism, the recipient of the goods or services bears the responsibility for the calculation of VAT, the submission of a VAT tax return, the payment of tax and the payment of interest in the event of a late payment.

The services that are subject to the VAT reverse-charge mechanism are: (i) advertising/marketing services; (ii) banking and financial services and insurance and reinsurance services; (iii) consulting services; (iv) electronic data processing and information provision services; (v) lease of personnel; (vi) rental of movable property, except for all types of means of transport; (vii) telecommunication services, (viii) purchase of software and maintenance of software, transfer of royalties and similar rights, etc.

Domestic reverse charge. In North Macedonia, the domestic reverse charge applies to the following:

- Supply of construction services by a domestic constructor to an investor
- Supply of construction services by a domestic subcontractor to principal constructor
- Supply of waste and scrap
- Transfer of movable and immovable property in a procedure of enforced collection, according to the law on tax procedure, and in an enforcement procedure, according to the law on enforcement procedure, when the creditor acquires the property

Digital economy. Following the adopted amendments of the VAT law, as supply of services are also considered the following services (applicable as of 1 of January 2024):

- Telecommunication services – services related to transmitting, broadcasting or receiving signals, words, images and sounds or information of any kind through communication, radio, optical or other electromagnetic systems, including the associated transmission or assignment of the right to use the capacity for such transmission, transmission or reception, including providing access to global information networks
- Electronically supplied services – services that refer to the development of web pages, web hosting, maintenance of programs and equipment at a distance, software and its update, images, text and information and making available databases, music, movies and games, including games of chance, as well as political, cultural, artistic, sports, science and entertainment broadcasts and events, distance learning

Based on the adopted amendments, the place of supply of telecommunication, radio and television broadcasting and electronically supplied services is where the customer is established, has its branch or its permanent address/residence. A service is not considered as an electronically supplied service where the supplier and the recipient of the service are communicating via email.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in North Macedonia, via a VAT representative (see the Tax representatives subsection above).

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in North Macedonia. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in North Macedonia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in North Macedonia.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons apply for VAT registration by filing a hard copy form (DDV-01) with the tax authorities the Public Revenue Office (Regional Directorate Office; 11th October St. 27, Skopje 1000, North Macedonia) or electronically through the e-tax system (www.etax-fl.ujp.gov.mk). The electronic VAT registration can be submitted by an authorized accountant. The relevant form can be submitted by the legal representative or by an authorized person of the taxable person. The deadline to submit the VAT registration form is 15 days from the day the taxable person meets the VAT registration obligation. The average time for the tax authorities to complete the registration is seven working days following the day the registration form is submitted.

Deregistration. Taxable persons stay VAT registered for at least three years following the year of VAT registration. If in the third year, the taxable person does not reach the VAT registration threshold of MKD2 million (regardless if in the first and second year the threshold has been reached), it is entitled to request to be deregistered at the beginning of the following year. The tax authorities may deregister the taxable person before the three-year period lapses in any of the following circumstances:

- In the year preceding the deregistration, with the VAT returns, the taxable person did not report taxable supplies and input tax
- In the two years preceding the deregistration, the taxable person did not calculate output tax
- The taxable person cannot be found on the registered address
- The taxable person failed to submit VAT returns in two VAT periods for monthly and quarterly VAT payers
- The taxable person committed tax fraud
- In cases where the criteria for VAT group registration is met

The related party may decide to terminate the group registration by applying for deregistration. The tax office shall accept or reject the application within 90 days from its filing.

Changes to VAT registration details. In case of change in the VAT registration details, the taxable person is obliged to submit an application in paper form (form RDO). The application may be submitted by the taxable person or person authorized by the taxable person. There is no prescribed deadline for submission of the form RDO upon change in the registration details. However, failure for timely reporting of the new details may cause delay in receiving notifications from the tax authorities.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services and imports that are subject to VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:

- Standard rate: 18%
- Reduced rate: 5%, 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Based on the adopted amendments of the VAT law, there has been change and introduction of goods for which the preferential tax rates of 5% and 10% will be applied, as mentioned in the examples below. The amendments for the above VAT rates are applicable as of 1 of September 2023.

Some supplies are classified as "exempt-with-credit" (i.e., zero-rated [0%]), which means that no VAT is due, but the supplier may recover related input tax.

Examples of supplies of goods and services taxable at 0% (i.e., exempt-with-credit)

- International air transport of passengers
- Supply of precious metals for the central bank
- Supply, repair and maintenance, chartering and leasing of aircraft

Examples of supplies of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Potable water from public water supply entities
- Basic products for human consumption (with effect from 1 September 2023)
- Computers
- Pharmaceuticals and medical devices
- Raw oil for production of food for human consumption
- First sale of new residential buildings (within the first five years)
- Services provided by commercial tourist facilities (hotels, motels and similar facilities)
- Feminine hygiene products (with effect from 1 September 2023)
- Publications (i.e., electronic textbooks, brochures and other printed materials, newspapers and other periodicals, etc.) (with effect from 1 September 2023)
- Pellets, pellet stoves and pellet boilers (with effect from 1 September 2023)
- Thermal energy for heating (with effect from 1 September 2023)

Examples of supplies of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Other products for human consumption different from the basic products for human consumption (with effect from 1 September 2023)
- Restaurant services, specifically serving food and beverages for onsite consumption, except alcoholic beverages
- Supply and import of electricity for households (from 1 January 2023 to 30 June 2023)

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not subject to tax and that do not give rise to a right of input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Rental of residential buildings and apartments that are used for housing
- Banking and financial services
- Insurance and reinsurance
- Games of chance
- Educational services

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in North Macedonia.

E. Time of supply

The moment when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or the "tax point." The tax point is the earlier of the following two dates:

- The date on which goods are dispatched (transferred) and services are completely delivered
- The date on which the payment is received if the payment is made with respect to future supplies of goods or rendering of services

In the case of periodical or continuous supplies for which subsequent payments are prescribed, the tax point is the date on which the invoice is issued for the relevant period or, if earlier, the date on which the payment for the relevant period is received.

Deposits and prepayments. VAT becomes due on advance payments at the moment when the prepayment is received. The VAT is due proportionally on the amount of the payment made before the taxable event. The prepayment is considered to be VAT inclusive. The VAT should be charged, and invoice should be issued within five days after receipt of the advance payment.

There is no difference in the time of supply rules for deposits and prepayments for supplies of goods or services, and also if the amounts are refundable or nonrefundable.

If the supply does not take place, and the prepayment is refunded, the supplier should correct the VAT charged on the prepayment and submit a corrective VAT return for the period in which the VAT was charged.

Continuous supplies of services. The time of supply for periodic or continuous supplies is the date of each payment or the date when the payment is due, whichever is the earlier. If a supply is rendered continuously for more than one year and if no payment is made or due during that period, the date of supply is considered the end of the calendar year.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There is no special time of supply rules in North Macedonia for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). Under the general tax point rules, VAT is due on the earliest of the supply of goods, the receipt of payment or the issue of an invoice. In case of return of goods, the taxable person is entitled to correct the VAT charged earlier by making appropriate correction of the VAT return of the tax period when the VAT was charged.

Reverse-charge services. Reverse-charge VAT applies to amounts charged for goods or services supplied by foreign legal entities to North Macedonian legal entities (i.e., a B2B supply). Under the reverse-charge mechanism, the recipient of the goods or services bears the responsibility for the calculation of VAT, the submission of a VAT return, the payment of tax and the payment of interest in the event of a late payment.

Leased assets. The time of supply for leased assets may vary in view of the type of lease and the specific contractual arrangements:

- Operational leases (rentals) are taxed for Macedonian VAT purposes as supplies of services. VAT becomes chargeable proportionately on each installment, and the time of supply follows the rules for periodic and continuous supplies (see below).
- Finance leases are taxed either as a supply of services (rentals) or as a supply of goods depending on the contractual arrangements VAT becomes chargeable proportionately on each. VAT becomes chargeable proportionately on each installment if the lease is considered a supply of rental service. A finance lease qualifies as a supply of goods (and the time of supply is upon handing over of the leased asset) if the legal title over the leased asset will transfer upon expiry of the lease term or an option for transferring the title on the leased asset is envisaged, but the total amount of the lease installments, less the interest payments, equals the fair value of the leased asset. VAT on the total price of the goods received under financial leasing with option to transfer their legal title, would be chargeable upon the handing over of the goods if the total amount of the lease installments is identical to the fair value of the leased goods upon inception of the lease.

Imported goods. Imported goods are subject to VAT unless they are exempt from VAT by law. The import VAT is calculated by the customs authorities based on the customs value of goods, increased with the customs duty, excise duty and commission, transportation and insurance fee. The import VAT is paid to the customs office simultaneously with the payment of the customs and excise duties.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax. The difference between the output and input tax is refunded to the taxable person based on a written claim stated in the taxable person's tax return.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in North Macedonia is 30 days. The deadline for reclaiming the input tax from a previous period is 30 days, from the submission of the tax return (monthly or quarterly tax return). If the taxable person does not claim the difference of the input tax stated in the tax return, such difference is to be offset in the following tax periods.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in North Macedonia, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed under the reverse-charge mechanism with respect to goods or services supplied by non-established entities.

VAT is recoverable for supplies provided to taxable persons by other taxable persons if a valid invoice or a customs declaration containing a separate statement of the tax collected on the import is issued and if such document is recorded in the accounting books of the taxable person.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

The following lists provide some examples of expenses for which input tax is not deductible and examples of expenses for which input tax is deductible if made for business purposes.

Examples of items for which input tax is not deductible

- Representation expenses
- Audio and video devices
- Hotels
- Restaurant meals

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible

- Advertising
- Consultancy services
- Telecommunication services
- Equipment

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to taxable supplies is fully recoverable, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not recoverable. If the domestically supplied or imported goods or services are used by the taxable person to make both supplies with the right to deduct input tax and exempt supplies without the right to deduct input tax, such person may deduct only the portion of the input tax corresponding on a pro rata basis to the supplies giving rise to an input tax deduction.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in North Macedonia. Special methods are not allowed in North Macedonia.

Capital goods. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. As such, normal input tax recovery rules (as outlined above) apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a tax period exceeds the amount of output tax in that period, the taxable person earns an input tax credit. In general, the input tax credit is carried forward to offset output tax in the following tax period. However, a taxable person may claim a refund of the input tax credit in the VAT return for the relevant tax period. The refund of the difference between the input and output tax is made within 30 days after the date of the submission of the tax return.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in North Macedonia is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in North Macedonia.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred in relation to noneconomic activities is not recoverable in North Macedonia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in North Macedonia is not recoverable.

However, on the condition of reciprocity, North Macedonia refunds VAT incurred by businesses that do not have a headquarters or a branch office in the country and that satisfy the following additional conditions:
- It does not make any supplies in the country
- It does not owe any outstanding VAT

There is no official list of countries with which North Macedonia has reciprocity. In general, it is decided on a case-by-case basis.

The deadline for refund claims is 30 June of the year following the calendar year in which the tax becomes chargeable. The application for refund must be submitted to the North Macedonian tax authorities and must be accompanied by the appropriate documentation.

A refund application must be processed within six months after the date of submission of the application and supporting documents.

The claim period varies between one month and several consecutive months in one calendar year. The minimum claim for these periods is MKD30,000. In the claims for the last month of the calendar year, input taxes from previous claim periods may also be taken into account. The minimum claim for this period is MKD15,000.

Claims are paid in domestic currency (MKD) into a bank account opened by the applicant in North Macedonia.

One of the mandatory conditions is the business must have an opened nonresident bank account prior to the submission of the application for the VAT refund. The applicant should meet the following conditions:
- Reciprocity
- Has not performed any trading activities in the country except for services related to import, export and transit
- Has performed business activity in the country for which the recipient of the goods or the purchaser of the services shall bear the tax in accordance with the law on VAT
- The amount of the tax refund claim must be at least equal to the minimum threshold of MKD30,000 (approx. EUR500)

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A North Macedonian taxable person must issue invoices for all of its taxable supplies. A document qualifies as a valid invoice if it complies with the requirements set out in the North Macedonian VAT Act. The invoice must be issued within five working days after the date of the supply.

If an invoice is issued both for taxable supplies and nontaxable supplies, each supply must be stated separately. If a nontaxable supply is made, it must be stated on the invoice that "the value-added tax is not calculated".

A taxable person delivering taxable goods to recipients of goods or services who are not taxable persons (end consumers) must record the supply through a cash register and issue a receipt, regardless of whether the recipient of such goods or services requests a receipt.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce VAT charged and claimed back on a supply. A credit note must be cross-referenced to the original invoice. However, no official rules have been issued with respect to credit notes.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in North Macedonia, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and B2G supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in North Macedonia. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in North Macedonia. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Based on the law, the supplier must obtain explicit written consent by the recipient of the electronic invoices, to allow them to receive electronic invoices. Electronic invoices should be protected from any subsequent alteration and modifications and signed with an electronic signature of the person authorized for signing invoices on behalf of the legal entity. The electronic signature of the authorized person must be issued by an authority authorized for issuance of electronic signatures.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in North Macedonia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in North Macedonia.

Proof of exports. The taxable person must hold an export customs clearance issued by the customs authorities as proof that the goods are exported from the country. If the export customs procedure does not require an export clearance to be issued, the taxable person must hold a document issued by the customs authorities that displays the name and address of the taxable person and the foreign recipient of the goods, trade name of the goods and the quantity of the goods exported, place and date of export.

Foreign currency invoices. In general, VAT invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Macedonian denars (MKD), if the place of supply is North Macedonia. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, all values required for VAT purposes must be converted into MKD for tax purposes, using the rate published by the National Bank of North Macedonia on the date of the invoice.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. A taxable person delivering taxable goods or services to persons who are not taxable persons (private consumers) must record the supply through a cash register and issue a receipt, regardless of whether the recipient of such goods or services requests a receipt.

Records. In North Macedonia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records of all documents (invoices, supporting documentation, etc.).

In North Macedonia, VAT books and records must be held within the country.

Record retention period. Taxable persons should hold records for a minimum of five years. However, in addition, the prescribed statute of limitations in the Tax Procedural Law is five years, but in cases of tax evasion it is 10 years. As such, taxable persons must keep their records for the period of 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in North Macedonia. The VAT and tax legislation does not prescribe specific provisions for electronic archiving. Further, to the local legislation for electronic manner of archiving, electronic archiving of documents is the archiving and storage of documents in electronic form, for which the storage time of those documents is precisely determined, corresponding to the storage time of documents in printed form and for which the storage time is confirmed by an electronic time stamp.

Electronic archiving refers to documents that were originally created in an electronic form suitable for electronic storage. However, the electronic archiving gives an opportunity for conversion of an electronic document into a different format suitable for electronic storage and digitalization of documents originally created in a form that is not electronic or suitable for electronic storage.

Electronic archiving is allowed provided certain conditions are met:
- All basic elements of the content of the original document are loyally transferred to the document prepared for electronic storage, taking into account the nature and purpose of the document, i.e., to maintain the integrity of the content of the document
- The usability of the original document is kept
- All elements of the content of the original document that are important for its authenticity are included
- Provided integrity of the original document, as well as its attachments, by using an electronic signature or stamp and an electronic time stamp
- Implementation of accuracy and quality control during the conversion process to remove any errors that might be caused by the process
- Proper records/documentation are kept for the activities undertaken in the preparation of documents for secure electronic storage

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax period is the calendar month if the total turnover in the preceding calendar year exceeded MKD25 million. Taxable persons that had a total turnover in the preceding year of less than MKD25 million must file VAT returns and pay VAT quarterly. Newly registered taxable persons projecting an annual turnover of more than MKD2 million must register for VAT and make quarterly VAT return filings. Taxable persons must calculate the VAT for the relevant tax period for all supplies made that are subject to VAT. Taxable persons must submit a tax return within 25 days after the end of the relevant tax period.

Periodic payments. For monthly filing, provided that the amount of the total turnover of the taxable person in the preceding year is at least MKD25 million, the taxable person is obliged to file a monthly VAT return. The filing and the payment are performed no later than the 25th of the month following the reporting month.

For quarterly filing, provided that the amount of the total turnover of the taxable person in the preceding year is below MKD25 million, the taxable person is obliged to file a VAT return on quarterly basis. The filing and the payment are performed no later than the 25th of the month following the reporting month.

In the abovementioned cases, the payment of the due VAT must be made through a bank transfer on the treasury account of the National Bank of North Macedonia.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in North Macedonia for all taxable persons. After the VAT registration and before the deadline for filing the first tax return, the taxable persons must register for electronic filing.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in North Macedonia.

Special schemes. Tour operators. The provisions apply to tourist services of a taxable person, if the same acts toward the tourists in his own name and receives goods and services from third parties that are of direct benefit to the tourists.

Tourist services provided by the tour operator are considered as a single service, taxed with 18% VAT. The place of supply of the service shall be deemed to be the place where the service provider has its establishment/residence.

The taxable base is determined as the difference between the amount paid by the tourist for the tourist trip and the expenses paid by the tour operator for the previously ordered tourist services by the tour operator. The tour operator can determine the tax base either for each service separately, for a group of tourists' services or for all tourist services together within a certain tax period.

The tour operator is not eligible to deduct input VAT for the previously received supply by third parties.

Investment gold. According to the VAT law, the following is considered as investment gold (not for sale for numismatic purposes):

- Gold in the form of rods or plates with a weight accepted by the precious metal markets and with a fineness equal to or greater than 995 thousand parts, regardless of whether it is secured in the form of securities or not
- Gold coins, with a fineness equal to or greater than 900 thousand parts, minted after 1800, which in the country of origin are or were legal means of payment and are usually sold at a price not exceeding 80% of the value of gold contained in the coin, on the free market

Trade and import of investment gold, including investment gold represented by certificates for allocated (unsecured) or unallocated (unsecured) gold or traded through gold trading accounts, as well as loans in gold and gold swaps (swap), which acquires ownership of investment gold, and transactions relating to investment gold involving futures and forward contracts resulting in the transfer of ownership or a claim relating to investment gold, are VAT exempt. Intermediary services related to investment gold are also VAT exempt.

Input tax can be recovered for sale of investment gold that is VAT exempted and for manufacturing of investment gold or conversion of gold into investment gold, if certain conditions are met.

The taxable persons are required to keep evidence of the performed supply related to investment gold.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in North Macedonia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in North Macedonia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In case of incorrect VAT reporting, VAT taxable persons should prepare and submit corrected VAT returns via the online e-tax platform no later than the deadline prescribed for submission of the annual accounts, i.e., 27/28 February, for annual accounts that are being submitted in hard copy, or 15 March when the annual accounts are being submitted online. As an exception, the taxable person is obliged to make a correction of incorrect or incomplete tax return in the last tax return from the calendar year to which the error relates, in case the more or less reported tax in the relevant tax period is less than 1% of the declared tax.

Digital tax administration. Fiscal cash registries. Taxable persons performing sale of goods and services for which the payments are made in cash are obliged to install and use a fiscal cash registries' system (the system) for purposes of issuing fiscal receipts. The system comprises the cash registry and software system. The software system is further comprised on a general packet radio service (GPRS) terminal and crypto module, which at the end is connected with the Public Revenue Office (PRO). The software system automatically generates and sends daily financial report to the PRO. Taxable persons that are not obliged to have cash registries do not have transactional reporting requirements in North Macedonia. In addition, local banks are obliged to provide the tax authorities with monthly reports on taxable persons' bank accounts.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. For late registration, a legal entity may be fined EUR300–EUR10,000, depending on the size of the legal entity (micro, small, medium and large legal entity) (approx. MKD18,450 to MKD615,000) and the responsible person at the legal entity may be fined EUR50 to EUR500 (approx. MKD3,000–MKD30,000), depending on the size of the legal entity.

For failure to register, the fine is EUR300 to EUR10,000, depending on the size of the legal entity (approx. MKD18,450 to MKD615,000) for the legal entity and the responsible person at the legal entity may be fined EUR50 to EUR500 (approx. MKD3,000–MKD30,000), depending on the size of the legal entity.

Note that fines are payable in the local currency (MKD). However, the VAT law prescribes all of the fines in EUR. The MKD counter value of the penalty is calculated in accordance with the applicable middle exchange rate published by the National Bank on the day when the penalty is imposed.

Also, the exact currency equivalent can be calculated on the day when the penalty is imposed, in accordance with the applicable middle exchange rate published by the National Bank.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For failure to timely file the respective tax return, the legal entity may be fined with EUR300 to EUR10,000, depending on the size of the legal entity (micro, small, medium and large legal entity) (approx. MKD18,450 to MKD615,000) and the responsible person at the legal entity may be fined EUR50 to EUR500 (approx. MKD3,000 to MKD30,000), depending on the size of the legal entity. The same penalties apply if the legal entity fails to pay the VAT into the authorities' bank account into which registered VAT payers must pay their VAT or if the legal entity makes inaccurate VAT accounting entries.

Taxable persons that make a late VAT payment are liable to pay interest on the tax due at a rate of 0.03% for each day of delay.

Penalties for errors. For invoices, they should be issued in a period of five days, as of the day when the supply of goods/services was made. A legal entity may be fined with EUR300 to EUR10,000, depending on the size of the legal entity (micro, small, medium and large legal entity) (approx. MKD18,450 to MKD615,000) and the responsible person at the legal entity may be fined EUR50 to EUR500 (approx. MKD3,000 to MKD30,000), depending on the size of the legal entity. The same penalty applies in cases where the taxable person keeps records incorrectly, issues irregular invoices and does not keep the invoices and other records within the prescribed deadline.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. The responsible person at a legal entity that does not file a tax return within the prescribed deadline, presents inaccurate/false information in the tax returns and in that manner makes misrepresentation of their tax position, or submits a tax return but fails to pay the due tax and for the purposes of gaining greater property gain or value may be imposed to a criminal liability – prison in duration of six months up to five years and with a monetary fine. In cases where the tax fraud is of a significant amount, the responsible person will be exposed to criminal liability – prison, in duration of at least four years and a monetary fine. The legal entity will be exposed to a monetary fine. The gains from the tax fraud shall be confiscated by virtue of judicial ruling.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in North Macedonia. See the various subsections above for further details on each type of penalty that can be imposed.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in North Macedonia is 5 or 10 years. The determination of the tax and ancillary taxes, their change and termination are not allowed, if the statute of limitations has expired. The statute of limitations regarding taxes and ancillary taxes begins at the end of the year in which a factual situation has occurred.

The statute of limitations is generally 5 years, but in cases of tax evasion, the statue of limitations is 10 years. In any case, upon expiration of 10 years, the determination of tax and ancillary tax is obsolete.

Norway

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Oslo GMT +1

EY
Mail address:
N-0155 Oslo
P.O. Box 1156 Sentrum
N-0107 Oslo
Norway

Street address:
Stortovet 7
Norway

Indirect tax contacts

Øystein Arff Gulseth
+47 982-06-387
oystein.arff.gulseth@no.ey.com

Agnete Haugerud
+47 982-06-318
agnete.haugerud@no.ey.com

Cecilie Dyrnes
+47 982-94-516
cecilie.dyrnes@no.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Merverdiavgift (MVA)
Date introduced	1 January 1970
Trading bloc membership	European Free Trade Association (EFTA)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.skatteetaten.no)
VAT rates
Standard	25%
Reduced	15%, 12%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt without credit
VAT number format	123 456 789 MVA
VAT return periods	Bimonthly (with the possibility for shorter periods) Annual (for farmers and fishermen; optional for other businesses if taxable turnover does not exceed NOK 1 million)
Thresholds
Registration	NOK50,000 (approx. EUR4,250) for all taxable persons, aside from charitable and nonprofit organizations (which is NOK140,000 (approx. EUR11,875)
Established	NOK 50,000 (approx. EUR4,250)
Non-established	NOK 50,000 (approx. EUR4,250)
Distance selling	NOK 50,000 (approx. EUR4,250)
Intra-Community acquisitions	Not applicable
Electronically supplied services	NOK50,000 (approx. EUR4,250)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Norway by a taxable person
- Withdrawals of goods from a registered enterprise or an enterprise with a registration obligation for use outside the scope of the VAT Act and withdrawals of services from a registered enterprise or an enterprise with a registration obligation for private use or for purposes not regarding the enterprise
- Purchase of intangible or remote supply services from abroad by a Norwegian taxable person or public body
- The importation of goods, regardless of the status of the importer

The application of delivery terms affects the deemed place of supply of goods. The supply of services in Norway related to goods or real property is deemed to be liable to VAT in Norway.

Effective use and enjoyment. In Norway, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. According to the Norwegian VAT Act § 6-14, the supply of goods and services as part of a transfer of an ongoing business is exempt from VAT (zero-rated). It is an absolute requirement that the ongoing business is continued by the new owner. In addition, the following elements are relevant: the transfer of employees, inventory and fixed assets, etc. Normally, the transfer of one single asset does not qualify for an exemption. The exemption applies only if the new owner continues the business for a certain period subsequent to the transfer. It is not a requirement that the business has its own personnel, HR department, etc.; it is sufficient that the business is capable of operating in a market regardless of whether the business is operated by its own personnel or by outsourcing of operational tasks.

Transactions between related parties. There is no difference between supplies of goods and services for transactions between related parties. If a commonality of interest exists between the supplier and the recipient of goods or services and it must be assumed that this could result in a different consideration being set than would be the case if such commonality of interest did not exist, the basis of calculation may not be set lower than the market value.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services in Norway, in the course of a business.

The VAT registration threshold is NOK50,000 (approx. EUR4,250) during a 12-month period. However, for charitable bodies and some nonprofit organizations, the 12-month threshold is NOK140,000 (approx. EUR11,875). Special rules also apply to certain partnerships, trading companies and corporations.

The one that is acting as the importer of records (recipient of goods) in the customs declaration is liable to pay import VAT.

Exemption from registration. Nonresident foreign transporters that supply only international, zero-rated transportation services may choose between registering for VAT and thereafter applying for deduction of input tax through their VAT returns or remaining not registered and applying for VAT refunds through the refund regime.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Norwegian VAT legislation provides an option for voluntary registration for VAT purposes for certain activities. For example, voluntary registration is available for leasing property for use by a taxable business.

There are no special VAT registration rules for small businesses in Norway. Normal VAT registration rules apply.

Group registration. The Norwegian VAT Act allows "collaborating companies" to form a VAT group. Group registration may apply if one or more companies own at least 85% of the capital in each company and if the companies are collaborating. Special issues arise for groups of companies with foreign presence.

To form a VAT group, an application must be made to the tax authorities.

Members of a VAT group are regarded as one taxable person liable to payment of VAT. All the participating companies are jointly and severally liable for the correct payment of VAT.

Transactions between companies within a VAT group are generally not subject to VAT. However, the withdrawal of taxable goods or services from a taxable part of the group's business may be subject to VAT. There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group.

Holding companies. Holding companies can be included in a VAT group in Norway, provided that the 85% ownership requirement is met.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption has not been implemented in Norway.

Fixed establishment. To have a fixed establishment in Norway, there must be a permanent establishment of a certain size, consisting of people and technical resources who together have the ability to deliver and receive services. The requirement for duration means that the temporary presence of persons and/or resources will not be sufficient. The presence of consultants, repairers, installers, etc., who come on "visits" to Norway to carry out their assignments in the country is not enough to create a permanent establishment. As a starting point, it is required that both the necessary persons and the resources are present as an independent collaboration ("together"). The presence of only the "resources" is not normally sufficient. For example, the rental of goods, where all storage, delivery, service, etc., is handled by third parties, is not enough for there to be a permanent place of business. On the other hand, the criterion relates only to the persons and resources necessary to carry out and receive deliveries. The fact that administrative support functions are "outsourced" to third parties will not, for example, affect the status of a permanent establishment.

The criterion for "permanent establishment" must not be taken too literally, and the question of whether there is a permanent establishment will, after all, depend on a specific overall assessment on a case-by-case basis. The key question is whether it appears to be rational and natural to define the establishment in question as a supplier or recipient place for taxable deliveries. In the Directorate's view, the criteria cannot normally be interpreted to mean that all the necessary resources and persons must be permanently present. For example, it may be acceptable that some of the overseas personnel "commute" to and from abroad without this depriving the establishment in Norway of the character of a permanent establishment if there are other key people permanently present and the company otherwise has the necessary technical resources to be a fixed establishment.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Norway. A non-established business must register for VAT if it makes taxable supplies of goods or services in Norway exceeding the registration threshold. Nonresident foreign transporters that supply only international, zero-rated transportation services may choose between registering for VAT and apply for refunds of input tax on VAT returns or remain unregistered and apply for VAT refunds through the refund scheme.

Tax representatives. If a non-established business is required to register for VAT in Norway, it must appoint a resident tax representative, unless it maintains a place of business or a registered office in Norway. The requirement to have a local representative has been abolished for Norwegian-registered foreign enterprises (NUF) domiciled in a European Economic Area (EEA) country that has an assistance agreement with Norway for the collection of VAT. This applies to enterprises domiciled in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Czech Republic, Croatia, Cyprus, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Iceland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, the Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Faroe Islands and Greenland. The requirement to have a local representative has also been abolished for enterprises domiciled in the United Kingdom (UK) on the same terms as for EEC countries.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism in Norway applies on purchases of services that are capable of delivery in Norway from a remote location (i.e., for business-to-business (B2B) supplies). Examples include electronically provided services, consultancy etc. The entity that purchases the service has an obligation to calculate and pay the VAT in Norway.

Domestic reverse charge. Climate credits. The domestic reverse charge must be calculated by the buyer of climate credits. Examples of climate credits can be carbon credits. Businesses or public companies that are not subject to the VAT regulations must also calculate VAT on the purchase of climate credits. However, this obligation only arises if the total purchase in a term exceeds NOK2,000 (EUR182) excluding VAT.

Gold. The domestic reverse charge must be calculated by the buyer of gold with a purity of at least 325 thousandths (of gold in an alloy). Examples of gold can be gold bars, gold dust, etc. The reverse-charge duty does not apply to the sale of gold where the price is based on function, design, etc., and not fineness and weight. Examples can be watches, etc.

Digital economy. VAT on e-commerce and services (VOEC). There is a special scheme in Norway for e-commerce and the business-to-consumer (B2C) supply of services that are capable of delivery in Norway from a remote location (known as the VAT on E-Commerce and services (VOEC)).

Nonresidents who supply services that are capable of delivery in Norway from a remote location to final consumers in Norway (B2C supplies) are required to register for VAT and charge VAT on services supplied to Norwegian consumers. A simplified VAT registration scheme, which is intended to be less burdensome in terms of administration, is available for foreign companies required to register for VAT. The suppliers may either register for VAT in Norway through the VAT register or through the simplified scheme. The simplified scheme has fewer administrative burdens than the VAT register.

Nonresident providers of B2C services that are capable of delivery in Norway from a remote location are obliged to register for VAT when turnover exceeds NOK50,000 (approx. EUR4,250) during a 12-month period. However, nonresident providers can also voluntarily register for VAT via the VOEC scheme from its first sale.

For companies that are registered for the simplified VAT scheme, an obligatory quarterly declaration must be submitted stating the company's identification number, total revenue and 25% VAT (currency NOK).

The government announced that from 1. July 2021 the limited VAT accountability for nonresident suppliers was abolished under the VOEC scheme.

Nonresident suppliers (businesses and marketplaces) of low-value goods, goods with value below NOK3,000, to consumers in Norway must calculate and collect VAT on B2C sales to Norway.

The suppliers may either register for VAT in Norway through the VAT register or through the simplified scheme. The simplified scheme has fewer administrative burdens than the VAT register does.

For goods with value at or above NOK3,000, foodstuffs, restricted goods and goods subject to excise duties, the simplified scheme (VOEC) is not available. These goods are subject to border collection of VAT (import VAT), excise duties and customs duties. Carriers might also charge the consumer an additional fee for calculating and paying the duties.

The NOK3,000 threshold of the VOEC scheme applies per item – not per invoice or transaction. The value of the item at "point of sale" is decisive. Additional costs and fees – e.g., shipping and insurance costs – are excluded when determining if the sale is within the NOK3,000 threshold (but to be included when calculating the VAT).

The consignments to Norwegian consumers should be marked with a VOEC identification number and relevant information to ensure correct customs clearance.

There are no other special rules in Norway for e-commerce supplies.

Online marketplaces and platforms. If electronic services are supplied through a mediator (i.e., an online marketplace or platform), the supplier is considered to sell services to the intermediary and the intermediary, in turn, is considered to transfer services to the buyer (two transactions).

The difference between the supplier and the intermediary is based on an overall assessment of whether "the delivery takes place through the use of an intermediary." It is not decisive whether underlying agreements between the parties classify the relationship as involving a subcontractor, intermediary, agent or commissioner, etc. as to who is contractually responsible for the content of the service is not necessarily decisive when assessing who must be registered. When deciding who the supplier is pursuant to the VAT Act, the most important factor is who is responsible for the actual delivery, i.e., who is responsible for transferring the files to the end user or gives the end user access to the digital content. Who collects payment from the recipient must also be taken into consideration. This provision means that those who sell electronic services through an intermediary cannot themselves be registered, pursuant to section 2-1 third paragraph.

Vouchers. In Norway, a distinction is made between "single-purpose voucher" (SPV) and "multi-purpose voucher" (MPV). SPV is a coupon where the place of delivery and tax amount for the underlying goods or services are known at the time of issue. In such cases, the goods or services in question shall be considered delivered when the coupon is issued, and VAT will be calculated on the goods or services. If the coupon does not turn out to be redeemed, it will not affect the tax treatment. MPV includes coupons that are not SPVs. For such vouchers, the underlying goods or services are not considered to have been delivered at the time of issue, and no value-added tax shall be calculated on the underlying product.

Registration procedures. The taxable person must be registered in the Central Coordinating Register for Legal Entities before moving forward with the VAT registration. The Coordinated Register Notification Part 1 is a common form for registration in the Central Coordinating Register of Norway.

The tax authorities have launched a new service that will simplify the registration process in the VAT register, replacing the previous form Coordinated Register Notification Part 2.

Every enterprise registered in the Central Coordinating Register will be given a unique nine-digit organization number. This number is used as a means of identification for the entities by most official registers containing business related information, such as the Register of Employers, the VAT register, etc. The taxable person, its accountant, auditor or advisor are entitled to apply for registration. It is preferable to register the business online.

Enterprises that do not have a place of business or domicile in Norway and are not obliged to be registered with a representative will normally not have any administrative employees with the Norwegian National Identity Number that gives them access to the existing administrative digital portal Altinn. If that is the case, the registration form (Coordinated Register Notification Part 1) could be submitted on paper.

Registration for VAT is done through a digital portal. The portal provides an online digital process for businesses to apply for an ordinary VAT registration, VAT group registration, voluntary VAT registration for the letting of real property, pre-registration and registration via fiscal representative. The VAT registration will normally be completed the same day as the application is submitted via the portal.

To register the business in the Central Coordinating Register for Legal the company will normally have to submit the following documents/information with the application:
- Certificate from the company register in the business's country of origin in original or a copy certified by public authority, attorney at law, associate attorney at law or auditor. The certificate must be in English or a Scandinavian language or translated to Norwegian or English by a legal authorized translator.
- For the person(s) who can sign on behalf of the company, according to the company certificate, the following details are needed: copy of passport or other identification document issued by public authority, which also must be certified; address and telephone number of the business.
- What kind of goods and/or services will be sold, and which date the sale will start in Norway.

Deregistration. Different rules apply to deregistration and closures of different types of entities and enterprises, but all deregistrations and closures must be notified using the Coordinated Register Notification Part 1 form or the digital platform. If VAT liable turnover falls under NOK50,000, without the business being deleted, the taxable person can remain registered in the Norwegian VAT register for two years.

Changes to VAT registration details. Changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may be submitted through the ordinary Coordinated Register Notification form or the digital platform. The taxable person is obliged to ensure that the registration details are always correct. Failure to submit correct information to the tax authorities may be penalized.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 25%
- Reduced rates: 15%, 12%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

In Norway, the term "exempt with credit" is also used for zero-rated supplies. This means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover input tax related to the supplies.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0% (i.e., exempt-with-credit)

- Exports
- Supplies to foreign ships, and aircraft and ships involved in foreign trade
- Books and newspapers (including e-newspapers and e-journals)
- Transfer of a business as a going concern
- International transportation services (goods and passengers)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 15%

- Food (excluding alcohol and tobacco, and supplies in restaurants)

Examples of services taxable at 12%

- Domestic passenger transportation services (excluding the leasing of vehicles as such)
- Television licenses
- Hotel accommodation
- Museums
- Amusement parks
- Galleries
- Larger sport events

The terms "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services
- Insurance
- Lease of residential property
- Medical services (but not including alternative medical treatment, cosmetic surgery and cosmetic treatment)
- Educational services
- Real estate transactions
- Specified cultural and sporting events

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Norway operates an option to tax in respect of the following types of supplies:

- Letting out buildings or hiring out plants for use in taxable activity by an enterprise or in municipal or county municipal activity
- Letting out agricultural properties of at least five dekar (1 dekar is 1,000 m2) and agricultural land without buildings
- Associations of which the object is to build and maintain forest roads
- Developers who, for nonbusiness purposes, build water or sewage plants under private auspices
- Businesses and public enterprises that make railway installations available against consideration for an enterprise that is VAT registered

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when they are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when they are performed. The time of payment does not generally affect the time of supply. If a customer makes an advance payment, the general rule is that the tax point remains the date of delivery of the goods or the date of performance of the services.

The supplier may defer the time of supply by issuing an invoice. In general, an invoice may be issued up to one month after the date of delivery of goods or performance of services. The invoice date then becomes the tax point.

Sales documents issued within the first 15 working days of the month, can state the last day of the preceding month as the document date, provided that the goods or services are delivered at this time.

For services that are delivered on the basis of metered consumption (for example, electricity and telecommunications), sales documentation may be issued for longer periods, up to a maximum period of one year.

For services that are delivered on the basis of a tender or an equivalent pre-agreed price, the parties may agree on the sales documentation, unless the agreed invoicing deviates materially from the actual progress of the service delivery.

Sales documentation for certain services, such as passenger transportation or leases, may be issued in advance.

Deposits and prepayments. VAT can generally not be charged on deposits and prepayments. As a general rule, a supplier cannot claim VAT of an invoice/bill of sale issued prior to the time of supply – some exceptions apply. If a customer makes an advance payment, the general rule is that the tax point remains the date of delivery of the goods or the date of performance of the services.

Continuous supplies of services. Deliveries, regardless of whether they are goods or services, invoiced monthly may be invoiced up to the 15th working day of the month following the month of delivery. Services delivered on a recurring basis, and goods delivered in connection therewith, must be invoiced no later than one month after the end of the ordinary VAT period.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The VAT must be charged when the goods are delivered. If the goods are returned to the seller, a credit-note should be issued by the seller.

Reverse-charge services. VAT payable through the reverse-charge mechanism is due on the date of the invoice if the invoice is issued in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles in the country of the service provider.

Leased assets. Leased assets, regardless of the type of lease, are to be invoiced on a regular basis, at the latest one month exceeding the VAT period. The tax point for supplies of leased assets is usually the invoice date.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the official date of importation.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover VAT, which is charged on goods and services supplied to it for taxable business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Norway, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed for reverse-charge services received from outside Norway.

The amount of the VAT reclaimed must be detailed on a valid VAT invoice. Consequently, VAT may not be deducted as input tax before a VAT invoice is received. Input tax that is not properly documented may not be deducted. The input tax deduction must be reported in the VAT period in which the invoice is dated.

A deduction of input tax may be granted only if the payment is made through a bank or similar financial institution, unless the total payment is less than NOK10,000 (approx. EUR850).

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Norway is three years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not for use in a business that is subject to VAT (for example, goods acquired for private use). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Tobacco and alcohol
- Personal expenses
- Business entertainment
- Restaurant meals

- Purchase and maintenance of passenger vehicles, with certain exemptions for taxi and car-lease companies
- Gifts and handouts for advertising purposes if the value is at least NOK100 (approx. EUR8,5) inclusive of VAT

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising
- Purchase, lease and hire of vans and trucks not for private use
- Fuel for vans and trucks not for private use
- Conferences
- Business use of home telephones and mobile telephones
- Passenger transportation services that are not for private use

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a Norwegian taxable person makes both exempt supplies and taxable supplies, it may not deduct input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." Zero-rated supplies are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for both taxable and exempt supplies must be apportioned to reflect the supplies that carry the right to deduction and those that do not carry such right. The apportionment may also be calculated based on the ratio of taxable supplies to exempt supplies in the preceding financial year if the preceding financial year is representative of the normal pattern of trading.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method or special methods in Norway. Special methods are allowed in Norway. However, taxable persons must document the applied calculation method and present it in case of an audit by the tax authorities.

Capital goods. Capital goods are those assets that are procured with a certain value and duration in a business. In Norway capital goods are the following:

- Machinery, inventory and other fixed assets where the value of input tax of the capital good is higher than NOK50,000 (approx. EUR4,250)
  Or
- Real estate that has been subject of new, extension or redevelopment where input tax amounts to NOK100,000 (approx. EUR8,500) or higher

Input tax incurred on the capital goods is deducted when the capital goods are acquired. However, the amount of input tax on capital goods depends on the use of the capital good in a 10-year period for real estate and 5-year period for other capital goods. The use of the capital good must therefore be assessed each year in the adjustment period. The initial deducted input tax is adjusted if the use of the capital good changes from VAT deductible to nondeductible purposes (or vice versa).

In Norway, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services.

Refunds. If the amount of VAT recoverable in a bimonthly period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, the taxable person has an input tax credit. A refund claim is triggered automatically if the VAT return shows a VAT credit. Refunds are generally processed within three weeks after the date on which the VAT authorities receive the VAT return. The VAT authorities pay interest on refunds that are paid late. As of 1 July 2023, the annual interest rate is 11.75%.

Pre-registration costs. A VAT-registered entity is entitled to deduct input tax on goods and services that were procured up to three years prior to registration in the VAT register (retrospective tax settlement), provided that the procurements are directly related to the taxable activity. The retrospective tax settlement must be claimed no later than three years after registration. Special limitation rules apply for retrospective tax settlement related to "capital goods."

Bad debts. A taxable person can reverse the calculated output tax if it must be regarded as indefinitely unrecoverable from the recipient of the supply. The debtor (i.e., the recipient of the supply) must not have the ability to pay off the supplier's receivable and the claim must be regarded as indefinitely unrecoverable. It is not enough that the debtor lacks the willingness to settle the receivable. There are strict conditions that need to be met for the VAT to be defined as indefinitely unrecoverable and therefore reimbursed by the tax authorities as a "bad debt."

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Norway.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Norway is recoverable. The Norwegian VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Norway. A non-established business may claim Norwegian VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

Norway does not apply the reciprocity principle to refunds. Consequently, it does not exclude claimants based on the country where they are established. For example, foreign entrepreneurs providing transport services directly to and from Norway are not obliged to register for VAT, but they are entitled to receive a refund of VAT paid on purchases of goods and services in Norway.

A claimant must submit the following documentation to obtain a VAT refund:

- Application Form RF 1032
- Under the general rule, the original VAT invoices and import documents. If the applicant only has an electronic accounting system, this must be stated in the application. In such case, printouts will be accepted. Original invoices will be returned once the application has been processed
- A power of attorney if the claimant uses the services of a third party to recover the VAT
- A certificate of taxable status obtained from the competent tax authorities in the country in which the claimant is established. The certificate, which is valid for 12 months from the date of issuance, must be completed, signed and stamped by the local tax authorities
- If the claim relates to goods that are located in Norway at the time of submission of the claim form, an explanation of the basis on which the refund is requested
- The deadline for submitting applications is 30. September following the claim year. This deadline is strictly enforced. The forms must be completed in Norwegian, Danish, English or Swedish
- The minimum claim period is a calendar quarter, and the maximum claim period is one calendar year. The minimum claim amounts are NOK5,000 (approx. EUR425) for a quarter and NOK500 (approx. EUR42,5) for an annual claim
- Applications for refunds of Norwegian VAT may be sent to the following address:

  Skatteetaten
  Postboks 103
  N-1501 Moss
  Norway

- Claims for VAT refunds are generally paid within six months

Late payment interest. In Norway, interest is not paid on late refunds to non-established businesses.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Under the general rule, invoices and credit notes must be issued by the supplier for all sales and exports. A Norwegian taxable person must generally provide an invoice including VAT for all taxable supplies made. Invoices must support claims for input tax made by Norwegian taxable persons and VAT refunds claimed by non-established businesses.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply. The document should be marked "credit note" and it must refer to the original invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Norway, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Norway. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Norway.

Electronic invoicing is permitted, provided that the electronic invoice is in a non-editable format. The term "electronic invoicing" here means a noneditable file, f.eks.pdf., generated by the ERP system and sent to the client as an attachment to an email.

However, note that the term "electronic invoicing" in Norway differs from the term described above. According to the Norwegian Bookkeeping Standard 4 (NBS4), electronic invoices are data files sent by the invoice issuer (ERP system) directly into the invoice recipient's ERP system. The file is processed automatically. The pdf document is considered an electronic copy of the paper invoice.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing can be used by retailers in Norway, for supplies made cash sale to private consumers (for private use). Such supplies can be documented without specification of the buyer and rather by cash register receipt. The purchase amount must not exceed NOK40,000 (approx. EUR3,400) including VAT, and the payment must not be in cash. When the payment exceeds the above amount or is paid in cash, the purchaser's name and address must appear on the invoice.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Norway. It is only allowed for certain supplies, for example, an entity that has a bookkeeping obligation in Norway can issue an invoice for the purchase of goods or services from a seller that does not have a bookkeeping obligation.

Further, when a sale is completed with a part exchange, the invoice can be issued by one of the parties. A joint-number series can be used for such sale documents.

Additionally, there are specific regular invoicing exemptions for the agriculture industry, handicrafts and for purchase where the buyers themselves dispose of information only on the scale, volume, weight, quality, etc.

Proof of exports. Goods and services exported from Norway or supplied from the mainland (Norway) to the Norwegian areas of Jan Mayen and Svalbard are exempt from VAT with input tax credit. To qualify exported goods as VAT-free, suppliers must prove the goods have been exported. The documentation requirement for goods is a printed copy of the Customs Single Administrative Document where an attestation from the transporter or the Customs has been inserted Foreign currency invoices. If an invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the VAT must be stated in the domestic currency, which is the Norwegian kroner (NOK), using the official exchange rate for the date of the invoice. No other exchange rate may be used for VAT purposes. Other amounts shown on the invoice may be stated in other currencies.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Norway. As such, full VAT invoices are required. However, there are simplified invoicing rules for the system for VAT on e-commerce and electronic services (VOEC). See the subsection Digital economy above.

Records. Compulsory record reporting must be kept as long as there is a need to check the reporting material. Storage should be in a format that maintains the ability to read the material. Further, the material must be adequately secured against unjustified change, deletion or loss.

In Norway, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes includes primary documentation and secondary documentation. Primary documentation is used as a basis for the actual bookkeeping process, e.g., incoming and outgoing invoices, cash book balances, bank vouchers, salary slips, specification of mandatory financial reporting. Secondary documentation is often additional documentation with important information, which does not directly lead to any transactions in the accounts. Examples of secondary documentation include sales agreements, order slips and other agreements of importance for the enterprise.

In Norway, VAT books and records can be held outside the country. Generally, it is up to the entity itself to decide where the ongoing accounting is carried out, as long as the retention requirements are met. As a main rule, records must be stored in Norway under the whole retention period. However, entities that conduct operations abroad may keep records related to this activity in that country if they are obligated to do so by the law of the country where the operations are conducted. The accounting material must be available for auditing by the tax authorities in Norway without any delay throughout the retention period. It is allowed to store the electronic accounting material in the Nordic countries, provided notification is made to the Directorate of Taxes. No application is required. However, for storage in other countries, an application is required. No specific guidelines have been given for the determination whether the storage in other countries will be permissible in any given case.

Record retention period. The main rule states that primary documentation must be kept for five years after the end of the fiscal year. Secondary documentation must be kept for three years and six months after the fiscal year ending period. There are several exceptions from these rules. One important exception is the expanded documentation rules for capital goods that are subject to VAT adjustments, where specific documentation must be kept up to 15 years from the end of the financial year of procurement. Import documents must be kept for 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Norway. Documentation that is necessary for the preparation of compulsory financial reporting and compulsory specifications, which is available electronically, must stay accessible as such for at least three and a half years after the end of the financial year. Entities with less than NOK5 million in turnover (excluding VAT) are excluded. Entities that are in the process of liquidations must keep their documentation for six months after the liquidation is completed.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. In general, Norwegian taxable persons file bimonthly VAT returns. However, farmers and fishermen must file returns annually. Businesses with taxable turnover of less than NOK1 million may opt to file annual returns. VAT groups submit a single, joint VAT return bimonthly. Import VAT is also reported via the VAT return.

To ease cash flow, businesses that receive regular VAT refunds may request shorter VAT return periods. Taxable persons must contact the appropriate VAT office to register for annual returns or for permission to use shorter VAT return periods.

For bimonthly VAT returns, this must be reported within 1 month and 10 days after the end of the VAT period.

Periodic payments. For bimonthly VAT returns, the VAT due for each period must be paid in full within 1 month and 10 days after the end of the VAT period. For bimonthly reported VAT, this means that the first term of the VAT report (January and February) is reported 10 April, etc. Return liabilities must be paid in Norwegian kroner (NOK). The payment must be made to the tax authority's bank account by the due date of the submitted VAT return. All payments of VAT due must be made by bank transfer.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Norway for all taxable persons. It is obligatory to report VAT returns electronically. The opportunity to apply for an exemption for VAT returns by paper has been discontinued. The electronic VAT return form is filed via Altinn portal (https://www.altinn.no/en/forms-overview/tax-administration/value-added-tax-vat-return-general-industry-/).

Once the VAT return is submitted, the payment information will be provided in the Altinn portal, i.e., account number and KID (client identification number).

A new VAT return was introduced as of 2022. The new VAT return is based on standard Norwegian SAF-T VAT codes. The VAT return can either be submitted digitally ("system-to-system" via API technology) or manually via the Norwegian tax authority's portal.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Norway.

Special schemes. Recipients of remote services. Recipients of remote services who are not registered for VAT in Norway are obliged to report reverse-charge VAT through the government web portal (www.altinn.no) on a separate VAT return for non-registered entities (Form RF-0005). The return is submitted quarterly, and payments are done 1 month and 10 days after the end of the VAT period. The threshold is for purchases exceeding NOK2,000 (approx. EUR170) excluding VAT, per quarter year. The buyer must be a public sector enterprise or business that operates in or is affiliated to Norway. This also applies to foreign enterprises or businesses.

Secondhand goods. Where secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items or antiques are purchased for resale, including supplies on commission or at auction, the basis of calculation for the resale may be set as the difference between the purchase price and the sales price for the individual items. The goods must be purchased from a seller who does not charge VAT on the sale or who does not specify VAT in the sales document.

If purchases or resales are combined and the prices of the individual items are not known, the basis of calculation of the resale shall be the difference between the purchase price and the combined sales price of the items for the whole VAT period. If such purchases or sales amount to more than 80% of the purchases or sales made during the VAT period, the gross profit on other secondhand goods, etc., for which the sales price exceeds the purchase price may also be calculated as a whole and per VAT period. If, in a given VAT period, the value of the purchases exceeds that of the sales, the difference may be included in the total value of the purchases in subsequent VAT periods.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Norway.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Norway. It has been proposed to implement a VAT listings filing (sales and purchase notification) from 2024. In the National Budget for 2023 the Ministry of Finance expressed that no VAT listings will be introduced in the nearest future. At the time of preparing this chapter, no further developments have been announced. For more details, see the subsection Digital tax administration below.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In general, amounts reported incorrectly should be corrected by filing either a corrected (replaces the previous return) or supplementary return for the same period the mistake was made. Errors and omissions in former VAT returns may be corrected by the taxable person on its own initiative within three years without risk of penalty tax being imposed.

Digital tax administration. Standard Audit File for Tax (SAF-T). SAF-T is mandatory in Norway. All entities with a bookkeeping obligation in Norway are required to submit accounting data electronically using the xml format, when requested by the Norwegian tax authorities. SAF-T is a standard data format for providing accounting data. Companies are required to convert the requested accounting data to a SAF-T xml file and submit this through the government web portal (www.altinn.no). The primary purpose is to make tax audits more effective and efficient. SAF-T is mandatory for all entities with a bookkeeping obligation in Norway. However, exceptions are made to entities with a turnover of less than NOK5 million and entities with less than 600 accounting transactions per year. Note that if SAF-T exempt entities have electronically available data, e.g., an ERP system, SAF-T will still be mandatory.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Any entity that willfully or negligently fails to register for VAT could be subject to fines or imprisonment. Penalties and interest will also be assessed if, because of late registration, a taxable person submits a late VAT return or pays VAT late.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Penalty interest is imposed when an entity is late in delivering the compulsory VAT report or has conducted obvious mistakes. The interest rate is announced twice a year in a decree issued by the Ministry of Finance. As of 1. July 2023, the annual interest rate is 11.75%. An additional penalty of up to 60% of the tax due for a period may be imposed on taxable persons that willfully or negligently contravene the provisions of the VAT Act. However, the normal penalty rate is 20%.

Penalties for errors. The penalties for errors in Norway are the same as those for late payment and filings (see above).

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. The penalties for fraud in Norway are the same as those for late payment and filings (see above). If criminal charges apply for fraud, fines may apply as well as imprisonment of up to two years.

Personal liability for company officers. VAT representatives are jointly responsible for submitting the VAT return and paying any VAT due (joint and several liability).

In the event of bankruptcy, those in charge in the company may be held liable for outstanding VAT in case the negligence is proved against them in conducting business.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Norway is five years. Normally, the Norwegian tax authorities can go back up to five years in time to review returns and identify errors and impose penalties. However, for taxable persons who voluntarily correct errors in previous VAT returns, the tax authorities can go back up to 10 years.

Oman

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Muscat GMT +4

EY
Landmark Building, Opposite Al Amine Mosque
5th floor – Bawshar
Muscat
PO Box 1750
Muscat 112
Oman

Indirect tax contacts

Aamer Bhatti (resident in Dubai, United Arab Emirates)	+971 50 8050 757 aamer.bhatti@ae.ey.com
Mitul Patel	+968 22 504 569 mitul.patel@om.ey.com
Hussnain Ali Rao	+968 22 504 526 hussnain.rao@om.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	ضريبة القيمة المضافة
Date introduced	16 April 2021
Trading bloc membership	Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC)
	Greater Arab Free Trade Area (GAFTA)
Administered by	Oman Tax Authority (OTA) (https://tms.taxoman.gov.om/portal/web/taxportal/)
VAT rates
Standard	5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Alpha-numeric (10 characters), with two letters "OM" at the front indicating the country code (e.g., OMXXXXXXXXXX)
VAT return period	Quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	OMR38,500
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply (including deemed supply) of goods or services made by a taxable person in Oman
- The receipt of goods and services by a taxable person in Oman from a supplier who does not have a place of residence in Oman and is not subject to tax in Oman

- The importation of goods from outside the GCC implementing states into Oman (however, at the time of preparing this chapter, none of the GCC Member States treat one another as an implementing state for VAT purposes)

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Oman, the place of supply for electronically supplied services and telecommunication services is determined under the place of actual use and enjoyment rules. However, the VAT Executive Regulations state that the place of actual use and enjoyment shall be as follows:

- Place of use and enjoyment for electronically supplied services:
  - Place of residence of customer for taxable customers
  - Place of use and enjoyment for nontaxable customers shall be determined in accordance with the following:
    (a) The fixed location in cases where the service requires the customer to be at a fixed location
    (b) The international symbol for the electronic chip used by the customer to receive the services
    (c) The internet protocol (IP) address of the device the customer is using or any other method that identifies the customer's geographical location
    (d) The customer's address as stipulated in the tax invoice, or the documents used to send the invoices
    (e) Customer's bank account details
    (f) Other information of a commercial nature
- Place of use and enjoyment for telecommunication services:
  - The fixed location in cases where the service requires the customer to be at a fixed location
  - The country that owns the international symbol of the electronic chip used by the customer, for services supplied through mobile networks
  - If either of the cases above do not apply, then the place of supply shall be the place of residence of the customer, which the supplier shall determine based on information provided by the customer in accordance with usual commercial security procedures

As per the latest amendment to the VAT Executive Regulations, the place of supply for telecommunication services, and in particular roaming services, the place of supply would be determined where the data chip is issued and used by the customer, rather than in the place of use and actual enjoyment.

For further details, see the subsection Digital economy below.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Oman, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

- The part of activity being transferred is capable of operating by itself
- The supply includes all elements of the transferred activity, fully or partially, including tangible and non-tangible assets, and may include debt
- The transferee uses the assets to carry the same activity that the transferor is engaged in and the transferee must be licensed to carry out this activity

- The transferor shall be a taxable person, and the transferee shall be a taxable person or become taxable as a result of the transfer
- There must not be a series of consecutive transfers of the asset
- The transferor and transferee shall jointly and severally notify the tax authority of the transfer in the form prescribed for this purpose within a period of one month from the date of supply
- The transferor must provide an invoice to the transferee which includes all the requirements of a tax invoice and specifies all the supplies resulting from the transfer of the activity, and mention that it is not subject to VAT in line with Article 18 of the law

Transactions between related parties. In Oman, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the market value. Based on the VAT Executive Regulations, the term "market value" means the value of the consideration without tax for the supply as if it took place between two persons independent from each other and within fair competitive conditions, compared to similar supplies' values occurring on the date of that supply.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" in Oman is a person who conducts an activity independently for the purpose of generating income and is registered with the tax authority or is required to register.

A person's obligation to register for VAT in Oman is determined based on their residence status. A person who has a place of residence in Oman must register with the tax authority in either of the following two cases:
- If the total value of supplies at the end of any month in addition to the 11 months immediately preceding it, exceeds the mandatory registration threshold (OMR38,500).
- If the total value of supplies, which is expected to be achieved at the end of any month in addition to the 11 months immediately following it, exceeds the mandatory registration threshold (OMR38,500).

Any person who does not have a place of residence in Oman must register with the tax authority from the date it is obliged to pay tax in accordance with the provisions of the Oman VAT law.

Exemption from registration. A taxable person whose value of taxable supplies exceeds OMR38,500 but whose supplies are exclusively zero-rated may apply to the tax authority for an exemption from VAT registration (also known as registration exception). However, the tax authority has the right to collect any VAT due, as well as administrative penalties, for the period of exemption from registration if the taxable person was not entitled to the exemption.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Every taxable person who has a place of residence in Oman and makes taxable supplies and is not obliged to register under the mandatory registration criteria may apply for a voluntary registration in either of the following two cases:
- If the total value of supplies or expenses at the end of any month in addition to the 11 months immediately preceding it, exceeds the voluntary registration threshold (OMR19,250).
- If the total value of supplies or expenses expected by the end of any month in addition to the 11 months immediately following it, exceeds the voluntary registration threshold (OMR19,250).

For companies with an Omani commercial registration certificate, the VAT registration should be carried out online through the taxpayer portal. For individuals or entities without a commercial registration, an online excel form is available on the Oman tax authority website, which may be submitted via email.

Group registration. Two or more persons may register and may be treated subsequently as a tax group, provided the following conditions are met:
- Each person has a place of residence in the Sultanate
- All members are legal persons

- Each member must be a taxable person and registered for VAT (as per the requirements of the Oman VAT law)
- One person, whether a member of the group or not, has control over all other members of the tax group
- None of the persons is a member of another tax group
- None of the persons is a person registered with the authority operating a special zone

The term "control" for VAT purposes is defined as direct or indirect control of other person's activities or commercial matters, or owns more than 50% of the voting rights, or more than 50% of the capital of the other legal person

The persons in the tax group must appoint one of them as the representative of the group. A registration application for the tax group must be submitted by the tax representative on the form prepared for such purposes, provided it includes the general details and documents for registration in respect of the members of the group, in addition to the following details and documents:

- A copy of the agreement concluded between the group members to appoint a tax representative and evidence of the representative's approval of the appointment
- The tax identification number for each member of the group

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group.

All members of the VAT group in Oman are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Oman, as per the definition in the Oman VAT law as, "the fixed place of the activity other than the workplace, through which any foreign person conducts its activity in the Sultanate partially or in full either directly or through an affiliated agent."

Non-established businesses. If a person that does not have a place of residence in Oman and no other taxable person is obliged to pay the VAT due on the supplies in Oman (i.e., via the reverse-charge mechanism), the non-established business must register for VAT. There is a nil registration threshold for non-established businesses.

Non-established businesses must apply for VAT registration through downloading the Excel-based application form from the Oman tax authority website and making a submission via email.

Tax representatives. A nonresident person has the option to appoint a tax representative after obtaining the approval of the tax authority. The tax representative must represent the taxable person in its obligations and rights related to the tax.

A taxable person who has no place of residence in Oman may appoint a tax representative provided the following conditions are met:

- The tax representative is appointed under a written and valid agreement
- The tax representative has a place of residence in the Sultanate
- The tax representative is registered for tax in the Sultanate
- Other conditions determined by the authority

Reverse charge. For certain transactions, the liability to account for VAT in Oman shifts from the supplier to the customer, under the reverse-charge mechanism. The reverse-charge mechanism must be applied when a taxable person in Oman receives a supply of services from a nonresident person and those goods or services are subject to VAT in Oman.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Oman.

Digital economy. Supplies of telecommunications (wired and wireless) and electronic services are subject to Oman VAT to the extent that the use and benefit of such services takes place in Oman.

Telecommunication services are defined in the VAT legislation, and include those supplied through transfer, broadcasting, transmission or reception of signals, symbols, signs, scripts, visible and invisible pictures, sounds, data or information of any nature by wired systems, radio, light or any other electromagnetic or electronic systems, etc.

The place of supply of wired and wireless telecommunication services is the place of the actual usage or enjoyment of these services. The place of the actual usage or enjoyment shall be determined as follows:
- In the place of residence of the customer, in cases where the customer is taxable
- In the place of actual usage and enjoyment of those services, in cases where the customer is not taxable

For further details, see the subsection Effective use and enjoyment above.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to register and account for VAT in Oman, regardless of the value of their supplies.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT in Oman. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Oman.

Online marketplaces and platforms. The supply of online marketplace or platforms for the sale of goods or services is an electronic service for VAT purposes in Oman and follows the same place of supply rules as indicated above (place of supply rules depend on whether the customer is a taxable or nontaxable person). Generally, businesses who supply online marketplace services to taxable persons in Oman (B2B) would not have a registration obligation as the VAT should be accounted for by the taxable customer under the reverse-charge mechanism. A registration obligation is triggered if the supply has a place of supply in Oman, the customers are nontaxable (B2C), and the registration obligation arises regardless of the value of supplies.

Depending on the extent of operations of the online marketplaces and platforms in Oman, a fixed establishment may be created. For further details, see the subsection Fixed establishment above.

Registration procedures. An application for VAT registration must be submitted to the tax authority in the prescribed form available on the taxpayer portal. A resident taxable person who has a commercial registration number can submit the application electronically whereas other taxable persons, including non-established businesses, are required to use the manual application form available on the tax authority website.

Registration applications must be submitted to the tax authority on the form prescribed for such purposes and should include the following details and documents:
- General information of the applicant
- The nature of activity or activities carried out
- Commercial registration number (if any)
- Income tax identification number (if any)
- Excise tax identification number (if any)
- Customs identification number (if any)
- Details of actual or expected annual supplies
- Details of the actual or expected annual expenses

- Customs documents proving the activity or part activity of the applicant falling within the customs regime
- Suspension statuses in accordance with the common customs law (if any)
- Documents proving that the activity or part of the activity of the applicant is carried out within the special zones
- Bank account details
- Any other details or documents determined by the authority
- Bank guarantee for nonresidents

Deregistration. In the case of deregistration, the registered person should apply to the tax authority to cancel its registration in any of the following cases:
- Discontinuation of activity (i.e., commercial, industrial, professional, artisanal or service activities that may or may not be taxable under the Oman VAT law)
- Discontinuation of taxable supplies (supplies taxable at the standard or zero-rate of VAT under the Oman VAT law)
- If the value of the supplies falls below the voluntary registration threshold

A registered person may also request the cancellation of its registration if the value of its supplies falls below the mandatory registration threshold but exceeds the voluntary registration threshold.

The tax authority may reject an application for cancelation of registration if it does not meet the conditions for deregistration, and it must notify the taxable person of the decision to reject the application and the reason for such a decision.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any changes to the registration details for a registered taxable person already submitted to the tax authority at the time of obtaining VAT registration (e.g., change of principal officer or business address) should be reported within 30 days from the change in circumstance. The tax authority will issue a registration certificate containing the new information. The taxable person may notify the tax authority of the changes in the form available for this purpose, on the tax authority portal.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Basic food items
- Medicines and medical equipment approved by Ministry of Health (MOH)
- Investment grade gold, silver and platinum
- International transport of goods or passengers and the supply of related goods and services
- Supply of means of transport by sea, air and land, adapted for the transport of goods and passengers for commercial purposes and the supply of related goods and services
- Supply of rescue aircraft and ships
- Supply of oil and gas and oil derivatives
- Export of goods and services outside the GCC region including those that would be exempt if supplied domestically

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Certain financial services (e.g., provision of loans and advance, supply and issuance of shares, bonds and other securities, and life insurance services)
- Health care services and related goods and services
- Education services and related goods and services
- Supply of undeveloped land (bare land)
- Resale of residential real estate
- Local passenger transport
- Rental of real estate for residential purposes

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Oman.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is known as the "tax point" or "time of supply." The general time of supply for the supply of goods and services is the earliest of any of the following dates:

- Date of the supply
- Date of issuance of tax invoice
- Date of partial/full receipt of consideration

Further clarification as to what constitutes "date of supply," is the earliest of any of the following dates:

- Date of placing the goods at the disposal of the customer, in respect of the supply of goods without transport or dispatch
- Date of starting the transport or dispatch of goods in respect of the supply of goods with transport or dispatch
- Date of completion of the installation or assembly of the goods in respect of the supply of goods supplied with installation or assembly
- Date of actual completion of the performance of services or receipt by the customer and accepting it explicitly or upon issuance of a completion of services certificate by the customer
- Date of disposal of goods, for purposes other than business activity, whether with or without consideration
- Date of changing the use of goods to use for nontaxable supplies.
- Date of retaining of goods after ceasing to carry on the activity
- Date of supplying goods without consideration, unless the supply is related to the activity, such as gifts or free samples
- Date of deregistration of the taxable person, in respect of supplies made because of deregistration

Deposits and prepayments. The receipt of a deposit or prepayment creates a tax point where this forms part of the total payment of a particular supply if it precedes the issuance of a tax invoice.

Continuous supplies of services. For supplies that include the consecutive issuance of invoices or payments, the tax is due on the date of payment specified in the invoice or on the date of payment, whichever is earlier, and it is due at least once every 12 consecutive months.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. For the supply of goods sent on approval for sale or return, the time of supply is the earliest of the date the customer expressly accepts the goods, or on a date not exceeding one month from the date the goods were transferred to them or put at their disposal.

Reverse-charge services. For the supply of reverse-charge services, the time of supply rule is that the taxable person who has received the services must declare and pay the due tax in the VAT return that relates to the tax period at the date of supply for which the purchase took place.

Leased assets. For operating lease contracts, the tax is due on the date of payment specified in invoice or date of payment, whichever is earlier, and at least once every 12 consecutive months.

Imported goods. For imported goods, the tax is due on any of the following dates, depending on the circumstances:
- Date of import of goods
- Date the goods entered the first port of entry in accordance with the provisions of the GCC common customs law
- Where the goods are placed under customs duty suspension in accordance with the common customs law, the date the imported goods are released from such a suspension

Note that an import VAT deferment scheme is available, subject to application and approval by the tax authority.

Other supplies. Vending machines. For supplies made from vending machines, the time of supply is the date of collecting the cash from the machine.

Vouchers. Single-purpose vouchers, which have determined place of supply and value of tax due, have a time of supply upon issuance. Multi-purpose vouchers, which have no place of supply or value of tax determined at issuance, have a time of supply at redemption.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax incurred on the purchase of goods and services supplied to it for business purposes and where the VAT is specifically not disallowed for recovery under the law. Recovery is by way of deducting input tax against output tax, which is the VAT charged on supplies made by the business. Input tax includes VAT accounted for on imports of goods and self-assessed through the reverse-charge mechanism.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Oman is three years. Input tax should be deducted in the same tax period in which the right to deduction arose. However, the taxable person may postpone the deduction to another tax period by notifying the tax authority. The right to deduct input tax expires after three years from the end of the tax period during which the right to deduct was established.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered in respect of certain expenses specifically listed as nondeductible. Input tax may not be recovered in the below cases:
- If it is paid on goods and services used for purposes other than the taxable person's economic activity
- If it is paid on goods prohibited from trade in Oman
- If the VAT is paid on supplies or imports for the purposes of making exempt supplies in Oman

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible
- Any goods or services used for the purpose of entertainment services.
- Any motor vehicles and related goods and services that are available for personal use. Motor vehicles mean any vehicle that is designed or adapted for carrying not more than 10 passengers, including the driver. Motor vehicles do not include vehicles used in a vehicle rental business to customers or vehicles registered as an emergency vehicle.
- Any provision of food and beverage catering services.

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Motor vehicles
- Mobile phones
- Business samples/gifts (subject to conditions)
- Business travel expenses (including accommodation)

Partial exemption. Input tax related to goods and services used to provide supplies that are subject to VAT and other supplies that are exempt, may be deducted in accordance with the proportion of costs related to the supplies subject to the VAT.

The standard partial exemption method consists of the following two-stage calculation:
- Attribution of input tax exclusively used in making either taxable or exempt supplies.
- Apportionment of non-attributable input tax using the standard input-based calculation, which will calculate the percentage of recoverable input tax. This percentage is based on the respective values of VAT incurred wholly to make taxable supplies and VAT incurred to make wholly exempt and outside-the-scope supplies. The percentage should be rounded to three decimal places.

The percentage calculated must be multiplied by the amount of total non-attributable input tax incurred to establish the recoverable portion of that input tax.

The calculations referred to above must be undertaken in respect of each tax period where input tax incurred relates to making exempt supplies or to activities that are not in the course of business. At the end of each tax year, the taxable person must undertake the annual calculation outlined above, taking into account the amounts for the full tax year and any adjustment should be included in the first tax period of its subsequent tax year. The amount calculated for the tax year is compared to the input tax amount recovered in all the tax periods making up the tax year, and an adjustment to the recoverable tax must be made in the tax period.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method.

A taxable person may use an alternative (i.e., special) method to calculate partial exemption. Such alternative methods may be used provided the following conditions are met:
- The alternative method to calculate partial exemption gives an acceptable apportionment
- The method is based on actual use of the goods and services
- The method must include an annual adjustment of the exemption

A taxable person must obtain the tax authority's approval to use an alternative method to calculate partial exemptions.

Capital goods. Capital assets include material (tangible) assets (e.g., machinery, land and buildings) and immaterial (intangible) assets (e.g., patents, trademarks and royalties), which form part of the business assets of a taxable person, allocated for long-term use as a business instrument or means of investment. The following are also considered to be capital assets for the purposes of VAT:
- The acquisition or purchase of land, buildings or both land and buildings
- The construction of any building
- Large assets held primarily for sale in the ordinary course of business Input tax incurred on the purchase of a capital asset should be adjusted over a period of:
- Ten years for long-term assets (e.g., assets permanently attached to land)
- Five years for other capital assets

Businesses are entitled to deduct input tax on purchase, importation or development of capital assets at the time the input VAT is incurred and in accordance with the intended use of the assets.

The input tax should be deducted in line with the intended use of the capital assets. Input tax incurred on capital assets intended for wholly taxable use can be deducted in full, while input tax on capital assets intended wholly for exempt or nontaxable business purposes may not be deducted. Where an asset is intended or adapted to be used partially for a business purpose and partially for a nontaxable business purpose, then input tax shall be apportioned according to the expected use.

An adjustment to input tax deducted on capital assets is required when the use of the capital assets changes due to the following:
- Change of use of capital asset from taxable activity (e.g., supply of short-term services accommodation) to nontaxable activity (e.g., residential accommodation)
- Non-attributable capital assets change in line with the business's annual apportionment (e.g., a bank's head office building)
- Sale, disposal or assignment of capital assets during its useful life, resulting in a supply different from the businesses use of the asset (e.g., a bank selling its office building)

Change in use does not include the following cases:
- Capital assets intended for a certain taxable activity and later changed to a different taxable activity
- Capital assets acquired for a taxable activity purpose; however, they are not actually used for a period of time

The adjustment period commences from the beginning of the year during which the capital assets were purchased, obtained or constructed. Input tax incurred on the purchase of the capital asset should be adjusted in the relevant tax period based on the expected taxable use of the asset on a "fair and reasonable basis" based on the actual use of the asset. The input tax must be adjusted at the end of each tax year that falls within the adjustment period according to the following calculation:
- Adjusted tax = total input tax on capital assets x (initial recovery percentage – annual recovery percentage)

Any adjustment (positive or negative) should be done in the first tax period following the end of that tax year. If the capital asset is not used to make any taxable supplies in any tax year, the initial deduction percentage and the annual deduction percentage shall be zero percent (0%).

Where a taxable person sells, disposes of or surrenders a capital asset or ceases to be eligible to be registered for tax during the adjustment period, a final adjustment must be carried out, as follows:
- (Input tax incurred at the time of capital asset purchase) x (the number of years remaining for adjustment period) x (final adjustment percentage – initial recovery percentage) / number of years of adjustment period

Refunds. A taxable person can apply to the tax authority to refund the excess deductible tax for any tax period using the taxpayer checklist found on the online tax portal, during the prescribed deadline for submitting the tax return for that period, provided the deductible excess tax in that period exceeds OMR100.

Otherwise, a refund application may be submitted for the tax year, regardless of the value of the deductible excess tax, and during the deadline prescribed for submitting the tax return for the first tax period following that tax year. In all cases, the application must be submitted within a period of five years from the end of the tax period in which the right arose, otherwise the right will be forfeited.

On 25 October 2023, the Oman Tax Authority (OTA) issued Executive Decision No.521/2023, which introduced a schedule to be attached to the Oman VAT Executive Regulations outlining the additional scenarios for VAT refunds and the related terms and conditions. The schedule introduced three new refund schemes summarize below:

- Refund of VAT for nonprofit charitable organizations:
  - Nonprofit charitable organizations recognized under the relevant Omani laws qualify for a refund of VAT paid on goods and services directly used for charitable purposes.
- Refund of excess VAT on imports by nontaxable persons:
  - Nontaxable persons in Oman may apply for a refund of VAT amount paid on imports exceeding the amount of import VAT due to the OTA. This circumstance can arise if there has been a downward revision in the value of the goods post-customs assessment or if an incorrect classification led to overpayment of VAT at the point of importation. The refund should be supported with documentation proving an amendment to the customs declaration and proof of reclaiming excess customs tax, if initially levied.
- Refund of import VAT on goods that are subsequently re-exported:
  - Nontaxable persons in Oman may apply for a refund of import VAT paid on goods that are subsequently re-exported in accordance with the provisions of the GCC Common Customs Law, and where the customs duties are refunded. The refund should be supported with documentation evidencing the initial VAT payment, the customs declaration for the re-exportation and proof of reclaiming excess customs tax, if initially levied.

Additional conditions for the above-described refund scenarios include:

- The refund must be submitted on a quarterly basis
- The refund amount must not be less than OMR15
- The OTA is required to decide on a refund application within 30 days upon receipt of all necessary and complete documentation. If an answer is not provided within this timeframe, the application will be deemed rejected.
- Upon approval, the OTA shall process the refund amount within 15 days from the date of the decision notification.

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person may deduct the input tax incurred on goods supplied to the taxable person or imported by the taxable person prior to the effective date of registration, as per the following conditions:

- The goods are supplied to, or imported by, the taxable person within a period not exceeding three years, counting back from the effective date of registration, and the goods are still available for use on the effective date of registration.
- The taxable person has the right to deduct input tax on these goods - in accordance the law and regulations.

Bad debts. A taxable person may adjust the value of the tax due if the consideration was not fully or partially collected, provided the following conditions are met:

- The unpaid consideration is a result of supplies within the taxable person's activity
- The taxable person has listed this unpaid consideration on each supply recorded in its accounting books and records
- The value of the supply recorded in its books not including tax is over OMR5,000
- The taxable person has declared and paid the tax due on the supply to the authority
- The period between the tax payment due date mentioned on the invoice and date of the adjustment is no less than 12 months; if no tax payment due date is stated in the invoice, it will be taken as the tax invoice date
- The taxable person has written off the value of the consideration for the supply as a bad debt
- The supply is not made to related parties
- The taxable person has notified the customer in writing of the amount adjusted and included the wording "This is the amount of input tax to be adjusted on the tax return for the period within which the date of this notice falls."

In all cases, the taxable person may adjust the value of the tax on supplies within three years from meeting conditions required for bad debts.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Oman.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Oman is recoverable.

Input tax is recoverable in Oman in the following special cases:
- On condition of reciprocity, tax paid by any foreign government, military, diplomatic and consular bodies and missions, international organizations, heads and members of the diplomatic and consular corps accredited by Oman
- Tax paid by a person that does not have any place of residence in the Sultanate or any GCC state and is nontaxable
- The tax paid by any person who has a place of residence in any GCC State and is a taxable person in that State and does not have a place of residence in Oman and is not a taxable person in Oman
- The tax paid by tourists visiting Oman on goods purchased in Oman and carried by them in their personal luggage at the time of their departure outside the GCC States

At the time of preparing this chapter, for VAT purposes in Oman, GCC Member States will also be considered a non-GCC Member State until all GCC states implement a VAT system and there is an electronic services system (ESS) implemented between the States.

Refund of VAT paid by non-established businesses. Input tax paid in Oman by any person who does not have a place of residence in Oman or in any of the implementing GCC States can be refunded provided the following conditions are met:
- The individual is not registered for tax (or required to register) in Oman or in any of the implementing GCC Member States
- The individual does not have a place of residence in Oman or in any of the GCC Member States and does not supply goods or services for which it is required to pay tax in Oman or in any of the GCC Member States
- The applicant is tax registered in its country of residence if this country applies a VAT or a similar tax system
- The tax incurred in Oman by the individual is for the purposes of economic activity, and the tax is deductible in Oman
- The condition of reciprocity must be met in the tax rules in the applicant's country of residence
- The total value of the tax claimed on any tax refund request should not be less than OMR100
- The tax should not be incurred on any of the following goods and services:
  - Petroleum products
  - Tobacco or e-cigarette products
  - Alcoholic drinks
  - Telecommunications services
  - Motor vehicles
  - Goods (fully or partially) consumed and used in Oman

A tax refund application can be submitted by a person who does not have a place of residence in the Sultanate or in any of the GCC implementing Member States using the form provided by the tax authority, provided that the request includes the following details and documents:
- A copy of purchase invoices including the number and date of the invoice and other supporting documents to the invoices
- In relation to each invoice: names, addresses and tax identification numbers of suppliers in the Sultanate

- Value of the tax on each invoice and in total
- The applicant's bank account details
- A tax registration certificate or other statement issued by the tax administration of the country of residence of the applicant, showing the applicant's business address and tax registration number, provided that the certificate or statement is issued within three months of the date of the tax refund application

Refund of VAT to tourists. Tourists to Oman may claim a refund of the VAT paid on purchases of goods upon departure from Oman provided all the following conditions are met:

- The purchased goods have not been consumed in Oman
- The total purchased goods on each invoice must not be less than OMR25, not including tax
- The purchased goods should be for personal use
- The purchased goods should be removed from Oman within three months from the date of the purchase
- The purchased goods must be transported among the personal luggage of the tourist
- The purchased goods must not include the following:
  - Food and beverages
  - Oil and gas or derivatives of oil and gas
  - Tobacco and similar products

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must issue a VAT invoice when it makes a supply of goods or services, including zero-rated, exempt and deemed supplies, or when it receives full or part of the consideration prior to the date of supply. A VAT invoice should be issued for supplies made to both resident and nonresident persons. Tax invoices can be issued in Arabic or in English, provided that an Arabic translation is provided upon the tax authority's request. Tax invoices must be issued within 15 days from the date of supply (i.e., the earliest of delivery of good/service or receipt of full or partial payment).

Credit notes. Where, after the issuance of the VAT invoice, the VAT amount is to be adjusted (upward or downward) then a VAT debit or credit note should be issued. The VAT debit or credit note is treated as a VAT invoice. The issuance of credit notes is subject to the same requirements as a valid tax invoice. The credit note should make a clear reference (invoice number and date) to the original tax invoice to which it relates.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Oman, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Oman. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Oman. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Note that there are no electronic invoicing requirements in Oman at present. In Oman, "electronic invoicing" means the invoice is issued through ERP systems or the invoicing is linked to the tax authority portal. Currently, only the former takes place.

Similar to neighboring GCC countries, the OTA is evaluating the introduction of electronic invoicing. The latest amendments to the VAT Executive Regulations issued in October 2022 included provisions allowing the OTA to make electronic invoicing a mandatory requirement for future tax invoices. At the time of preparing this chapter, no specific timelines or requirements have been officially communicated by the OTA.

Simplified VAT invoices. A simplified VAT invoice may be issued in either of the following situations:

- The nature of the supplies does not require the issuance of a full tax invoice
- The value of supplies excluding tax is less than OMR500

The taxable person must apply for approval from the tax authority to issue simplified VAT invoices following the guidelines published in the tax portal.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Oman. A VAT registered customer may issue a VAT invoice on behalf of the taxable supplier, subject to fulfilling the below conditions:
- VAT invoices should be issued in accordance with the specific requirements for a valid VAT invoice.
- There is a written agreement between the parties that includes a description of the supplies to which this agreement applies.
- The supplier does not issue a tax invoice for the same supply.
- Both parties must notify the other party if they are no longer registered for VAT purposes.
- The customer provides the supplier with a copy of the tax invoice issued on its behalf and that the supplier approves it.
- The tax invoice includes the phrase "the taxable person is liable to pay any tax due on the supply."
- Each party notifies the other party in writing should they wish to cease this agreement.

Use of this scheme requires pre-approval from the tax authority.

Proof of exports. Until the implementation of the electronic services system across all the GCC Member States, supplies of goods shipped from Oman to other GCC states will be treated as an export of goods, which should be subject to the zero-rate of VAT, subject to the following conditions being met:
- The goods are physically exported to a place outside the GCC within (90) days from the date of supply.
- The goods are not used, consumed or changed in any way before the actual export, except in the manner necessary to prepare the goods for export.

A taxable person should maintain records and documents related to supplies of exported goods and services. Although the law has not explicitly stated the documents, this typically includes:
- Commercial documents (such as tax invoice, purchase orders, etc.)
- Transport documents
- Customs documentation

Foreign currency invoices. For the purposes of Oman VAT, VAT invoices can be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Omani rial (OMR) or any other currency. If the invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the VAT must be converted to OMR based on the average purchase and sale price of the currency published by the Central Bank of Oman at the date the tax is due.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons. As such, full VAT invoices are required. However, if the conditions to issue simplified invoices are met, simplified invoices can be issued for supplies to nontaxable persons (see the Simplified invoicing subsection above).

Records. In Oman, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include:
- Daily records in which the details of daily transactions are recorded according to their chronological and sequential order and maintaining all relevant documents that enable the control of the validity of these transactions
- The master record that monitors the opening of accounts and the transactions based on this account if there is a separate account for each type of supplies (taxable or exempt)
- The inventory record, where inventory items, the budget and the total count are recorded
- Records and documents related to supplies of imported and exported goods and services
- Records and documents related to intra-GCC supplies of goods and services, when applicable
- Records and documents related to all customs transactions
- All documents proving taxable supplies at zero percent (0%) rate

- Tax invoices, tax credit notes, tax debit notes issued or received
- Custom documents and other documents (e.g., shipping documents) related to import and export of goods
- Tax returns (including all supporting workings) and records of output tax in the case of tax declared under the reverse-charge mechanism or deferment of import tax
- Records that include information necessary to determine the correct tax treatment

The taxable person's records or books should be maintained in OMR. However, foreign currency records can be maintained after receiving written approval from the tax authority.

The taxable person may keep accounting records and books, invoices and documents in any language, if they are made available in the Arabic language upon the request of the authority.

At the time of preparing this chapter, there is no guidance in the VAT law or from the tax authorities on whether the records need to be kept locally in Oman or can be kept outside the country.

Record retention period. Records should be maintained by the taxable person for 10 years (or 15 for real estate-related transactions) following the end of the tax year in which the tax return is filed.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Oman. Records can be archived electronically provided they are true copies of the original documents.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. A taxable person must submit a VAT return electronically within 30 days following the end of the tax period.

The VAT return filing frequency is quarterly for all taxable persons.
- First tax period: January 1 to March 31
- Second tax period: April 1 to June 30
- Third tax period: July 1 to September 30
- Fourth tax period: October 1 to December 31

The first tax period starts from the effective date of registration until the end of the tax period. In all cases, the following tax period begins from the day following the end of the previous tax period.

Taxable persons are expected to file nil returns for tax periods with no taxable transactions.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT due by a taxable person in respect of a tax period must be made at the latest by 30 days following the end of that tax period. The taxable person making the payment must provide details of the tax registration number of the taxable person and the tax period to which it relates. VAT due may be paid by any of the following means:
- Submitting bank checks in the name of the tax authority
- Depositing the amount in the account of the tax authority created for this purpose
- Issuing a written order to the bank to transfer the amount from the taxable person's account to the tax authority's account and notifying the tax authority. The VAT due is not considered paid in this case unless the amount is credited in full to the tax authority's account
- Any other means determined by the tax authority

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Oman for all taxable persons. All tax returns, financial statements, records, documents and others must be filed electronically to the tax authority through the tax authority's online portal. As an exception, such returns may be submitted by hand or through registered mail.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Oman.

Special schemes. Profit margin scheme for used goods. A taxable person may calculate VAT on any supply of used (secondhand) goods by reference to the profit margin scheme in the following situation:

- The activity of buying or selling used goods is within the scope of the taxable person's usual activity
- The taxable person obtains approval from the authority to use the profit margin mechanism to calculate the tax on the form prepared for such purposes
- The used goods are physically located in Oman
- If the used goods are purchased from any of the following persons:
  - A nontaxable person in the Sultanate
  - A taxable person who calculated the tax on these used goods according to the profit margin mechanism under the approval of the authority
  - A taxable person who is not allowed to deduct input tax on the goods

The profit margin is the difference between the purchase price of the goods and the selling price of the goods, and the profit margin shall be deemed to be inclusive of VAT. A taxable person may not elect to calculate VAT on the profit margin in respect of the goods (as outlined above) if a VAT invoice or other document is issued for the supply, mentioning an amount of VAT chargeable on the supply.

Where a taxable person has charged VAT in respect of a supply under the profit margin scheme, the taxable person must issue a VAT invoice that clearly states the phrase "tax calculated under the profit-margin mechanism" in addition to all other information required to be stated in a VAT invoice except the amount of VAT. A "self-issued profit margin invoice" should be issued when a taxable person purchase used goods from a nontaxable person.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Oman.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Oman.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person in Oman can file a revised VAT return if it becomes aware of an error or omission in its VAT return. The revised VAT return should be filed electronically in the portal within 30 days of discovering the error or omission. A revised VAT return filed within the specified time limit is regarded as the original tax return. It is not permissible to revise the VAT return after three years from the date of its submission. In all cases, the taxable person is not allowed to revise the VAT return if the tax authority has initiated a tax inspection in relation to that return period.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Oman.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Any taxable person who has not applied for VAT registration within the set time frame is liable to a penalty of imprisonment for a period not less than one year and not exceeding three years, and/or a fine of not less than OMR5,000 and not exceeding OMR20,000, or both. The court, in the case of recurrence, may double the penalty and increase the imprisonment to the maximum of the legal threshold of punishment but not exceeding half this threshold.

Penalties for late payment and filings. If a taxable person deliberately fails to submit a VAT return for any tax period, it is liable to a penalty of imprisonment for a period not less than two months and not exceeding one year, or a fine of not less than OMR1,000 and not exceeding OMR10,000, or both. The court, in the case of recurrence, may double the penalty and increase the imprisonment to the maximum of the legal threshold of punishment but not exceeding half this threshold.

For late payment of VAT, a surcharge is imposed at a rate of 1% on the value of tax not paid. The surcharge applies to every month of the payment being overdue or part of a month from the end of the specified period for settlement until the settlement date.

Penalties for errors. Deliberately including inaccurate data or information in a refund application or deliberately issuing an invoice stating tax other than the tax imposed in accordance with the provisions of the law is liable to a penalty of imprisonment for a period not less than two months and not exceeding one year, or a fine of not less than OMR1,000 and not exceeding OMR10,000, or both. The court, in the case of recurrence, may double the penalty and increase the imprisonment to the maximum of the legal threshold of punishment but not exceeding half this threshold.

Refraining from including the actual data of the taxable amount and tax due in the VAT return is liable to a penalty of imprisonment for a period not less than one year and not exceeding three years, or a fine of not less than OMR5,000 and not exceeding OMR20,000, or both. The court, in the case of recurrence, may double the penalty and increase the imprisonment to the maximum of the legal threshold of punishment but not exceeding half this threshold.

The late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details to the tax authorities (within the set deadline) may result in imprisonment of two months to one year, or a fine of OMR1,000 to OMR10,000, or both. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Any taxable person who fails to report the correct data as to the taxable amount and tax due in the return or submits forged tax returns, documents or records to evade payment of tax, in part or full is liable to a penalty of imprisonment for a period not less than one year and not exceeding three years, and/or fine of not less than OMR5,000 and not exceeding OMR20,000, or both. The court, in the case of recurrence, may double the penalty and increase the imprisonment to the maximum of the legal threshold of punishment but not exceeding half this threshold.

Personal liability for company officers. The responsible person of the company can be held personally liable for not complying with the provisions of Oman VAT law and Executive Regulations.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Oman is three years. The tax authority cannot generally adjust returns after three years from the date of submission. This period may be extended to five years in cases of proven fraud. Taxable persons are not allowed to amend a tax return after three years from the date of its submission.

K. Transitional provisions

Implementation of VAT in other GCC Member States. GCC countries that have already implemented VAT are treated as non-implementing states if they do not treat Oman as an implementing state in their local tax legislation and they are not fully compliant with the provisions of the GCC VAT Agreement. The supply of goods and services from non-implementing states is considered as made from outside the GCC territory and the person's residence in such countries is treated as non-GCC residence.

Electronic services system in all GCC Member States. Intra-GCC supplies involving the shipment of goods from Oman to another GCC Member State will be considered as an export of goods until the establishment of the electronic services system in all GCC Member States.

Contracts silent on VAT. Contracts silent on VAT that have been entered into prior to the VAT implementation date in Oman but that straddle such date, should, in general, be treated as VAT inclusive.

Pakistan

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Karachi GMT +5

EY
EY Ford Rhodes
Mail address:
Progressive Plaza
P.O. Box 15541
Karachi 75530
Pakistan

Street address:
Beaumont Road
Karachi 75530
Pakistan

Indirect tax contacts

Haider Ali Patel	+92 (21) 3565-0007 haider.a.patel@pk.ey.com
Muhammad Awais (based in Lahore)	+92 (42) 3577-8402 muhammad.awais@pk.ey.com
Mansoor Saeed (based in Islamabad)	+9251-2344028 mansoor.saeed@pk.ey.com
Saud Ul Hassan	+92 (21) 3565-0007 saud.hassan@pk.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Sales tax (ST) (for services SST for Sindh, PST for Punjab, KST for Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and BST for Balochistan, ST and federal excise duty (FE) for Islamabad)
Local name	Sales tax
Date introduced	1 November 1990
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	Federal Board of Revenue (http://www.fbr.gov.pk) Sindh Revenue Board (http://www.srb.gos.pk/) Punjab Revenue Authority (https://pra.punjab.gov.pk) Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Revenue Authority (https://kpra.kp.gov.pk/) Balochistan Revenue Authority (http://bra.gob.pk/)
Sales tax rates
Standard	18% for goods under the federal law. For services, 13% in Sindh, 15% in Islamabad, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan and 16% in Punjab.
Reduced	Goods 1-16% and Services 1-15%
Other	Zero-rated (0%), higher rates, fixed rates and exempt
Sales tax number format	National tax number format 1111111-1 with prefix S, P, K or B denoting Sindh, Punjab, Khyer Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan
Sales tax return periods	Monthly, quarterly and annual
Thresholds
Registration
Manufacturers	PKR8 million
Retailers	If retailer falls under the definition of Tier-1 Retailer

Importers	None
Exporters	None
Wholesalers, dealers and distributors	None
Recovery of sales tax by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

Sales tax applies to the following transactions:
- Taxable supply of goods made in Pakistan in the course of a taxable activity carried on by a registered person
- Taxable import of goods into Pakistan
- Rendering of services specified by federal or provincial laws to be taxable

In Pakistan, the provinces have the right to impose sales tax on services. All four provinces of Pakistan have set up their own revenue board/authority and enacted legislation regarding the administration, levy and collection of sales tax on services. The provincial tax authorities are as follows:
- Sindh Revenue Board for Sindh Province
- Punjab Revenue Authority for Punjab Province
- Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Revenue Authority for Khyber Pakhtunkhwa
- Balochistan Revenue Authority for Balochistan

Islamabad Capital Territory, however, continues to empower the Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) to administer the tax on its behalf. In view of the separate provincial legislation in the four provinces, many service providers are required to file five separate sales tax returns and make five separate sales tax payments.

The following services are listed in the federal and provincial legislation as being taxable services. However, note that the following list is not exhaustive. Most of the following are similar in all jurisdictions:
- Telecommunication
- Advertisements
- Banking companies and nonbanking financial institutions
- Insurance companies
- Services provided or rendered by persons engaged in the contractual execution of work or furnishing supplies
- Construction services
- Shipping, customs and freight forwarding agents, stevedores and ship chandlers
- Services rendered by money exchangers
- Airport services
- Management services, including fund and asset management services
- Property developers
- Services provided by accountants and auditors and legal practitioners
- Technical, scientific and engineering consultants
- Rent a car and automobile rental services
- Surveyors
- Call centers
- Business support services
- Program producers and production houses
- Event management services
- Labor and manpower supply
- Public bonded warehouse
- Fumigation service

- Maintenance or cleaning service
- Janitorial service, etc.
- Hotels, restaurants, marriage halls, lawns, clubs and caterers
- Franchise services
- Services provided by architects or town planners
- Services provided by management consultants, etc.
- Taxicab aggregator services/ride hailing services
- Training services

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for sales tax in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Pakistan, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Note, in respect to services, every provincial law has provided rules for place of taxation. The sales tax law of Sindh has levied tax on services originating or consumed in Sindh, whereas all other provinces provide principal for taxation based on consumption or availing the services in their jurisdiction. Due to such conflicting provisions, there are some instances of double taxation on services that originated from a province and terminated in another province. All tax authorities are under negotiations to agree on a concise approach; however, presently, matters of double taxation are pending litigations.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a sales tax-registered or sales tax-registrable business will be subject to sales tax at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of sales tax. In Pakistan, a TOGC is treated as zero-rated where the sale or transfer of ownership of a taxable activity or part thereof from one taxable person to another registered person as an ongoing concern.

Transactions between related parties. In Pakistan, for a transaction between related parties, the value for sales tax purposes is calculated at the open market value. Where the person providing the service and the recipient of the service are associated persons, and the service is provided for no consideration or for a consideration that is lower than the price at which the person provides the service to other persons who are not associated persons, the value of the service shall mean the price at which the service is provided to such other persons who are not associated persons. In case there is reason to believe that the value of a service has not been correctly declared in the invoice or for any special nature of transaction it is difficult to ascertain the value of a service, the price the service would fetch in an open market transaction freely entered between persons who are not associated persons or the price a similar service would fetch in an open market transaction, would be considered as the transaction value.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a business that is required to register for sales tax. Taxable persons include the following:

- Manufacturers
  - Who have an industrial gas or electricity connection
  - Who are not located in a residential area
  - Whose taxable turnover in the preceding 12 months exceeded PKR8 million
- Retailers that are liable to pay sales tax excluding retailers that do not meet the requirement for registration and must pay sales tax through their electricity bills

- Importers
- Wholesaler's dealers or distributors
- Exporters who intend to obtain a sales tax refund against their zero-rated supplies
- Businesses that provide taxable services

Sales tax registration is required for every taxable person. Supplying taxable goods or rendering of taxable services without sales tax registration is tax fraud.

Importers must pay additional sales tax at a rate of 3% above the normal sales tax rate payable at the import stage. The 3% tax is considered as a minimum value addition tax and can be claimed as input tax and may be carried forward in the subsequent tax periods. However, it is not refundable, except if used for making of zero-rated supplies. The 3% tax does not apply to the following goods:

- Raw materials and intermediary goods imported by a manufacturer for in-house consumption excluding compressor scrap (Pakistan Customs Tariff [PCT] heading 7204.4940), motor scrap (PCT heading 7204.4990) and copper cable cutting scrap (PCT heading 7404.0090)
- Petroleum products falling under Chapter 27 of PCT as imported by a licensed Oil Marketing Company for sale in the country
- Registered service providers importing goods for their in-house business use for furtherance of their taxable activity and not intended for further supply
- Cellular mobile phones or satellite phones
- Liquefied natural gas (LNG)/re-gasified liquefied natural gas (RLNG)
- Secondhand and worn clothing or footwear (PCT Heading 6309.000)
- Gold in unworked condition
- Silver in unworked condition
- Goods as specified in the Third Schedule on which tax is paid on retail price basis
- Plant, machinery and equipment falling under Chapters 84 and 85 of the First Schedule to the Customs Act of 1969 as are imported by a manufacturer for in-house installation or use
- Electric vehicles (four-wheelers), CKD kits for small cars/SUVs, with 50 kWh battery or below and LCVs with below 150 kWh battery (with effect until 30 June 2026)
- Electric vehicles (four-wheelers) small cars/SUVs, with 50 kWh battery or below and LCVs with below 150 kWh battery in CBU condition (with effect until 30 June 2026)
- Electric vehicles (two- and three-wheelers and heavy commercial vehicles) in CBU condition (with effect until 30 June 2025)
- Motor cars of cylinder capacity up to 850cc

Tier-1 Retailers. Retailers who meet any of the following conditions are required to register for sales tax as Tier-1 Retailers, and are also required to integrate their retail outlets with the tax department's systems for real time reporting:

- Retailers operating as a unit of a national or international chain of stores
- Retailers operating in air-conditioned shopping malls, plaza or center excluding kiosks
- Retailers whose cumulative electricity bill in the preceding 12 consecutive months exceeds PKR1.2 million
- A wholesaler-cum-retailer engaged in bulk import and supply of consumer goods on wholesale basis to the retailers, as well as on retail basis to the general body of the consumers
- A retailer who has acquired point-of-sale equipment for accepting payment through debit or credit cards from banking companies or any other digital payment service provider authorized by the State Bank of Pakistan
- A retailer whose deductible withholding tax under Sections 236G or 236H of the Income Tax Ordinance, 2001 (XLIX of 2001) during the immediately preceding 12 consecutive months has exceeded the threshold as may be specified by the board through notification in the Official Gazette. At the time of preparing this chapter, this is proposed to be added but subject to final legislation.
- Any other persons or class of persons as prescribed by the board

Tier-1 Retailers are required to charge sales tax at standard rate, i.e., 18% on their taxable supplies, and are required to file the monthly sales tax return. Such retailers are entitled to adjust any input tax paid or payable on their purchases. However, a reduced rate of 15% is available on supplies of finished articles of textile, textile made ups, leather and artificial leather.

Retailers who do not meet the above conditions are not required to be registered for sales tax purposes; however, sales tax is charged/and collected through monthly electricity bills, issued by the electric companies for such retailers, at the rate of 5% of their total electricity bill, where the monthly bill does not exceed PKR20,000 and where the bill exceeds the limit, at the rate of 7.5%. Such retailers are not entitled to adjust any input tax, nor are they required to file the monthly sales tax return.

Sales tax withholding agents. Sales tax withholding rules apply to taxable goods and services supplied to the following persons, which are referred to as withholding agents:
- Federal and provincial government departments
- Autonomous bodies
- Public sector organizations
- "Companies" as defined in the Income Tax Ordinance 2001 and "persons" registered as exporters
- Persons registered with the respective sales tax authority that consumes services from unregistered persons
- Persons registered for sales tax that are recipients of advertising services
- Registered persons manufacturing lead batteries
- Registered persons purchasing cane molasses
- Online marketplace

For further details see the Sales tax withholding subsection below, under Section I. Returns and payment.

Exemption from registration. Persons who are involved in the supply of exempt goods are not required to register for sales tax. However, a person involved in the supply of goods or services that are subject to sales tax at the 0% (zero) rate are required to register for sales tax.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The federal sales tax law in Pakistan does not contain any provision for voluntary sales tax registration.

However, under the provincial sales tax laws in Pakistan, a person who is not required to be registered may apply for voluntary registration with the relevant provincial sales tax authorities and may obtain registration. In the case of voluntary registration, the voluntarily registered person is obliged to fulfill all the applicable requirements that are applicable for all registered persons, such as filing a sales tax return, etc.

Group registration. Group sales tax registration is not allowed in Pakistan.

Fixed establishment. In Pakistan, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for sales tax purposes. However, if a person owns, rents, shares or in any other manner occupies a space in Pakistan from where it carries on an economic activity whether wholly or partially; or carries on an economic activity through any other person such as an agent, associate, franchisee, branch, office or otherwise in Pakistan, or through virtual presence or a website or a web portal or through any other form of e-commerce, by whatever name called or treated, but does not include a liaison office, such place or presence would be treated as place of business in Pakistan and such person would be treated as resident.

In a case where such person is providing taxable services from a place of business in Pakistan, the person would be required to register for sales tax registration. Registration requirements would be the same as outlined below. For registration for an office address located in Pakistan, a national tax number and a local bank account in Pakistan are mandatory.

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses (i.e., those that do not have a place of business in Pakistan) are not required to register for sales tax. Generally, for services, the recipient pays the respective sales tax under the reverse-charge mechanism (see below) and for goods, sales tax is paid at import stage by the importer on record. However, if it is confirmed that such a person has a place of business in Pakistan (either physically or virtually) and is conducting taxable activity, they would be required to register for sales tax. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, no mechanism for registering non-established businesses involved in rendering services has been introduced by the tax authorities.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives must be authorized by a taxable person to represent them before the tax authorities. Only the following persons are authorized to represent a taxable person:

- Tax practitioners registered under Income Tax Rules, Sales Tax Rules and the Customs Act of 1969
- A person who has retired or resigned after putting in satisfactory service in the sales tax or customs or federal excise departments for a period of not less than 10 years in a post(s) not inferior to that of an assistant commissioner
- Advocates practicing under the Legal Practitioners and Bar Councils Act, 1973
- A person holding a bachelor's or master's degree in commerce
- An accountant
- A person working in the employment of the taxable person on a full-time basis and holding at least a bachelor's degree

Reverse charge. A resident service recipient receiving taxable services from a nonresident, unregistered service provider is liable to pay the applicable sales tax via the reverse-charge mechanism with the respective provincial tax authority. Payment of sales tax under the reverse-charge mechanism is the liability of the resident service recipient. However, it can otherwise be agreed between a service provider and a service recipient. Adjustment of sales tax paid under the reverse-charge mechanism is specifically barred under the provincial tax law of Punjab; however, in Sindh, where subject to certain conditions, the adjustment of input tax paid under the reverse-charge mechanism is allowed. In the Islamabad Capital Territory, payments to nonresident person in respect of franchise services only are subject to the reverse-charge mechanism. The tax laws of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan are silent on adjustment of input tax paid under reverse charge mechanism. In practice, most taxable persons claim input tax.

New rules (effective from 1 October 2023) have been introduced by the Sindh Revenue Board and the Punjab Revenue Authority. The new rules outline that certain banks and financial institutions must act as "collecting agents." The collecting agents are required to collect sales tax when residents in their respective provinces are making payments to nonresident service providers for IT and advertising services. The collecting agent is required to withhold and deduct sales tax at rates of 3% and 5% on IT services, and 13% and 16% on advertising services in Sindh and Punjab, respectively. At the time of preparing this chapter, the Sindh Revenue Board amended the collecting agent rules, exempting companies that are active taxpayers and making payments to nonresident service providers for the aforementioned services from the deduction of sales tax.

Domestic reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism as mentioned above may also be applicable on interprovincial transactions, i.e., where service provider is a nonresident/unregistered person in the jurisdiction where service recipient is located.

Digital economy. Under the provincial sales tax laws, where a taxable person is carrying on an economic activity through a virtual presence or a website or a web portal or through any other form of e-commerce, etc., in the respective provincial jurisdictions is treated as having a place of business in the respective provinces of Pakistan.

This means that nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to register and account for sales tax on supplies made in Pakistan, under the provincial sale tax laws.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Pakistan.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Services provided through online marketplaces are currently taxable under the provincial sales tax laws of certain provincial tax authorities. However, 1% of the gross value of supplies is required to be withheld under the Sales Tax Act 1990, provided that the supplier is a person other than the active taxable person. This requirement became effective from 1 September 2021.

Registration procedures. The application for sales tax registration needs to be submitted online through the FBR web portal (http://www.fbr.gov.pk). An online application is required to be filed providing data such as registered office address, email address, cell phone number, bank accounts, utility bills details, etc., through the computerized system, along with supportive documents such as the following, as applicable:

- Computerized National Identity Card (CNIC) of all owners, members, partners and directors
- CNIC of the representative, if any
- Passports of nonresidents
- Registration or Incorporation Certificate, along with Form III or Form A as prescribed under the Companies Act of 2017
- Partnership deed
- Bank account certificate issued by the bank in the name of the business
- Lease or rent agreement, along with CNIC of the owner of the premises
- Ownership documents of the premises, such as registered sale deed or registered transfer deed, latest utility bills (e.g., electricity, gas, landline telephone and post-paid mobile phones)
- List of machinery
- Maintenance of bank account certificate
- Distribution certificate from the principal showing distributorship or dealership
- Balance sheet/statement of affairs/equity of the business
- Particulars of all branches
- Particulars of all franchise holders
- GPS-tagged photographs of business premises and utility meter (in case of nonmanufacturers)
- GPS-tagged photographs of machinery and industrial electricity or gas meters installed along with manufacturing premises (in case of manufacturer)

The sales tax registration process with FBR has now been simplified, and if all the documents have been furnished, the sales tax registration number is provided. After registration, the applicant or the authorized person must visit a National Database and Registration Authority (NADRA) e-Sahulat Center immediately after registration for biometric verification. In the case of manufacturers, the FBR may require post-verification through field offices, or a third party authorized by the FBR. Taxable persons who are already registered with the FBR and are applying for sales tax registration with provinces may opt for e-enrollment. Once e-enrollment is completed, automatically the entire data of the taxable person that is present in the FBR database is transferred to the provincial tax authorities and the taxable person obtains the sales tax registration number with the respective provincial tax authority.

However, taxable persons who are not registered with FBR and are applying for sales tax registration with the provincial tax authorities must fill out an online application on the web portal, and after submitting it, a designated user ID and password are issued to the taxable person via email.

Deregistration. A business that ceases operations or whose supplies become exempt from sales tax must apply for cancellation of its sales tax registration. The business should apply to the Commissioner of Inland Revenue having jurisdiction for cancellation of its registration on a prescribed form. The Commissioner of Inland Revenue, consequent upon the filing of deregistration application, may conduct a detailed audit and scrutiny of the taxable person's records and create tax demand if applicable. Upon satisfaction that there is no due tax liability unpaid by the taxable person, the Commissioner of Inland Revenue may issue an order of deregistration or cancellation of the registration of such business.

Changes to sales tax registration details. Every registered taxable person is required to update their particulars as stated in the registration profile. To update/change the registration profile, a registered person is required to file an online form on the respective portal of the federal tax authority or the relevant provincial tax authority. A registered person is required to indicate any change in particulars of registration within a period of 14 days to the federal tax authority and the Punjab Revenue Authority and within 15 days to the Sindh Revenue Board and the Balochistan Revenue Authority. There is no time limit mentioned for applying change and the particular applications prescribed for the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Revenue Authority. Failure to update registration profile within the prescribed time limit may trigger penal implications.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services and to imports that are liable to a rate of sales tax, including the zero rate.

The sales tax rates for goods are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Reduced rates: 1%, 1.5%, 2%, 5%, 6%, 7%, 8%, 10%, 15%, 16%
- Zero-rate: 0%
- Other rates: 16% FED on goods in sales tax mode

In certain cases, a fixed amount of sales tax is levied on a supply of goods, e.g., on import and local supply of mobile phones and bricks. The standard tax rate of 18% is imposed on the value of the supply of goods or at the import stage. However, in certain cases, the value of the supply of certain goods is based on the manufacturer/importer's maximum retail price (not the transaction value/trade price). Exported goods are zero-rated (i.e., taxed at 0%). For businesses operating in certain export-oriented sectors, the reduced rate applies to goods they import and to local supplies of goods provided to them.

A further tax at the rate of 4% (with certain exceptions) is chargeable on the supply of goods to persons who have not obtained sales tax registration.

The sales tax rates for services are:
- Standard rates: 13%, 15%, 16%
- Reduced rates: 0%, 2%, 3%, 5%, 8%, 10%, 15%
- Other rates: 19.5% (telecommunication services)

Most services are taxed at 16% in Punjab, 15% in Islamabad, 13% in Sindh and 15% in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan. However, telecommunication services are taxed at 19.5% all over Pakistan.

Examples of zero-rated supplies of goods

- Exports
- Supplies to diplomats, diplomatic missions, privileged persons and privileged organizations
- Certain stationery goods such as erasers and exercise books, subject to certain conditions and limits
- Petroleum crude oil
- Milk (PCT heading 04.01) and fat-filled milk (PCT heading 1901.9090)

- Local supplies of raw materials, components, commodities, parts and plant and machinery to registered exporters authorized under the Export Facilitation Scheme of 2021 notified by the board with such conditions, limitations and restrictions as specified therein
- Imports or supplies made by, for or to a qualified investment as specified at Serial No.1 of the First Schedule to the Foreign Investment (Promotion and Protection) Act, 2022 for the period as specified in the Second Schedule to the said Act
- Supplies of locally manufactured plant and machinery subject to certain specifications, to manufacturers in the Gwadar Free Zone, subject to the conditions and restrictions

Examples of goods taxed based on the manufacturer's retail price

- Fruit juices and vegetable juices
- Ice cream
- Aerated water or beverages and drink syrups
- Cigarettes
- Toilet soap, detergents, shampoo, toothpaste and shaving cream
- Perfumery and cosmetics
- Powder drinks and milky drinks
- Tea
- Toilet paper and tissue paper
- Spices sold in retail packaging bearing brand names and trademarks
- Shoe polish and shoe cream
- Cement sold in retail packaging
- Mineral/bottled water
- Household electrical goods, including air conditioners, refrigerators, deep freezers, televisions, recorders and players, electric bulbs, tube lights, electric fans, electric irons, washing machines and telephone sets
- Household gas appliances, including cooking range, ovens, geysers and gas heaters
- Foam or spring mattresses and other foam products for household use
- Paints, distempers, enamels, pigments, colors, varnishes, gums, resins, dyes, glazes, thinners, blacks, cellulose lacquers and polishes sold in retail packing
- Lubricating oils, brake fluids, transmission fluid and other vehicular fluids sold in retail packing
- Storage batteries excluding those sold to automotive manufacturers or assemblers
- Tires and tubes, excluding those sold to automotive manufacturers or assemblers
- Motorcycles
- Auto rickshaws
- Biscuits in retail packing with brand name
- Tiles
- Auto parts in retail packing, excluding those sold to automotive manufacturers or assemblers

Examples of goods taxable at the reduced rates (1%–16%)

- Pharmaceuticals
- Natural gas supplied to fertilizer manufacturers
- Imported personal computers and laptops
- Electronic vehicles
- Motor cars up to 850cc
- Supplies of finished articles of textile, textile made ups, leather and artificial leather by Tier-1 Retailers (see the subsection, Tier-1 Retailers, above)
- Retail outlets as they are integrated with board's computerized system for real-time reporting of sales

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods that are not liable to sales tax and that do not qualify for an input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods

- Local supply of raw agricultural products, including eggs, meat of bovine animals, sheep and goat and fresh vegetables (except ware potatoes and onions)
- Newspapers and books
- Educational and scientific materials
- Supplies (excluding electricity and natural gas) made to hospitals run by the federal or provincial government or charitable operating hospitals of 50 beds or more, or to teaching hospitals of statutory universities of 200 or more beds
- Various items of machinery and equipment for marble, granite and gemstone extraction, and processing industries

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Pakistan.

E. Time of supply

The time when sales tax becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In general, the time of supply is when goods are delivered, or services are performed.

In the case of services in the provinces of Sindh, Punjab, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan, the time of supply is when the service is provided to the recipient, an invoice is raised, or consideration is received, whichever is earlier.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Pakistan for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. The Provincial Sales Tax on Services Act stipulates that where a service is provided over a period of time and payment for the service is made on a periodic basis, it shall be treated as comprising two or more separate and distinct services, each corresponding to the part of the service to which each separate part of the consideration relates.

Even though the Sales Tax on Goods Act is silent on continuous supplies of goods, the same procedure as stated above is also applied in practice. Accordingly, sales tax, invoices and payments should be made on a monthly basis for a continuous supply (e.g., electricity and telecommunications).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Goods delivered or made available to the recipient would be considered to be a taxable supply. In the case of a return of taxable goods, there is a procedure for issuing debit/credit notes by the seller and buyer so as to adjust the sales tax charged and reported on such goods in the sales tax return.

Reverse-charge services. Under the provincial sales tax law on services, the liability to pay the applicable tax on services under the reverse-charge mechanism falls on the person receiving the service. The applicable sales tax is required to be paid in the month when the services were received.

Leased assets. Taxable goods that are supplied on lease terms, without transfer of ownership and risks and rewards attached to the goods, are not considered as a supply for sales tax purposes, and as such no sales tax is due.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

F. Recovery of sales tax by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is sales tax charged on taxable goods and taxable services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is sales tax charged on supplies made. For manufacturers and service providers (with certain exceptions), the registered person may not claim input tax greater than 95% of the output tax for that tax period. However, any excess may be carried forward.

Input tax includes sales tax paid on goods and services purchased in Pakistan and on goods imported into Pakistan, and federal excise duty levied and collected using the sales tax mechanism.

The provincial sales tax laws provide certain restrictions on the adjustment of sales tax. Input tax must generally be claimed in the month in which the invoice is issued. However, for electricity and gas supplies, the input tax must be claimed in the month in which the invoice is paid. A separate refund claim should be made for input tax that is not claimed in the aforesaid tax periods.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Pakistan is any of the six succeeding tax periods.

A valid tax invoice or customs documents must generally accompany a claim for input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Through the amendments to the federal sales tax law, a new provision has been added in Section 73 of the Sales Tax Act which states that a sales tax-registered person would make taxable supplies only to a person registered for sales tax under the Act. If the following assigned sales limits are exceeded, any sales made to the customers who have not obtained sales tax registration but are required to would be subject to disallowance of related input tax as attributable to such excess sales, i.e., exceeding the below threshold:
- Supplies to unregistered customers PKR100 million in a financial year
- Supplies to unregistered customers PKR10 million in a month

However, the above provision would not apply on supplies made to government bodies not engaged in making of taxable supplies, foreign missions, diplomats, privileged persons and any person not engaged in supply of taxable goods.

Moreover, input tax attributable to supplies made to non-registered persons, on a pro rata basis, for which sale tax invoices do not bear the national identity card number or national tax number of the recipient, as stipulated under the tax invoice requirement, would also be disallowed.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchases used for nonbusiness purposes
- Business gifts
- Business and staff entertainment
- Purchase of vehicles and parts of such vehicles
- Building and construction materials (excluding prefabricated materials), paints, electrical and sanitary fittings, pipes, wires and cables used in or permanently attached to immovable property
- Electrical and gas appliances, furniture, furnishings, office equipment (excluding electronic cash registers) but excluding such goods acquired for sale or resale
- Goods or services on which sales tax has not been deposited by the respective supplier
- Services subject to a reduced rate of sales tax or fixed amount of tax

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchases of goods or services used or consumed for making taxable supplies
- Purchase of plant and machinery
- Insurance

- Advertisements
- Other goods and services consumed for business activities

Partial exemption. Goods or services utilized in supplying both taxable and exempt goods/services must be apportioned using a tax fraction formula (i.e., the value of taxable supplies over the value of total supplies), to the extent that only the input tax relating to taxable supplies can be claimed in any given tax period. This adjustment is provisional, and the taxable person is required to make a final adjustment at the end of each financial year based on taxable and exempt supplies made during the course of that year.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Pakistan. Special methods are not allowed in Pakistan.

Capital goods. Under the federal sales tax law, input tax incurred on capital goods/fixed assets is claimable in the relevant tax period. However, under certain provincial sales tax laws, input tax paid on capital goods is recoverable in 12 equal monthly installments. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax in a sales tax period exceeds output tax in the same period, the excess credit is refundable. In practice, refunds are generally available to taxable persons that are engaged in making zero-rated supplies.

Pre-registration costs. Sales tax paid on stocks acquired prior to registration are claimable. Local purchase of taxable goods acquired during a period of 30 days before making an application for registration are treated as input tax. In the case of imports, the tax paid during a period of 90 days before making an application for registration shall be treated as input tax.

Bad debts. In the case of bad debts, the sales tax charged and deposited by the supplier can be adjusted through the issuance of debit/credit notes by stating that the supply has been canceled, if the note is issued within 180 days from the date of the relevant supply.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Pakistan.

G. Recovery of sales tax by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for sales tax in Pakistan is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

Sales tax invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a sales tax invoice or cash memo for all taxable supplies made. Tier-1 Retailers must integrate their retail outlets with the board's computerized systems for real-time reporting of sales. A sales tax invoice is generally necessary to support a claim for input tax credit.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the sales tax charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services if a valid adjustment is made. The document must be clearly marked "credit note," and it must detail the reason for the adjustment and must refer to the original sales tax invoice for the supply.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Pakistan, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Pakistan. However, recently all importers, manufacturers and wholesalers (including dealers and distributors) of fast-moving consumer goods are required to integrate with the FBR electronic invoicing system with immediate effect. In addition, retailers are required to integrate their point of sale (POS) systems with the FBR's system for real-time reporting of retails sales. At the time of preparing this chapter, the date for integration has not been notified.

There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Pakistan. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Any taxable person where electronic invoicing is not mandatory can opt to use the electronic invoicing system by seeking prior authorization in writing from the relevant Commissioner of Inland Revenue. Such approval must be obtained before issuing electronic invoices.

Simplified sales tax invoices. Simplified sales tax invoicing is not allowed in Pakistan. As such, full sales tax invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Pakistan. It is only allowed for self-consumption of goods for private use or nontaxable business use. These are treated as a taxable supply and subject to sales tax.

Proof of exports. Exports of goods are zero-rated for sales tax. However, to qualify as tax-free sales, export supplies must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Pakistan. The required evidence includes the following documents:
- A copy of the goods declaration for export authenticated by customs
- Copy of house and master bill of lading and airway bill or railway receipt
- The original invoices
- A stock or inventory statement
- Any other business records related to the exported goods

Foreign currency invoices. If a sales tax invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the amounts must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Pakistani rupee (PKR). The conversion must be calculated in accordance with the open market exchange rate.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Every registered person is required to issue a valid sales tax invoice, regardless of whether the recipient is a registered or unregistered entity or is the final consumer.

Records. In Pakistan, examples of what records must be held for sales tax purposes include records of goods purchased, imported and supplied (including zero-rated and exempt supplies) at their business premises or registered office. These records include, but are not limited to, tax invoices for both purchases and sales, credit/debit notes, double entry sales tax accounts, bank statements and utility bills, etc.

In Pakistan, sales tax books and records can be held outside of the country. Tax records can be held in and outside of Pakistan. Wherever they are held, the records must be available at any time by the request of the tax authorities.

Record retention period. The record retention period varies under each Federal/Provincial law, which varies from six to 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Pakistan.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. All taxable persons other than specific retailers must file monthly returns. The return must be filed by the 18th day of the month following the end of the return period.

Periodic payments. Periodic payments against provision of services on a periodic basis are treated as separate and distinct payments. Periodic payments are only applicable to supplies of services, not goods. Accordingly, all payments of tax (for both supplies of goods and services) must be made by the 15th day of the following month in which the payment is made. The taxable person must fill its tax payment details on the respective sales tax portals to generate a payment slip ID (PSID), which can then be used to pay the amounts due in any of the designated banks or through electronic payment methods.

Sales tax withholding. Special rules have been prescribed with respect to sales tax withholding by the federal and provincial tax authorities. The federal withholding rules apply to the purchase of goods and services (acquired in the Islamabad Capital Territory). The provincial withholding rules apply to the taxable services acquired within the territorial jurisdiction of the respective province. These rules apply to taxable goods and services that are supplied to the following persons, which are referred to as withholding agents:

- Federal and provincial government departments
- Autonomous bodies
- Public sector organizations
- "Companies" as defined under the Income Tax Ordinance, 2001 and "Persons" registered as exporters
- Persons registered with the respective sales tax authority that consumes services from unregistered persons
- Persons registered for sales tax that are recipients of advertising services

The withholding agents listed in the first three bullets above withhold one-fifth (20%) of the sales tax with respect to acquired taxable goods or services as shown in the sales tax invoice and make payment of the balance to the registered person. Under federal law, the supplier/service provider needs to be an "active taxable person," i.e., should have an active status on the FBR system. Otherwise, 5% of the gross value of supplies should be withheld by the withholding agent.

Sales tax registered persons who are recipients of advertising services from persons based in Pakistan or abroad must withhold sales tax and pay the balance to the service provider. The sales tax withheld is the amount indicated in the sales tax invoice issued by the service provider. If the sales tax amount is not indicated, the withheld amount must be calculated by applying the tax rate.

Withholding agents are required to withhold 20% of the sales tax amount mentioned on the invoice for taxable services acquired from the provinces of Sindh and Balochistan. The federal withholding provisions are not applicable when the registered supplier, being an active taxable person, has supplied goods or rendered services (except for advertisement services) to another registered customer.

The Punjab law requires withholding agents to withhold the entire amount of sales tax from the payments made for taxable services received from taxable persons whether registered or unregistered. However, Punjab law indicates that no sales tax withholding is required in cases where taxable services in the province of Punjab have been acquired from corporate, PRA-registered persons who are active taxable persons. Nonetheless, under the provincial sales tax laws, where taxable services have been acquired from an unregistered person, then sales tax is required to be withheld at the applicable rate.

Under Khyber Pakhtunkhwa law, a withholding agent is required to withhold 50% of the sales tax as shown on the sales tax invoice issued by a service provider (KPRA-registered or otherwise). One hundred percent withholding is required on services of advertising, reduced rate services, services provided to federal or provincial government departments or public sector institutions and services provided by unregistered and non-active but KPRA-registered service providers. Generally, when a registered person fails to submit sales tax returns for a consecutive two tax periods, such a person would be considered as a non-active taxable person.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing of sales tax returns is mandatory in Pakistan for all taxable persons. The returns are filed on respective web portals of each tax authority. A registered person is required to upload all the sales invoices issued in a respective month on the tax authority portal by the 10th day of each month. After that, the registered taxable person selects the purchase invoices from the portal to claim input tax. If there is a liability of sales tax, the same is paid/deposited by generating challan from the web portal of the respective tax authority. Consequently, after confirmation of payment, the return is submitted on the respective portal of the relevant tax authority.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Pakistan.

Special schemes. A special sales tax regime applies to Tier-1 Retailers. For further details, see the Tier-1 Retailers subsection above, under Section C. Who is liable). No other special schemes are available in Pakistan.

Annual returns. Every private or public limited company that is registered for federal sales tax purposes is required to file an annual sales tax return. The return for a financial year must be filed by 30 September of the following financial year. The information included in the annual sales tax return is the supplies/services provided during the year, adjustments and summary of sales tax paid, refunded or adjusted in the monthly sales tax returns.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Pakistan.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person may, subject to approval of the relevant tax authority, file a revised return within 120 days of filing of a return to correct any omission or wrong declaration made. The tax authority, after verifying the records, may allow the taxable person to file the revised sales tax return. In the provincial sales tax return, approval for filing a revised sales tax return is generally not required in the case where the payable amount is more than the amount already paid.

Digital tax administration. Real-time reporting. The federal government requires Tier-1 Retailers to integrate their systems with that of the FBR to monitor their sales on a real-time basis. All sales are to be reported through an accredited electronic fiscal device (EFD). However, such retailers are still required to maintain/retain records as required by law.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A penalty of PKR10,000 or 5% of the tax due, whichever is greater, is assessed for failure to register for sales tax. Failure to register within 60 days after beginning a taxable activity may be punishable by a term of imprisonment of up to three years, if the person is convicted by a special judge, or by a fine of up to the amount of tax involved, or both.

A penalty of up to PKR1 million can be levied if a person fails to register under the Act and if registered fails to integrate its business for monitoring, tracking, reporting or recording of sales, production and similar business transaction with the board or its computerized system.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty of PKR10,000, under both federal and provincial sales tax laws, is assessed for the late submission of a sales tax return. However, if the return is filed within 10 days after the due date, a penalty of only PKR200 or 300 per day applies.

A penalty is assessed for the late payment of sales tax for the greater of PKR10,000 or 5% of the tax due, but the penalty is restricted to PKR500 per day for each day of default if paid within 10 days after the due date. Failure to pay the tax within 60 days after a notice for payment is issued by a sales tax officer may be punished by imprisonment for up to three years if the person is convicted by a special judge, or by a fine of up to the amount of tax involved, or both.

In addition to any penalty, interest (the default surcharge) is chargeable for the following offenses:

- Late payment of sales tax
- Overclaimed input tax
- Incorrect claim for a sales tax refund
- Incorrect application of the zero rate

The rate of the default surcharge is currently fixed at 12% in the federal jurisdiction. It remains the same (i.e., the Karachi Interbank Offered Rate [KIBOR] plus 3% per annum) under the respective provincial sales tax laws. However, for tax fraud, the default surcharge is payable at a rate of 2% per month.

Under the federal sales tax law, the tax officer is authorized by the Commissioner of Inland Revenue to conduct an audit of the taxable person's records once in a year.

If an assessment order has been passed by the tax authorities and an appeal is filed before the Commissioner of Inland Revenue (Appeals), the taxable person has the option to protect bank accounts from any coercive recovery proceedings by the tax officials (known as "obtaining automatic stay") and does this by depositing 10% of the amount of tax due with the tax authorities. Where the automatic stay is granted to the taxable person, the tax officials cannot issue any recovery notice to the taxable person until the appeal is decided by the Commissioner of Inland Revenue (Appeals). Similar options also exist under the Provincial Sales Tax Law of Sindh and Punjab, however, the amount to deposit at the time of filing an appeal is 25% instead of 10% of the tax due amount as assessed by the provincial tax officers.

Penalties for errors. The following defaults are subject to penalties:

- Failure to issue a sales tax invoice: PKR5,000 or 3% of the tax due, whichever is greater.
- Unauthorized issuance of a sales tax invoice: PKR10,000 or 5% of the tax due, whichever is the greater.
- Failure to notify changes related to the taxable person's details or taxable activity: PKR5,000.
- Repeated erroneous calculation in the return of sales tax: PKR5,000 or 3% of the tax due, whichever is greater.
- Failure to maintain records: PKR100,000, PKR10,000 or 5% of the tax due, whichever is greater. This range of penalties is based on the differences in the province sales tax laws. Under the Pakistan sales tax law, the federal government has the jurisdiction of sales tax on goods, whereas the provinces have the jurisdiction of sales tax on services. There are five sales tax acts on services (this is made up of four provincial tax authorities and one for Islamabad, which also falls under the federal government's domain). The Sindh province sales tax law states a penalty which may extend to PKR100,000 or 5%, whichever is higher on a failure to maintain records, whereas the Punjab province sales tax law states for the same offense a penalty of PKR10,000 or 5%, whichever is higher.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's sales tax registration details may attract a penalty in the range of PKR5,000 under federal law and up to PKR100,000 under relevant provincial laws. For further details, see the subsection Changes to sales tax registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty of PKR50,000 or PKR25,000 or 100% of the tax due, whichever is greater, is assessed for tax fraud, falsifying records, making false statements and declarations, denial or obstruction of access to records and similar offenses. In addition, a person may be punished by imprisonment for up to three years if convicted by a special judge or may be liable for a fine of up to the amount of tax involved, or both.

A penalty of PKR500,000 or 200% of the amount of tax involved (whichever is higher) can be levied on any person who is integrated with the board or its computerized system but conducts transactions to avoid monitoring or tracking, reporting or recording of such transactions.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in sales tax declarations and reporting in Pakistan. However, note that they can be held liable and subject to imprisonment for other violations (see the subsection Penalties for fraud above).

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Pakistan is five to eight years. The time limit is five years from the end of the financial year in which the relevant date falls. This is effectively the preceding six financial years. Under the Provincial sales tax law of Sindh, the tax authorities can go back eight years.

Panama

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Panama GMT -5

EY
Building 3855, 2nd Floor, Office #210
Panama Pacifico Boulevard
International Business Park, Panama Pacifico
Panama

Indirect tax contacts

Luis Ocando	+507 208 0100 luis.ocando@pa.ey.com
Rafael Sayagués (resident in San José, Costa Rica)	+506 2208 9880 +1 (212) 773 4761 rafael.sayagues@cr.ey.com
Guillermo Leandro (resident in San José, Costa Rica)	+506 2208 9887 guillermo.leandro@cr.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto a la transferencia de bienes corporales muebles y la prestación de servicios (ITBMS)
Date introduced	22 December 1976
Trading bloc membership	Association Agreement between Central America and the European Union
Administered by	General Directorate of Revenues (Dirección General de Ingresos [DGI]) (https://dgi.mef.gob.pa/)
VAT rates
Standard	7%
Other	10%, 15%, exempt
VAT number format	National Tax Registry Number (RUC) and check digit (DV)
VAT return period	Monthly, quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	USD36,000 (annual)/USD3,000 (monthly)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods made in Panama by a taxable person
- The leasing of movable goods located in Panama
- Provision of services
- The importation of goods from outside Panama, regardless of the status of the importer

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Panama, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions. The Panamanian tax system is based on the "territorial principle," whereby only services rendered within the Panamanian territory are subject to VAT. Under the territorial tax principle, only supplies of goods located and services performed in Panamanian territory will be subject to VAT in Panama.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Panama. VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Panama, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person for VAT purposes is an entity or individual that performs commercial, industrial or financial activities or supplies services, provided its income is greater than USD36,000 per year or has a monthly average greater than USD3,000; non-domiciled persons and importers are liable regardless of their income. Taxable persons that are designated as withholding agents for VAT must appoint a legal representative. All individuals or entities must register as taxable persons, and there is no separate and exclusive registry for VAT taxable persons.

Exemption from registration. All entities and individuals carrying out taxable operations in Panama must be registered as taxable persons before the General Directorate of Revenue and there is no separate VAT registration. Filing of VAT returns will depend not on registration but on whether they meet the minimum threshold or if the operations carried out by the company are within the exemptions established by law.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The Panamanian Fiscal Code and its relevant regulations do not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Panama.

Fixed establishment. In Panama, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the legal definition of a permanent establishment should be applied for VAT instead. This is when natural or legal persons domiciled abroad are considered to carry out operations in Panama through a permanent establishment when, directly or through a proxy, employee or representative, possess in Panamanian territory any fixed place of business or any center of activity where it develops, totally or partially, its activity. It is also considered that said natural or legal persons domiciled abroad carry out operations through a permanent establishment in Panama when they have a management headquarters, branch, offices, factories, workshops, facilities, warehouses, stores, or other establishments in Panama.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Panama. A non-established business must register for VAT if supplies goods in Panama. To register, a non-established business must file a registration form. A foreign corporation must also submit a copy of its articles of incorporation, legalized by the Panamanian Consul, together with an official translation in Spanish. It is important to highlight that to carry out the sale of goods within Panama, the tax authorities may require an operation notice, for which the company must register before Panamanian Public Registry. Non-established businesses rendering services in Panama are subject to withholding of VAT. The Panamanian recipient would deem that the VAT is included in the invoice and make the withholding. The amount withheld may be offset as an input tax. The non-established business would not receive a refund.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Panama.

Withholding agents. Entities with annual purchases of goods and services in an amount equal to or greater than USD3 million will be considered VAT withholding agents. A VAT withholding agent is required to withhold 50% of the VAT included in the invoice or equivalent document submitted by the supplier. Panamanian tax authorities issue an annual publication that contains a list of VAT withholding agents identified according to the new criterion set out in the Decree. The list contains 552 companies, including construction companies and banks, among other businesses. The withholding agents identified in the list are subject to the withholding obligation.

Reverse charge. VAT on services performed within Panama by a foreign individual or foreign entity to a Panamanian entity or individual must be collected and paid by the Panamanian recipient entity or individual based on a reverse-charge mechanism. Panamanian recipients must deem that VAT is included in the invoices from their non-established counterparty and make a VAT withholding to be paid within 10 days to the tax authorities. The amounts withheld may be considered input tax and used to offset output tax of the Panamanian party. The amount that the Panamanian party is required to withhold is calculated according to the following formula: the amount included in the invoice multiplied by 0.065421.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Panama.

Digital economy. There are no special rules or regulations regarding VAT for the digital economy. The ordinary VAT rules should be applicable based on the characterization of the transactions being carried out digitally.

It is important to consider that Panamanian tax legislation is governed by the principle of territoriality; therefore, transfers of movable property and services are subject to the payment of VAT, provided they are made within Panamanian territory regardless of where the money is received.

In this sense, if nonresidents are providing electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies by means located within national territory (i.e., Panama), then the provision of such services would be subject to VAT, which would trigger the obligation of VAT withholding for the local taxable person receiving the service. This withholding is made through the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection below). Where the local consumer is not able to perform the withholding, then the nonresident would be required to register in Panama to comply with the applicable tax obligation.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on their supplies in Panama. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse charge (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Panama.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Panama.

Registration procedures. The Panamanian tax authorities issue a national tax registry number (Registro Único del Contribuyente [RUC]) , which is the taxable person ID number (it applies to VAT and income tax, among other taxes). The RUC can be registered in person with the Panamanian tax authorities or online (https://dgi.mef.gob.pa/ and via the computer tax system e-Tax 2.0). To register as taxable persons in Panama, a company or individual must complete and present the following documentation:

- For professional and independent individuals:
  - Copy of ID
  - Copy of last paid utility bill of a public service to prove the domicile of the taxable person

- Legal entities:
  - Certificate of registration issued by the public registry
  - Copy of legal representative's ID
  - Copy of last paid utility bill of a public service to prove the domicile of the taxable person

If the taxable person's information changes, the Panamanian tax authorities should be notified. However, most information can be updated through the tax authority portal.

Once registered, a RUC and check digit (digito verificador[DV]) are issued to the taxable person. The RUC is the unique taxable person registry, and the DV are both applicable to all corporations, including those that do not generate taxable income in Panama due to their activities.

Deregistration. Entities that are no longer taxable persons for VAT purposes (because of the income threshold) need to file a request explaining the legal ground on why it will no longer be considered as taxable persons for VAT purposes.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details must be updated online on the Panamanian tax authority website. Additional information will have to be submitted to justify the change, e.g., articles of incorporation (to update the name of the company) or receipt of any invoice (to update the address). There is no specific time period for such notifications.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to all supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 7%
- Special rates: 10%, 15%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for a special rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Alcoholic beverages, such as liquors and beers
- Hotels and other lodging services

Examples of goods and services taxable at 15%

- Cigarettes, cigars and other tobacco products

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods

- Supplies made by agricultural producers
- Unprocessed fish, meat and game supplied by nonindustrial fishermen and hunters
- Exported goods
- Medical and pharmaceutical products
- School materials
- Supplies of goods made in a free zone in Panama
- Supplies of movable goods within an authorized customs warehouse
- Oil and related products (motor oil is subject to VAT)
- Groceries
- Hand tools, fertilizers, insecticides, fungicides and similar products used in agriculture

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Panama.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

For the sale of goods, the tax point is when the invoice is issued or the goods are supplied, whichever is earlier.

For services, the tax point is the date on which the invoice is issued, the date on which the services are rendered or the date on which total or partial payment is made, whichever is earlier.

For recurring annual services, the tax point is when total or partial payment is made. For a lease of movable property, the tax point is when the parties to the lease enter into the contract.

For supplies of goods made by a company to a manager or legal representative of the company for its personal consumption, the tax point is when the goods are delivered or when the goods are posted, whichever happens first.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Panama for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Panama for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Panama for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Panama for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Panama for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is when the customs return is filed.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods supplied for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by offsetting it against any output tax due. Output tax is VAT charged on services and supplies made. Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Panama and VAT paid on imports. A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax credit.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Panama is in the following month where the transaction generating VAT was executed, which is the moment when the VAT monthly return should have been filed.

Nondeductible input tax. If a taxable person provides services or goods to a VAT exempt customer (e.g., certain government institutions), the VAT paid on the purchases or imports of goods and services related to sales to such tax-exempt customer may not be recognized as input tax, thus, the VAT will become a cost for the seller. Similarly, the VAT paid on supplies to produce VAT-exempted sales should be considered a cost.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- VAT paid on supplies required by public energy generating companies

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- VAT paid on import of inventory
- VAT paid for services received

Partial exemption. The VAT paid by a taxable person relating to exempt supplies cannot be considered as an input tax (as it cannot be offset against an output tax), but a cost that should be borne by the taxable person and it will be deductible for income tax purposes.

When taxed and exempt transactions are jointly carried out, the deduction of the input tax must be made in the proportion in which the income corresponds to taxable transactions in relation to the total income, excluding the tax itself.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Panama. Special methods are not allowed in Panama.

Capital goods. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. If a capital good is used for both taxable and exempt supplies, the business must apportion the input tax by using partial exemption (see above). The business should carry out a proportion calculation and apply the percentage of the taxable and exempt revenues over the total revenues for the declared period, excluding the tax itself.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable, the taxable person receives an input tax credit. The credit may be carried forward to offset output tax in the subsequent VAT period. If it is not possible to offset the input tax credit in the following period, the taxable person may use the excess as a credit in the following period. VAT credits are not refundable.

A frequent exporter that regularly has VAT credits may request a document called a "cancellation certificate" from the VAT authorities to help ease cash flow. The exporter may sell the cancellation certificate to other taxable persons that can offset it against their own VAT liabilities.

Law 52 of 2012 grants certain taxable persons' privileges for input tax deduction. This provision applies to manufacturers of foods or medicines and to businesses involved in the agriculture sector whose revenues exceed USD300,000. These taxable persons do not charge VAT, but they may not offset input tax against other tax liabilities.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Panama is not recoverable.

Bad debts. The output tax can only be deducted for bad debts if the following requirements are met:

- The values are properly recorded for and have been declared as taxable transactions.
- The insolvency of the debtor or the prescription of the debt is verified to prove the insolvability of the debtor (e.g., cessation of payment or bankruptcy).

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Panama.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Panama is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a VAT invoice for all taxable services and supplies of goods made, including exports. An invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax credit. Special fiscal equipment authorized by the tax authorities or the electronic invoicing system of Panama must be used. There are taxable persons who, according to their activity, may be exempt from issuing invoices through fiscal equipment. However, they must issue equivalent documents with the minimum documentation requirements according to local legislation.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce VAT charged (within 180 days) and reclaimed on a supply if the value is reduced for any reason (for example, the price changes or goods are returned as a result of a discount or bonus). A credit note must generally contain the same information as a tax invoice and make a reference to that original invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Panama for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Panama.

Individuals and companies, (i) are authorized by the tax authority upon request, for the implementation of electronic invoices; or (ii) are under the obligation to implement the use of electronic invoices when they are exempted by the tax authority (due to its volume or nature of operations) from the use of fiscal equipment.

The electronic invoices will be issued under the following principles:
- The electronic invoices, as invoices issued by fiscal equipment, will be admissible in courts.
- The electronic invoices will have to be signed electronically by the issuer and supported by an electronic certificate issued by an authorized service provider.
- The technical specifications established by the Decree will have to be followed, i.e., following the process to issue the electronic invoice, as well as the format. For example, electronic invoices will carry a unique identification number, (i.e., the Unique Electronic Invoice Code [Código Único de Factura Electrónica]).
- To issue the electronic invoice, the issuer will have to obtain an authorization for its use by a qualified authorized provider (responsibilities and obligations) that will verify that the invoice complies with all the technical requirements outlined in the technical sheet (issued by the tax authorities) for electronic invoicing. Moreover, the tax authority will also verify the authorization granted by the qualified authorized provider to make sure the invoice complies with all the requirements. Only electronic documents generated in the Free Invoice of the Electronic Invoice System of Panama (Facturador Gratuito del Sistema de Factura Electrónica de Panamá) will be exempted to follow this rule, as the invoice is issued directly from the tax authority´s portal.

The following rules apply for electronic invoicing for the various taxable persons:
- Mandatory for all taxable persons who have been assigned a tax ID after 1 January 2022
- Optional for taxable persons who have been assigned a tax ID before 1 January 2022, and as such they can decide whether to stay with the traditional billing method using a fiscal printer or migrate to electronic invoicing
- Mandatory for taxable persons that provide services to the Panamanian government as of 31 October 2022
- Mandatory for all multinational headquartered taxable persons, as per the SEM regimen (Régimen de Sedes de Empresas Multinacionales [SEM]), as of 30 June 2023
- Optional for taxable persons that supply certain activities that used to be exempted from using invoicing methods, and as such they can decide whether to stay with the traditional billing method using a fiscal printer or migrate to electronic invoicing as of 2023

At the time of preparing this chapter, the tax authority is contemplating making the electronic invoicing system of Panama mandatory, i.e., making it the only invoicing method in Panama. This is proposed to come into effect from January 2024, and certain activities are due to be exempted from these rules. However, no further details (or formal regulation or guidance) have been published by the tax authorities on this, and therefore electronic invoicing is not live or implemented.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Panama. Full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Panama.

Proof of exports. VAT is not chargeable on qualified supplies of exported goods. To qualify, exports must be supported by documents that confirm that the goods have left Panama, such as customs documents, export invoices and copies of bills of lading.

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the amounts must be converted into domestic currency, which is the Panamanian balboa (PAB) or US dollars (USD). However, the electronic invoicing system of Panama does allow the issuance of electronic invoices using a different currency.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Panama. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Panama, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include tax returns, invoices, accounts and financial statements.

In Panama, VAT books and records must be held within the country.

Record retention period. The general statute of limitation for VAT records in Panama is five years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Panama. Records may only be archived electronically if the archive is compliant with the electronic document law.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Monthly returns must be submitted on or before the 15th day of the month following the end of the return period. However, sole traders (i.e., independent professionals) must submit VAT returns quarterly, i.e., four times per year.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT due must be made in full on or before the same date as the VAT return filing deadline (i.e., by the 15th day of the month following the end of the return period). Return liabilities must be paid in PAB or USD.

The VAT can be paid online (if the taxable person has a local bank account), by check in an authorized bank (e.g., Banco Nacional and Caja de Ahorros) or by debit or credit card on the Panamanian tax authority online platform.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing (using Form 430) is mandatory in Panama for all taxable persons. To file VAT returns electronically, the taxable person will need to request a tax ID number (número de identificación tributaria [NIT]), from the tax authorities. This special number is required for all online tax processes on the website of the Panamanian tax authorities (e.g., tax declarations, statements), enabling corporations to be managed remotely.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Panama.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Panama.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Panama.

Supplementary filings. VAT withholding return. VAT withholding agents need to file Form 4331 monthly (the VAT withholding return), on or before the 15th day of the month following the end of the return period

Correcting errors in previous returns. Any corrections to a previous VAT return should be filed on an amended VAT tax return within the last 12 periods/per return. If the corrections are filed after 90 days of the original VAT return, the taxable person must pay a fine of USD500. The rectification must be requested by filing, before the tax authorities, a document explaining the facts that motivate the rectification. Then, the corrections must be filed both online through the eTax 2.0 and in paper before the tax authorities.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Panama.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in Panama for the late registration of VAT.

Penalties for late payment and filings. If a taxable person does not pay VAT due on time, a fine of USD10 may be applicable and the payment would be subject to late payment surcharge and a monthly interest.

Penalties for errors. A fine of USD10 may be imposed for late filing if no VAT is due as a result of credits in favor of the taxable person. Fines of USD100 to USD500 may be imposed for filing inaccurate VAT tax returns that do not result in a reduction in the tax payment, issuing invoices without being registered with the tax authorities and failure to comply with regulations regarding the carryforward of tax credits. Recidivism is penalized with fines ranging from USD500 up to USD5,000 and temporary closure of the business.

VAT returns may be amended only once per period and within a maximum period of 12 months following the date on which the original VAT return was due. The filing of the amended return costs USD100 for individuals and USD500 for legal entities if the amended return is filed more than three months after the due date for the original VAT return. Tax fraud is punished with penalties varying from 5 to 10 times the amount of undeclared VAT or by imprisonment for a period of two to four years.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. With effect from 1 January 2022, tax evasion is considered as a crime (said disposition has been added to the Penal Code and the Tax Code has been modified). Tax evasion is considered as a crime, whenever someone intentionally avoids taxes (by omitting, hiding, falsifying or deceiving the tax office), for themselves or for a third party for USD300,000 or above in a calendar year.

Tax evasion will be punished with a penalty of two to four years for anyone who, personally or by an interposed person, receives, possesses, deposits, negotiates, transfers or converts money, securities, real estate and other financial resources, knowing that they come from crimes against the National Treasury to hide, cover up or hide their illicit origin, or help evade the consequences legal of such punishable act.

Additionally, it is established that, if the crime has been committed through one or more legal persons, the penalty will be imposed on the legal entity in question and will be a fine of one to three times the amount of the tax defrauded.

On the other hand, crimes against the National Treasury are as follows:

- It will be punished with imprisonment of two to four years for anyone who, on their own or third party, benefits and intentionally incurs tax fraud against the National Treasury and affect the correct determination of a tax obligation to stop paying, totally or partially, the corresponding taxes.
- It will be punished with imprisonment of two to four years and with a fine of one to three times the amount of the tax defrauded, anyone who gets fraudulently an exemption, return, enjoyment or use of improper tax benefits.

Personal liability for company officers. Company directors cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Panama.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Panama is five years. The Panamanian tax authorities have the right to collect VAT in Panama after five years, counted from the first day of the following month in which the tax should have been paid. The statute of limitations is interrupted by any written action by the competent official aimed to collect the tax.

Papua New Guinea

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Port Moresby GMT +10

EY
Level 4 Credit House
Cuthbertson Street
P.O. Box 1380
Port Moresby
Papua New Guinea

Indirect tax contacts

Colin Milligan	+675 305-4125 colin.milligan@pg.ey.com
Brent Ducker (resident in Brisbane, Australia)	+61 (7) 3243-3723 brent.ducker@au.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Goods and services tax (GST)
Local name	Goods and services tax (GST)
Date introduced	1 January 2004
Trading bloc membership	Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC)
Administered by	Internal Revenue Commission (IRC) (http://www.irc.gov.pg)
GST rates
Standard	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
GST number format	TIN999999999
GST return periods	Generally monthly; periods of up to six months if annual taxable supplies less than PGK625,000 subject to approval by the IRC
Thresholds
Registration	PGK250,000
Recovery of GST by non-registered businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

GST applies to the following transactions:

- Taxable supplies of goods and services, which are connected to Papua New Guinea (PNG) or deemed to be supplied in PNG and made for consideration in the course of a taxable activity by a taxable person that is registered or that is required to be registered for GST
- Reverse charge on services received from abroad that are made to a registered entity in PNG
- Taxable importations of goods into PNG, regardless of the status of the importer

An activity does not need to be carried on for the purposes of making a profit for it to be registered for GST. "Taxable activity" means a business activity that is carried on continuously or regularly by a person, whether or not for a pecuniary profit, and involves or is intended to involve, in whole or in part, the supply of goods and services to another person for a consideration and includes any such business activity carried on in the form of a trade, manufacture, profession, vocation, association or club.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for GST in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In PNG, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Goods and services are deemed to be supplied in PNG where the supplier is not resident in PNG and meets the following:

- The goods are in PNG at the time of supply
- The services are physically performed in PNG by a person who is PNG at the time the services are performed
  Or
- The services are performed outside PNG for the use or benefit within PNG of a person resident in PNG

Where the third bullet point applies, the reverse-charge provisions apply such that the recipient is deemed to have supplied the service in PNG in the course or furtherance of the recipient's taxable activity.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a GST-registered or GST-registrable business will be subject to GST at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated. In PNG, a TOGC is treated as zero-rated where the following conditions are met:

- There is a supply of a taxable activity, or of a part of a taxable activity where that part is capable of separate operation.
- All of the goods and services that are necessary for the continued operation of that taxable activity or that part of a taxable activity are supplied to the transferee.
- The transferor carries on, or is to carry on, that taxable activity or that part of a taxable activity up to the time of its transfer to the transferee.

Transactions between related parties. In PNG, for a transaction between related parties, the value for GST purposes is calculated at the open market value.

C. Who is liable

GST registration is mandatory if either of the following thresholds is met:

- The total value of supplies (excluding exempt supplies) made in PNG in a month and the 11 months immediately preceding that month in the course of carrying on all taxable activities that exceeds PGK250,000.
- The projected GST turnover, which is the value of taxable supplies made or likely to be made in the current month plus the next 11 months, is reasonably likely to exceed PGK250,000.

Exemption from registration. The GST law in PNG does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A taxable person that has turnover below the registration threshold may apply to register for GST voluntarily if the entity is carrying on a taxable activity.

A taxable person that is a not-for-profit body may apply in writing to the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue to register for GST voluntarily if the entity is carrying on a taxable activity.

Group registration. Subject to certain requirements, two or more companies that have an aggregate of common voting interests of 90% or greater constitute a wholly owned group for the purpose of the GST Act and may apply to the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue to form a GST group. Other entities (e.g., partnerships and trusts) that satisfy common control tests may also apply for grouping. The effect of GST grouping is to treat the group members as a single entity for certain purposes. In general, all GST liabilities and input tax credit entitlements for group members are attributed to a representative member of the group, and the group submits a single GST return. All members of a GST group in PNG are jointly and severally liable for GST debts and penalties.

A registered person carrying on its activities in branches or divisions may apply in writing to the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue for a branch or division to be registered as a separate registered person. Certain requirements must be met relating to the nature of the activities and accounting systems of proposed GST branches. In addition, a branch of a registered entity may not be registered as a GST branch if the entity is a member of a GST group. There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a GST group.

Fixed establishment. In PNG, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for GST purposes. There is no reference to fixed or permanent establishment in the PNG GST Act.

Non-established businesses. GST applies to taxable supplies and to taxable importations made by non-established businesses. Branches of non-established businesses carrying on taxable or other activities in PNG are required to register and charge GST with respect to their supplies.

Tax representatives. When a taxable person dies, or is placed into liquidation or receivership, or becomes bankrupt or incapacitated, the person appointed as personal representative, liquidator, receiver or agent is deemed to be the "specified agent" and carries on the taxable activity from the date of appointment. The specified agent is not personally liable for any liabilities incurred before the date of appointment. The agency period ends when another person is registered in respect of the taxable activity or when the appointment ceases, whichever is the earlier.

Reverse charge. If a service is deemed to be supplied in PNG under the provisions of the GST Act, reverse-charge provisions can apply if all the following conditions are met:
- The supplier is a non-established business.
- The supplier does not make the supply through an enterprise that it carries on in PNG.
- The recipient is registered (or is required to be registered) for GST.

If a resource company makes exempt supplies, the reverse-charge provisions apply.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in PNG.

Digital economy. For business-to-business (B2B) transactions, the customer is expected to reverse charge the GST liability where the principal is deemed to make the supply in PNG. A PNG GST input tax credit arises for the customer, assuming the supply is acquired for the principal purpose of conducting taxable activities.

For business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions, the individual will generally not be GST-registered (or required to be registered), as the individual will generally not be carrying on taxable activities.

Nonresidents that provide electronically supplied services do not need to register for GST in PNG on the basis that the services are performed outside PNG.

There are no specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in PNG.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in PNG.

Registration procedures. After a company is registered with the Investment Promotion Authority (IPA), it should apply to the Internal Revenue Commission (IRC) for a taxation identification number (TIN). The Form TIN1 application requires various details of the enterprise, and the company must attach a copy of the IPA registration, including extract and proof of identity of the authorized signatory. There is no online filing facility, however, a scanned email copy should be acceptable.

Deregistration. A taxable person that ceases to carry on business may request in writing that the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue cancel its GST registration. A taxable person must notify the PNG IRC that it is no longer entitled to be registered within 21 days after ceasing operations. A taxable person that is no longer required to be registered may apply to cancel its registration. However, the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue is not required to cancel the registration if a business has been registered for less than 12 months.

Changes to GST registration details. Any changes to a taxable person's name, address, constitution or nature of its principal activity must be notified within 21 days to the IRC through a Form TIN1 application identifying the changes made. There is no online filing facility; however, a scanned email copy should be acceptable.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of GST, including the zero rate.

The GST rates are:
- Standard rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of GST applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Sale of going concerns
- Supplies of goods and services to foreign aid providers
- Supplies of goods and services to nonprofit bodies, which are religious, charitable or community organizations carrying on charitable activities approved by the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue, provided that the supplies or goods are not used for profit-making taxable activities
- International travel
- Exported goods and services

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to GST and do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services
- Certain fine metals
- Medical services
- Educational services

- Public transport and taxis
- Newspapers
- Supplies of housing or motor vehicles by employers to employees
- Specific exemptions as notified in the National Gazette

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in PNG.

E. Time of supply

As defined in the GST Act, a supply of goods and services is generally deemed to take place at the earlier of the time of issuance of an invoice by the supplier or the recipient or the time of receipt of any payment by the supplier with respect to the supply.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in PNG for deposits and prepayments. As such, the normal time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. Where goods or services are supplied progressively or periodically, those goods or services are deemed to be supplied successively. Each successive supply is deemed to take place at the earliest of when payment for that supply becomes due, is received or any invoice relating only to that payment is issued.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in PNG for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the normal time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For reverse-charge services, the recipient is required to account for the services in the period in which the services are paid for. If the consideration is not in money, the services need to be accounted for in the period in which the services are performed.

Leased assets. Where goods are supplied under a hire or lease agreement, they are deemed to be successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement. Each of the successive supplies is deemed to take place when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier. The treatment is the same irrespective of the type of lease (i.e., whether ownership of the underlying asset is transferred or not).

Imported goods. GST is payable for imported goods at the time of importation. A deferral scheme may apply. Under the scheme, GST on importations is deferred such that where the importer is entitled to a full GST input credit for the import GST, the import GST liability will be offset against that credit.

Goods imported temporarily into PNG under the provisions of the Customs Act are zero-rated for GST purposes and import duty is not applied to these goods. In general, the importer must provide a security bond of 10%. The bond paid for temporary imports is intended to be refunded when the goods are re-exported out of the country. Goods are classified as temporary imports if they are re-exported within 12 months.

If imported goods remain in the country for more than 12 months, the goods are deemed to be permanent imports and the bond is forfeited. The applicable GST can then be claimed as an input credit (subject to the normal rules).

F. Recovery of GST by taxable persons

A registered entity may recover input tax credits with respect to creditable acquisitions. These credits correspond to the GST included in the consideration for goods and services that a registered entity acquires for creditable purposes. A registered entity generally recovers input tax by offsetting them against GST payable on taxable supplies.

Input tax credits correspond to GST included in the consideration for goods and services acquired in PNG, GST paid on importations of goods and GST paid under reverse-charge arrangements.

In general, valid tax invoices or customs documents must be retained to support claims for input tax credits.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in PNG is eight years after the end of the taxable period. This is unless a written application has been made before the end of the eight-year period.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Housing or motor vehicles provided to employees
- Entertainment or leisure club facilities
- Acquisitions made for purpose of making exempt supplies
- If no valid tax invoice is held

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Imports
- Trading stock
- Business occupancy costs
- Repairs and maintenance

Partial exemption. GST on acquisitions of goods and services used to make exempt supplies or on acquisitions that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use) are not eligible to be claimed as an input credit. Where an acquisition is used for both taxable and exempt supplies, only the proportion of GST that relates to taxable supplies may be claimed as an input credit. The apportionment is generally required to be calculated on a monthly basis with an annual reconciliation of total input and output tax to be done within 60 days of the taxable person's fiscal year. Where the input credits calculated on the annual basis differ from the total of the monthly calculations any excess input credits based on the annual calculations are refundable. Where the total of the monthly input credits exceeds the annual calculation, the excess is payable at the time the annual reconciliation is due. Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in PNG. Special methods are not allowed in PNG.

Capital goods. There are no specific rules applicable to capital goods. Where the acquisition of capital goods is solely for the purpose of making taxable supplies, the input tax is allowable as an input credit in the taxable period in which the supply was made to the person or the period in which the GST input tax was paid or invoiced in the case of imported capital goods. Where capital goods are used for making both taxable and exempt supplies, the same rules for claiming input credits on other goods apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax credit in a period exceeds the GST payable in the same period, the excess amount is technically refundable to the taxable person. However, in practice, it is often necessary to first satisfy the IRC that the refund is valid. The excess can be requested to be applied against GST liabilities in a subsequent period or against other tax liabilities, except for salary or wages tax.

Pre-registration costs. GST paid on acquisitions made by a person within six months prior to incorporation of a company may be claimed as an input credit by the company after it is registered. The acquisition must have been made by a person who becomes a member, officer or employee of the company and that person must have been fully reimbursed for the consideration paid. The acquisition must also have been for the purpose of a taxable activity to be carried on the company. The input credit is claimable in the taxable period in which the reimbursement is made.

Other than in the above circumstances, GST in respect of pre-registration acquisitions may not be claimed as input credits.

Bad debts. Where a registered person accounts for GST on the accruals basis and writes off all or part of an amount previously reported as a taxable supply, the person is entitled to claim a deduction for the amount of the GST included in the amount written off as a bad debt in the period in which the debt is written off.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in PNG.

G. Recovery of GST by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for GST in PNG is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

GST invoices. In general, a registered person must provide a tax invoice for all taxable supplies made if requested to do so by the recipient of a supply. A tax invoice is not required for supplies with a GST-inclusive amount of PGK50 or less. In general, a tax invoice is necessary to support claims for input tax credits.

Credit notes. An adjustment note (or credit or debit note) may be issued to reduce or increase the amount of GST payable on a supply if the amount of GST originally charged is incorrect (for example, as a result of an error or an agreed adjustment to the price). The adjustment note must be clearly marked either as an adjustment note or as a tax invoice (provided the amount of any credit is shown as a negative amount), and it must provide detailed particulars of the adjustment made.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in PNG, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in PNG. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in PNG. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

To use electronic invoicing in PNG, an approval is required by the Commissioner. The approval may be as follows:

- Expressed to apply generally or to such registered person or class of registered persons as the Commissioner may specify
- Limited to such cases or be subject to such conditions as the Commissioner thinks fit to impose
- Withdrawn or varied by the Commissioner at any time on the giving of such notice as is reasonable in the circumstances

To facilitate the electronic transfer of tax invoices, the Commissioner may approve the use of symbols, abbreviations or other notations to represent any particulars normally required to be shown on a tax invoice.

Simplified GST invoices. Where the consideration for the supply is less than PGK200, neither the name nor address of the recipient nor the quantity or volume of the goods and services supplied is required to be shown on the invoice. Also, where the consideration for the supply is less than PGK50, no tax invoice is required to be issued.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in PNG. With prior approval of the Commissioner, the supplier and recipient can agree that the supplier does not issue a tax invoice and instead the recipient issues a document with the words "buyer-created tax invoice – IRC approved" in a prominent place.

Proof of exports. Exports of goods are zero-rated (GST-free). To qualify as GST-free, goods must be entered for export under the Customs Act and the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue must be satisfied that the goods have been exported to a place outside PNG. Zero-rating applies if the goods are exported within 28 days unless unforeseeable circumstances delay the shipment of the goods.

Foreign currency invoices. All invoices must be expressed in the domestic currency, which is the Papua New Guinea kina (PGK). The exchange rate at the time of supply is required to be used. Where the consideration is agreed in a foreign currency, that can also be shown on the invoice.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no specific rules for GST invoices for supplies made to private consumers. However, where the consideration for the supply is less than PGK50, no tax invoice is required to be issued.

Records. Records must be held in English unless approval of the Commissioner is obtained. In PNG, examples of what records must be held for GST purposes include books of account (manual or electronic) recording receipts of payments of income or expenditure, vouchers, bank statements, invoices, tax invoices, credit notes, debit notes, receipts and such other documents as are necessary to verify the entries in the books of account.

In PNG, GST books and records can be held outside of the country. However, this is only allowed with approval by the Commissioner. Otherwise, records must be held within the country. Non-established businesses are only required to keep records in PNG if they make supplies in PNG. If they make supplies in PNG, they will need approval from the Commissioner to keep the records outside of PNG. To obtain approval, it would be necessary to demonstrate that the records would be able to be produced on request by the Commissioner.

Record retention period. All relevant records must be kept for at least seven years after the end of the taxable period to which they relate and may be kept in electronic format. The seven-year period may be extended if the Commissioner gives notice in writing of audit activity.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in PNG. Copies of invoices are required to be kept in PNG, unless otherwise approved by the Commissioner. Records may be kept in manual, mechanical or electronic format.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. GST liabilities are reported in a GST return. A registered person must file the GST return in the required form on or before the 21st day of the following tax period (a calendar month).

Government departments and state-owned entities. If a taxable person makes a GST-taxable supply to a specific government entity (as listed in the GST Section 65A Notice) that entity is required to withhold the GST amount and remit that directly to the IRC. In the GST return for that month, it will still be required to report the total sales, including GST, and the amount withheld will still be included in the calculation of the amount payable or refundable for the month. The amount withheld will need to be disclosed in line 16 of the GST return. Then the actual payment to the IRC should be reduced by the amount withheld. If the amount withheld is greater than the amount calculated as payable for the month, no payment should be made for the month.

Periodic payments. GST liabilities must be paid in PGK by the 21st day following the tax period. The payment should be made by electronic funds transfer.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in PNG, but not mandatory. The IRC has introduced a basic electronic filing option. To use the electronic filing option, the taxable person must scan the signed paper return form and attach it to an email with details of the electronic funds transfer to confirm payment.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in PNG.

Special schemes. Secondhand goods. Where secondhand goods situated in PNG are acquired by a registered person by way of a sale that is not a taxable supply, the registered person is allowed to claim an input credit equal to the tax fraction (1/11th) of the consideration in money for the supply.

Accrual basis of accounting. When a taxable person registers for GST, it automatically goes on an accrual (or invoice) basis of accounting for GST. For businesses that account for GST on an accrual basis, GST is payable with respect to a taxable supply for the tax period in which the invoice is issued or when any consideration is received for the supply, whichever is earlier.

Cash or payment basis of accounting. Entities with annual turnover that does not exceed PGK1.25 million may account for GST on a cash basis. Cash accounting is also available to certain entities regardless of turnover. These entities include local authorities, not-for-profit bodies and other entities subject to the discretion of the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue. Cash accounting is allowed when the Commissioner General of Internal Revenue grants approval in writing. For entities using cash accounting, GST is payable with respect to a taxable supply in the tax period in which the consideration is received. If only part of the consideration is received in a particular tax period, GST is payable only on that part.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in PNG.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in PNG.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Where the previously reported output tax was incorrect due to any of the following reasons:
- Cancellation of the supply
- Fundamental change in the nature of the supply
- Change in consideration for the supply
- Return of the goods or services

The output tax adjustment is made in the period in which it became apparent that the output tax was incorrect. Where input tax is claimable in respect of a previous period but has not been claimed, it may be claimed in any later period. Where adjustments are made in respect of prior periods, the relevant adjustments are included in the amounts reported for the GST return for the period in which the adjustments are made. No separate disclosure or approval is required.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in PNG.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for late registration of GST is a fine not exceeding PGK25,000.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The penalty for late payment is 10% of the unpaid amount at the due date, plus 20% per annum on the unpaid amount from the due date until paid.

Penalties for errors. The penalty for errors is a fine not exceeding PGK25,000.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's GST registration details may result in a penalty not exceeding PGK5,000 for the first occasion, then a penalty not exceeding PGK10,000 for the second occasion and then a penalty not exceeding PGK15,000 for subsequent occasions. For further details, see the subsection Changes to GST registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Penalty for fraud is a liability to a fine not exceeding PGK25,000.

Personal liability for company officers. Company directors have personal liability if the company defaults on its GST obligations. Directors are jointly and severally liable for the company's GST tax liabilities; and if any liability is outstanding, the directors are liable to a penalty equal to the company's liability. The Commissioner General is not entitled to recover the penalty until the expiration of 30 days after the Commissioner General has given notice to the director. If the liability has been paid within 30 days of the issue of the notice, the penalty will be remitted in full.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in PNG is four years. If a return has been submitted and no assessment has been made, the Commissioner is not able to make an assessment after four years from the return's submission date. If an assessment has been made, the Commissioner is not able to alter the assessment to increase the assessment after the earlier of the return's submission date or the date of the assessment.

A taxable person may object to an assessment within the time specified in the notice of assessment not being less than two months after the date of the notice. The Commissioner may allow further time in particular circumstances.

Where, in the opinion of the Commissioner, a taxable person has knowingly or fraudulently failed to make a full and true disclosure, the Commissioner may make an assessment or alter an assessment at any time.

Paraguay

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Asunción GMT -3

EY
Edificio Citicenter
Mcal. López esquina Cruz del Chaco
Asunción
Paraguay

Indirect tax contacts

Gustavo Colman	+595 (21) 664-308 gustavo.colman@py.ey.com
Alvaro Hoeckle	+595 (21) 664-308 alvaro.hoeckle@py.ey.com
Tania Caceres	+595 (21) 664-308 tania.caceres@py.ey.com
Sven N. Ratzlaff	+595 (21) 664-308 sven.ratzlaff@py.ey.com
Leonardo Cazal	+595 (21) 664-308 leonardo.cazal@py.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto al valor agregado (IVA)
Date introduced	1 July 1992
Trading bloc membership	MERCOSUR
Administered by	National Directorate of Tax Revenue (DNIT, acronym in Spanish) (www.set.gov.py)
VAT rates
Standard	10%
Reduced	5%
Other	Exempt
VAT number format	General tax ID number is used for VAT ID. If the taxable person is an individual, the VAT ID is their tax ID plus its verification number. If the taxable person is a legal entity, it is eight digits plus its verification number.
VAT return periods	Monthly (general period), and biannual (for nonprofit institutions)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Paraguay by a taxable individual or business
- The importation of goods from outside Paraguay, regardless of the status of the importer

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Paraguay, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Paraguay. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

The only business structure-related transactions that are exempt from VAT are the alienation of shares or quotas of companies and transfers resulting from a reorganization of companies, including within the concept of business reorganization, mergers, takeovers, spin-offs or divisions and business transformation.

Transactions between related parties. In Paraguay, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services in the course of doing business in Paraguay. The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to VAT.

The definition of a taxable person also applies to the following:
- Permanent establishment of a foreign business in Paraguay
- Transparent legal structures (i.e., trusts, investment funds and risk-sharing contracts)
- Undivided successions

Withholding VAT. Companies designated as withholding VAT (WHT) agents must withhold and pay VAT and issue virtual vouchers through the Paraguayan tax authority webpage for any tax withheld. Also, they must submit monthly tax returns indicating information related to purchases, sales and withheld tax. Returns must be filed electronically.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Paraguay does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Paraguay does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration, as there is no registration threshold (i.e., all entities that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for VAT).

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Paraguay.

Fixed establishment. Paraguayan tax law expresses the rules to determine if the activities carried out locally by entities established in a foreign country constitute or do not constitute a permanent establishment in Paraguay. The term permanent establishment in Paraguay is understood to include, among other things, the following: a) branches or agencies; b) an industrial or assembly plant or workshop or agricultural establishment; c) the mines, quarries or any other place of extraction of natural resources; and d) construction or assembly works whose duration exceeds 12 months.

In addition, a person acting in Paraguay on behalf of a foreign entity, shall be deemed to constitute a permanent establishment in Paraguay if it has and habitually exercises in Paraguay powers to conclude contracts on behalf of the entity, unless its activities are limited to the purchase of goods or merchandise for the entity.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Paraguay. A non-established business is not required to become a taxable person by obtaining a tax ID in Paraguay.

Tax representatives. It is mandatory for all corporate entities (i.e., not individuals) to have their own legal representative in Paraguay.

For non-established corporate entities, if they are to operate in Paraguay, they must have a fixed establishment. If they make supplies that are not physically in Paraguay, then there is no need for a fixed establishment. For example, if a UK company sold a license for software and supplied it to customers in Paraguay, it would not be necessary for that UK company to establish a fixed establishment in Paraguay, to sell the license in Paraguay.

For tax purposes, companies must appoint a legal representative(s) on Tax Form 605 or Tax Form 615. In those forms, the company must complete all the information related to the business, including type of entity, tax obligations and legal representative(s) information, among others.

Reverse charge. Paraguayan tax legislation does not provide "reverse charges" for VAT purposes. VAT on the provision of services by nonresidents is collected by means of WHT. For more details, see the subsection Withholding VAT above.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Paraguay.

Digital economy. Digital supplies of services, goods, e-commerce, etc., are subject to VAT.

For digital business-to-business (B2B) transactions, VAT is applied when the customer located in Paraguay makes a payment to a nonresident business; the Paraguayan customer is obligated to act as the VAT withholding agent for the payment made abroad through virtual vouchers issued by the Paraguayan tax authority webpage.

For digital business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions (understood to be by a consumer to an individual), banking, financial entities, exchange houses, cooperatives, payment processors or similar entities, as well as telephone companies or other entities that mediate for the provision of digital services, that facilitate or manage payments abroad, will act as VAT collection agents. In this sense, when the operations are carried out through credit or debit cards, the card processor will include VAT for digital services in the account statement, so the designated entity will receive the VAT that must subsequently be paid to the Paraguayan tax authority. In this line, the designated entity must act as a collection agent and document this operation through the collection voucher.

Nonresidents that provide electronically supplied services do not need to register for VAT in Paraguay (for both B2B and B2C supplies).

Individuals who are only taxed by personal income tax and VAT are allowed to issue invoices through the Paraguayan tax authority webpage.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Paraguay.

Online marketplaces and platforms. A digital service is deemed to be rendered in Paraguay, and therefore subject to local VAT, when any of the following is located in Paraguay:
- The IP address of the device used by the customer or country code of the SIM card
- The customer billing address
- The bank account used for the payment
- The billing address of the customer as available to the bank
- The financial institution issuing the credit or debit card with which the payment is made

Where a payment for digital services is made through a financial institution in Paraguay, the financial institution is responsible for collecting and remitting VAT at the standard rate of 10% on the payment, entering into force from 1 January 2021. Such financial institutions, therefore, must act as VAT collection agents when the holders of credit or debit cards contracts for digital services from foreign entities. Such entities are required to provide a VAT receipt. "Financial institutions" include banks, financial entities, exchange houses, cooperatives, payment processors and similar entities, as well as telephone companies and other intermediary entities.

The VAT stated in the credit or debit card statement of the user acquiring the service may be used by the taxable person as a VAT tax credit, to the extent it is linked to income subject to tax. For this purpose, the evidence for the credit will be the card or account statement.

VAT is charged at 10% and INR at 4.5% on the value of the digital services.

In addition, the following digital services are subject to this obligation:
- Digital multimedia content distribution (games, movies, music, videos, among others)
- Processing and storage of data in general, software development or updates or applications in general
- Cable or satellite television
- Marketing and advertising
- Gambling, chance, bets and similar activities
- Educational services provided through technological platforms

Registration procedures. Registration starts through an online process; immediately after registering the taxable person receives a confirmation by email and must present physically (papers in person or through power of attorney) the following documents:
- Public deed of incorporation of the company in Paraguay
- Tax Form 605
- Copy of legal representative's ID card

Deregistration. The following documents are required for deregistration of any Paraguayan taxable person:
- Public deed of liquidation of the company (if the taxable person is a business)
- Certificate of indebtedness with the Paraguayan tax authority
- Cancellation of Tax Validity Number or "Timbrado" number (Tax Form 621)
- Cancellation of tax identification number or "RUC" (Tax Form 623)
- Copy of legal representative's personal ID card (if the taxable person is a business – if not, the personal ID card of the taxable individual). If the business or individual decides to deregister from VAT only, they must file Form 615 or 610, respectively.

Changes to VAT registration details. It is the taxable person's obligation to notify the tax administration when there is a change in its tax registration details in Paraguay. Changes related to tax status include address, new local establishment, additional type of business, changes or new representatives, etc. The notification is related to taxable persons in general, not specific VAT registration. The time limit to present any updates is 30 days from the time of the change. The notification must be submitted online.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 10%
- Reduced rate: 5%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Basic family products
- Pharmaceutical goods
- Sale or housing purposes lease of real estate
- Agricultural products and cattle

A reduced tax base applies to certain supplies, thereby reducing the effective rate of VAT.

Examples of goods and services with a reduced tax base

- Certain imports of goods under specified tax treatment (Decree 1931/19 known as the Tourism Regime), such as: beauty creams, food supplements, video game, consoles and machines, articles and equipment for physical culture, gymnastics or athletics, etc.
- Real estate

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies

- Foreign currency
- Oil by-product fuels
- Interest on public securities
- Interest on bank deposits, books, certificates and shares
- Exportation of goods and exportation freight services
- Transfer of credits
- Transfer of carbonic credits

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Paraguay.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "taxable event." In general terms, the taxable event will occur with one of these events, whichever occurs first: a) delivery of the good or provision of the service; b) perception of the total amount or partial payment of the good or service; or c) expiration of the term foreseen for the payment of the service.

For importations, the taxable event will occur at the time of the numbering of the customs declaration of the goods in the Customs Office or the equivalent act.

Invoices must be issued on the date in which the taxable events occur.

Deposits and prepayments. According to tax regulations, any deposit or prepayments are subject to VAT for both goods and services. As mentioned above, the taxable event for VAT purposes occurs with the perception of the total amount or partial payment of the good or service.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Paraguay for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Paraguay for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. Paraguayan tax legislation does not provide for reverse charges for VAT purposes. VAT on the provision of services by nonresidents is collected by means of WHT.

Leased assets. Lease payments and purchase option executions are subject to VAT. There are no special time of supply rules in Paraguay for supplies of leased assets. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is at the time of the numbering of the customs declaration of the goods in the Customs Office or the equivalent act.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

The tax is settled by the difference of VAT debit and VAT credit when they are properly documented. This means that a taxable person generally recovers input tax (VAT credit) by offsetting it against output tax (VAT debit).

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in or from Paraguay and VAT paid on imports of goods.

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally support an input tax credit.

According to Paraguayan tax regulations, there are two different ways for taxable persons to recover VAT related to: 1) exportation of goods and exportation freight services; and 2) local withholding VAT. Both are expressly regulated with formal procedures that must be followed by Paraguayan taxable persons and must include a Certification of VAT Fiscal Credit to be refunded that is issued by auditing firms registered with the Paraguayan tax authority.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Paraguay is four years. If a taxable person did not file a VAT refund process in the mentioned four-year period, this VAT can only be offset by generating output tax in the local market.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for making taxable supplies or that are used for nonbusiness purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not possible to offset and examples of items for which input tax can be offset if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Business gifts
- Private use of business assets

Examples of items for which input tax can be offset (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, lease and hire of cars, vans and trucks, as well as maintenance charges
- Parking
- Taxis
- Travel expenses
- Conferences and seminars
- Mobile telephone advertising and sponsorship
- Overall acquisition of goods and services directly related to business use
- Independent service providers can offset 30% of input tax incurred on the purchases of food, including nonalcoholic beverages and a number of other specific items (according to Decree No 8175/22)

Partial exemption. Paraguayan taxable persons can offset VAT fiscal credit for input tax incurred on expenses that relate to taxable activities. If the fiscal credit is directly related to exempt activities, the taxable person cannot use it. The only exempt activity that direct input tax can be recovered is freight exportation operations. The VAT fiscal credits are nonrecoverable for all other input tax incurred in relation to exempt activities. The taxable person must include a Certification of VAT Fiscal Credit to be refunded issued by auditing firms registered with the Paraguayan tax authority.

Where a taxable person makes both taxable and exempt activities, they must evaluate the origin of each fiscal credit. If it directly relates to a taxable activity, the taxable person can get the input tax back in full. If the cost cannot be directly related to a taxable or exempt activity, it has to be proportionally calculated across both activities. The calculation is based on the amount of the last six months' worth of sales (i.e., the turnover of the business in those areas in the last six months). The indirect VAT fiscal credit related to freight exportation operations cannot be recovered.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Paraguay. Special methods are not allowed in Paraguay.

Capital goods. When a Paraguayan company invests in capital goods, there is an incentive law that applies, and no VAT is charged. To apply this regime, specific requirements established by laws must be met. This means that the business must initially pay the VAT on the purchase of capital goods, then they can offset it against fiscal credits, as long as they are making local supplies in Paraguay.

No special time limits apply to the input tax recovery offsetting in the local market of capital goods.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax (credit VAT) recoverable in a month exceeds the amount of output tax (debit VAT) payable, the excess credit may be carried forward to offset output tax in the following tax period.

If a taxable person overpaid VAT or paid VAT in error, it may correct the VAT return and use the overpayment to offset output tax in the following tax period or they could start a very formal process in order to reimburse the VAT paid in error.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Paraguay is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Paraguay. The following conditions must be met in order to recover the debt:

- The bad debts are credits that after 36 months from the date on which they became due, have not been collected
- The credits whose debtors are inhibited from selling goods (this only applies the first year in which the inhibition resolution was enacted)
- The claims of debtors who have been declared in bankrupt by the judicial authority
- The withdrawals granted in concordats approved by the judicial authority
- The bad debts must be recorded in the accounting and tax records

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Paraguay.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Paraguay is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports (exempted). A VAT invoice is necessary to support an input tax credit.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods and services. A credit note must contain a brief explanation stating the reason for the adjustment, and it must be cross-referenced to the original VAT invoice number.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Paraguay, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Paraguay.

However, from 1 January 2024, legal entities registered as new taxable persons will be mandated to issue electronically all their tax documents, with the exception of the virtual withholding voucher, through the platforms provided by the tax authority.

The tax authority has established a calendar of mandatory electronic invoicing where 10 different groups have been identified with the dates from which they must issue all their tax documents only electronically. Depending on the group, the obligation was implemented from 1 July 2022 until 31 October 2024. The list of taxable persons that make up the groups is available on the SIFEN website (ekuatia.set.gov.py/portal/ekuatia/).

There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Paraguay.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Paraguay. Nevertheless, the tax law provides some specific types of sales documentations, such as airline tickets, sales notes, public show tickets, among others. These can only be used for the relevant types of suppliers (i.e., airlines can use airline tickets, micro-businesses can use sales notes and show providers can use public show tickets, instead of full VAT invoices).

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Paraguay; however, it is only allowed in exceptional cases. For example, in cases where the supplier is not VAT registered and is selling an asset, the buyer (who is VAT registered) must issue a self-invoice. It is not generally allowed for other cases, and in practice it is not a very common use self-billing.

Proof of exports. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports must be supported by an exportation file that includes the customs authority good formalizations to leave Paraguay.

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, all amounts must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Paraguayan guarani (PYG), using the exchange rate published by the tax authority for recording purposes (local books).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Full VAT invoicing is mandatory for all transactions. If the buyer does not require an invoice, the seller must complete it with "no name" and an "X" in the RUC space. However, for supplies to nontaxable persons, Paraguayan taxable persons must still issue a full VAT invoice but without the name of the customer.

Records. In Paraguay, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all documentation related to taxes, such as accounting books and records, documents, invoices, purchase and sales invoices, that must be held by taxable persons in Paraguay.

In Paraguay, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Although the records can be kept outside the country, the platform and the archives should be accessible locally and all data and support documentation related to account software must be kept by local taxable persons.

Record retention period. The action for collection of the taxes shall expire after five years from 1 January of the year following that in which the obligation should have been fulfilled. For annual taxes on income or profits, it shall be understood that the taxable event occurs at the close of the fiscal year. It is mandatory to keep tax files during the abovementioned statute of limitation period.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Paraguay. This is only if the requirements are met, i.e., they include a digital signature and the documents must be stored for five years in a durable format (e.g., pdf).

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns are submitted on a monthly basis. The due date for VAT returns depends on the last number of the taxable person's tax identification number.

Periodic payments. The due date for VAT payment depends on the last number of the taxable person's tax identification number. Return liabilities must be paid in Paraguayan guarani. Payment must be made through the Paraguayan tax authority online system (https://marangatu.set.gov.py/eset/login). The VAT payments are the difference between output tax generated through the local sales and the input tax accumulated through the purchase of goods and services. If the input tax is higher than output tax, the difference can be used in the following periods.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Paraguay for all taxable persons. It must be done online through the tax administration's system [www.set.gov.pyunder (Sistema Marangatú)]. This is a software created by the Paraguayan tax authority (https://marangatu.set.gov.py/eset/login). This online/electronic system also allows taxable persons to make tax payments through this system. Taxable persons log on using their own tax ID and password.

Payments on account. Payments on account are generally not required in Paraguay, except for certain taxable persons. The Paraguayan tax authority may require VAT payments on account at the end of the fiscal period. This is only applicable when a taxable person does not submit their tax return or pay taxes online on time. In this case, the tax authorities can claim the overdue tax from the previous tax return as a payment on account. However, while this facility is included in the law, it is not enforced in Paraguay, and it is not common.

Special schemes. Tourist VAT system. The Paraguayan tax authority provides a specific list of products that a tourist can buy with a VAT exemption by presenting their passport. The taxable person must be registered in the tourist regime and a copy of the tourist's passport is attached to the VAT exempt invoice.

Secondhand goods. There is a special scheme for the sale of secondhand goods that treats only 30% of such supplies subject to VAT; the remaining 70% is considered VAT exempt.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Paraguay.

Supplementary filings. Special VAT categories. The Paraguayan tax authority may require a taxable person to use special books, sales and purchase books, records or forms of accounting for VAT purposes, according to the category of the taxable person. This would only be required to be submitted where the tax authorities request this from a taxable person, which can be done by the tax authorities on demand. The tax authorities may also request copies of invoices from certain suppliers.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The tax law and regulations allow the presentation of a tax return amendment in case of errors or omissions. This presentation must be done online through the tax administration's system [www.set.gov.pyunder (Sistema Marangatú)] with an additional tax return that must be used in case of amendments.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Paraguay.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Penalties are assessed for late registration for VAT. In addition, fines and interest are also applicable if the taxable person owes VAT. The penalty for late registration is approximately USD7.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A default penalty is charged on late payments of VAT. The penalty begins at 4% of the tax due and increases by 2% per month, up to a maximum of 14% (charged for a delay of more than five months). In addition to the default penalty, monthly interest is charged on unpaid tax at a rate of 1.5% per month, calculated on a daily basis.

Penalties for errors. Omission of payments is equivalent to 50% of the whole tax unpaid.

The penalties for late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details are approximately USD7. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A taxable person who intends to achieve an unlawful gain is deemed to commit fraud. Fraud is punished with a fine equal to one to three times the amount of the tax amount related to the fraud or the intention to defraud.

Penalties for severe cases of nonpayment of VAT, infringement of VAT regulations and fraud include criminal sanctions, such as fines and imprisonment.

Personal liability for company officers. In the case that the taxable persons correct any errors or omissions through the corresponding tax return amendment, the representative (for example directors, managers, etc.) cannot be held personally liable.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Paraguay is five years. This starts from 1 January of the following year from when the tax must be paid. A taxable person can voluntarily correct and pay previous VAT returns for the non-prescribed period (until five years) or prescribed period (more than five years). In this last case, it the taxable person who decides.

Peru

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Lima GMT -5

EY
Víctor Andrés Belaúnde 171
San Isidro
Lima 27
Perú

Indirect tax contacts

Humberto Astete	+51 (1) 411-4477 humberto.astete@pe.ey.com
Giancarlo Riva	+51 (1) 411-4448 giancarlo.riva@pe.ey.com
Manuel Rivera	+51 (1) 411-4444 manuel.rivera@pe.ey.com
David Warthon	+51 (1) 411-4444 david.warthon@pe.ey.com
Darío Paredes Bermúdez	+51 (1) 411-4407 dario.paredes@pe.ey.com
Alvaro Arbulu	+51 (1) 411-4444 alvaro.arbulu@pe.ey.com
Javi Rosas	+51 (1) 411-4444 javi.rosas@pe.ey.com
Carla Puente	+51 (1) 411-4444 carla.puente@pe.ey.com
Nathalie Ninuma	+51 (1) 411-4444 nathalie.ninuma@pe.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto General a las Ventas (IGV)
Date introduced	1 August 1991
Trading bloc membership	Andean Community
Administered by	General Tax and Customs Administration (SUNAT) (http://www.sunat.gob.pe)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Reduced	10%
Other	Exempt
VAT number format	11-digit taxpayer identification number (RUC)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The sale of movable property in Peru
- The provision of services in Peru
- The use of services in Peru rendered by non-established businesses
- Construction contracts
- The first sale of real property by the builder
- The importation of goods from outside Peru, regardless of the status of the importer

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Peru, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Peru. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Peru, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity that performs any taxable transaction in the course of doing business in Peru. In addition, individuals are liable to VAT if they perform such activities on a "habitual" basis. The Peruvian VAT law does not define "habitual" for transactions performed by individuals; the nature, amount and frequency of the operations must be considered.

No registration threshold applies. The definition of a taxable person applies to branches, agencies and other permanent establishments of a foreign business in Peru.

Exemption from registration. The VAT Act in Peru does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Peru does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration or special VAT registration rules for small businesses.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Peru.

Fixed establishment. An entity qualifies as a permanent establishment if the conditions stipulated on 14-B Article of Peruvian Income Tax Law are verified. In general terms, the following cases qualify as a permanent establishment:
- Any fixed place of business through which a company incorporated abroad conducts its business
- Construction projects or similar only if such project continues for more than 183 days within any 12-month period, unless a shorter period has been established in the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements
- The furnishing of services when they are carried out in the country for the same project for more than 183 days within any 12-month period, unless a shorter period has been established in the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreements
- When a person is acting on behalf of an enterprise incorporated abroad and has, and habitually exercises, an authority to conclude contracts on behalf of such enterprise

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Peru. A non-established business must register for VAT if it performs any of the taxable transactions, such as the sale of movable goods or the provision of services in Peru.

Tax representatives. Any person may be appointed by the company's legal representative to represent the taxable person before the tax administration. For that purpose, the company's legal representative must be registered before the tax administration.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to the import of goods and the use of services rendered by non-established businesses in Peru. Under this mechanism, the importer of goods and the resident user of services is charged with an output tax. This VAT is recoverable by taxable persons as a credit against future output tax charges from the following month of its payment.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Peru.

Digital economy. For business-to-business (B2B) transactions, the digital service charged to a local taxable person by a non-established business is subject to VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism. Under this mechanism, the local customer accounts for output tax (18%) on the value of the digital service payment, and in the following month the customer may recover this VAT as a credit against output tax. The non-established business is not required to register and account for VAT in Peru or register in any local registry for services provided from abroad.

The sale of intangible goods is subject to VAT if it is performed within Peru. According to Peruvian legislation, it is understood that a sale of intangible goods is performed within Peru when the buyer and the seller are domiciled entities.

For business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions, the operation is not subject to VAT in Peru, provided that the consumer doesn't perform taxable VAT activities on an "habitual" basis. To date, there is no procedure for individuals to pay VAT on B2C transactions (rendered by nonresident entities).

It should be noted that on 4 August 2022, Law No. 31543 was published, which establishes that individuals located in Peruvian territory may acquire certain goods in the Tacna free trade and commercial zone through e-commerce without being taxed with VAT, the municipal promotion tax, and the selective consumption tax (ISC). This regulation is in place until 31 December 2027.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Peru.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Peru.

Registration procedures. To register for VAT in Peru, a tax identification number (Registro Unico de Contribuyente or RUC) must be obtained before SUNAT. To do so, the tax representative must complete the Form 2119 and provide an identification document, as well as the company's electronic record, provided by the Peruvian Public Registry and any document to accredit its residence. The registration process can be done: (i) online (only for individuals) by using the app "Personas SUNAT," (ii) in person at the offices of the Peruvian Tax Administration or (iii) through the Virtual Reception Desk (MPV-SUNAT).

Deregistration. Under Peruvian tax legislation, there is no VAT registration as such. However, taxpayers must register in a "Taxpayer Register" (in Spanish, RUC) in order to be able to comply with its tax obligations before the tax administration (e.g., obtaining a tax ID, filing of tax returns and payment of taxes).

In that sense, when a company stops its business operations in Peru (e.g., due to a transfer of business, bankruptcy), it must request before the tax administration the cancellation of its registration in the RUC. The tax administration will approve the cancellation of the taxable person's register in the RUC. However, it is important to mention that this situation does not release the taxable person from complying with other tax obligations that might be applicable.

In addition, according to VAT law, a company that stops its business cannot claim any refund of the remaining input tax.

Changes to VAT registration details. Under Peruvian tax legislation, there is no VAT registration as such. However, taxable persons must communicate any change in the data contained in their RUC (e.g., address, business name). In case they do not comply with this obligation, they may be sanctioned by the Peruvian Tax Administration. The deadline for communicating the change of tax domicile is one working day. The deadline for modifying or updating other data registered in the RUC is five working days after the events.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Reduced rate: 10%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for an exemption.

The government has reduced the standard VAT rate from 18% to 8% from 13 August 2022 to 31 December 2024, which applies to taxable persons that meet certain requirements. Law 31556 temporarily reduces the VAT rate from 16% to 8% for certain supplies. This results in an effective tax rate for such supplies of 10% (comprised of the reduced 8% VAT rate plus the 2% promotion municipal tax). The reduced VAT rate (10%) objective is to support the economic reactivation of restaurants, hotels and tourist accommodations, which is in force from 1 September 2022 to 31 December 2024.

The following requirements must be met to apply the reduced VAT:
- The taxable persons must be individuals or legal entities that obtain corporate income and are subject to VAT
- The taxable persons must qualify as micro and small companies in accordance with the Promotion of Productive Development and Business Growth Law
- Companies that are not part of an economic group that together do not meet such characteristics, have economic ties with other companies or national or foreign economic groups
- Their main activity, which represents at least 70% of their income, must be related to restaurants, hotels and tourist lodging

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%
- Accommodation services (hotels and tourist accommodation)
- Restaurants (food and beverage sales)
- Catering services (provision of goods and drinks services)
- Food concessionaries

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services
- Fruits and vegetables
- Educational services
- Public transportation
- Exports of goods

Option to tax for exempt supplies. It is possible to waive exemption of VAT for the sale and importation of goods listed in Appendix I of the Peruvian VAT law (which principally includes some animals, fruits and vegetables), but not for the provision of services. In this regard, the taxable person must communicate its decision to the tax administration and comply with all the requirements and conditions laid down. This request comprises all the exempt goods, not specific categories or goods. After the tax administration is notified, it has 45 days to approve or deny the request. Should the request be approved, the VAT will be applicable as of the first day of the month after the request is approved. The election to waive exemption is definitive.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The following are the rules for determining the basic time of supply for goods and services:

- Sale of movable property within the country: when the goods are delivered or when the invoice (or payment voucher) is issued or should be issued, whichever is earlier
- Provision of services in the country: when the invoice (or payment voucher) is issued or should be issued or when the payment is made, whichever is earlier
- Use of services in the country rendered by non-established businesses: when the invoice (or payment voucher) is registered in the domiciled taxable person's accounting records or when the payment is made, whichever is earlier
- Construction contracts: when the invoice (or payment voucher) is issued or should be issued or when the payment is totally or partially made, whichever is earlier
- First sale of real property sold by the builder: when the payment is either totally or partially made

The following are the rules for determining the time of issuing invoices:

- Sale of movable property within the country: when the goods are delivered or when the payment is made, whichever is earlier
- Provision of services in the country: when the service has concluded, when the payment is partially or totally made or when the deadline established for the payment of the services has expired, whichever is earlier
- Construction contracts: when the payment is totally or partially made
- First sale of real property sold by the builder: when the payment is totally or partially made

Deposits and prepayments. In general terms, prepayments related to taxable transactions are subject to VAT (there are some exceptions, such as guarantees that do not exceed the 3% value). Thus, partial payments received in advance to the delivery of goods are subject to VAT on the date of the transaction and for the amount of the partial payment.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Peru for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Peru for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The reverse charge applies to the import of goods and the use of services rendered by non-established businesses in Peru. The time of supply for the supply of reverse-charge services is the following:

- For the import of goods, on the date they are requested to be released for consumption
- For services provided by non-established businesses, on the date when the proof of payment is recorded in the purchase register or on the date when the remuneration is paid, whichever occurs first

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Peru for supplies of leased assets. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for the import of goods is either when goods clear customs or when the goods leave a duty suspension regime. In the case of the import of intangible goods, the time of supply is when the payment is either totally or partially made or when the invoice (or payment voucher) is registered in the domiciled taxable person's accounting records, whichever is earlier.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

For all the transactions listed in Section B, VAT payable is determined on a monthly basis by deducting from the gross tax (output tax) the corresponding VAT credit (input tax).

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Peru. This means that, effectively, the input tax (VAT credit) may be carried forward indefinitely until its complete recovery. The input tax that is not applied for the monthly determination of VAT (output tax minus input tax) can be carried forward to the following months until it is exhausted. The exception to this is acquisitions taxed with VAT that are destined to goods and services export (i.e., sale of goods and services). See the subsection Exporters below.

VAT paid on imports of goods or the use of services in the country must be paid directly to the tax administration. For such supplies, VAT payable equals the gross tax and no deduction for VAT credit is allowed. After the VAT is paid, it may be used as VAT credit. As a result, a financial cost may be incurred for the time period beginning with the date of payment and ending on the date on which the VAT credit is used to offset the gross tax on the transactions listed in Section B.

The gross tax corresponding to each taxable operation is determined by applying the VAT rate of 18% to the tax base (for example, the value of goods and services or the value of construction contracts). The VAT credit consists of the VAT separately itemized in the payment voucher (or corresponding document) relating to any of the activities listed in Section B.

The following are requirements for the use of the VAT credit:
- The acquisition cost is allowed as an expense or cost for income tax purposes, and the acquisition is intended for operations in which the obligation to pay the VAT will arise
- The tax must be stated separately in the payment voucher, and the payment voucher must be completed according to applicable law and registered in the purchase book appropriately

Exporters. Exporters are reimbursed for any VAT paid on the acquisition of goods and services. Exporters can apply such reimbursement as a credit to offset VAT or income tax liabilities. Any balance may be refunded by the tax administration.

General and enhanced early recovery systems. The law provides for a general and enhanced early recovery system for enterprises performing productive activities.

Under the general system, which applies to all productive companies in a preoperative stage, the VAT paid on the acquisition of capital goods is reimbursed through negotiable credit notes.

The early recovery VAT system allows an early recovery of the VAT credit with respect to acquisitions of goods and services, construction contracts, importations and other transactions without having to wait to recover such amount from a client when the corresponding invoice for sales of goods, services or construction contracts, including VAT, is issued to the client.

This regime provides relief of the financial costs (cost of money) with respect to projects that have a significant preoperative stage and if advance invoices transferring the VAT burden cannot be issued periodically to the client.

The enhanced system is restricted to companies that satisfy the following conditions:
- They must file a sworn statement describing its investment project and features, detailing the equipment and services under the project
- They make a minimum investment commitment of USD2 million to projects with a preoperative stage of at least two years as of 31 December 2024; after that, the minimum investment commitment amount will be USD5 million, except for investments to be made in the agricultural sector, which is exempt from this requirement.

Under the enhanced system, VAT paid on construction contracts and on the acquisition of new capital goods and intermediate goods and services can be recovered through negotiable credit notes filed on a monthly basis and taxable persons can request the VAT accumulated for up to six months. The negotiable credit notes can be exchanged by check as requested by the beneficiary. The use of one system does not preclude using the other system for different items.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for making taxable supplies or that are not used for business purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). If expenditure relates to both business and nonbusiness activities, only the portion related to the business may be recovered. In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal expenses

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising and sponsorship
- Business gifts, if the value does not exceed 0.5% of the taxable person's annual gross revenues, with a maximum limit of 40 tax units, equivalent to PEN198,000 (USD51,360) based on the tax unit approved for year 2023, PEN4,950 (USD1,284)
- Business entertainment expenses, if the value does not exceed 0.5% of the taxable person's annual gross revenues, with a maximum of 40 tax units equivalent to PEN198,000 (USD51,360) based on the tax unit approved for year 2023, PEN4,950 (USD1,284)
- Mobile phones
- Parking
- Fuel
- Taxis
- Travel expenses

Partial exemption. If a taxable person makes both taxable and nontaxable transactions, it may not deduct input tax in full, from output tax. It may deduct only the amount of input tax related to the goods and services used in taxable transactions. For this purpose, taxable persons must maintain separate accounts for taxable and nontaxable transactions, as well as for the services and goods purchased for conducting such transactions. If it is not possible, the amount of input tax subject to deduction in each reporting period must be prorated based on a procedure established by the Regulations of the VAT law.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Peru. Special methods are not allowed in Peru.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. VAT paid on the acquisition of capital goods may be used as a tax credit (i.e., input tax). A tax credit arising from the acquisition of capital goods may be offset with debit VAT (i.e., output tax) in the month in which capital goods are acquired.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax (i.e., credit VAT) recoverable in a month exceeds the amount of output tax (i.e., debit VAT) payable, the excess credit may be carried forward to offset output tax in the following tax period. The referred amount may be applied as credit VAT in the following months until it is used up.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Peru is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Peru.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred in relation to noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Peru.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Peru is not recoverable.

Tourists refund scheme. Under Peruvian VAT law, reimbursement of the VAT paid when acquiring goods is allowed if the purchaser is a nonresident tourist who remains within Peru between two and 60 calendar days, and the acquired goods are taken abroad by the nonresident tourist. The nonresident tourist must request the reimbursement when leaving the country and satisfy all requirements in the VAT law and its regulations.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. A VAT invoice is necessary to support a claim for an input tax credit.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply of goods and services in certain circumstances (e.g,. for rebates, trade discounts, bonuses, returned goods or errant charges). A credit note must refer to the VAT invoice for the original transaction and contain the same basic information.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Peru for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Peru. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Peru. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Peruvian taxable persons are required to issue electronic invoices for transactions involving the transfer of goods, provision of services and the use of goods. To do so, they can use an electronic issuance system such as the Taxpayer Electronic Issuance System, the SOL Electronic Issuance System, the Supervised Company Electronic Issuance System, among others. The specific obligations for issuance will vary depending on the chosen system.

The same rules for electronic invoicing also apply for other tax documents, such as debit notes and credit notes, among others. The implementation of electronic invoicing took effect from June 2022 for all taxable persons. There are some exceptions from this mandatory requirement for taxable persons whose transactions are carried out in geographical areas without mobile data connection and for new taxable persons registered in the RUC during their first two months.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Peru. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Peru.

Proof of exports. Exported goods and services are exempt from Peruvian VAT. For a service to qualify as an export, it must meet the following requirements:

- It is provided for a consideration from another country, which must be demonstrated with the payment receipt issued and recorded in the sales and income register
- The exporter is a resident taxable person in Peru
- The user or beneficiary of the service is an individual nonresident in Peru
- The use or exploitation of the services provided to the nonresident takes place abroad
- The exporter of services must be previously registered in the Register of Exporters of Services of the Tax Administration (Superintendencia Nacional de Aduanas y de Administración Tributaria or SUNAT)

Also, there is a list of operations that qualify as exports, even when they do not meet the above requirements. These operations include the sale of goods, national or nationalized, to establishments located in an international zone of ports or airports; transportation services for passengers or merchandise rendered by national shipping companies within the country to abroad; and the air cargo transportation services carried out within the country to abroad.

For exports of goods, the sale must be performed from a resident in Peru to a nonresident, and the customs documents must provide evidence that the goods have left the country.

Exporters may recover VAT paid on the acquisition of goods and services. Exporters may apply to be reimbursed for VAT paid through credit notes. Credit notes may be used to offset either output tax or income tax liabilities.

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the value must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Peruvian sol (PEN), to be registered in the Purchase Book, using the sales exchange rate in force according to the time of supply for each transaction Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special rules in Peru for invoices for supplies to nontaxable persons. As such, therefore full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Peru, examples of what records that must be held for VAT purposes include purchase and sales registers to record their acquisitions and sales transactions.

In Peru, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, there are technically no rules that establish the place in which the taxable person's records must be kept. Likewise, there is no express prohibition to hold the records abroad. As such, both options can be used in practice. However, the legalization of the records in Peru is required before their use.

Record retention period. Taxable persons must store, archive and keep the purchase and sales registers for five years or during the statutory period of limitation for taxes.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Peru. The tax administration has progressively implemented the obligation of taxable persons of keeping electronic accounting books and registers for a five-year period or the statutory period of limitation.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns must be submitted monthly. Taxable persons must fulfill their tax obligations between the 7th business day and the 16th business day of the month following the date on which the tax obligation arises. Note that there are no specific dates for the VAT filing return or payment deadline. The exact deadline dates are established by tax authorities annually.

Periodic payments. The filing return and payment of VAT is done on a monthly basis in accordance with the maximum due dates established by the Peruvian Tax Administration, based on the last digit of the tax identification number (RUC). Return liabilities must be paid in PEN.

VAT withholding systems must be applied in certain transactions (supply of certain goods and services). Those systems imply an advanced collection of the tax and were designed by the tax administration to prevent tax evasion.

The payment of VAT may be done online by SUNAT Virtual webpage, by debit to an affiliated bank account of an authorized bank, by credit or debit card, by debit on the Obligatory Payment System (SPOT) account opened in the Peruvian National Bank or in person at any of the offices of the authorized banks.

SPOT is applicable to the sale of specific goods and the provision of services that fall under Peruvian VAT. The primary objective of SPOT is to generate funds that allow the VAT payer to meet their tax obligations.

On the other hand, the VAT perception system is applied to the sale of specific goods within the country, including mixed oil gas, carbon dioxide, among others. In this system, perception agents, who are appointed in advance by the Peruvian Tax Administration, are required to withhold a predetermined amount of VAT that will be generated by their customers in future transactions involving these goods. The perception rates are 0.5% and 2%.

The import of goods is also subject to this VAT perception system, wherein the tax is determined by applying a percentage to the CIF customs value plus all taxes levied on the import and other surcharges, where applicable. The applicable tax rate is 3.5%, 5% or 10%, depending on the situation of the importer and/or the goods to be cleared through customs. Like VAT, the amount paid may be used by the importer as a tax credit. However, there are certain cases in which prepaid VAT does not need to be paid; for example, when the import is performed by VAT withholding agents or in the case of certain goods from the system.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Peru for all taxable persons. VAT returns should be submitted monthly using the Virtual Program No. 00621.Taxable persons use the electronic account known as "CLAVE SOL" (http://www.sunat.gob.pe/) to submit returns. Once the RUC is obtained, the tax administration provides each taxable person the ID and password for CLAVE SOL.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Peru.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Peru.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Peru.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Peru.

Correcting errors in previous returns. To correct any errors filed in previous returns, the taxable person must file a rectifying tax return with the correct information online by SUNAT Virtual webpage (tax ID and password are required), using the Virtual Program No. 0621.

The rectifying tax return will be effective immediately after it is filed if the tax obligation determined is equal or greater than the previous tax return. If the tax obligation is less than the previous tax return, the rectifying tax return will be effective within 45 business days after it was filed, and the tax administration does not issue any observation on the veracity and accuracy of the information contained therein.

Digital tax administration. Sales book. Taxable persons are obliged to file periodic reports (sales book or Registro de Ventas) detailing their electronic invoices issued and account books to the tax administration.

From 1 January 2024 (with specific exceptions), the Peruvian Tax Administration has mandated the use of the Integrated Electronic Records System (SIRE, for its Spanish acronym). It is a digital platform implemented to facilitate the generation of the Purchase Book and the Sales Book from electronic invoicing.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. If taxable persons do not follow the registration procedures, there is a penalty of one tax reference unit (UIT), equivalent to PEN4,950 (USD1,284) based on the tax unit approved for year 2023.

Penalties for late payment and filings. No penalties apply in Peru for late payment of VAT. However, interest will be charged for the unpaid taxes (at a monthly rate of 0.9%). For the late filing of the VAT return, there is a penalty of one UIT, equivalent to PEN4,950 (USD1,284) based on the tax unit approved for year 2023.

Penalties for errors. The penalty for failure to include taxable transactions in the VAT return is 50% of the omitted tax if an amount of VAT is payable. Interest is charged at a monthly rate of 0.9% on late payments or underpayments of VAT. This fine can be reduced by up to 95% under certain conditions.

Some penalties may arise if any omitted tax is determined after the filing of the new tax return.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, a taxable person must ensure that the information provided to the tax authorities is correct and updated within the specified time periods. If a taxable person does not meet this obligation, it will commit the infraction stated on numeral 5 of the Article 173 of Tax Code. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Criminal tax evasion may be punished by a term of imprisonment, a fine or both, depending on the severity of the case.

Personal liability for company officers. Legal representatives (i.e., company officers and directors and others designated by the legal entities) are considered jointly and several liable for the nonpayment of taxes, only when due to fraud, gross negligence or abuse of powers.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Peru is four to 10 years. The action of the tax authorities to determine the tax obligation, as well as the action to demand its payment and apply sanctions, prescribes after four years and after six years for those who have not presented the respective declaration. Said actions expire after 10 years when the VAT withholding, or perception agent has not paid the tax received.

The statute of limitations is calculated from 1 January following the date on which the tax obligation is due.

On the other hand, the action to request or effectuate the setoff, as well as the request in return the amounts paid unduly or in excess, and prescribes after four years, calculated from 1 January following the date on which the right to request in return said amounts has begun.

Philippines

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Manila GMT +8

SyCip Gorres Velayo & Co.
SGV Building II, 6th floor
6760 Ayala Avenue
1226 Makati City
Philippines

Indirect tax contacts

Lucil Q. Vicerra	+63 (2) 894-8115 +63 9178948115 lucil.q.vicerra@ph.ey.com
Stephanie V. Nava	+63 (2) 894-8319 +63 9178948319 stephanie.v.nava@ph.ey.com
Victor C. De Dios	+63 (2) 878-7929 +63 989997929 victor.c.de.dios@ph.ey.com
Lee Celso R. Vivas	+63 (2) 891-0307 +63 9178484017 lee.celso.r.vivas@ph.ey.com
Arlyn A Sarmiento-Sy	+63 (2) 891-0307 arlyn.a.sarmiento-sy@ph.ey.com
Alden C. Labaguis	+63 (2) 8894-8327 +63 9178100903 alden.c.labaguis@ph.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 January 1988
Trading bloc membership	Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN)
Administered by	Department of Finance's Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) (http://www.dof.gov.ph or http://www.bir.gov.ph)
VAT rates
Standard	12%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format
VAT-registered person	Nine-digit tax identification number (TIN)
Branch office	Head office's nine-digit TIN, plus a three-digit branch code
VAT return periods	Monthly VAT declarations; monthly or quarterly VAT returns
Thresholds
Registration	PHP3 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The taxable sale, barter, exchange, use or lease of goods or property by a taxable person
- The taxable sale or exchange of services by a taxable person (see below)
- The taxable importation of goods from outside the Philippines
- Deemed sale transactions (see below)

The taxable sale or exchange of services includes the following:
- Lease or use of a copyright, patent design or model, plan, secret formula or process, goodwill, trademark, trade brand or other similar property
- Lease or use of industrial, commercial or scientific equipment
- Supply of scientific, technical, industrial or commercial knowledge or information
- Supply of assistance that is ancillary and subsidiary to and is furnished as a means of enabling the application or enjoyment of industrial, commercial or scientific equipment or scientific, technical, industrial or commercial knowledge or information
- Supply of services by a non-established business or its employee with respect to the use of property or rights belonging to the nonresident, or the installation or operation of a brand, machinery or other apparatus purchased from such nonresident
- Supply of technical advice, assistance or services rendered with respect to the technical management or administration of a scientific, industrial or commercial undertaking, venture, project or scheme
- Lease of motion picture, other films, tapes and discs
- Lease or use of or the right to use radio, television, satellite transmission and cable television time

VAT applies to deemed sale transactions such as the following:
- Transfer, use or consumption not in the course of business of goods or property originally intended for sale or use in the course of business
- Distribution or transfer to shareholders or investors as a share in the profits of a taxable person or to creditors in payment of debt
- Consignment of goods if an actual sale is not made within 60 days following the date such goods were consigned
- Retirement from or cessation of business, with respect to inventories of taxable goods existing as of such retirement or cessation

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In the Philippines, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in the Philippines. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In the Philippines, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the arm's-length principle. This is deemed the most appropriate standard to determine transfer prices of related parties.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any individual, trust, estate, partnership, corporation, joint venture, cooperative or association that carries out any of the following activities in the course of a trade or business:
- Sells, barters, exchanges or leases goods or property
- Renders services
- Imports goods

In addition, if the importer is exempt from tax, the purchaser, transferee or recipient of imported goods is liable for VAT, regardless of whether such person is a registered taxable person.

Non-established businesses that perform services in the Philippines are deemed to be making sales in the course of a trade or business even if the services are not performed on a regular basis.

In general, a taxable person with gross sales or receipts that have exceeded or that are expected to exceed PHP3 million over a 12-month period must register as a taxable person.

A radio or TV broadcasting franchisee must register if its gross annual receipts from the franchise exceeded PHP10 million in the preceding calendar year.

A professional person is liable for 12% VAT if its gross receipts or fees for the previous 12 months exceed PHP3 million or will exceed this amount in the next 12 months. A professional that is not registered for VAT is liable for the percentage tax at a rate of 3% if its gross receipts for the previous 12 months were equal to or less than this threshold.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in the Philippines does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. It is possible for a taxable person that is otherwise generally not required to register for VAT to become VAT-registered on a voluntary basis.

Any person who elects to register under optional VAT registration shall not be allowed to cancel VAT registration for the next three years.

VAT registration is optional for the following persons:
- A VAT-exempt person with gross sales or receipts that do not exceed PHP3 million.
- A radio or television broadcasting franchisee with gross annual receipts from the franchise that did not exceed PHP10 million in the preceding calendar year.

A taxable person with mixed transactions may opt for VAT to apply to its otherwise VAT-exempt transactions.

The following persons must register as non-VAT persons:
- A VAT-exempt person that is not registered as a taxable person
- An individual engaged in business with gross sales or receipts of PHP3 million or less in a 12-month period
- Nonstock, nonprofit organizations or associations engaged in trade or business with gross sales or receipts of PHP3 million or less in a 12-month period
- Cooperatives, except electric cooperatives
- Radio and television broadcasters with gross annual receipts of PHP10 million or less that do not opt to be registered for VAT
- Enterprises registered with the Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) and other economic zones or investment promotion agencies (IPAs) that enjoy a preferential tax rate of 5% instead of paying all taxes
- Enterprises registered with the Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) or with other free port zones that enjoy a preferential tax rate of 5% instead of paying all taxes

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in the Philippines.

Fixed establishment. In the Philippines there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, a fixed or permanent establishment (as defined under several tax treaties) refers to a fixed place of business in which the business of the enterprise is wholly or partly carried on. Note only transactions transpired in the Philippines will be subject to VAT following the situs of taxation rule.

Non-established businesses. A foreign non-established business (or foreign nonresident not engaged in trade or business in the Philippines) is a foreign business that does not have a branch, headquarters or permanent establishment in the Philippines. A foreign non-established business is subject to VAT for services rendered in the Philippines via a withholding process, but it is not required to register for VAT purposes.

Tax representatives. A foreign non-established business is not required to appoint a tax representative in the Philippines. Any resident who deals with a non-established business and who has control over payment for the supply must act as the VAT withholding agent.

Reverse charge. Under the reverse-charge provision, a taxable person that receives a supply of goods or services must withhold the VAT due from the supplier and pay the VAT. The reverse charge applies in the circumstances described below.

Withholding tax. A resident must withhold 12% VAT before paying to a nonresident or foreign non-established business the consideration for a nonresident's lease of properties or for property rights or services rendered in the Philippines. A VAT-registered withholding agent may claim the VAT withheld by it as input tax on its own VAT return, subject to the rule on allocation of input tax among taxable, zero-rated and exempt sales (see Section F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons). If the withholding agent is a non-VAT taxable person, the VAT paid forms part of the cost of the purchased services and may be treated either as an asset or as an expense, in accordance with general accounting principles.

Under the Tax Reform for Acceleration and Inclusion (TRAIN), payments for purchases of goods and services arising from projects funded by Official Development Assistance (ODA) as defined under Republic Act No. 8182, the "Official Development Assistance Act of 1996," as amended, shall not be subject to the final withholding tax system as imposed in this subsection.

Before paying for each taxable (i.e., local) purchase of goods or services, the government must deduct and withhold a final VAT of 5% representing the net VAT payable by the seller, on account of its purchases of goods or services subject to VAT. Under the TRAIN, beginning 1 January 2021, the VAT withholding system shall shift from final to a creditable system. The remaining 7% is the standard input tax (see Section F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons) for sales of goods or services to the government, instead of the actual input tax directly attributable or apportioned to these sales. If the actual input tax exceeds 7% of the gross payment, the excess may form part of the seller's expense or cost. If the actual input tax is less than 7% of the gross payment, the difference must be treated as an expense or cost.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in the Philippines.

Digital economy. The Philippine House of Representatives introduced House Bill (HB) No. 4122, "Imposing Value-Added Tax on Digital Transactions in the Philippines." Similarly, the Philippine Senate produced its own version, which is Senate Bill (SB) No. 250 with the same title. Under both HB No. 4122 and SB No. 250, any nonresident digital service provider who, in the course of trade or business engages in the sale or exchange of digital services is required to register or account for VAT in the Philippines, provided that their gross sales or receipts of such digital service business for the past 12 months before the date of filing of VAT return, other than those that are exempt from VAT, have exceeded PHP3 million. A VAT-registered nonresident digital service provider may issue an electronic invoice or receipt in compliance with the invoicing requirements under the Tax Code.

At the time of preparing this chapter, HB No. 4122 has been approved by the House of Representatives, while SB No. 250 has been approved by the Senate. Both bills were referred to the other chamber for further deliberation. Once the final version of the bills is approved by both chambers, it will be recommended to the president for signing into law.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in the Philippines.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Persons who conduct business through online transactions (i.e., online shopping or online retailing, online intermediary service, online advertisement/classified ads and/or online auction) are required to register the business at the Revenue District Office having jurisdiction over the principal place of business/head office (or residence in case of individuals) and comply with other registration requirements. The existing laws and revenue issuances on the tax treatment of purchases (local or imported) and sale (local or international) of goods (tangible or intangible) or services shall be equally applied with no distinction whether the marketing channel is the internet/digital media or the typical and customary medium. Failure to comply with the applicable registration requirements may trigger penal provisions.

The online merchant or retailer is required among others to issue a registered invoice or receipt, either manually or electronically, for every sale, barter, exchange or lease of goods and services. If the customer pays through an online intermediary who controls the collections/payments of customers or markets products/services for its own account and thus considered the retailer/merchant, they are required to issue the invoice/official receipt for the full amount of the sale to the customer.

Payment gateways such as banks, credit card companies, financial institution and bill paying services are obliged to issue validated bank deposit slips or payment confirmations in the name of the merchant-seller. Freight forwarders and online website administrators are likewise obliged to issue, either electronically or manually, the Department of Finance's Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) registered official receipt for the service fees paid by the merchant or advertisers.

As outlined above, HB No. 4122 and SB No. 250 aim to impose VAT (at the standard rate at 12%) on digital advertising services or sale of goods using an electronic commerce platform, services rendered electronically or through subscription-based services, as well as imposing VAT on digital service providers.

Registration procedures. A new taxable person must file an application for registration as a VAT-registered taxable person. Corporations and partnerships must file BIR Form No. 1903 (Application for Registration) or BIR Form No. 1905 (Application for Registration Information Update) and physically file it with the Revenue District Office (RDO) having jurisdiction at the place where the head office and branch is located together with the required attachments on or before the first sale transaction. New taxable persons are required to pay an annual registration fee of PHP500 at the Authorized Agent Banks (AABs) of the concerned RDO and submit the requirements for the authority to print (ATP) principal and supplementary receipts/invoices and registration of books of accounts. As soon as all the requirements are submitted, the RDO will issue the Certificate of Registration (Form 2303).

Registration of a business, the issuance of an electronic certificate of registration (COR), ATP, application for an ATP or use of BIR-printed receipts/invoices (BPR/BPI)/employer account enrollent to facilitate the TIN issuance of employees/registration of book of accounts are now required to be done under the online registration and update system (ORUS).

ORUS has also the following new features: online payment of annual registration fee for new business registrants/online verification of taxpayer identification number (TIN)/BIR-registered business search facility and online inquiry of registration fee payment for BIR internal users and business registration such as registration of a new branch/facility and also updating of registered information.

Deregistration. A taxable person may cancel its registration for VAT in any of the following circumstances:
- The taxable person's written application to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (CIR) satisfactorily shows that its gross sales or receipts for the following 12 months (other than those that are exempt) will not exceed PHP3 million.
- The person has ceased to carry on its trade or business and does not expect to recommence any trade or business in the next 12 months.
- A change of ownership in a single proprietorship occurs.
- A partnership or corporation is dissolved.
- A merger or consolidation of a dissolved corporation occurs.
- The person registers before a planned business commencement but fails to start its business.

Changes to VAT registration details. In case there has been a change in the taxable person's VAT registration details, it is their obligation to update their record with the BIR District Office where their business is registered by filing a duly accomplished BIR Form No. 1905, specifying therein any change in tax type and other taxable persons' details. No specific time limit applies for such notification. Once fully implemented, updates to a taxable person's VAT registration details may be done online through the BIR ORUS.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 12%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

A taxable person that makes zero-rated transactions may use the input tax as credit against VAT liability, or it may file a claim for a refund or apply for a tax credit certificate (TCC).

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Export sales, including the following:
  - Sales of goods exported from the Philippines to a foreign country
  - Sales of raw materials or packaging materials to a nonresident buyer for delivery to a resident exporter for manufacturing, processing, packing or repacking the buyer's goods in the Philippines
  - Sales of raw materials or packaging materials supplied to an exporter with export sales exceeding 70% of its annual production. Under the TRAIN, the second and third items will be converted into a regular VAT-able transaction (12% tax rate) upon satisfaction of the following conditions:
    (a) The successful establishment and implementation of an enhanced VAT refund system that grants refunds of creditable input tax within ninety (90) days from the filing of the VAT refund application with the Bureau.
- Sale of goods, supplies, equipment and fuel to persons engaged in international shipping or international air transport operations: provided that the goods, supplies, equipment and fuel shall be used for international shipping or air transport operations

- Services other than processing, manufacturing or repacking goods rendered to a person engaged in business conducted outside the Philippines or to a non-established business not engaged in business who is outside the Philippines when the services are performed, the consideration for which is paid for in acceptable foreign currency and accounted for in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP)
- Transport of passengers and cargo by domestic air or sea vessels from the Philippines to a foreign country
- Sale of power or fuel generated through renewable sources of energy such as, but not limited to, biomass, solar, wind, hydropower, geothermal, ocean energy and other emerging energy sources using technologies such as fuel cells and hydrogen fuels
- Services rendered to persons engaged in international shipping or air transport operations, provided that these services shall be exclusive for international shipping or air transport operations
- Services of contractors or subcontractors in processing or manufacturing goods for exporters with export sales exceeding 70% of annual production
- Local sales of goods, properties and services by a taxable person to a person or entity that was granted indirect tax exemption under special laws or international agreements

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- The sale or import of the following items:
  - Agricultural or marine food products in their original state
  - Livestock or poultry used as, or for producing, foods for human consumption
  - Breeding stock and related genetic materials
  - Fertilizers, seeds, fingerlings, fish, prawn, livestock or poultry feeds and ingredients used for manufacturing finished feeds that are unfit for human consumption or ingredients that cannot be used for the production of products for human consumption as certified by the Food and Drug Administration (except specialty feeds for racehorses, fighting cocks, zoo animals or pets)
  - Drugs and medicines prescribed for diabetes, high cholesterol and hypertension from 1 January 2020
  - Drugs and medicines for cancer, mental illness, tuberculosis and kidney diseases from 1 January 2021 (certain COVID-19 medicines were previously included in the list of exempt drugs and medicines under this provision, ending 31 December 2023)
- Import of the following items:
  - Personal or household effects of residents returning from abroad or nonresident citizens coming to resettle in the Philippines if the items qualify for exemption from customs duties
  - Professional instruments and implements, tools of trade, occupation or employment, wearing apparel, domestic animals and personal and household effects belonging to persons coming to live in the Philippines or Filipinos or their families and descendants who are now residents or citizens of other countries (such parties hereinafter referred to as overseas Filipinos) in quantities and of the class suitable to the profession, rank or position of the persons importing said items, for their own use and not for barter or sale, accompanying such persons, or arriving within a reasonable time; the Bureau of Customs (BOC) upon the production of satisfactory evidence that such persons are actually coming to settle in the Philippines and that the goods are brought from their former place of abode, exempt such goods from payment of duties and taxes; vehicles, vessels, aircrafts, machineries and other similar goods for use in manufacture, shall not fall within this classification and shall therefore be subject to duties, taxes and other charges
- Services rendered by agricultural contract growers and milling for others of palay (unhusked rice) into rice, corn into grits and sugar cane into raw sugar
- Services subject to percentage taxes

- Domestic common carriers by land (which must be a holder of a valid and current Certificate of Public Convenience to be considered as such) for passenger transport (subject to percentage tax under Section 117 of the Tax Code)
- Garage keepers (subject to percentage tax under Section 117 of the Tax Code)
- International air or shipping carriers (subject to percentage tax under Section 118 of the Tax Code)
- Sales of gold to the Philippines Central Bank (Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas or BSP)
- Radio or television broadcast franchisees with annual gross receipts of PHP10 million or less (subject to percentage tax under Section 119 of the Tax Code)
- Gas and water utilities' franchisees (subject to percentage tax under Section 119 of the Tax Code)
- Persons, companies and corporations (not cooperatives or associations) engaged in providing life insurance in the Philippines (subject to percentage tax under Section 123 of the Tax Code)
- Fire, marine or other insurance agents of foreign insurance companies (subject to percentage tax under Section 124 of the Tax Code)
- Proprietors or lessees or operators of cockpits, clubs, boxing, professional basketball, jai-alai and racetracks (subject to percentage tax under Section 125 of the Tax Code)
- Individual employees (services rendered by individuals pursuant to an employer-employee relationship)
- Providers for overseas dispatches, messages or conversations from the Philippines (subject to percentage tax under Section 120 of the Tax Code)
- Sales or exchanges of shares listed and traded at the local exchange or by initial public offering (subject to percentage tax under Section 127(B) of the Tax Code)
- Medical, dental, hospital and veterinary services, except those rendered by professionals
- Educational services of government or accredited private educational institutions
- Services rendered by regional, or area headquarters established in the Philippines by multinational corporations that act as supervisory, communications and coordinating center for their affiliates, subsidiaries or branches in the Asia-Pacific region and do not earn or derive income from the Philippines
- Transactions exempted under international agreements signed by the Philippines or under special laws
- Sales by agricultural cooperatives to members, sales of their produce to nonmembers and the import of direct farm inputs, equipment or spare parts for producing or processing farm produce
- Lending by credit or multi-purpose cooperatives
- Sales by nonagricultural or nonelectric or noncredit cooperatives if a member's capital contribution cap is PHP15,000
- Sales of the following real properties:
  - Real properties not primarily held for sale, lease or use in the ordinary course of trade or business
  - Low-cost housing, up to PHP750,000
  - Socialized housing, up to PHP450,000
  - Residential lots up to PHP1.5 million
  - Houses, lots and other residential dwellings, up to PHP2.5 million
- The lease of residential units for rent not exceeding: PHP15,000 a month
- The sale, import, printing or publication of books and newspapers or magazines appearing at regular intervals that have fixed sale prices and that are not devoted principally to publication of paid advertisements
- Sale, importation or lease of passenger or cargo vessels and aircraft, including engine, equipment and spare parts thereof for domestic or international transport operations
- Importation of fuel, goods and supplies by persons engaged in international shipping or air transport operations. As long as the fuel, goods and supplies are used for international shipping or air transport operations

- Services of banks, nonbank financial intermediaries performing quasi-banking functions and other nonbank financial intermediaries, such as money changers and pawnshops (subject to percentage tax under Section 122 of the tax code
- Sale or lease of goods or properties or services up to PHP3 million annually
- Transfer of property pursuant to Section 40(C)(2) of the Philippine Tax Code (i.e., tax-free exchanges of property, mergers and acquisitions)
- Sale of goods or services to "senior citizens," as defined under Republic Act (RA) No. 9994 or the Expanded Senior Citizens Act of 2010
- Sale of goods or services to persons with disability (PWD) under the Republic Act (RA) No. 10754 or the Act Expanding the Benefits and Privileges of Persons with Disability

Option to tax for exempt supplies. A VAT-registered person may elect exempt transactions to be subject to VAT at the standard rate. Once the election is made, it shall be irrevocable for a period of three years counted from the quarter when the election was made except for franchise grantees of radio and TV broadcasting whose annual gross receipts for the preceding year do not exceed PHP10 million where the option becomes perpetually irrevocable.

E. Time of supply

The time of supply or tax point is the time when the VAT becomes due. The following are the general rules for the time of supply:

- For importations – before the release of the goods (whether or not for business) from customs custody
- For the sale or deemed sale, barter or exchange of taxable goods or properties – at the time of the transaction, regardless of when actual payment is made
- For installment sales of real property – when each actual payment is made or at the constructive receipt date for each installment payment
- For the use or lease of property – when each actual payment is made or at the constructive receipt date for each installment payment
- For supplies of services – when each actual payment is made or at the constructive receipt date for each installment payment

Deposits and prepayments. In general, receipt of a deposit or prepayment creates a tax point if the amount is paid as part of the total payment for a particular supply.

If a prepayment constitutes a prepaid lease rental, it is taxable for the lessor in the month in which the payment is received. However, a security deposit is not subject to VAT until it is applied to the rental.

Continuous supplies of services. For continuous supplies of services, a tax point is created each time a payment is made.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Goods sent on approval are not subject to VAT until they are actually sold. If an actual sale of consigned goods is not made within 60 days after the date on which the goods were consigned, a sale is deemed to take place, unless the consigned goods are returned by the consignee within the 60-day period.

Reverse-charge services. The tax point for reverse-charge services is when the consideration is paid.

Leased assets. For supplies of leased assets, the time of supply is when each actual payment is made or at the consecutive receipt date for each installment payment.

Imported goods. VAT is imposed on goods brought into the Philippines, whether for use in business or not. It is based on the total value used by the BOC in determining tariff and customs duties, plus customs duties, excise tax, if any, and other charges imposed prior to the release of the goods from customs custody. If the valuation used by the BOC in computing customs duties is based on volume or quantity of the imported goods, the landed cost shall be the basis for computing VAT. Landed cost consists of the invoice amount, customs duties, freight, insurance, other charges and excise tax, if any. The VAT on importation shall be paid by the importer prior to the release of such goods from customs custody.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on the person's import of goods or local purchases of goods or services (including property leases) from another taxable person, in the course of the person's trade or business. A taxable person may also recover input tax withheld from payment to a non-established business for taxable services (i.e., rendered within the Philippines), royalties and rentals. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is the VAT charged on the sale or lease of taxable goods or properties or services. If at the end of the tax quarter, a taxable person's output tax exceeds input tax, the person must pay the excess. If input tax exceeds output tax, the excess is carried over to the next quarter or quarters.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in the Philippines. This means that effectively the input tax (i.e., VAT credit) may be carried forward until its complete recovery.

If the input tax inclusive of input tax carried over from the previous quarter exceeds the output tax, the input tax inclusive of input tax carried over from the previous quarter that may be credited in every quarter shall not exceed 70% of the output tax. The excess input tax shall be carried over to the succeeding quarter or quarters.

Input tax related to certain transactions may be creditable against output tax if the tax paid is evidenced by a VAT invoice or official receipt issued by a taxable person. The following table lists such transactions.

- Goods purchased or imported for any of the following purposes:
  - Sale of the goods themselves
  - Conversion into a finished product for sale or goods intended to form part of a finished product for sale, including packaging materials
  - Use of supplies in the course of business
  - Use of raw materials in a supply of services
  - Use in trade or business for which deduction for depreciation or amortization is allowed
- The purchase of real property on which VAT has been paid.
- The purchase of services on which VAT has been paid.
- Transactions deemed to be sales.
- Transitional input tax of 2% of value of beginning inventory or of the actual VAT paid, whichever is higher.
- Presumptive input tax of 4% of the gross value of purchases of primary agricultural products used in the production of sardines, mackerel, milk, refined sugar, cooking oil and packed noodle-based instant meals.
- Transitional input tax credits allowed under the law and regulations.

For purposes of the above table, transitional input tax is a form of input tax allowed on transition from non-VAT-registered status to VAT-registered status. It may be credited against output tax when the VAT registration takes effect. Presumptive input tax is a form of fixed input tax allowed to persons or firms engaged in the processing of sardines, mackerel and milk; and in manufacturing refined sugar, cooking oil and packed noodle-based instant meals. In general, it may be credited against output tax on the consummation of purchases of primary agricultural products (used as inputs to production).

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on the purchase or importation of goods and services that are not used for business purposes.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchases of a non-VAT-registered taxable person from a VAT-registered taxable person that are not related to a taxable business use
- A denied input tax refund claim that does not meet the requirements or elements described above

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchases of a non-VAT-registered taxable person from a VAT-registered taxable person.
- A denied input tax refund claim may be claimed as a deduction from gross income if the loss is actually sustained by the taxable person; sustained during the taxable year; not compensated by insurance or other forms of indemnity; incurred in the taxable person's trade, profession or business; and evidenced by a closed and completed transaction. In the Philippines, when a claim for input tax is denied by the tax authorities, there may be a basis to treat this as a deductible loss instead, as long as the conditions described above are met. Otherwise, the denied input tax (or loss) may be considered nondeductible.

Partial exemption. Input tax that is directly attributed to transactions subject to VAT may be recognized for tax credit. However, input tax that is directly attributable to taxable sales of goods and services to the government is not available for credit against output tax related to supplies made to nongovernment entities.

Input tax that is not directly attributable to either taxable or exempt transactions must be prorated monthly between taxable and exempt transactions. Input tax credit is permitted only for the portion of input tax that relates to transactions subject to VAT.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in the Philippines. Special methods are not allowed in the Philippines.

A taxable person making supplies of goods, property and services that are zero-rated (or effectively zero-rated) may apply for a tax credit certificate (TCC) or a refund of input tax attributable to these sales (except for the portion of the excess input tax that has already been applied against output tax). The default claim shall be a cash refund unless the claimant applies for the issuance of a TCC.

Under Section 112 (A) of the Tax Code, as amended, the request may be made within two years after the close of the tax quarter in which the sales are made.

The CIR must grant the TCC or refund within 90 days after the date of submission of all documents required with respect to the claim. Should the CIR find that the grant of refund is not proper, he must state in writing the legal and factual basis for the denial. Failure on the part of any official, agent or employee of the BIR to act on the application within the 90-day period shall be punishable.

Capital goods. A taxable person's purchases or imports of capital or depreciable goods may be claimed as credit against output tax, in accordance with the rules described below. From 1 January 2022, amortization of input tax on purchased and imported capital goods is no longer allowed. Nonetheless, unutilized input tax as of 31 December 2021 may be amortized as scheduled until fully utilized.

If the aggregate acquisition cost exceeds PHP1 million in a calendar month, regardless of the unit cost of the capital goods, and if the capital goods have an estimated useful life of five years or more, a claim for input tax credit begins in the month in which the capital goods are acquired and is spread evenly over 60 months. The credit is spread evenly over the actual number of months of the useful life of the asset if its estimated useful life is less than five years.

If the aggregate acquisition cost does not exceed PHP1 million in a calendar month, the total input tax is allowable as a credit against output tax in the month of acquisition.

The amortization of the input tax shall only be allowed until 31 December 2021, after which taxable persons with unutilized input tax on capital goods purchased or imported shall be allowed to apply the same as scheduled until fully utilized.

Refunds. Any input tax attributable to zero-rated sales by a taxable person may at its option be refunded or applied for a TCC.

The administrative claim for VAT refund or TCC must be filed within two years from the close of the taxable quarter when the zero-rated sales and/or effectively zero-rated sales were made.

The application for VAT refund must be accompanied by complete supporting documents as specifically enumerated in existing revenue regulations. The application will be denied if the taxable person fails to submit the complete supporting documents.

The CIR has 90 days from the submission of the complete supporting documents within which to decide whether or not to grant the claim. If the claim is not acted upon by the CIR within the 90 days, such inaction shall be deemed a denial of the claim.

In case of a denial, the taxable person should file a judicial claim with the Court of Tax Appeals (CTA) (i) within 30 days from receipt of the CIR's decision denying the claim (whether in full or in part) within the 90-day period, or (ii) from the expiration of the 90-day period if the CIR does not act within the 90-day period. The taxable person is required to observe the 90 plus 30-day rule before lodging a petition for review with the CTA.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Philippines is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in the Philippines.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in the Philippines.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in the Philippines is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must issue a VAT invoice for every sale, barter or exchange of goods or property or a VAT official receipt for every lease of goods or property and for every sale, barter or exchange of services. ATP receipts and/or sales invoices must be secured from the tax authorities.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on supply of goods or services. Tax credit and debit notes must show the same information as a VAT invoice or receipt.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in the Philippines for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For business-to-business (B2B), business-to-consumer (B2C), and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in the Philippines.

The following taxable persons are mandated to issue electronic receipts or electronic sales/commercial invoices in lieu of manual receipts/invoices:
- Taxable persons engaged in the export of goods and services
- Taxable persons engaged in e-commerce
- Taxable persons under the jurisdiction of the large taxpayers service (LTS) (in Section 237-A of the Tax Code)

At the time of preparing this chapter, there are plans to expand the coverage of electronic invoicing in the future, but no definite timeline has been announced by the BIR as to its implementation.

Electronic invoicing is optional for other taxable persons.

The BIR established an Electronic Invoicing/Receipting System (EIS) capable of storing and processing the data required to be transmitted by these covered taxable persons using their Sales Data Transmission System. These covered taxable persons are directed to register their Computerized Accounting System (CAS) generating e-receipts/e-invoices and/or Cash Register Machine (CRM)/Point-of-Sales Systems and to have their Sales Data Transmission System be certified. They are also mandated to develop a Sales Data Transmission based on the Standard Application Programming Interface (API) Guidelines. Prior to the actual transmission of sales data to the EIS, enrollment of taxable persons shall be necessary for security purposes. They are also required to transmit their sales data covered by the e-receipts/e-invoices using their Sales Data Transmission System into the EIS of the BIR.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in the Philippines. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in the Philippines.

Proof of exports. Export sales are subject to the zero rate of VAT if the goods are shipped from the Philippines to a foreign country. The goods must be paid for in acceptable foreign currency (or its equivalent in goods or services), and it must be accounted for in accordance with the rules of the BSP. The sale and shipment of goods must be proven by the following documents:
- VAT invoices that contain the term "zero-rated sale" written or printed on the invoice
- Bills of lading
- Inward letters of credit
- Landing certificates
- Other relevant commercial documents

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice or official receipt is issued in a foreign currency, all values that are required to be paid must be converted into the domestic currency, which is the Philippine peso (PHP), using an acceptable exchange rate.

Supplies to nontaxable person. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to private consumers. As such, the general invoicing requirements described above apply, and full VAT invoices must be issued for all supplies.

Records. In the Philippines, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all books, registers, records, vouchers and other supporting papers and documents prescribed by the BIR.

In the Philippines, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, where records are held outside of the Philippines, they should be readily available to the BIR upon request.

Record retention period. All taxable persons are required to preserve their books of accounts, including subsidiary books and other accounting records, for a period of 10 years reckoned from the day following the deadline in filing a return, or if filed after the deadline, from the date of the filing of the return, for the taxable year when the last entry was made in the books of accounts. This is provided that within the first five years reckoned from the day following the deadline in filing a return, or if filed after the deadline, from the date of the filing of the return, for the taxable year when the last entry was made in the books of accounts, the taxable person shall retain hard copies of the books of accounts, including subsidiary books and other accounting records. Thereafter, the taxable person may retain only an electronic copy of the hard copy (i.e., paper) of the books of accounts, subsidiary books and other accounting records in an electronic storage system that complies with the requirements set forth under Section 2-A hereof.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in the Philippines. Electronic records used to establish tax compliance should contain sufficient transaction-level detail information so that the details underlying the electronic records can be identified and made available to the BIR upon request.

Furthermore, an electronic storage system may be used by the taxable person in preserving books of accounts and other accounting records such as invoices. Such electronic storage system must ensure an accurate and complete transfer of the images of the hardcopy of the books of accounts, including subsidiary books and other accounting records to an electronic storage media and index, store, preserve, retrieve and reproduce the electronically stored images of the hardcopy of the books of accounts, subsidiary books and other accounting records.

Under the TRAIN, within five years from the effectivity of the TRAIN (from 1 January 2018) and upon the establishment of a system capable of storing and processing the required data. The BIR shall require taxable persons engaged in the export of goods and services, taxable persons engaged in e-commerce and taxable persons under the jurisdiction of the LTS to issue electronic receipts or sales or commercial invoices in lieu of manual receipts or sales or commercial invoices subject to rules and regulations to be issued by the Secretary of Finance upon recommendation of the CIR and after a public hearing shall have been held for this purpose. This is provided that taxable persons not covered by the mandate of this provision may issue electronic receipts or, sales or commercial invoices, in lieu of manual receipts, and sales and commercial invoices. In addition, the machines, fiscal devices and fiscal memory devices shall be at the expense of the taxable persons.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Taxable persons that use a manual filing system must file monthly VAT declarations, no later than the 20th day after the end of each month. Taxable persons must also file quarterly VAT returns showing their quarterly gross sales or receipts within 25 days after the close of the tax quarter.

Taxable persons that use the electronic filing are classified according to their business industry and they are given deadlines based on their classification. The due dates for filing range from 21 days to 25 days after the end of the month for each monthly VAT declaration. The return for reporting VAT withholding must be filed on or before the 10th day of the month following the transaction.

From 1 January 2023, the filing and payment of VAT must be done within 25 days following the close of each taxable quarter). Monthly filing and payment of VAT returns (BIR Form No. 2550m) is now available as an option for VAT-registered persons.

Periodic payments. Taxable persons that use a manual filing system must pay the VAT to an authorized agent bank, not later than the 20th day after the end of each month or with the Revenue Collection Officer (RCO) in cases where there are no authorized agent bank present in the locality where the taxable person is registered.

Taxable persons that use the Electronic Filing and Payment System (eFPS) are classified according to their business industry and they are given deadlines based on their classification. The due dates for payment range from 21 days to 25 days after the end of the month for each monthly VAT declaration.

EFPS, as mentioned above, is a system developed by the BIR for electronic filing of tax returns, including attachments, if any, and paying taxes due thereon, specifically through the internet. This system is available to all taxable persons with an email account and internet access who are registered in the BIR Integrated Tax System (ITS).

Advance payment of VAT is required for the sale of refined sugar and flour. The advance VAT must be paid by the owner or seller to the BIR through an authorized agent bank or revenue collection officer before any refined sugar or flour can be withdrawn from any refinery or mill. In addition, the VAT on imported goods must be paid before the release of the goods from the BOC's custody.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Philippines for certain taxable persons. The taxable persons for which electronic filing is mandatory are as follows:
- Taxable person account management program
- Accredited importer and prospective importer
- National government agencies
- Licensed local contractors
- Enterprises enjoying fiscal incentives
- Top 5,000 individual taxable persons
- Corporations with paid-up capital stock of PHP10 million and above
- Corporations with complete computerized accounting systems
- Government bidders
- Insurance companies and stockbrokers
- Large taxable persons
- Top 20,000 private corporations

For those taxable persons for which electronic filing is not mandatory, they may either use manual filing or can voluntarily use either the eFPS or the Electronic Bureau of Internal Revenue Forms (eBIRForms).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in the Philippines.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in the Philippines.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Philippines.

Supplementary filings. Summary List of Sales (SLS). The Reconciliation of Listing for Enforcement (RELIEF) system, requires taxable persons with quarterly total sales/receipts (net of VAT), exceeding P2,500,000 to submit an SLS. The RELIEF supports the third-party information program of the Bureau through the cross referencing of third-party information from the taxable persons' Summary List of Sales and Purchases (SLSP) prescribed to be submitted on a quarterly basis.

Summary List of Sales and Purchases (SLSP). Taxable persons are also required to submit a quarterly SLSP on disc, specifically the compact disc recordable (CDR) medium. Taxable persons that use a manual filing system must file the quarterly SLSP within 25 days after the close of the tax quarter. Taxable persons that use the electronic filing and payment system must submit the quarterly SLSP within 30 days after the close of the quarter.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The taxable person may file an amended VAT return specifying the items corrected or changed, provided that the taxable person has not been issued with a Letter of Authority for tax audit. However, this may be subject to penalties, such as but not limited to fines. This also extends the three-year prescriptive period for the BIR to conduct an audit.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in the Philippines. However, under the TRAIN, within five years from the effectivity of the TRAIN (from 1 January 2018) and upon the establishment of a system capable of storing and processing the required data, the bureau shall require taxable persons engaged in the export of goods and services, taxable persons engaged in e-commerce and taxable persons under the jurisdiction of the LTS to issue electronic receipts or sales or commercial invoices in lieu of manual receipts or sales or commercial invoices. This is subject to rules and regulations to be issued by the Secretary of Finance upon recommendation of the CIR and after a public hearing shall have been held for this purpose. This is provided that taxable persons not covered by the mandate of this provision may issue electronic receipts or, sales or commercial invoices, in lieu of manual receipts, and sales and commercial invoices. In addition, the machines, fiscal devices and fiscal memory devices shall be at the expense of the taxable persons.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The CIR may suspend or close a business establishment for at least five days for the failure of a person to register for VAT as required by law.

Any person who becomes liable to VAT and fails to register as such shall be liable to pay the output tax as if they are a taxable person, but without the benefit of input tax credits for the period in which he was not properly registered.

In addition to the tax required to be paid, a surcharge penalty equivalent to 25% of the amount due is applicable, in the following cases:

- Failure to file any return and pay the tax due thereon as required under the provisions of this Code or rules and regulations on the date prescribed.
- Unless otherwise authorized by the CIR, filing a return with an internal revenue officer other than those with whom the return is required to be filed.
- Failure to pay the deficiency tax within the time prescribed for its payment in the notice of assessment.
- Failure to pay the full or part of the amount of tax shown on a return required to be filed under the provisions of this Code or rules and regulations, or the full amount of tax due for which no return is required to be filed, on or before the date prescribed for its payment.

In case of willful neglect to file the return within the period prescribed by this Code or by rules and regulations, or in case a false or fraudulent return is willfully made, the penalty to be imposed shall be 50% of the tax or of the deficiency tax in case any payment has been made on the basis of such return before the discovery of the falsity or fraud.

This is provided that a substantial under declaration of taxable sales, receipts or income, or a substantial overstatement of deductions, as determined by the CIR pursuant to the rules and regulations to be promulgated by the Secretary of Finance, shall constitute prima facie evidence of a false or fraudulent return.

Further failure to report sales, receipts or income in an amount exceeding 30% of that declared per return, and a claim of deductions in an amount exceeding 30% of actual deductions, shall render the taxable person liable for substantial under declaration of sales, receipts or income or for overstatement of deductions, as mentioned herein.

There shall also be assessed and collected on any unpaid amount of tax, interest at the rate of 12% per annum, or such higher rate as may be prescribed by rules and regulations, from the date prescribed for payment until the amount is fully paid.

Also, the CIR or its authorized representative is empowered to suspend the business operations and temporarily close the business establishment of any person for the failure of any person to register. The temporary closure of the establishment shall be for the duration of not less than five days and shall be lifted only upon compliance with whatever requirements prescribed by the CIR in the closure order.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Civil penalties (25% or 50%) and 12% interest are assessed on the amount due for the following offenses:

- Failure to file a return and pay the tax due based on the return as required by law and rules
- Filing a return with an internal revenue officer other than the officer with whom the return is required to be filed
- Failure to pay the full or part of the tax due or the deficiency tax within the prescribed period
- Willful neglect to file a return within the prescribed period
- Failure to file certain information returns
- Failure of a withholding agent to collect and remit tax or refund excess withholding tax

In addition to other administrative and penal sanctions, the CIR may suspend or close a business establishment for at least five days for the failure to file a VAT return.

Penalties for errors. Civil penalties (25% or 50%) and 12% interest are assessed on the amount due for the erroneous issuance of a VAT invoice or receipt by a person not registered for VAT.

In addition to other administrative and penal sanctions, the CIR of the BIR may suspend or close a business establishment for at least five days for the failure to issue receipts and invoices, and the understatement of taxable sales or receipts by 30% or more of the correct taxable sales or receipts for the tax quarter.

The conviction of a refusal or failure to indicate separately the output tax on the sale of goods and services on a sales invoice or official receipt, each such act or omission is punished by a fine not less than PHP500,000 but not more than PHP10 million and imprisonment of not less than six years but not more than 10 years.

For failure to file, keep or supply a statement, list or information required on the date prescribed shall pay and administrative penalty of PHP1,000 for each such failure, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

In addition, there is also an aggregate amount to be imposed for all such failures during a taxable year shall not exceed PHP25,000.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. The following are the consequences of issuing an erroneous VAT invoice or VAT official receipt:

(1) If a person who is not a VAT-registered person issues an invoice or receipt showing its TIN, followed by the word "VAT:"
   (a) The issuer shall, in addition to any liability to other percentage taxes, be liable to:
      (i) The tax imposed in Section 106 or 108 without the benefit of any input tax credit
      (ii) A 50% surcharge under Section 248(B) of this Code
   (b) The VAT shall, if the other requisite information required under Subsection (B) hereof is shown on the invoice or receipt, be recognized as an input tax credit to the purchaser under Section 110 of this Code
(2) If a taxable person issues a VAT invoice or VAT official receipt for a VAT-exempt transaction but fails to display prominently on the invoice or receipt the term "VAT exempt sale," the issuer shall be liable to account for the tax imposed in Section 106 or 108 as if Section 109 did not apply

Moreover, the CIR or its authorized representative is empowered to suspend the business operations and temporarily close the business establishment of any person for any of the following violations:

(1) In the case of a taxable person:
   (a) Failure to issue receipts or invoices
   (b) Failure to file a VAT return as required under Section 114
   (c) Understatement of taxable sales or receipts by 30% or more of its correct taxable sales or receipts for the taxable quarter
(2) Failure to any person to register as required under Section 236:
   (a) The temporary closure of the establishment shall be for the duration of not less than five days and shall be lifted only upon compliance with whatever requirements prescribed by the CIR in the closure order

Personal liability for company officers. The company's authorized representatives, such as but not limited to company directors, may be held personally liable for the errors and omissions made, such as deliberate failure to pay tax, file returns, keep records or supply correct and accurate information in the VAT returns submitted to the BIR. Upon conviction, they can be punished by a fine of not less than PHP10,000 and suffer imprisonment of not less than one year as provided by the Tax Code.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in the Philippines is three years. Internal revenue taxes shall be assessed within three years after the last day prescribed by law for the filing of the return. In the case where a return is filed beyond the period prescribed by law, the three-year period shall be counted from the day the return was filed. A return filed before the last day prescribed by law for the filing thereof shall be considered as filed on such last day.

In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax or of failure to file a return, tax may be assessed at any time within 10 years from discovery of the falsity, fraud or omission.

Further, taxable persons are allowed to modify, change or amend the return within three years from the date of filing, provided that the taxable person has not received any notice for audit or investigation of such return from the tax authorities.

Poland

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Warsaw GMT +1

EY
Rondo ONZ 1
00-124 Warsaw
Poland

Indirect tax contacts

Dorota Pokrop	+48 (22) 557-7339 dorota.pokrop@pl.ey.com
Tomasz Wagner	+48 519 511 502 tomasz.wagner@pl.ey.com
Patrycja Ozdowska-Sitek	+48 797 305 788 patrycja.ozdowska-sitek@pl.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Podatek od towarów i usług
Date introduced	5 July 1993
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.mf.gov.pl)
VAT rates
Standard	23%
Reduced	5%, 8%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	123-45-67-890 PL 1234567890 (intra-Community transactions)
VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration
Established	PLN200,000 (approx. EUR43,800)
Non-established	None
Distance selling	PLN42,000 (EUR10,000)
Intra-Community acquisitions	PLN50,000 (approx. EUR10,900)
Electronically supplied services	PLN42,000 (EUR10,000)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods and rendering of services in Poland for consideration
- Receipt of reverse-charge services by a taxable person in Poland
- Export and import of goods

- Intra-Community acquisitions of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person (see the EU chapter)
- Intra-Community supply of goods

The following activities are outside the scope of VAT:
- Transactions that cannot be subject to legal agreements (illegal transactions)
- Sales of businesses (transfers of going concerns or part thereof)

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the EU chapter. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

The Quick Fixes were implemented to the Polish VAT Act on 1 July 2020 and concerned changes in four main areas:
- Call-off stock arrangements (so far, there were regulations on the "consignment store," but these were replaced with EU provisions on the simplified call-off stock regulations)
- Chain transactions (i.e., introducing the general rule of transport allocation based on the intermediary role)
- Conditions for 0% VAT rate in intra-EU supplies (including an absolute requirement for applying 0% VAT rate of providing a valid VAT number by the buyer and submitting the EC Sales and Purchases List)
- Documentary evidence of proof of intra-EU supplies

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective EU countries.

In Poland, generally no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions. However, there is a general regulation that VAT is due locally due to the place of supply rules to the following services type (provided certain conditions are met):
- Land and properties services
- Hires of means of transport
- Events
- Ancillary transport services, valuation of and work on goods
- Restaurant and catering
- Passenger and freight transport
- Intermediary services

Transfer of a going concern. A transfer of going concern (TOGC) is understood as the sale of enterprise or an organized part of enterprise (OPE), which is outside the scope of VAT.

OPE is defined as the set of tangible and intangible components organizationally and financially separated from the existing company, including liabilities, intended for fulfillment the specific economic tasks, which could be treated as an independent entity and could run a business on its own.

Transactions between related parties. In case of transactions between related parties ("related" being determined through, e.g., the corporate income tax/personal income tax provisions), if one of them or both have limited right to input tax deduction, the remuneration should be at a fair market value (otherwise the tax authorities determine the tax base according to the market value, if it turns out that these relations influenced the determination of the remuneration for the supply of goods or services).

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a business entity or individual that carries on business activities, regardless of the purpose or result of the business activities. Business activities include all manufacturing, trading and service-providing activities. Business activities also include continuous use of goods and intangible rights with the purpose of obtaining income.

The VAT registration threshold is PLN200,000. The limit may apply in one of the following two ways:
- Retrospectively: the value of supplies of goods or services exceeded PLN200,000 in the preceding tax year.
- Prospectively: at the start of business, the value of supplies of goods or services is expected to exceed PLN200,000. If the business begins after the start of the calendar year, the registration limit applies proportionately to the remainder of the year.

If the value of supplies is not expected to exceed the registration threshold, a new business is exempt from VAT (with some exceptions – see below).

A taxable person may choose to register for VAT. This decision must be reported to the tax office before the first taxable transaction is made when the taxable person starts its activities or before the beginning of the month from which the taxable person chooses to register for VAT. Moreover, taxable persons who perform activities exclusively exempt from VAT do not have to register for VAT (registration is facultative).

Taxable persons who lose the right to be exempt from registration can benefit from the exemption no earlier than one year after they lose the right to be exempt. However, it may waive the exemption. The waiver in writing must be submitted to the appropriate VAT office. If the value of sales exceeds the registration threshold, the exemption is automatically no longer valid and the amount of turnover greater than the threshold is subject to VAT.

The registration threshold is not applied to the importation of goods and services, to intra-Community acquisition of goods and the supply of goods on which the purchaser is liable to account for VAT. In addition, businesses in the following categories must register for VAT at the commencement of activity, regardless of the amount of turnover:
- Businesses that supply products made from precious metals
- Businesses that supply certain excise products
- Businesses that supply new means of transport
- Businesses that supply buildings or building land
- Businesses that supply certain goods in connection with conclusion of a contract as part of organized system of concluding contracts over a distance, without simultaneous physical presence of the parties, using exclusively one or more means of direct communication over distance until the moment of conclusion of a contract
- Businesses that provide legal, consulting and professional services
- Businesses that supply services connected with jewelry
- Businesses that provide debt recovery, including factoring

The PLN200,000 registration threshold does not apply to foreign businesses.

Exemption from registration. Foreign businesses (i.e., entities that are not based or that do not have a place of business in Poland) that supply certain services in Poland are not obliged to register for Polish VAT. This exemption is for businesses that supply:
- Services and goods where the Polish purchaser accounts for and pays tax under the reverse-charge mechanism

- Certain services that are subject to a zero rate (e.g., services supplied within Polish seaports, connected with international transport, services of air traffic control rendered for foreign providers of air transportation)

Generally, the recipient of goods and services supplied by foreign business is obliged to account for VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism (with some exceptions). However, the reverse-charge mechanism cannot be applied if a supplier of goods is registered for VAT in Poland.

Foreign businesses providing intra-EU distance sales of goods are obliged to register for VAT purposes in Poland if they are not reporting these sales under the One-Stop-Shop scheme (OSS) and if the value of their goods sold in Poland exceeded in the previous year EUR10,000 (or its equivalent of PLN42,000).

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Generally, each taxable person may opt for VAT registration in Poland regardless of PLN200,000 threshold. Taxable persons performing only exempt activities may opt for the VAT registration as well. There are no restrictions in this regard in Polish VAT law.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is allowed in Poland from 1 January 2023. VAT groups may be created by taxable persons connected financially, organizationally and economically (this condition shall be in force within the entire period of VAT group existence). In addition, a VAT group may be formed by taxable persons with a registered office in Poland and taxable persons without a registered office in Poland to the extent that they conduct business activity in Poland through a branch located in Poland.

To set up the VAT group, the taxable persons are obliged to conclude an agreement on the VAT group, indicating at least:
- Name of the VAT group with marking in Polish "grupa VAT" or "GV"
- Identification data of the taxable persons forming the VAT group
- Identification of the representative of the VAT group
- Identification of shareholders with the amount of their participation in the share capital of the taxable person within the VAT group with more than 50% in the share capital of these taxable persons
- Identification of the period for which the VAT group is established

The minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group is three years.

All members of a VAT group in Poland are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. In principle, intragroup economic transactions are VAT neutral and are not documented with invoices. The VAT group, as a whole, acts as a singular VAT taxable person, which entails filing obligations.

Holding companies. In Poland, a pure holding company cannot be a member of a VAT group.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)f) has been implemented in Poland. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in Polish VAT law, implemented in 2011 to the Polish VAT Act in Article 43(1)21).

Fixed establishment. There is no definition of fixed establishment (FE) in the Polish VAT Act, and as such this term is interpreted by the tax administration based on the law of the EU and further guideline of Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) judgments (i.e., of 16 October 2014 in the C-605/12 Welmory case and of 7 May 2020 in C-547/18 Dong Yang Electronics case) as "any establishment, other than the place of establishment of a business characterized by a sufficient degree of permanence and a suitable structure in terms of human and technical resources to enable it to receive and use the services supplied to it for its own needs."

Non-established businesses. A foreign business (i.e., an entity that is not established in Poland and that does not have a place of business there) must register for VAT in Poland if it makes taxable supplies of goods or services in Poland.

However, in general, a foreign business is not required to register for VAT in Poland if it supplies exclusively the following services:
- Services and goods for which the Polish purchaser is required to account for and pay tax under the reverse-charge mechanism (see Section E. Time of supply).
- Certain services that are subject to a zero rate (for example, services supplied at Polish seaports with respect to international transport, services of air traffic control rendered for foreign providers of air transportation and transport services related to the import of goods if the cost of transport is included in the tax base of goods; see Section D. Rates).

Tax representatives. A non-EU business must appoint a Polish resident tax representative before registering for VAT in Poland (not applicable to entities established in Norway and the United Kingdom). The tax representative is jointly and severally responsible for tax arrears of the foreign business represented by it.

An EU business is not required to appoint a tax representative to register for VAT in Poland, but it may appoint a tax representative if it chooses to do so.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism is generally applicable to intra-Community acquisitions of goods or import of services. The reverse charge is also applicable to supplies of services by foreign entities not having a seat or fixed establishment in Poland (and in case of the real-estate services – not registered for VAT in Poland) to the Polish taxable persons and local supplies of goods by foreign entities not having a seat or fixed establishment in Poland (and in general – not registered for VAT in Poland) to the Polish taxable persons.

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse charge has been replaced in Poland by the mandatory split payment mechanism. Certain regulations apply as regards the use of the split payment mechanism (SPM). The obligatory SPM is being used for the supply of goods and services listed in the VAT regulations that includes, i.e., the goods and services that were covered by the domestic reverse-charge mechanism and the existing scope of joint and several liability of the buyer (e.g., supply of construction services and fraud sensitive goods, such as ferro alloys, plastic waste, steel products, stretch foil, smartphones). See the subsection on Periodic payments for more detail.

Certain goods and services subject to certain additional conditions are covered by the reverse-charge mechanism temporarily during the period from 1 April 2023 to 28 February 2025. It refers to the following domestic supplies:
- Supply of gas in the gas system
- Supply of electrical energy in the electric power system
- Provision of services in the field of transfer of greenhouse gas emissions allowances

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B. Scope of the Tax, Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:
- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.

- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the EU chapter.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In Poland, the standard VAT registration procedure applies (see the subsection Registration procedures below).

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:
- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

In Poland, where the Member State of identification is Poland, the taxable person is entitled to file an electronic notification to the tax office, II Urzad Skarbowy Warszawa Srodmiescie. The tax authorities shall identify the taxable person for OSS and confirm the notification using the taxable person's tax identification number. Such notification is published online at podatki.gov.pl in the section "Registration for the Union and non-Union scheme (OSS) and the import scheme (IOSS)" and can be only submitted electronically.

The forms for EU OSS procedure are as follows:
- VIU-R – notification form
- VIU-DO – form of the return for VAT settlements (filed for each quarter by the end of the month following a given quarter

The forms for non-EU OSS procedure are as follows:
- VIN-R – notification form
- VIN-DO – form of the return for VAT settlements (filed for each quarter by the end of the month following a given quarter)

Under the provisions effective 1 July 2023, if a taxable person ceases to use the EU OSS or non-EU OSS procedure or if the Member State of identification changes, a correction to the return can only be submitted outside the EU OSS or non-EU OSS directly to the Łód tax office.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the EU chapter.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

In Poland, for the IOSS, the Member State of identification is Poland, and it is applied by taxable persons not having a registered seat in the territory of EU and choosing Poland for IOSS.

The taxable person or the intermediary is entitled to file a notification with the II Urzad Skarbowy Warszawa Srodmiescie by electronic means. The forms for IOSS procedure are as follows:
- VII-R – notification form of taxable person
- VII-RP – notification Form of intermediary
- VII-DO – form of the return for VAT settlements (filed for each month by the end of the month following a given month)

Under the provisions effective 1 July 2023, if a taxable person ceases to use the IOSS procedure or if the Member State of identification changes, a correction to the return can only be submitted outside the IOSS directly to the Łód tax office.

For more details about the IOSS, see the EU chapter.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination, and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal Services and Couriers Scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

In Poland, the person responsible for the collection of tax (i.e., postal operator or a taxable person having status of an authorized economic operator) is obliged to file monthly returns with the sum of customs declarations containing the total amount of the tax collected in the month. The collected tax is paid by the 16th day of the following month.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the EU chapter.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:
- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply)
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State as well as intra-Community shipments (in Poland, these are intra-EU distance sales of goods). In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the EU chapter.

Central Electronic System of Payment (CESOP) reporting. As of 1 January 2024, changes are set to tighten the VAT e-commerce system, based a on the CESOP EU Regulation. In general, service providers will be obliged to keep electronic records of payment recipients and cross-border payments in relation to the payment services provided for each quarter, if they provide payment services that correspond to more than 25 cross-border payments to the same payment recipient during the quarter. A payment is considered to be a cross-border payment if the payer and the payee are located in the territory of different Member States or if the payee is located in the territory of a third country.

Vouchers. As of 1 January 2019, the amendment to the Polish VAT Act introduced new definitions regarding vouchers, i.e., single-purpose voucher (SPV), multi-purpose voucher (MPV), issue of voucher and voucher transfer.

The SPV shall be understood as a voucher where the place of supply of the goods or services to which the voucher relates, and the VAT due on those goods or services are known at the time of issue of the voucher.

In case of SPV, taxation occurs at the time of the transfer of it. The tax base for the sale of this type of vouchers is determined by applying the general rules for determining the tax base – it shall be the amount paid minus the VAT included in that amount.

Any other voucher shall be treated as MPV. The transfer of such a voucher will not result in taxation – VAT will be charged only when the goods or services covered by the MVP have been actually delivered.

The tax base on account of supply of goods or services made in exchange for an MPV redeemed in full shall, in relation to this voucher, be equal to:
- The consideration paid for this MPV less the tax amount related to the supplied goods or services
- The monetary value indicated on the MPV or in the related documentation, less the amount of tax relating to the goods or services supplied – where the information concerning this consideration is not available

Registration procedures. Prior to performing the first taxable activity, a taxable person should submit the forms for obtaining a tax number: NIP-2 (for foreign entities) or NIP-8 (for Polish established entities) and a form for obtaining VAT registration: a VAT-R. All forms should be signed and filed in paper. Documents should be signed by company's representatives as per the representation rules (excerpt from commercial register should be presented to confirm the representation). The deadline to issue a registration decision is two weeks; however, in most cases it takes less time. Additionally, prior to performing the first intra-Community acquisition or intra-Community supply, taxable persons should obtain a VAT-EU number (VAT-R registration is also used for this purpose). Moreover, in case of any changes in scope of the information provided within the VAT-R Form, a taxable person should update the tax office accordingly within seven days after the day the change has occurred.

Deregistration. Deregistration may be conducted either based on the taxable person's application (filed on VAT-Z Form) or officially by a Head of a Local Tax Authority Office (as per the jurisdiction for the particular taxable person).

The Head of a Local Tax Authority Office is entitled to deregister a taxable person from the register as a taxable person ex officio, for example, in cases where:
- The taxable person does not exist or despite documented attempts, there is no possibility of contacting that taxable person or its authorized representative.
- The data provided in the application for registration is revealed to be inaccurate.
- The taxable person or its authorized representative does not respond to the summons of a tax authority.
- No VAT returns are filed for three subsequent months (or one quarter).
- No sales and purchases transactions appear in the VAT returns submitted for six subsequent months (or two quarters).
- The taxable person issues invoices that do not reflect actual actions.

Changes to VAT registration details. In case of any changes in scope of the information provided within the VAT-R/NIP-2/NIP-8 Form, a taxable person should update the tax office accordingly within seven days after the day the change has occurred. All forms can be signed and submitted in paper. An electronic version is possible only if the company's representative (signing the forms) possesses the qualified electronic signature.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 23%
- Reduced rates: 5%, 8%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

As of 1 April 2020, the goods subject to reduced VAT rates are determined based on:
- Combined Nomenclature (CN) for goods
- Polish Classification of Products and Services of 2015 in the field of services

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Certain unprocessed basic foodstuffs
- Certain agricultural and forestry products
- Books and certain magazines
- Electronic publications

Examples of goods and services taxable at 8%

- Catering and restaurant services – with the exception of drinks (other than water, coffee, tea), unprocessed foodstuffs and some seafood
- Handicraft products
- Books, newspapers and magazines
- Hotel services
- Certain entertainment services
- Passenger transport
- Travel services
- Medical products
- Supply of water

- Certain services related to agriculture
- Hard discs
- Certain maintenance services
- Other services related to recreation – solely within the scope of admission
- Supply, construction, repairs and reconstructions of buildings classified as "social housing"

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports
- Intra-Community supplies of goods
- Supplies of certain sailing vessels
- International transport and related services
- Supplies of computer equipment to educational institutions
- Certain basic foodstuffs (with effect from 2023 based on the Anti-Inflation Shield introduced by the Polish government. It is planned that such goods will be taxed at 0% until the end of 2023. At the time of preparing this chapter, it has not been confirmed if the period for this preferential rate will be extended.)

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to tax and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services (with exceptions)
- Supply of real estate (with option to tax)
- Health care services
- Social welfare services
- Public postal services
- Education
- Lease of residential property
- Cultural and sporting events (with exceptions)
- Services connected with science
- Dental engineering
- Betting, gaming and lotteries

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The Polish VAT Act provides option to tax for supply of real estate, which generally benefit from VAT exemption under certain conditions.

The option to tax financial services (only in B2B transactions and except for insurance services) is allowed in Poland from 1 January 2022. In general, the taxable person may opt to tax financial services provided that:

- It is an active taxable person
- It submits a written notification to the head of the tax office on choosing such option before beginning of the settlement period from which it ceases from exemption

The taxable person who waives the exemption is bound by its choice for a period of two years. After this period, the taxable person could apply the exemption again in transactions with other taxable persons or extend the use of the taxation option. Significantly, a taxable person giving up the exemption will be forced to tax all the financial services it provides, without being able to choose which financial services it wants to tax and which it does not.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when the goods are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when the services are performed.

The tax point for exports of goods is created according to the general rules.

Deposits and prepayments. The receipt of prepayments is considered the tax point. The tax point is created only to the extent of the payment.

Continuous supplies of services. The tax point concerning continuous supplies of services (i.e., those services that are rendered for longer than a year) arises at the end of each year until these services are completed. If services are supplied for a period not exceeding a year – the tax point arises at the moment of services' completion. Additionally, if parties of the transaction set clearing or payment periods regarding the continuously supplied services, the tax point arises at the end of each period.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Poland for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. Imported services are subject to a reverse charge, which is a form of self-assessment of VAT. If the reverse charge applies, the recipient of the service accounts for output tax (effectively on behalf of the supplier).

The reverse-charge VAT is deductible as input tax by the recipient of the service (in accordance with the general input tax recovery rules), in the same month (i.e., quarter) when the tax point arises or in one of the two following months (i.e., quarters).

Leased assets. The tax point concerning leased assets arises at the moment of issuance of the invoice documenting leasing services.

Imported goods. The tax point for imported goods arises when a customs debt is incurred. However, for goods imported under certain customs regimes, the tax point arises when the goods enter the customs regime. The following are the relevant customs regime:
- Inward processing
- Temporary customs clearance
- Processing under customs supervision

Intra-Community acquisitions. The tax point for the intra-Community acquisition of goods is the invoice date but not later than the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply took place. If an invoice is issued before this date, the VAT is due at the time the invoice is issued.

Intra-Community supplies of goods. The same tax point rules apply to intra-Community supplies of goods as those for intra-Community acquisitions (as outlined above).

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in Poland for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes, if it relates to the person's taxable supplies. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT paid on the purchase of goods and services, VAT paid on imports of goods and on intra-Community acquisitions, VAT self-assessed for reverse-charge services received from outside Poland and VAT self-assessed for goods on which the purchaser is liable to account for VAT.

The amount of the VAT reclaimed must be detailed on a valid VAT invoice.

In general, input tax is deducted at the time the tax point arose, but for local purchases and import of goods, it cannot be recovered earlier than in the month in which the invoice/customs document is received or during three subsequent periods. For other purchases (i.e., intra-Community acquisitions, VAT self-assessed for reverse-charge services received from outside Poland, VAT self-assessed for goods where the purchaser is liable to account for VAT), it cannot be recovered earlier than in the month in which the output tax was reported.

With effect from 1 July 2023, the obligation to hold an invoice for deducting the input tax for intra-Community acquisitions is no longer required.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Poland is five years. A taxable person has five years to reclaim VAT (counting from the beginning of the year in which the right to recover arose).

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use by the entrepreneur). In addition, input tax is not recoverable for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Restaurant meals
- Personal expenses
- Hotel accommodation

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising
- Purchase, lease or hire of passenger cars as well as vans or trucks with high loading capacity
- Fuel (i.e., gasoline, diesel oil, propane, butane) for the vehicles listed above
- For passenger cars with low loading capacity (if passenger car is used for taxable activities only, under certain conditions, 100% of input tax is deductible, otherwise, i.e., if a passenger car is used for both taxable activities and private purposes, only 50% is deductible)
- Travel
- Conferences
- Business gifts
- Advisory services
- Business use of home telephone and mobile phones

Partial exemption. Input tax is not recoverable if it is directly related to making exempt supplies. If a Polish taxable person makes both exempt supplies and taxable supplies, it may not deduct input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

Input tax directly relating to taxable supplies is recoverable in full, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not recoverable. Input tax that is not directly attributable to taxable supplies or to exempt supplies must be apportioned to each category.

The general pro rata method is based on the ratio of qualifying turnover with total turnover during the calendar year. The initial deduction (i.e., the deduction made during a tax year) is done based on the pro rata percentage for the preceding year.

The recovery percentage is rounded up to the nearest whole number. The calculation is adjusted using the actual figures for the year in the first period of the next calendar year.

With effect from 1 July 2023, a Polish taxable person is entitled to round up the recovery percentage exceeding 98% to 100% where the amount of input tax that cannot be directly attrbutable to taxable supplies or to exempt supplies was less than PLN10,000. In addition, with effect from 1 July 2023, a Polish taxable person is not required to adjust the input tax where a difference between the general pro rata and the pro rata percentage for the preceding year does not exceed 2%.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Poland. Special methods are not allowed in Poland.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business for longer than a year. Input tax is deducted in the tax period in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption status in the VAT year of acquisition. The amount of input tax recovered on the capital item must be adjusted over time depending on the use of the goods. In Poland, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets (for the number of years indicated):

- Real estate: adjusted for a period of 10 years
- Capital goods and intangible assets (the transfer of which is considered as a service), adjusted for a period of five years

The adjustment does not apply to goods or services that are capital goods and intangible assets with a purchase value of less than PLN15,000.

The adjustment is applied each year following the year in which the capital goods or real estate is made available to a fraction of the total input tax (1/10 for real estate and 1/5 for other capital goods). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease in deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared to the year in which the capital goods were acquired.

Refunds. In general, if a VAT return shows an excess of input tax over output tax, the surplus input tax is carried forward to offset output tax in the following month. Taxable persons may request a direct refund of the surplus within the following time limits:

- 60 days after the date on which the VAT return is submitted
- 180 days from the date on which the VAT return was submitted if the taxable person did not perform any taxable activity in the relevant period

The refund periods are shortened to 25 and 60 days, respectively, if the taxable person submits an appropriate application and if the invoices and other documents regarding the input tax shown in the VAT return are paid or if the collateral is submitted.

The tax office shall refund VAT within 25 days provided that the following conditions are jointly met:

- Input tax amounts shown in the tax return are based on:
  - Payment of invoices occurred from a bank account of the taxable person.
  - Other invoices than those listed above documenting receivables where the total amount of those does not exceed PLN15,000.
  - Customs documents, import declaration, and the customs decisions, and the amounts having been paid by the taxable person.
  - The postponed import VAT, the intra-Community acquisition of goods, provision of services where the taxable person is the recipient of the services or the supplies of goods where the taxable person is the acquirer, if the amount of output tax on such transactions was shown in the tax return.
  - It has not been transferred from the previous VAT returns amount higher than PLN3,000.
  - The documents were submitted to confirm transfers in the tax office.
  - The taxable person was registered for VAT for at least 12 months and submitted the returns for each VAT settlement period.

From 1 January 2022, a VAT refund mechanism for noncash taxable persons is in effect. Once a number of the conditions set in the Polish VAT Act are met, a taxable person can receive a VAT refund within 15 days, counting from the day on which the return (or correction of the return) with the amount of VAT to be refunded was submitted.

With effect from 1 July 2023, some of the conditions set in the Polish VAT Act for receiving a VAT refund within 15 days has changed, for example:

- During six consecutive months immediately preceding the period in the settlement for which a taxable person submits an application for refund, the total value of sales, including tax recorded by that taxable person with the use of online cash registers for each settlement period, was no lower than PLN40,000 (previously the threshold was no lower than PLN50,000).
- Six months immediately preceding the period in the settlement for which a taxable person submits an application for a refund and has kept the sales records exclusively with the use of online cash registers (previously the period was 12 months).

Pre-registration costs. It is possible to deduct input tax from expenses incurred prior to VAT registration under certain conditions. The Polish tax authorities allow such deductions, yet such procedure is not regulated within the Polish VAT Act.

In practice, the taxable person should in such cases make a retrospective VAT registration and submit past returns – where the first VAT return is for the month in which the taxable person received the first purchase invoices for expenses incurred. The VAT deduction is possible only if the costs incurred are directly related to the commencement of taxable activities in Poland (e.g., costs for the VAT registration process; notary costs for signing the company agreement, etc., and the taxable person must be ready to present the explanations and proofs if the tax authorities request).

Bad debts. Under certain conditions, a taxable person may adjust a taxable amount and the tax due on goods or services supplied in the case of receivables that cannot be collected has been substantiated. The adjustment also concerns the taxable amount and tax amount attributable to a portion of receivables that cannot be collected and has been substantiated. Receivables that cannot be collected are deemed as substantiated if receivables were not settled or disposed of in any form within 90 days following the lapse of their payment deadline stipulated in an agreement or invoice. On the other hand, if the amount due on the invoice for goods or services supplied is not paid within 90 days from the lapse of payment deadline specified in an agreement or the invoice, a debtor shall adjust a deducted amount of the tax resulting from said invoice in settlement for the period in which the 90th day elapsed from the payment deadline specified in the agreement or the invoice.

The deadline for bad debt relief is three years starting from the end of the year in which the invoice was issued.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Poland.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Poland is recoverable. The Polish VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Poland. Non-established business may claim Polish VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU Directive 2008/09. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Poland during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details, see the EU chapter.

Find below specific rules for Poland:

- Refunds are made in Polish zloty (PLN) into a bank account maintained by the claimant either in Poland or in the state where the claimant is resident or has a place of business. If a transfer is made abroad, the tax office does not cover the remittance costs.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive. For full details, see the EU chapter.

Poland applies the principle of reciprocity, meaning the country where the claimant is established must provide analogical VAT refunds to Polish businesses.

At the time of preparing this chapter there is a public list of the countries published on the official government website to which it applies.

The countries to which the principle of reciprocity applies are all EU Member States, Iceland, North Macedonia, Norway, Switzerland and the United Kingdom. In case of the countries not included on the list, claimant should gather and present the evidence to establish that the principle of reciprocity applies in a given case.

Find below specific rules for Poland:
- Refund claims by non-EU businesses must be filed with the following tax office in Warsaw:

  II Urzad Skarbowy Warszawa Srodmiescie
  Jagiellonska 15
  Warsaw
  Poland

- Refund claims must be filed in paper. The forms must be completed in Polish.
- The minimum claim period is three months, and the maximum claim period is one calendar year.
- The deadline for submitting the application is 30 September following the claim year.

Late payment interest. EU businesses and non-EU businesses are entitled to receive interest on late refund payments according to the same rules as for domestic businesses in Poland. Interest is calculated from the day following the last day for payment of the refund until the day the refund is actually paid. At the time of preparing this chapter, standard interest rates are equal to 14.5% p.a. (according to local provisions).

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Polish taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for the following:
- All taxable supplies made except for exempt transactions
- Exports of goods
- Intra-Community supplies
- Supplies of goods outside the scope of Polish VAT (the reverse-charge mechanism applies)
- Supplies of services outside the scope of Polish VAT (the reverse-charge mechanism applies)
- Triangular transactions (see the EU chapter)
- Distance sales (see the EU chapter)

VAT invoices are not required if a business exclusively supplies exempt goods or services. VAT invoices are not required for sales made to private individuals who do not carry-on business activities, unless requested. Invoices must support claims for VAT refunds claimed by non-established businesses.

Credit notes. A credit note (called a "correcting invoice") must be issued if any of the following circumstances arise after an invoice is issued:
- A rebate or discount is granted.
- The price is increased.
- All or part of the payment has been returned to the purchaser.
- An error is detected in the price, rate or amount of tax charged or in any other element of the invoice.

Generally, a credit note must be issued to the person to whom the original VAT invoice was issued. As of 1 January 2022, it is possible to issue a collective corrective invoice that relates to one purchaser in one accounting period when the taxable person grants a discount or reduction in price.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Poland, but not mandatory.

Scope of e-invoicing. For B2B and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Poland. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU and 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU). For B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is not allowed in Poland.

From 1 January 2022, taxable persons can use e-invoicing (i.e., invoices in structured form, the "electronic invoices") in Poland. Electronic invoices are issued in a special structured form in an XML file and sent directly through the National e-Invoices System (KSeF), with the invoice recipient's consent required each time. The same system will be used to receive e-invoices.

However, with effect from 1 July 2024, electronic invoicing will become obligatory for Polish established entities, as well as foreign entities with a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Poland, except for VAT-exempt taxable persons (based on a subjective or objective tax exemption) to whom the electronic invoicing will be obligatory from 1 January 2025). Electronic invoicing will cover all B2B transactions and will be also obligatory with respect to transactions for the benefit of public entities (i.e., B2G transactions).

Any VAT registered entity can voluntarily use electronic invoicing. However, mandatory electronic invoicing will apply only to the Polish established entities, as well as foreign entities with a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Poland.

The obligation to issue electronic invoices (in structured form in an XML file) does not apply to:
- Foreign established entities and not having a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Poland
- Foreign established entities, having a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Poland that do not participate in the provision of the service or supplying the goods
- Entities using special procedures (i.e., the OSS/IOSS)
- B2C supplies

There is no threshold applicable for mandatory electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory based on the status of a given entity and types of the transactions performed.

Electronic invoicing will cover the following types of B2B transactions:
- Local supply of goods (sales and purchases)
- Provision of services (sales and purchases)
- Export transactions
- Supply of services abroad
- Intra-Community supplies

Electronic invoicing will not be allowed with respect to B2C transactions. In case of issuing an invoice to B2C transactions penalties may apply.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the European Union chapter.

Simplified VAT invoices. A simplified invoice may be issued if the aggregate of amounts due does not exceed PLN450 or EUR100, if the amount is specified in EUR, provided it contains data enabling the determination of the amount of tax at each VAT rate.

Simplified invoices cannot be used in the following cases:
- A distant sale from the territory of Poland and a distant sale into the territory of Poland

- Issuing an invoice at the request of a natural person not conducting business activity
- An intra-Community supply of goods
- Delivery of goods and services on the territory of a Member State other than the territory of the country and the person obliged to pay VAT is the acquirer of goods or recipient of services

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Poland. The regulations of the Polish VAT Act provide for the possibility for the acquirer of goods or recipient of services to issue the invoice documenting transaction on behalf of and for the benefit of the taxable person.

Self-billing is possible in Poland, provided that:
- The acquirer of goods or recipient of services is a taxable person registered as an active taxable person
- There is a prior agreement between the acquirer of goods or recipient of services and the taxable person in respect of issuing invoices in the name and on behalf of that taxable person, said agreement specifying the procedure for the acceptance of each invoice by the taxable person performing these acts

The document issued by the acquirer of goods or recipient of services becomes a full-fledged invoice only when approved by the taxable person (it is not necessary to sign it physically), who also is required to register it in its system.

When the acquirer of goods or recipient of services issues the invoice on behalf of the taxable person, the invoice must be marked "self-invoicing" (samofakturowanie).

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. Goods exported from Poland and intra-Community supplies of goods are subject to Polish VAT at the zero rate (see the EU chapter).

To qualify for zero rating, the supplier must:
- For export: prove that the goods have left Poland. Suitable proof for exported goods includes the Single Administrative Document (SAD) or an electronic document generated by the customs authorities, which confirms that the goods have been removed from the EU (or its authorized copy).
- For intra-Community supply: 1) prove that the goods left Poland and were delivered to the recipient in other EU country (in practice, suitable proof for intra-Community supply includes CMR signed by the recipient); 2) submit within the deadline the EC Sales and Purchases List (VAT-UE Form) and 3) hold the valid VAT EU number of the customer.

No special documentation applies in Poland for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply. The Quick Fixes regulations introduced with the Council Regulation 2018/1912 (on the presumption in case of possession of documents from two groups of evidence for documenting intra-Community supply) are binding directly and so were not implemented as separate provisions to the Polish VAT Act. The Polish Ministry of Finance explained that it is not necessary to apply this presumption if the conditions for zero-rated supply provided in the Polish regulations are met. For more details, see the Quick Fixes subsection above.

Foreign currency invoices. The VAT amount on the invoice must be shown in the domestic currency, which is the Polish zloty (PLN), regardless of the currency in which the amount due is expressed in the invoice. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the output value must be converted into Polish zloty, using the official exchange rate published by the National Bank of Poland (NBP) or European Central Bank (ECB) for the last business day preceding the date on which the tax point arises. However, if the invoice is issued before the tax point date, the output value must be converted using the official exchange rate published by NBP or ECB for the last business day preceding the invoice issuance date.

Starting from 1 July 2023, the above rule also applies for corrective invoices, i.e., when the original invoice was issued in a foreign currency, the exchange rate applicable to the original invoice should be used for the corrective invoice (before 1 July 2023 it was also a common practice to apply the exchange rate applicable to the original invoice for the corrective invoice, but there were no binding provisions in this regard at that time).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. A taxable person is required to issue a full VAT invoice for documenting supply of goods or services to natural persons and non-entrepreneurs upon their request (there is no legal requirement to do so without such request).

If the acquirer of goods or receiver of services requests an invoice, the taxable person should issue an invoice:
- No later than on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods or services were delivered/performed, provided that the invoice request is made by the end of the month in which the goods are delivered, or the service is performed.
- No later than on the 15th day from the date of submission of the request – provided that the request for an invoice has been made after the expiry of the month referred to in the previous point.

However, if the request for an invoice was made after three months, counting from the end of the month in which the goods were supplied or the services were provided, or the payment was received in full or in part, then the taxable person is not obliged to issue an invoice.

Such an invoice upon request can be issued to the acquirer of goods or the receiver of services, being a taxable person only, if the fiscal receipt confirming a given supply of goods or provision of services includes the tax number of the acquirer.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, this only applies where the place of taxation is Poland. If the place of taxation is the destination country (when chosen or above the EUR10,000 threshold), the invoicing rules of a destination country apply. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime (and its country of identification is Poland), Polish invoicing provisions specify no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In Poland, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following records:
- The invoices, including those reissued, that the taxable persons issued themselves or that were issued in their own name
- The invoices received, including those reissued – broken down by settlement periods, in a manner allowing the invoices to be easily found and guaranteeing the authenticity of the origin, the integrity of the content and the legibility of the invoices from the moment of issue until the expiry of the tax obligation limitation period

In Poland, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Generally Polish established taxable persons must hold their records in Poland. However, if they are stored in an electronic form enabling online access to those by tax authorities, they can be stored outside Poland as well. Non-established businesses can keep their records outside Poland but must be able to present them at the request of tax authorities (in practice – in an electronic form).

Record retention period. The tax obligation limitation period is five years from the end of the calendar year in which tax payment was due. As such, records must be kept for five years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Poland but not mandatory. As such, paper invoices issued and received can be archived under their paper format. Therefore, electronic archiving is allowed in Poland provided that electronic archiving does not alter and modify information submitted in the related document and that the business updates its archiving system in order to comply with the regulations.

In addition, with effect from 1 July 2023 it is no longer mandatory to print fiscal receipts or invoices issued instead of receipts for users of online cash registers. Before 1 July 2023 all users of cash registers (so including also taxable persons using online cash registers) were obliged to print the above documents.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. As of 1 October 2020, VAT returns are no longer required – instead all taxable persons registered for VAT in Poland are obliged to file a new form of an extended single audit file for tax (SAF-T) return (JPK_V7M).

The SAF-T is made on a monthly basis, submitted in electronic form by the 25th day of the month following the month in which the tax point arises. Refer to the Digital tax administration section below for further details.

Periodic payments. The deadline for making the relevant VAT payment is the same as for submitting the SAF-T return, i.e., by the 25th day of the month following the month in which the tax point arises. VAT liabilities must be paid by bank transfer and must be paid in Polish zloty (PLN).

The approved list. The approved list is an electronic list of taxable persons, in which from 1 September 2019 entrepreneurs can verify data on entities that were not registered for VAT purposes (or were deregistered), entities registered as taxable persons (i.e., data on active and exempt taxable persons), including entities whose registration as taxable persons have been restored.

The existing registers were merged into a single list extended by the additional data, such as bank account numbers indicated in the tax identification or update notifications.

The list is made available in the Public Information Bulletin of the Ministry of Finance in a manner enabling checking whether a given entity is on the list on a selected day, not earlier than in the period of five years preceding the year in which the entity is checked.

If the entrepreneur makes a payment to another account (not listed) and the seller does not pay VAT on this transaction to the tax office, the entrepreneur will be jointly and severally liable with the seller up to the amount of tax liability for the transaction.

Split-payment mechanism. Poland introduced a split-payment mechanism, as of 1 July 2018. The mechanism is optional to taxable persons. Each taxable person is allowed to choose whether it would like to pay its purchase invoices with or without the use of split payment.

As of 1 November 2019, new regulations apply as regard the use of the split payment mechanism (hereinafter: the SPM). The SPM is compulsory for transactions of sale or purchase of a specific group of goods – listed in Annex 15 to the Polish VAT Act. The Annex includes goods determined according to specific Polish Classification of Goods and Services (PKWiU) groups.

The obligatory SPM is being used for the supply of goods and services that were covered by the reverse-charge mechanism and the existing scope of joint and several liability of the buyer – therefore, it mainly covers the steel, fuel and construction services.

In the case of the taxable person's obligation to apply the SPM:
- Payment of the amount corresponding to all or part of the VAT amount resulting from the invoice received is made to the VAT account
- Payment of the amount corresponding to all or part of the net sales value resulting from the invoice received is made to the bank account or SKOK account of supplier

It covers payments regarding invoices documenting transactions made between taxable persons whose one-off value, regardless of the number of payments resulting from it, exceeds PLN15,000 or the equivalent of this amount.

In order to identify the SPM, the invoice needs to include a "split payment mechanism" annotation. Lack of this wording results in high sanctions.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Poland for all taxable persons. Electronic filing applies to all types of returns. The returns can be signed through the following:
• Qualified signature (Polish or another EU Member State)
• Trusted profile

Later, the returns can be sent via the internet using tools available on the Ministry of Finance Tax Portal (e.g., interactive forms, the e-Deklaracje Desktop application, web applications). However, there are no obstacles to using commercial software adapted for sending tax documents via the internet.

To submit the return electronically to the tax office, taxable persons must appoint a person authorized to sign on their behalf a qualified electronic signature of declarations. Filing VAT return is made by submitting an UPL-1 Form in paper (to the tax office responsible for the registration of taxable persons and payers) or by ePUAP (to the Head of the National Tax Administration).

After submitting the correct return, the taxable person will be able to download the Official Receipt Certificate (UPO).

A taxable person who, contrary to the obligation, does not provide a declaration or summary information in electronic form, exposes themselves to punishment. The penalty for the fiscal offense is a fine from 1/10 to 20 times the minimum remuneration for work (with effect from 1 January 2023 it ranges from PLN349 to PLN69,800 and with effect from 1 July 2023 it ranges from PLN360 to PLN72,000). However, this is generally dealt with in a mandatory procedure, and a fine imposed by a penal fine cannot exceed double the minimum wage (PLN6,980 and PLN7,200 respectively).

With effect from 1 January 2024, a fine for the fiscal offense will range from PLN42,420 to PLN84,840, and starting from 1 July 2024, a fine for the fiscal offense will range from PLN430 to PLN86,000 (a fine imposed by a penal fine will not be allowed to exceed double the minimum wage [PLN8,484 and PLN8,600 respectively]).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Poland.

Special schemes. Small businesses. "Small businesses" include taxable persons whose total value of supplies in the preceding VAT year did not exceed the Polish zloty equivalent of EUR2 million. The EUR2 million threshold also applies to commission sales. The threshold for brokerage houses is EUR45,000 of income from brokerage and other forms of remuneration. A business that meets the small-business conditions may opt for a special VAT scheme, but this treatment is not compulsory.

The status of a small business is entitled to submit SAF-T returns on a quarterly basis or a "specific tax point." The specific tax point for a supply is the receipt of payment. The appropriate VAT office must be notified of the decision to choose this tax point.

Nevertheless, small businesses should pay monthly advance payments for VAT liabilities until the 25th day of the month following the settlement period.

Cash accounting. A cash accounting scheme is possible for small taxable persons, provided they notify the appropriate tax office of the decision to apply this. Notification should be made until the end of the month preceding the period for which it will use this method. A small taxable person may resign from the cash method, but not earlier than after 12 months. The tax office must be notified about the resignation.

Applying this scheme results in the "specific tax point." The specific tax point for a supply is the receipt of payment (however, not later than 180 days after a supply in case of supplies to nontaxable persons). The specific tax point does not apply to the supply of SPVs and intra-Community supply.

Flat-rate farmers (RR). A flat rate system is available for farmers exempt from issuing invoices, keeping sales and purchase registers, filing VAT returns and being VAT registered.

Flat-rate farmers are entitled to receive the refund from the agricultural supplies at a 7% rate of the amount due in respect of the supply.

The purchaser of the products should be VAT registered, should issue the invoice marked as "Faktura VAT RR" (in two copies) to the flat-rate farmer with additional statement on the invoice i.e., "I hereby declare that I am a flat-rate farmer exempt from VAT under Article 43, paragraph 1, subparagraph 3 of the VAT Act," and obliged to pay the amount of the refund to the flat-rate farmer.

Tour operators. The taxable base is the amount of margin reduced by the amount of output VAT. An invoice documenting services of tourism should include additional statement "margin procedure for tour operators." The tour operator is not entitled to deduct input tax on purchased goods or services.

Secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items or antiques. The taxable base is the amount of margin constituting the difference between the sales amount and the acquisition amount, reduced by VAT amount. The supplier is not entitled to deduct input tax on purchased goods or services.

An invoice documenting supplies of secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items or antiques should include additional statements, such as "margin procedure for secondhand goods," "margin procedure for works of art," or "margin procedure for collectors' items or antiques."

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Poland.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. A Polish taxable person that trades in goods with businesses elsewhere in the EU must submit Intrastat forms if its turnover exceeds the following amounts:
- Intra-Community acquisitions: PLN5 million
- Intra-Community supplies: PLN2.7 million

If the taxable person's turnover does not exceed certain thresholds, it is not required to complete all items of the Intrastat Report Form (numbers 12, 15 and 20 may be excluded). The following are the thresholds:
- Intra-Community acquisitions: PLN80 million
- Intra-Community supplies: PLN128 million

Intrastat returns are filed with the Polish customs authorities on a monthly basis. They must be filed by the 10th of the month following the month in which the transactions occurred.

Intrastat returns must be submitted in electronic form. Intrastat returns must be filed in PLN.

EU Sales Lists. Persons who are registered as EU taxable persons must file EU Sales Lists (ESLs) if they make intra-Community supplies and acquisitions or if they make supplies of services and the place of supply is considered to be the place of establishment of the customers or if they use call off stock procedure.

No turnover thresholds apply to ESLs under the Polish VAT law.

ESLs must be filed monthly with the tax office on the special VAT-UE Form. ESLs must be submitted electronically by the 25th day of the month following the end of the month. All amounts must be provided in Polish zlotys (PLN).

In Poland, ESLs must include the following information:
- The name of the entity submitting the lists and the entity's Polish VAT registration number
- The EU VAT registration numbers of suppliers and customers, together with the appropriate country codes
- The total of intra-Community acquisitions and intra-Community supplies made
- Information about triangular transactions subject to the simplification rule (see the EU chapter)
- The total of services supplied that have a place of supply outside Poland
- The total of supplies made under call off stock procedure

An ESL is not required for any period in which the taxable person does not make any intra-community supplies.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A correction of errors in previous returns should be made through filing a correction of relevant return (VAT return/SAF-T/VAT-UE in case of corrections of reporting periods until September 2020, or the new SAF-T [VAT_7M]/VAT-UE in case of corrections of reporting periods from October 2020).

As of 1 October 2020, all corrections of JPK_V7M should be done within 14 days from the date when 1) the taxable person stated that the sent file contained error or data inconsistent with the fact or 2) the data contained in the sent file have changed.

If the errors result in the increase in VAT due, the taxable person should pay the remaining amount along with the interest. It is also recommended to submit a voluntary disclosure letter to the tax office to avoid the fiscal penalty (voluntary disclosure will be effective only if the tax office did not know about the understatement of the tax liability).

Digital tax administration. Standard Audit File for Tax (SAF-T). As outlined in the subsection above, Periodic returns, as of 1 October 2020, VAT returns are no longer required – instead, all taxable persons registered for VAT in Poland are obliged to file a new form of an extended SAF-T return (JPK_V7M).

JPK_V7M is submitted only in electronic version, up to the 25th day of the month following the reporting period.

In practice, the shape of the SAF-T return consolidates the fields included so far in the VAT return (in the declaration part of JPK_V7M) with the records included so far in the SAF-T return (in the evidence part of JPK_V7M) and adds plenty of new fields, much of which are needed to be addressed per each invoice reported.

Two JPK_VAT variants apply:
- JPK_V7M: for taxable persons who pay monthly (submitting both declaration and evidence part of JPK_V7M on a monthly basis)
- JPK_V7K: for taxable persons who pay quarterly (submitting the evidence part of JPK_V7M on a monthly basis and declaration part of JPK_V7M on a quarterly basis)

Examples of additional information that needs to be provided in JPK_V7M:
- Number and date of acceptance of customs clearance of customs declaration
- Indication of invoices documenting particular types of supplies (examples):
  - Alcohol drinks
  - Tobacco products
  - Waste
  - Electronical goods

  - Motor vehicles
  - Metals
  - Medicines and medical devices
  - Buildings
  - Immaterial services (e.g., accounting, advisory, legal, management, training, marketing, provided by head offices, advertisement, market research, scientific research)
  - Transportation and warehousing
- Separate markings concerning types of deliveries:
  - Intra-EU distance sales and of goods and telecommunication services
  - Electronic interface
  - Between related parties
  - Being subject to special import procedures
  - SPVs
  - MPVs
- Indication of type of document confirming the transaction:
  - Internal document
  - Invoice
  - Collective internal document for sales from cash registers
- Part of the above information is required with respect to purchase transactions as well. Just to indicate some differences, at the purchase transactions' side it is required to mark invoices issued by a taxable person settling their VAT on cash basis.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. For late VAT registration in Poland, a taxable person may be penalized based on the Penal Fiscal Code (e.g., for not meeting the identification requirement; see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above). In addition, penalties are also assessed if, as a result of late registration, a taxable person pays VAT late or submits VAT returns late. Penalties may include fines and criminal penalties.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For a VAT return that is submitted late, the individual responsible for the delay may be fined if the tax court determines that it is at fault. The fine is imposed on the basis of the Penal Fiscal Code which determines the penal liability of natural persons for fiscal crimes.

The interest rate applied to delayed payments of VAT is the sum of 200% of the National Bank of Poland "Lombard rate" and 2%. The standard interest rate shall not be less than 8% per year. In the specific cases, the lowered interest rate (4%) and increased interest rate (12%) may apply. The interests are not charged if their amount does not exceed PLN8.70.

At the time of preparing this chapter, standard interest rates are equal to 14.5% p.a. (according to local provisions).

Penalties for errors. A penalty of up to 30% can be charged for the understatement of tax liability, if it is shown in the tax return that the amount of tax is lower than the amount payable or the overstatement of the amount of input tax.

A penalty of up to 20% can be charged for the understatement of a tax liability (or overstatement of the amount of input tax), in the case of a taxable person correcting their settlement after the completion of a tax audit or in the course of the audit procedure. No sanction shall be determined when the taxable person himself corrects the mistake and will pay the difference of tax to the opening of a tax audit or duty and the understatement of tax due/overstatement of input tax is made by a natural person who bears the responsibility for this act on the basis of the Penal Fiscal Code.

A penalty of up to 15% can be charged for the understatement of a tax liability (or an overstatement of the amount of input tax), in the case of a taxable person correcting their settlement within 14 days after the completion of the customs and tax audit.

With effect from 1 July 2023 the above sanctions up to 15%, 20% and 30% are only the upper values (maximum rates) at which a sanction can be imposed. The sanctions can be imposed at lower rates within the range up to 15%, 20% and 30%.

If the taxable person sends a JPK_V7M (i.e., new SAF-T) containing errors that prevent verification of correctness, it will receive a PLN500 fine for each irregularity found. A way to avoid the above sanction is to send, in a timely manner, a correction of the record after receiving a notice from the tax office containing a list of deficiencies.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details within the deadline can result in a penalty subject to the Penal Fiscal Code. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Split payment. For the split-payment mechanism, as of 1 November 2019, if:
- The buyer, despite its obligation to regulate the amount of VAT shown on the invoice in the split payment mechanism, will regulate this amount in a different way – the buyer will be subject to a sanction of 30% of the amount of the tax indicated on the invoice and will face criminal liability in the form of a fine of up to 720 daily rates.
- The invoice issuer will not place the indication "split-payment mechanism" on the invoice.
- The invoice issuer will be subject to a sanction of 30% of the amount of tax indicated on the invoice and will face penal fiscal liability in the form of a fine up to the equivalent of 180 daily rates.

The approved list. For the approved list, effective from 1 January 2020, if the buyer pays to its contractor an amount over PLN15,000 to a bank account other than that specified in the approved list, then it:
- Will not be able to include in the tax-deductible costs the amount in which the payment exceeds PLN15,000
- Will bear the risk of joint and several liability with its contractor for tax arrears

A taxable person that makes a transfer to the wrong bank account number will be able to avoid sanctions provided that it informs the Head of the Tax Office within three days of making the transfer at the latest.

Electronic invoicing. Fines for not issuing electronic invoices or issuing them in the incorrect format:
- Fines of up to 100% of the VAT amount shown on the invoice (e.g., for local sale) or 18.7% of total invoice amount when the invoice is without VAT (e.g., intra-Community) not less than PLN1,000 (or PLN500 in case of failure to send an electronic invoice in an obligatory deadline after system was not working).
- Penalties apply per wrongly issued invoice or invoice issued outside the system.
- Operational and reputational issues if invoices cannot be received and/or issued, e.g., not being able to issue an invoice can lead to not being able to process an order/deliver the goods/receive the payment that results in a cash flow impact/suspension of operations and business, etc., with similar consequences if invoices cannot be received

Fines for the above actions can be imposed with effect from 1 January 2025.

Penalties for fraud. If the excessive amount of the VAT deduction results from invoices that:
- Were issued by a nonexistent entity.
- Relate to actions that were not performed – in their part referring thereto.

- Provide amounts inconsistent with facts – in their part referring to such items for which the said amounts were provided.
- Confirm the acts to which the provisions of Articles 58 and 83 of the Civil Code shall apply – in their part referring to said acts (e.g., sham activity to circumvent regulations) – the amount of the additional tax obligation in the part referring to the input tax based on the above invoices shall be equal to 100%.

The same 100% additional tax obligation applies if the taxable person issues an invoice to the customer (who is also a taxable person) based on the fiscal receipt that did not include this customer's tax number in the first place.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers may be held personally liable, in line with the prohibited actions covered in the Penal Fiscal Code, if they are considered responsible for tax settlements of the company (including VAT). It is a common practice to have written "penal-fiscal procedures" to manage the risk of liability in each tax field. Depending on the errors/omissions, the penalty can take different forms, the most common is a fine (but in serious frauds this can be a restriction of liberty/arrest/imprisonment).

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Poland is five years. This is as of the end of the calendar year when the tax payment was due. Within this period, the tax authorities are entitled to act with respect to a particular period not covered by the statutory limitation period.

Regarding the corrections, the time limit is as follows:

- Input tax: should be corrected no later than within five years from the beginning of the year in which the right to deduct input tax arose.
- Output tax: should be corrected within five years as of the end of the calendar year when the tax payment was due.

Portugal

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Lisbon GMT +1

EY
Edifício República
Avenida da República, 90
4th Floor
1649-024 Lisbon
Portugal

Indirect tax contacts

Amilcar Nunes	+351 217 912 218 amilcar.nunes@pt.ey.com
Ana Luisa Basto	+351 217 912 258 ana.luisa.basto@pt.ey.com
Catarina Anjo Balona	+351 217 912 267 catarina.balona@pt.ey.com
Gonçalo Tavares	+351 211 542 986 goncalo.tavares@pt.ey.com
João Ribeiro	+351 217 912 083 joao.ribeiro@pt.ey.com

Porto GMT +1

EY
Avenida da Boavista, 36
3rd Floor
4050-112 Porto
Portugal

Indirect tax contact

Liliana Pinheiro	+351 226 079 629 liliana.pinheiro@pt.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Imposto sobre o valor acrescentado (IVA)
Date introduced	1 January 1986
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Autoridade Tributária e Aduaneira (Tax and Customs Authority) (http://www. portaldasfinancas.gov.pt)
VAT rates
Mainland
Standard	23%
Intermediate	13%
Reduced	6%
Other	Exempt and exempt-with-credit

Autonomous region of Madeira
Standard	22%
Intermediate	12%
Reduced	5%
Autonomous region of Azores
Standard	16%
Intermediate	9%
Reduced	4%
VAT number format	PT 5 0 0 9 9 9 9 9 9
VAT return periods
Monthly	If the turnover in the preceding VAT year was equal or exceeded EUR650,000
Quarterly	If the turnover in the preceding VAT year did not exceed EUR650,000
Annual	All taxable persons that performed any taxable operations
Thresholds
Registration
Established	None (unless a one-off taxable event less than EUR25,000)
Non-established	None
Distance selling	EUR10,000
Intra-Community acquisitions	None
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Portugal by a taxable person
- The intra-Community acquisition of goods and services in Portugal from another European Union (EU) Member State made by a taxable person (see the chapter on the EU)
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in Portugal
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer

For VAT purposes, the territory of Portugal includes the autonomous regions of Azores and Madeira. However, special VAT rates apply to supplies made in these islands.

Quick Fixes. Law no. 49/2020 of 24 August 2020 was published, aiming to harmonize and simplify certain rules in the VAT system for intra-Community trade, transposing the Council Directives 2018/1910 of 4 December 2018 and 2019/475 of 18 February 2019 and amending the VAT Code, the VAT Regime for Intra-Community Transactions (RITI) and the Excise Duties Code. For documentary requirements see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

The referred law applies with retroactive effect as of 1 January 2020 (but taxable persons are given the possibility to comply with the tax obligations by 31 December 2020) and introduces into the Portuguese legal system three of the four measures of the legislative package of implementation so called "Quick Fixes." The fourth measure (concerning the harmonization of the documentation required for the application of the exemption in intra-Community transfers of goods), provided for in Regulations no. 2018/912 of 4 December 2018, which amended Regulation no. 282/2011 of 15 March (amending the EU VAT Directive), was already in force since 1 January of 2020.

New rules introduced into the national VAT law are as follows:

- New requirements for applying the exemption for intra-Community supplies of goods in article 14 of the RITI: (1) registration of the customer's VAT identification number in the VAT Information Exchange System (VIES) and the communication of the respective VAT identification number to the supplier; and (2) submission of the EC Sales List return by the supplier of the goods with the filling of the exempt intra-Community transfers of goods performed. Failure to comply with the requirements will result in the non-application of the exemption.
  - Alongside this amendment, article 45-A of Council Implementing Regulation no. 282/2011 (added by Council Implementing Regulation 2018/1912, as above referred), which provides for the (rebuttable) presumption of dispatch or transport of goods to another Member State when taxable persons have in their possessions the means of proof (i.e., the types of documents) identified by the same rule, must also be taken into account.
- Harmonization of the VAT treatment of supply chain transactions: the intra-Community transport should be ascribed to one of the supplies and only that supply should benefit from the VAT exemption provided for the intra-Community supplies in article 14º of the RITI. It is foreseen that in successive transfers of goods that are dispatched or transported from the national territory to another Member State directly from the first supplier to the last recipient, the dispatch or transport shall be ascribed to the supply made to the intermediary operator. However, where the intermediary operator has communicated to its supplier the VAT identification issued to it in the national territory, the dispatch or transport shall be ascribed to the supply made by the intermediary operator.
- Simplification and harmonization of call-off stock arrangements for intra-Community transactions (consignment sales of goods):
  - The Portuguese State adopted a simplification mechanism by adding article 7º-A to the RITI, where the dispatch or transport of goods by a taxable person to a warehouse/stock located in another Member State under call-off stock arrangements shall not be treated as an intra-Community acquisition, where certain conditions are met, namely: the goods are dispatched or transported to another Member State with a view to their subsequent transmission within one year.
  - By prior agreement between a supplier not having a registered office or fixed establishment in the Member State in which the goods arrive and a customer who is registered for VAT in that State.
  - Said transfer is duly recorded in accordance with article 31 of RITI and included in the respective EC Sales List return (in accordance with the new provision of the article (23)(1)(c) of RITI).
  - Subsequently, when the acquirer takes ownership of the goods, an exempt intra-Community supply in the Member State of departure and a taxed intra-Community acquisition in the Member State where the stock is located are deemed to take place.
  - With the introduction of this simplification regime, the supplier of the goods does not need to register for VAT purposes in the Member State for the arrival of the goods.
  - In addition, for the application of this simplified regime, there should also be considered: the conditions set forth in article (7) (4) of the RITI, which lists the situations in which goods are deemed to be transferred to another Member State; and article 54-A provided in Regulations no. 2018/912 of 4 December 2018, added to Regulation no. 282/2011 of S15 March; as regards the elements of information to be entered in the accounting register of article 31 of the RITI concerning the transfers under consideration herein.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply the use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective countries of the EU.

In Portugal, the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions:
- Lease of tangible movable assets, except means of transport, made to a person established or domiciled outside the EU, when the actual use or exploitation of these assets occurs in national territory.
- Short-term lease of a means of transport, made to a person who is not a taxable person, when the placement at the disposal of the recipient has occurred outside the Community and the effective use or exploitation of the means of transport occurs in the national territory.
- Lease of a means of transport, other than short-term leasing, made to a person who is not a taxable person, when it is established or domiciled outside the Community and the effective use or exploitation of the means of transport occurs in the national territory.

Additionally, the use and enjoyment rules apply in Portugal for telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services. In particular, Portuguese VAT is due when 1) these services are supplied to a person established or domiciled outside the EU, 2) the provider has its head office, a fixed establishment or a domicile from which these services are rendered in Portugal and 3) the effective use and enjoyment of these services takes place within Portugal. Special rules will apply from 1 January 2021 onward. Refer to the Digital Economy subsection below.

Transfer of a going concern. A transfer of a going concern (TOGC), under the Portuguese VAT rules, is out of the scope of VAT. An operation may qualify as a TOGC if all of the following conditions are met:
- The transfer of assets is to be performed in definitive terms, i.e., i) the legal title must be passed to the purchaser without any suspensive condition, ii) both legal and economic ownership must be effective (the purchaser must have the right to dispose of the assets as owner) and iii) the purchaser must have the intention to operate the business or the part of the undertaking transferred and not simply immediately liquidate the activity concerned and sell the stock.
- The acquirer is or will become a taxable entity that performs taxable operations following the acquisition of the assets.
- The transferred assets/business are capable of, as a whole, constituting an independent business unit.
- Following the transfer, the acquirer will continue to undertake an economic activity.

Hence, for the operation to qualify as a TOGC, all or part of a totality of goods to be transferred needs to qualify as an independent business or activity.

Transactions between related parties. For a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated as follows: the normal value overrides the value of the consideration obtained or to be obtained by the supplier, in return for the supply, from the customer (or from a third party).

This exception to the general provision for determining the taxable amount can be excluded if it can be proved that the difference between the consideration and the normal value is justified by circumstances other than the special relationship between the parties. Indeed, this is an anti-abuse provision that seeks to prevent situations of manipulation of the value of operations and of the VAT assessed in transactions between entities that have special relationships and restrictions on the right to the VAT deduction.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services or intra-Community acquisitions or distance sales (once the threshold is exceeded) in the course of a business in Portugal.

No VAT registration threshold applies in Portugal (except for one-time taxable events, under EUR25,000). A taxable person that will begin its activity must notify the tax authorities of its liability to register.

Special VAT registration rules apply to foreign or "non-established" businesses.

Exemption from registration. Although the supply of a single operation is, by rule, a taxable operation, article 31 (3) of the VAT Code provides that the statement of beginning of activity does not need to be submitted (i.e., there is no need to proceed with the VAT registration) where the single taxable transaction does not exceed EUR25,000.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Portugal does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration. Nonetheless, if a taxable person incurs expenses within Portugal, it may opt to register for VAT in Portugal if it has output tax related to its operations. This option may be chosen due to the fact that a VAT refund claim may otherwise be very time consuming. For further details see the Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses subsection below.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Portugal.

Holding companies. In Portugal, a pure holding company cannot be a member of a VAT group, as group VAT registration is not available in Portugal.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC article 132(1)f) has not been implemented in Portugal.

Fixed establishment. The Portuguese VAT legislation does not provide a definition of "fixed establishment" (FE) for VAT purposes; this means that article 11 of Council Implementing Regulation no. 282/2011 must be analyzed for these purposes, since the Portuguese tax authorities (PTA) have adopted for VAT purposes the same definition of "fixed establishment" that is stated in article 11. In short, a foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Portugal in the following circumstances:

- Existence of a physical installation (suitable structure) – fixed place of business through which the business of the enterprise is wholly or partly carried on by a dependent of the company
- Existence of human and technical resources within the physical installation
- A certain degree of permanence to carry out taxable operations in Portugal (i.e., the FE should be lasting or continuous, as opposed to occasional or temporary)

In view of the above, the PTA considers that in the absence of a fixed/physical establishment/facility with a minimum consistency that demonstrates an appropriate level of human and technical resources, capable of receiving and providing services, a nonresident taxable entity should not be considered to have a FE in Portugal.

Usually, the PTA understands that whenever a permanent establishment (PE) exists for corporate taxation (CIT) purposes, then, such establishment also exists for VAT purposes. In fact, in these situations, the authorities, make no difference in the treatment of the entity for PE (CIT) or FE (VAT) purposes, which implies that the same company tax identification number is both used for CIT and VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that is not VAT registered nor has a fixed establishment in the territory of Portugal. A non-established business that makes supplies of goods or services in Portugal must register for VAT if it is liable to account for Portuguese VAT on the supplies or if it makes intra-Community supplies or acquisitions of goods (except when the call-off stock simplification rules apply, refer to such comments under the Quick Fixes subsection above).

The reverse-charge mechanism applies generally to supplies made by non-established businesses to Portuguese taxable persons. Under the reverse-charge provision, the taxable person that receives the supply must account for the Portuguese VAT due. If the reverse charge applies, the non-established business is not required to register for Portuguese VAT. The reverse charge does not apply to supplies to private persons or to nontaxable legal persons. Consequently, non-established businesses must register for Portuguese VAT if they make any of the following supplies:

- Intra-Community supplies or acquisitions (see the chapter on the EU)
- Distance sales in excess of the threshold (see the chapter on the EU)
- Supplies of goods and services that are not subject to the reverse charge

Tax representatives. Businesses that are established in the EU are not required to appoint a tax representative to register for VAT in Portugal. However, EU businesses may opt to appoint a tax representative if they wish to do so.

Businesses that are established outside the EU (including the United Kingdom) must appoint a resident tax representative to register for Portuguese VAT. The tax representative is the first entity deemed responsible for the payment of the VAT debts with the business represented by it.

However, a nonresident entity, with head office or established in a third country, registered for VAT purposes in Portugal that intends to cease activity must appoint a Portuguese tax representative established or resident in Portugal. This rule is aimed at ensuring payment of any outstanding tax that may be levied after the cancellation of the activity. Thus, the tax representative is jointly and severally liable for the payment of VAT since its appointment and until the company duly cancels its activity near the competent authorities

Under the recent Ruling no. 30235 of 27 April, the appointment of a tax representative for mere Portuguese VAT registrations (who are entities incorporated or established within the EU, otherwise it would be mandatory) continues to be optional and not mandatory. However, by appointing such representative, such mere Portuguese VAT registrations may continue to charge local VAT when selling goods to entities incorporated, established or who are mere Portuguese VAT registrations in Portugal.

Where a tax representative is not appointed, business-to-business (B2B) Portuguese local supplies shall be subject to the domestic reverse-charge mechanism (article 2(1)(g) of the Portuguese VAT Code), thus, local output invoices must be raised without VAT.

Where a tax representative is appointed, the supplier who is a mere Portuguese VAT registrant may continue to charge/report/assess local VAT in its local B2B supplies but must prior to the raise of such invoices communicate to the B2B acquirers that a tax representative was appointed.

Reverse charge. In cross-border B2B supplies of services, the acquirer of the service (taxable person) should apply the reverse-charge mechanism and self-assess the VAT due on such operation.

Domestic reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism is also applicable in the following situations, in which the taxable person, to whom supplies of goods or services are rendered, becomes liable for the payment of VAT:

- Supplies of ferrous waste and scrap, residues and other recyclable materials consisting of ferrous and nonferrous metals to a Portuguese taxable person

- Supplies of civil construction services to a Portuguese taxable person
- Supplies of services involving emission rights, certified emission's reductions and emission reduction units of greenhouse gases to a Portuguese taxable person. The person acquiring goods and/or services from a supplier that is not established in Portugal should be the one responsible for the VAT self-assessment of the VAT due, by means of the reverse-charge mechanism. Indeed, this rule transfers the obligation of the self-assessment and payment of the VAT due to the taxable person who has its head office, fixed establishment or domicile in the national territory or, that has appointed a tax representative herein, under the terms of article 30 of the Portuguese VAT Code, whenever acquiring goods or services from a nonresident VAT taxable entity that has its head office, fixed establishment or domicile in another EU Member State, and that does not have a tax representative in Portugal (article 2(1) (g) of the Portuguese VAT Code in line with Ruling no. 30235).

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B. Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "one-stop-shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-Community distance sales, see the chapter on the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a tax representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

For more details on the application process in Portugal, refer to the subsection Registration procedures below.

One-Stop Shop. Effective since last 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-Community cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) regime that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

Taxable persons can apply to the One-Stop Shop directly through the PTA's website (www.portaldasfinancas.gov.pt/oss), provided that all conditions required are met.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:
- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-Community distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the chapter on the EU.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective since 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) regime applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective since 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value . The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

Taxable persons can apply to the Import One-Stop Shop directly through the PTA's website (www.portaldasfinancas.gov.pt/oss), provided that all conditions required are met.

For more details about the IOSS, see the chapter on the EU.

The use of the IOSS special regime is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS regime, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal services and couriers regime. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special regime for postal services and couriers.

In Portugal there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the special regime for postal services and couriers, see the chapter on the EU.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:
- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply).
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes.

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State, as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

In Portugal there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the chapter on the EU.

Vouchers. A "single-purpose voucher" (SPV) is a voucher for which all the elements necessary for determining the tax due, regardless of the good or service to be supplied, are known at the time of issue or assignment.

For SPVs, VAT shall be due and payable at the time the voucher is issued/assigned by the taxable person in whose name the transfer of the voucher is made. On the other hand, a "multi-purpose voucher" (MPV) is a voucher for which, at the time of issue or assignment, all the information necessary to determine the tax due is not known.

For MPVs, VAT shall be due and payable at the time the taxable person supplies the goods or services that the voucher relates to, regardless of any assignments that may have previously occurred.

Registration procedures. Entities must register with the National Register of Corporate Entities (Registo Nacional de Pessoas Colectivas – RNPC), as well as with the local tax office. A certificate of legal standing of the company must be filed with the registration application form. The company is provided with a Portuguese corporate registration number within 10 working days. This number will be the same as the VAT registration number once the company files for a declaration of beginning of activity, together with other relevant documents, with the competent tax office.

The registration of a non-established business for VAT purposes in Portugal may take up to 10 working days. An online VAT registration system is not yet full in force in Portugal. Entities must register with the RNPC in person. Registration with the local tax office may be performed electronically exceptionally and subject to confirmation, through the PTA website.

The following documentation is required to proceed with the Portuguese VAT registration of a company not established in Portugal:

- Certificate of incorporation issued within the last three months and duly apostilled with the Hague Convention seal. A Portuguese certified translation is required.
- Company's articles of association issued within the last three months and duly apostilled with the Hague Convention seal. A Portuguese certified translation is required.
- Certificate of status of taxable person proving that the company is a taxable person in the country where it has its head office, issued within the last three months and duly apostilled. A Portuguese certified translation is required.
- The company's international bank account number (IBAN) and BIC/SWIFT number – for this purpose the applicant should provide official declaration from the bank where the company holds its bank account, provided it is from an EU bank account.
- Power of attorney (PoA) duly apostilled with the Hague Convention seal and issued within the last three months, empowering another business to represent and act on behalf of the company in the process of requesting its registration at the National Register of Companies (Registo Nacional de Pessoas Colectivas – RNPC).
- Copy of identity card/passport of the person who has powers to solely bind the company (e.g., legal representative, when applicable) for PoA purposes.
- Declaration of beginning of activity signed by the person who has powers to solely bind the company (e.g., legal representative) or if applicable, by the tax representative appointed by the company. This form needs to be printed on both sides and signed in duplicate.

Other information required for the declaration of beginning of activity: (1) identification of the operations to be carried out in Portugal (imports, exports, intra-Community acquisitions or supplies – yes/no), (2) company's business activity code (usually designated across Europe as CAE, NAFT or NACE code), (3) estimated annual turnover in euro and (4) confirmation of the exact date of the beginning of activity in Portugal.

It is also possible to backdate the VAT registration date of beginning of activity if needed (however, in this case, penalties shall apply).

Following recently enacted legislation for the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing, all entities that obtain a Portuguese taxable person number are required to submit an online form containing information about that entity and about its ultimate beneficial owner(s) (UBO) and management.

Deregistration. Individuals or companies subject to VAT must, within 30 days from the date of termination of activity, submit a declaration of cancellation of activity with the competent tax office.

Tax authorities can declare, on their own authority, the termination of activity of a company following a judgment under insolvency proceedings determining the winding-up of the company, when it is clear that an economic activity is not being developed or intended to continue to be developed.

Changes to VAT registration details. When there is a change in a taxable person's VAT registration details (such as name, address, starting/stopping to make imports, exports or intra-Community acquisitions or supplied, inter alia), the taxable person is obliged to inform the tax authorities of such changes through the submission of a declaration of changes of activity. This can either be made in person or online, via the company's web portal with the PTA.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to imports and supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates in mainland Portugal are:
- Standard rate: 23%
- Intermediate rate: 13%
- Reduced rate: 6%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for the intermediate rate, the reduced rate or an exemption.

In the autonomous region of Madeira, the following VAT rates apply:
- Standard rate: 22%
- Intermediate rate: 12%
- Reduced rate: 5%

In the autonomous region of Azores, the following VAT rates apply:
- Standard rate: 16%
- Intermediate rate: 9%
- Reduced rate: 4%

Examples of goods and services taxable at 6% (5% in Madeira and 4% in the Azores)

- Basic foodstuffs
- Books and newspapers and other periodic publications that occupy predominantly scientific, educational, literary, artistic, recreational or sporting cultural matters in any medium, provided that it is not wholly or predominantly in video or music

- Pharmaceuticals (some)
- Medical equipment
- Passenger transport
- Hotel accommodation
- Refurbishment of immovable property that is directly contracted for with the National Fund for Rehabilitation of Heritage Building by its management company
- Provision of cleaning services and cultural intervention in certain places in terms of fire prevention measures
- Traditional cane honey
- Garments for medical purposes, hair prostheses for cancer patients, as long as duly prescribed
- Services rendered by bullfighting artists, in bullfighting shows to the respective promoters

At the time of preparing this chapter, the draft state budget law for 2024 proposes the application of the reduced rate to the supply of electricity, excluding the respective fixed components that apply until the end of 2024. The aforementioned paragraph applies the reduced VAT rate to the supply of electricity, excluding the respective fixed components. This applies, provided that the power supplied does not exceed 6.90 kVA, and in respect to the amount, not exceeding: a) 100 kWh in a 30-day period; and b) 150 kWh in a 30-day period in the case of large families, meaning households with five or more people. In addition, the acquisition, delivery and installation, maintenance and repair of appliances, machinery and other equipment intended exclusively or mainly to the capture and use of solar, wind and geothermal and other alternative forms of energy shall also be subject to the reduced rate. No further details have been announced.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 13% (12% in Madeira and 9% in Azores)

- Canned fish and shellfish
- Wine
- Fuel and colored oil marked with government-approved additives
- Musical instruments

At the time of preparing this chapter, the draft state budget law for 2024 proposes the application of the intermediate VAT rate to juices, nectars and natural sparkling water or with carbon dioxide content or other products supplied in restaurants. No further details have been announced.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to tax and that do not give rise to a right of input tax deduction. Some supplies are classified as "exempt with credit," which means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover related input tax. Exempt-with-credit supplies include, among others, exports of goods outside the EU and related services, and supplies of banking, financial and insurance services made to a recipient outside the EU (see the chapter on the EU).

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Leasing or letting of immovable property
- Medical services
- Financial services
- Insurance
- Copyrights by authors
- Training provided by public sector institutions

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The Portuguese VAT law foresees the following options for taxation of exempt supplies:

- Supply of training services:
  - Supply of food and drinks made by employers to their employees
  - Supply of medical and sanitary services performed by hospitals, clinics, dispensaries and similar establishments, which are not carried out by entities from the public sector, i.e., entities that do not have any agreement with the State

– Supplies of services rendered by non-agricultural cooperatives to their farmer members

In the above cases, if the taxable person opts to waive the VAT exemption, it must remain under this regime for five years.

- Leasing or supply of immovable property or independent parts thereof to other taxable persons: In this case, the waiver of the exemption must be carried out on a case-by-case basis and supported by a certificate issued by the PTA.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when they are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when they are performed.

An invoice must be issued before the fifth business day following the basic time of supply. The actual tax point becomes the date on which the invoice is issued. However, if no invoice is issued, tax becomes due on the fifth business day after the basic tax point.

If the consideration is paid in full or in part before the invoice is issued, the actual tax point becomes the date on which payment is received (with respect to the amount paid). The VAT invoice must be issued immediately in these circumstances.

Deposits and prepayments. For prepayments or advance payments, the tax point is the date on which the advance payment is received. The supplier must issue an invoice as soon as an advance payment is received.

Continuous supplies of services. Regarding continuous supplies of services based on agreements foreseeing successive payments, the time of supply occurs at the end of the period concerning each payment. However, where the payment schedule is not defined or is greater than 12 months, the VAT is due and shall become chargeable at the end of each 12-month period, for the corresponding amount.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Generally, under the Portuguese VAT rules, a taxable supply of goods is deemed to have taken place when goods are sold, and they are not returned to the supplier within a year.

Reverse-charge services. The rules stated above also apply to reverse-charge services. However, the tax point rule is irrelevant for the supplier since no VAT is assessed by the supplier (who must still issue the invoice within five working days after the service is rendered).

The purchaser should self-assess the VAT when receiving the invoice. However, if there is a delay in the supplier issuing the invoice, the VAT should be reverse charged on the fifth day (after the taxable event), but the purchaser cannot recover the VAT until it has the original invoice. Therefore, in practice, the reverse charge is normally applied by the purchaser when the invoice is issued, even if more than five days have elapsed from the taxable event.

Leased assets. Since leasing agreements are also considered a continuous supply of services, the time of supply occurs at the end of the period foreseen for each payment.

Moreover, when the client exercises the purchase option, the VAT is due for the supply of goods for the difference value of the asset.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or when the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

Intra-Community acquisitions. The time of supply for an intra-Community acquisition of goods is the 15th day of the month following the month in which the basic time of supply for the goods occurs. If the supplier issues an invoice before this date, the time of supply is when the invoice is issued.

Intra-Community supplies. Although no VAT is chargeable for an intra-Community supply, an invoice must be issued by the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are delivered to the customer.

For continuous intra-Community supplies of goods over more than one calendar month, the tax point shall be regarded as being completed on expiry of each calendar month until such time as the supply comes to an end.

Distance sales. In respect of supplies of goods for which VAT is payable by the person facilitating the supply through the use of an electronic interface, such as a marketplace, platform, portal or similar means; distance sales of goods imported from third territories or third countries in consignments of an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150; the chargeable event shall occur, and VAT shall become chargeable at the time when the payment has been accepted.

For distance sales of goods imported from third territories or third countries on which VAT is declared under the special regime for distance sales of goods imported from third territories or third countries, in consignments of an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150, the chargeable event shall occur, and VAT shall become chargeable, at the time of supply. The goods shall be regarded as having been supplied at the time when the payment has been accepted.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax incurred with the acquisition of goods and services for its business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax charged on the supplies carried out. The input tax can be deducted in the VAT return of the period or the subsequent period in which the invoices were received.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Portugal is 4 years/48 months counted from the beginning of the civil year following the date when the VAT become taxable/deductible. This is the general statute of limitation period.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Portugal, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on intra-Community acquisitions of goods and services, and reverse-charge services (see the chapter on the EU).

A valid tax invoice or customs document is requested by the tax authorities during their analysis of a claim for input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase, hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for private cars and vans
- Business gifts (unless valued at less than EUR50)
- Restaurant meals
- Entertainment and luxury goods and services
- Transport expenses and business travel, including toll costs, incurred outside the scope of the organization or participation in congresses, fairs or exhibitions
- Accommodation and meals incurred outside the scope of the organization or participation in congresses, fairs or exhibitions
- Drinks and tobacco

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- 50% of VAT related to diesel or liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) for vans and trucks

- 50% of VAT related to expenses incurred with respect to organization of conferences, seminars and training courses (for example, travel, food and beverage, accommodation and lease of immovable property). At the time of preparing this chapter, the draft state budget law for 2024 proposes the extension of the simplified regime for the VAT refund for the entities whose main activity code (CAE – "Código de Atividade Económica") is 79110 – "Travel agencies activities." This shall apply to expenses related with the organization of congresses, fairs, exhibitions, seminars, conferences and similar events. No further details have been announced.
- 25% of VAT related to expenses incurred with respect to participation in conferences, seminars and training courses (for example, travel, food and beverage, accommodation and lease of immovable property)
- Car-related expenses when the acquisition cost does not exceed EUR62,500 for electric vehicles and EUR50,000 for plug-in hybrid vehicles (value s net of VAT)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not generally recoverable. If a Portuguese taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." Exempt with credit supplies are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

In Portugal, the amount of input tax that a partially exempt business may recover is calculated by using one of two methods.

The first method consists of the following two stages:
- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible (this method is usually referred to as the "direct allocation method"). Input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible.
- In the second stage, the remaining input tax that is not allocated directly to exempt and taxable supplies is apportioned. The apportionment may be calculated based on the value of taxable supplies carried out compared with the total turnover or by using another acceptable method agreed on with the tax authorities. The recovery percentage is rounded up to the nearest whole number (for example, a recovery percentage of 72.1% is rounded up to 73%).

Under the second method, a taxable person may use a general pro rata calculation based on the value of taxable supplies made compared with total turnover.

Taxable persons may use both methods at the same time for different operations or for different sectors of activity. The Portuguese VAT authorities may also impose the use of one of these two methods to prevent distortions of competition.

Approval from the tax authorities is required to use the partial exemption standard method or special method in Portugal. The option to use either of the methods outlined above (direct allocation or prorate) need to be stated in the declaration of beginning of activity.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted over time if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes by more than 5% in any year during the adjustment period or if goods are taken from a taxable sector or activity for use in an exempt sector or activity.

In Portugal, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:
- Immovable property (including services): adjusted for a period of 20 years
- Movable property: adjusted for a period of 5 years

The capital goods adjustment does not apply to the following items:
- Goods with a purchase value of less than EUR2,500
- Goods with a useful life of less than five years (for example, computers)

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of acquisition to a fraction of the total input tax (1/20 for immovable property and 1/5 for other movable capital goods). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared with the year in which the capital goods were acquired.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a monthly period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, the taxable person has an input tax credit. A refund of the credit may be claimed in certain circumstances. If a refund may not be claimed, the input tax credit may be carried forward to offset output tax in a subsequent period.

A refund may be requested if the credit balance is at least EUR250 and if the taxable person has been in a credit position for 12 or more consecutive months. However, if the VAT credit exceeds EUR3,000, a VAT refund may be claimed immediately.

A refund may also be requested before the end of the 12-month period for amounts greater than EUR25 if any of the following circumstances exist:
- The taxable person has ceased operations.
- The taxable person has ceased to make taxable supplies and now exclusively makes supplies that are exempt from VAT.
- The taxable person begins to use the special VAT accounting regime for retailers.

In general, a refund is claimed by submitting the VAT return form by electronic means, together with the following annexes:
- A list of clients
- A list of suppliers

Pre-registration costs. According to the guidelines issued by the PTA, input tax incurred on pre-registration costs can be deducted under certain circumstances.

The VAT incurred in the acquisition of goods or services that occurs before the submission of the start of activity declaration and its registration for VAT purposes may be deducted if the transactions represent operations that grant the right to input tax deduction, provided for in the VAT Code. These costs can be deducted in the first VAT return.

Bad debts. Bad debts may be adjusted (and recovered) on periodic VAT returns.

A bad debt is considered to exist for debts for which the nonpayment risk is duly justified, namely when (i) the credit is overdue for more than 12 months (when the debtor is a taxable person entitled to deduct VAT) and there are objective proofs of its impairment and actions performed regarding its payment, including the asset being recognized in the accounts or (ii) the credit is overdue for more than six months (when the debtor is an individual or a VAT exempt taxable person with no right to deduct input VAT and the VAT credit (taxable basis – VAT), per invoice is not higher than EUR750.

In the case of debts from special judicial or extra judicial processes, the VAT adjustment can be performed before the abovementioned deadlines if the process is decided earlier.

The following debts are not considered as bad debts:
- Credits secured or covered by an insurance or by any guarantee in rem (i.e., a real warranty, for instance, pledges or mortgages or other types of real guarantee s as defined in Portuguese civil law)

- Credits over related parties
- Credits over entities declared insolvent or bankrupt before the realization of the transaction
- Credits over the State

Additionally, note that for credits overdue for more than 12 months, the VAT adjustment requires a prior report certified by a chartered accountant and a prior electronic authorization request to the PTA. For credits overdue for more than six months, the VAT is automatically recovered through the VAT return.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Portugal.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

The Portuguese VAT authorities may refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Portugal. Non-established businesses may claim Portuguese VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses. If a taxable person incurs expenses within Portugal, it may opt to register for VAT in Portugal if it has output tax related to its operations. This option may be chosen due to the fact that a VAT refund claim may otherwise be very time consuming. See the Voluntary registration and small businesses subsection above.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU Directive 2008/9/CE.

The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9/CE, together with the provisions of Decree-Law no. 186/2009 of 12 August, may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Portugal during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge and exempt transport services). For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Find below specific rules for Portugal:

- The refund request is made electronically in the country where the entity is established and must be sent together with the relevant information (such as the entity's identification, refund period) and with the required documents that sustain the refund claim, i.e., invoice or import documents and related information that allow for proving the relevant VAT was paid.
- The request must be filed in Portuguese or English and should be submitted by 30 September of the following year when the tax became due. The minimum amount to be refunded is EUR50.
- The deadline for the approval or denial of the refund is four months, but it may be extended to six or eight months if the PTA issue one or two requests for additional information or documents.
- Claimants may request payment of interest if a claim is repaid more than 10 working days after the favorable decision notification.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the EU 13th Directive, together with the provisions of Decree-Law no. 186/2009 of 12 August. All refunds must be made taking into account the 13th Directive. There is no specific guidance as for UK companies. For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Portugal applies the principle of reciprocity; that is, the country where the claimant is established must also provide VAT refunds to Portuguese businesses.

Find below specific rules for Portugal:

- The procedure is the same as regarding businesses established in the EU with the following particularities regarding non-EU businesses:
  - A tax representative domiciled in Portugal needs to be appointed and granted with powers to comply with all obligations arising from the refund request. The request is made directly by the representative to the VAT Refund Services, in paper or online.

– Filing a certificate, issued by the State where it is established, proving to be subject to a general sales tax, as well as the confirmation from that State on the reciprocity of treatment for taxable persons established in Portugal. This certificate may not be submitted if there is a reciprocity agreement in place between the two countries.

• The VAT refund request must be sent to the following address:

VAT Refund Services
Avenida João XXI
nº76, 5º
1049-065 Lisboa

Late payment interest. The PTA should pay the refund request until the end of the second month after the submission of the refund. In case of taxable persons that are registered in the monthly reimbursement regime, the PTA must pay until the 30 days after the submission of the refund claim. After that, the taxable person can request the payment of compensatory interest (4% per year).

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Portuguese taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports and intra-Community supplies. A VAT invoice (or equivalent document) is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction or a refund under the EU Directive 2008/8/CE or EU 13th Directive refund regimes (see the chapter on the EU).

Generally, goods in transit within the Portuguese territory must be accompanied by a special delivery note or invoice. Delivery notes must be electronically communicated to the PTA before the beginning of the transport. These transport documents must contain the same information as an invoice, excluding the value of the transaction. These documents must also contain details indicating from where the goods were dispatched, the destination of the goods and the time of commencement of the dispatch.

Portuguese taxable entities with head office, fixed establishment, domicile or even mere VAT registrations (independently of having appointed or not a tax representative herein), in Portuguese territory must communicate electronically to the PTA the relevant data of the invoices issued during a particular month, at the latest on the 5th day of the subsequent month, from 1 January 2024 onward.

Issuing invoices through a certified invoicing program is mandatory for taxable persons who:
• Have a head office, fixed establishment, domicile or even mere VAT registrations in Portugal, or other, are obliged to raise invoices
• Have had, in the previous calendar year, a turnover exceeding EUR50,000 (or in the year in which the activity begins, the annualized turnover exceeds EUR50,000)
• Use invoicing software
• Are required to have organized accounting or have chosen to do so

Since 1 July 2021, taxable persons who are not established in the national territory but herein registered for VAT are obliged to use an invoicing system certified by the PTA.

This obligation to use certified invoicing systems should be applicable to nonresident entities (even with mere VAT registrations), provided that the company has a turnover threshold higher than EUR50,000 in the calendar year of 2023 (or when, in the year in which they start operating, the reference period is less than the calendar year and the annualized turnover for that period exceeds EUR50,000), or if it uses any billing software to issue its invoices.

Taxable persons who are, under article 35.º-A of the VAT Code, subject to invoicing rules in Portugal (including nonresident entities but registered for VAT purposes herein) must communicate to the PTA all the elements of the invoices issued under the terms of the VAT Code, as well as the elements of the documents that enable the verification of goods or provision of services and receipts, by:

- Real-time electronic data transmission, integrated in an electronic invoicing program
- Electronic data transmission by sending a standardized structured file based on the SAF-T (PT) file

  Or
- Directly on the PTA website

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply. A credit note must be cross-referenced to the original invoice. The mention of VAT on a credit note is optional. If VAT is mentioned, the supplier may reduce the VAT payable with respect to the supply. However, the supplier can make this reduction only if it has written confirmation from the purchaser acknowledging the VAT adjustment.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Portugal, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Portugal. This is in line with EU Directive 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU). This is with effect from 1 January 2021.

For B2B and B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Portugal. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU (see the chapter on the EU).

For B2G supplies, large companies have been obliged to issue electronic invoicing documents since 1 January 2021. Small- and medium-sized enterprises, micro-enterprises and public entities as co-contracting entities are obliged to issue electronic invoicing documents since 1 January 2023. Until 31 December 2023, there was the possibility of using different electronic invoicing mechanisms for small- and medium-sized enterprises and micro-enterprises. However, as of 1 January 2024, this possibility no longer exists.

Since 1 January 2020 (for large companies, i.e., an enterprise that employs more than 250 people or has an annual turnover of more than EUR50 million or a total annual balance sheet exceeding EUR43 million – other deadlines may apply for other entities), electronic invoicing is mandatory for public procurement. This obligation means electronic invoices must be issued from all suppliers who are involved in public procurement contracts, as well as public authorities and like entities.

In the case of public authorities and similar entities, note that the obligation is that they are issuers and/or recipients of electronic invoices, in the sense that their IT systems must be ready to export and import the electronic invoices. However, note that electronic invoicing is not required for the execution of contracts declared to be confidential and/or accompanied by special security measures. For other taxable persons (B2B and B2C), electronic invoicing is allowed in Portugal but not mandatory, in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU. Electronic invoicing is accepted for all transactions and no formal approval is needed from the PTA to implement it if the invoices are stored in Portugal or in another EU Member State (if any taxable person established in the Portuguese territory wishes to store its invoices outside the EU, it must obtain prior authorization from the PTA in order to do so).

Invoices are not obliged to be verified by the tax authority before issuing, neither are verification details. In any case, invoices must be raised by way of a certified invoicing program, which is also applicable for mere VAT registrations since 1 July 2021. Electronic invoices may only be issued through a certified invoicing program and if the recipient of the services expressly accepts the adoption of such procedure. Also, issuing electronic invoices is only acceptable if the authenticity of origin, integrity of the content and the legibility of the invoice is ensured by business controls that create a reliable audit trail between the invoice and the supply of goods or services.

In practical terms, every electronic invoice should have a digital signature, to ensure the authenticity of its origin, the integrity of its content and its legibility. The qualified electronic signature or qualified electronic stamp and EDI are examples of technologies that fulfill this requirement.

From 1 January 2024 onward, electronic invoices must necessarily contain a qualified electronic signature or a qualified electronic seal or be issued via EDI.

Unstructured invoices raised in HTML, PDF or Word format, as well as invoices in image or paper format that are later scanned, and invoices sent by fax are not included in the concept of electronic invoicing. PDF invoices were, however, accepted as electronic invoices during a special period due to COVID-19 simplification measures. However, invoices sent by digital image or PDF format may be used in addition to the electronic invoice to better assess the information being processed by the entity acquiring the goods or services until 31 December 2024.

The bidimensional bar code (a QR code, that became mandatory since 1 January 2022) and the unique invoice code (UUID/ATCUD under the Portuguese short abbreviation, which will be mandatory as of 1 January 2023 onward, are to be implemented by taxable persons and users of billing software programs certified by the PTA or other electronic means.

Unique invoice code. The unique invoice code (UUID) is to be implemented by taxable persons and users of billing software programs certified by the PTA or other electronic means.

The unique invoice code was already briefly mentioned in article 35 of Decree-Law no. 28/2019 of 15 February. It is now clear that such code should result from the combination of the following two elements – separated by the character "-" (without quotation marks):
- Series validation code
- The sequential numbering of the document within its series

Regarding the series' validation code, this is to be assigned by the PTA upon the taxable person's electronic communication to the PTA, prior to their use, the identification of the series used for issuing invoices and other tax relevant documents, series per each establishment and per each mean of processing used (as provided for in paragraph 2 of article 35 of Decree-Law no. 28/2019 of 15 February). To obtain the code of the series validation, the following elements needs to be communicated:
- The document series' identifier
- The type of document, according to the document types defined government ordinance setting SAF-T – corresponding to the fields "Type of document" and "Type of receipt"
- The beginning of the sequential numbering to be used in the series
- The expected starting date for the use of the series for which the validation code is requested

Regarding the sequential number to be used, it is the sequence of numeric characters – for example, for billing software it is the sequence immediately after the slash (/), as defined in the SAF-T's data structure.

In this regard, it should be stressed that the UUID (in Portuguese, ATCUD) needs to be stated in all invoices and other tax relevant documents raised by way of electronic billing programs, other electronic means such as cash registers or in pre-printed documents – and specifically mention "ATCUD: Codigode Validação–Numerosequencial" ("UUID: Series validation code-sequential number").

Regarding documents with more than one page, UUIC must appear on all of them and, when applicable, immediately above the QR code.

QR code. The QR code is mandatory since 1 January 2022. The bidimensional bar code (a QR code) is to be implemented by taxable persons and users of billing software programs certified by the PTA or other electronic means.

Producers of software must guarantee the correct generation of the QR code, which must be included in the invoices and other relevant tax documents issued by invoicing certified programs.

Also, producers and users of certified billing software systems must guarantee the perfect readability of the QR code, within the body of the document, regardless of the means by which it is presented to the customer (paper or electronic). Regarding documents with more than one page, the QR code can appear on the first or on last page.

Relief from printing or sending e-invoices in transactions with nontaxable persons. Taxable persons are relieved from printing paper invoices and/or from sending electronic invoices to customers/recipients when the same are nontaxable persons, provided that the following conditions are cumulatively fulfilled:
- The tax identification number of the purchaser is included in the invoices.
- Invoices are processed and communicated to the PTA through a certified computer program.
- The taxable person has opted for the transmission of invoices in real time to the PTA.

This relief is not available when the acquirer explicitly requests the paper or electronic invoice.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the EU.

Simplified VAT invoices. Under the Portuguese VAT code, simplified invoicing may be used for the sale of goods and/or services up to an amount of EUR1,000 for supplies made to nontaxable persons by retailers or street sellers. For other supplies of goods and/or services, a simplified invoice may be issued if the amount of the transaction does not exceed EUR100 (for instance, the identification number of the nontaxable person is only mandatory if its insertion is required by the nontaxable person).

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Portugal. It means that the acquirer raises an invoice on behalf of the supplier of goods or services. For this procedure to be applicable, the following requirements must be met:
- Prior agreement, in the written form, is made between the acquirer and the supplier of the goods or services
- The acquirer must have evidence that the supplier of the goods or the service provider has taken notice of the issuance of the invoice and accepted its content
- The invoice must refer to self-billing ("autofaturação")

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods or on the intra-Community supply of goods (see the chapter on the EU). However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports and intra-Community supplies must be supported by evidence that confirms the goods have left Portugal. Acceptable proof includes the following documentation:
- For an export, stamped customs documentation and an indication on the invoice of the Portuguese VAT law article that permits exemption with credit for the supply
- For an intra-Community supply, as of 1 January 2020, in accordance with article 45a of the Council Implementing Regulation no. 2018/1912 of 4 December 2018, the necessary transport proofs to apply the exemption to the intra-Community transactions have been legally defined and harmonized for all Member States, namely, through the provision of a presumption that the essential condition to apply the exemption – the goods have been dispatched or transported from a Member State to a destination outside its territory but within the EU – is fulfilled when the economic operators are in possession of specific documentation (which varies depending on the entity that takes care of the transport)
  - When it is the supplier (or third party on its behalf) who carries out the transport: the supplier needs to have in its possession two noncontradictory elements, issued by independent entities, of the supplier and of the purchaser: 2 of "Type A" or 1 of "Type A" and 1 of "Type B"

– When it is the acquirer (or third party on its behalf) who carries out the transport: the supplier needs to have in its possession two noncontradictory elements, issued by independent entities, of the supplier and the acquirer: 2 of "Type A" or 1 of "Type A" and 1 of "Type B," and additionally – The "Type C" Document – a written statement from the acquirer (which the acquirer must deliver to the supplier by the 10th day of the month following the supply of the goods)

No special documentation applies in Portugal for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply.

The documents that are allowed as items of evidence of transport includes:
- Documents relating to the transport of the goods (Type A), such as: signed CMR document, bill of lading, airfreight invoice or an invoice from the carrier of the goods
- Other documents (Type B), such as: an insurance policy regarding the transport of the goods or bank documents proving payment for the transport; official documents issued by a public authority, such as a notary, confirming the arrival of the goods in the Member State of destination; a receipt issued by a warehouse keeper in the Member State of destination, confirming the storage of the goods in that Member State
- A written statement from the EU acquirer (Type C), stating that the goods have been dispatched or transported by him, or by a third party on behalf of the acquirer and identifying the Member State of destination of the goods; that written statement shall state: the date of issue; the name and address of the acquirer; the quantity and nature of the goods; the date and place of the arrival of the goods; in the case of the supply of means of transport, the identification number of the means of transport; and the identification of the individual accepting the goods on behalf of the acquirer

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a currency other than the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR), to determine the taxable amount the amount should be converted into EUR, using the sales rate used by a bank established in Portugal or the exchange rate used by the European Central Banking System on the date on which the tax is chargeable or on the first business day of that month.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For the sale of goods and/or services up to an amount of EUR1,000 for supplies made to nontaxable persons by retailers or street sellers, simplified VAT invoices can be used. For other supplies of goods and/or services, a simplified invoice may be issued if the amount of the transaction does not exceed EUR100 (e.g., the identification number of the nontaxable person is only mandatory if its insertion is required by the nontaxable person). An invoice does not have to be issued and can be replaced by a sales receipt for supplies of goods made through automatic vending machines and supplies of services for which it is normal to issue a slip, admission or transport ticket.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In Portugal, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include VAT invoices, VAT returns and any other supporting documents for the input tax incurred and output tax paid in Portugal (e.g., VAT ledgers, Simplified Register of Operations).

In Portugal, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, when the documents are in paper form, the archive must be stored in the Portuguese territory. If the records are held in electronic form, they may be stored in any EU Member State, provided access is guarantee d through terminals located in Portugal.

Record retention period. In Portugal, VAT records should be retained for a period of 10 years, if another deadline does not result from any special provision. However, the obligation to file and retain all books, registers, and supporting documents must be maintained until the taxable person de-registers from VAT in Portugal.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Portugal. Invoices and other tax-relevant documents issued or received in paper form can be scanned and stored in electronic form. In this respect, an archive plan module should be defined and should comply with several conditions, namely:

- Image files must be named or organized sequentially so that it is possible to search for the image of a document by its identification.
- The images of documents issued by electronic means must be identified as entered in the "Tipo de document" or "Tipo de recibo" and "Identificação única do document" or "Identificação única do recibo" fields of the data group "Documentos comerciais." Images of documents not issued by electronic means, as well as images of the documents received, must be identified according to their filling in the field "Chave única do movimento contabilístico" of the data group "Movimentos contabilísticos" of the data structure of the file referred in Ordinance no.321-A/2007 of 26 March (SAFT).
- Where images for the same archival period are not all recorded in the same format, the file image may appear only in the last format used.
- The format used must identify the taxable person by its name, business name or company name and tax identification number and, in the event of the need to use multiple formats, the respective format number and total number of formats used.

Also, taxable persons will be obliged to notify the location of the archive to the PTA by electronic means (through the PTA's website).

Invoices and other tax-relevant documents issued and received electronically are also archived electronically, the following should be ensure d:

- The performance of controls to ensure the integrity, accuracy and reliability of archiving
- The performance of functionalities designed to prevent improper creation and to detect any alteration, destruction or deterioration of archived records
- The recovery of data in the event of an incident
- Reproduction of readable and intelligible copies of the recorded data

Scanning and e-archiving must be performed with the necessary technical rigor to obtain and reproduce perfect, legible and intelligible images of the original documents, without loss of resolution and information, to guarantee their consultation and reproduction on paper or electronic support.

Full access must be granted to the documents and the authenticity of origin, integrity of the content and legibility of any document must be ensure d.

It must also be guaranteed that it is not possible to change or destroy the electronic archives.

Electronic copies of invoices must be numbered with a continuous sequence according to a predefined archiving plan (XML file).

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Periodic VAT returns are submitted in Portugal for monthly or quarterly periods, depending on the taxable person's turnover in the preceding VAT year. All taxable persons must also complete an annual return (see the subsection Annual returns below).

Monthly VAT returns must be filed if the taxable person's turnover in the preceding year exceeded EUR650,000.

Quarterly VAT returns must be filed if the taxable person's turnover in the preceding year did not exceed EUR650,000.

Monthly VAT returns must be submitted before the 20th day of the second month after the end of the return period. Quarterly VAT returns must be submitted before the 20th day of the second month after the end of the return period.

Periodic payments. The deadline for paying the VAT due by a taxable person to the Portuguese State is as follows:
- By the 15th day of the second month following the date of the operations for taxable persons in the monthly VAT filling regime
- By the 20th day of the second month following the quarter of the operations for taxable persons in the quarterly VAT filling regime

If a taxable person is neither resident nor established in Portugal, it has two options to pay VAT: direct debit or bank transfer.

Regarding the VAT payments made by bank transfer to the PTA, after the submission of the VAT return for a taxable period (monthly/quarterly), the taxable person must obtain (besides the document that proves the submission) the respective payment document that includes the specific payment reference required to be stated upon making the transfer to the PTA's bank account (so the authorities are able to recognize the payment performed in due time as corresponding to the appropriate taxable period). The transferred amount should account for the VAT amount due, net of any banking costs and arrive at the PTA's bank account at the 15th/20th day of the month/quarter, respectively (assuming no specific COVID-19 deadline extension might apply).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Portugal for all taxable persons. For this purpose, the taxable person should register at the PTA's website to receive an access code. Intrastat returns, EC Sales List statements and annual VAT returns must be submitted by electronic means as well.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Portugal.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. In accordance with this regime, taxable persons will only pay the VAT due once they receive payment of an invoice from a customer. This regime is optional and will apply to companies with a turnover of up to EUR500,000.

VAT exemption. This special regime applies to entities that are not required to have organized accounting records; that do not import or export goods or related activities; and whose turnover does not exceed EUR10,000 (retailers EUR12,500). These taxable persons do not charge VAT on their supplies and input tax cannot be deducted.

Import VAT postponed accounting. The reverse-charge procedure for import VAT (also known as postponed accounting) has been introduced in Portugal. To benefit from this new mechanism, a taxable business must fulfill the following requirements:
- It must fall under a monthly VAT regime.
- Its tax situation must be accurate, e.g., with no debts due to tax authorities.
- No input tax blocked restrictions apply.

Small retailers. This regime applies to entities that are required to have organized accounting records; do not import or export goods or related activities; exercise a retail trade activity; have a volume of purchases not exceeding EUR50,000; have a goods purchase volume not less than 90% of the total volume of purchases; do not carry out intra-Community transactions of goods; and have a volume of services, not exempt from VAT, not exceeding EUR250.

The VAT paid by these taxable persons amounts to the 25% of the tax paid on the purchase of goods and raw materials without processing. Moreover, they can only deduct the VAT paid on the purchase or lease of capital goods and other goods for the company's own use.

Secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items or antiques. For supplies of secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items or antiques, the taxable amount will be the difference between the sale price and the purchase price in accordance with the provisions of special legislation and supported by the documentation underlying the supply.

Annual returns. An annual return is required to be filed in Portugal if taxable operations were performed during such year. The annual return is a summary of all the periodic VAT returns for statistical purposes as well as corporate income tax and personal income tax.

The annual return is a global return for all taxes (corporate tax, VAT, etc.). The annual return has a number of appendices attached including VAT – tax and accounting requirements that detail the VAT and net amounts in relation to supplies, carried out and received, and suppliers and customers lists, which provide information on all local supplies and purchases made by a company in Portugal. These listings are used for cross-checking data of purchases and sales with the periodic VAT returns.

Foreign companies that do not have a fixed establishment in Portugal are only registered therein for VAT purposes and did not carry out any operation in a particular fiscal year (i.e., no periodic returns were submitted) are not required to submit an annual VAT return.

In general, annual returns must be submitted by 15 July following the end of the calendar year.

Supplementary filings. In the context of the reporting obligations relating to VAT, in addition to VAT returns there are three more types of obligations, namely, the Intrastat, the EU Sales Returns and, the Simplified Business Information (that covers all taxes supported in Portugal).

There are also reporting obligations on invoice details and SAF-T files. See the subsection Digital tax administration below for more detail.

Intrastat. A Portuguese taxable person that trades with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat statements, if the value of its sales or purchases of goods exceeds certain thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches).

The threshold for Intrastat Arrivals in 2024 is EUR400,000. The threshold for Intrastat Dispatches in 2024 is EUR400,000. These limits apply to the mainland and the Azores. In Madeira, the threshold for Intrastat Arrivals and Dispatches in 2024 is EUR25,000. If a taxable person reaches the respective assimilation thresholds during 2024, the Intrastat authorities (INE – Instituto Nacional de Estatística) request Intrastat returns covering all movements during the year 2024.

The Intrastat return statement is submitted on a monthly basis. The submission deadline is the 15th business day following the end of the return period. For a period in which the taxable person does not carry out any intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) or intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches), a nil return must be completed (after exceeding the thresholds). Intrastat returns must be filed in EUR.

EU Sales Returns. If a Portuguese taxable person carried out intra-Community supplies of goods and/or services, it must submit an EU Sales Return (ESR).

If a Portuguese taxable person carried out any consignment sales of goods, under the new Simplification rules for call-off stock arrangements for Intra-Community transactions (article

7-A of the RITI, added by Law no. 49/2020) it must submit an ESR in accordance with the terms of the Government Ordinance no. 215/2020 of 10 September.

An ESR must be submitted by the 20th day of the month following the month in which the operation takes place and is not required for a period in which the taxable person does not carry out any intra-Community supplies or consignment sales of goods.

ESRs should be submitted quarterly if the VAT returns are submitted quarterly, or monthly if the VAT returns are submitted monthly. If the VAT returns are submitted quarterly but in one of the previous four quarters the amount of intra-Community supplies of goods exceeded EUR50,000, ESR should also be submitted monthly.

Simplified Business Information. The Simplified Business Information – in Portuguese, Informação Empresarial Simplificada (IES), must be filed (general rule, by 15 July next year of the year to which the operations refer to), annual, electronically and completely paper free, i.e., dematerialized, regarding accounting, tax and statistical reporting obligations. Part of this file will be automatically filed with reference to the accounting SAF-T.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person should correct any errors or omissions from prior periodic reporting by submitting:
- An Intrastat replacement (for Arrivals or Dispatches)
- An ERS of replacement

  Or
- A periodic (monthly or quarterly) or annual VAT return out of the respective deadline

To correct any errors or omissions from prior periodic reports, they should be submitted in the same way that was used for the returns that are being corrected. Regarding a periodic or annual VAT return submitted outside of the respective deadlines, see below the penalties for late payment and for late filings (given to the correction that needs to be done).

Digital tax administration. Taxable persons must report to tax authorities, by electronic data transmission:
- The identification and location of the company's establishments in which invoices and other fiscally relevant documents are issued
- Identification of equipment used for invoice processing and other fiscally relevant documents
- The program certificate number used on each equipment, where applicable
- Identification of distributors and installers who marketed and/or installed the billing solution s

Taxable persons with head office or domicile in Portugal should also communicate by electronic data transmission the elements of invoices issued in accordance with the VAT Code, as well as the elements of the documents enabling the confirmation of goods or the provision of services and receipts (notably by way of filing the SAF-T (PT) file).

Standard Audit File for Tax (SAF-T). Portuguese taxable entities with head office, fixed establishment, domicile or even mere VAT registrations (independently of having appointed or not a tax representative herein), in Portuguese territory must report an invoicing single audit file for tax purposes (SAF-T) to the tax authorities by the 5th day of each month (in relation to the transactions carried out in the previous month). It is also mandatory to file the accounting SAF-T on an annual basis (by 30 of April of the year following the year when the operations were carried out).

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The following penalties are levied for late VAT registration in Portugal:
- A penalty ranging from EUR600 to EUR7,500 if the taxable person's actions were not intentional
- A penalty ranging from EUR600 to EUR15,000 if the taxable person's actions were intentional

Penalties for late payment and filings. The following penalties apply to the late submission of periodic and annual VAT returns:
- A penalty ranging from EUR300 to EUR3,750 if the taxable person's actions were not intentional
- A penalty ranging from EUR300 to EUR7,500 if the taxable person's actions were intentional

The following penalties apply to the late payment of VAT:
- A penalty ranging from 30% to 100% of the VAT due, up to a maximum of EUR45,000, if the taxable person's actions were not intentional
- A penalty ranging from 200% to 400% of the VAT due, up to a maximum of EUR165,000, if the taxable person's actions were intentional

In addition, interest applies (currently at a 4% annual rate).

Penalties for errors. The General Taxation Infringement Regime only sets forth the difference between negligence and willful misconduct. Additionally, on a provision that states both errors and omissions, the applicable penalty is the same, therefore there are no different scenarios. If the reverse charge is not recorded, the penalties may amount to 200% of the output tax not recorded in the case of fault, even if there is no cash flow disadvantage for the State. In the case of negligence, penalties may vary between 30% and 100% of the VAT not self-assessed.

However, these penalties are subject to the following limits:
- In the case of negligence – EUR45,000
- In the case of willful misconduct – EUR165,000

For Intrastat, the maximum penalty for the non-submission, late submission or incorrect submission of an Intrastat statement may range from EUR250 to EUR25,000 for individuals and from EUR500 to EUR50,000 for legal persons.

Late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty between EUR600 and EUR7,500. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In Portugal, tax fraud is a tax crime that relates to unlawful conduct typified in the law that aims at the non-assessment, delivery or payment of the tax due or inappropriate grant of tax benefits, refunds or other advantages that may decrease the tax revenues. Thus, tax fraud can take place, for example, when any of the following conduct occurs:
- Concealment or alteration of facts or values that must be contained in the books of accounting or of the statements submitted
- Concealment of undeclared facts or values that should be disclosed to the tax administration
- Entering a simulated business

Tax fraud is punishable with imprisonment up to three years or penalties up to 360 days. Fraud may qualify where there are aggravating circumstances also typified in the law, such as:
- The agent is a public employee
- The agent has been assisted by a public official
- The patrimonial advantage is of a value exceeding EUR50,000

Qualified tax fraud is punishable by imprisonment from 1 to 5 years for individuals and penalties of 240 to 1,200 days for legal persons. If the patrimonial advantage exceeds EUR200,000, the penalty is imprisonment from 2 to 8 years for individuals and a penalty of 480 to 1,920 days for legal persons.

Personal liability for company officers. In general terms, directors may be held personally accountable only in cases where there is an outstanding debt that has already transitioned to enforcement proceedings and the company does not hold enough goods to settle that debt.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Portugal is four years. This is from the beginning of the civil year following the date when the VAT became taxable/deductible or became due. Thus, the PTA might go back to review the VAT returns previously submitted and identify errors, as well as to apply any additional VAT assessments, penalties and interest until that time is elapsed.

On the other hand, said statute of limitation is also applicable to the taxable persons, who have also four years to voluntarily correct any errors. This period is shortened to two years in case the corrections are related to clerical or arithmetical errors.

Puerto Rico

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

San Juan GMT -4

EY
Parque Las Americas 1
235 Federico Costa Street Ste. 410
San Juan
Puerto Rico 00918-1341,

Indirect tax contacts

Pablo Hymovitz	+1 (787) 772-7119 pablo.hymovitz@ey.com
Rosa M. Rodríguez	+1 (787) 772-7062 rosa.rodriguez@ey.com
Noeliz J Suárez	+1 (787) 772-7032 noeliz.suarezarchilla@ey.com
David Montañez	+1 (787) 772-7051 david.montanez-miranda@ey.com
Luz G. Rivera	+1 (787) 772-7118 luzgrycell.rivera@ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Sales and use tax (SUT)
Local name	Impuesto sobre ventas y uso (IVU)
Date introduced	November 2006
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	Departamento de Hacienda de Puerto Rico/Puerto Rico Treasury Department (PRTD) (www.hacienda.gobierno.pr)
SUT rates
State standard rate	10.5%
Municipal rate	1%
Special B2B rate	4%
Special rate on prepared food	7%
SUT number format	Merchant identification number (XXXXXXX-XXXX)
SUT return periods	Monthly
Threshold
Registration	None
Recovery of SUT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

Merchants engaged in businesses that sell taxable items are responsible for collecting the SUT as a withholding agent. In general, the standard tax rate applies to the following taxable items:

- Taxable personal property: property that can be seen, weighed, measured or touched, or is in any way perceptible to the senses. It excludes, among other items, money, cash equivalents, stocks, bonds, insurance, other obligations, automobiles, trucks, tractors, buses, intangibles, gasoline, aviation fuel, gas oil, diesel fuel, electric power and water supplies.

- Taxable services: as a general rule, include any service rendered to any person, except services provided by designated professionals and services rendered to other merchants, among others.
- Admission rights: as a general rule, include, among other things, the money paid for admitting a person or a passenger vehicle to any place of entertainment, sport or recreation; fees and charges paid to private clubs or membership clubs, which provide facilities for the purchase of merchandise or services, either in physical commercial locations or through internet memberships, which allow the acquisition of merchandise, services and benefits in exchange for the payment charges or membership fees.
- Digital products: includes items that can be acquired through streaming, either by purchase or subscription; video, photographs, applications for electronic equipment, games, music, computer software, or any other similar items that are delivered or transferred electronically to the purchaser; and specified digital products and other digital products.
- Combined transactions: the sale of two or more items of the nature of services and tangible personal property, which property and services are different and separately identifiable; and they are sold at a price that does not specifically details the items.

In general, a person who buys, consumes, uses or warehouses for use or consumption a taxable item is the one responsible for the payment of the SUT to the Puerto Rico Treasury Department (PRTD).

All merchandise introduced into Puerto Rico is subject to the payment of use tax upon introduction. The person responsible for the payment of use tax is the importer of record. To take possession of the merchandise, the importer of record will need to submit a declaration of imports for use and pay the corresponding use tax. A bond can be requested to postpone the payment of the use tax until the 10th of the month following the introduction of the merchandise.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for SUT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Puerto Rico, merchants purchasing services from non-Puerto Rico resident persons are required to self-assess, regardless of where the services are rendered. On the other hand, there is an exemption for export services when the purchaser receives the benefit outside Puerto Rico and the same is not related to the activities of the purchaser in Puerto Rico.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a SUT-registered or SUT-registrable business will be subject to SUT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be exempt from the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as exempt of SUT. In Puerto Rico, a TOGC is treated as exempt from SUT where the following conditions are met:
- The transaction qualifies as a tax-free exchange under Subtitle A of the Puerto Rico Internal Revenue Code of 2011 (the Code)
  Or
- The transaction is for a sale or exchange of all or substantially all of the assets of a business outside the ordinary course of business

Transactions between related parties. In Puerto Rico, for a transaction between related parties, the value for SUT purposes is calculated under the arm's-length principle.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for SUT purposes in Puerto Rico if it is considered as a "merchant" and the law provides that "nexus" has been created. The definition of a merchant and the conditions to create a nexus are outlined below under Section E. Merchant's registry.

C. Rates

In Puerto Rico, the following are the SUT rates:
- State standard rate: 10.5%
- Municipal rate: 1%
- Special rate on business-to-business (B2B) services: 4%
- Special rate on prepared foods: 7%

A 4% special SUT rate is applicable to services classified as "designated professional services" and "services rendered to other merchants." The Code, also establishes an obligation to self-assess the SUT with respect to services rendered by persons that are not engaged in a trade or business in Puerto Rico to a merchant in Puerto Rico.

As a general rule, the services subject to the 4% special SUT rate include the following:
- Designated professional services: legal services (subject to certain limitations) and services provided by the following professionals licensed by the respective Board of Examiners of the Puerto Rico Department of State: agronomist; architects and landscape architects, certified public accountants, brokers, sellers and real estate companies; professional draftsmen; professional real estate appraisers; geologists; engineers and surveyors; and services rendered by a "tax returns, statements or refund claims specialist."
- Services rendered to other merchants: services rendered to a person engaged in a trade or business or for the production of income, including services rendered by a non-established business to a person located in Puerto Rico, regardless of the place where the service was rendered, provided that said service is directly or indirectly related with the operations or activities carried out in Puerto Rico by such person.

Nevertheless, from 1 July 2020, "services rendered to other merchants" that are rendered by merchants whose annual volume of business does not exceed USD300,000 will not be subject to SUT while in the case of "designated professional services," the volume of business threshold of the merchant provider remained at USD200,000 for services rendered from 1 March 2019 onward.

Lastly, a 7% Special SUT rate is applicable from 1 October 2019 to the sales of taxable items that are considered "prepared foods," "carbonated drinks," "confectionery products" and "candy" as defined by the Code. Only merchants that comply with all requirements set for by the PRTD will be eligible to obtain authorization to collect and remit the applicable SUT at the 7% special rate. If the merchant does not comply with the requirements imposed by the PRTD, the sale of "prepared foods," "carbonated drinks," "confectionery products" and "candy" by such merchant will be subject to the 10.5% and 1% state and municipal SUT, respectively.

D. Exemptions

SUT exemptions apply to the following, among others:
- Eligible resellers: duly registered merchants that purchase taxable items (not services) principally for sale to persons that may acquire them exempt from the payment of SUT or for exportation.
- Manufacturing plants: physical facilities wherein raw material, machinery and equipment are used in a manufacturing process. To claim the exemption, all manufacturing plants must have an active manufacturer's ID.

- Export sales: taxable items sold for use and consumption outside Puerto Rico, even when the sale takes place in Puerto Rico, if exported from Puerto Rico within 60 days from the date of sale and certain conditions are met.
- Export services: taxable services are considered sold for use or consumption outside of Puerto Rico when the purchaser receives the benefit of the rendering of such services outside of Puerto Rico.
- Donations: tangible personal property or services intended to be distributed as donations that are not considered inventory.

Eligible resellers and manufacturing plants must request a certificate of exemption from the Secretary of the PRTD (the Secretary). In addition, a certificate of exempt purchase must be submitted to the seller in each transaction, subject to certain conditions.

The following items, among others, are also exempt from SUT:
- Certain food items
- Funeral services of up to USD4,000
- Prescription medicines
- Machinery and equipment used in exempt manufacturing operations
- Medical-surgical material
- Supplies, articles, equipment and technology used by a hospital unit (under Act 168-1968) to render health services
- Articles and equipment used to compensate for physical or physiological deficiencies of disabled persons
- Tuition and monthly charges paid to licensed childcare centers
- Commercial and residential real property leases, provided that in the case of commercial leases, the lessee must provide proof to the lessor that it complies with the requirements to maintain a fiscal terminal; as part of the COVID-19 emergency measures, the PRTD issued Administrative Determination 20-17 to extend the effective date until 30 June 2021. Subsequently, pursuant to Administrative Determination 21-07, the fiscal terminal requirement to be able to claim the exemption was removed until further notice
- Certain products for feminine personal hygiene

E. Merchant's registry

A person who wishes to do business in Puerto Rico as a merchant must file with the PRTD a Request for Certificate of Merchant's Registration. This application must be filed electronically with the Secretary before the person, business, partnership or corporation commences the operation of a business. After approval, the Secretary grants the applicant a Certificate of Merchant's Registration, which must be displayed at all times in a place visible to the general public in each place of business for which it is issued.

To be considered a "merchant," the law provides that "nexus" has been created if a person satisfies any of the following conditions:
- It has an establishment or offices in Puerto Rico, or it maintains, or it uses in Puerto Rico, directly or through a subsidiary or affiliate, an office, distribution warehouse or other establishment.
- It has employees, agents or representatives in Puerto Rico who solicit business or carry out business transactions.
- It owns tangible personal property or real property in Puerto Rico.
- It has created a nexus with Puerto Rico in any way, including but not limited to the execution of purchase contracts in Puerto Rico; direct marketing by any means, including but not limited to: mail, radio, television, webpages, electronic commerce or any other electronic means, distribution of unsolicited catalogs, advertisements in magazines or newspapers, billboards, websites, social networks or any other advertising means of distribution in Puerto Rico, electronic or not, and sales by mail in a continuous, recurrent manner in the ordinary course of business.

- It has an arrangement with residents of Puerto Rico in which the residents refer possible buyers to an online website. Such arrangement will create nexus when the gross income generated from the sales exceeds USD10,000 in a period of 12 months.
- A person that is not a transportation business, a carrier or a third-party intermediary acting in said capacity, sells and sends or causes to be sent, tangible personal property from any state or foreign country to any person in Puerto Rico via link in an internet page, for use, consumption or distribution in Puerto Rico, or for storage to be used in Puerto Rico in a continuous, recurrent manner in the ordinary course of business.
- The person has sufficient connections, or a relationship with Puerto Rico or its residents, with the purpose or objective of creating a sufficient nexus with Puerto Rico.
- Through agreement or reciprocity with another jurisdiction in the United States and such jurisdiction uses its taxing power and jurisdiction over such person in support of Puerto Rico power.
- The person consents, expressly or implicitly to the tax.
- A merchant, including one considered affiliated to said person, that is subject to the jurisdiction of Puerto Rico that does any of the following:
  - Sells a product similar to the produce line sold by the person under the same trade name of the person or a trade name similar to that person.
  - Uses their employees in Puerto Rico or their facilities in Puerto Rico to advertise, promote or facilitate sales of the person to the buyers in Puerto Rico.
  - Maintains an office, a distribution center, warehouse or storage place or similar business premises in Puerto Rico to facilitate delivery or performance, as applicable, of taxable items sold by the person to buyers in Puerto Rico.
  - Uses trademarks, service marks or trade names in Puerto Rico equal to or similar to those used by the person.
  - Gives, installs, assembles or renders maintenance services to the person's buyers in Puerto Rico on taxable items sold by the person to buyers in Puerto Rico.
  - Facilitates delivery of tangible personal property sold to the person's clients located in Puerto Rico, allowing the person's clients to collect the tangible personal property in an office, distribution center, warehouse or similar place of business maintained by the merchant in Puerto Rico or receives in its facilities the merchandise returned by the person's clients who bought directly said merchandise from the person.
  - Carries out other activities in Puerto Rico significantly associated with the person's capacity to establish and maintain a market in Puerto Rico for the person's sale.
- A person is a market facilitator or a market vendor who sells and sends, or causes to be sent, tangible personal property from any state or foreign country to any person in Puerto Rico through a link on a page on the internet, for use, consumption or distribution in Puerto Rico, or for storage to be used or consumed in Puerto Rico.

In 2018, the United States Supreme Court issued its ruling in South Dakota v. Wayfair, holding that physical presence was not a necessary element to create taxable nexus. In the years leading to the Wayfair decision, the Puerto Rico SUT law had been amended to abandon the physical presence nexus standard for SUT purposes. The move to adopt a lower presence threshold was intended to curtail the government's perceived notion that tax revenue was being adversely impacted by mail order and internet sales, among other types of business transactions. In a way, Wayfair validates Puerto Rico legislation already in place and the requirement set forth by the SUT law requiring businesses to register with the PRTD. For more detailed information, see the chapter on the United States.

Non-withholding agent. The Code was amended and effective 1 January 2021, any merchant that was considered a "non-withholding agent" must register as a merchant for SUT purposes.

F. Filing and payment system

All merchants must create an account in the merchant portal, Sistema Unificado de Rentas Internas (SURI), to be able to comply with all the monthly filings. All filings must be done electronically through the SURI system. The filings are due by the 20th day of the month following the date the transaction(s) occurred. The return is a consolidated return for all merchants and importers (see below).

As previously mentioned, to take possession of the merchandise, the importer of record will need to file a declaration of imports for use. A declaration must be filed every time merchandise is introduced into Puerto Rico. Furthermore, the declaration must be accompanied by the corresponding use tax payment for the merchandise. If the merchant becomes a bonded merchant, the payment will be postponed until the 20th day of the month following the introduction.

All importers must file a monthly use tax on imports returned on or before the 20th day of the month following the introduction of the merchandise which is a consolidated return that is also required for all merchants to report and deposit the tax collected in the previous month. The importer will include in this return a summary of all the declarations filed throughout the previous month and will generate a credit to be claimed on the monthly SUT return as long as the merchant has a Reseller Certificate. The credit will be generated with regards to the use tax paid upon introduction of items imported for resale.

Every merchant will claim a credit for the use tax paid for items bought for resale. Merchants that possess a valid Reseller Certificate will be able to collect a full credit on the liability reflected in the SUT return.

Certain taxable persons were formerly required to remit the sales and use tax payment on a bimonthly basis. An amendment to the Code provides that the last month to comply with this requirement was June 2022. A zero-tax return is required if no SUT payment is made. In general terms, the payment of SUT is divided in the following percentages:
- 10.5% to the PRTD
- 1% to the municipality using the form provided by each municipality

Services subject to the 4% special SUT rate and sales of prepared foods subject to the 7% special SUT must be also reported in the SUT monthly return, which must be filed on or before the 20th day of the month following the transaction subject to tax.

G. Penalties

Interest. If no payment is made on or before the corresponding due date of the transaction subject to the tax, interest will be imposed at an annual rate of 10% from the date the return was required to be filed until the date of payment.

Surcharges. For any case in which the payment of interest is required, a surcharge of 5% of the balance due applies if the delay exceeds 30 days but does not exceed 60 days. The percentage increases to 10% if the delay exceeds 60 days.

Penalties. Listed below are selected penalties that can be imposed by the PRTD for noncompliance with SUT requirements:
- Failure to register in the Merchants' Registry – USD10,000
- Failure to display merchant certificate – up to USD1,000
- Display of fraudulent merchant certificate – USD5,000
- For each violation for not displaying separately the SUT on a receipt or other evidence of a retail sale – USD100
- Failure to remit the SUT – no more than 50% penalty of the determined insufficiency and 100% in cases of recurrent failure to remit
- Failure to file SUT returns – the greater of USD100 or 10% of the tax liability

The taxable person is treated as the one responsible and subject to the above penalties. The PRTD does not hold the company directors personally responsible.

Non-withholding agent penalties. The following penalties can be imposed to non-withholding agents for failure to file notices:

- Not notifying Puerto Rico purchasers at the time of each sale about SUT reporting and payment obligations – USD100 for each violation
- Failure to file quarterly notice to the PRTD – USD5,000 for each violation
- Failure to file annual notice to Puerto Rico purchasers – USD500 for each violation

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Puerto Rico is four years. This is from the date the return is filed. However, it can be extended to six years if the omission of the amount declared exceeds 25%.

Qatar

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Doha GMT +3

EY
Al Gassar Tower
Majlis Al Taawon Street
West Bay
164 Doha

Indirect tax contacts

Aamer Bhatti (resident in Dubai, United Arab Emirates)	+971 50 8050 757 aamer.bhatti@ae.ey.com
Mitul Patel (resident in Muscat, Oman)	+968 22 504 569 mitul.patel@om.ey.com
Omar El Sebaey	+974 6626-5166 omar.elsebaey@qa.ey.com

Qatar is a Member State of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). The GCC consists of Bahrain, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, and the United Arab Emirates. The GCC has agreed that VAT will be implemented by each Member State.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, the Kingdom of Bahrain and the Sultanate of Oman are the GCC Member States to have implemented VAT. Qatar has ratified the GCC VAT Agreement, and the implementation of VAT could take place during the course of 2024. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, there has been no confirmation on the implementation date.

The GCC Common VAT Agreement contains the principles of the GCC VAT system and sets out the options that individual Member States may choose in terms of the VAT treatment applicable to certain supplies and business sectors. The options are primarily administrative, and where aspects are not dealt with by the GCC Common VAT Agreement, then each Member State may determine individually.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the GCC Common VAT Agreement has no direct effect in the GCC Member States, except if the respective Member States' domestic VAT law specifically refers to the provisions in the Common Agreement.

The summary set out below is based on the GCC Common VAT Agreement.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	No formal implementation date has been announced
Trading bloc membership	Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) Greater Arab Free Trade Area (GAFTA)
Administered by	General Tax Authority (GTA) and Qatar Financial Centre (QFC) Tax Department
VAT rates
Standard	5% (expected)
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	To be confirmed based on the local VAT legislation

VAT return periods	Monthly/Quarterly (to be confirmed based on the local VAT legislation)
Thresholds
Registration	QAR364,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes (there are provisions under the GCC VAT Framework Agreement that allow a VAT refund for nonresidents, subject to the satisfaction of the stipulated conditions)

Transitional provisions

Each Member State shall outline in its domestic VAT law transitional provisions, which could include the following:

- VAT registration deadline for taxable persons who are obliged to register from the date of the enforcement of the local VAT law.
- Determine the date of supply for cases where the tax invoice is issued, or payment is received, ahead of the date of the enforcement of the local VAT law, and where the actual supply took place after this date.
- For continuous supplies that are carried out partially ahead of the date of enforcement of the domestic VAT law, and partially after this date, the VAT treatment of each part.

Romania

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Bucharest GMT +2

EY
Bucharest Tower Center
22nd Floor
15-17 Ion Mihalache Blvd
011171 Bucharest
Romania

Indirect tax contacts

Georgiana Iancu	+40 (21) 402 4070 georgiana.iancu@ro.ey.com
Ioana Iorgulescu	+40 (21) 402 8487 ioana.iorgulescu@ro.ey.com
Costin Manta	+40 (21) 204 7905 costin.manta@ro.ey.com
Florina Paring	+40 (21) 402 8427 florina.paring@ro.ey.com
Andreea Mitroi	+40 (37) 235 8581 andreea.mitroi@ro.ey.com
Sinziana Radu	+40 (72) 772 0972 sinziana.radu@ro.ey.com
Boris Feghiu	+40 (37) 235 8717 boris.feghiu@ro.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Taxa pe valoarea adaugata (TVA)
Date introduced	1 July 1993
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Public Finance (http://www.mfinante.ro)
VAT rates
Standard	19%
Reduced	5%, 9%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	RO XXXXXX (number of digits may vary)
VAT return periods	Monthly, Quarterly, Half-yearly or Annually
Thresholds
Registration
Established	EUR88,500 (RON300,000)
Non-established	None
Distance selling	EUR10,000 (RON46,337)
Intra-Community acquisitions	EUR10,000 (RON34,000)
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000 (RON46,337)

Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Supplies of goods or services made in Romania by a taxable person
- The intra-Community acquisitions of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person (see the EU chapter)
- Acquisition of general business-to-business (B2B) services taxable in Romania, from EU and non-EU suppliers
- The importation of goods into Romania

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the EU chapter. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

The Quick Fixes have been implemented in Romanian VAT law, through Ordinance no. 6/2020. The Quick Fixes introduced provisions regarding call-off stocks and the conditions for applying this regime, chain supplies and changes regarding the intra-Community supplies of goods and the conditions for applying the related VAT exemption.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective EU countries.

In Romania, the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions:
- Ancillary transport activities, such as loading, unloading, handling and similar services
- Works on tangible movable property and valuations of tangible movable property
- Transport of goods performed in Romania

Transfer of a going concern. Romania has implemented in its legislation the concept of transfer of going concern (TOGC). As per the Romanian VAT legislation, the transfer of all the assets or of a part thereof, performed upon the transfer of assets (and liabilities, as the case may be), as a result of transactions such as in-kind contribution or asset deal (excluding spin-offs or mergers), would not be considered as a supply of goods, but as a transaction outside the scope of VAT (the "no-supply rule"), provided that the recipient of the respective transfer is a taxable person established in Romania.

Transactions between related parties. For supplies of goods and services for which the beneficiary is an affiliated party related to the supplier, the taxable base is considered to be the market value in the following situations:
- If the compensation is lower than the market value and the beneficiary of the supply does not have a full deduction right.
- If the compensation is lower than the market value and the supplier does not have a full deduction right and the supply is exempt.
- If the compensation is higher than the market value and the supplier does not have a full deduction right.

Market value translates to the total amount that, to obtain the goods or the services at the respective time, a customer, found in the same commercial phase at which the supply of goods or services takes place, should pay under conditions of local competition to an independent supplier in the Member State in which the supply falls within the VAT sphere. If a comparable supply of goods or services cannot be established, market value translates to:

- For goods: the amount that is not lower than the purchasing price of the goods or of some similar goods or, in the absence of a purchasing price, the cost price, established at the time of the supply.
- For services: the amount that is not lower than the complete costs incurred by the taxable person for the supply of the service.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" is any person who independently makes taxable supplies of goods or services in the course of a business, regardless of the purpose or results of that activity. The VAT registration threshold is a turnover of RON300,000 (EUR88,500) a year (this threshold applies only to taxable persons established in Romania). Established taxable persons who estimate or record a turnover of more than the Romanian currency equivalent of EUR88,500 must request the VAT registration within 10 days of the moment the threshold is exceeded or achieved. The date when the threshold was achieved or exceeded is deemed to be the first day of the month following the one in which the threshold was achieved or exceeded. The VAT registration becomes valid starting the first day of the month following the month of the request.

Exemption from registration. Taxable persons having the seat of their economic activity in Romania are not required to register for VAT purposes in Romania if their annual turnover does not exceed RON300,000 (EUR88,500). However, they may opt to register for VAT purposes.

A taxable person not established in Romania who is liable to pay VAT in Romania, may be exempt from the VAT registration under the following specific situations:

- When performing occasional services in Romania, if these operations do not follow an intra-Community acquisition of goods performed in Romania
- When performing occasional supplies of goods in Romania, except:
  - Distance sales
  - Supplies of goods following intra-Community acquisitions of goods in Romania

The abovementioned supplies of goods and services are considered occasional if they are performed once a year.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Taxable persons that have a business establishment in Romania and who do not exceed the VAT registration threshold may opt to register for VAT purposes in Romania. Taxable persons not established in Romania may opt to register for VAT purposes in case of:

- Imports of goods
- Sale/rental of real estate subject to VAT

Group registration. VAT grouping is allowed under Romanian VAT law. Under the rules currently in effect, a minimum of two taxable persons may form a fiscal group if all the members meet the following conditions:

- They are established in Romania
- They do not belong to another fiscal group
- They use the same tax period
- Their capital is held directly or indirectly in a proportion of more than 50% by the same shareholders

All members of a VAT group in Romania are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

The minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group is two years.

However, VAT grouping is allowed only for VAT reporting (for consolidation purposes).

Holding companies. In Romania, a pure holding company cannot be a member of a VAT group.

The VAT grouping in Romania is allowed between taxable persons established in Romania, independent from a juridical point of view and who are in a close link from a financial, economic and organizational point of view. A close link from a financial, economic and organizational point of view is considered to be there if the taxable persons involved have capital owned directly or indirectly of more than 50% by the same associates.

The legislation does not mention the case of pure holding companies. However, a pure holding would not be VAT registered, as it would not perform economic activities.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f) has been implemented in Romania. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in Romanian VAT law).

For the supplies of services by independent groups of persons, where such operations are exempt or do not fall within the scope of VAT, a cost-sharing group can be set up for the purpose of providing their members with services directly related to the exercise of their activities. This only applies if those groups request their members the reimbursement of their share of the common costs only, within certain limits and under certain conditions and provided that such exemption does not distort competition.

Fixed establishment. According to the Romanian Fiscal Code, a taxable person who has the seat of economic activity outside Romania is considered to be established in Romania if it has a fixed establishment in Romania, respectively, if it has sufficient technical and human resources in Romania to carry out regular supplies of goods and/or services.

Non-established businesses. A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity in Romania is deemed to be established in Romania for VAT purposes.

A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity outside Romania is considered to be established for VAT purposes in Romania if it has a fixed establishment in Romania, which means that it has sufficient technical and human resources to perform, on a regular basis, taxable supplies of goods and/or services.

A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity outside Romania and a fixed establishment in Romania is not deemed to be established in Romania for the supplies of goods and services performed in Romania in which the Romanian fixed establishment is not involved.

The seat of its economic activity is deemed to be the place where the management decisions of a taxable person are taken and where the functions of its central administration are performed. To determine where a taxable person has the seat of its economic activity, certain factors should be taken into account, such as the place where the directors meet and where the company sets its general policy.

In general, a non-established business must register for VAT if it undertakes a range of activities, such as the following:
- Intra-Community acquisitions of goods in Romania
- Intra-Community supplies of goods in Romania

- Transfers of its own goods to Romania
- Sending goods to Romania from another EU country for processing with the finished products not returning to the EU country of dispatch
- Distance sales in excess of the annual threshold of EUR10,000
- Exports of goods

A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity outside Romania but has a fixed establishment in Romania must register for VAT purposes in Romania before receiving a service for which it is liable to pay the VAT or before supplying a service from this fixed establishment to a taxable person that is liable to pay VAT in another EU Member State.

A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity in Romania but is not registered for VAT purposes in Romania must register for VAT purposes if it supplies services with a place of supply in another EU Member State, for which the beneficiary is liable to pay the tax.

A taxable person that has the seat of its economic activity in Romania but is not registered for VAT purposes in Romania must register for VAT purposes if it acquires services from a supplier established in another EU Member State and if such taxable person, as the beneficiary of the services, is liable to pay the tax.

VAT registration is not required if an entity that is neither established nor registered for VAT in Romania makes a local supply of goods or services and the recipient is an established taxable person, nontaxable legal person (for example, a public authority) or is a non-established taxable person that is registered for VAT in Romania.

Taxable persons not established and not registered for VAT purposes in Romania may apply for VAT registration if they carry out imports of goods into Romania, taxable supplies of immovable property or rental of immovable property in Romania.

Tax representatives. A non-established, non-EU entity that performs taxable operations in Romania and that is required to register for VAT purposes must appoint a tax representative. A taxable person that is established in the EU may appoint a tax representative but may also choose to register for VAT in its own right (direct VAT registration).

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to the following transactions, among others:

- Intra-Community acquisitions of goods and services
- Local supplies of goods and services made by non-established and unregistered entities to customers that are registered for VAT in Romania
- Imports: the reverse charge may be applied to imports exclusively by:
  - Taxable persons registered for VAT in Romania who have obtained a specific VAT payment deferment certificate
  - Taxable persons registered for VAT in Romania benefiting of authorized economic operator
  - Taxable persons registered for VAT in Romania who obtained authorization to submit a customs declaration in the form of an application in the records of the declarants
  - Taxable persons registered for VAT in Romania performing imports of certain goods for which domestic reverse charge is applicable (i.e., wood, cereals, mobile phones, laptops, etc.)

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse charge in Romania applies to the following supplies:

- Local supplies of certain categories of goods, such as ferrous and nonferrous waste, grain crops, wood and transfer of green and CO2 certificates performed between entities registered for VAT purposes in Romania
- Supplies of electrical energy and natural gas performed by a taxable person registered for VAT in Romania to a Romanian VAT-registered taxable person acting as taxable dealer

- Taxable supplies of immovable property in Romania by a taxable person registered for VAT in Romania to a Romanian VAT-registered taxable person
- Taxable supplies of investment gold and taxable supplies of raw materials and semi-finished gold having a title higher or equal with 325 to a thousand (the proportion of fine precious metal contained) to a Romanian VAT-registered taxable person
- Supply of mobile phones, laptops, tablets, game consoles or other devices with integrated circuits by a taxable person registered for VAT in Romania to a Romanian VAT-registered taxable person (provided that the value of the goods supplied mentioned on an invoice is higher than RON22,500)

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see the Section B. Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the EU chapter.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In Romania, non-EU businesses are required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the Romanian VAT due on these transactions having the place of supply in Romania. EU businesses, on the other hand, can obtain a direct VAT registration in Romania or may opt to appoint a fiscal representative.

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:

- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

As per the Romanian VAT rules, persons that carry on activities falling under the EU OSS regime may opt to apply this regime and will request the special registration in Romania if they fall in the following categories:
- Taxable persons (including electronic interfaces that facilitate B2C supplies of goods made locally in Romania by non-EU taxable persons) who have their registered office in Romania or, if they are not established in the EU, have a fixed establishment in Romania
- Taxable persons who do not have their registered office in the EU but have more than one fixed establishment in the EU, including in Romania, and choose Romania as the Member State of registration

In addition, in case of distance sales of goods, the EU OSS regime (and special registration in Romania) may also be used by taxable persons who are not established in the EU and do not have a fixed establishment in Romania:
- If the goods subject to distance sales are dispatched/transported from Romania
- If the distance sales refer to goods dispatched/transported from different Member States, including Romania, and the taxable person chooses Romania as the state of registration

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the EU chapter.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance ales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

As per the Romanian VAT rules, IOSS may be used, directly or through an intermediary, by taxable persons having their registered office in Romania or, if they are not established in the EU, having a fixed establishment in Romania.

Persons not established in the EU may use IOSS in Romania by appointing an intermediary. Alternatively, IOSS may be used directly, if the non-EU person is established in a third country with which the EU has concluded a mutual assistance agreement and that persons performs distance sales of goods imported only from the respective third country.

IOSS may also be used by taxable persons who do not have their registered office in the EU, but who have more than one fixed establishment in the EU, including in Romania, and choose Romania as the Member State of registration.

For more details about the IOSS, see the EU chapter.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination, and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal services and couriers scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value

(i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

As per the Romanian VAT rules, when Romania is the country of importation, the person presenting goods in customs must submit to the competent customs authority, in electronic format, a special monthly VAT return containing information on the total amount of VAT collected in the respective calendar month. If this special scheme is applied, the imports are subject to the standard 19% VAT rate (even if under normal circumstances the goods are subject to a reduced VAT rate).

Moreover, the person presenting the goods to customs must submit the special VAT return and pay the VAT collected in the respective month, by the 16th day of the month following the reporting calendar month. Persons using this mechanism should keep special registers containing information that would allow the Romanian fiscal or customs authorities to check the correctness of the VAT return. These records must be made available, on request, electronically and kept for a period of 10 years from the end of the year in which the operations were carried out.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the EU chapter.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:

- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply)
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

As per the Romanian VAT legislation, where a taxable person, through the use of an electronic interface such as an online marketplace, a platform, a portal or other similar means, facilitates the supply of goods or services to a nontaxable person in the EU, the taxable person who facilitates the supply of goods or service is obliged to keep records in this respect. The respective registers must contain information that would allow the fiscal authorities to verify if the VAT has been highlighted correctly, in the situation where the respective supplies of goods or services are taxable in Romania. The registers must be made available to the competent tax authorities, upon request, electronically, and must be kept for a period of 10 years from the end of the year in which the operation was carried out.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the EU chapter.

Vouchers. Vouchers can be single-purpose (SPVs) or multi-purpose (MPVs). A voucher is defined as an instrument by which a supplier is obliged to accept it as partial or total payment for a supply of goods or services. The payments received for the sale of an SPV are deemed as advance payments for which VAT is due. An SPV is a voucher for which the place of supply and the VAT liability of the goods/services for which the voucher may be redeemed are known at the time the voucher is issued. An MPV is a voucher other than the SPV. The sale of an MPV does not trigger a VAT liability.

Registration procedures. Established or non-established taxable persons applying (as a requirement or by option) for a VAT registration in Romania must file specific forms depending on the type of VAT registration. The forms are available in electronic format and must be submitted electronically and only in Romanian language directly by the taxable person or by proxy.

Foreign operators may register for VAT purposes in Romania as follows:
- Nonresident taxable persons who are not established within the community and who have the obligation to appoint a tax representative are administered by the tax administration with competence for the administration of the tax representative (which keeps the record of the tax representative chosen as taxable person).
- Nonresident taxable persons established in the community who register directly in Romania are administered by the tax authority with competence for the administration of nonresident taxable persons, namely the specialized section of the Bucharest Directorate General for Public Finance at 1 Presei Libere Square, C3 building, 1st District, Bucharest, Romania, telephone 021.317.89.67.
- Nonresident taxable persons who have their business established outside Romania and who are established in Romania through one or several fixed establishments are administered by the tax authority whose territorial competence covers the fixed establishment designated to submit VAT returns.

The contact details concerning the departments, addresses, telephone, fax, email and other useful information may be obtained from the webpage of the National Tax Administration Agency (https://www.anaf.ro).

As per the general rule, taxable persons are required to register for VAT purposes in Romania prior to performing the operations triggering the VAT registration obligation.

Depending on the type of VAT registration, the time frame in which the Romanian tax authorities should issue the VAT registration number is:
- 30 days from the date of submission of the complete documentation when the registration is through a tax representative
- 10 days from the date of submission of the documentation when registration is through other means

The date from which the taxable person is considered registered is the date when the VAT registration certificate is communicated by the Romanian tax authorities (i.e., the hand-over date, the post date, as the case may be). Other dates may apply, depending on the reason for the VAT registration (e.g., the VAT exemption threshold was exceeded).

Deregistration. Taxable persons with annual turnover less than RON300,000 may request deregistration by the 10th day of the month following the fiscal period applied by the taxable person.

Changes to VAT registration details. In case any changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details occur (e.g., change of fiscal address) the taxable persons must submit Form 050 along with the certificate from the chamber of commerce, the new unique identification code issued by the chamber of commerce, the proof of owning/renting the new space and other documents solicited by the relevant tax authorities. The documents must be submitted in paper form at the relevant tax authorities' office.

Based on the Romanian VAT law in case any changes to a taxable person's the VAT registration details occur, the taxable person must notify the tax authorities within 15 days since such changes took place.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 19%
- Reduced rates: 5%, 9%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0% (i.e., exempt with credit)

- Exports of goods
- Transport services and other services directly linked to exports of goods
- International transport of passengers
- Intra-Community supplies of goods (specific provisions)

Examples of goods and services taxed at 5%

- Books, newspapers, magazines and school manuals (except those intended exclusively for publicity)
- Access to museums, castles, cinemas, zoological and botanical gardens, memorial houses and historical sites
- Supply of firewood for individuals, legal entities and other entities such as trunks, stumps, brushwood, branches or in similar forms having certain classification codes applicable until 31 December 2029
- Supply of heating in the cold season, intended for certain categories of consumers (e.g., population, public and private hospitals, nongovernmental organizations, social service providers)

Examples of goods and services taxed at 9%

- Medicines for human and veterinary use
- Food (excluding alcohol and nonalcoholic beverages containing added sugar or other sweeteners or other flavorings, together with food with added sugar, for which the content of sugar is of minimum 10g per 100g product, other than powdered milk for infants, sweet bread (cozonac) and biscuits, for which the standard 19% VAT rate is applicable) having certain classification codes
- Fertilizers and pesticides of the type normally used in agricultural production, seeds and other agricultural products intended for the sowing or planting, as well as for supplies of services, such as those specifically used in the agricultural sector
- Supply of water for agriculture irrigation
- Irrigation and drinking water supplies
- Hotel accommodation and similar accommodation, including the rental of land for camping
- Restaurant and catering services (excluding alcohol and nonalcoholic beverages containing added sugar or other sweeteners or other flavorings,
- Chemical fertilizers and chemical pesticides of the type normally used in agricultural production (applicable until 31 December 2031)
- Supply and installation of photovoltaic panels, solar thermal panels, heat pumps and other high-efficiency heating systems that meet specific parameters, including installation kits, as well as all separately purchased necessary components, intended for dwellings, central or local public administration buildings, buildings of entities under their coordination/subordination, excluding commercial companies (buyers must perform a declaration on own responsibility, according to the model from Annex to the Romanian Fiscal Code)
- Supply and installation of components for repairing and/or extending the systems of photovoltaic panels, solar thermal panels, heat pumps and other high-efficiency heating systems that meet specific parameters, including installation kits, as well as all separately purchased necessary components, intended for dwellings or the supply of these systems as integrated parts of construction deliveries or as optional additions to the supply of a construction (buyers must submit a declaration on own responsibility, according to the model from Annex to the Romanian Fiscal Code)

- Access to amusement and recreational parks and sporting events
- Supply of social housing (including related land); for this purpose, social housing includes, but is not limited to, houses that are a maximum of 120 square meters and that do not exceed RON600,000 in value (net of VAT) (approx. EUR120,000 from 1 January 2023); the reduced 9% VAT rate applies for the supplies performed toward individuals and only if the house can be used as such after the sale; any natural person can purchase, starting from 1 January 2024, individually or jointly with another natural person/other natural persons, a single house whose value does not exceed the amount of RON600,000, exclusive of VAT, with a reduced rate of 9%; by exception to the above provisions, it is proposed to maintain the reduced 5% VAT rate between 1 January and 31 December 2024, for legal acts concluded between 1 January and 31 December 2023, that have as object the advance payment for the purchase of such houses. Any acquisitions with respect to the reduced VAT rate should be included in the specific "Register of housing acquisitions with reduced VAT rate"

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Specific banking and financial operations
- Insurance and reinsurance
- Medical services
- Education
- Specific hiring, concession, leasing or letting of immovable property (unless option to tax is exercised)
- Sale of "old" buildings (unless option to tax is exercised)
- Re-imports of Romanian goods repaired abroad (equivalent to the exported goods)
- Imports of natural gas through specific distribution systems and electricity
- Prostheses of any type and accessories (except dental prostheses)
- Orthopedic products
- Construction, rehabilitation, modernization of hospitality units from the public network
- Delivery of medical equipment, machines, devices, safety equipment, materials, and consumables for sanitary use in the field of health care or for the use of disabled persons, essential goods for compensation and overcoming disabilities, as well as adaptation, repair, rental and leasing of such goods to public hospitality units from the public network or the ones owned and used by nonprofit entity

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Any taxable person may opt to tax the hiring, concession, leasing or letting of immovable property and the sale of "old" buildings by means of a taxation notification submitted to the competent tax authorities.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "chargeability to tax" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when the goods are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when the services are provided. Several exceptions apply to these rules.

For intra-Community acquisitions or exempt intra-Community supplies of goods, the tax point arises on the day when the invoice is issued, the day when a self-invoice is issued or the 15th day of the month following the tax point, whichever is earlier.

Deposits and prepayments. The tax point for advance payments is when the payment is received. Special rules may apply in case of a change of tax regime, partial prepayments or partial advance invoices.

The tax point for a supply of goods, including immovable goods, with installment payments occurs when the goods are handed over to the beneficiary (unless an invoice is issued, or a payment is received before that date).

Continuous supplies of services. The time of supply for continuous supplies of services (such as telephone services, water and electricity) is on the last day of the period specified in the contract for payment or on the date of issuance of the invoice. The settlement period should not exceed one year.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Romania implemented simplification measures regarding the supply of goods under call off/consignment stock and regarding the supply of goods sent for testing.

Regarding the call off/consignment stock simplification, if the simplification measure is applied, the time of supply of goods is when the goods are taken over/further sold by the consignee to its client. The simplification regime is applied under the following specific conditions:
- The consignee is registered for VAT purposes in Romania.
- The EU Member State of origin does not consider the movement of the goods to Romania as a transfer, or it applies/accepts a similar VAT simplification regime.
- The consignee or buyer of the goods from Romania is known by the supplier when the goods are transported from another EU Member State in Romania.

For the supply of goods sent for testing under the simplification measure, the supply is deemed to take place at the date when the beneficiary accepted the goods. The simplification regime applies for goods that cannot be imported as samples.

Reverse-charge services. Certain services received by a Romanian taxable person from a foreign supplier are taxed in Romania using the reverse-charge mechanism, which means that the Romanian customer must account for the VAT due in the VAT return for the month in which the tax point occurs. In such circumstances, the customer reports the VAT as both output tax and input tax in the VAT return. If the beneficiary has a full right to deduct input tax, the charge is neutral for VAT purposes.

If no invoice is received from the foreign supplier, the Romanian beneficiary must issue a "self-invoice," which must be in a specified format, by the 15th day of the month following the month in which the services are supplied. If the beneficiary of the service is registered for VAT in Romania, the VAT due must be paid by the 25th day of the month following the month in which the tax point occurs. However, if the beneficiary is not registered for VAT in Romania under the normal regime, the reverse charge must be accounted for by using a special VAT return (with no right of deduction; consequently, the VAT due must be paid).

Leased assets. The tax point occurs on each payment deadline specified in the contract for making the payment. By way of derogation, VAT is due on the invoice date or on the date when an advance payment/prepayment is received, where such cases occur prior to the chargeable event.

Imported goods. The tax point for imported goods is the point when customs duties are due. In principle, the tax point for import VAT is the point when the goods are released into free circulation. Exceptions may apply.

Intra-Community acquisitions. VAT is due on the issue of an invoice or self-invoice, or on the expiry of the 15th day of the month following the month of the supply if no invoice/self-invoice has been issued by that time.

Intra-Community supplies of goods. VAT is due on the issue of an invoice or self-invoice, or on the expiry of the 15th day of the month following the month of the supply if no invoice/self-invoice has been issued by that time.

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in Romania for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is due on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax, offsetting it against output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

In principle, input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied within Romania, VAT paid on imports of goods, and VAT self-assessed for reverse-charge services received and for intra-Community acquisitions of goods, as well as for certain taxable transactions subject to reverse charge.

Except for certain specific cases, the amount of VAT reclaimed must be requested through the VAT return. The excess of input tax over output tax is generally refundable. Alternatively, it may be offset against future VAT liabilities.

For taxable persons that are registered for VAT purposes in Romania, the minimum amount of a VAT refund is RON5,000 (approx. EUR1,000). Any amount below this threshold may be recovered by offsetting it against other VAT liabilities.

Input tax on fiscal receipts is deductible only if the VAT code of the customer is on the receipt and the total value of the acquisition (including VAT) is lower than EUR100.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Romania is five years. The five-year time limit is from 1 January of the year following the year for which the right to occurred. The VAT legislation does not specifically provide for such a time limit. However, as per the general rules provided by the fiscal procedural code, the right of the taxable person to request the refund of the tax receivables is prescribed within five years from 1 January of the year following the year in which the right to deduct occurred.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used in the performance of operations subject to VAT (e.g., goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal expenses
- Business gifts if the individual value of each item (tangible good) is higher than RON100 (approximately EUR20) and VAT was deducted on acquisition
- Alcohol and tobacco, unless they are used for taxable supplies of goods or services

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising
- Hotel accommodation
- Conferences
- Purchase of vans and trucks, and leases of cars, vans and trucks
- Business travel expenses

Regarding the deductibility of input taxes on the acquisition of passenger road vehicles weighing no more than 3.5 tons and having a maximum of nine seats, including the driver's seat, the deductibility of the input tax on the acquisition of such vehicles – whether by purchase, intra-Community acquisition, import, rental or leasing – and on service expenses related to those vehicles is limited to 50%, if the vehicle is not used exclusively for business purposes.

However, a 100% deduction is available for vehicles used for certain specifically mentioned activities (for example, when used to render services against consideration, when used as merchandise for commercial purposes or when used by sales and purchase agents) are not subject to such provision. In this context, input tax recovery should be supported by backup documentation and logbooks.

There are limitations of VAT deduction right for real estate. The VAT deduction right will be limited to 50% in the following cases, if they are not used exclusively for business purposes:
- Purchases, rentals or leasing of buildings/living spaces, regardless of their destination, located in residential areas or in blocks of flats
- Expenses related to these buildings/living spaces

The abovementioned provisions will be applicable starting with the first day of the month following the one when Romania will obtain a derogation from the EU Council in this respect.

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to taxable supplies is fully recoverable, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is fully non-recoverable. Input tax that is attributable to both taxable and exempt supplies (such as VAT paid on overhead costs) is deductible on a pro rata basis. The pro rata method is generally based on the percentage of income generated by supplies with a right to input tax deduction, divided by total income. The calculation of recoverable VAT is based generally on the pro rata percentage for the preceding year. However, a special pro rata percentage may be used if approved by the tax authorities. Pro rata percentages may also be established for each sector of the taxable person's activity that has a partial right to claim deductions.

Input tax related to acquisitions of goods or services that may be allocated to operations allowing VAT deduction right or to operations not allowing VAT deduction right is not deducted based on a pro rata (but based on direct allocation).

In case of acquisitions destined for investments, which will be used both for operations allowing VAT deduction rights and for operations not allowing VAT deduction rights, the taxable person can deduct the VAT fully during the investment period. This VAT will be adjusted in the first year when supplies will be performed using the good resulting from the investment.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Romania. Special methods are not allowed in Romania.

Capital goods. Capital goods include any fixed tangible assets subject to depreciation, constructions and land of any kind held for the production or supply of goods or services, for rental or administrative purposes. It also includes the construction, transformation or modernization of immovable goods but excludes repairs or works of maintenance on these assets. Fixed tangible assets that are leased are deemed capital goods of the lessor.

Input tax is deducted in the year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax deducted depends on the destination or use of the good and/or on the partial exemption of the taxable person. However, the amount of input tax deducted must be adjusted over time if the destination or use of the goods changes, the capital goods cease to exist or the taxable person's partial exemption percentage changes.

In Romania, the capital goods adjustment scheme applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:
- 20 years for the acquisition, construction, transformation or modernization of an immovable property, if the transformation or modernization amounts to at least 20% of the aggregate amount of the construction thus transformed or modernized
- 5 years for other movable capital goods

Taxable persons must keep records of the capital goods subject to the adjustment of input tax to allow the verification of the tax deducted and of the adjustments made. This statement must be kept for a period starting with the date when the tax related to the acquisition of the capital goods becomes chargeable and ending five years as of expiry of the period when adjustment of the deduction can be requested. Any other entries, documents and ledgers on capital goods must be kept for a similar period.

The adjustment period must start on 1 January of the year when assets were acquired or manufactured or of the year when assets were first used after transformation or modernization. The VAT deduction must be adjusted during the tax period when the event triggering the adjustment occurs, once for the entire tax related to the remaining adjustment period.

If during the adjustment period events resulting in the adjustment in favor of a taxable person or in favor of the tax authority take place, the VAT adjustment must be carried out for the same capital goods successively during the adjustment period whenever such events occur.

Input tax related to capital goods must not be adjusted where the amount from adjustment of each capital good is lower than RON1,000 (approx. EUR200).

In Romania, the capital goods adjustment can apply to any services that result in a capital good (e.g., construction works leading to a building).

Refunds. If input tax exceeds output tax, the balance (known as the "negative VAT balance") may be treated in either of the following manners:

- Carried forward to the next period
- Compensated or refunded by the tax authorities, based on an option exercised by the taxable person in the taxable person's VAT return; this option may be exercised only for negative VAT balances exceeding RON5,000

The VAT refund application may cover eligible input tax incurred in the period beginning with the fifth year before the year in which the claim is made (under certain conditions).

In principle, a VAT refund or compensation request must be processed within 45 to 90 days (in practice, this period may be longer). Depending on certain parameters, the VAT refund can be granted with or without a prior VAT audit (the Romanian tax authorities may approve the VAT reimbursement for a taxable person registered for VAT purposes in Romania before performing a subsequent VAT audit in cases where the value of the amount requested for reimbursement is lower than RON45,000). During the VAT refund process, the tax authorities may request additional information from the taxable person. Consequently, the term for making the repayment may be extended by the number of days between the date of the request for additional information and the date on which the information is received by the tax authorities. If the refund or compensation request is not dealt with by the expiration of this term, in principle, the taxable person is entitled to receive late payment interest.

Pre-registration costs. Any taxable person is entitled to deduct VAT for the acquisitions made prior to VAT registration, when such person intends to perform an economic activity, within a period of five consecutive years. The intention of the person must be assessed based on objective elements, such as the fact that the person starts to incur costs and/or make preparatory investments required for the initiation of this economic activity.

Bad debts. Bad-debt relief may be applied only where the value of goods or services supplied cannot be received due to the bankruptcy of the beneficiary or as a result of implementation of a restructuring plan acknowledged and approved by a court decision through which a part of or the entire written-off receivable is canceled. In the case of a restructuring plan, bad-debt relief is allowed from the date of the court decision. In a bankruptcy case, bad-debt relief is allowed from the date of the court decision regarding the start of the bankruptcy.

Moreover, the taxable person may adjust the taxable base in case the total or partial value of the goods delivered, or services rendered, has not been collected from third-party individuals within 12 months of the payment period set by the parties/of the invoice date. The adjustment is performed within five years from 1 January of the year following the one in which the payment term intervened, or in its absence, of the year following the one in which the invoice was issued. The adjustment is allowed only if it is proved that commercial measures have been taken for the recovery of claims up to RON1,000 (EUR200), inclusive, respectively, that legal proceedings have been undertaken for the recovery of claims higher than RON1,000 (EUR200).

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Romania.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Romania is recoverable. The Romanian VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Romania. Non-established businesses may claim Romanian VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, the refund is made under the EU Directive 2008/9/EC. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Romania during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details see the EU chapter.

Find below specific rules for Romania:
- To obtain a refund of VAT in the Member State of refund, the taxable person who is not established in the Member State of reimbursement must make a request for reimbursement electronically to the Member State and forward it to the Member State in which it is established through the electronic portal provided by that Member State.
- The request for reimbursement must be sent to the Member State in which is set by the applicant by 30 September of the calendar year following the period of reimbursement.
- The repayment period is a maximum of one calendar year and of at least three calendar months. Refund requests can but aimed for a period of less than three months if this is the period remaining until the end of the calendar year.
- If the request for reimbursement concerns a period of repayment less than one calendar year, but greater than three months, the amount of VAT for which a refund is requested may not be less than EUR400 or its equivalent in national currency.
- If the request for reimbursement relates to a period of refund of one calendar year or for the remaining period of one calendar year, the amount of VAT may not be less than EUR50 or its equivalent in national currency.
- If the request for reimbursement is approved, the reimbursement of the approved amount must be made by the Member State of reimbursement at the latest within 10 working days from the date on which the approval decision was communicated to the applicant.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive. For full details, see the EU chapter.

Romania applies the principle of reciprocity; that is, the country where the claimant is established must also provide VAT refunds to Romania businesses.

Find below specific rules for Romania:
- The minimum claim period is three months, while the maximum period is one year.
- The minimum claim for a period of less than a year, but greater than three months, and is the equivalent in RON of EUR400. For an annual claim or a claim for a period of less than three months, the minimum amount is the equivalent in RON of EUR50.
- The deadline for refund claims is 30 September of the year following the calendar year of the reimbursement period.

To benefit from the refund, the taxable person must appoint a tax representative who will carry out the tax registration procedures for non-EU persons; the registration code assigned to the representative will be used only in the VAT refund procedures. After registration, the representative will submit the Reimbursement Application (Form 313), in electronic format, to which they will attach the supporting documents (invoices, import documents, etc.) at the address https://pfinternet.anaf.ro/ or the online filing service on the e-guvernare.ro portal) or in paper format, at the fiscal body registry or by mail (i.e., a registered letter, with acknowledgment of receipt). The refund application must be submitted to the competent central tax body in charge with administering the fiscal representative of the non-EU person.

Late payment interest. In case of late VAT refund payments to EU and non-EU businesses, the Romanian tax authorities must pay late payment interest at a rate of 0.02% per day of delay. This starts with the date when the VAT refund application should have been settled and up until the date of effective payment by the Romanian tax authorities. The refund request should be settled by the Romanian tax authorities within 45 days from the date the request has been submitted.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Romanian taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made. A VAT invoice is required to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. Invoices that contain errors may be canceled and the taxable person may issue a "reversal invoice." The amount credited must be printed on the reversal invoice and must be preceded by a minus sign. A reversal invoice must contain the same information as a VAT invoice and a cross-reference must be provided.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Romania for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Romania. Electronic invoicing is mandatory for B2G supplies, in line with EU Directive 2010/55/EU (see the EU chapter). This is with effect from 1 July 2022.

For B2B supplies, electronic is mandatory from 1 July 2024, but only for B2B supplies where the place of supply for VAT purposes is in Romania.

For B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed in Romania but not mandatory, in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU (see the EU chapter). During the period 1 July 2022 to 31 December 2023, electronic reporting of invoicing data was mandatory for invoices issued for high fiscal risk products (e.g., vegetables, fruits, alcoholic beverages, new constructions, mineral products, clothing and footwear). With effect from 1 January 2024 electronic reporting of invoicing data is extended to all categories of goods or services. With effect from 1 January 2024, electronic reporting of invoicing data is also mandatory for all B2B supplies, with a place of supply in Romania. This covers both taxable persons established in Romania and nonresidents having a VAT registration number in Romania.

After the EU Council Decision (issued in July 2023) authorizing Romania to derogate from the EU VAT Directive to adopt mandatory electronic invoicing in Romania, several provisions regarding the applicability of electronic reporting and electronic invoicing in Romania were introduced via Law 296/2023. A summary of the main changes brought by Law 296/2023 is as follows:

- For the period 1 January 2024 to 30 June 2024, economic operators established in Romania:
  - Continue to issue and transmit invoices (i.e., the traditional invoice) according to general invoicing provisions stipulated in the relevant VAT legislation (i.e., the Romanian Fiscal Code), unless both the issuer/seller and the beneficiary are registered in RO e-Factura system.

  - Are required to submit their invoices through the RO e-Factura system for B2B transactions having the place of supply in Romania within five working days since the invoice was issued, but no later than five working days from the legal deadline to issue the traditional invoice based on the VAT legislation.

- For the period starting 1 July 2024, for B2B transactions performed toward economic operators established in Romania:
  - Economic operators established in Romania are obliged to issue and communicate electronic invoices exclusively through the RO e-Factura system within five working days since the invoice was issued, but no later than five working days from the legal deadline to issue the traditional invoice based on the VAT legislation, for B2B transactions performed toward economic operators established in Romania.
  - Only the invoice communicated via RO e-Factura system qualifies as invoice for VAT purposes.
  - The e-invoice is no longer subject to acceptance by the recipient.

- For the period starting 1 January 2024, economic operators not established but registered for VAT purposes in Romania:
  - Continue to issue and transmit invoices (i.e., the traditional invoice) according to general invoicing provisions stipulated in the relevant VAT legislation (i.e., the Romanian Fiscal Code), unless both the issuer/seller and the beneficiary are registered in RO e-Factura system.
  - Are required to submit their invoices through the RO e-Factura system for B2B transactions having the place of supply in Romania within five working days since the invoice was issued, but no later than five working days from the legal deadline to issue the traditional invoice based on the VAT legislation.

The electronic invoice (under both electronic reporting and electronic invoicing scenarios) must be prepared in XML format according to specific technical requirements and must be uploaded via the RO e-Factura system managed by the Ministry of Finance and available via the virtual private space. After upload, the XML is subject to a technical validation. If validation is successful, the Ministry of Finances applies an electronic seal on the e-invoice and makes it available via the virtual private space to both the supplier and the customer. The electronic signature of the Ministry of Finances certifies that the e-invoice has been received in the RO e-Factura system.

In case the RO e-Factura system is not functional for at least 24 hours, the obligation to send the electronic invoice within RO e-Factura system is suspended until the system is restored. The legislation mentions that for such periods the taxpayers will follow the provisions of article 319 of the Romanian Fiscal Code, provided that the electronic invoice is subsequently sent via the RO e-Factura system.

The periods during which the RO e-Factura system is not functional will be published on the websites of the Romanian tax authorities/Ministry of Finance.

The following transactions are excluded from electronic reporting requirements: intra-Community supplies, exports, supplies toward beneficiaries not established and not registered for VAT purposes in Romania, simplified invoices with a total value of max. EUR100 and services for which Romanian invoicing norms do not apply.

The following transactions are excluded from electronic invoicing requirements: simplified invoices with a total value of max. EUR100.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the EU chapter.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoices are allowed in Romania if the value of the supplies covered by the invoice, including VAT, is not higher than EUR100.

Under certain conditions, if the invoice value is higher than EUR100, but lower than EUR400, and if the administrative or commercial practice of the activity sector involved or the technical conditions would make the issuing of a regular invoice extremely difficult, a simplified invoice can be issued.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Romania. For this procedure to be possible, the following conditions must be met:

- The parties must conclude a pre-invoicing agreement through which this invoicing procedure is outlined. The pre-invoicing agreement means an agreement concluded before the commencement of the invoice being issued by the customer on behalf of the supplier.
- An acceptance procedure of each invoice must exist. The acceptance procedure can be explicit or implicit and can be agreed and described in the pre-invoicing agreement or can be represented by receiving the invoice.
- The invoice must be issued on behalf of the supplier by the customer and sent to the supplier. The invoice must contain all the legal requirements for invoicing.
- The invoice must be registered in the sales ledger by the supplier if it is registered for VAT purposes in Romania.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. Goods exported from Romania are not subject to Romanian VAT. To qualify as exempt with credit, the supplier must prove that the goods left Romania. In respect of the documentation required to evidence the export of goods, a taxable person should, in principle, hold the supporting documentation attesting the VAT exempt nature of these transactions (e.g., an invoice compliant with the Romanian VAT legislation requirements, export customs declaration bearing the proof of exit from EU territory of the goods – for exports, documents from the Romanian customs authorities confirming that the goods left Romania or, in the case of excisable products, moved under excise duty suspension using the Excise Movement and Control System (EMCS), the export report submitted to the consignor certifying that the excise goods have left EU territory).

In case the respective documentation is not available during a potential VAT audit performed by the tax authorities, there is a high risk that the tax authorities will deny the applicability of the VAT exemption and assess additional VAT liabilities, as well as late payment charges at the level of the company (depending on its VAT position). In respect of the documentation required to evidence intra-Community supplies documentation, from 1 January 2020, the following is required:

- Invoice containing all the mandatory information provided by the Romanian VAT law, which must contain the VAT number of the beneficiary from another EU Member State
- Proof that the goods were shipped from Romania to another EU Member State, which can be different than the Member State attributing the VAT identification number of the customer
- The supplier should correctly report the intra-Community supply in its recapitulative statement

No special documentation applies in Romania for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply. With respect to the proof of transport, the EU Implementing Regulation number 282/2011 (Article 45a) is directly applicable and at the same time, national secondary VAT legislation sets alternative conditions for cases where presumptions are not met. Hence interaction between the EU regulation and national legislation should be carefully considered.

The invoices should also mention the legal basis (e.g., a reference to the relevant provision of the Romanian Fiscal Code or of the Council Directive).

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice for a transaction that takes place in Romania is issued in a foreign currency, the VAT amount must be converted into the domestic currency, which is the Romanian lei (RON). This must be done by using the rate published by the National Bank of Romania, the bank in charge of the payment transfers or the European Central Bank. The conversion must be calculated for the date on which the tax point for the transaction occurred or would have occurred if the VAT cash-in system had not been applied. The parties to the transaction must mention the applicable method in the contract.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Special rules apply to the place of supply for supplies of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services to nontaxable customers. Romanian suppliers of these services are required to issue full VAT invoices to nontaxable customers.

By way of exception, a taxable person is exempt from the obligation to issue full VAT invoices for the following supplies, unless the customer requests a full VAT invoice:

- Supplies of goods and services through retail shops, supplying to the general public for which the issuance of fiscal receipts is mandatory
- Supplies of goods and services provided to customers that are not VAT registered (nontaxable) other than nontaxable legal persons for which the issuance of approved legal documents without the buyer's nomination is mandatory, such as: transport of passengers based on travel tickets or subscriptions, ticket access to shows, museums, cinemas, sports events, fairs and exhibitions
- Supplies of goods and services provided to customers that are not VAT registered (nontaxable) other than nontaxable legal persons, which by their nature do not allow the supplier to identify the beneficiary, such as: deliveries of goods through commercial vending machines, car parks cash-out and electronic recharging services for prepaid calling cards

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In Romania, examples of what records that must be held for VAT purposes include financial documents based on which the VAT statements were prepared, together with the VAT statements.

In Romania, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Such documents can be held in or outside of Romania. Records may be held outside Romania, if the records can be made readily available to the tax authorities upon request.

Record retention period. The archiving of the financial accounting documents based on which the VAT statements were prepared, as well as the VAT statements, must be ensured for a period of 10 years (or in case of immovable capital goods, 20 years).

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Romania. The taxable person must ensure the storage of copies of invoices issued (or issued by the customer/a third party on behalf of the supplier), as well as of all invoices received. Invoices may be stored on paper or electronically, regardless of the original form in which they were sent or made available.

The taxable person may decide the place of storage for the invoices, provided such documents are made available to the competent tax authorities without any delays and whenever requested. Nonetheless, such storage place may not be located on the territory of a country with which there is no legal instrument concerning mutual assistance.

By way of exception, taxable persons having the seat of their economic activities in Romania or established in Romania through a fixed establishment must store invoices issued and received, other than electronic invoices, on Romanian territory.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Taxable persons with annual turnover below the RON equivalent of EUR100,000 must submit VAT returns quarterly. However, taxable persons who submit quarterly VAT returns must submit monthly VAT returns, effective from the date on which they perform a taxable intra-Community acquisition in Romania. All other taxable persons submit VAT returns monthly.

The due date is the 25th day of the month following the end of the return period. All taxable persons must file their VAT returns electronically. The relevant VAT returns must be signed by the taxable person using a qualified certificate issued by a provider of certification services.

Periodic payments. Payment in full is required by the same date as the VAT return submission deadline, i.e., the 25th day of the month following the end of the return period. All VAT liabilities must be paid in Romanian lei (RON). The payment must be performed through a bank transfer. As of 1 February 2020, the VAT split-payment mechanism no longer applies in Romania.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Romania for all taxable persons. Submision of VAT returns are performed through means of a digital certificate, which can be obtained only by Romanian individuals based on specific forms submitted with the competent tax administration.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Romania.

Special schemes. Small enterprises. If the turnover is less than EUR88,500 per year, the taxable person can apply the special exemption.

Travel agents. Where the taxable base of the services rendered is the profit margin obtained from the sale of the respective services, exclusive of VAT.

Secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items and antiques. Where the taxable base for the supplies of goods is the profit margin obtained from the sale of the respective goods, exclusive of VAT. By way of derogation, for supplies of works of art, collectors' items or antiques imported by the taxable dealer, the purchase price to be taken into account in calculating the profit margin must be equal to the taxable base on importation plus the VAT due or paid on importation.

Investment gold. This scheme applies to the supplies, intra-Community acquisitions and importation of investment gold, including investment in securities; and intermediary services in respect of supplies of investment gold.

Cash accounting: For taxable persons registered for VAT purposes in Romania and having the seat of its economic activity in Romania, whose turnover in the previous calendar year does not exceed RON4.5 million (approx. EUR900,000), as well as taxable persons established in Romania that apply for a VAT registration during the year and opt to apply the VAT cash accounting system starting with the VAT registration date or at a later date.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Romania.

Supplementary filings. Informative statement. All taxable persons that are registered for VAT in Romania must also submit an informative statement to the Romanian tax authorities. In principle, this statement must include all local supplies and acquisitions performed between taxable persons registered for VAT purposes in Romania made in the reporting period.

The Form 394 includes, inter alia, acquisitions from Romanian persons not registered for VAT purposes in Romania, acquisitions from taxable persons established outside Romania and not registered for VAT purposes in Romania and that do not have the liability to register for VAT purposes in Romania – reverse charge at the beneficiary, etc.

The due date is the 30th day of the month following the end of the period, starting with the July 2016 reporting period. The Form 394 should be submitted to the tax authorities even if no transactions were performed in the reporting month.

Intrastat. A Romanian taxable person that trades with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of either dispatches or arrivals of goods exceeds certain thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (i.e., Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (i.e., Intrastat Dispatches).

The threshold for Intrastat Arrivals and Dispatches in 2024 is RON1 million.

Romanian taxable persons must complete Intrastat declarations in RON, rounded up to the nearest whole number.

Intrastat returns must be submitted monthly. The submission deadline is the 15th day of the month following the return period.

EU Sales and Acquisitions Lists. If a Romanian taxable person makes intra-Community supplies or intra-Community acquisitions of goods in any return period, it must submit an EU sales and acquisitions list to the Romanian VAT authorities. The listing of intra-Community supplies or acquisitions is also required for qualifying services that are rendered to or received from a taxable person established in the EU and that are taxed where the beneficiary is established. This list is not required for any period during which the taxable person does not make any intra-Community supplies or acquisitions of goods/services.

The listing of intra-Community sales or acquisitions of goods and qualifying services must be submitted on a calendar monthly basis by the 25th day of the month following the relevant month.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The correction of material errors in the VAT return may be made within the limitation period of five years from 1 July of the year following that in which the return to be corrected was submitted.

Errors made when completing the tax return are considered material errors and are corrected in a specific way. VAT returns submitted by taxable persons registered for tax purposes may be corrected for material errors by the competent tax authority, either on its own initiative or at the request of the taxable person.

The correction of material errors in the VAT return at the request of the taxable person can be performed as follows:

- The taxable person submits the request for correction of material errors together with the documents necessary to justify the errors at the registry of the competent fiscal body or by post, by registered letter.
- The specialized department (the department with attributions for the reimbursement of VAT within the competent fiscal body) will communicate in writing to the taxable person the date, time and place where they must appear, as well as the documents necessary to justify the errors.
- To correct the material errors in the VAT return, the specialized department, based on its own findings or documents submitted by the taxable person, draws up a report in which it records the findings regarding the errors for which the return was requested, as well as how they will rectify these.
- Based on the report, the fiscal body draws up the correction decision, in two copies, one of which is communicated to the payer and the other is archived in its fiscal file.

Digital tax administration. In December 2023, the government issued an emergency ordinance regarding the implementation of digitization projects through the following information systems considered as being of strategic and national interests:

- RO e-Factura: national system regarding electronic invoicing
- RO e-Transport: establishment of the national system for the monitoring of road transport of goods with high fiscal risk
- RO e-Sigiliu: representing the electronic seal of goods
- RO e-SAF-T: representing the standard fiscal control file
- RO e-Case de marcat electronice: representing the national register of fiscal electronic cash registers in which economic operators have the obligation to register all B2C sales for which fiscal cash receipts are issued and ensure the remote connection of fiscal electronic cash registers to transmit fiscal data to the tax authorities

- RO e-TVA: purpose is to pre-fill information on taxable transactions into VAT returns for each reporting period by the 20th day of each month following the end of the tax period and make them available to taxable persons through the virtual private space; further, taxable persons registered for VAT purposes have the obligation to check, modify and complete the information in the VAT return according to the real tax situation and to sign and submit the VAT return according to the tax legislation in force

Standard Audit File for Tax (SAF-T). Standard Audit File for Tax (SAF-T) reporting requirements was introduced in Romania with effect from 1 January 2022. Certain categories of taxable persons are required to submit the SAF-T file, such as Romanian legal entities and Romanian entities without legal personality of foreign companies that use the double-entry accounting system, as well as nonresident companies registered for VAT purposes in Romania.

The date when the SAF-T file should be submitted depends on the taxpayer categories, as follows:

- Large taxpayers (present in this category as of 31 December 2021) from 1 January 2022, with a grace period of six months; by way of exception, for large taxpayers that were not in this category as of 31 December 2021, the date to start reporting SAF-T data is 1 July 2022, with a grace period of six months elapsing end of January 2023
- Medium-sized taxpayers (present in this category as of 31 December 2021) from 1 January 2023, with a grace period of six months
- Small taxpayers, including nonresidents registered for VAT purposes in Romania (present in this category as of 31 December 2021) from 1 January 2025
- By way of exception, financial banking institutions and insurance/reinsurance companies (i.e., large taxpayers as of 31 December 2021) from 1 January 2023 with a grace period of six months

The category of taxpayers who are required to submit the SAF-T file, also includes nonresident companies that have a VAT registration number in Romania (e.g., taxable persons registered through direct registration, taxable persons registered through a tax representative, fixed establishments). In the specific case of taxable persons registered through a tax representative, the date when the SAF-T file will become mandatory depends on the taxpayer category in which the tax representative is included (as detailed above).

The Romanian SAF-T file contains detailed accounting and tax information from: general ledger, accounts receivable, accounts payables, stocks and fixed assets, in line with the recommendations under OECD 2.0 SAF-T version. Simplified reporting was introduced for nonresidents having a VAT registration number in Romania.

The SAF-T file (i.e., Informative Statement D406) should be submitted in electronic format. The submission deadline is as follows:

- No later than the last calendar day of the month following the reporting period (calendar month/quarter, as appropriate), for information other than stocks and fixed assets
- No later than the deadline for submitting the financial statements for the financial year, in case of the informative statement D406 for fixed assets
- By the deadline established by the tax authorities, which may not be less than 30 calendar days from the date of the request, in case of the Informative Statement D406) for stocks

However, given the complexity of this new reporting requirement, taxpayers are granted a grace period for the submission of the first statements, from the date when the submission requirements become effective for each category of taxpayer. The grace period is computed as follows:

- Six months for the first reporting, five months for the second reporting, four months for the third reporting, three months for the fourth reporting and two months for the fifth reporting, in case of monthly reporting
- Three months in case of quarterly reporting

RO e-Transport. RO e-Transport is a system developed by the Romanian tax authorities with the purpose of monitoring the transports of high fiscal risk goods on the national territory and the international road transports of goods as regulated by Regulation (EC) no. 1072/2009 of the European Parliament and of the Council. Users having the obligation to report transports shall include certain data connected with the goods being transported in a structured XML format uploaded via the RO e-Transport system, which will return a unique number (UIT). The categories of vehicles subject to RO e-Transport are those with a maximum technically authorized mass of at least 2.5 tons, loaded with goods with fiscal risk with a total gross weight of more than 500 kg or a total value of more than RON10,000, related at least to a consignment of goods, which is the subject of the transport.

The types of goods with high fiscal risk that must be declared in connection with their transport on the national territory are:
- Vegetables, plants, roots and tubers, foodstuffs, falling within CN Codes 0701 to 0714 inclusive
- Edible fruits; peel of citrus fruits or melons, falling within CN Codes 0801 to 0814 inclusive
- Beverages, alcoholic beverages and vinegar, falling within CN Codes 2201 to 2208 inclusive
- Salt; sulfur; earth and stones; plaster, lime and cement, falling within CN Codes 2505 and 2517
- Articles of apparel and clothing accessories, knitted or crocheted, falling within CN Codes 6101 to 6117 inclusive
- Articles of apparel and clothing accessories, other than knitted or crocheted, falling within CN Codes 6201 to 6212 inclusive and to CN Codes 6214 to 6217 inclusive
- Footwear, gaiters and the like; parts of these articles, falling within CN Codes 6401 to 6405 inclusive
- Cast iron, iron and steel, falling within CN Codes 7213 and 7214

The data that must be declared in the system refers to information about the consignor, the beneficiary or consignee, goods (name, characteristics, quantities, and value of the goods transported), loading and unloading places, means of transport used and the carrier (including car plate number of the vehicle transporting the goods), date declared for the start of the transport.

Users are subject to reporting transports on the national territory related to operations with such high fiscal risk goods such as intra-Community acquisitions, intra-Community supplies, imports, exports, local transports (including local supplies, transfers between two managements points, returns of goods), etc.

At the time of preparing this chapter, with regard to the international road transports of goods, all types of goods transported to/from Romania in connection to a intra-Community acquisition/supply of goods, import/export or transit through Romania must be declared. For this category, fines are applicable with effect from 1 July 2024.

The transports should be declared up to three days before the start of the transport but until the presentation at the border/place of import/until the actual start of the transport/effective movement of the vehicle. The validity is five calendar days from the date declared for the start of transport and 15 days for intra-Community acquisitions and intra-Community transit operations.

RO e-Sigiliu. RO e-Sigiliu is a system developed by the tax authorities with the purpose of ensuring compliance with the traceability of road transport of goods on the territory of Romania. The national system involves the use of electronic devices that record data and transmit to the competent authorities, status and position information through an IT application, to track the movement of goods by road. The application of smart seals and monitoring of road transport of goods on the national territory is carried out by the competent Romanian authorities on the basis of a risk analysis.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Penalties of RON1,000 to RON5,000 (approx. EUR200 to EUR1,000) for large and medium sized taxable persons and of RON500 to RON1,000 (approx. EUR100 to EUR200) for other taxable persons who apply for late registration for VAT purposes.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For the late payment of VAT, late payment interest (0.02% per day of delay) and late payment penalties (0.01% per day of delay) apply. Separate penalties range from RON1,000 to RON5,000 and are assessed for delays in submitting VAT returns.

The interest rate that may be claimed by a taxable person for late refunds will be 0.02% per day of delay.

For Intrastat, a penalty of RON7,500 to RON15,000 (approx. EUR1,500 to EUR3,000) may be imposed for late submissions.

For EU Sales and Acquisitions List, a failure to submit an EU sales and acquisitions list reporting sales or acquisitions of goods by the due date is subject to a fine ranging from RON1,000 to RON5,000 (approx. EUR200 to EUR1,000).

For SAF-T, failure to submit the Informative Statement D406 within the deadlines provided by law, or submitting incorrect or incomplete information, will be subject to fines as follows:
- A fine ranging from RON1,000 to RON5,000 for failure to submit this statement within the legal deadline
- A fine ranging from RON500 to RON1,500 for submitting incorrect or incomplete statements

Penalties for errors. For obligations unreported or reported inaccurately, a penalty of 0.08% per day of delay applies for unreported obligations established through a tax decision.

For Intrastat, a penalty of RON7,500 to RON15,000 may be imposed for missing or inaccurate declarations.

For EU Sales and Acquisitions List, submission of such list with incorrect or incomplete amounts is subject to a fine ranging from RON500 to RON1,500 (approx. EUR100 to EUR300). The fine does not apply if the taxable person corrects voluntarily the EU Sales and Acquisitions List by the due date for the submission of the next EU Sales and Acquisitions List.

Penalties for noncompliance with the RO e-Transport system in connection with transports of high fiscal risk goods on the national territory are between EUR4,000 to EUR20,000, as well as, in some cases, seizure of countervalue of the goods not declared. With regards to the international road transports of goods, the penalties are applicable with effect from 1 July 2024.

Penalties regarding mandatory electronic invoicing and reporting are as follows:
- For the period 1 January 2024 to 30 June 2024, economic operators established in Romania:
  - Fines shall apply for non-transmission of electronic invoices through RO e-Factura system within the five working days deadline, depending on the size of the taxpayer. Note, no fines apply for the period 1 January to 31 March 2024.
- For the period starting 1 July 2024, for B2B transactions performed toward economic operators established in Romania:
  - Failure to send the invoices via the RO e-Factura system can be sanctioned with a fine equal to 15% of the invoice value (including VAT). Moreover, failure to meet the five calendar days deadline can be sanctioned at the level of the supplier with a fine between RON1,000 to RON10,000 depending on the category of taxpayer.
  - The receipt and booking of incoming invoices received outside RO e-Factura system is sanctioned with a fine equal to 15% of the invoice value (including VAT).

For the period starting 1 January 2024, economic operators not established but registered for VAT purposes in Romania:

- Fines shall apply for non-transmission of e-invoices through RO e-Factura system within the five working days deadline, depending on the size of the taxpayer. Note, no fines apply for the period 1 January to 31 March 2024.

For further details, see the subsection Electronic invoicing above.

The late notification or failure to notify he tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty between RON1,000 to RON5,000 (approx. EUR200 to EUR1,000) for middle and large taxable persons and between RON500 to RON1,000 (approx. EUR100 to EUR200) for small taxable persons. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In case of fraud, a penalty of 0.08% per day of delay penalty is increased by 100%.

Personal liability for company officers. Under criminal law, by committing the offense of tax evasion, in cases such as the omission, partially or totally, to record in the accounting documents or in other legal documents, the commercial operations carried out or the income, or the recording, in the accounting documents or in other legal documents, of the expenses that do not have as base real operations or the recording of other fictive operations.

In the simple version of the criminal offense, the sanction imprisonment from two to eight years and the prohibition of certain rights, whereas in the aggravated version, depending on the damages caused, the limits of the sanction can be increased by five years and seven years, respectively.

The company's directors may be held jointly liable with the debtor, if they caused, in bad faith, the non-declaration and/or the nonpayment of due tax duties.

Also, both the persons in the management and the supervision of the legal person (i.e., administrator, director, auditor), as well as any other persons (e.g., the shareholders, financial service responsible, heads of departments, accountants) who have determined the insolvency of the company can be held liable.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Romania is five years. The tax authorities may normally check tax-related matters retroactively for five years. In case of fiscal evasion or fraud, the reassessment period is extended retroactively for 10 years. The five-year statute of limitation period begins to run from 1 July of the year following the year for which the tax obligation is due.

Generally, a tax audit should be performed only once for each tax or duty or other amounts due to the State Budget and for each period subject to taxation. However, the tax authorities are entitled to reverify a certain period in case additional information or errors of computation that influence the results, of which tax inspectors were not aware of when performing the initial audit, arise between the completion of the fiscal audit and the expiry of the above reassessment period.

Rwanda

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Kigali GMT +2

EY
Mail address:
BP 3638
Rwanda

Street address:
6th Floor, M. Peace Plaza
Avenue de la Paix
Kigali
Rwanda

Indirect tax contacts

Francis N. Kamau
+254 736 701851
+254 20 2886000
francis.kamau@ke.ey.com

Hadijah Nannyomo
+254 729 847195
+254 20 2886000
hadijah.nannyomo@ke.ey.com

David Kilimo
+250 793 226 563
+250 788 309977
david.kilimo@ke.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Umusoro ku nyongeragaciro (Kinyarwanda)/Taxe sur la valeur ajoutee (French)
Date introduced	1 January 2001
Trading bloc membership	Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) East African Community (EAC) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Rwanda Revenue Authority (www.rra.gov.rw)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (TIN) - 000111111
VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	RWF20 million (annual)/RWF5 million (quarter)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- All goods supplied by a taxable person in Rwanda are taxable except the ones that are exempted
- Services supplied are taxable if the:
  - Service recipient and service provider are residents of Rwaenda
  - Service recipient is a resident of Rwanda, and the service is beneficial to the recipient in Rwanda

- Unless exempted under this law, an asset of a person used in business that is sold is subject to VAT unless it is proved that the taxable person was denied input tax on acquisition of that asset
- Taxable assets of the taxable person's business that is owned by the taxable person on the day of deregistration for VAT are subject to the tax that remains unpaid as of that same day
- A taxable person must pay VAT for taxable goods and services of the business that the taxable person used for its personal consumption
- Imported goods or services are taxable if they are not exempted

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Rwanda, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT.

Generally, in Rwanda, TOGC rules do not apply. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. The only exemption provided under the law is on the transfer of assets between related persons residing in Rwanda at the time of the restructuring of their business, if the business activity of a person that acquires assets persists for a period of not less than three years, and the person transferring the assets has the actual business of supplying or providing exempted goods or services.

Transactions between related parties. In Rwanda, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at an arm's-length basis. Related persons involved in a controlled transactions must have documents justifying that their prices are applied according to arm's-length principle. General rules on transfer pricing are issued by an Order of the Minister No. 003/20/10/TC of 11/12/2020. The Ministerial Order sets out the following acceptable methods of determining arm's-length prices:

- Comparable uncontrolled price method
- Resale price method
- Cost plus method
- Transactional net margin method
- Transactional profit split method
- Use of alternative method
- Selection of tested party

There is no difference between goods and services.

C. Who is liable

The consumers of taxable goods and services pay VAT. Registered taxable persons (traders), which act as the agents of the government, collect VAT. The Customs Services Department collects VAT on imported goods, while the Domestic Taxes Department collects local VAT and VAT on imported services.

A VAT registration is dependent on the attainment of a turnover threshold of RWF20 million in 12 months or RWF5 million in a quarter. Businesses that do not attain this turnover threshold may voluntarily register.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Rwanda does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. It is possible for a taxable business that is not required to register for VAT to register on a voluntary basis. The taxable person wishing to register voluntarily for VAT must log in to their respective Rwanda Development Board (RDB) portal and proceed to register online (https://brs.rdb.rw/busregonline). The registration is approved automatically, i.e., as soon as a taxable person registers, the system generates the VAT registration certificate.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Rwanda.

Fixed establishment. In Rwanda, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the Income Tax Law of Rwanda defines a permanent establishment as a known fixed place of business through which the business that gives rise to income is wholly or partially carried on. Therefore, permanent establishment rules that apply for direct taxation will be deemed as applicable for VAT. A permanent establishment includes any one of the following areas:
- Place of management
- Branch
- Factory or a workshop
- Mine, quarry or any other place for an exploitation of natural resources
- Site set for construction, construction site or a place where supervision or assembly works are carried out
- Place of provision of services, including consulting services, carried on by a person, with the support of employees or other personnel, for more than 90 days in a 12-month period, either continuously or intermittently

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment in Rwanda. A foreign business is not required to register for VAT unless it has a permanent establishment in Rwanda. A permanent establishment of a foreign business must register for VAT if it makes taxable supplies of goods or services. Other non-established businesses are not required to register for VAT. Instead, a person importing goods or services from a nonresident must pay the Rwandan VAT due.

Tax representatives. Any person allowed by law to represent a taxable person shall file the tax declarations, pay taxes due and comply with all the obligations required under law.

Any person in one of the five following categories must, upon appointment as a tax representative, communicate its new capacity to the tax administration within a period of seven days:
- The guardian or any other person responsible for custody of a minor or an incapacitated person
- A legal or judicial administrator of an estate or of a will or the heirs of such an estate
- The president, accountant or director appointed or any other representative of a company or any other legal person
- The administrator or the representative of a company or any other legal person in liquidation
- Any other person given the mandate to represent the taxable person

Also, the tax representative could be:
- The owner of an enterprise
- A partner in a partnership that has unlimited liability

Reverse charge. Imported services are subject to VAT at the standard rate of 18%. If the service in question is not locally available in Rwanda, the importer of the service is allowed to account for VAT using the reverse-charge method, that is, by including it in both output and input tax, thereby having a nil net cash flow. Taxable persons seeking to import foreign services not available in Rwanda will be required to request authorization from the minister in charge. An Order of the Minister will be gazetted to provide guidelines to taxable persons prior to the authorization to acquire foreign services not available in Rwanda.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Rwanda.

Digital economy. The Rwandan VAT law stipulates that taxable goods and services, including online supplies and taxable imported goods and services, will be subject to VAT.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for both business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) supplies would not be required to register for VAT in Rwanda unless they have a permanent establishment in Rwanda. Instead, the customer importing goods or services from a nonresident must pay the Rwandan VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Rwanda.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Rwanda. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, a Ministerial Order providing modalities for taxation of goods and services provided through online platforms is due to be gazetted.

Registration procedures. Any person who sets up a business or carries out noncommercial activities, but who is subject to tax, has the responsibility to register with the tax administration within seven days from the beginning of the business or activity or the establishment of the company.

Any person who carries out taxable activities exceeding RWF20 million in the previous fiscal year, or RWF5 million in the preceding calendar quarter, is required to register for VAT within seven days from the end of the year or quarter.

Any person may voluntarily register with the tax administration for VAT. Any changes, whether related to the taxable person or its activities shall be reported in writing to the tax administration within seven days from the day of the notice of the change. Taxable persons must register by submitting the application in hard copy for individual taxable persons and online for non-individual taxable persons.

Individual entrepreneurs register in their own names using the Individual Enterprise Registration Form and a copy of their national ID or passport. Organizations or enterprises register using the RDB online registration platform in the name of the organization. Individual taxable persons conclude their registration by completing the appropriate registration form, signing and submitting it to the tax administration and by obtaining a tax identification number (TIN). Non-individual taxable persons conclude their registration by submitting an online registration request and obtaining a TIN from the Rwanda Development Board (RDB).

Deregistration. A taxable person ceases to be liable to a particular type of tax at any time when the Commissioner General is satisfied that any one of the following circumstances is true:

- The taxable person has ceased its business or economic activity completely
- The taxable person has reduced the volume of its activities to a level that it is not liable to that particular tax
- The taxable person has paid all taxes due to the tax administration

Any registered taxable person ceasing to be liable for a tax notifies the tax administration using a modified registration form within a period of seven days from the date it is no longer required to be registered.

When the tax administration is satisfied that a person is no longer liable to be registered, it cancels the registration. Granting cancellation of registration does not stop the tax administration from carrying out audits.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any changes related to a taxable person or their activities is notified in writing to the tax administration within seven days from the notice of the change.

A taxable person who changes address (physical and electronic) must notify the tax administration. Whenever a taxable person changes their address without notifying the tax administration, all their information is delivered to their last known address.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods and their auxiliary services, including those that are already exempted
- Commission fees charged to tourists for all-inclusive tour package booking services (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Minerals sold on the domestic market (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Goods supplied in a shop ("Army shop") intended for persons working in security services as provided for by the legislation governing such a shop (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Locally assembled electric automotive vehicles, hybrid automotive vehicles, relevant batteries and their electric charging station equipment (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Local nongovernmental organizations to which goods and services are donated and acquired through funding by countries or international organizations having signed agreements with the Republic of Rwanda (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Exports of taxable services
- Goods and services supplied to diplomatic and consular missions
- Services rendered to a tourist for which value added tax has been paid

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Unprocessed agricultural products
- Financial services
- Educational services
- Medical services
- Agricultural, animal husbandry and horticultural services
- Transportation of passengers (excluding for hire)
- Sanitary pads (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Leases of a movable property by licensed financial institutions or by or for a special purpose vehicle (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Exempted goods under lease (with effect from 14 September 2023)

- Processed maize, rice and milk (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Agricultural insurance services (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Gaming activities (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Personal effects of a Rwandan diplomat returning from a foreign mission, those of a returning Rwandan national resident abroad, as well as those of any other Rwandan returning to Rwanda and entitled to a tax exemption in accordance with Customs legislation. With the exception of returning Rwandan diplomats, other persons mentioned in this subparagraph are required to have owned their vehicle for at least 12 months for the vehicle to be exempt (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Transfer of assets between related persons residing in Rwanda at the time of the restructuring of their business (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Equipment for conserving bodies of victims of the genocide against the Tutsi and its related evidence that appear on the list established by the minister in charge of commemoration of the genocide against the Tutsi and approved by the minister (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Goods or services, including imported goods and services, which are sold, assigned, exchanged or otherwise transferred to or by a special purpose vehicle as a consequence of entering into an asset-backed securitization transaction where the transaction has been approved under or is authorized by a law regulating capital market in Rwanda and the special purpose vehicle is a registered taxable person in Rwanda (with effect from 14 September 2023)
- Imported electric automotive vehicles, hybrid automotive vehicles, relevant batteries and their electric charging station equipment (with effect from 14 September 2023)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Rwanda.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In Rwanda, the tax point is the earliest of the following events:

- The goods or services are supplied
- An invoice is issued
- Payment is received for all or part of the supply
- Date on which goods are either removed from the supplier's premises or given to the recipient
- Date on which a taxable person applies for deregistration from the VAT

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Rwanda for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, in practice in relation to construction contracts, advance payments do not qualify as taxable supplies.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Rwanda for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). Therefore, for supplies of goods and services that are provided against periodic payments (e.g., where there is a monthly billing for an ongoing service), each such installment constitutes a taxable supply for VAT purposes.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Rwanda for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Rwanda for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). Where the time of supply rule for imported services is the same as for local taxable supplies.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Rwanda for leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the date on which the goods enter Rwandan territory under the Customs legislation, i.e., at the Customs point in accordance with the Customs legislation.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. Input tax is claimed by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services purchased in Rwanda and VAT paid on imports of goods and services.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Rwanda is the first VAT period after incurring the expense, i.e., within the month in which the invoice is dated.

Nondeductible input tax. VAT may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered on certain business expenses/overheads.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Passenger vehicle, or spare parts or repair and maintenance services for such a vehicle
- Business gifts
- Business entertainment
- Fuel for vehicles (apportioned)
- Mobile telephone bills (apportioned)
- Utilities (apportioned)

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase of inventory
- Consultancy services
- Payment of legal fees

Partial exemption. VAT directly related to making exempt supplies is not recoverable. A registered person who makes both exempt and taxable supplies cannot recover input tax in full.

Under Rwandan VAT law, if a taxable person supplies both taxable and exempt goods and services, only input tax attributable to taxable supplies may be recovered. The amount of the claimable input tax is determined using a standard method or an attribution method approved by the Commissioner General.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Rwanda. Special methods are not allowed in Rwanda.

Capital goods. Input tax incurred in respect of capital goods purchased during the tax period is claimable if all goods or services supplied by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies. Where a taxable person supplies both taxable and exempt goods and services, only input tax attributable to taxable supplies may be recovered.

Refunds. A taxable person may claim a refund of input tax in excess of output tax. The claim for a VAT refund can be made within one month after the date on which the tax became payable.

Pre-registration costs. A newly registered taxable person is allowed to claim input tax credit in respect of goods that were in their store or stock at the close of the last day prior to registration. Within one month after the date on which a person becomes registered, the person may file a claim for relief from VAT paid on stock held (goods held for trading) before registration.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Rwanda.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred in relation to noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Rwanda.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Rwanda is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A supplier of taxable goods and services must issue a tax invoice to the purchaser at the time of supply.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply of goods or services. Credit notes must show the same information as a tax invoice. For a credit note to be valid, it must meet the following conditions:
- Reflect a genuine mistake, overcharge or agreed price reduction
- Be issued within 24 months from the date of original invoice issuance
- Be headed "Credit note"

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Rwanda for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Rwanda. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Rwanda.

The issuance of electronic invoices is required for all registered taxable persons, irrespective of the value or amount of the item being sold. However, non-registered suppliers are not authorized to issue electronic invoices, which makes them subject to a withholding tax of 15%. However, due to their nature some items, such as income on deposits, foreign exchange gains, etc., are not applicable for electronic invoicing.

Electronic invoicing using electronic billing machines (EBMs) supplied by vendors authorized by the tax administration is mandatory for all taxable persons, unless the taxable person in question has a specific exemption granted by the Commissioner General from the use of an EBM. In other words, every commercial invoice issued by a taxable person must invariably be accompanied by a corresponding EBM receipt generated from the EBM that is directly linked to the RRA IT system. There are prohibitive penalties for nonuse or fraudulent use of EBMs by taxable persons. There are also VAT incentives to reward final consumers who present the tax administration with an electronic invoice. The modalities and value of the reward will be gazetted through an Order of the Ministerial.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Rwanda. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Rwanda.

Proof of exports. Goods exported from Rwanda are zero-rated. However, to qualify for zero-rated exports must be supported by evidence that proves the goods left Rwanda. Suitable evidence includes the following documents:
- A sales invoice
- A bill of lading, road manifest or airway bill
- A Customs export entry (document issued by Customs as evidence that goods have been cleared to leave Rwanda's Customs territory)

Foreign currency invoices. Foreign currency invoices are handled in the same manner as invoices in the domestic currency, the Rwandan franc (RWF). Foreign denominated invoices are converted using the prevailing National Bank of Rwanda (BNR) exchange rate as at the invoice date. If there is no existing applicable exchange rate for a certain currency used by the BNR, the applicable rate is computed on the BNR exchange rate for the United States dollar (USD) and a published cross-rate for that currency in question against the USD.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Rwanda. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Rwanda, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Sales and purchases records
- Record of assets and liabilities
- Records of daily income and expenses related to the business activity
- Records of stock inventory at the end of the accounting period
- Information related to controlled transactions

In Rwanda, VAT books and records must be held within the country, either on the premises of the taxable person or in any other place located in Rwanda.

Record retention period. The statutory period for archiving of accounting and tax records is 10 years starting from 1 January following the fiscal year to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Rwanda. However, there are no specific provisions in the Rwandan VAT law on the electronic archiving of records. In practice, the tax administration requests for physical copies of tax records during a tax audit. It is therefore prudent for a taxable person who has an electronic archiving system to also maintain physical copies of the invoices.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT tax period is either one month or calendar quarter. Returns must be filed by the 15th day after the end of the tax period. If the normal filing date falls on a public holiday or on a weekend, the VAT return must be submitted on the next working day after such day.

Periodic payments. Payment is due in full by the same date as the VAT return submission deadline, i.e., by the 15th day after the end of the tax period. A "nil" return must be filed if no VAT is payable. Tax payment must be made through cash, check or bank transfer. A refund claim return must be filed if input tax exceeds output tax in a given tax period.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Rwanda for all taxable persons. Taxable persons are required to upload the relevant annexures and submit the tax declaration online (https://etax.rra.gov.rw/).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Rwanda.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Rwanda.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Rwanda.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Rwanda.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Taxable persons can revise previously submitted declarations at any time. However, if the revisions lead to an increase in the VAT payable, penalties and interest will apply. Nonetheless, the payment of penalties and interests can be waived in cases of self-disclosure. The taxable person must apply in writing to the Commissioner General before making any revisions which result in a reduction of the VAT payable.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Rwanda.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. An administrative fine of 50% of the amount of output tax is assessed for the entire period of operation without VAT registration in the event of late registration by businesses that meet the turnover threshold.

In addition, non-registration may be assessed for RWF300,000 as a fixed administrative fine.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Administrative fines for non-declaration and nonpayment of tax are:
- 20% of tax due when the taxable person exceeds the time limit for declaration and payment for a period not exceeding 30 days
- 40% of tax the taxable person should have declared and paid, if they pay within a period ranging from 31 to 60 days from the time limit for the payment
- 60% of due tax, if the taxable person exceeds the time limit for declaration and payment by more than 60 days

In addition, nonpayment may be assessed for RWF300,000 as a fixed administrative fine.

Administrative fines for late payment of tax are:
- 5% of due principal tax, when the taxable person exceeds the time limit for payment for a period not exceeding 30 days from the fixed date of payment
- 10% of the principal tax due, when the taxable person exceeds the time limit for the payment of a period ranging from 31 to 60 days from the fixed date of payment
- 20% of due principal tax, when the taxable person exceeds the time limit for payment by more than 60 days from the fixed date of payment

Interest on late payment of tax is charged at a 1.5% per month, not compounded.

Penalties for noncompliance with electronic invoicing system. Individuals who are required to generate invoices using a recognized electronic invoicing system, except for those registered for VAT, risk incurring an administrative fine of two times the value of the transaction if they fail to do so. Moreover, unregistered VAT individuals who carry out taxable transactions and provide electronic invoices with an undervalued price or quantity are subject to an administrative fine of two times the value of the transaction. Additionally, individuals who repeatedly commit the offense within two years of the first penalty are liable for double the fine.

Note, "unregistered VAT individuals" are defined as individuals who have met the VAT registration threshold but have failed to register. The punitive penalties detailed above relates to "unregistered VAT individuals" and not "registered VAT individuals" since the noncompliance of "unregistered VAT individuals" is viewed as bordering on tax fraud.

Penalties for errors. The penalties for errors in Rwanda are the same as the penalties for late payment of tax (as outlined above).

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above. However the above penalties for non-registration and nonpayment may be imposed if the VAT registration detail errors result in such failures.

Penalties for fraud. Penalties for VAT offenses include up to 100% of tax evaded and imprisonment for a term of not less than two years and not more than five years upon conviction.

Personal liability for company officers. Directors who are directly involved in the control and management of a private company are jointly liable for any tax liabilities incurred by the company if it is evident that they intentionally or negligently caused the company to incur the tax liabilities. However, this liability is determined by a court of law. Applicable penalties and interest will be as outlined above.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Rwanda is five years. This is from 1 January of the following tax period. However, if it is revealed that the taxable person intended to evade tax, the time limit can be extended up to 10 years. There is no time limit for a taxable person to voluntarily correct errors in previous returns.

Saint Kitts and Nevis

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Basseterre GMT -4

Direct queries regarding Saint Kitts and Nevis to the persons listed below in the Bridgetown, Barbados, office.

Indirect tax contacts

Marilyn M. Husbands	+ 1 (246) 467 8601 marilyn.husbands@bb.ey.com
La-Tanya Philips	+1 (246) 430 3882 la-tanya.phillips@ey.com
Dipesh Panicker	+1 (246) 467 8631 dipesh.panicker@bb.ey.com
Deirdre Craigwell-Gittens	+1 (246) 430 3900 deirdre.craigwell-gittens@bb.ey.com
Scott Barnett	+1 (246) 430 3805 scott.barnett@bb.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 November 2010
Trading bloc membership	Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM)
Administered by	Inland Revenue Department (IRD) (https://www.sknird.com/value-added-tax-vat)
VAT rates
Standard	17%
Reduced	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	XXXXXXXXX (9 digits)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	XCD150,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of taxable goods or services by a taxable person (registrant) in Saint Kitts and Nevis
- The importation of taxable goods from outside Saint Kitts and Nevis

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Saint Kitts and Nevis, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated. In Saint Kitts and Nevis, the transfer of a taxable activity as a going concern, or part of a taxable activity that is capable of separate operations, is a supply of goods made in the course or furtherance of such taxable activity. A taxable activity or part of a taxable activity capable of separate operation is disposed of as a going concern where all of the goods and services necessary for the continued operation of the taxable activity or the part of the taxable activity are supplied to the transferee; and the transferor carries on, or is carrying on, that taxable activity or the part of the taxable activity up to the time of its transfer to the transferee.

Transactions between related parties. In Saint Kitts and Nevis, the VAT Act does not refer to specific valuation rules for transactions between related parties. However, services that are imported for no consideration or for a consideration which is less than the fair market value of the services, will be valued at the fair market value of the imported services where the supplier and the recipient are related persons. Similarly, where the supply of goods or services is made by a taxable person for no consideration or for a consideration which is less than the fair market value of that supply and the supplier and the recipient are related persons, the value of the supply will be the fair market value of the supply.

C. Who is liable

The Saint Kitts and Nevis VAT Act imposes a registration requirement on any person in Saint Kitts and Nevis whose total value of taxable supplies exceeds XCD150,000 during a period of 12 or fewer months.

A person that expects to make taxable supplies greater than XCD150,000 at the beginning of any period of 365 calendar days should also apply for VAT registration in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Exemption from registration. A person shall not be required to register for VAT if the Comptroller of the Inland Revenue Department (IRD) is satisfied that the value of the taxable supplies exceeds the registration threshold solely as a result of:

- Cessation of a taxable activity carried on by the person
- Substantial and permanent reduction in the size and scale of a taxable activity carried on by the person

  Or
- Replacement of old capital goods used in connection with the person's taxable activity

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person who makes or intends to make taxable supplies in Saint Kitts and Nevis, but is not required to register, may voluntarily register for VAT. This registration is done by way of an application to the Comptroller in the form approved by the Comptroller and must contain such further information as may be required. The decision to voluntarily register a person is at the discretion of the Comptroller and an applicant will receive the decision of the Comptroller within 30 days of receipt of the application.

The Comptroller will not accept an application where the person has no local fixed place of abode or business; does not keep proper records; the Comptroller has reasonable grounds to believe that the applicant will not keep proper records or will not submit regular and reliable tax returns; or the person has not complied with its obligations under the laws relating to tax including any laws relating to customs.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Fixed establishment. In Saint Kitts and Nevis, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. A nonresident business that carries on a taxable activity would be required to register for VAT purposes if it meets the registration threshold (as outlined below).

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses are required to register for VAT if they make taxable supplies in Saint Kitts and Nevis greater than the registration threshold. A non-established business refers to a person who supplies goods and services but does not have a fixed place of business.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Saint Kitts and Nevis. However, a taxable person may appoint a tax representative if they choose to do so.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to the importation of a taxable service if the imported service is used to make exempt supplies or is used for a private or domestic purpose. Where this occurs, the taxable person importing the service is responsible for the payment of the VAT chargeable to the service. Otherwise, the non-established business must register for VAT and charge VAT locally.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules relating to the taxation of the digital economy. Non-resident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Saint Kitts and Nevis. This would only be where they meet the VAT registration threshold, and where the services provided are physically performed or used in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons are required to first register with the IRD. To register for VAT the taxable person must submit copies of its incorporation documents (Memorandum and Articles of Association); its incorporation certificate; two copies of identification for each director/shareholder or owner of the entity; and a completed registration form. Following this, the taxable person should complete the prescribed VAT registration form and submit it to Inland Revenue Department for approval and processing. The locations are as follows:

Inland Revenue Department
Bay Road
Basseterre
St. Kitts

Inland Revenue Department
Main Street
Charlestown
Nevis

The IRD is required to provide a response on the entity's registration within 21 days, unless additional documentation is required.

There is no process for online VAT registration in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Deregistration. A taxable person may deregister when they cease to carry on taxable activities and notifies the Comptroller in writing of such cessation within seven calendar days. The taxable person will ordinarily be deregistered with effect from the last calendar day of the tax period during which all such taxable activities ceased or from such other time as the Comptroller may determine.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the Comptroller, in writing, within 21 calendar days of any change in the name, address, place of business, constitution, or nature of the principal activity or activities of the taxable person; of any change of address from which, or name in which, any taxable activity is carried on by the taxable person; and any changes in circumstances if the taxable person ceases to operate or closes its taxable activity on a temporary basis, except where it closes due to a cessation of carrying on a taxable activity.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 17%
- Reduced rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods and services
- Flour
- Sugar
- Milk (not condensed, chocolate, cream or soy)
- Rice (white and brown)
- Oats
- Bread
- Infant formula
- Baby disposable diapers
- Adult disposable diapers
- Gas oils (including diesel)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Hotel accommodation
- Restaurants
- Guest house
- Inn
- Supplied by a tour operator
- Apartment room or hotel with utilities or furnishings provided by the lessor

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Insurance (vehicle, medical, life, property)
- Transportation
- Education services (tuition fees)
- Interest on loans
- Electricity
- Water (domestic)
- Doctors and dentists (most services provided)
- A sale of real property

- Legal, accounting and record package services
- Notary services
- Actuarial services
- Data processing and payroll services
- Leases

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." In general, the time of supply for goods and services supplied by a taxable person is the earliest of the following events:

- The date on which the goods are made available or delivered to the recipient or the services are performed
- The date of issuance of the invoice by the supplier
- The date on which any consideration is received for the supply

A taxable person must account for VAT in the VAT period in which the time of supply occurs, regardless of whether payment is received.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Kitts and Nevis for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. Where goods or services are supplied under an agreement that provides for periodic payments, these supplies are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement. Each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Kitts and Nevis for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Kitts and Nevis for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. Goods supplied under a rental agreement are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement, and each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

A supply of goods under a layaway agreement (agreement by which a supplier agrees to hold goods secured by a deposit until the price is paid in full by the purchaser) occurs when the goods are delivered to the purchaser.

Imported goods. VAT is payable on the importation of taxable supplies. An import of goods occurs when the goods are entered for home use for the purposes of the Customs (Control and Management) Act. Entered means the acceptance and signature by the proper officer of an entry, specification or shipping bill and declaration signed by the importer or exporter on the prescribed form in the prescribed manner, together with the payment to the proper officer by the importer or exporter of all rents and charges due to the government in respect of the goods.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

The VAT paid by a taxable person is recoverable as input tax if it relates to goods and services acquired solely for the purposes of making taxable supplies. Input tax is recovered by offsetting it against output tax (that is, tax charged on supplies made) in the VAT return for each VAT period.

Where the total amount of input tax deductible by a taxable person exceeds the output tax for that VAT period, the excess is carried forward to the next tax period and treated as input tax deductible in that period. If any of the excess remains after being carried forward for four consecutive VAT periods, the taxable person may file with the tax authorities a claim for a refund of the amount remaining.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Saint Kitts and Nevis. This means that effectively the input tax may be carried forward indefinitely until it has been expended or until a refund is applied for using the prescribed form.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal vehicles
- Fees or subscriptions for memberships in recreational clubs
- Good or services for entertainment purposes (provided it is not related to a business use)
- Good or services for the repair or maintenance of personal vehicles

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Business entertainment
- Travel expenses

Partial exemption. The Saint Kitts and Nevis VAT Act states that if all the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies, the input tax incurred in the period is deductible in full. However, if some, but not all, of the supplies made by a taxable person during the tax period are taxable supplies, a partial recovery calculation is required.

The amount of recoverable input tax is calculated based on the ratio of the value of taxable supplies made during the period compared to the total value of supplies (taxable plus exempt) made during the period.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Saint Kitts and Nevis. Special methods are not allowed.

Capital goods. There are no specific rules for input tax recovery on capital goods in Saint Kitts and Nevis. The ordinary rules regarding the recovery of input tax therefore apply. Where a capital good is used to make both taxable and exempt supplies, the taxable person is required to apportion the input tax on a reasonable basis (as determined by the taxable person, but subject to possible review by the tax authorities).

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a VAT period exceeds the amount of output tax payable for that VAT period, the excess may be refunded, provided that all VAT returns due have been submitted and the credit has been carried forward for four consecutive months.

A refund can be applied for with the Comptroller of Inland Revenue Department by submitting the specified form for the amount remaining with the documentation to the Comptroller. The Inland Revenue Department will verify all refund requests and issue refunds within three calendar months following the date the claim for the refund is filed; or if the Comptroller orders an audit, within 10 working days after the conclusion of the audit. Excess credits can also be utilized to clear off any other tax liability.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Saint Kitts and Nevis is not recoverable.

Bad debts. A taxable person can claim bad debt relief for tax paid in respect of a taxable supply made by the taxable person where the whole or part of the consideration for the supply is subsequently treated as a bad debt. The taxable person claiming this relief must satisfy the Comptroller that reasonable efforts have been made to recover the amount due and payable.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Saint Kitts and Nevis is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a tax invoice for all taxable supplies made. A tax invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. A credit note or debit note must be issued when the quantity or consideration shown on a tax invoice is altered. Credit and debit notes must contain broadly the same information as a tax invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Saint Kitts and Nevis, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Saint Kitts and Nevis. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Saint Kitts and Nevis. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

There are no provisions in the law for electronic invoicing in Saint Kitts and Nevis. However, in practice electronic invoicing can be used provided that the electronic invoice meets the same requirements as the standard paper invoice.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is allowed where the total consideration for the taxable supply is in cash and does not exceed XCD50.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Proof of exports. VAT is charged at the zero-rate (0%) on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as zero-rated, exports must be supported by evidence (e.g., export certificate or other customs document) that confirms the goods have left Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Foreign currency invoices. Where an invoice is expressed in a currency other than the domestic currency, which is the Eastern Caribbean dollar (XCD), the following rules apply:
- In the case of imports, the amount is to be converted at the exchange rate as determined by the Customs (Control and Management) Act
- In all other cases, the amount is to be converted at the exchange rate applying between the currency and the Eastern Caribbean dollar at the time the amount is taken into account

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Where a taxable person makes a taxable supply to an unregistered person (i.e., B2C), the taxable person can provide the unregistered person with a sales receipt instead of a full VAT invoice.

Records. In Saint Kitts and Nevis, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Original tax invoices, tax credit notes and debit notes received
- Copies of all tax invoices, tax credit notes and tax debit notes issued by the taxable person
- Customs documentation relating to imports and exports by the taxable person

- Accounting records relating to taxable activities and any other business activities carried on in Saint Kitts and Nevis
- Accounting records relating to taxable activities and any other related business activities carried on outside of Saint Kitts and Nevis but effectively connected to the taxable person's taxable activities in Saint Kitts and Nevis
- Any other records as may be prescribed by the regulations

In Saint Kitts and Nevis, VAT books and records must be held within the country. A taxable person must maintain the records in Saint Kitts and Nevis and must be held in the English language.

Record retention period. Records must be retained for six years after the end of the tax period to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Saint Kitts and Nevis. Paper archiving can also be used.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT period in Saint Kitts and Nevis is the calendar month. The VAT return must be filed within 15 calendar days after the end of the tax period whether or not tax is payable in respect of that period.

Periodic payments. Any tax due for the period must be remitted by the same date as the return deadline, i.e., within 15 calendar days after the end of the tax period.

Payments to the IRD can be made by credit/debit card (in person at the tax authorities' offices), direct deposit, mail (a form and check), cash/check (in person at the tax authorities' offices) and e-payment (online).

Ideally, payment should be submitted with the return, but in some instances (e.g., for wire transfer and direct deposit) this may not be possible. In such instances the payment memo should indicate what the payment is in respect of. As VAT payments are made to a different account than other tax payments, the bank account number should be verified with the VAT Department before making VAT payments via wire or direct deposit.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Saint Kitts and Nevis, but not mandatory. An electronic filing system has been implemented online in Saint Kitts and Nevis (https://www.sknird.com/). However, taxable persons still have the option to file returns manually, i.e., by paper.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Special schemes. Secondhand goods scheme. The secondhand goods scheme is mandatory for any taxable persons supplying secondhand goods. A taxable person supplying secondhand goods is allowed an input tax credit for the acquisition of secondhand goods if the supply to the taxable person was not a taxable supply; and the dealer sells the secondhand goods in a taxable supply on which tax is charged at the standard rate. The amount of input tax credit allowed is the tax fraction of 70% of the price for which the dealer sold the secondhand goods.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

Correcting errors in previous returns. An amended return can be filed in Saint Kitts and Nevis to correct any errors or omissions. Amended returns are filed in the same manner as normal returns (see detail outlined above). The amended return must be filed within three years after the return was filed.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Saint Kitts and Nevis.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A taxable person who fails to apply for a VAT registration as prescribed shall be liable to pay a civil penalty equal to double the amount of output tax payable from the time the person is required to apply for registration until the person files an application for registration with the Comptroller.

A taxable person who fails to register for VAT is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD30,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or both.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to file a return within the required due date is liable to pay a civil penalty of XCD100 per month, or part of the month for the period during which the return remains unfiled.

A taxable person who for two or more consecutive or nonconsecutive tax periods fails to file returns within the specified time and manner is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD50,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or to both.

Penalties for errors. There are no specific penalties in Saint Kitts and Nevis for errors. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term of six months or both.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months or both. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A taxable person who willfully evades or attempts to evade an assessment, payment or collection of tax commits a criminal offense and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD100,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years or both.

A taxable person who knowingly or recklessly makes a statement to a tax officer that is false or misleading in a material particular or omits any matter or thing without which the statement is misleading in a material particular and this results in the tax properly payable exceeding the tax that would be payable if that person was assessed on the basis that the statement were true, commits an offense and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD100,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years or both. The VAT Act also refers to a civil penalty equal to the greater of XCD20,000.

Personal liability for company officers. Where a corporation commits an offense under the Saint Kitts and Nevis VAT Act, the persons who were directors or other similar officers or were acting or purporting to act in such capacity are deemed to have committed the offense. However, those individuals may not be held liable where the offense was committed without that person's consent or knowledge, and if that person exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the offense as ought to have been exercised having regard to the nature of the person's function and all the circumstances.

The Saint Kitts and Nevis VAT Act does not provide specifically for directors being held liable for errors and omissions. The penalties and interest that apply under the Act are outlined above.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Saint Kitts and Nevis is three years. The Saint Kitts and Nevis VAT Act speaks to a period of three years before proceedings can be brought in specific instances. Where the offenses alleged have involved the doing of any act, proceedings may be commenced within three years after the discovery of the act; where the offense alleged has involved the failure to do any act, proceedings may be brought within three years after the Comptroller has become aware of such failure; and where the offense alleged has involved the nondisclosure or incorrect disclosure by any person of information relating to that person's liability to tax for a tax period, proceedings may be brought within three years after its correct liability to tax has become final for that tax period.

Saint Lucia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Castries GMT -4

EY
2nd Floor
Mardini Building
Rodney Bay
Gros Islet
Saint Lucia

Direct all queries regarding Saint Lucia to the persons listed below in the Bridgetown, Barbados office.

Indirect tax contacts

Marilyn Husbands	+1 (246) 467 8601 marilyn.husbands@bb.ey.com
Anna Mouttet (resident in Trinidad and Tobago)	+1 (868) 822 5025 anna.mouttet@tt.ey.com
Deirdre Craigwell-Gittens	+1 (246) 430 3900 deirdre.craigwell-gittens@bb.ey.com
La-Tanya Phillips	+1 (246) 430 3882 la-tanya.phillips@bb.ey.com
Dipesh Panicker	+1 (246) 467 8631 dipesh.panicker@bb.ey.com
Denise Brewster	+1 (246) 430 3816 denise.brewster@bb.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 October 2012
Trading bloc membership	Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM)
Administered by	Inland Revenue Department, VAT Section (www.irdstlucia.gov.lc)
VAT rates
Standard	12.5%
Reduced	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	123456-7
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	XCD400,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the supply of goods and services by a taxable person in Saint Lucia and to importation of goods and services.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Saint Lucia, the following supplies of goods and services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions (B2B/B2C), and are deemed to take place in St. Lucia if the recipient uses or obtains the advantage of the goods or services, and the supply would be subject to VAT if the supplier meets the VAT threshold:

- A transfer or assignment of a copyright, patent, license, trademark or similar right
- The service of a consultant, engineer, lawyer, architect or accountant
- The processing of data or supplying information or any similar service
- Advertising service
- The obligation to refrain from pursuing or exercising taxable activity, employment or a right described in this subsection
- The supply of personnel
- The service of an agent procuring for the agent's principal a service described in this section
- Leasing of tangible personal property, other than transport property
- The supply of goods via electronic commerce and the supply of internet access or similar services

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated. In Saint Lucia, a TOGC is treated as zero-rated where the supplier and recipient have notified the Comptroller, in writing, of the details of the transaction.

Transactions between related parties. In Saint Lucia, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the fair market value of the supply.

C. Who is liable

The Saint Lucia VAT Act imposes a registration requirement on any person in Saint Lucia whose total value of taxable supplies exceeds XCD400,000 during a period of 12 or fewer months.

A person that expects to make taxable supplies in excess of XCD400,000 at the beginning of any period of 365 calendar days must also apply for VAT registration in Saint Lucia.

Exemption from registration. International business companies were generally exempt from the VAT regime and were not required to register for VAT. However, this regime was altered/repealed in response to the OECD's BEPS initiative and the grandfathering period has ended. The VAT law in Saint Lucia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person who makes or intends to make taxable supplies in Saint Lucia may voluntarily register for VAT in Saint Lucia where their taxable turnover is below the VAT registration threshold. This registration is done by way of an application to the Comptroller in the form approved by the Comptroller and must contain such further information as may be required. The decision to voluntarily register a person is at the discretion of the Comptroller and an applicant will receive the decision of the Comptroller within 30 days of receipt of the application.

The Comptroller will not accept an application where the person has no fixed place of abode, does not keep good records, the Comptroller has reasonable grounds to believe that the person will not keep proper records or will not submit regular and reliable tax returns, or the person has not complied with the requirements of any law administered by the Inland Revenue Department.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Saint Lucia.

Fixed establishment. In Saint Lucia, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. A nonresident business that carries on a taxable activity would be required to register for VAT purposes if it meets the registration threshold (as outlined below).

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses are required to register for VAT if they make taxable supplies in Saint Lucia in excess of the registration threshold. A non-established business refers to a person who supplies goods but does not have a fixed place of business. An international business company is a company incorporated in Saint Lucia that does not carry on business with persons resident in Saint Lucia; does not own an interest in real property situated in Saint Lucia other than by holding a lease of property for the purpose of its operations; and does not carry-on banking, trust, insurance or re-insurance business activity without a specific license or provide a registered office for companies.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Saint Lucia. However, a taxable person may appoint a tax representative if they choose to do so.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to the importation of a taxable service if the imported service is used to make exempt supplies or is used for a private or domestic purpose. Where this occurs, the taxable person importing the service is responsible for the payment of the VAT chargeable to the service. Otherwise, the non-established business must register for VAT and charge VAT locally.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Saint Lucia.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules relating to the taxation of the digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Saint Lucia. This would only be where they meet the VAT registration threshold.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Saint Lucia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Saint Lucia.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons are required to register in the prescribed form (by paper) with the Saint Lucia Inland Revenue Department and are required to provide the incorporation documents of the person being registered. The location is as follows:

Inland Revenue Department
VAT Section
Manoel Street
Castries
Saint Lucia, W.I.

Deregistration. A taxable person may deregister when they cease to carry on taxable activities and notifies the Comptroller in writing of such cessation within five working days. The taxable person will ordinarily be deregistered with effect from the last calendar day of the tax period during which all such taxable activities ceased or from such other time as the Comptroller may determine.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the Comptroller, in writing, within 21 days of any change in the name, address, place of business, constitution or nature of the principal activity or activities of the taxable person; any change of address from which, or name in which, any taxable activity is carried on by the taxable person; and any changes in circumstances if the taxable person ceases to operate or close on a temporary basis, except where it closes to due to a cessation of carrying on a taxable activity.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 12.5%
- Reduced rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods and services
- Certain staple foodstuffs
- Fuel
- Goods supplied by licensed duty-free shop operators

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Hotel accommodation

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services
- Medical services
- Education services
- Residential property sales
- Transportation services
- Betting and gaming
- Certain imports, for example:
  - Goods shipped or conveyed to Saint Lucia for transhipment to another country
  - Goods imported by nationals returning home for permanent residence in specified categories
  - Capital goods where specific conditions are met
  - Goods and services imported during a disaster alert or emergency that are not for resale

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Saint Lucia.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." In general, the time of supply for goods and services supplied by a taxable person is the earliest of the following events:
- The date of issuance of the invoice by the supplier
- The date on which any consideration is received for the supply
- The date on which the goods are made available to the recipient, or the services are performed

A taxable person must account for VAT in the VAT period in which the time of supply occurs, regardless of whether payment is received.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules for deposits and prepayments in Saint Lucia. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. Where goods or services are supplied under an agreement that provides for periodic payments, these supplies are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement. Each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Lucia for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Lucia for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. Goods supplied under a rental agreement are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement, and each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

A supply of goods under a layaway agreement (agreement by which a supplier agrees to hold goods secured by a deposit until the price is paid in full by the purchaser) occurs when the goods are delivered to the purchaser.

Imported goods. VAT is payable on the importation of taxable supplies. An import of goods occurs when the goods are entered for home use for the purposes of the Customs (control and management) Act. Entered means the acceptance and signature by the proper officer of an entry, specification or shipping bill and declaration signed by the importer or exporter on the prescribed form in the prescribed manner, together with the payment to the proper officer by the importer or exporter of all rents and charges due to the government in respect of the goods.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

The VAT paid by a taxable person is recoverable as input tax if it relates to goods and services acquired for the purposes of making taxable supplies. Input tax is recovered by offsetting it against output tax (that is, tax charged on supplies made) in the VAT return for each VAT period.

Goods or services are deemed to be for the purpose of making taxable supplies if the supplier acquired, imported or produced the goods or services for any of the following purposes:
- Its supply or resupply as a taxable supply
- Its consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly, wholly or partly) in producing goods or services for supply as a taxable supply
- Its consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly, wholly or partly) with respect to a commercial enterprise

Where the total amount of input tax deductible by a taxable person exceeds the output tax for that VAT period, the excess is carried forward to the next tax period and treated as input tax deductible in that period. If any of the excess remains after being carried forward for three consecutive VAT periods, the taxable person may file with the tax authorities a claim for a refund of the amount remaining.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Saint Lucia. This means that effectively the input tax may be carried forward indefinitely until it has been expended or until a refund is applied for using the prescribed form.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal vehicles
- Fees for memberships in recreational clubs

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Business entertainment
- Travel expenses

Partial exemption. The Saint Lucia VAT Law states that if all the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies, the input tax incurred in the period is deductible in full. However, if some, but not all, of the supplies made by the taxable person during the tax period are taxable supplies, a partial recovery calculation is required.

The amount of recoverable input tax is calculated based on the ratio of the value of taxable supplies made during the period compared to the total value of supplies (taxable plus exempt) made during the period.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Saint Lucia. Special methods are not allowed in Saint Lucia.

Capital goods. There are no specific rules for input tax recovery on capital goods in Saint Lucia. The ordinary rules regarding the recovery of input tax therefore apply. Where a capital good is used to make both taxable and exempt supplies, the taxable person is required to apportion the input tax on a reasonable basis (as determined by the taxable person, but subject to possible review by the tax authorities).

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a VAT period exceeds the amount of output tax payable for that VAT period, the excess may be refunded, provided that all VAT returns due have been submitted and the credit has been carried forward for three consecutive months. A refund can be applied for with the Comptroller of Inland Revenue Department by submitting a completed VAT Form 004. The Inland Revenue Department will verify all refund requests and issue refunds at the end of the following month if no audit is required. Excess credits can also be utilized to clear off any other tax liability.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Saint Lucia is not recoverable.

Bad debts. A taxable person can claim bad debt relief for tax paid in respect of a taxable supply made by the taxable person where the whole or part of the consideration for the supply is subsequently treated as a bad debt. The taxable person claiming this relief must satisfy the Comptroller that reasonable efforts have been made to recover the amount due and payable.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Saint Lucia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Saint Lucia is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a tax invoice for all taxable supplies made to other taxable persons (i.e., B2B supplies). A tax invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. A credit note or debit note must be issued when the quantity or consideration shown on a tax invoice is altered. Credit and debit notes must contain broadly the same information as a tax invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Saint Lucia, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Saint Lucia. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Saint Lucia. Note that there are no provisions in the law for electronic invoicing in Saint Lucia, but in practice, electronic invoicing can be used as long as an electronic invoice meets the same requirements as the standard paper invoice.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is allowed where the supply is made to a taxable person and the total consideration for the taxable supply is in cash and does not exceed XCD50.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Saint Lucia.

Proof of exports. VAT is charged at the zero-rate (0%) on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as zero-rated, exports must be supported by evidence (e.g., export certificate or other customs document) that confirms the goods have left Saint Lucia.

Foreign currency invoices. Where an invoice is expressed in a currency other than the domestic currency, which is the Eastern Caribbean dollar (XCD), the following rules apply:
- In the case of imports, the amount is to be converted at the exchange rate as determined by the Customs (Control and Management) Act
- In all other cases, the amount is to be converted at the exchange rate applying between the currency and XCD at the time the amount is taken into account

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Where a taxable person makes a taxable supply to an unregistered person, the taxable person can provide the unregistered person with a sales receipt instead of a full VAT invoice.

Records. In Saint Lucia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Original tax invoices, sales receipts, tax credit notes and tax debit notes received
- Copies of all tax invoices, sales receipts, tax credit notes and tax debit notes issued by the taxable person
- Customs documentation relating to imports and exports by the taxable person
- Accounting records relating to taxable activities carried on in Saint Lucia
- Any other records as may be prescribed by the regulations

In Saint Lucia, VAT books and records must be held within the country. A taxable person must maintain the records in Saint Lucia and must be held in the English language.

Record retention period. Records must be retained for six years after the end of the tax period to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Saint Lucia. Paper archiving can also be used.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT period in Saint Lucia is the calendar month. The VAT return must be filed within 21 calendar days after the end of the tax period.

Periodic payments. Any tax due for the period must be remitted by the same date as the return deadline, i.e., within 21 calendar days after the end of the tax period.

Payments to the IRD can be made by credit/debit card (in person at the tax authorities' offices), direct deposit, mail (a form and check), cash/check (in person at the tax authorities' offices) and e-payment (online).

Ideally, payment should be submitted with the return, but in some instances (e.g., for wire transfer and direct deposit this may not be possible). In such instances the payment memo should indicate what the payment is in respect of.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Saint Lucia, but not mandatory. An electronic filing system has been implemented online in Saint Lucia (https://efiling.govt.lc). However, taxable persons still have the option to file returns manually, i.e., by paper.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Saint Lucia.

Special schemes. Secondhand goods scheme. Under the secondhand goods scheme, the total amount of input tax allowed as a deduction is the sum equal to 70% of the tax fraction, of the lower of the following:
- The amount paid for the goods
- The fair market value of the goods, which includes the tax

This applies to secondhand goods acquired in Saint Lucia during the tax period by a taxable person from a person (registered or not registered), in a transaction not subject to tax if the goods are taxable at a positive rate and are acquired for the purpose of making taxable supplies.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Saint Lucia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Saint Lucia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. An amended return can be filed in Saint Lucia to correct any errors or omissions. There are no rules on the timing of filing amended returns. Amended returns are filed in the same manner as normal returns (see detail outlined above).

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Saint Lucia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A taxable person who fails to register is liable to a penalty equal to double the amount of output tax payable from the time the taxable person is required to apply for registration until the taxable person files an application for registration with the Comptroller.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to file a return within the required due date is liable to a penalty of XCD250 per month or part of the month for the period during which the return remains unfiled. Any VAT payable outstanding by the due date is liable to a penalty equal to 10% of the amount payable. Interest is charged at the rate of 1.25% per month or part of a month for the period the tax remains unpaid.

A taxable person who for two or more VAT periods fails to file returns within the specified time and manner is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD50,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or to both.

Penalties for errors. There are no specific penalties in Saint Lucia for errors. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or both.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or both. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A taxable person who willfully evades or attempts to evade an assessment, payment or collection of tax is guilty of a criminal offense and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD100,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or both.

A taxable person who knowingly or recklessly makes a statement to a tax officer that is false or misleading in a material particular or omits any matter or thing without which the statement is misleading in a material particular and this results in the tax properly payable exceeding the tax that would be payable if that taxable person was assessed on the basis that the statement were true, that taxable person commits an offense and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD100,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding four years.

Personal liability for company officers. Where an offense under the Saint Lucia VAT Act has been committed by a company, every person who at the time of the commission of the offense was a director or other similar officer of the company, or was acting or purporting to act in such capacity, is deemed to have committed the offense. A person aiding and abetting the commission of an offense under the VAT Act commits the offense and is liable to the same penalties as the person committing the offense. The penalties and interest that apply under the Act are outlined above.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Saint Lucia is three years. Proceedings may be commenced where the offense alleged has involved the doing of any act, within three years after the discovery of the act; where the offense alleged has involved the failure to do any act, within three years after the Comptroller has become aware of such failure; where the offense alleged has involved the nondisclosure or incorrect disclosure by any person of information relating to that person's liability for a tax period, within three years after his or her correct liability to tax has become final for that tax period.

Saint Vincent and the Grenadines

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Kingstown GMT -4

Direct all queries regarding Saint Vincent and the Grenadines to the persons listed below in the Bridgetown, Barbados, office.

Indirect tax contacts

Marilyn M. Husbands	+ 1 (246) 467 8601 marilyn.husbands@bb.ey.com
La-Tanya Philips	+1 (246) 430 3882 la-tanya.phillips@ey.com
Dipesh Panicker	+1 (246) 467 8631 dipesh.panicker@bb.ey.com
Deirdre Craigwell-Gittens	+1 (246) 430 3900 deirdre.craigwell-gittens@bb.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	2007
Trading bloc membership	Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM)
Administered by	Inland Revenue Department (IRD) – VAT Implementation Department (www.irdvc.com)
VAT rates
Standard	16%
Reduced	11%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	123456-7
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	XCD300,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of any taxable goods or taxable services by a taxable person (registrant) in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines
- The importation of taxable goods and services from outside Saint Vincent and the Grenadines

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated. In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, the supply of goods or services as part of the transfer of a taxable activity as a going concern by a registered person to another registered person is zero rated where the supply would have otherwise been a taxable supply that was not zero rated; and the supplier has agreed in writing with the recipient that the taxable activity is supplied as a going concern, and notified the Comptroller of the Inland Revenue Department (IRD), in writing, of details of the supplies treated as zero rated under this section because of the transfer, including quantities and values of things supplied.

Transactions between related parties. In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines where a taxable person makes a supply for no consideration, or for consideration that is less than the fair market value of the supply, to a related person who would not be entitled to a full input tax credit for the acquisition of the supply, the value of the supply is the VAT exclusive fair market value of the supply.

C. Who is liable

The Saint Vincent and the Grenadines VAT Act imposes a registration requirement on any person in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines whose total value of taxable supplies exceeds XCD300,000 during a period of 12 or fewer months.

A person that expects to make taxable supplies greater than XCD300,000 at the beginning of any period of 365 calendar days shall also apply for VAT registration in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person who makes or intends to make taxable supplies in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines but is not required to register, may voluntarily register for VAT. This registration is done by way of an application to the Comptroller in the form approved by the Comptroller and must contain such further information as may be required. The decision to voluntarily register a person is at the discretion of the Comptroller and an applicant will receive the decision of the Comptroller within 21 days of receipt of the application.

The Comptroller will not accept an application where the person has no fixed place of abode or does not keep good records; also, if the Comptroller has reasonable grounds to believe that the person will not keep proper records or will not submit regular and reliable tax returns, or the person has not complied with the requirements of any law administered by the IRD.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Fixed establishment. In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. A nonresident business that carries on a taxable activity would be required to register for VAT purposes if it meets the registration threshold (as outlined below).

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses are required to register for VAT if they make taxable supplies in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines greater than the registration threshold. A non-established business refers to a person who supplies goods and services but does not have a fixed place of business.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. However, a taxable person may appoint a tax representative if they choose to do so.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to the importation of a taxable service if the imported service is used to make exempt supplies or is used for a private or domestic purpose. Where this occurs, the taxable person importing the service is responsible for the payment of the VAT chargeable to the service. Otherwise, the non-established business must register for VAT and charge VAT locally.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Digital economy. There are no specific rules relating to the taxation of the digital economy. Non-resident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. This would only be where they meet the VAT registration threshold, and where the services provided are physically performed or used in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons are required to register using a paper-based prescribed form with the IRD and are required to provide the incorporation documents of the person being registered. The registration must be lodged with the Comptroller within 21 days of the date on which the person becomes required to apply for registration. Provided all documents are in order, the IRD should process the VAT registration application within approximately one week.

Deregistration. A taxable person may deregister when they cease to carry on taxable activities and notifies the Comptroller in writing of such cessation within seven working days.

The taxable person will ordinarily be deregistered with effect from the date set out in the notice of cancellation, which must not be less than two years after the date on which the registration commenced or such earlier date as the Comptroller considers appropriate, unless the person will not continue to make taxable supplies.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the Comptroller, in writing, within 14 days of any change in the name, address, place of business, or nature of the principal activity or activities of the taxable person.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 16%
- Reduced rate: 11%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods and services

- Certain staple foodstuffs
- Fuel
- Computers
- Goods supplied by licensed duty-free shop operators

Examples of goods and services taxable at 11%

- Hotel accommodation
- Diving services, marine or land tour services.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services
- Medical services
- Education services
- Residential property sales
- Transportation services
- Betting and gaming

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply." In general, the time of supply for goods and services supplied by a taxable person is the earliest of the following events:

- The date of issuance of the invoice by the supplier
- The date on which any consideration is received for the supply
- The date on which the goods are made available to the recipient or the services are performed

A taxable person must account for VAT in the VAT period in which the time of supply occurs, regardless of whether payment is received.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. Where goods or services are supplied under an agreement that provides for periodic payments, these supplies are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement. Each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines for supplies of reverse charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. Goods supplied under a rental agreement are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement, and each of the successive supplies occurs when a payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier

A supply of goods under a layaway agreement (agreement by which a supplier agrees to hold goods secured by a deposit until the price is paid in full by the purchaser) occurs when the goods are delivered to the purchaser.

Imported goods. VAT is payable on the importation of taxable supplies. An import of goods occurs when the goods are entered under the Customs (Control and Management) Act or in any other case, on the date the goods are brought into Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. Entered means the acceptance and signature by the proper officer of an entry, specification or shipping bill and declaration signed by the importer or exporter on the prescribed form in the prescribed manner, together with the payment to the proper officer by the importer or exporter of all rents and charges due to the government in respect of the goods.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

The VAT paid by a taxable person is recoverable as input tax if it relates to goods and services acquired for the purposes of making taxable supplies. Input tax is recovered by offsetting it against output tax (i.e., tax charged on supplies made) in the VAT return for each VAT period.

Goods or services are deemed to be for the purpose of making taxable supplies if the supplier acquired, imported or produced the goods or services for any of the following purposes:
- Its supply or resupply as a taxable supply
- Its consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly, wholly or partly) in producing goods or services for supply as a taxable supply
- Its consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly, wholly or partly) with respect to a commercial enterprise

Where the total amount of input tax deductible by a taxable person exceeds the output tax for that VAT period, the excess is carried forward to the next tax period and treated as input tax deductible in that period. If any of the excess remains after being carried forward for three consecutive VAT periods, the taxable person may file with the tax authorities a claim for a refund of the amount remaining.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. This means that effectively the input tax may be carried forward indefinitely until it has been expended or until a refund is applied for using the prescribed form.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Personal vehicles
- Fees for memberships in recreational clubs

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Business entertainment
- Travel expenses

Partial exemption. The Saint Vincent and the Grenadines VAT Act states that if all the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies, the input tax incurred in the period is deductible in full. However, if some, but not all, of the supplies made by the taxable person during the tax period are taxable supplies, a partial recovery calculation is required.

The amount of recoverable input tax is calculated based on the ratio of the value of taxable supplies made during the period compared to the total value of supplies (i.e., taxable plus exempt) made during the period.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. Special methods are not allowed. Note the approval by the IRD is not outlined in the legislation, but in practice it is not required.

Capital goods. There are no specific rules for input tax recovery on capital goods in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. The ordinary rules regarding the recovery of input tax therefore apply. Where a capital good is used to make both taxable and exempt supplies, the taxable person is required to apportion the input tax on a reasonable basis (as determined by the taxable person, but subject to possible review by the tax authorities).

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a VAT period exceeds the amount of output tax payable for that VAT period, the excess may be refunded, provided that all VAT returns due have been submitted and the credit has been carried forward for three consecutive months.

A refund can be applied for with the Comptroller of the IRD by submitting an application, which is a paper-based prescribed form. The IRD will verify all refund requests and issue refunds at the end of the following month if no audit is required. Excess credits can also be utilized to clear off any other tax liability.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines is not recoverable.

Bad debts. A taxable person can claim bad debt relief for tax paid in respect of a taxable supply made by the taxable person where the whole or part of the consideration for the supply is subsequently treated as a bad debt. The taxable person claiming this relief must satisfy the Comptroller that reasonable efforts have been made to recover the amount due and payable.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a tax invoice for all taxable supplies made to other taxable persons (i.e., B2B supplies). A tax invoice is necessary to support a claim for an input tax deduction.

Credit notes. A credit note, or debit note must be issued when the quantity or consideration shown on a tax invoice is altered. Credit and debit notes must contain broadly the same information as a tax invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

There are no provisions in the law for electronic invoicing in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. However, in practice, electronic invoicing can be used provided that the electronic invoice meets the same requirements as the standard paper invoice.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, where a taxable person uses the simplified VAT accounting method. This method is allowed where supplies made by a taxable person through its taxable activity include retail sales or the taxable person's annual turnover of supplies is less than XCD500,000.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Proof of exports. VAT is charged at the zero-rate (0%) on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as zero-rated, exports must be supported by evidence (e.g., export certificate or other customs document) that confirms the goods have left Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Foreign currency invoices. Where an invoice is expressed in a currency other than the domestic currency, which is the Eastern Caribbean dollar (XCD) the amount is to be converted at the exchange rate applying between the currency and XCD at the time the amount is taken into account.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Where a taxable person makes a taxable supply to an unregistered person (i.e., B2C), the taxable person can provide the unregistered person with a sales receipt instead of a full VAT invoice.

Records. In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Original tax invoices, sales receipts, tax credit notes and tax debit notes received
- Copies of all tax invoices, sales receipts, tax credit notes and tax debit notes issued by the taxable person
- Customs documentation relating to imports and exports by the taxable person
- Accounting records relating to taxable activities carried on in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines
- Any other records as may be prescribed by the regulations

In Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, VAT books and records must be held within the country. A taxable person must maintain the records in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines and those records must be in the English language.

Record retention period. Records must be retained for seven years after the end of the tax period to which they relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. Paper archiving can also be used.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT period in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines is the calendar month. The VAT return must be filed within 15 calendar days after the end of the tax period.

Periodic payments. Any tax due for the period must be remitted by the same date as the return deadline, i.e., within 15 calendar days after the end of the tax period.

Payments to the IRD can be made by credit/debit card (in person at the tax authorities' offices), direct deposit, mail (a form and check), cash/check (in person at the tax authorities' offices) and e-payment (online).

Ideally, payment should be submitted with the return, but in some instances (e.g., for wire transfer and direct deposit this may not be possible). In such instances the payment memo should indicate what the payment is in respect of.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines, but not mandatory. An electronic filing system has been implemented online in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines (https://etaxsvg.gov.vc). However, taxable persons still have the option to file returns manually, i.e., by paper.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Special schemes. There are no special schemes in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. Whilst there are no special schemes included in the VAT law, there is the simplified VAT accounting method available to taxable persons. This method is allowed where supplies made by a taxable person through its taxable activity include retail sales or the taxable person's annual turnover of supplies is less than XCD5 million. For further details, see the subsection Simplified VAT invoices above.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

Correcting errors in previous returns. An amended return can be filed in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines to correct any errors or omissions. The request must be in writing specifying the grounds on which the request is being made and must be made within three years after the end of the tax period to which the return relates.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A taxable person who fails to apply and got a VAT registration as prescribed shall be liable to a penalty equal to double the amount of output tax payable from the time the taxable person is required to apply for registration until the taxable person files an application for registration with the Comptroller.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to file a return within the required due date is liable to a penalty of XCD500 per month or 5% of the VAT payable for the period to which the return relates for each month in which the return remains outstanding until the return is filed or an assessment is issued in respect of the period to which the return relates.

Any VAT payable outstanding by the due date is liable to a penalty equal to 20% of the amount payable. Interest is charged at the rate of 1.25% per month or part of a month for the period the tax remains unpaid.

Penalties for errors. There are no specific penalties in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines for errors. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or both.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above. However, a taxable person who commits an offense for which there is no penalty specified is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or both.

Penalties for fraud. A taxable person who willfully evades or attempts to evade an assessment, payment or collection of tax is guilty of a criminal offense and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding XCD25,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or both.

A taxable person who knowingly or recklessly makes a statement to a tax officer that is false or misleading in a material particular or omits any matter or thing without which the statement is misleading in a material particular and this results in the tax properly payable exceeding the tax that would be payable if that taxable person was assessed on the basis that the statement were true, that taxable person commits an offense and is liable to a penalty the greater of XCD250.

Personal liability for company officers. Where a corporation fails to pay an amount of tax required, the persons who were directors at the time the corporation was required to pay such amount, are jointly and severally liable, together with the corporation, to pay the amount and any interest or penalties attaching to such amount.

The Saint Vincent and Grenadines VAT Act does not provide specifically for directors being held liable for errors and omissions. The penalties and interest which apply under the Act are outlined above.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines is six years. The Saint Vincent and the Grenadines VAT Act states that if the Comptroller is not satisfied as to the accuracy of a VAT return lodged by the person, the Comptroller may not make an assessment, including an amended assessment, more than six years after the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates. In the case of an assessment where the person has been paid a refund or allowed an input tax credit as prescribed, to which the person is not entitled, the Comptroller may not make an assessment, including an amended assessment, more than six years after the date on which the refund was paid, or, if an input tax credit was allowed, more than six years after the end of the tax period in which the credit was allowed. The exemption to the above cases occurs where the taxable person committed fraud or willful default in furnishing the return for the tax period or in applying for the refund.

São Tomé and Príncipe

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

São Tomé and Príncipe GMT 0

Direct all queries regarding São Tomé and Príncipe to the persons listed below in the Lisbon, Portugal office.

Indirect tax contacts

Amilcar Nunes
+351 217-912-218
amilcar.nunes@pt.ey.com

Carolina Nery de Almeida
+351 217-912-200
carolina.nery@pt.ey.com

The Value-Added Tax (VAT) Code was published by way of Law no. 13/2019 of 6 November 2019 and was scheduled to enter into force 1 March 2020. Due to delays on technical means, by way of Law no. 3/2020 of 16 April 2020, the VAT Code's effective date was postponed. The Decree-Law no. 21/2022 of 19 July 2022 makes the first amendment to Law no. 13/2019 of 6 November 2019 and republished the VAT Code. The VAT Code is now in force from 1 June 2023. The VAT Code revoked, inter alia, the Consumption Tax Code and some Stamp Duties rules.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Imposto sobre o Valor Acrescentado (IVA)
Date introduced	1 June 2023
Trading bloc membership	African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Tax Directorate (Direção de Impostos) (https://impostos.financas.gov.st/)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Reduced	2%, 7%, 7.5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Taxpayer Number ("Número de Identificação Fiscal – NIF") 8 numerical digits (XXXXXXXX)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Supply of goods or services made in São Tomé and Principe (STP) by a taxable person
- Import of goods
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in STP

Supplies of goods and services and imports of goods carried out in the Exclusive Economic Zone and Continental Shelf (Zona Económica Exclusiva e Plataforma Continental), are not taxable operations when the acquirer's main activity is in the exploration and extraction of hydrocarbon sector.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In STP, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in STP. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In STP, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

Any business entity or individual that operates independently, and on a regular or occasional basis, and carries out an economic activity, including the production, trade or services, extractive activities, agricultural, forestry, cattle and fisheries, is required to register for VAT.

Individuals or entities that incorrectly issue invoices with VAT, as well as acquirers of supplies made by nonresident entities subject to the reverse charge, are also liable to register and account for VAT.

Government entities and other public bodies are only required to register for VAT as far as they carry out taxable transactions.

Exemption from registration. Only government entities or public bodies that do not carry out taxable transactions, are exempt from registering for VAT in STP.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Entities that are deemed VAT exempt (if not having reached, in the previous calendar year, a turnover equal to or greater than STN1 million) may opt to register for VAT (i.e., be included in the standard regime).

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in STP.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in STP (as defined in the VAT law), if it has a headquarters, characterized by a sufficient degree of permanence and an adequate structure, in terms of human and technical resources, which carry out activities of production, trade or services.

Non-established businesses. The VAT law in STP does not provide for a definition on non-established business but provides for specific rules on non-established businesses without a fixed establishment, notably the need to appoint a fiscal representative.

Non-established businesses that are subject to VAT in STP should register for VAT and follow the same procedure as established entities, except when following the simplified regime. At the time of preparing this chapter, the simplified registration regime is still to be implemented.

Tax representatives. For the operations where the reverse charge is not applicable, a non-established business (without a fixed establishment) operating in STP must appoint a tax representative who is registered for VAT in STP and will be responsible for complying with the reporting obligations, such as filing the VAT returns. Appointing a representative is not mandatory when a non-established business (which does not have a permanent establishment) operating in STP opts for the simplified registration regime. At the time of preparing this chapter, the simplified registration regime is still to be implemented.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism applies to supplies made by non-established businesses to STP resident taxable persons (i.e., business-to-business [B2B] supplies). Under the reverse-charge mechanism, the taxable person that receives the supply must self-account for the VAT due. The reverse charge does not apply to supplies to private persons or to nontaxable legal persons (i.e., business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies).

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse-charge mechanism applies to supplies made by STP resident taxable persons for civil construction works.

Digital economy. There are no specific VAT rules regarding the digital economy in STP.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in STP.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in STP. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in STP.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in STP.

Vouchers. The VAT Code defines vouchers as an instrument that translates into a prepayment that entitles one to receive goods or services or a discount. Vouchers can be (i) single-purpose (Unifuncionais) when the goods to be delivered or the services to be supplied, the potential suppliers and the place of delivery of the goods or services are identified at the time the voucher is issued, or (ii) multi-purpose, in all other cases, including digital currency.

For single-purpose vouchers, VAT is due and payable at the time the voucher is issued/assigned by the taxable person in whose name the transfer of the voucher is made. On the other hand, for multi-purpose vouchers, VAT is due and payable at the time the taxable person supplies the goods or services that the voucher relates to, regardless of any assignments that may have previously occurred.

Registration procedures. Note that according to STP rules, there is no concept of a "VAT registration number." It is a general tax ID issued that covers VAT as well as other taxes.

The declaration of beginning of a taxable activity must be submitted to the Tax Directorate, by electronic means, up to 15 days prior to the taxable person starting the taxable activities. The tax authorities will then review the application within 30 days and submit a notification to the taxable person. If no notification is received, the statement is tacitly accepted and registration is issued.

Deregistration. Taxable persons must, within 30 days from the date of ceasing taxable activity, submit by electronic means a declaration of the cancelation of activity to the Tax Directorate. The tax authorities can declare, on their own authority, the ceasing of a taxable activity of a taxable person when it is clear that no activity is being carried out nor is the intention to start.

Changes to VAT registration details. When any of the details stated in the declaration of beginning of activity (other than the sales volume) is modified, the taxable person must file a declaration of changes of activity. This statement needs to be submitted by electronic means, within 30 days from the date of the declared change in the activity.

The declaration should also be submitted when taxable person wants to waive the special exemption regime, or given the conditions are met, change from the normal standard VAT regime to the exemption regime.

The tax authorities then will review the declaration within 30 days and then issue a notification to the taxable person. If no notification is received, the statement is tacitly accepted.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 15%
- Reduced rate: 2%, 7%, 7.5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Export of goods – either dispatched to a foreign country by the seller or someone acting on their behalf or dispatched to the Exclusive Economic Zone and Continental Shelf when the acquirer's main activity is in the exploration and extraction of hydrocarbon sector
- Supply, conversion, repair, maintenance, freight and rental, including leasing, of vessels and aircraft affected to hydrocarbon exploration and extraction or sea navigation companies, as well as the supply, rental and conversion of the objects incorporated in the vessels and aircraft used for their exploitation
- Transport of passengers, cargo or mail proceeding to other counties and to STP islands
- Inputs related to special customs regimes (notably with entities located in free zones)

Note the wording in the VAT code refers to payment of fees (pagamento de taxas), which is different from payment of tax (pagamento do imposto).

Examples of goods and services taxable at 2%

- 2% monthly fee of 1/12 of STN100,000 for taxable persons with annual turnover under STN100,000

Examples of goods and services taxable at 7%

- 7% fee over the annual turnover amount for taxable persons with sales volume between STN100,000 and STN1 million

Examples of goods and services taxable at 7.5%

- 7.5% applicable mostly to basic food basket (Annex I of the VAT Code), such as rice, bread, milk, beans and soap

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Services of life-insurance and reinsurance
- Financial intermediation services, except for those which a specific fee or consideration, is charged for the service
- Transfer of gold for investment purposes
- Transfer of immovable property for residential purposes, excluding its first transfer
- Leasing of immovable property for residential purposes

- Supply of goods and services related to health, such as the provision of medical and health services and closely related operations carried out by public hospitals, dispensaries and similar entities, as well as the supply of medicinal products and other pharmaceutical products intended exclusively for therapeutic purposes
- Supply of goods and services related to education and training, such as education food and related services, carried out by public establishments registered in the competent ministry, as well as the supply of services for the purpose of vocational training and related services and goods

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in STP.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due in STP is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when they are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when they are performed. Customs rules apply to imports.

An invoice must be issued before the 5th business day following the basic time of supply. The actual tax point becomes the date on which the invoice is issued. However, if no invoice is issued, tax becomes due on the deadline to raise the invoice.

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits and prepayments, an invoice should be raised at the time payment is received (even if prior to the supply of goods or services). As such, the tax point for VAT for the supply of deposits and prepayments is at the time the invoice is raised.

Continuous supplies of services. For continuous supplies of goods and services, based on agreements foreseeing successive payments, the time of supply occurs at the end of the period concerning each payment.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Generally, a taxable supply of goods is deemed to have taken place when consigned goods are not returned to the supplier within a year.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in STP for supplies of reverse-charge services (for both non-established businesses and resident taxable persons, i.e., the reverse-charge and domestic reverse-charge). As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in STP for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. For the supply of imported goods, VAT is due upon importation and subject to import rules.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax incurred with the acquisition of goods and services used for taxable purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax charged on the supplies carried out.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in STP and VAT paid on imports of goods.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in STP is five years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by a taxable person). In addition, input tax may not be recovered with respect to certain business expenses.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Acquisition, import, leasing, including financial leasing, use, transformation and repair of pleasure boats, helicopters and airplanes
- Acquisition or importation of tobacco

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Acquisition, import, lease, use, conversion and repair of motor vehicles light passenger transport vehicles with less than nine seats, motorcycles and motorcycles
- Acquisition of gasoline
- Transport and travel of the taxable person and its staff
- Accommodation, food, drinks and other operations rations relating to the reception and hospitality of the taxable person, its personnel or customers

Partial exemption. A supplier of both taxable and exempt supplies is required to apportion input tax incurred in respect of supplies made by them. A taxable person may claim the whole of input tax directly attributable to taxable supplies but is not allowed to claim input tax directly attributable to exempt supplies.

VAT directly related to making exempt supplies is not recoverable. A taxable person that makes both exempt and taxable supplies cannot recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." A pro rata percentage can be used to calculate the amount of eligible input tax.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in STP. Special methods are not allowed in STP.

Capital goods. In STP there are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal rules outlined above apply.

Refunds. A taxable person may claim a refund (in part or in total) where the excess of input tax over output tax has been carried forward for more than three months. VAT refunds, when due, must be paid within until the end of the fourth month after the request has been made.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in STP is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in STP.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities, is not recoverable in STP.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in STP is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Issuance of an invoice is mandatory for each supply of goods (including exports) and services. An invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Invoices should be issued by the 5th business day following the taxable event and issued in duplicate, be duly dated and issued in a sequential manner.

Invoices should be processed via computer systems. The relevant data must be inserted by the computer program or billing system duly authorized by the Tax Directorate.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the amount of VAT charged on a supply. The credit note must reflect a genuine mistake, an overcharge or an agreed reduction in the value of the original supply.

Under the Legal Regime for Invoices and Equivalent Documents, invoices or equivalent documents are replaced by guides or return notes (guias ou notas de devolução). Whenever the taxable person has the need to rectify or to replace an invoice or equivalent documents, the replacing documents should contain the mention "Rectificação ou substituição," as well as the identification of the document that is being rectified or replaced. Credit and debit notes are invoices, simplified invoices and receipts amending documents. The credit note should contain the mention "Rectificação ou anulação." At the time of preparing this chapter, the new VAT law for invoices and equivalent documents is silent on credit notes. However, this regime is expected to be updated in line with the new wording of the VAT code in respect to VAT adjustments.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in STP, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in STP. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in STP. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Note that electronic invoicing in STP relates to invoices raised by computer systems. Invoices can either be raised by computer systems or in paper (printed paper or non-electronic format by way of forms obtained in authorized print shops).

Taxable persons wishing to issue invoices or equivalent documents through computer systems should request advance approval from the Tax Directorate.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in STP. As such, full VAT invoices are required. However, at the time of preparing this chapter the detail provided in the VAT law has not been made clear how it will be implemented in practice.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in STP.

Proof of exports. The required document to evidence that a supply of goods has left the country, to be treated as an export, and zero-rated, is the export declaration (declaração de exportação), where the elements related to the goods are declared. The customs value should be mentioned in an invoice as, according to the legal framework on invoices, an invoice should be raised per supply of goods.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices cannot be issued in a foreign currency in STP. All invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the São Tomé and Príncipe dobra (STN). This is except for import and export invoices and invoices must also be issued in the Portuguese language.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in STP.

Records. In STP, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all invoices or equivalent documents.

In STP, VAT books and records must be held within the country. VAT books and records may be held outside of the country only if the records are electronically archived. However, note that digital archives of invoices or equivalent documents is allowed but it does not replace the obligation to store and archive documentation within the national territory.

Record retention period. All invoices or equivalent documents must be kept for five years at the business's headquarters or establishments located in STP.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in STP. Electronic archiving of invoices issued electronically and processed by computer is permitted provided that the complete access to data is ensured, as well as the integrity of origin and content and its readability.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax period is a calendar month. VAT returns are due on a monthly basis. The due date is the last day of the month following the taxable period.

Periodic payments. VAT due must be paid by the same date as the VAT return deadline, i.e., by the last day of the month following the taxable period. Payment of VAT due may be made by any means of payment that is legally permitted.

In addition, for import VAT, this is due per import, and the assessment is made by the Customs Offices, in line with the Customs provisions currently in force.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in STP for all taxable persons. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, the VAT Code does not provide details on how this is carried out in practice.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in STP.

Special scheme. Special regime. Taxable persons with sales volume between STN100,000 and STN1 million and that did not waive the exemption regime are subject to a 7% fee over the annual turnover. For a sales volume under STN100,000, there is a 2% monthly fee of 1/12 of STN100,000 for taxable persons with annual turnover under STN100,000.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in STP.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in STP.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If a taxable person discovers an error or an omission from a previous periodic declaration, this must be corrected by submitting an amended VAT return. This is mandatory when there is an underpayment of VAT due. Such amendments can be made without any penalty until the end of the following period. If the error is in favor of the State, the correction is optional and can be carried out within one year.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in STP.

J. Penalties

The penalties listed below are applied in full (i.e., the maximum amount) where fault behavior applies. In the case of neglect behavior, the penalty can be reduced to half (of both the minimum and maximum). Additionally, when the fine depends on the tax amount, the fine cannot be higher than STN100 million.

Penalties for late registration. The general penalty applicable to the late of filing any document (other than a tax return) will apply for the late registration for VAT, as the VAT registration form falls under the definition of "any document." This penalty ranges between STN500,000 and STN5 million.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Late payment is punishable by a fine between the amount of the tax due and double this amount. Nevertheless, if the payments are made within 10 days after the due date, the value of the fine is of 5% of the missing tax, with a minimum of STN5,000. If the late payment occurs after 90 days of the due date, the amount of the fine increases to between the amount of tax due and triple this amount.

Late filing of a VAT return (up to 30 days after the deadline) is punishable by an amount between STN500,000 and STN5 million. If the VAT return is filed after 30 days of the deadline, the penalty increases to between STN1 million and STN5 million.

Late payment interest is computed over the outstanding tax amount.

Late communication (up to 30 days) of the invoices' data is punishable by an amount between STN5,000 and STN30,000. Lack of this communication (in general or late communication after 30 days), or communication with errors is punishable with by an amount between STN1,000 and STN50,000.

Penalties for errors. VAT returns and other documents containing omissions and inaccuracies are punishable with an amount between STN1 million and STN50 million.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Fraud with relevant tax documents will be punished with a fine between STN1 million to STN50 million.

Personal liability for company officers. In general terms, directors may be held accountable only where there is an outstanding debt that has already transitioned to enforcement proceedings and where the company does not hold enough goods to settle that debt directly.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in STP is five years. This is counted from the beginning of the calendar year following the one in which the error occurred.

Saudi Arabia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Riyadh GMT +3

EY
Levels 6 and 14
Al Faisaliah Office Tower
King Fahad Road, Olaya
P.O. Box 2732
11461 Riyadh

Indirect tax contacts

Sanjeev Fernandez
+966 (11) 273-470
sanjeev.fernandez@sa.ey.com

Mohammed Bilal Akram
+966 (11) 215-9858
mohammedbilal.akram@sa.ey.com

Al Khobar GMT +3

EY
Levels 8 and 15
Adeer Tower
Prince Turkey Street, Al Yarmouk
P.O. Box 3795
Al Khobar 31952

Indirect tax contacts

Sanjeev Fernandez
+966 (11) 273-470
sanjeev.fernandez@sa.ey.com

Jack Sims
(resident in Manama, Bahrain)
+973 (35) 646-498
jack.sims@bh.ey.com

Jeddah GMT +3

EY
P.O. Box 1994
13th Floor, King's Road Tower
King Abdulaziz Road
Al Shatea District
Jeddah 21441

Indirect tax contact

Adrian Smith
(resident in Manama, Bahrain)
+973 1713 5182
adrian.smith2@bh.ey.com

Mohsin Rehmani
+966 (12) 286-9823
mohsin.rehmani@sa.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	ضريبة القيمة المضافة
Date introduced	1 January 2018

Trading bloc membership	Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) Greater Arab Free Trade Area (GAFTA)
Administered by	Zakat, Tax and Customs Authority (ZATCA – https://zatca.gov.sa/en)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Numeric account number composed of 15 digits (E, 012345678912345)
VAT return periods	Quarterly (general rule) Monthly (if annual taxable supplies exceed SAR40 million)
Thresholds
Registration	SAR375,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods and services made in Saudi Arabia by a taxable person
- The acquisition of goods or services received in Saudi Arabia by a taxable person
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in Saudi Arabia
- Taxable imports of goods received by a taxable person in Saudi Arabia

In some cases, supplies may be outside the scope of VAT, e.g., when supplies are:
- Made by a nontaxable person
- Made outside Saudi Arabia (but note special place-of-supply rules for certain international services, e.g., electronically supplied services)
- Not made in the course of an economic activity

In other cases, supplies not usually in the scope of VAT are deemed to be taxable supplies such as supplies for nil consideration, subject to certain exclusions.

Real estate transaction tax. Real estate transaction tax (RETT) is levied in lieu of VAT on real estate supplies made in Saudi Arabia. RETT is effective in Saudi Arabia from 4 October 2020 and is charged at 5% based on the total value of the real estate disposed, regardless of its condition, shape or use at the time of disposal.

RETT shall be levied based on the agreed value between the contracting parties, provided that the agreed value is not less than the fair market value of the real estate on the date of disposal. RETT applies regardless of whether the recipient is a resident in Saudi Arabia or not. The seller shall be obligated to discharge the tax liability to ZATCA. However, both seller and buyer shall be jointly responsible for any tax obligations.

The RETT Implementing Regulations provides the following key exemptions in whole or in part (but not limited to):
1. Disposal of the real estate in the case of division or distribution of the inheritance.
2. Disposal of the real estate for free for a "family," charitable or licensed charity endowment.
3. Disposal of the real estate for a governmental entity or for public legal persons or entities and projects of public interest, and for the purposes of this paragraph, public interest shall mean entities and institutions that carry this status under the Civil Associations and Institutions Law.
4. Disposal of the real estate by a governmental entity as a public authority outside the framework of economic, investment or commercial activity.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Saudi Arabia, the VAT legislation contains provisions for determining place of supply for wired and wireless telecommunication services and electronically supplied services based on the place of actual use and enjoyment of the services. Examples of wired and wireless telecommunications and electronic services include (but not limited to):

a. Any service relating to the transmission, emission or reception of signals, writing, images and sounds or information of any nature by wire, radio, optical or other electromagnetic systems
b. The transfer or assignment of the right-to-use capacity for such transmission, emission or reception
c. The provision of access to global information networks
d. The provision of audio and audiovisual content for listening or viewing by the general public on the basis of a program schedule by a person that has editorial responsibility
e. Live streaming via the internet
f. Supplies of images or text provided electronically, such as photos, screensavers, electronic books and other digitized documents or files
g. Supplies of music, films and games, and of programs on demand
h. Online magazines
i. Website supply or web hosting services
j. Distance maintenance of programs and equipment
k. Supplies of software and software updates
l. Advertising space on a website and any rights associated with such advertising

Accordingly, for any supply of wired and wireless telecommunication services or electronically supplied services made within Saudi Arabia by a nonresident supplier to a customer who is not registered for the purposes of VAT, the nonresident supplier shall be obligated to register for VAT and discharge the applicable VAT on such supplies made.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Saudi Arabia, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

a. The goods and services transferred are capable of being operated as an economic activity in their own right, and the recipient immediately following the transfer uses those goods and services to carry on that same economic activity. Based on the guidelines issued by the ZATCA, this requirement is considered to be fulfilled upon satisfaction of the following points:
   - There must be a form of cohesion between the goods and services at hand in such way that collectively they are capable of being operated as a separate business.
   - The person acquiring the goods and services should start to use the goods and services acquired as soon as commercially feasible.
   - The person acquiring the goods and services should use these for the purpose of carrying on a business (economic activity).
   - The business that is carried on should be the same as that carried on by the transferor.
b. The recipient is a taxable person or becomes a taxable person as a result of the transfer.
c. The supplier and the recipient agree in writing in advance of the transfer date that they wish the transfer to be viewed as a transfer of an economic activity for the purposes of the VAT regulations.

Transactions between related parties. In Saudi Arabia, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at its fair market value (FMV), instead of any actual consideration paid, in cases where each of the following applies:
a. A supply is made between related persons, as defined in Saudi Arabian legislation
b. The consideration for the supply is less than the FMV of the supply
c. The customer is not entitled to a full input tax deduction in relation to the supply

The FMV is considered to be the consideration that would be payable for a similar and contemporaneous supply of goods or services freely offered and made between persons who are not related persons. A similar and contemporaneous supply means another supply of goods or services supplied at the same time that are either identical to, or closely or substantially resemble, the goods and services being supplied. This shall be ascertained based on all relevant factors, including the characteristics, quality, quantity of the goods and services, the place and date of supply, and the reputation of the supplier.

In cases where the value of a similar and contemporaneous supply cannot be ascertained, the taxable person or authority may prescribe an alternative FMV based on other comparable transactions that resemble the supply of goods and services, or the costs of the supplier to make the supply, whichever is higher (with the decision of the tax authority to prevail in the event of a difference).

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" in Saudi Arabia is a person who conducts an economic activity independently for the purpose of generating income and is registered, or required to register, for VAT in Saudi Arabia.

Every person who has a place of residence in Saudi Arabia must register for, collect and remit VAT where the total value of all taxable supplies made in Saudi Arabia in the past 12 months or expected taxable supplies in the next 12 months exceeds SAR375,000. The total value of taxable supplies includes all supplies of goods and services subject to VAT at the rate of 15% or 0%. The total value of taxable supplies also includes the following:
- Nominal supplies
- Receipt of reverse-charge supplies
- After a ZATCA order announces the full implementation of VAT in the GCC and the introduction of the Electronic Services System, intra-GCC supplies made from Saudi Arabia to a VAT-registered person in another GCC Member State will not be subject to Saudi Arabian VAT but will count toward the total value of taxable supplies. At the time of preparing this chapter, as all the GCC Member States have not implemented VAT, the Electronic Services System is not effective.

The value of taxable supplies does not include the following:
- Value of exempt supplies
- Supplies taking place outside the scope of VAT in Saudi Arabia
- Revenue from the sale of capital assets

In cases where the tax authority has evidence or reason to doubt that a taxable person will not pay the VAT in an accurate and timely manner, it may require that a cash security or a bank guarantee is provided as a precondition for VAT registration, subject to several requirements.

Imports into Saudi Arabia by a taxable person or nontaxable person are subject to VAT, with the actual payment of VAT required to be made to customs at the point of import. Authorization may be granted to registered taxable persons to make the payment of VAT through its tax return as opposed to at customs. Despite there being a customs union in the GCC, in cases where a resident nontaxable person in Saudi Arabia imports goods with a value exceeding SAR10,000 into Saudi Arabia from another GCC Member State, and cannot prove at the time of such entry that VAT was paid on the purchase of those goods in such GCC Member State, that person is deemed to make an import of those goods and VAT shall be payable on such imports.

Goods or services that a taxable business supplies to itself are not taxable (with the exception of nominal supplies, i.e., deemed supplies). This includes instances where one member of a VAT group provides services to another member of that group.

Exemption from registration. A taxable person who at any time has annual supplies made in Saudi Arabia that exceed the mandatory registration threshold, but which are exclusively zero-rated supplies, is excluded from the requirement to register. They may, however, elect to register voluntarily. Exempt supplies do not count toward voluntary or mandatory registration thresholds.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person who has a place of residence in Saudi Arabia who is not obligated to register for VAT (as per the rules outlined above), may apply for VAT registration if its total value of taxable supplies in the past 12 months or expected taxable sales in the next 12 months are between SAR187,500 and SAR375,000. A person can also register voluntarily if their expenses in the past, or next 12 months, equal or exceed SAR187,500.

Group registration. Two or more legal persons may apply for VAT registration as a VAT group if all the following conditions are met:

- Each group member must perform an economic activity and be a legal resident in Saudi Arabia.
- 50% or more of the capital of each legal person, or ownership or control of 50%, or more of the voting rights or value, in both or all the group members, is held by the same person or group of persons, whether directly or indirectly (i.e., under common control).
- At least one of the group members must independently meet the taxable sales threshold for VAT registration.

All members of a VAT group in Saudi Arabia are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

An application to form a VAT group must be made by a taxable person. This person will be the representative member of the VAT group and will have the primary obligation to comply with the obligations and the rights of the group on behalf of all members of the group, without prejudice to the joint liability of the other members of the group.

The VAT group registration takes effect from the first day of the month following the month in which the application is approved or such later date as determined by the tax authority. If the application is approved, the tax authority will issue a new VAT identification number to the VAT group representative on behalf of the VAT group and suspend the existing VAT identification numbers of members who are individually registered for VAT.

The tax authority may issue a notice to two or more taxable persons who are not part of any VAT group, but who are eligible to form one together, that they are considered to be in a VAT group from any prospective date. Such notice may only be issued where the VAT registration of each taxable person results or will result in the accrual of a VAT advantage. There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group. Changes to the VAT group (e.g., addition or deletion of members) may be done as and when necessary.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Saudi Arabia, as any fixed location for a business, other than the place of business, in which the business is carried out and is distinguished by the permanent presence of human and technical resources in such a way as to enable the person to supply or receive goods or services.

Non-established businesses. Every taxable person who does not have a place of residence in Saudi Arabia and is not registered with the Saudi Arabia tax authority, but is obligated to pay VAT on supplies made or received by that person in Saudi Arabia, must apply to the tax authority for registration within 30 days of the first supply on which that person was obligated to pay VAT. All nonresident taxable persons have the option to appoint a local, approved tax representative who is jointly and severally liable for the VAT the business owes. However, where a tax representative has not been appointed, nonresident taxable persons are required to submit a financial or a bank guarantee for the purposes of VAT registration in Saudi Arabia.

Tax representatives. The tax authority may approve persons who wish to act as tax representatives or tax agents for taxable persons in respect of their VAT obligations in Saudi Arabia. The tax authority has published a list of approved tax representatives and approved tax agents on its website.

All nonresident taxable persons have an option to appoint a tax representative resident in Saudi Arabia to represent them in all VAT related matters. That representative, once approved by the tax authority, can submit VAT returns, and settle payments, to the tax authority and correspond with the tax authority on the taxable person's behalf. The tax representative shall be jointly liable for the payment of any VAT due by the taxable person, until such date that the tax representative is confirmed by the tax authority as ceasing to act on behalf of that taxable person. In the instance a tax representative is not appointed, the nonresident taxable person is mandatorily required to appoint a third party, established in Saudi Arabia, to comply with the requirements of keeping invoices, bills, documents, books and records as prescribed in the VAT legislative provisions.

The requirement for resident taxable persons to notify ZATCA of the appointment of a tax agent no longer applies.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism must be applied when a VAT-registered business imports a taxable service from a nonresident. The taxable person registered for VAT in Saudi Arabia is required to account for VAT on the transaction using the reverse-charge mechanism.

A VAT-registered recipient resident in Saudi Arabia must self-account for the VAT through its VAT return, by way of the reverse-charge mechanism, by assessing and accounting for the VAT charged on the supplies received, if:
- The place of supply for the goods or services is in Saudi Arabia.
- The supplier is not resident in Saudi Arabia.

According to a circular issued by the Saudi Arabia tax authority, in certain instances where the place of supply is determined to be in Saudi Arabia based on the special rules, a reverse charge may not apply and instead the nonresident supplier may have to register for VAT in Saudi Arabia.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Saudi Arabia.

Digital economy. Supply of wired and wireless telecommunications services and electronic services have special place of supply rules in Saudi Arabia. In cases where wired and wireless telecommunications services and electronic services are provided at a telephone box, a telephone kiosk, a Wi-Fi hot spot, an internet café, a restaurant, a hotel lobby or in other cases where the physical presence of the customer at a particular location is needed for those services to be provided, the customer consumes and enjoys the services at that location.

In all other cases, the customer consumes and enjoys the service at the place where their usual place of residence is.

Special rules apply to determine the place of supply of electronic services. Primarily, VAT applies in the country in which the services are actually used or benefited from. Practical factors that are useful in determining where the electronic services are used are as follows:
- If the service is provided in a specific location – the place of supply is where the customer must be physically present (in a specific location) to receive the service

- If the service is not provided in a specific location, e.g., if due to the portability of the electronic service, it can be accessible from multiple locations, the customer's usual place of residence is deemed the place of actual use

In determining the customer's usual place of residence, the following information may be relied upon by the supplier:
- The invoicing address of the customer
- The bank account details of the customer
- The internet protocol address used by the customer to receive the electronic services
- The country code of the SIM card used by the customer to receive the electronic services

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT in Saudi Arabia. The customer is required to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism. See the Reverse charge subsection above.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to register and account for VAT in Saudi Arabia.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Saudi Arabia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. There are special rules for taxable persons liable to VAT where electronically supplied services are supplied in Saudi Arabia through an online interface or portal acting as intermediary for a non-established business.

Where electronically supplied services are supplied in Saudi Arabia through an online interface or portal acting as intermediary for a non-established business, the operator of the interface or portal is presumed to purchase the services from the non-established business and to supply those same services in their own name. This does not apply in cases where both of the following conditions apply:
- The non-established business is expressly indicated as the supplier during the online sales process in the contractual arrangements between the parties and on the invoice or receipt issued by the operator of the interface or portal.
- The operator of the interface or portal does not authorize charging the customer for the delivery of the services or the delivery itself or set the general terms and conditions of the supply.

In cases where both the conditions are present, the intermediary is not considered as acting in its own name as a principal, hence, the non-established business is liable to pay and account for VAT on electronic services supplied.

Registration procedures. Where the person has a requirement to register, they must apply to the tax authority to register within 30 days of the end of that month. The registration will take effect from the start of the next month following the month in which the registration application is submitted or from the start of the first month in which its annual supplies were expected to exceed the threshold.

Businesses can register for VAT using the application portal that is accessible on the ZATCA's website. To register for VAT, taxable persons need a valid tax identification number (TIN). If the business does not have a TIN, it is required to register for one on the ZATCA's website prior to VAT registration. To register, the eligible person must provide the following, at the minimum:
- Taxable person details (e.g., legal name, address, contact number)
- Financial details – projected and actual taxable sales for the next and last year, respectively; and projected and actual taxable expenses for the next and last year, respectively

A VAT registration application can be submitted through the tax authority portal or through electronic mail.

The tax authority has developed an online portal, which is available on its website, where taxable persons can verify suppliers and customers' VAT registration numbers.

Deregistration. Where a taxable person ceases to carry on an economic activity, including cases where a legal person ceases to exist as a legal person, that taxable person shall deregister. Deregistration will take effect from the date determined by the Saudi Arabia tax authority after its approval of the deregistration.

Where at the end of any month, a nonresident taxable person has not made any taxable supplies in Saudi Arabia in the most recent 12-month period, the taxable person must deregister.

At the end of any month, a resident taxable person (having been registered for at least 12 months) is required to deregister where all the following occur:
- The total value of annual supplies or annual expenses in the last 12 months is less than the voluntary registration threshold.
- The total value of annual supplies made in Saudi Arabia or annual expenses in the last 24 months does not exceed the mandatory registration threshold.
- The total value of annual supplies or annual expenses in that month and the subsequent 11 months is not anticipated to exceed the voluntary registration threshold.

A taxable person shall apply for deregistration to the Saudi Arabia tax authority within 30 days of any of the cases above. Where the taxable person does not apply for deregistration to the tax authority, the tax authority may deregister that person. In such a case, the tax authority will issue a notification.

Deregistration is optional if:
- A business's taxable supplies in the last 12 months are between SAR187,500 and SAR375,000
- A business's expected taxable supplies in the next 12 months (current month included) are between SAR187,500 and SAR375,000

The deregistration takes effect on the date determined by the tax authority after its approval of the deregistration. A taxable person may not apply to deregister voluntarily in cases where it has been registered for less than 12 months. The tax authority may refuse an application for deregistration where it does not have sufficient evidence that a taxable person is eligible to deregister.

Changes to VAT registration details. Where any of the taxable person's information changes from that provided in the application or otherwise currently recorded, that person is required to notify the tax authority of the change within 20 days of that change taking place. The mode of notification is not specified, but it is presumed to be electronically through the online portal.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 15%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

The standard rate of VAT at 15% increased from 5% to 15% with effect from 1 July 2020. As a transitional measure, the previous rate of 5% could have been applied for goods or services supplied on or after 1 July 2020 in any of the following cases:
- If the supply is under a contract or agreement entered prior to 11 May 2020 and the recipient of the supply under such contract can recover the VAT in full or is a government entity – until the contract renewal, expiry or 30 June 2021, whichever is earlier

- If a tax invoice was already issued prior to 11 May 2020 for supplies to be made on or after 1 July 2020 – to the extent of the supplies covered in the invoice and performed or completed on or before 30 June 2021

The following imports of goods, which are not subject to customs duties, are exempt from import VAT:

- Goods for diplomatic and military use that are exempt from customs duties
- Imports of personal effects and household appliances being moved into Saudi Arabia that are exempt from customs duties in accordance with the Unified Customs Law
- Imports of returned goods that are fully exempt from customs duties
- Low value imports of personal items and gifts carried in travelers' personal luggage, within the limits set by the Customs Department for relief from customs duties collection

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

Saudi Arabia will treat intra-GCC products in the same way as non-GCC imports for the purposes of VAT, until the full integration of the Electronic Services System. This means that the concept of the implementing states is currently not live and that supplies to GCC residents are treated in the same way as supplies to non-GCC residents.

- A direct export from Saudi Arabia to a place outside of the GCC territory
- Services provided to non-GCC residents.
- Within international transport, zero-rated goods and services include:
  - International transport of passengers and goods
  - Vehicles and equipment to be used for international transportation
  - Certain goods and services provided in connection with international transportation
- Medicines and medical goods considered as qualifying medicines and qualifying medical goods as per the classification issued by the Ministry of Health or any other competent authority from time to time; qualifying medicines and medical goods will be part of the Ministry of Health's formulary drug list
- Investment metals: two types of transactions involving qualifying investment metals (gold, silver and platinum of 99% purity or higher) are zero-rated:
  - A producer or refiner's original sale of investment metal
  - Any further sale of gold, silver and platinum where the purity level remains
- Supply of military supplies to designated military forces in Saudi Arabia, given that the supply is made by a designated taxpayer who is licensed by the General Authority of Military Industries (GAMI)

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Certain financial and insurance services: this does not include instances where consideration payable is by way of explicit fees.
- Real estate: due to the introduction of the real estate transaction tax (RETT) from 4 October 2020 onward (see the Real estate transaction tax subsection above, under Section B. Scope of the tax for further details), certain transactions such as the supply by way of sale, lease, license or rental of a real estate property (except for the lease of commercial property) are now exempt from VAT. The supply of hotel accommodation, non-hotel but serviced accommodation or residential property held out for rent in a similar manner to hotel or serviced accommodation will not qualify for exemption. Any lease of commercial property or property designated or used for commercial purposes will also not qualify for exemption.

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Saudi Arabia.

E. Time of supply

The general time of supply rules for goods and services is the earlier of:
- Date of issuing a tax invoice
- When the goods or services are supplied
- When any payment is received to the extent of the payment

Deposits and prepayments. A deposit for a supply designed to be paid by the customer as an advance payment that will be considered as an initial payment for the supply or subsequent payments will create a tax point when received.

The tax point for an advance payment is whichever of the following happens first:
- The date the VAT invoice is issued for the advance payment
- The date the advance payment is received

VAT is due on the advance payment in the VAT return for the period when the tax point occurs.

A security deposit is not treated as a consideration for a supply unless the deposit is applied, either in part or full, as consideration for a supply, or it is forfeited in relation to defaulting the performance of the obligation. Apart from security deposits, a prepayment or deposit intended by the payer and recipient to eventually form part of the consideration for an identifiable supply creates a tax point when received.

Continuous supplies of services. In cases where goods or services are supplied and the invoice or agreement between the supplier and customer states that consideration is due and payable in periodical installments, a separate supply in respect of each installment takes place on the earlier of the due date for the payment of that installment or the date of actual payment.

In all other cases where supplies of goods or services are made on a continuing basis, a separate supply takes place on the earlier of the date an invoice is issued, or payment is made in respect of those goods or services, to the extent of the amount invoiced or paid.

If no payment has been received or no invoice has been issued in relation to a continuous supply of goods or services by a taxable person, the supply is deemed to take place on the date falling 12 months after the later of:
- The date on which the supply of goods or services commences
- The previous date on which the supply took place by reason of an invoice being issued or payment being made

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Saudi Arabia for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Saudi Arabia for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Saudi Arabia for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. A taxable person may apply for authorization for the payment of VAT on imports to be made through that taxable person's VAT return, instead of being collected by the Customs Department on importation entry (effectively postponed import VAT accounting). The tax authority will primarily approve larger volume importers for this option.

Supply of oil, gas, water or electricity through a distribution network. The supply of oil, gas, water or electricity through a distribution network that is not made on a continuing basis, takes place at the earlier of:
- The date an invoice is issued by the supplier in respect of those goods
- The date that payment is received by the supplier in respect of those goods

Deemed supply on deregistration. A deemed supply made as a result of the cessation of a taxable person's economic activity takes place on the date of deregistration of that taxable person.

Supply to government entity. Where a supply of goods and services is made to a government entity in accordance with contracts concluded under the Government Tenders and Procurement Law, the time of supply is the earlier of the issuance of payment order to the supplier or the date the consideration (or part thereof) is received.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may deduct input tax charged on goods and services supplied to it, to the extent these are received in the course of carrying on an economic activity and constitute:
- Taxable supplies, including zero-rated supplies
- Internal supplies, including input tax paid on imports from other GCC Member States; note that if the supplier resides in a GCC Member State that has not implemented VAT, the import VAT will be treated as if it came from outside the GCC
- Taxable imports from outside the GCC, meaning that VAT paid on taxable imports from outside the GCC is deductible if it used to supply zero-rated or standard-rated goods or services

A valid VAT invoice or customs document is required for an input tax deduction.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Saudi Arabia is five years, following the end of the calendar year in which the taxable supply takes place.

A taxable person may claim a refund of the amount of excess VAT paid, in any of the following circumstances:
- Upon filing a VAT return for a tax period where net tax is an amount due to the taxable person
- Where the taxable person has paid an amount in excess of the amount of VAT paid
- Where the taxable person has a VAT credit balance

In all these cases, the standard practice is to carry forward the amount in the VAT account, unless the taxable person requests a refund.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used in the course of carrying on the taxable person's economic activity.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible
- Any form of entertainment, sporting or cultural services
- Catering services in hotels, restaurants and similar venues
- The purchase or lease of "restricted motor vehicles," related services and fuel used in restricted motor vehicles; this also includes the repair, alteration, maintenance or similar services on restricted motor vehicles
- Any other goods and services used for a private or nonbusiness purpose

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)
- Goods and services used in making taxable supplies (e.g., raw materials for use in construction of a dwelling for sale)
- Goods and services used in making out-of-scope supplies, where those supplies would have been taxable if made in Saudi Arabia

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is not recoverable. Where input tax incurred is attributable to both taxable and exempt supplies, only the amount attributable to taxable supplies (in accordance with the partial exemption calculation) can be recovered. The default method of proportional deduction of input tax is calculated on the basis of a fraction where:
- The numerator is the value of taxable supplies made by the taxable person in the last calendar year

- The denominator is the total value of taxable supplies and exempt supplies made by the taxable person during the last calendar year
- The value of taxable supplies or exempt supplies made by the taxable person in the fraction, include those supplies that do not take place in Saudi Arabia, but that would have been either taxable or exempt supplies if they had taken place in Saudi Arabia

The fraction outlined above, shall not include:
- Supplies of capital assets by the taxable person
- Supplies taking place outside of Saudi Arabia that are supplied from an establishment of the taxable person outside of Saudi Arabia

At the end of the calendar year, the taxable person using the default method must compare the values used in the fraction during that year with the actual values of supplies made in that calendar year and make an adjustment to input tax in the final VAT return for that calendar year to reflect the correct proportional deduction based on the actual supplies for the entire year.

Special methods are allowed in Saudi Arabia. A taxable person may submit an application to use an alternative proportional deduction method to the default method in cases where that alternative method more accurately reflects the use of goods and services supplied to that taxable person. In cases where the application is approved, the tax authority shall prescribe a time period during which the alternative method may or must be used. Such period may be for a maximum of five years, following which a new application must be submitted.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Saudi Arabia.

In cases where the taxable person incurs input tax on goods and services that are not used to make taxable supplies, but are used for the following:
- In respect of raising capital for an ongoing economic activity to the extent this constitutes the making of taxable supplies by way of the issues of share capital or debt
- For a business activity that is treated as outside the scope of VAT, such as a transfer of an economic activity, or part of an economic activity as a going concern
- For another one-off event that is incidental to the economic activity to the extent this constitutes the making of taxable supplies

Such input tax shall be deductible in accordance with the proportion of the overall economic activity of the taxable person that constitutes the making of taxable supplies, determined using the applicable proportional deduction method.

Capital goods. If capital assets are bought after registering for VAT, then the full amount of input tax can be deducted immediately, in case the full amount is paid up front, and the intended use of the capital asset is the making of zero-rated or standard-rated supplies. However, if the price is paid in installments, VAT is accounted for with the periodic payments in line with the time of supply rules.

In cases where capital assets have already been bought before registration and VAT has been paid on it, the input tax paid can still be deducted after registration with its value capped by the net book value. Net book value is determined in accordance with the accounting standard of the taxable person, such as straight-line depreciation. This is covered in more detail in the Pre-registration costs subsection below.

A taxable person shall adjust previously deducted input tax in relation to a capital asset in cases where the taxable person's input tax decreases or increases as a result of a change in the way the taxable person uses the asset or a change in the VAT status of such use.

The adjustment period is 6 years in respect of moveable tangible or intangible capital assets and 10 years in respect of immovable capital assets that are permanently attached to land or real estate, starting from the date of purchase of the capital asset by the taxable person. Should the life of the capital assets (determined in accordance with the accounting practice of the taxable person) be less than the otherwise corresponding adjustment period, the adjustment period shall instead be the life of the capital asset, with any part years counting as one year.

At the time a taxable person acquires a capital asset, input tax shall initially be deducted in accordance with the intended use of the goods. During the adjustment period, an adjustment to the deduction must be made following any year in which the actual use of the capital asset differs from that initial intended use. Capital expenditure incurred on a capital asset already owned by the taxable person (i.e., to construct, enhance or improve it) counts as expenditure or additional expenditure acquiring it; the adjustment period (or additional adjustment period) for such expenditure shall commence on the date of completion of such works.

At the end of each 12-month period, a taxable person shall calculate the amount of input tax potentially subject to adjustment using the fraction: initial input tax deduction divided by the adjustment period and shall make an adjustment to the amount of the input tax deducted, based on the actual use of the capital asset during that year.

The taxable person shall make an adjustment to the input tax in the tax return for the last tax period that falls in the 12-month period. Under the law, the 12-month period starts from the date of acquisition of each asset.

In cases where there is a permanent change in the use of a capital asset due to the sale or disposal of the capital asset by a taxable person, the taxable person must adjust the input tax deduction for the remainder of the adjustment period for the capital asset in the tax period in which it is sold. No adjustment to the input tax deducted for the remainder of the adjustment period is needed if the capital asset is destroyed or stolen or ends its useful life earlier than accounted for.

Refunds. When a taxable person submits its VAT return, it can request to receive any refund associated with that return as a tax credit. In that case, the tax authority will automatically apply the refundable amount to the taxable person's balance on its next VAT return or at any other time.

Input tax can be deducted in the tax period when the supply is invoiced, in line with the invoice accounting practices. If the business is approved for cash accounting, then the input tax can only be deducted in the tax period when the invoice is actually paid.

However, a taxable person may submit a request to the tax authority for refund in any circumstances outlined above, at the time the VAT return is filed or at any other time within five years following the end of the calendar year for which the circumstances relate.

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person is entitled to deduct input tax incurred by it in respect of services supplied to it during the period of six months before the effective date of registration, provided that:

- The services are purchases to be used for supplies outlined above
- The services have not been supplied onward or used in full by the taxable person prior to the registration date
- The services are not of a type that is restricted from deduction

A taxable person is entitled to deduct input tax incurred by it in respect of goods supplied to it or goods imported by it before the effective date of registration, provided that:

- The goods are purchased or imported to be used for supplies outlined in the Recovery of VAT by taxable persons subsection, and where VAT cannot be wholly attributed to such, an apportionment is used

- In cases where the goods are capital assets, these have a positive book value at the date of registration
- The goods have not been supplied onwards by the taxable person or used in full by the taxable person prior to the registration date
- The goods are not of a type that is restricted from deduction

Bad debts. In cases where a taxable person does not receive all or part of the consideration for a taxable supply made by them, the taxable person may reduce their output tax for the VAT amount calculated on the consideration not paid in the VAT return in which all the following conditions are met:

- The taxable person has previously included VAT calculated on the taxable supply as output tax on a VAT return and made payment of the VAT due
- The consideration is in respect of a supply of goods or services made to a customer who is not a related person
- A period of at least 12 months has passed from the date of the taxable supply
- The taxable person holds a certificate from their certified accountant indicating that the unpaid consideration has been written off in their books
- In cases where the total amounts unpaid by the customer exceeds SAR100,000, formal legal procedures have been taken to collect the debts without success and the taxable person can provide evidence of these procedures, such as the issuance of a judicial ruling, evidence of the debtor's bankruptcy or a court order indicating any other formal recovery procedure

A taxable person using the cash accounting basis cannot make any adjustment for nonpayment, as outlined above.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used in the course of carrying on the taxable person's economic activity.

The tax authority may allow designated persons not carrying on an economic activity, or those engaged in designated economic activity, to apply for a refund of VAT paid by them on supplies of goods or services received in Saudi Arabia. The Minister of Finance may issue an order setting out a list of persons considered an eligible person. Foreign governments, international organizations, diplomatic and consular bodies, and missions may also be authorized by the Minister of Finance as an eligible person to request the refund of VAT incurred on goods and services in Saudi Arabia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Refund mechanism. The tax authority has launched an e-services portal for the submission of VAT refund applications for nonresident businesses that have incurred VAT in Saudi Arabia but are not registered as a taxable person in Saudi Arabia, and therefore were not able to recover VAT in the past. The process of submitting VAT refund applications consists of three main steps:

- Creating an account on the ZATCA e-services portal (one-time process)
- Registering as an "eligible person" and obtaining the individual identification number (one-time registration)
- Submission of periodic VAT refund applications (once registration as "eligible person" is approved)

In February 2023, the ZATCA issued a circular regarding submission of nonresident VAT refunds, the salient points of which are as follows:

- Eligible person's submission of VAT refund request:
  - The person applying for refund must have been approved by the tax authority as an "eligible person" and should use the identification number issued to them in all correspondence with the tax authority, including in submission of refund requests.

  - The application must be submitted electronically via the tax authority's online services portal, with all supporting documents attached. The tax authority has the right to request any of these supporting documents in paper form.
  - When submitting a VAT refund request, the tax invoices must be available in compliance with the statutory requirements as per Article 53 of the Saudi Arabian VAT Implementing Regulations and electronic invoicing regulations.
  - The nonresident taxable person should also have proof of payment of the amounts indicated in the tax invoices.
- Tax authority's process for processing VAT refund request:
  - The tax authority may request tax invoices or additional information from the eligible person (paper or electronic copies). The additional information should be provided to the tax authority within 20 days from the date of the ZATCA's request.
  - After the ZATCA has processed the application, it must issue a notice to the eligible person, including the result of its review. A nonresident taxable person has the right to object to the tax authority's decision.
  - Following the tax authority's audit, the tax authority should refund the amounts approved within 60 days from the date of issuance of the notice.

GCC businesses. Persons who are registered for VAT in another GCC Member State may submit an application for refund of VAT incurred in Saudi Arabia in accordance with the mechanism above.

Non-GCC businesses. Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Saudi Arabia is recoverable. Persons who carry on an economic activity in a country outside of the GCC territory may apply to be considered as an eligible person and able to request a refund of VAT incurred on supplies of goods or services made to that person in Saudi Arabia. A person will be considered as an eligible person in the following cases:

- If the person is established in a country with a transaction tax system similar to VAT, and that person is registered for that tax in that country.
- If the person is established in a country with a transaction tax system similar to VAT and that country allows a similar mechanism to provide refunds of tax to residents of Saudi Arabia who are charged tax in that country.

The person wishing to request a refund of VAT shall submit an application to the tax authority as per the aforementioned process.

Refund of VAT to tourists. The tax authority may authorize one or more providers to carry out a tourist refund scheme facilitating refunds of VAT incurred in Saudi Arabia by tourists. The tax authority shall publish a list of all authorized providers.

Tourists who can prove they are not resident in another GCC Member State, may apply directly to the approved provider for a refund of VAT on goods that are purchased in Saudi Arabia, which will not be used while in Saudi Arabia and that will be exported to a place outside of the GCC territory.

A refund application must be submitted by the tourist to the authorized provider while the tourist is still present in Saudi Arabia.

The authorized provider shall collect evidence of payment of VAT and on the eligibility of goods for refund. It shall also carry out a check of the application before submitting the applications to the tax authority for approval.

In cases where an application in respect of any tourist is approved, the tax authority will make payment of the refund amount to the provider. The provider is obliged to make payment to the tourist but may deduct a percentage of the VAT refund as a commission.

However, practically, the rules and the manner in which such refunds can be claimed by tourists has not been notified by the ZATCA.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Effective from 4 December 2021, each resident taxable person must issue or arrange for the issuance of an electronic tax invoice (e-invoice) through compliant electronic solutions in respect of either of the following events:

- Any taxable supply of goods or services that it has made to another taxable person or to a nontaxable legal person
- Any payment made in respect of a supply of goods or services to a taxable person or nontaxable legal person before that supply takes place

Any such e-invoice must be issued at the latest the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply took place.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the amount of VAT charged on a supply. Alternatively, if both parties agree, the customer can issue a VAT debit note. A valid debit note places the same legal obligations on both parties as a valid VAT credit note and must fulfill the same conditions. A credit or debit note issued must contain a reference to the sequential number of the VAT invoice issued in respect of the initial supply to which the credit or debit note relates. Such credit or debit note shall include the information required to be shown on a VAT invoice. Taxable persons are required to issue credit notes (and debit notes) in a structured electronic format through electronic means.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Saudi Arabia for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Saudi Arabia.

Electronic invoicing is mandatory for taxable persons that are resident in Saudi Arabia, or a customer or any third party that issues a tax invoice on behalf of the taxable person that is a resident in Saudi Arabia.

Mandatory electronic invoicing is being rolled out in two phases in Saudi Arabia. For the first phase, effective from 4 December 2021, all resident taxable persons (excluding non-established businesses) and any other parties issuing tax invoices subject to VAT on behalf of suppliers will be required to generate and store tax invoices and debit/credit notes through compliant electronic solutions.

For the second phase, which is effective from 1 January 2023, persons subject to e-invoicing must integrate their systems with the tax authority's e-invoicing platform. Invoices for B2B and B2G supplies under Phase 2 need to be approved by the tax authority before issuing to customers.

The integration phase is being implemented in waves and based on the announcement on the ZATCA portal, resident businesses should comply with the e-invoicing Phase 2 requirements as follows:

- Wave 1: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR3 billion in 2021 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 January 2023 to 30 June 2023.
- Wave 2: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR500 million up to SAR3 billion in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 July 2023 to 30 December 2023.
- Wave 3: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR250 million up to SAR500 million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 October 2023 to 31 January 2024.

- Wave 4: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR150 million up to SAR250 million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 November 2023 to 29 February 2024.
- Wave 5: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR100 million up to SAR150 million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 December 2023 to 31 March 2024.
- Wave 6: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR70 million up to SAR100 million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 January 2024 to 30 April 2024.
- Wave 7: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR50 million up to SAR70 million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 February 2024 to 31 May 2024.
- Wave 8: VAT-registered taxable persons whose taxable turnover is more than SAR40 million up to SAR 50million in 2021 or 2022 must integrate with the ZATCA's Fatoora portal from 1 March 2024 to 30 June 2024.

Generation of e-invoices must include all fields in accordance with the VAT regulations in addition to the VAT number of the customer, if the customer is a registered VAT taxable person. There are separate sets of requirements mandated, from an e-invoicing perspective, for tax invoices and simplified tax invoices. For further details, see the Simplified VAT invoices subsection below.

Note that electronic invoicing has not changed the requirements for issuing invoices, debit notes or credit notes as contained in the VAT legislation, and therefore the issuance of invoices, debit notes or credit notes must be adhered to in accordance with the provisions of the VAT law and its implementing regulations.

Simplified VAT invoices. A simplified VAT invoice is required to be issued by a taxable person for taxable supplies of goods or services made to anyone other than another taxable person, a nontaxable legal person, an institution or to any other entity established in Saudi Arabia in accordance with the applicable regulations. Further, a simplified VAT invoice may be issued for a supply of goods or services valued at less than SAR1,000. A simplified VAT invoice may not be issued in respect of an internal supply or an export of goods.

A simplified VAT invoice must include the following details:
- The date the invoice is being issued
- The full name, address and tax identification number of the supplier
- The description of the goods or service supplied
- The total consideration payable for the goods or services
- The VAT payable or a statement that the consideration is inclusive of VAT in respect of the supply of the goods or services

In addition, a summary VAT invoice can be used covering all supplies of goods and services for a given month where this is to one customer. The monthly summary VAT invoice must meet all the requirements of a normal tax invoice. It may include more than one separate supply of goods or services, provided all supplies included on a summary VAT invoice are made by the same supplier and within the same tax period.

From 4 December 2021, taxable persons are required to issue simplified VAT invoices in a structured electronic format through a compliant electronic solution that will include a mandatory QR code. The QR code must indicate at a minimum the seller's name, VAT registration number of the seller, time stamp of the invoice, the VAT amount and the total invoice amount.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Saudi Arabia. A self-billed VAT invoice may be issued by the customer on behalf of a supplier in respect of a taxable supply made to the customer, subject to the tax authority's approval, provided that a prior agreement between the supplier and the customer has been made to this effect. Such agreement must confirm a procedure for the acceptance of each invoice by the supplier of the goods or services and include an undertaking by the supplier not to issue VAT invoices in respect of those supplies. The supplier and customer should be registered with the tax authority for VAT purposes. The self-billed tax invoice should state that it was issued by the customer on behalf of the supplier.

Proof of exports. VAT is charged at a zero-rate on supplies of exported goods or intra-GCC supplies of goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, export and intra-GCC supplies must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Saudi Arabia. Acceptable proof includes the following documentation:

- For exports, export documentation issued by the Customs Department or equivalent Department of another GCC Member State, showing the goods being formally cleared for export on behalf of the supplier or customer of that supply, commercial documentation identifying the customer and the place of delivery of the goods, transportation documentation evidencing the delivery to or receipt of goods outside of the GCC territory
- For intra-GCC supplies, commercial documentation identifying the customer and the place of delivery of the goods, transportation documentation evidencing the delivery or receipt of goods in the GCC Member State of destination and a customs declaration if applicable

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices can be issued in foreign currency. However, the VAT amount should be reflected on the invoice in the domestic currency, which is the Saudi riyal (SAR).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. In the tax authority's invoicing guideline, it allows for the issuance of a simplified tax invoice for supplies made to any person who is a nontaxable natural person (individual). The tax authority accepts that suppliers of consumer goods and services may presume that transactions with individuals in a retail environment are made to a nontaxable natural person, unless the supplier has reason to believe its customer is a taxable person or a legal person.

Records. In Saudi Arabia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:

- All tax invoices issued and received
- Books and accounting documents
- Contracts or agreements for large sales and purchases or relevant correspondence detailing the particulars of those supplies
- Bank statements and other financial records
- Import, export and shipment documents
- Other records relating to the calculation of VAT and preparation of VAT returns

In Saudi Arabia, VAT books and records must be held within the country. For further details see subsection Electronic archiving below.

Record retention period. The invoices, books, records and accounting documents required to be maintained by a taxable person, shall be kept for a minimum of six years from the end of the tax period to which they relate, in case of audit.

Records with respect to capital assets must be kept for a minimum of the adjustment period for these capital assets – six years for tangible and intangible assets and 10 years for immovable assets like real estate – plus an additional five years from the date of purchase. In total that is 11 to 15 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Saudi Arabia. Taxable persons are required to maintain their VAT records inside Saudi Arabia. Records must either be physical documents inside Saudi Arabia or stored electronically, where the physical server is also inside

Saudi Arabia. This also applies to nonresident taxable persons in whose case their designated tax representative is responsible for records maintenance according to these principles. Multinational companies that centralize their record keeping outside Saudi Arabia, must have a terminal inside Saudi Arabia where their Saudi Arabian-related VAT records are accessible.

Other relevant requirements for keeping records electronically for VAT purposes include:
- Original supporting documents for all entries in accounting books shall be kept locally
- The taxable person shall document computer data entry and processing system of accounting entries for reference, if necessary
- The taxable person shall have necessary security measures and adequate controls that can be reviewed and examined to prevent tampering

The tax authority may review the systems and programs applied by the taxable person to prepare its computerized accounts.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT return of a taxable person must be filed by the taxable person, or a person authorized to act on its behalf for each tax period with the tax authority, no later than the last day of the month following the end of the tax period to which the VAT return relates. This deadline applies whether such date is a working day or a nonworking day. A VAT return filed validly on behalf of a taxable person shall be considered that taxable person's self-assessment of VAT due for that tax period.

For taxable persons whose annual value of taxable supplies exceeds SAR40 million during the previous 12 months or is expected to exceed in the following 12 months, the tax period shall be monthly. For all other taxable persons, the standard tax period shall be three months. If a taxable person's annual value of taxable supplies does not exceed this value, they may submit an application to use a monthly tax period.

A taxable person who has used the monthly tax period for two years may submit an application to use a tax period of 3 months, provided that taxable person's value of annual taxable supplies during the last 12 months does not exceed the SAR40 million value.

The tax authority may with a reasoned decision, obligate a taxable person to change their tax period.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT due by a taxable person in respect of a tax period must be made at the latest by the last day of the month following the end of that tax period. The person making the payment must provide details of the tax identification number of the taxable person and the tax period or tax periods to which the period relates.

Businesses must pay the tax authority the VAT they owe via a bank transfer to the tax authority's designated account using the SADAD payment system.

The net VAT payable by a taxable person in respect of a tax period is calculated by deducting the total input tax (including input tax on imports) allowed to the taxable person during the tax period from the total amount of output tax payable in respect of all taxable supplies made by the taxable person in Saudi Arabia during the tax period. This calculation method is known as the invoice accounting basis.

When the tax authority receives a payment from a taxable person, it will first be applied to the balance of the tax period to which the payment refers. Any excess balance will be applied to penalties, fines or charges owing from any previous tax period, and the remainder will then be applied to outstanding balances for other tax periods, starting from the oldest period with a balance payable.

The tax authority may offset any VAT credit balance against any other taxes due by the taxable person. The tax authority shall notify the taxable person where an offset of a credit balance is carried out.

If a VAT return is in a refund position, the balance can be carried forward and set off against a future payment or a refund can be requested. For VAT returns in a net refund, this option is to be selected at the time of submitting the VAT return.

Where any relevant VAT amount is expressed in a currency other than SAR, the amount must be converted to SAR using the daily rate prescribed by the Saudi Arabian Monetary Authority on the date that the relevant VAT amount becomes due.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Saudi Arabia for all taxable persons. Taxable persons have to login to the ZATCA portal (https://zatca.gov.sa/en) and submit the VAT return electronically. Supporting documents can be uploaded and amendments can be filed through the portal. The option for paper filing is not available in Saudi Arabia.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Saudi Arabia.

Special schemes. Secondhand goods. A taxable person may apply to account for VAT payable on a supply of eligible used goods, using the profit margin method. The taxable person may not use this method until it has received notification from ZATCA that it is approved. A supply of eligible used goods must meet all of the following criteria:

- The supply is that of used goods situated in Saudi Arabia, and the goods are of a type that ZATCA has specified are eligible for VAT to be calculated using the profit margin method.
- The goods were purchases by the taxable person in a supply made to the taxable person in Saudi Arabia by a nontaxable person, by a taxable person outside of their economic activity, or by a supplier applying the profit margin method in all cases where such a taxable person did not deduct any input tax on their purchase of the goods.
- The taxable person meets the criteria in respect of the purchase and supply of such eligible used goods.

A supply of goods that are situated outside of Saudi Arabia, or that move to or from Saudi Arabia as part of the supply to, or supply by, the taxable person is not a supply of eligible used goods.

VAT invoices issued for supplies of eligible used goods by a taxable person must clearly refer to the taxable person's use of the profit margin method and must not show any amount of VAT charged in respect of any supply.

In cases where a taxable person purchases the eligible used goods from a nontaxable person, the taxable person must issue an invoice in respect of the purchase to that nontaxable person. This invoice must include:

- The name, address and tax identification number of the taxable person
- The name and address of the nontaxable person
- The date of the purchase
- Details of the goods purchases, including any relevant registration number or other details that ZATCA may specify
- The consideration payable in respect of the purchase of the goods

The profit on a supply of eligible used goods is calculated as the consideration for the supply of the eligible used goods by the taxable person, less the consideration payable in respect of the purchase of the eligible used goods. The profit does not include any expenses or other amounts incurred by the taxable person in respect of the supply. In cases where the profit calculated of any supply is zero, or results in a negative amount, the value of that supply by the taxable person is zero.

A taxable person must not deduct input tax in respect of any amount of VAT charged to it or included in the consideration for the purchase of eligible used goods.

On 19 May 2023, the tax authority announced the effective date for using the profit margin method in relation to the supply of eligible used goods (used cars) to be from 1 July 2023 onward. In this regard, the tax authority outlined the following:

- Conditions for applying the profit margin method:
  - The car must be classified as a "qualifying used vehicle" by the authority
  - The used car must be registered in Saudi Arabia
  - The person must be licensed to undertake the activity of car trading
  - The person obtains the approval of the tax authority to use a profit margin method on used cars
  - The taxable person has not incurred input tax according to the usual method in respect of the consideration paid when purchasing an eligible used car
  - The taxable person must not have deducted any input tax imposed or included in the consideration paid when purchasing an eligible used car
  - Fulfilling the requirements of the tax invoice and keeping records in accordance with the provisions of Article 48 and Article 53 of the Regulations Implementation of the VAT system
- Conditions to classify a car as "qualifying used vehicle":
  - The car is registered in Saudi Arabia
  - The used car has been driven on the road for personal or business purposes
  - The used car must be suitable for reuse as is or after introducing some improvements, provided that such improvements do not change the basic characters of the vehicle
- List of goods excluded from the application of the profit margin method:
  - New cars
  - Cars imported into Saudi Arabia, even if they are used outside Saudi Arabia
  - Any car that is purchased and VAT is calculated separately on the invoice according to the usual way
  - Vehicles not classified as eligible used cars by the tax authority
- Additional details to be included in invoices for supplies of eligible used goods:
  - The title of the invoice should refer to profit margin (whether the invoice is standard or simplified)
  - The chassis number of the car should be included
  - Indicate that the consideration is inclusive of VAT and imposed on the profit margin

Cash accounting. As an exception to the requirement to use the invoice accounting basis, a taxable person may apply to calculate net VAT due for a tax period on a cash accounting basis provided that the annual value of taxable supplies in the past calendar year does not exceed SAR5 million, and the anticipated value of taxable supplies in the current calendar year is not expected to exceed SAR5 million.

However, a taxable person who has received notification of a VAT violation in the last 12 months is not eligible to use the cash accounting basis.

A taxable person using the cash accounting basis shall only include output tax and input tax in their VAT return in respect of supplies of goods and services for which and to the extent that payment has been made.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Saudi Arabia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Saudi Arabia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In cases where the taxable person becomes aware of an error or incorrect amount in a filed tax return or becomes aware of such facts that should have led it to be aware of such error or incorrect amount, which has resulted to the amount of tax payable to the tax authority being understated, that person must notify the tax authority within 20 days of becoming aware of the error or incorrect amount by filing a submission to correct the relevant tax return. If the understatement of the net tax is less than SAR15,000, the taxable person may correct that error by adjusting the net tax in its next tax return.

In cases where the taxable person becomes aware of an error or an incorrect amount in a filed tax return that has resulted in the amount of tax payable to the tax authority being overstated, the taxable person may correct that error at any time by adjusting the tax in any tax return in a later date of discovering the error. Further, no correction to any tax return relating to an overstatement of tax in respect of a tax period may be made after a period of five years has passed from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period takes place.

Corrections of tax returns are made online through the ZATCA portal (https://zatca.gov.sa/en).

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Saudi Arabia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Any taxable person who has not applied for VAT registration within the set time frame, shall be fined SAR10,000.

Penalties for late payment and filings. If a taxable person recognizes an error in a VAT return that it has already submitted, it has 20 days to notify the tax authority of the error by submitting a correction form. If the error results in a discrepancy of VAT owed under SAR15,000, the correction can be made by adjusting the net VAT in the business's next VAT return. Any taxable person who carries out the following:

- Files an incorrect VAT return to the Saudi Arabia tax authority
  Or
- Amends a VAT returns after filing or files any document with the tax authority due by them that results in an error in the calculation of the VAT amount resulting in an amount that is less than the VAT due

Shall be liable to a fine equal to 50% of the value of the difference between the calculated VAT and the VAT due; the tax authority has the power to remove or reduce the penalty set out above

Any taxable person that fails to submit a VAT return within the set time frame, shall be liable to a fine of not less than 5% and not more than 25% of the value of the VAT that they would have had to declare.

Any taxable person who fails to pay the VAT due during the set time frame shall be liable to a fine equal to 5% of the value of the unpaid VAT for each month or part thereof for which the VAT has not been paid.

An assessment issued by the tax authority in cases where a taxable person has failed to file a VAT return can be withdrawn after the filing of a completed VAT return for that tax period by the taxable person or a person authorized to act on its behalf.

The Saudi Arabia tax authority may make a VAT assessment of a taxable person irrespective of a VAT return filed by the taxable person. The tax authority may make a new VAT assessment to amend a previous assessment made by it. The tax authority must notify the taxable person of a VAT assessment.

The tax authority may not issue or amend an assessment in respect of any tax period after a period of five years has passed from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period falls.

In cases where any transaction is being carried out with the intention of breaching the provisions of the VAT law and regulations, or in cases where a person is required to register but fails to do so, the tax authority may issue or amend assessments up to a period of 20 years from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period falls.

Penalties for errors. In cases where a taxable person becomes aware of an error or an incorrect amount in a filed VAT return or becomes aware of such facts that should have led it to be aware of such an error or incorrect amount, which has resulted in the amount of VAT payable to the tax authority being understated, that person must notify the tax authority within 20 days of becoming aware of the error or incorrect amount by filing a submission to correct the VAT return.

In cases where a taxable person becomes aware of an error or an incorrect amount in a filed VAT return that has resulted in the amount of VAT payable to the tax authority being overstated, the taxable person may correct that error at any time by adjusting the VAT in any tax return in a later date of discovering the error.

Subject to the above, if the understatement of net VAT by the taxable person is less than SAR5,000, the taxable person may correct that error by adjusting the net VAT in its next VAT return.

No correction to any VAT return relating to an overstatement of VAT in respect of a tax period may be made after a period of five years has passed from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period takes place.

A non-registered taxable person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding SAR100,000 for issuing a VAT invoice without prejudice to any stricter penalty set out by any other law.

A fine not exceeding SAR50,000 shall be imposed on any taxable person that:
- Has not kept VAT invoices, books, records and accounting documents for the set time frame, and the fine shall be per tax period
- Prevents or obstructs the employees of the Saudi Arabia tax authority or anyone working for the tax authority from performing their duties
- Violates any other provision of the law or implementing regulations

If the same violation is repeated within three years from the date of issuing the final decision of a previous penalty, the fine, pursuant to that decision imposed on the violator, may be doubled.

The decision issued by the Saudi Arabia tax authority to impose a penalty, may include the publication of its content at the cost of the violator, in a local newspaper issued in the place of the taxable person's residence. If there is no newspaper in their place of residence, it shall be published in a local newspaper in the nearest area to them or by any other appropriate means, depending on the type of violation, its gravity and its effects, after the decision is deemed final.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Tax evasion shall be punishable by a fine of not less than the amount of VAT due and not more than three times the value of the goods or services that are the subject of the evasion. For example, this could be where a taxable person submits false documents to evade the payment of the VAT due or to reduce its value, or where a taxable person moves goods in or out of Saudi Arabia without paying the VAT due.

Where a supplier charges and collects VAT from customers, without the supplier being VAT registered, they shall be fined up to SAR100,000.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Saudi Arabia. While there are no provisions in the VAT legislation to assign a personal penalty or fine on the directors of the taxable person, in practice, company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Saudi Arabia.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Saudi Araba is five years. Generally, the ZATCA may not issue or amend an assessment in respect of any tax period after a period of five years from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period falls. However, in case a taxable person has an intent to breach the VAT provisions, the ZATCA may issue or amend assessments up to a period of 20 years from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period falls.

Tax amnesty. In March 2020, the ZATCA introduced economic relief initiatives to alleviate the economic impact of COVID-19 for businesses in the country. The initiatives included a tax amnesty program to provide relief to taxpayers from fines relating to tax returns, subject to certain conditions. The relief initially covered the period from 18 March to 30 June 2020 and was extended twice until 30 September 2020 and until 30 June 2021.

On 1 June 2022, the ZATCA announced the relaunch of the tax amnesty program, which was extended from 1 December 2022 for an additional six months until 31 May 2023. The ZATCA also issued an updated version of simplified guidelines, explaining the benefit of the extended tax amnesty initiative. The amnesty initiative applies to fines and penalties relating to the following taxes:
- VAT
- Withholding tax
- Excise tax
- Corporate income tax
- Real estate transaction tax

The amnesty provides exemption from unpaid fines, including:
- Fines resulting from late registration in all tax systems or tax laws
- Payment delay fines and delay in filing a tax return in all tax systems
- Fines resulting from correcting a tax return
- Fines resulting from field detection of violations of tax and e-invoicing

The amnesty initiative excludes the following fines:
- Fines paid before the effective date of the initiative
- Fines resulting from tax evasion violations
- Fines for late payment associated with the tax principal, included in an installment plan, which becomes payable after the expiration of the amnesty period on 31 May 2023

On 25 July 2023, the tax authority announced through its website that it is further extending the cancellation of fines and exemption of financial penalties for certain taxes, starting from 1 June 2023 through 31 December 2023. The tax authority has also published an updated English version of the simplified guide "Cancellation of Fines and Exemption of Financial Penalties," which provides further elaboration on the tax amnesty program, including the exemptions available to taxable persons.

The new and extended amnesty program covers the following:
- Exemption from unpaid fines for VAT returns filed up to the tax period of April 2023, including:
- Fines resulting from late registration under all tax laws and regulations
- Delayed payment fines and overdue tax return submission fines under all tax laws and regulations
- VAT return correction penalty
- Fines for violations of VAT field detection and e-invoicing, based on Article 45 of the VAT law

- Exemption from late-payment fines in the instalment plan approved by the ZATCA on payments due after the end of the period of the initiative
- Exclusions for fines paid before 1 June 2022, as well as for fines resulting from tax evasion violations, including late registration, delayed payment, return amendments and field detection

The exemption shall be subject to specific conditions, including:

- Registration of non-registered persons in the tax system, where registration is mandated
- Submission to the ZATCA of all pending tax returns not previously submitted or correctly reported, and payment of the resulting tax debt principal; alternatively, applying for installments after submitting the returns

Senegal

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Dakar GMT

FFA Senegal, member of EY
22 rue Ramez Bourgi
Dakar
Senegal

Indirect tax contacts

Alexis Moutome	+221 33 849 22 32 alexis.moutome@sn.ey.com
Olga Akakpovi	+221 33 849 22 13 olga.akakpovi@sn.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Taxe sur la valeur ajoutée (TVA)
Date introduced	23 June 1979
Trading bloc membership	West African Economic and Monetary Union (WAEMU) Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS)
Administered by	Senegal Tax Authorities/Direction Générale des impôts et domaines (DGID) (https://www.dgid.sn/)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Reduced	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax ID number – 9 digits, 1 letter
VAT return periods	Monthly (normal tax regime); Quarterly (simplified tax regime)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Senegal by a taxable person
- The importation of goods

For VAT purposes, the territory of Senegal includes the land territory, continental shelf, territorial waters and the exclusive economic zone.

Note that agricultural and employment activities (within the meaning of the Labor Code) are outside the scope of VAT in Senegal.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Senegal, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions. As per the Senegalese General Tax Code (SGTC), a service is only taxable in Senegal when it is territorially linked in Senegal. A service provision is linked territorially to Senegal when the service is used there or when the person on whose behalf the service is rendered is established there.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be exempt from the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as exempt from VAT. In Senegal, a TOGC is treated as exempt from VAT when a TOGC is subject to registration duty. A TOGC is subject to 5% registration duty under the provisions of article 472.11.5 of the Senegal General Tax Code. There are no additional conditions.

Transactions between related parties. In Senegal, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. However, the Senegal tax authorities (Direction Générale des impôts et domaines [DGID]) has the power to restore prices charged by related entities using the method of comparison with free market prices or other methods of price determination set by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD).

C. Who is liable

A taxable person (and, as such, VAT is payable) in Senegal is any person who carries out an economic activity independently and regardless of the location, whatever the purpose or the results obtained.

Persons or bodies governed by public law are also subject to VAT, where they carry out industrial and commercial activities and where they are these are carried out by means and methods comparable to those used by individuals or legal entities governed by private law.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Senegal does not contain any provision for exemption from registration. This covers all taxable persons, even those carrying out transactions exempt from VAT. This is because there is no tax registration for a specific tax in Senegal. Instead, there is a single register which allows a taxable person to pay all the taxes to which it is liable. As such, VAT registration is covered by the general tax registration, and is mandatory for all taxable persons to register. However, for taxable persons carrying out transactions that are outside the scope of VAT, there is no provision in the SGTC requiring them to register for VAT, and so are exempt from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Senegal does not contain any provision for voluntary registration for legal entities. However, individuals can choose between the actual or flat tax regime (Contribution Globale Unique [CGU]) depending on their turnover and the nature of the activity carried out. Taxable persons whose turnover does not exceed XOF50 million may opt for the CGU regime. Under this regime, they cannot charge VAT. However, the option must be notified to the DGID no later than 31 January of the fiscal year. The option is total and irrevocable. It takes effect from 1 January of the fiscal year.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Senegal.

Fixed establishment. In Senegal there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the permanent establishment (PE) rules for direct taxes also apply to VAT. There is no legal definition of a PE in the SGTC. Therefore, the criteria used by the tax authorities to qualify as a PE are those defined by the OECD. Therefore, there is a PE in Senegal if it meets the following conditions:

- When there exists a fixed business installation through which a company carries out all or part of its activity
- The term PE includes in particular:
  - Place of management
  - Branch
  - Office
  - Factory
  - Workshop
  - Mine, oil or gas well, quarry or other place of extraction of natural resources
  - Extraction of natural resources
- A construction or assembly site lasting more than 12 months

However, where a double tax treaty (DTT) exists between Senegal and the country of residence, the determination of PE will depend on the criteria and conditions set out in the DTT.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is an enterprise which does not have a permanent professional establishment (i.e., a PE, see the Fixed establishment subsection above) in Senegal through which it provides services or supplies goods. Such an establishment cannot be registered for VAT in Senegal.

However, when a non-established business conducts taxable operations in Senegal, these operations are treated as taxable. For transactions taxable under VAT in Senegal, a non-established business must appoint a tax representative to carry out the formalities of declaration and payment of resident entity or the tax is paid by the purchaser or beneficiary of the service. See the subsections Tax representatives and Reverse charge below.

Tax representatives. As mentioned above, non-established businesses are required to nominate a tax representative for VAT purposes in Senegal. The tax representative must be accredited by the territorially competent tax department and a taxable person identified for VAT in Senegal.

In case of default (nonpayment of VAT due within the legal deadline), the designated representative is responsible for the payment of the VAT due.

If a tax representative is not appointed, VAT and penalties are payable by the beneficiary of the taxable transaction, i.e., the customer (also called "reverse VAT" [TVA pour compte]).

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism applies when a Senegalese taxable person receives a service from a non-established business that does not have an accredited tax representative in Senegal (i.e., a business-to-business [B2B] supply).

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Senegal.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Senegal.

Under Article 35 of Finance Act for FY2024, nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are now required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Senegal while the customer is still required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above). Note that local businesses must collect VAT and pay it on behalf of the foreign supplier (i.e., via the reverse- charge mechanism) only when the beneficiary of the service is an individual that is not subject to VAT. Clarifications must be made by order of the Minister of Finance.

Any taxable person who supplies goods or services digitally (i.e., via the internet) to another taxable person (i.e., B2B) or ordinary consumer (i.e., B2C) can issue a standardized electronic invoice.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Senegal.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Article 35 of the Finance Act for FY2024 outlines provisions for the taxation of digital services. When the place of taxation of a digital service provided by a foreign natural or legal person is located in Senegal, VAT is collected and paid on behalf of the supplier by the intermediary who carried out the transaction. Nonresident providers who have their own technology and performing digital services are also subject to the obligation to collect and reverse the VAT relating to these operations via such intermediaries. VAT shall apply to the price of the digital services and, where applicable, to the commissions received by the intermediaries.

Digital services are defined as the supply of intangible goods or services carried out in an automated manner on a computer and/or electronic network. Intermediaries are those involved in online sales digital platforms, marketplaces or online marketplaces that bring together suppliers and marketplaces which bring together suppliers and their customers to enable them to conclude transactions using information technology.

The provisions of this article apply where the customer is an individual not subject to VAT in Senegal or to those that are a registered entity, i.e., for B2C and B2B supplies.

Registration procedures. All Senegalese companies or foreign entities that have a PE in Senegal must be registered for VAT (and effectively all taxes) before commencing taxable activities in Senegal, or at the latest within 20 days of opening the establishment or commencing their activities.

The application for registration must be made physically to the head of the relevant tax department (the one in the place where the business is located).

The documents and information below must be attached/mentioned to the application letter:
- National identity card for partners of Senegalese nationality
- National identity card or passport for partners of foreign nationality
- Certificate of Registration in the Companies Register (registre du commerce et du crédit mobilier [RCCM])
- Company name
- Bank details
- Title deed or duly registered lease contract
- Legal form and statutes
- Tax stamp of XOF2,000

It takes no more than one month to receive the tax ID number from the tax authorities.

Deregistration. The only tax deregistration procedure in Senegal is the declaration of cessation of activities that the taxable person must file to the tax authorities.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any substantial change affecting the operations of a taxable person (i.e., change of name of the business, change of activity and/or place of business, cessation of business, change of manager, direct or indirect transfer of shares or change of capital structure or shareholding) must be notified to the DGID. Notifications must be made within 20 days of the change. The notification of the change is carried out by a simple letter indicating the nature of the change to be filed to the tax authorities by the taxable person (with the official documents justifying the change).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Reduced rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Direct exports of goods and similar transactions and services directly related to these transactions
- Imports of goods placed under a suspensive customs procedure and the provision of services relating to goods placed under the customs transit procedure
- Imports, deliveries and services carried out for the benefit of holders of an authorization for exploration for hydrocarbons or a permit for the search for mineral or petroleum substances and their subcontractors recognized as such, throughout the term of the permit or authorization and their renewals and during the development phase
- Financial transactions and insurance and reinsurance services, which are subject to specific taxation
- Imports and resales in the same condition of goods delivered to the State, municipalities and public establishments in so far as such products are exempt from import duties
- Services provided for the direct needs of vessels destined for an industrial or commercial activity on the high seas

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Services provided by approved tourist accommodation establishments such as hotels, motels, holiday villages, hostels, village camps, hotel residences and furnished flats

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Medicines and pharmaceutical products, as well as deliveries of equipment and specialized products for medical activities
- Unprocessed foodstuffs of primary necessity, the list of which is fixed by order of the Minister of Finance
- School or university education provided by public or private establishments, or by a similar entity
- Rental of bare buildings for residential use
- Seeds, fertilizers, plant protection products, poultry and livestock feed, pure-bred breeding stock, hatching eggs, day-old chicks directly involved in a plant or animal production cycle

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax for VAT can be made for the following supplies:
- Sales by farmers of their produce (i.e., products they have grown or raised in the course of their farmer operations)
- Public passenger transport operations carried out by transporters holding regulatory authorizations and using fixed prices set by the authorities

The option to tax for VAT is global. It applies to all transactions carried out by the taxable person. It may be exercised at any time by letter addressed to the head of the competent tax service. It is only applicable to supplies made from the date of receipt of the option letter. The option is irrevocable.

E. Time of supply

In Senegal, the time when VAT becomes due is called the "chargeable event" (i.e., time of supply), while the date on which the payment of VAT becomes compulsory for the supplier and deductible for the taxable person is called the "payability." The chargeable event for VAT is constituted by:

- Supply of the goods or work for sales, real estate and contract work
- First use in the case of self-supply of goods or real estate
- Performance of the services rendered for the supply of services
- Release for consumption in the customs sense for imports
- Collection of the price or rent for:
  Leasing or Islamic finance transactions
  – Transactions paid out of State or local authority funds or subject to the withholding tax sytem
  – Transactions carried out by members of approved management centers subject to the simplified actual system. They must regularize all their taxable transactions carried out during the year by the end of the third month following the end of the financial year

However, if an invoice is sent before the goods or services are supplied, the chargeable event is deemed to occur at the time the invoice is issued.

In the event of collection of the price or of advances before the goods or services are supplied or before an invoice is issued, the chargeable event is deemed to occur at the time of collection of the amount collected.

The payability for supplies of goods and services is the month following the chargeable event and no later than the 15th of that month.

Deposits and prepayments. The time of supply rule for deposits and prepayments varies for the supply of goods or services. For supplies of goods or merchandise, the time of supply of deposits and prepayments is when the goods are delivered or when the price or part of the price is paid to the supplier. For services, the time of supply is when the service is performed or when the price or part of the price is paid to the service provider.

Continuous supplies of services. For periodic payments or continuous payments for continuous supplies of services or goods, the chargeable event for VAT occurs each time an invoice is paid or issued.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Senegal for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, VAT is due by the following:

- When supplies are made for sales of goods
- When services are rendered for supplies
- When an invoice is sent for both cases

If the goods are returned to the seller, the seller may issue a corrected invoice, or a credit note with reference to the original invoice. If the goods are not sold but not returned, VAT does not apply in the case of gifts of low value or samples for business purposes. A low-value gift is a gift with a unit value of XOF20,000 or less excluding tax.

Reverse-charge services. The time supply rule for the supply of reverse-charge services provided by non-established business is the performance of the service or the payment of an invoice by the recipient of the service.

Leased assets. Leasing tangible or intangible assets is a continuous supply and the chargeable event occurs each time an invoice is issued, or rent is paid. Furthermore, the treatment does not vary according to the type of lease and there is no transfer of ownership of the underlying assets leased.

Imported goods. The time of supply rule for the import of goods is the moment when the goods are put into consumption from a customs perspective. That is, the moment when the goods cross the customs border.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover the VAT incurred (i.e., the input tax) on the acquisition of goods and services for the following:
- Normal and necessary operating requirements
- A taxable transaction that is effectively taxed or exempted in respect of exports or similar transactions, the supply of goods and services under the free trade regime and the international transport of goods to a foreign country

The taxable person recovers the input tax on purchases or imports by deducting it from the tax collected on the supplies of goods or services (i.e., the output tax).

The input tax is only deductible by the customer if it is payable by the supplier, service provider or customer who has paid the VAT on its behalf.

To deduct input tax, the taxable person must ensure that the VAT meets the following conditions:
- Appears on the purchase invoices issued by suppliers or service providers, provided that these invoices are correctly worded, contain all the compulsory information outlined in the SGTC and are issued by taxable persons subject to the real tax regime.
- Has been paid on importation by the taxable person or on its behalf and that it holds the customs documents which designate it as the actual recipient of the goods.

Taxable persons shall also be required to meet the following conditions:
- Indicate, for each supplier, at the time of deduction on the back of the VAT return or on an accompanying document:
  - Supplier's tax identification number (Numéro d'Identification National des Entreprises et des Associations [NINEA]) or the number and date of the declaration for release for consumption
  - Name and address of the supplier
  - Nature of the good or service purchased
  - Purchase price
  - VAT invoiced or paid at customs
  - Deductible tax borne
- Justify the effectiveness of the transaction and its use for the purposes of their taxable or deductible operations

In addition to the above, taxable persons are entitled to deduct all, or part of the deductible input tax incurred, depending the circumstances, which appears correctly on an amending invoice issued to them by their suppliers as a result of an error or an adjustment. However, these invoices must correctly show the amended tax with an indication, if applicable, of the tax initially invoiced or the references of the initial invoice.

The time limit for a taxable person to recover input tax in Senegal is two years. The time limit starts from the acquisition of the goods or services.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for taxable purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use or services used for making exempt supplies). In addition, certain transactions subject to VAT are expressly excluded from the right of deduction (see list below).

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Costs of accommodation, catering, receptions, shows and the hire of tourist vehicles and passenger transport (with the exception of costs incurred by professionals in the tourism, catering and show business sectors and car dealerships as a result of their taxable activity)
- Costs of advertising goods and services for which advertising is prohibited
- Goods and services acquired by companies, but used by third parties, managers or employees of these companies
- VAT charged on services provided by a foreign supplier that are not considered a transfer of know-how (except for some that were subject to withholding tax)
- Services relating to goods excluded from the right to deduction
- Purchase or hire of vehicles or machines, whatever their nature, designed to transport people or for mixed use, when they are not intended to be resold as new or hired by a professional hire

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Any input tax incurred by a taxable person on a transaction that meets the definition of a taxable transaction and is actually taxed may be deducted unless it is specifically stated that it is a transaction in respect of which VAT cannot be deducted by law (i.e., the SGTC)

Partial exemption. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." The SGTC provides one method to recover VAT where a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies. According to this method, VAT is only deductible under a percentage.

The deductible proportion applied results from the ratio of between:

- The total amount, determined per calendar year, of turnover excluding VAT relating to taxable transactions and exempt transactions giving rise to the right of deduction
- The total amount, determined per calendar year, of all turnover excluding VAT earned by the business

The deductible proportion must be adjusted at the end of each calendar year when the initial deduction made is higher or lower than the one the taxable person was entitled to make.

Approval of the tax authorities is not required to use the standard partial exemption method in Senegal. Special methods are not allowed in Senegal.

Capital goods. In Senegal there are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal rules outlined above apply.

Refunds. If the amount of deductible input tax incurred during a quarterly period exceeds the amount of output tax collected during that period, the taxable person has a VAT credit which it can claim back from the DGID.

However, the following taxable persons may submit their claim for refund in the month following the month in which the unused VAT credit was established:

- Export businesses (defined as those businesses which achieve at least 80% of their turnover from exports)
- Businesses carrying out contracts or similar agreements with the State, public institutions and national companies financed by external aid or loans

All claims for refunds must be accompanied by the supporting documents that led to the VAT credit (e.g., supplier invoices, copies of contracts, details of taxable and exempt turnover, declarations of the release for consumption of imported products or goods, VAT payment receipts, copies of export invoices, proof of payment for exported operations). In addition, all claims for VAT credit refunds can be made either physically or electronically in accordance with the procedures set out by the decision of the Director-General of Taxes and Customs. At the time of preparing this chapter, this decision has not been published.

It should be noted that any credit not claimed within a period of two years will be automatically canceled and may not be charged or refunded.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Senegal is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Senegal. For this purpose, the taxable person must declare the tax in advance and attach the following:
- Copy of its debt certificates
- Proof of actual payment of the related VAT
- Proof that all legal means have been exhausted against the recalcitrant debtor

There are no specific procedures for claiming bad debt relief, except when the parties involve initiate legal proceedings. In this case, the rules of the Uniform Act on Simplified Procedures for Debt Claim and Execution will be applied.

Except for banks where it is considered that there is a bad debt when the arrears of the debtor on an important credit due to the banking group exceeds 90 days (i.e., three months), there is no specific deadline for the other taxable persons. Thus, for the latter, the deadline for characterizing a bad debt will depend on the commercial relationship between the parties.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Senegal.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Senegal is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Taxable persons must generally provide a standardized invoice for all taxable supplies made. The invoice shall be issued at the latest upon delivery of the goods or provision of the services. Any document which modifies the initial invoice must clearly show the references of the initial invoice with any modification of the VAT charged.

Credit notes. In the case of canceled, terminated or unpaid supplies, the change in VAT shown on the document requires a rectifying invoice referencing the original invoice. Transactions relating to canceled or unpaid supplies are canceled at the supplier's premises where the amount of these transactions has been charged to turnover. Where the canceled, terminated, or unpaid transactions have entitled the taxable person to a refund, it must send its customer a duplicate of the original invoice stating that the transaction has been canceled or terminated or that the invoice has remained unpaid and mentioning the amount of VAT which cannot be deducted for the customer. The customer must make the corresponding deductions on its next VAT return

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Senegal, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Senegal. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Senegal. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Specifically taxable persons who supply goods or services digitally (i.e., via the internet) to another taxable person (i.e., B2B) or to an ordinary consumer (i.e., B2C) can issue a standardized electronic invoice. For further details, see the subsection Digital economy above.

Electronic documents are accepted for invoicing purposes in the same way as paper documents, provided that the authenticity of the origin of the data they contain, and the integrity of their content are guaranteed. However, in practice, the electronic invoicing provision does not provide clear information on the formal and substantive requirements for electronic invoices. Nevertheless, the electronic invoice must, for VAT compliance, comply with the conditions laid down by the SGTC.

Simplified VAT invoices. Certain taxable persons may issue other types of documents other than a full VAT invoice (i.e., nonstandard invoices). These include entry tickets, transport and toll tickets, documents issued by electronic vending machines or electronic systems.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Senegal.

Proof of exports. The requirements for invoicing exports are that the invoice must state the following:
- Country of destination
- Names and addresses of the consignees
- Amount of the invoice

It should be noted that exports, being zero-rated, will not be subject to VAT on the invoice. The proof of exports to evidence the zero-rating is provided by the production of export documents duly approved by the customs services. These include, for example, export declarations, air waybills, bills of lading and international transport documents.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices can be issued in a foreign currency. If done so, the countervalue in the domestic currency, which is the West African CFA franc (XOF), should also be indicated (including the total amount before tax and the collected VAT). It is also recommended that the exchange rate be mentioned in the invoice.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Senegal. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Senegal, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include accounting books, registers, invoices, VAT returns, proofs of payment, and generally any document used or drawn up for the purpose of VAT reporting in Senegal.

In Senegal, VAT books and records must be held within the country. Such records must be made available upon request of the DGID and provided within a timely manner.

Record retention period. All invoices or equivalent documents must be kept by a taxable person for 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Senegal. Backup copies of invoices or equivalent documents may be archived in all support media (i.e., on paper and electronically). However, when invoices and supporting documents are electronically recorded, the taxable person must guarantee immediate, complete, and online access to them at the first request for transmission during an on-site control by the tax authorities.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns must be submitted monthly for taxable persons under the normal tax regime. The normal tax regime applies to taxable persons whose annual turnover, including all taxes, exceeds XOF100 million.

VAT returns must be submitted quarterly for taxable persons under the simplified tax regime. The simplified tax regime applies to taxable persons with annual turnover, including all taxes, of between XOF50 million and XOF100 million.

The VAT return and payment of VAT must be made by the 15th of the month following the tax period. Furthermore, a nil VAT return must be filed where the taxable person has not carried out any taxable transactions in a given tax period.

Periodic payments. VAT must be paid monthly for taxable persons under the normal tax regime. VAT must be submitted quarterly for taxable persons under the simplified tax regime.

The VAT is due by the same deadline as the filing deadline, which is the 15th of the month following the tax period. For imports, VAT is paid at the time of the chargeable event.

For taxable persons registered with the Direction of Major Companies and the Medium-sized Companies Centre 1, payment of VAT due must be made electronically via the e-TAX platform.

For taxable persons who are registered with other tax offices, payment must be made by cheque deposited at the relevant tax office

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Senegal for all taxable persons. VAT returns and their appendices must be filed electronically on the e-TAX platform for large and medium-sized companies as well as regulated professional companies and in the Mon Espace Perso platform for small companies.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Senegal. However, payments on account are allowed for suspended VAT for taxable persons approved under the Investment Code. The law allows the VAT due to be settled by installments over a period not exceeding 12 months. For further details on the suspended VAT regime, see the subsection Special schemes below.

Special schemes. Normal tax regime. The normal tax regime applies to taxable persons whose annual turnover, including all taxes, exceeds XOF100 million. Under this regime, VAT returns must be submitted monthly.

Simplified tax regime. The simplified tax regime applies to taxable persons with annual turnover, including all taxes, of between XOF50 million and XOF100 million. Under this regime, VAT returns must be submitted quarterly.

Flat tax regime. The flat tax regime (Contribution Globale Unique [CGU]) is optional for taxable persons whose turnover does not exceed XOF50 million. Under this regime, such taxable persons cannot charge VAT. However, the option must be notified to the DGID no later than 31 January of the fiscal year. The option is total and irrevocable. It takes effect from 1 January of the fiscal year.

Suspended VAT regime. The suspended VAT regime consists in authorizing certain taxable persons to acquire goods and services without immediate payment of the VAT due. It therefore has the effect of deferring the liability to pay VAT to a later date. It is neither an exemption nor a revenue write-off but only a deferral payment of VAT over time and without interest. This regime is for taxable persons benefiting from an agreement to the Senegalese Investments Code within the framework of their program of investments and to property promoters engaged in a program of construction of buildings for housing use approved by the Senegalese State. For further details, see the subsection Payments on account above.

Withholding tax. The withholding tax scheme is a special system for settling VAT that consists of the customer withholding the amount of VAT invoiced by its supplier. Thus, contrary to ordinary law, in the context of transactions subject to withholding tax, the VAT is withheld by the beneficiary of the supply or service, who is responsible for paying it back in full to the Treasury. The VAT withholding tax scheme applies when the operations are the subject of contracts paid by the following parties:

- The State, local authorities, public establishments, national companies, companies with a majority public shareholding and operators or concessionaires of public services, in particular water, electricity and telephone services
- Building companies affiliated to the DGE
- Producers or importers of cement
- Distributors of petroleum products (for transport in connection with the sale or resale of the abovementioned products)

Secondhand goods. This scheme applies to suppliers who, in the course of their economic activity, purchase secondhand goods for resale. Secondhand goods are considered to be tangible movable goods that can be reused in their original state or after repair, other than precious metals or stones. These traders charge VAT on the margin when they purchase, with a view to resale, goods from the following:

- Nontaxable persons (i.e., B2C)
- Another taxable person insofar as the supply of the goods by this other taxable person has been exempt from VAT
- Another trader in secondhand goods under the margin scheme

The taxable amount is then equal to the difference between the selling price, excluding VAT, charged by the secondhand goods trader and the purchase price of the same goods. Finally, resales that are not subject to the margin scheme are subject to the normal VAT scheme. The secondhand goods trader retains the right to deduct VAT on goods acquired for resale according to the rules of ordinary law.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Senegal.

Supplementary filings. Transaction statement. A taxable person is required to attach to the return a detailed statement of the taxable or exempt transactions carried out by it or returned to it, the amount of tax due, the deductions to be made and the adjustments to be made. In the case of exemptions, the taxable person must indicate for each transaction the invoice number, the amount, the exact identity of the customer and the reason for the exemption.

In practice, taxable persons must attach to the VAT return a statement detailing the deductions made. This statement should highlight the supply of goods and services as follows:

- Name and tax identification number of the supplying taxable person
- Amount of deductible tax paid
- Nature of the goods or services supplied

For import transactions, the person liable for payment is obliged to show separately, in the declaration for release for consumption, the customs value of the goods or product concerned, the amount of the customs duty and the product concerned, the amount of import duties and other taxes and duties taxes and duties assessed by Customs. The declaration for release for consumption must include the tax identification number of the taxable person. Import VAT is assessed by the customs administration, together with customs duties and specific taxes, on the basis of the declaration of release for consumption.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Taxable persons can correct errors in previously submitted VAT returns by filing a corrective or supplementary return, before receiving a notice of adjustment, a notification of reassessment or automatic taxation from the DGID.

A taxable person can correct errors in previous returns by writing to the DGID and providing details of the errors and previous returns. Such disclosures must be made by paper. At the time of preparing this chapter, the digital platform (e-TAX) does not allow to make an online rectifying return.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Senegal.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Failure to register for VAT (and subsequently all other taxes in Senegal) and declare existence within the legal time limit may result in a fixed fine of XOF200,000.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Any taxable person who has not paid its VAT due, duties, fees and levies due within the legal time limits must pay simple late payment interest of 5% calculated on the unpaid balance. Each additional month or portion of month of delay gives rise to the payment of an additional interest of 0.5%.

In addition, the failure to pay back the collected VAT gives rise to the application of legal penalties at the rate of 50% of the tax due. This rate is increased to 100% in the event of a repeat offense.

The failure to file a VAT return on time may be subject to a fixed fine of XOF200,000 without prejudice to interest on late payment at the rate outlined above. Furthermore, when the failure to file a VAT return is detected during an inspection by the tax authorities, it is subject to a legal penalty of 50% of the undeclared amounts as specified in the text.

Penalties for errors. Deficiencies, omissions or inaccuracies affecting the VAT basis, and which have led the DGID to make adjustments, give rise to the application of a simple late payment interest rate of 5%, calculated on the unpaid balance. Each additional month or fraction of a month of delay gives rise to the payment of an additional interest of 0.5%, calculated on the basis of the amount of VAT payable by the taxable person. This is the case when the taxable person proceeds by itself to rectify its errors by means of rectifying declarations which result in supplements.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of XOF200,000, which can be increased to a maximum of XOF1 million. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Any fraudulent activity, concealment or bad faith in a declaration or document containing information to be retained for the assessment or settlement of VAT will result in the application of a penalty of 50%, increased to 100% in the event of a repeat offense, of the amount due without prejudice to criminal proceedings.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Senegal. However, they may be held complicit in errors, omissions and fraud in the returns. In this case, the penalties are a fine of between XOF5 million and XOF25 million and imprisonment for between two and five years.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Senegal is 4 or 10 years. The DGID have, in principle, four years to investigate and detect errors and impose penalties. However, the right of resumption of the DGID is exercised until the end of the 10th year following the year in respect of which the tax is due only where the taxable person has engaged in an occult activity. This is defined as when the taxable person has not filed the prescribed returns within the legal period, did not declare its activity to the competent tax department or performed an illegal activity.

There is no time limit for taxable persons to voluntarily correct errors in their previous VAT returns. No correction can be made by the taxable person after receipt of a notice of adjustment, a notification of reassessment or automatic taxation.

Serbia, Republic of

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Belgrade GMT +1

EY
Vladimira Popovića 8a
Belgrade
Serbia

Indirect tax contacts

Ivan Rakić	+381 (011) 2095-794 ivan.rakic@rs.ey.com
Stefan Strovjanovski	+381 (011) 2095-775 stefan.strovjanovski@rs.ey.com
Gordana Ačanski	+381 (011) 2095-773 gordana.acanski@rs.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Porez na dodatu vrednost (PDV)
Date introduced	1 January 2005
Trading bloc membership	Central European Free Trade Agreement (CEFTA)
Administered by	Serbian tax administration (https://www.purs.gov.rs/en.html)
VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	123456789 (9 digits)
VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	RSD8 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods and services deemed to take place in the Republic of Serbia (referred to as "Serbia" in this chapter) performed by taxable persons in Serbia against consideration while performing their regular business activity
- Importation of goods into Serbia, regardless of the status of the importer
- Services purchased by taxable person in Serbia from service providers whose place of business is outside Serbia, with Serbia regarded as the place of supply (subject to the reverse-charge mechanism)

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Serbia, the effective use and enjoyment rules apply only to business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies of telecommunication services and of services provided electronically.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Serbia, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

- The acquirer of assets is a taxable person (i.e., registered for VAT), or would become a taxable person (i.e., registered for VAT) based on such acquisition
- The acquirer would continue to perform the same business activity

Transactions between related parties. In Serbia, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value. As of 1 January 2023, for transactions involving related parties (defined by the Corporate Income Tax Law as persons with whom there are family or other personal ties, management, ownership, membership, financial or legal ties, including the relationship between employer and employee and members of the employee's family household) in which the consideration is lower than the market value and the acquirer is not entitled to a full deduction of input tax, the VAT base will be determined at market value.

The concept of market value is also specified to represent the total amount that the customer would pay at the time of supply of such goods or services to an independent supplier in Serbia.

C. Who is liable

Any person (entity or individual) who supplies goods and/or services, and on that account generates revenues in this regard, in the course of the person's independent business activity, is liable for VAT. The obligation to register for VAT purposes and to calculate VAT is triggered when total turnover, except for the supply of exempt services, in the previous 12 months exceeds RSD8 million. A taxable person whose taxable turnover exceeds RSD8 million in the previous 12 months is obliged to submit a registration form for VAT to the tax authorities no later than the end of the first period for submitting a VAT return.

In addition, a taxable person is also considered to be an open investment fund, i.e., an alternative investment fund that does not have the statutes of a legal entity and that is entered in the appropriate register in accordance with the law.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Serbia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration. However, there is an exemption for non-established business supplies to taxable persons, as outlined in the Non-established businesses subsection below.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. An option is available for small taxable persons and farmers (annual turnover below RSD8 million) to register for VAT by submitting a registration VAT form to the tax authorities, thereby acquiring the rights and obligations to compute and deduct VAT. The minimum obligation to be VAT registered from voluntarily registering to account and pay VAT is for two years.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Serbia.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Serbia, where any organizational unit of a legal entity throughout which it can conduct business.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a registered establishment in Serbia. A foreign entity that supplies goods or services in Serbia is obliged to appoint a tax representative and register as a taxable person (only one tax representative can be appointed, either an individual or a legal entity). Foreign entities that make taxable supplies of goods and services provided exclusively to Serbian taxable persons, the State, government departments and similar bodies are not obliged to appoint a tax representative and register for VAT purposes, since in such cases the "reverse-charge" mechanism is applied.

A non-established business that does not make any supplies of goods or services in Serbia may claim a VAT refund, under prescribed conditions.

Tax representatives. A tax representative appointed in the Republic of Serbia by a foreign entity that does not have a legal presence in the Republic of Serbia is considered to be a tax debtor for VAT purposes. The tax representative is jointly and severally liable for all liabilities of the foreign entity. In case the foreign entity fails to appoint a tax representative, the recipient of the goods/services will be considered as a tax debtor for VAT purposes. A VAT representative must be resident in Serbia and have been registered for VAT for at least 12 months before applying to be a tax representative. The tax representative should comply with all the foreign entity's VAT obligations, including accounting for VAT liabilities and dealing with VAT recovery on behalf of the foreign entity.

Reverse charge. According to Serbian tax legislation, the reverse-charge mechanism is applied for services supplied by a non-established business to a business that is established and registered for VAT in Serbia, i.e., a business-to-business (B2B) supply, for which the place of supply is Serbia, if the foreign services provider does not appoint a tax representative in Serbia.

Domestic reverse charge. A domestic reverse charge also applies on the sale of secondary raw materials and services that are directly related to these goods provided by another VAT taxable person. Secondary raw materials are defined as the by-product of goods that have undergone a manufacturing process, such as metal, wood, plastic, paper and glass. Services that are directly related to secondary raw materials are sorting, cutting, partitioning, cleaning, polishing and pressing of such materials.

In addition, reverse charge applies in some specific situations of construction services (if the value of the respective services exceeds RSD500,000) and transfer of real estate. Finally, in accordance with the amended VAT law, reverse charge also applies in some specific situations of electric power and natural gas supplied through transport grids and distribution networks, where the buyer has acquired these supplies for further sale.

Digital economy. Specific rules apply to electronically provided services. In general, the place of supply of electronically provided services by an overseas business to both businesses and private individuals in Serbia is deemed to be the place where the recipient of services has its seat or a permanent branch office, i.e., Serbia.

Additionally, guidelines are in place in Serbia, defining the criteria and assumptions for determining the place of establishment, permanent establishment, permanent residence or residence of the recipient of telecommunication services, radio and television broadcasting services and services supplied electronically, applicable as of 1 January 2020.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies would be required to register and account for VAT in Serbia.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Serbia. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

If an overseas business has not appointed a VAT representative, VAT with respect to electronically provided services should be calculated by the service recipient by reverse charge. However, if there is a collection agent in Serbia that charges the individuals (or other nontaxable persons) on behalf of an overseas service provider, such collection agent is obliged to calculate and pay VAT.

Note that if permanent and temporary residence of the provider or recipient of the services are not the same place, the place of supply of the service is determined according to the place of temporary residence.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Serbia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Online markets are regulated by Serbian electronic trade law. Freedom to provide cross-border services is prescribed and the conditions under which it can be restricted. Cross-border service provision is the provision of services in Serbia or the EU, where the service provider is not established or is not resident in the territory of the country where the service is provided. In particular, the freedom to provide cross-border services enables domestic providers registered in Serbia to provide information society services in EU Member States to beneficiaries established/residing in the EU, under the same conditions as EU service providers would. At the same time, it enables EU providers to provide information society services in the Republic of Serbia.

Vouchers. As of 1 January 2020, the concept of a voucher is introduced. A voucher is defined as an instrument for which there is an obligation to be accepted as a fee or part of the fee for the goods/services provided, under condition that the following is stated on the voucher or related document: type of goods/services provided; identity of the supplier of the goods/services; terms of use of the voucher.

The VAT law distinguishes between single-purpose (SPV) and multi-purpose vouchers (MPV). The essence of distinguishing between SPV and MPV is reflected precisely in the tax treatment of issuing and transferring these vouchers. Namely, in the case of transfer of SPV, any transfer made by the VAT taxable person on its own behalf is considered as a turnover of goods or services to which the voucher relates, while the delivery of goods or services to the voucher holder is not considered as a separate transaction. On the other hand, the transfer of an MPV is not considered as a turnover of goods and services, but the delivery of goods, that is, the provision of services for which a fee is paid by a voucher is regarded as a taxable event.

Registration procedures. A registration form (EPPDV) is filed by the taxable person. After conducting the appropriate procedure, the tax authorities will issue a certificate of VAT registration. The VAT registration form EPPDV must be submitted to the tax authorities electronically via the tax authorities' portal. A taxable person whose taxable turnover exceeds RSD8 million in the previous 12 months is obliged to submit a registration form for VAT to the tax authorities no later than the end of the first period for submitting a VAT return.

Deregistration. A VAT taxable person whose taxable turnover is below RSD8 million in the previous 12 months may submit a request for VAT deregistration. This request must contain information about the date when the taxable person ceased to perform VAT activities, and it should be submitted to tax authorities within the calendar month in which said cessation has occurred. Request for deregistration is submitted on a ZBPDV form electronically via the tax authorities' portal. Along with the ZBPDV form, the taxable person must also submit a census list in PDF form, which must contain the following information:

- Capital assets used within the taxable person's business, that are held on the date of VAT deregistration activity, for which there is an obligation to correct the previous input tax deduction claim

- Facilities/buildings where the taxable person carries out its taxable activities, which the taxable person owns on the date of VAT deregistration, for which there is an obligation to correct the previous input tax deduction claim
- Other goods that the taxable person possesses at the date of VAT deregistration, on the basis of which it was entitled to recover its previous input tax deduction claim, or on the basis of which it is obliged to calculate VAT as a tax debtor
- Investments in facilities subject to the obligation to correct the deduction of the previous input tax deduction claim, on the date of VAT deregistration
- Investments in objects for which there would be an obligation to correct the deduction of the previous input tax deduction claim, had they been completed by the date of VAT deregistration
- Given advance funds on the basis of which it was entitled to deduct the previous input tax deduction claim

After conducting the appropriate procedure and if the taxable person's prior obligations arising from VAT are settled, tax authorities issue a certificate of VAT deregistration on a PBPDV form.

The tax authority merely informs the taxable person that the deregistration process has been successfully completed. Otherwise, the tax authorities would have notified the taxable person electronically about any perceived deficiencies via the tax authorities' portal. This is used for any changes in a taxable person's status, and as such no additional notifications are required.

Changes to VAT registration details. If the taxable person changes its address, name of company, activity type, etc., such change should be reported to the Serbian Business Register Agency within 15 days (relevant documentation can be submitted online). The Serbian Business Register Agency forwards that information to the tax administration. Also, note that changes such as the change of tax period (e.g., quarterly to monthly) should be requested directly from tax administration by 15 January. From 1 January 2020, such requests must be submitted electronically via the tax administration portal (e-porezi).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods
- International transportation services and related supplies
- Supplies of goods and services relating to aircrafts and ships used in international traffic

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Supply of medicines and medical care devices (e.g., prosthesis)
- Supply of a wide range of food products

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt goods and services

- Properties (except for first-time transfer of ownership)

- Land
- Supply of goods for which acquirer did not have the right to deduct input tax
- Rental of flats if used for housing
- Financial services
- Insurance services
- Postal services
- Education services
- Religious services
- Printing and sale of publications
- Public broadcasting services (except those with commercial character)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The second and every other transfer of ownership of buildings and building units is not subject to VAT but to non-recoverable transfer tax. However, it is possible that the buyer and the seller (as registered taxable persons) instead opt for application of VAT, provided that the buyer is entitled to fully recover VAT deriving from that supply.

E. Time of supply

The time of supply for a supply of goods takes place on the earlier of the following:
- When the supply of goods is performed
- When the payment is made, if the compensation or a part of the compensation has been collected prior to the sales of goods
- Incurrence of the liability to pay a customs debt on the importation of goods, and if there is no such liability, at the moment on which the liability to pay that debt would arise

A supply of goods is considered to be "performed" on the date when the dispatch or transport of the goods starts or on the date when ownership of the goods is transferred to the purchaser (if transport is not included). The time of supply of imported goods is considered to be the date on which the goods arrive in the Serbian customs territory.

The time of supply for a supply of services takes place on the earlier of the following:
- When the supply of services is performed
- When the payment is made, if the compensation or part of the compensation has been collected prior to the supply of services
- When the invoice is issued – applicable only for the services of transfer of IP rights and granting the right to use IP rights

Services are considered to be "performed" on the date when the provision of the individual service is finished or when the legal basis for the provision of time (limited or unlimited service) is finished. Apart from this, if periodical invoices are issued for the service, the supply of that service is considered finished on the last day of the tax period for which that invoice relates. If the payment is made before the delivery of goods or services, the moment of supply is the moment when the payment is made.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Serbia for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Serbia for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

However, for the supply of electricity, as well as in the case of supply of services for bringing electricity into the energy system, the supply is considered completed and the service is considered provided on the day of issuance of an invoice.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Serbia for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Serbia for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. The Serbian VAT law does not explicitly distinguish between financial and operating leasing. However, there are separate guidelines that set out the conditions that must be fulfilled for a lease to be regarded as a sale of goods. If a lease is regarded as a sale of goods, the time of supply is when the goods are handed over, i.e., the leasing provider issues an invoice containing the total amount of VAT base and the total amount of the calculated VAT. On the other hand, if a lease is regarded as a service, the time of supply is when the leasing provider issues an invoice for each individual lease installment in which the amount of the lease installment and the amount of VAT (calculated on the lease installment) is disclosed.

Imported goods. VAT upon importation is due once the goods are placed in Serbian customs territory unless the goods are placed in some of the suspension customs regimes.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to the person for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Serbia, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT applied to reverse-charge services.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Serbia is five years. A taxable person may exercise the right to recover input tax within five years from the day when the statute of limitations began to run, i.e., from the first day of the year following the year in which taxable person acquired the right for reclaiming input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Effectively, any expenditure that is not business related is nondeductible from an input tax perspective.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- In many cases, expenditures related to acquisition and import of cars, boats, yachts, motorcycles, aircraft, fuel and spare parts, as well as goods and services related to their maintenance and storage
- Expenditure related to business entertainment, including catering, gifts, sporting events, recreation and other costs incurred in favor of business partners, potential business partners, representatives of business partners and other individuals, for which there is no legal obligation
- Expenditure related to meals and transportation of employees or other persons engaged in work, to or from the work

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Accommodation
- Employee expenses
- Car hire
- Business maintenance costs

Partial exemption. If acquired goods or services are used partly for purposes of taxable supplies and partly for exempt supplies, the taxable person may not deduct input tax totally. This situation is known as "partial exemption." The taxable person should divide that part of the input tax relating to taxable supplies and that which does not relate to taxable supplies, based on the economic background of supply. If this is not possible, then the calculation of the amount of input tax that may be recovered is made on a pro rata basis by using the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Amount of deductible input tax x taxable turnover + exports}}{\text{Taxable turnover + exports + exempt supplies}}$$

Total turnover, which is the divisor in the above equation, is the turnover executed from 1 January of the current year until the end of the tax period for which the VAT return is submitted.

The taxable person is not obliged to perform division of the input tax if the established percentage of proportional VAT deduction is at least 98%.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Serbia. Special methods are not allowed in Serbia.

Capital goods. Capital goods are facilities and equipment that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is generally deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes in the period of 5 years from the first usage of the equipment, 10 years from the first usage of the facilities and 10 years from finishing the investment in the facilities.

A capital goods adjustment applies for a period represented in the difference between the aforementioned periods (5/10 years) and the period in which the taxable person had the right to deduct input tax. Exceptionally, the taxable person does not have an obligation to adjust input tax on the capital goods in the case of disposal of the equipment and facilities that may be considered as a functional unit.

Refunds. If the input tax is higher than the output tax, the taxable person has a right to obtain a refund or to use this amount as a tax credit. The input tax credit can be carried forward to future tax periods to offset output tax.

In order to claim the input tax refund, the taxable person must tick the box in its VAT return or by submitting a subsequent request to the tax authorities for the input tax refund.

The refund should be performed, at the latest, 45 days after the deadline for submission of the tax return for the current period (or 15 days after the deadline for the taxable persons who mostly perform supply of goods abroad, i.e., a predominant exporter). The tax administration is liable to pay interest on delayed tax reimbursements at the same rate of penalty interest that applies to taxable persons for late payments of VAT (this is the annual reference rate of the National Bank of Serbia, plus 10 percentage points).

Pre-registration costs. This occurs in the tax period in which the supply of goods with the right to deduct input tax was performed.

The taxable person may deduct input tax for the goods purchased within 12 months before starting to carry out taxable activities and that are in its possession on said day under fulfilling prescribed conditions.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Serbia. The taxable person may claim the bad debt relief on the price that has not been paid by the customer. This is only allowed if they have received a final binding court decision on the completed bankruptcy proceedings and/or on the ground of a certified minutes on compulsory settlement with debtors. No other documentation is required.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Serbia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Serbia is recoverable. Non-established businesses may obtain refunds of VAT incurred in Serbia solely if they do not perform any supply of goods or services in Serbia (to the extent the input tax deduction would also be allowed for resident/established businesses), except for international transportation services and under the terms of reciprocity. The refund request is submitted annually, and the deadline for submission is 30 June for the purchases made in the previous year.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. The invoice must comply with the requirements set out in the VAT law and the rulebook on.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply of goods or services – provided the buyer is a taxable person and has confirmed that the input tax has been corrected; a debit note may be used to increase the amount of VAT. Tax credit and debit notes must be cross-referenced to the original VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Serbia for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Serbia. For B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is not allowed in Serbia. For B2B and B2G supplies, this covers supplies made by public sector entities, private sector entities (including entrepreneurs) and VAT representatives for foreign companies. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Serbia.

The law on electronic invoicing (LEI) entered into force on 7 May 2021. The law regulates the issuance, sending, receipt, processing, storage, content and elements of electronic invoices, in transactions between public sector entities, between private sector entities, between public and private sector entities, and other transactions of importance for electronic invoicing. In addition, LEI introduced a special obligation to record all VAT that is not already included in invoices issued through the system (i.e., in cases where a VAT debtor is not obliged to issue e-invoice).

Transactions in scope of LEI are delivery of goods or provision of services, between public sector entities, public and private sector entities, and between private sector entities, including advance payments. Private sector entities are legal entities (including entrepreneurs and VAT representatives for foreign companies) registered for VAT in Serbia, while public sector entities are state and local level authorities, as well as public enterprises (by means of relevant laws regulating budget system and public enterprises; further "government").

All compliance activities related to electronic invoicing are performed in the electronic invoicing system, eFaktura (SEF), which is an IT platform managed by the Ministry of Finance. Also in addition to the law, there are seven other bylaws and one internal-technical instruction that define the subject and obligations related to electronic invoicing, method of registration to the system, deadlines, the format in which the electronic invoice appears, technical possibilities, etc. In accordance with the bylaws and technical instruction, documents within the system are uploaded, stored and exchanged within SEF in XML form, while there is an option to download documents in PDF form, as well as option to attach supporting documentation (also in PDF). The right to deduct input tax is allowed on the basis that an electronic invoice has been accepted, or is considered accepted, in accordance with the law regulating electronic invoicing.

The right to deduct input tax on the basis of an accepted electronic invoice can be exercised at the earliest for the tax period in which the tax liability arose, regardless of whether the electronic invoice was issued on the day the tax liability arose or after that day.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Serbia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Serbia. Specifically, self-billing is allowed under the following conditions:

- The customer receiving goods and services is registered for VAT in Serbia and therefore has the right to state VAT on the invoice
- There is an agreement between the taxable persons issuing and receiving accounting document that the sale of goods and services is to be accounted for by the recipient of goods and services
- The accounting document has been presented to the taxable person who has delivered the goods or services
- The taxable person who has supplied the goods and services is not in VAT debt with the tax authorities

Proof of exports. For proof of exports, an export declaration with confirmation that the goods have left Serbian territory is required.

Foreign currency invoices. A Serbian VAT invoice for domestic supplies must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Serbian dinar (RSD). If an invoice is received in a foreign currency, the amounts must be converted into RSD. The exchange rate used for imports is determined by customs, while the exchange rate for domestic VAT supplies is the middle exchange rate published by the National Bank of Serbia or the agreed exchange rate applicable on the date when the tax obligation takes place.

As of 1 July 2021, if the fee for the supply of goods or services is charged in a foreign currency, the amount of the base and the amount of VAT (or the amount of fee for individual transaction of goods and services) may be denominated in the foreign currency, while the data on the total amount of the base and the total amount of VAT, i.e., on the total amount of the fee, must be denominated in RSD.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Serbia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Serbia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records of received invoices/transactions and records of issued invoices/transactions. Such evidence should contain certain data on invoice or customs declaration number (in case of import), the net fee paid, the applicable VAT rate, the amount of calculated VAT, the total amount of turnover during one VAT period and other data.

In Serbia, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Restrictions regarding the place of storage of documentation are not explicitly prescribed in the Serbian VAT law. However, there are special conditions that must be met in terms of providing access to data to the competent state authorities to possibly conduct control of the legality of business. Therefore, the system of document storage should, among other things, enable access and export of data in a readable form, which is suitable for further processing by the competent state authorities for control purposes.

Record retention period. VAT records and all supporting documents based on which the VAT records are maintained (e.g., invoices) should be kept until the expiry of statute of limitation period for determination and collection of VAT (statute of limitation period is 5 years; absolute limitation is 10 years).

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Serbia. The law on accounting prescribes that accounting documents may be stored on electronic media as original electronic documents or digital copies, provided that the competent authority has access to the information so stored and provided:

- That the information contained in the electronic document or record can be accessed and is suitable for further processing
- That the data is stored in the form in which it was created, sent and received
- That sender, recipient, time and place of sending and receiving can be determined from the saved electronic message
- Technologies and procedures are applied to sufficiently secure against alteration or erasure of data or other reliable means of guaranteeing the invariability of data or messages, as well as backup database at another location

Hence, both the e-invoice and the email message should be achieved on the computer. Also, note that if the original document is in paper form and then digitized and authenticated in accordance with the law regarding electronic documentation, such document gives the probative power of the original (paper) document, but the authentication of the digitized document does not mean that the original document can be destroyed. In this case, according to the regulations currently in force, the paper original must be kept.

I. Returns and payments

Periodic returns. The tax period is a calendar month or a quarter depending on the total turnover of the particular taxable person in the last 12 months (if turnover exceeds RSD50 million).

Both monthly and quarterly taxable persons must submit the tax return within 15 days after the expiration of the tax period.

The obligation to file the VAT calculation breakdown along with the VAT return has been initially postponed due to the fact that the first version of VAT calculation breakdown was too burdensome from the perspective of both taxable persons and tax authorities.

Taxable persons are also obliged to file a POPDV form along with the VAT return (see Supplementary filings below).

Periodic payments. The deadline for VAT payment is the same as the deadline for the filing of VAT returns, i.e., within 15 days after the expiration of the tax period. Upon submitting the VAT return electronically via the portal, e-porezi, the taxable person pays the VAT liability by transferring funds to the prescribed public revenue account. The VAT payable by a taxable person for a tax period equals the VAT on the total taxable value of supplies made during the tax period minus any input tax allowed as a deduction.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Serbia for all taxable persons. The submission of a VAT return, as well as the submission of an amended VAT return, is completed electronically. The return is submitted on the prescribed PPPDV form. Taxable persons must use the "E-Taxes portal." It collects electronic services for the Serbian tax administration, enables all taxable persons to submit online tax forms with digital signatures, provides follow up on the status of submitted applications with insight into the taxable person's tax card and provides faster and simpler fulfillment of obligations toward tax administration. This system meets high security standards that enable safe and uncompromised electronic data transfer.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Serbia.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. Small and medium-sized enterprises with an annual turnover of less than RSD50 million may opt to pay VAT after they have received payment.

Collection system. The taxable person whose total turnover in the previous 12 months is not more than RSD50 million may opt for reporting and paying the VAT once the receivables are collected (whereby input tax is also reported once the payables are settled). VAT is also due if the payment is not received within six months after the supply was performed. Certain types of supplies prescribed by the law are exempt of the application of this "collection system."

Investment gold. Generally, VAT is not calculated on the supply of investment gold. The taxable person who performs the mentioned supply has the right to deduct VAT for that supply. Exceptionally, the taxable person may, under certain conditions, opt for VAT calculation for investment gold supply.

Small taxable persons. Small taxable persons do not charge VAT for performed trade of goods and services, do not have the right to indicate the VAT in invoices and are not entitled to deduct input tax. Also, they are not required to keep records prescribed by VAT law.

Tour operator's scheme. Tourist services provided by a tourist agency are considered as a single service. The place of trade of a single tourist service is the place where the service provider has its head office or a permanent establishment if the trade of service is carried out from a permanent establishment that is not in the place where the provider has its head office. The tax base of the single tourist service provided by a tourist agency is the amount representing the difference between total price paid by a passenger and actual expenses paid by the tourist agency for preliminary tourist services, after deducting the VAT that is included in that difference.

Works of art, secondhand goods, antique goods. Taxable persons engaged in the trade of used goods, including secondhand motor vehicles, fine art works, collector's goods and antiques, determine tax base as a difference between the sale price and the purchase price of the goods by deducting the VAT that is included in that difference.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Serbia.

Supplementary filings. Pregled obracuna PDV (POPDV). Taxable persons are also obliged to file a Pregled obracuna PDV (POPDV) form along with the VAT return. POPDV is the official name of the form and in English would be "Form and Content of the Overview of VAT Calculation." The form provides an overview of the VAT calculations that support the VAT return figures. If the taxable person fails to file the VAT calculation breakdown on the POPDV form along with the VAT return, it will be deemed as if the VAT return was not filed at all.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If the taxable person finds that the tax return submitted to the tax administration contains an error that results in an incorrectly determined amount of tax liability, or an omission of another type, it is obliged to immediately and no later than the expiration of the statute of limitations, file a tax return in which the error or omission has been rectified. If the taxable person acts in the stated manner, it shall be considered that no criminal offense or misdemeanor has been committed in the original tax return.

The taxable person may change the submitted tax return no more than twice by submitting the amended tax return.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Serbia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. If a taxable person who is a legal entity fails to register for VAT, a fine ranging from RSD100,000 to RSD2 million will apply. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity will be fined in the amount from RSD10,000 to RSD100,000 in case of relevant offense. If a legal entity submits the registration form after the prescribed deadline, penalties of RSD100,000 may be imposed. Also, a responsible person within the legal entity will be fined in the amount of RSD10,000 in case of said offense.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For late payment and filing of a VAT return, a monetary penalty of RSD100,000 is prescribed for the legal entity and RSD50,000 for the responsible person.

Penalties for errors. If the taxable person establishes that the tax return, which he submitted to the tax administration contains an error that results in a wrongly determined amount of tax liability, or omission of another kind, he is obliged to immediately file, and no later than the expiration of the expiration date, a tax return in which the error is, or omission is, remedied. The taxable person may amend the tax return no more than twice by filing the amended tax return.

Incorrect VAT reporting may lead to a penalty of 30% of the difference between the correct VAT amount that should have been reported and the unreported/incorrectly reported VAT amount, but RSD200,000 at the minimum for legal entity, and a penalty in the range from RSD10,000 to RSD100,000 for the responsible person.

The late notification or failure to notify the Serbian Business Register Agency of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of RSD6,000 (approx. EUR51). For further details. see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Serbian criminal law stipulates that whoever with intent to fully or partially avoid payment of taxes, contributions or other statutory liabilities, gives false information on legal income, objects and other facts relevant to determination of such obligations, or who with the same intent, in case of mandatory reporting (filing of returns) fails to report lawful income, objects and other facts relevant to determination of such obligations, or who with the same intent conceals information relevant for determination of aforementioned obligations, and the amount of obligation whose payment is avoided exceeds RSD1 million, shall be punished by imprisonment of up to five years and fined.

Note that if the mentioned tax liability exceeds RSD5 million, the offender shall be punished by imprisonment of 2 to 8 years and fined, and if tax liability exceeds RSD15 million, offenders shall be punished by imprisonment of 3 to 10 years and fined. As the law uses the term "whoever," this also includes the liability of directors and individuals responsible.

In addition, note that a legal person may be liable for criminal offenses from a separate part of the criminal law and other laws, provided that the conditions for liability of the legal person are fulfilled.

Personal liability for company officers. The general rule from both criminal and offense legislation is that the responsible person in the legal entity is the person who on the basis of the law, regulation or authorization conducts certain managerial, supervisory or other functions in the company, as well as the person who factually conducts certain work – substance over form. This is, presumably, a director, although it can be proved that some other person/company official has been liable for certain activities of the company.

In Serbian legislation, directors (and other responsible representatives) may be held liable for both offenses and fined or even have criminal liability. Fines for the misdemeanors can reach up to RSD150,000 for the responsible representatives of the legal entity.

When initiating procedures for the misdemeanors, the tax authorities will most often charge both the legal entity and the responsible representative for the same irregularity.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Serbia is five years. The statute of limitation period (for all taxes) in Serbia in which the tax authority may go back and assess additional tax liabilities is generally set at five years. The prescribed five years start counting from the year following the year in which tax liability was due. Also, the absolute statute of limitation is set at 10 years.

Related to penalties, note that the tax authority is entitled to initiate and complete the tax offense procedure within five years from the date when the tax offense occurred.

For more details on voluntarily correction of errors in previous VAT returns, see the Correcting errors in previous returns subsection above.

Singapore

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Singapore GMT +8

EY
One Raffles Quay
North Tower, Level 18
Singapore 048583
Singapore

Indirect tax contacts

Kai Eng Yeo	+65 6309-8208 kai.eng.yeo@sg.ey.com
Boon Choo Chew	+65 6309-8764 boon-choo.chew@sg.ey.com
Danny Koh	+65 6309 6101 danny.koh@sg.ey.com
Monica Sum	+65 6309-8194 monica.sum@sg.ey.com
Seng Geok Goh	+65 6309-8644 seng-geok.goh@sg.ey.com
Claren Lai	+65 6309-8117 claren.lai@sg.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Goods and services tax (GST)
Local name	Cukai barangan dan perkhidmatan
Date introduced	1 April 1994
Trading bloc membership	Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN)
Administered by	Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) (http://www.iras.gov.sg)
GST rates
Standard	9%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
GST number format
Local	M2-1234567-8, MR-1234567-8 and 19-9012345-X
Nonresident	F2-1234567-D
GST return periods	Quarterly/Monthly (subject to approval)
Thresholds
Registration	SGD1 million
Recovery of GST by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

GST applies to the following transactions:

- Taxable supplies of goods and services in Singapore, made in the course of a business by a taxable person
- Imports of goods into Singapore

- Imports of services into Singapore, if received by a taxable person who is not entitled to full input tax credit
- Imports of digital services and non-digital services (from 1 January 2023) into Singapore, by an overseas supplier to a Singapore non-registered person

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for GST in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Singapore, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions. However, there is a similar concept whereby the supply of digital and non-digital services to Singapore non-GST registered person is subject to GST via the overseas vendor registration (OVR) regime in Singapore (see Digital economy subsection below).

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a GST-registered or GST-registrable business will be subject to GST at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of GST. In Singapore, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of GST where the following conditions are met:

- The supply of assets is made in relation to a transfer of the business (or part of that business) to the transferee
- The assets to be transferred must be intended for use by the transferee in carrying on the same kind of business as the transferor
- In the case where only part of the business is transferred, that part must be capable of being of being operated independently
- The business (or part of that business) must be a going concern at the time of the transfer
- The transferee must already be a taxable person or immediately becomes a taxable person as a result of the transfer

Transactions between related parties. In Singapore, for a transaction between related parties, the value for GST purposes is calculated at the open market value. Where a taxable person makes a supply to a customer who is connected with the supplier and the customer is not entitled to full input tax recovery, the Comptroller of the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) may direct that the value of the supply is taken to be its open market value.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a person who is registered or is required to be registered for GST.

The GST registration threshold is SGD1 million. For compulsory registration, the threshold applies in the following ways:

- Retrospectively: prior to 1 January 2019, registration was required if, at the end of any quarter, the value of taxable supplies in that quarter and the preceding three quarters exceeds SGD1 million. From 1 January 2019, registration is required if, at the end of any calendar year, the value of taxable supplies in that calendar year exceeds SGD1 million. However, registration is not required if the Comptroller of GST (the Comptroller) is satisfied that the value of taxable supplies in the next calendar year is not expected to exceed SGD1 million.
- Prospectively: registration is required if at any time reasonable grounds exist for believing that the value of taxable supplies in the next 12 months is expected to exceed SGD1 million.

Under the first test above, a business must notify the Comptroller within 30 days after the end of the relevant calendar year. Under the second test, a business must notify the Comptroller within 30 days after the beginning of the relevant period.

Exemption from registration. Where a taxable person makes substantially zero-rated supplies and the collectible output tax is less than the amount of input tax claimable on the purchases in any 12-month period, the taxable person may request exemption from registration. Approval is subject to the Comptroller's discretion.

However, if any material change occurs with respect to the nature of supplies or the proportion of zero-rated supplies, the taxable person is required to notify the Comptroller within 30 days after the date of the change or, if no particular date is identifiable as the date of the change, within 30 days after the end of the quarter in which the change occurred.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. If the value of taxable supplies made by a business is below the registration limit, the business may register for GST voluntarily. Approval is subject to the Comptroller's discretion. A business that registers for GST voluntarily must remain registered for at least two years, unless otherwise allowed by the Comptroller.

Under GST law, "taxable supply" is defined as a supply of goods or services made in Singapore other than an exempt supply. Based on this definition, businesses that make wholly exempt supplies would not be eligible for GST registration. However, the GST Act allows a person that is not liable to be registered to apply for voluntary registration if it makes exempt supplies of financial services (as specified in Part 1 of the Fourth Schedule to the GST Act) and the services would have qualified as international services if they were made by a taxable person.

In addition, a person who is not liable for GST registration may also apply for voluntary registration if the person makes or intends to make the following supplies:
- Supplies outside Singapore that would be taxable supplies if made in Singapore
- Supplies that are disregarded for GST purposes under the warehousing regime or Approved Contract Manufacturer and Trader Scheme and that would otherwise be taxable supplies.

However, a person in the above scenarios must have a business establishment in Singapore or have its usual place of residence in Singapore.

Group registration. Businesses that are under "common control" may apply to register as a GST group. Each member must be individually registered for GST. After group members are registered as a GST group, they are treated as a single taxable person and submit a single GST return. Supplies made between members within the same GST group are disregarded for GST purposes. All members of a GST group in Singapore are jointly and severally liable for all GST debts and penalties.

A person who is not resident in Singapore or does not have an established place of business in Singapore may be part of the GST group if certain criteria are satisfied. If the GST group includes a person not resident in Singapore or not having an established place of business in Singapore, the representative member must satisfy additional criteria.

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a GST group.

Divisional registration. If a taxable person carries on more than one business or operates several divisions, the person may apply to the Comptroller to register any of the businesses or divisions separately. Divisional registrations ease the GST administration for such businesses. On approval, each division is given a separate GST registration number and submits its own GST return. Supplies made between divisions within the divisional registration are disregarded for GST purposes.

Fixed establishment. In Singapore there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for GST purposes. However, while the GST Act does not define the term fixed establishment, the IRAS has clarified in its guidelines that a fixed establishment is an establishment, other than a business establishment, that has both human and technical resources necessary to provide or receive services on a permanent basis. This means the human and technical resources are available in Singapore for an aggregate of more than 183 days in any 12-month period ("period threshold") or are present in Singapore on a recurring basis.

Human resources refer to the presence of staff to provide or receive the services and this refer to the employees of the company (i.e., it does not include employees of a third party such as the company's subcontractor or related company). Technical resources would refer to physical goods (e.g., equipment, computer, office premises) necessary to support the human resources in the provision or receipt of the services.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no business or fixed establishment in Singapore. A business that is not established in Singapore must register for GST if it makes taxable supplies exceeding the registration threshold.

Tax representatives. A non-established business must appoint a local tax representative, commonly known as a Section 33(1) Agent, who will act on its behalf for all its GST matters. This local tax representative assumes all the GST responsibilities of the registered non-established business, including the reporting and payment of GST due. A Letter of Authorization confirming the appointment of the local tax representative must be submitted, together with the application for GST registration.

Reverse charge. A reverse charge applies to services procured from overseas suppliers by a taxable person who is not entitled to full input tax credit or belongs to a GST group that is not entitled to full input tax credit. A reverse charge will also apply to a nontaxable person (i.e., a non-GST-registered local person) who procures services from overseas suppliers greater than SGD1 million in a 12-month period and who will not be entitled to a full input tax credit had it been GST registered. The non-GST-registered local person should assess its liability for GST registration under the reverse-charge mechanism.

Persons who are not entitled to full input tax credit include persons making significant exempt supplies (for example, financial institutions) or persons significantly engaged in nonbusiness activities (for example, charities). From 1 January 2023, the reverse charge will also apply to all goods imported via air or post that are valued up to (and including) the current GST import relief threshold of SGD400 ("low-value goods") purchased from local and overseas suppliers, electronic marketplace operators and re-deliverers, regardless of whether they are GST registered or not.

The value of services procured from overseas vendors and imports of low-value goods (from 1 January 2023) will be included when determining the liability for GST registration for the nontaxable person.

Domestic reverse charge. A domestic reverse charge will apply to the local sale of prescribed goods by a GST-registered supplier to a GST-registered customer for business purposes (i.e., a business-to-business supply [B2B]), if the GST-exclusive value of the sale exceeds SGD10,000 in a single invoice.

The prescribed goods are mobile phones, memory cards and off-the-shelf software. It is termed "customer accounting" because the supplier is responsible for raising the tax invoice (showing the GST chargeable) and the customer is responsible for accounting for the output tax to the IRAS (i.e., onward paying the IRAS the GST charged).

Digital economy. Supplies of goods transacted over the internet does not alter the taxability of the transaction and is subject to the normal GST rules. A sale of digitized goods such as music and software over the internet is regarded as a supply of service.

The supply of digital services by an overseas supplier to a Singapore non-GST registered person (i.e., a business-to-consumer [B2C] supply) is subject to GST via the overseas vendor registration (OVR) regime. This means the nonresident provider must register and account for GST in Singapore. Under the OVR "pay only regime," the overseas supplier will collect and remit GST without the ability to claim any input tax credits and be subject to simplified GST reporting and documentation requirements. Under certain circumstances, the operator of an electronic marketplace would also be required to charge and account for GST on digital services made through the electronic marketplace to local consumers, on behalf of the overseas suppliers.

"Digital services" are defined to mean any service supplied over the internet or other electronic network and the nature of which renders its supply essentially automated with minimal or no human intervention, and impossible without the use of information technology, and is inclusive of a non-exhaustive list of prescribed services such as digital products, software and software updates.

Overseas suppliers and overseas electronic marketplace operators whose global turnover exceeds SGD1 million and the sale of digital services to consumers in Singapore exceeds SGD100,000 are liable for registration under the OVR regime. Local non-GST registered electronic marketplace operators are liable for GST registration if the combined values of digital services made on behalf of overseas suppliers through the electronic marketplace and the electronic marketplace's own taxable supplies have exceeded SGD1 million at the end of any calendar year or are expected to exceed SGD1 million in the next 12 months.

From 1 January 2023, GST is extended to B2C imported non-digital services through the OVR regime. All B2C supplies of imported remote services, whether digital or non-digital, will be taxed by way of the extended OVR regime.

"Remote services" are defined to mean any services where, at the time of the performance of the service, there is no necessary connection between the physical location of the recipient and the place of physical performance.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for GST in Singapore. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the GST by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above). There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Singapore.

Online marketplaces and platforms. In Singapore the term "electronic marketplace" is used to define a medium that allows the suppliers to make supplies available to customers and is operated by electronic means. This includes marketplaces operated via a website, internet portal, gateway distribution platform or any other types of electronic interface but excludes payment processors or internet service providers. There are no special GST rules for such marketplaces.

Registration procedures. To register for GST in Singapore, businesses need to complete and submit the form GST F1, "Application for GST Registration," together with the required supporting documents to the Comptroller.

The supporting documents to be submitted would include, where applicable, the completed GST Registration Calculator for the last two years; a copy of the latest profit and loss, including reports and notes to accounts; and a copy of the signed contract(s). For partnership businesses applying for GST registration in Singapore, an additional form, GST F3, "Notification of Liability to be Registered: Details of All Partnerships and Partners," together with form GST F1, must be completed and submitted to the Comptroller.

For an overseas business with no establishment in Singapore and who makes taxable supplies in Singapore, the overseas business must appoint a local tax representative to be responsible for all its GST matters in Singapore such as collecting GST on local taxable supplies made and timely filing of GST returns.

An application for GST registration is typically processed in about 10 working days. In addition, for businesses applying for voluntary GST registration, the sole proprietor, partner, director or trustee of the business is required to complete two e-learning courses, "Registering for GST" and "Overview of GST" and pass the quiz before applying for the voluntary GST registration (subject to exceptions).

Businesses must apply for GST registration online via myTax Portal by the relevant personnel who have been authorized to use the IRAS website's e-services.

Deregistration. A business that ceases operations must cancel its GST registration. The business must notify the GST authorities within 30 days after ceasing to make taxable supplies.

A GST-registered person whose value of taxable supplies is not expected to exceed SGD1 million in the next 12 months may request deregistration from GST.

Changes to GST registration details. Change in business name or registered office address – the change is to be filed with the Accounting and Corporate Regulatory Authority (ACRA) online. IRAS will update its records based on the information filed with ACRA. Separate notification to IRAS is not required.

Change in mailing address – a business may have separately requested GST-related correspondences (including any refund checks) to be sent to another address (i.e., GST mailing address). Updates can be made to the mailing address by logging into myTax Portal and accessing "Update GST Contact Details." Updates should be made in a timely manner to ensure that the business continues to receive the correspondences in a timely manner.

Change in GST return filing frequency or cycle of accounting periods – a business can write in to request a change in filing frequency (e.g., change to monthly GST accounting period) or apply for special accounting periods for its GST returns via myTax Mail (log into myTax Portal). All requests will be subject to IRAS's approval. In applying for special accounting periods for its GST returns, a business is required to inform the IRAS at least 30 days before the start of the first accounting period. Otherwise, the business will be placed on the standard GST accounting periods by default.

Change in financial year end – the change is to be updated online (www.bizfile.gov.sg) for local companies and branches of foreign companies registered with Accounting and Corporate Regulatory Authority (ACRA). IRAS will update its records based on the information filed with ACRA. Separate notification to IRAS is not required. For all other entities, the business is required to inform IRAS via myTax Mail (log into myTax Portal).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of GST, including the zero-rate.

The GST rates are:
- Standard rate: 9% (with effect from 1 January 2024)
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of GST applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

The Singapore government increased the standard rate of GST from 8% to 9% from 1 January 2024.

Examples of goods and services taxed at 0%

- Exports of goods and international services

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to GST and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Sale or lease of residential property
- Certain financial transactions
- Importation or supply of investment precious metals
- Supply of digital payment tokens (from 1 January 2020)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Singapore.

E. Time of supply

The time when GST becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The time of supply for both goods and services is generally the earlier of the following events:

- The date of issuance of an invoice

  Or

- The date of receipt of payment

However, exceptions to the above time-of-supply rules exist.

Deposits and prepayments. Where the deposits form partial payment (i.e., prepayment) for the goods or services supplied, the abovementioned time-of-supply rules applies. GST has to be charged on the amount of deposit and the transaction has to be accounted for in the accounting period in which the deposit is received. This treatment applies even if the business is prepared to refund the deposit to the customer in the event that the supply is subsequently canceled (e.g., the order is canceled). If the deposit is subsequently refunded to the customer, adjustments to the GST previously accounted for in the GST return can be made if the necessary documents (e.g., credit note issued to customer) are maintained.

Where the deposit is refundable and used as a security, the time of supply will not be triggered, and GST is not chargeable at this stage.

Where the supply does not take place (e.g., the customer cancels the order), the GST-registered supplier would issue a credit note to the customer and refund the payment received. However, commercially, the GST-registered supplier may seek compensation or recover miscellaneous costs incurred as a result of the order cancellation.

Continuous supplies of services. No separate time of supply treatment for continuous supplies, except where the GST-registered business issues a tax invoice for an advance period not exceeding 12 months. If the invoice also contains, in addition to the particulars required of a tax invoice, the following particulars:

- The due dates of each payment
- The amount payable (excluding tax) on each due date

  And

- The rate of tax and the corresponding GST chargeable

Then GST shall be accounted for at the earlier of:

- The due date of each periodic payment

  Or

- The date of receipt of each periodic payment

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Where goods are supplied on approval or sale or return or similar terms to the customers, no sale takes place until the customer approves the goods and confirms the sale, although goods have been sent to the customer. In such cases, the time of supply will be treated as taking place at the earliest of the following events:

- The date of issuance of an invoice
- The date of receipt of payment

  Or

- 12 months after the removal of the goods

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Singapore for supplies of reverse-charge services. The general time of supply rules will apply (as outlined above). However, there are special time of supply rules for certain transitional rules for reverse-charge services that span 1 January 2020 (i.e., the effective date of reverse-charge implementation).

A supply of imported services would be considered as "straddling 1 January 2020" and hence subject to certain transitional rules when at least one of these events take place wholly or partially on/after 1 January 2020: (a) issuance of invoice, (b) performance of services or (c) settlement of payment. For example, the supplier's invoice is issued, and the services are performed before 1 January 2020, but the payment for that service is made on/after 1 January 2020.

With the extension of the OVR regime on 1 January 2023, special transitional rules will apply for supplies of low-value goods and non-digital services made by overseas vendors that straddle 1 January 2023.

- A supply of low-value goods and discrete supply of non-digital services will be treated as straddling the implementation date and subject to the transitional rules when: (a) the supplier's invoice is issued on or after 16 February 2021 but before 1 January 2023, and (b) the goods are removed or made available to the customer/performance of services occurs and payment is received on or after 1 January 2023. Such a supply is subject to GST to the extent of the lower of the value of payment received or the value of the goods removed or made available to the customer/the value of the services performed on or after 1 January 2023.
- A continuous supply of non-digital services will be treated as straddling the implementation date and subject to the transitional rules when: (a) the supplier's invoice is issued or payment is received before 1 January 2023, (b) the services (or part of the services) are performed on or after 1 January 2023 and (c) the services are performed pursuant to an agreement made on or after 16 February 2021 but before 1 January 2023. The portion of the service performed from 1 January 2023 will be subject to GST.

Leased assets. Where the leased assets are transacted under a "hire purchase agreement," subject to prescribed conditions, the time of supply for the full value of the goods will be triggered at the time the invoice is issued for the first installment under the "hire purchase agreement." For other supplies of leased assets, no special time of supply rule applies. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime or free-trade zone.

F. Recovery of GST by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover the GST incurred on its expenses as input tax if the input tax is incurred in the making of taxable supplies or certain prescribed supplies. Input tax refers to GST incurred on goods and services supplied to the taxable person or goods imported into Singapore by the taxable person that are used or to be used for the purpose of any business carried on or to be carried on by the taxable person. A taxable person generally recovers input tax through its GST returns, by deducting it from output tax, which is GST charged on supplies made.

A valid tax invoice or import permit must be held to support a claim for input tax.

A taxable person is required to repay to the IRAS any input tax claimed for which payment has not been made to the supplier for more than 12 months from the due date of the payment.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Singapore is the accounting period of the date on the invoice. A taxable person can only claim input tax in the accounting period corresponding to the date shown in the tax invoice or import permit. Alternatively, input tax may be claimed based on the date that the tax invoice or import permit is posted/processed in the accounting system (subject to conditions).

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by a taxable person and fringe benefits provided that these are not for the purpose of business). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure. The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchases used for nonbusiness purposes
- Purchase, lease, hire, maintenance and running costs of private motor cars
- Medical and insurance expenses for employees
- Recreational club subscriptions

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising
- Purchase of inventory
- Purchase, lease, hire and maintenance of trucks and vans
- Business entertainment
- Attendance at conferences

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, the person may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." Zero-rated supplies are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

Unless otherwise approved by the Comptroller, partial exemption recovery is calculated in the following two stages:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly attributable to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly attributable to taxable supplies is deductible (unless specifically not deductible under the GST Act), while input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not deductible (subject to exceptions).
- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, input tax on general business overhead) that may be allocated to taxable supplies and recovered. The calculation may be performed using the ratio of the value of taxable supplies over the value of total supplies (that is, taxable and exempt supplies), or it may be based on a special calculation agreed with the Comptroller.

Notwithstanding the above provisions, if the value of a taxable person's exempt supplies for an accounting period does not exceed both the average of SGD40,000 per month and does not exceed 5% of the total value of taxable and exempt supplies made in that accounting period, the input tax relating to the exempt supplies is treated as entirely attributable to taxable supplies. The GST Act provides relief for certain businesses to be treated as fully taxable if they make only certain types of exempt supplies.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Singapore. Special methods are allowed in Singapore, but approval for them is required (see above).

Capital goods. Capital goods in Singapore are defined as items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal input tax rules for GST apply (as outlined above).

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a GST period exceeds the output tax in the same period, the excess is refundable. Refunds are generally made within three months from the date on which the GST authorities receives the GST return. If a taxable person submits monthly returns, the refund is generally made within one month from the date of receipt of the GST returns. The GST is refunded through electronic means.

Interest at the prime lending rate is payable on the amount of any GST refund that is outstanding. Interest is calculated from the date on which the refund is due from the GST authorities.

Pre-registration costs. Subject to certain conditions prescribed under the GST (General) Regulations, businesses may claim the GST incurred on business expenses incurred prior to their effective date of GST registration in their first GST return. Businesses are required to self-review their eligibility for the claims.

Bad debts. A taxable person can apply for bad debt relief from the Comptroller for the return of the output tax previously accounted for and paid if the taxable person satisfies the following conditions:

- Whole or any part of the consideration for the supply as a bad debt in its accounts have been written off
- A period of 12 months beginning with the date of supply has elapse or the debtor has become insolvent before the period of 12 months has elapsed
- Reasonable steps have been taken to recover the debts
- Value of the supply is equal to or less than its open market value
- In the case of goods, the ownership must have been transferred to the debtor

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Singapore.

G. Recovery of GST by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for GST in Singapore is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

GST invoices. A taxable person must issue a GST invoice for standard-rated supplies made to another taxable person within 30 days from the time of supply. A GST invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax credit.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the GST charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services if a valid adjustment has been made. The document must contain generally the same information as a tax invoice, as well as the amount of tax credited, and it must refer to the date and number of the original tax invoice for the supply. If the date and number of the original tax invoice for the supply cannot be traced or identified, the taxable person must be able to satisfy the Comptroller by other means that the person has accounted for tax on the original supply.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Singapore, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Singapore. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Singapore.

At the time of preparing this chapter, it is expected that the government will make electronic invoicing mandatory for B2G supplies in 2024. No further details have been announced. It is also likely that "InvoiceNow" will be the default electronic invoicing submission channel for all government vendors within the next few years. Currently, it is Singapore's nationwide e-invoicing network.

The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Taxable persons that wish to issue invoices electronically need not apply to the Comptroller for approval to do so. If a taxable person decides to issue electronic invoices, the person is required to comply with the following:

- Establish internal controls to ensure that electronic tax invoices issued and transmitted to customers are complete and accurate
- Ensure that the electronic tax invoices issued and transmitted to customers contain all the details required under the GST legislation, where applicable
- Establish internal controls to ensure that electronic tax invoices cannot be manipulated before and during transmission
- Establish internal controls to ensure that all output tax relating to these electronic transmissions will be fully accounted to the Comptroller in the GST returns
- Do not issue tax invoices in paper form to customers that the taxable person has already issued electronic tax invoices; in the event that the taxable person needs to issue tax invoices in paper form, it must take the necessary measures to prevent double claiming of input tax by its customers (e.g., invalidate either the paper form or electronic form of the tax invoices issued)
- Ensure that the electronic tax invoices are stored and made available in human readable format for verification and recordkeeping purposes.

An exception is granted to e-invoices sent through InvoiceNow. IRAS is prepared to accept the invoices as valid tax invoices that taxable persons may use to support their GST input tax claims, even though it does not contain the words "tax invoice." This is on the condition that all the other contents required on a tax invoice, as specified under Regulation 11 of the GST (General) Regulations, are present.

Simplified GST invoices. A simplified GST invoice may be issued if the amount payable (including GST) does not exceed SGD1,000.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Singapore. In Singapore self-billing is a billing arrangement between a GST-registered supplier and a GST-registered customer (B2B), where the customer, instead of the supplier, prepares the supplier's tax invoice/customer accounting tax invoice and sends a copy to the supplier. The customer can adopt self-billing if it satisfies all the conditions as follows:

- It is more convenient for the customer to self-bill because the customer will determine and verify the final value of the goods and services purchased from the suppliers; or self-billing facilitates the customer's internal controls and accounting system given that the supplier will be working with uniform purchase documentation.
- There is a written agreement with each supplier that the supplier will not issue tax invoices and/or customer accounting tax invoices for goods and services purchased by the customer.
- Instead, the supplier will authorize the customer to issue the tax invoices and/or customer accounting tax invoices on its behalf.
- Each supplier agrees in writing that he will notify the customer immediately if the supplier's GST registration is canceled or issued with a new GST registration number.
- The customer will provide the suppliers with the tax invoices and/or customer accounting tax invoices issued under self-billing and the customer will retain copies of them. The customer will keep the tax invoices/customer accounting tax invoices issued under self-billing for a period of not less than five years.
- The customer must keep and maintain an up-to-date list showing the names, addresses and registration numbers of all the suppliers covered by the self-billing arrangement.
- Each tax invoice or customer accounting tax invoice issued under self-billing must contain all the details required on a normal tax invoice and customer accounting tax invoice respectively as well as the following details:
  - "Buyer created tax invoice – Approved by the Comptroller of GST" in place of the words of "Tax invoice"
  - The statement "The tax shown is your output tax due to the Comptroller of GST"

Proof of exports. Exports of goods are zero-rated for GST purposes if they are supported by evidence confirming the departure of the goods from Singapore within 60 days from the time of supply (subject to exceptions). The evidence required includes the following documents:
- Export permit
- Bill of lading or airway bill
- Original invoice

Export documents prescribed by the Comptroller for supporting the zero-rating GST treatment vary according to the export scenario.

Foreign currency invoices. If a tax invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the total amount payable before GST, the GST chargeable and the total amount payable including GST must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Singapore dollar (SGD). The foreign currency must be converted to the SGD equivalent based on the selling rate of exchange prevailing at the time of supply. The Comptroller allows taxable persons to adopt their own in-house exchange rates if the rates satisfy the following conditions:
- They are reflective of the Singapore money market at the relevant date. For example, exchange rates obtained from local banks, Singapore Customs, locally circulated newspapers, reputable news agencies and foreign central banks without exchange controls are acceptable to the IRAS.
- They are the daily buying rates, average of the buying and selling rates, or a good approximation of the daily exchange rates, corresponding to the time of supply.
- They are updated at least once every three months.
- They are consistently used for internal business reporting, accounting and GST purposes.
- They are used consistently for at least one year from the end of the accounting period in which the method was first used.

If the exchange rates used by taxable persons do not comply with these conditions, it is necessary for the taxable persons involved to seek the Comptroller's approval of the use of an acceptable exchange rate.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. GST invoices are not required to be issued to nontaxable customers (i.e., private individuals). However, a simplified GST invoice or a receipt must be issued if requested by the customer.

Records. In Singapore, examples of what records must be held for GST purposes include records relating to a taxable person's income and business expenses, such as tax invoices, agreements, credit notes and import/export documents.

In Singapore, GST books and records can be held outside of the country. This is allowed so long as the records can be made available to the IRAS upon request.

Record retention period. Taxable persons are required to maintain records for five years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Singapore. Records can be kept electronically using a computer and/or accounting software. Physical copies of source documents need not be kept substantiating the business transactions for tax purposes if the source documents are kept electronically. Taxable persons should ensure that proper internal controls are put in place to ensure the integrity, completeness, accuracy, availability and reliability of electronic records, including all transactions executed electronically, where applicable.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Taxable persons generally file GST returns quarterly. However, taxable persons that receive regular refunds of GST may seek approval to file their returns monthly, to ease cash flow. The GST return is generally due one month following the end of the return period.

Periodic payments. The GST payment in full is generally due the same date as the GST return filing deadline, i.e., one month following the end of the return period.

The majority of taxable persons use the General Interbank Recurring Order (GIRO) for tax payment. Other electronic payment modes, such as internet banking, phone banking, PayNow QR, DBS PayLah! are also available.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Singapore for all taxable persons. Submissions must be made via myTax.iras.gov.sg. Taxable persons are not required to submit any other documents when the GST return is filed. Under exceptional circumstances (e.g., business is under liquidation), a taxable person may file paper GST return.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Singapore.

Special schemes. Major exporter scheme (MES). The MES is designed to ease the cash flow of businesses that import and export goods substantially. Businesses granted the MES can import non-dutiable goods with GST suspended and enjoy GST suspension on goods removed from a Zero GST warehouse.

Approved contract manufacturer and trader (ACMT) scheme. Contract manufacturers and traders under this scheme are relieved of the need to account for GST on value-added activities supplied to non-GST-registered overseas customers or overseas persons who are registered under the Overseas Vendor Registration (OVR) regime as a pay-only person. The scheme is currently available to contract manufacturers within the semiconductor industry, printing industry and biomedical industry (active pharmaceutical ingredients manufacturing).

Approved marine fuel trader (AMFT) scheme. This scheme is designed to benefit qualifying businesses in the bunkering industry that make local purchases of approved marine fuel oil. Under AMFT, qualifying GST-registered businesses need not pay GST on local purchases of approved marine fuel oil from any GST-registered suppliers. This eases the cash flow difficulties of the approved businesses by eliminating the need to pay GST up front and to subsequently claim it back by obtaining a refund from IRAS.

Approved marine customer scheme (AMCS). The scheme is designed to ease compliance for ship owners and ship managers procuring goods for use or installation on internationally bound commercial ships. Under AMCS, qualifying GST-registered businesses enjoy zero-rating on purchases or rental of goods and repair or maintenance services on ship parts or components under qualifying conditions.

Approved third-party logistics (3PL) company scheme. This scheme is designed to increase the competitiveness of logistics companies that provide logistics management services to overseas clients who use Singapore as a logistics hub. Under this scheme, approved logistics companies that provide logistics management services to overseas clients do not need to pay import GST or charge GST on the supplies of their overseas clients' goods under certain circumstances.

Specialized warehouse scheme (SWS). Under this scheme, qualifying services performed on qualifying goods in approved specialized warehouses and the lease/tenancy/license of storage space in these warehouses can be zero-rated to overseas persons. Operators of zero-GST or licensed warehouses predominantly used for storing qualifying goods may apply for the scheme.

Import GST deferment scheme (IGDS). IGDS allows an approved business to defer the payment of import GST until the submission of the monthly GST return for the prescribed accounting period, instead of at the point of importation. This scheme is not applicable to customs or excise duties, which remain payable up front at the point of importation. Among other requirements, taxable persons must be on a monthly filing frequency and have good compliance records with IRAS and the Singapore Customs to qualify for IGDS.

Cash accounting scheme. Small businesses with an annual taxable turnover (excluding GST) of less than SGD1 million may apply for the cash accounting scheme that allows GST to be accounted for upon receipt of payment from the customers. Similarly, the business will claim the GST on its purchases only upon payment to the suppliers. Once approved, the business is on the scheme for three years. The business also remains on the scheme for the three years even if its taxable supplies exceed SGD1 million per annum during the three years.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Singapore.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Singapore.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Errors made in submitted returns can be corrected by filing GST F7 (return for disclosing errors on GST returns filed previously) electronically via myTax Portal. This GST F7 supersedes the return submitted previously for the same accounting period.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Singapore.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. For late registration or failure to register, taxable persons may be subject to a fine of up to SGD10,000 and a penalty of 10% of the tax due. Penalties may be waived for taxable persons that come forward to register for GST in a timely manner.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty of 5% of the tax due is assessed for late payment of GST. If the amount remains outstanding after 60 days, an additional penalty is assessed, equal to 2% of the tax due for each month, up to a maximum of 50% of the unpaid tax.

A penalty of SGD200 after the submission due date and an additional SGD200 for each completed month are assessed for the late submission of a GST return, up to a maximum penalty of SGD10,000.

Penalties for errors. A penalty equal to double the amount of tax that has been undercharged in consequence of such incorrect return or information, or that would have been so undercharged if the return and information had been accepted as correct; and be liable to a fine not exceeding SGD5,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or to both.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's GST registration details. However, this is dependant on a case-by-case basis. For example, for a change in mailing address, the failure to notify the IRAS in a timely manner may in turn cause the taxable person to miss out on correspondences issued by the IRAS. For example, for a change in a financial year-end, the late notification would lead to a mismatch between the taxable person's FYE and GST filing cycle and, as such, a penalty for late notification (as outlined above) may apply. For further details, see the subsection Changes to GST registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty of three times the amount of tax that has or would have been undercharged in consequence of the offense or that would have been undercharged if the offense had not been detected, and be liable to a fine not exceeding SGD10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years or both.

Surcharge for tax avoidance arrangements. A surcharge equal to 50% of the amount of additional GST will be imposed by the Comptroller as a result of the adjustments made to counteract a tax avoidance arrangement. It will apply to adjustments made for GST accounting periods starting on or after 1 January 2021.

Personal liability for company officers. A company officer can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in GST declarations and reporting, if the negligence would, under the Companies

Act, result in liabilities for the company's obligations to be imposed on the directors. For example, there may be circumstances when the company officers are held liable for debts incurred by the company, such as where debts are incurred without any reasonable or probable expectation that the company would be able to pay or where debts are incurred when businesses are carried on with the intent to defraud creditors.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Singapore is five years. Under the Singapore GST legislation, the IRAS is empowered to raise assessments within five years from the end of the prescribed accounting period. Where there is a fraud or willful default, there is no time limit for the IRAS to raise additional assessments.

Sint Maarten

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Sint Maarten GMT -4

Direct all inquiries regarding Sint Maarten to the persons listed below in the Willemstad, Curaçao office.

Indirect tax contacts

Bryan D. Irausquin	+599 (9) 430-5075 bryan.irausquin@an.ey.com
Fong-Mang Cheong	+599 (9) 430-5071 fong-mang.cheong@an.ey.com
Rose Boevé	+599 (9) 430-5076 rose.boeve@an.ey.com

Effective 10 October 2010, the Netherlands Antilles was dissolved. Sint Maarten became an autonomous country within the Kingdom of the Netherlands and now has its own laws and regulations.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Revenue tax (RT)
Local name	Belasting op bedrijfsomzetten (BBO)
Date introduced	1 January 1997
Trading bloc membership	Bloc membership with the Netherlands (LGO agreement)
Administered by	Inspectie der Belastingen (Inspection of taxes)
RT rates
Standard	5%
Other	Exempt
RT number format	4XX.XXX.XXX (9 digits)
RT return periods	Monthly/Annually (on request)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of RT by non-established business	No

B. Scope of the tax

The revenue tax (RT) applies to the following transactions:

- Delivery of goods or services by a local taxable person in the course of its business in Sint Maarten
- Delivery of goods or services in Sint Maarten by a non-established taxable person in the course of its business

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for RT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Sint Maarten, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a RT-registered or RT-registrable business will be subject to RT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of RT. In Sint Maarten, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of RT where the following conditions are met:

- The transfer must include elements that encompass whole or part of a taxable business.
- The buyer or recipient intends to continue the same taxable activities, although it does not have to perform the same activities with these assets as the transferor.

Transactions between related parties. In Sint Maarten, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for RT purposes for transactions between related parties. However, in general an arm's-length compensation should be considered.

C. Who is liable

A business entity or an individual who delivers goods or performs services (engages in taxable activities) in Sint Maarten is liable to RT. In principle, the taxable person performing the services or delivering the goods is liable for RT. The definition of a taxable person also includes a person who manages an asset to obtain revenue from the asset on a permanent basis. For example, leasing of real estate located in Sint Maarten became subject to RT, unless an exemption applies. The taxable person realizing the revenue is liable to RT.

Exemption from registration. The RT law in Sint Maarten does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The RT law in Sint Maarten does not contain any provision for voluntary registration, nor special RT registration rules for small businesses. This is because there is no registration threshold (i.e., all entities that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for RT).

Group registration. Group RT registration is not allowed in Sint Maarten.

Fixed establishment. In Sint Maarten, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for RT purposes. However, generally a fixed establishment is understood to be a business establishment in Sint Maarten of an entity established outside of Sint Maarten, characterized by a sufficient degree of permanence and a suitable structure in terms of human and technical resources to enable it to provide the services that it supplies and/or to receive and use the services supplied to it for its own needs. A fixed establishment should be capable of acting as a taxable person independently of the head office.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a taxable person that does not have a fixed establishment in Sint Maarten. A non-established business may become liable for RT and accordingly become subject to registration if a fixed establishment is deemed present in Sint Maarten. Sint Maarten law does not provide a definition of a fixed establishment.

Special rules apply to E-zone companies, offshore companies and offshore banks. An E-zone is comparable to a free trade zone/a designated customs zone. E-zone companies are not liable for RT on their supplies of services or goods to nonresidents.

Companies and banks that hold a foreign-exchange license are generally not liable for RT, because they are excluded from the definition of a taxable person to the extent that these companies conduct offshore activities.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Sint Maarten. However, a taxable person may be represented by a third party based on a power of attorney.

Reverse charge. Non-established businesses who provide services must in principle pay the RT on these services. For this purpose, a non-established business is deemed to have chosen domicile at the office of the Inspectorate of Taxes.

However, a business resident in Sint Maarten for whom the services are performed must pay the RT if the non-established business does not report and remit RT on such services. The business resident in Sint Maarten could be held liable for RT not remitted by the nonresident entrepreneur. To avoid noncompliance, the non-established business and the business resident in Sint Maarten can file a joint request to apply the reverse-charge mechanism, and the business resident in Sint Maarten declares and pays RT.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Sint Maarten.

Digital economy. RT legislation does not specifically mention any regulations in connection with the digital economy. Normal RT rules apply to supplies of digital goods and services.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to register and account for RT in Sint Maarten.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register for RT in Sint Maarten. The RT is self-accounted for by the customer by way of the reverse-charge mechanism. See the Reverse charge subsection above.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Sint Maarten.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Sint Maarten.

Registration procedures. In general, a taxable entity that begins taxable activities must register with the Inspectorate of Taxes by completing an online registration. RT registration does not require a specific form, but application should be made in writing. The registration requires an indication of all taxes in scope and relevant estimations and, if applicable, power of attorney.

When registering a taxable person, copies of the following documents must be submitted.

In case of a sole proprietorship/contractor:
- ID card/passport
- Chamber of commerce registration
- Business license

In case of a NV/BV/other legal entities, the following documents should also be submitted:
- Deed of incorporation
- Director's license

Deregistration. To deregister with the Inspectorate of Taxes, a taxable person should provide proof of deregistration as issued by the Sint Maarten Chamber of Commerce and some additional documentation. The deregistration with the Inspectorate of Taxes should be completed once all tax filing and payment obligations have been met by the taxable person.

Changes to RT registration details. There are no specific requirements in Sint Maarten to notify the tax authorities of changes to RT registration details. It is recommended to notify the tax authorities of any change, but there is no law prescribing this.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of RT. In Sint Maarten, the term "revenue" refers to all payments that the taxable person receives for the delivery of goods or services in the course of its business, excluding interest.

The RT standard rate is 5%.

The standard rate of RT applies to revenue realized from the delivery of taxable supplies unless a specific measure provides for an exemption.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to a supply of goods and services that are not liable to RT.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Medical services
- Basic necessities, such as bread, milk and sugar
- Water and electricity services
- Transportation services
- Betting and gaming (casino)
- Postal services
- Lease of real estate that is equipped and designated for permanent residence to individuals who are residents of Sint Maarten
- Revenue realized from supplies of exported goods by an "export business"

To qualify, exports must be supported by evidence that confirms that the goods have been transported outside Sint Maarten. An "export business" is a business that realizes 50% or more of its total revenue by exporting goods outside Sint Maarten.

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Sint Maarten.

E. Time of supply

The time when RT becomes due is called the "time of supply." The basic time of supply is when the payment for a taxable supply is received.

Alternatively, on request, the time of supply occurs on the date on which the invoice is issued. In Sint Maarten, an invoice must be issued within 15 days following the end of the month in which the supply or service is performed.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten regarding deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rule applies (as outlined above), i.e., the time of invoice. There must be at least one tax point per year.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules applies (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules applies (as outlined above), that the tax point arises upon receipt of payment.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above), the tax point arises upon receipt of payment.

Imported goods. There are no special time of supply rules in Sint Maarten for supplies of imported goods. As such, the general time of supply rules applies (as outlined above), that the tax point arises upon receipt of payment.

F. Recovery of RT by taxable persons

RT cannot be recovered in Sint Maarten.

G. Recovery of RT by non-established businesses

RT cannot be recovered in Sint Maarten. As such, input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for RT in Sint Maarten is not recoverable. Note that due to the fact that there is no registration threshold, all entities that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for RT. Thus, the registration procedures and rules are the same for established and non-established businesses alike.

H. Invoicing

RT invoices. A taxable person must provide an invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. The invoice must be issued within 15 days after the end of the month in which the goods were delivered, or the services were rendered. The invoice must include certain information of the supplier, such as address and tax identification number and the transaction.

Credit notes. If a taxable person issues a credit note, the amount mentioned on such credit note can be deducted from the revenue of the period during which the credit note is issued, provided that the amount indicated on the credit note has not yet been received or, if the amount has been received, such amount will be repaid within a month after issuance of the credit note.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Sint Maarten, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Sint Maarten.

There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Sint Maarten.

The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. No approval is needed from the tax authorities to issue invoice electronically.

Simplified RT invoices. Simplified RT invoices are allowed for certain industries. This includes entrepreneurs active in the catering industry (hotel, restaurant, café, i.e., "HORECA"), retailers, as well as lottery vendors, as they are required to use a cash register system. Such suppliers are required to issue receipts to their customers instead of a full RT invoice.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Sint Maarten.

Proof of exports. To qualify for the RT exemption applicable to the export of goods, the taxable person must avail itself of documents that prove the goods have left Sint Maarten. This documentary proof consists of all the following:
- A copy of the issued invoice with certain specifications
- A proof of payment
- Transport documentation evidencing that the goods have left the levy territory
- A copy of documentation from authorities in the country of destination evidencing that the goods have reached their destination

Foreign currency invoices. RT legislation does not specifically mention any regulations in connection with invoices to be issued in foreign currency. The official domestic currency is the Antillean guilder (ANG). However, in practice, invoices are often issued in foreign currency, mostly in the United States dollar (USD).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Sint Maarten. As such, full RT invoices are required. However, see above for more information about special invoicing rules.

Records. In Sint Maarten, examples of what records must be held for RT purposes include records of their assets and everything relating to its business in such a manner that at any time their rights, obligations and all other information relevant for tax purposes are clear and readily available within a reasonable time frame upon request from the tax authorities.

In Sint Maarten, RT books and records can be held outside of the country. Records may be kept outside Sint Maarten, provided these can be presented upon request by the tax authorities and the integrity and authenticity of the documents is safeguarded.

Record retention period. Taxable persons must retain copies of invoices for 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Sint Maarten. Paper archiving is mandatory, but electronic is allowed as long as the authenticity and integrity of the documents is maintained.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. RT returns are generally submitted for monthly periods. However, if certain circumstances exist, the tax authorities may allow annual periods upon request of a taxable person, such as a person who manages an asset to obtain revenue from the asset on a permanent basis. Returns must be filed by the 15th day of the month following the end of the reporting period.

Periodic payments. RT due must be paid by the same date as the return submission deadline, i.e., 15th day of the month following the end of the reporting period. The RT due over the period must be remitted with the return. Payments can be wire transferred, as long as the payment is received by the due date.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is not allowed in Sint Maarten. RT returns must be filed by paper.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Sint Maarten.

Special schemes. Gambling companies. Revenue derived from providing access to casino games is exempt from RT.

E-zones. In principle, e-zone companies are exempt from RT to the extent their revenue is generated through the delivery of goods and services outside of Sint Maarten or the rendering of services.

Offshore companies and banks. Companies that have a foreign exchange license (deviezenontheffing) are not considered as an entrepreneur for Sint Maarten RT purposes. As a result, these companies are not subject to RT. In short, a company is eligible for a foreign exchange license if it has foreign shareholders and does not perform any activities in Sint Maarten.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Sint Maarten.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Sint Maarten.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If a taxable person needs to correct any errors, it will need to file a new return over the respective period or a reconciliation return. It can also file an objection against an incorrectly filed return and thus reclaim an overpayment.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Sint Maarten.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in Sint Maarten for the late registration of RT. However, if the late registration results in the late payment of RT or the late submission of RT returns, administrative penalties may be imposed.

Penalties for late payment and filings. RT penalties are assessed for the late submission of an RT return or for the late payment of RT, in the following amounts:

- For the late submission of an RT return, the maximum fine is ANG2,500
- For the late payment of RT, fines ranging from 5% to 15% of the amount of the additional assessment may be imposed, with a maximum fine of ANG10,000

Penalties for errors. A negligence tax penalty of up to 100% of the additional tax due can be imposed if the deficit is attributable to the intent or gross negligence of the taxable person.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's RT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to RT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. For a late payment caused by negligence or dishonest conduct, fines ranging from 25% to 100% of the RT payable may be imposed.

The amount of the penalty depends on the facts and circumstances and is determined at the Tax Inspector's discretion, which is subject to objection.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in RT declarations and reporting in Sint Maarten.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Sint Maarten is five years. However, in the case of bad faith, this increases to 10 years.

Slovak Republic

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Bratislava GMT +1

EY
Žižkova 9
811 02 Bratislava 1
Slovak Republic

Indirect tax contacts

Juraj Ontko	+421 (2) 3333-9110 juraj.ontko@sk.ey.com
Jana Ontkovičová	+421 (2) 3333-9113 jana.ontkovicova@sk.ey.com
Stanislava Kocková	+421 (2) 3333-9150 stanislava.kockova@sk.ey.com
Lydia Jakubek	+421 (2) 3333-9121 lydia.jakubek@sk.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Daň z pridanej hodnoty (DPH)
Date introduced	1 January 1993
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (www.finance.gov.sk) Financial Directorate (www.financnasprava.sk)
VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	5%, 10%
Other	Zero-rated and exempt
VAT number format	SK0123456789 (digits can be from 0-9)
VAT return periods	Monthly/Quarterly (requested by certain taxpayers with turnover below EUR100,000, except for the initial 12 months of registration)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	EUR49,790
Non-established	None
Distance sales	EUR10,000
Intra-Community acquisitions	EUR14,000
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods for consideration in the Slovak Republic by a taxable person (i.e., a taxpayer) acting as such
- The supply of services for consideration in the Slovak Republic by a taxable person acting as such
- The acquisition of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person for consideration (see the chapter on the EU)
- The importation of goods, regardless of the status of the importer

VAT also applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services by the taxpayer for its private use or for the private use of its staff, and of goods supplied free of charge or supplied for any purpose other than that of the taxpayer's business, if the input tax is wholly or partly deducted
- The transfer of goods owned by a taxable person from the Slovak Republic to another EU Member State (or vice versa) effected by the taxable person or on the taxable person's account, for the purposes of the taxable person's business (exceptions apply, see the chapter on the EU)
- The use of tangible assets in the possession of the taxpayer for its private use, for the private use of the taxpayer's staff or for any purpose other than that of its business, if the VAT on such assets is wholly or partly deductible

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the chapter on the EU. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

VAT Quick Fixes rules were introduced in the Slovak VAT Act as of 1 January 2020 and cover the following areas:
- Implementation of call-off stock rules: i.e., call-off stock simplification providing a single uniform VAT regime applicable for the delivery of goods to an already known customer in another Member State who will be acquiring the goods at a later stage.
  - The call-off stock simplification can be used for the maximum period of 12 consecutive months. In case the customer does not pick up the goods from the stock within this period, the supplier needs to register for VAT in the country of arrival and report intra-Community acquisition of goods here; there are some exceptions applicable allowing for the simplification beyond the 12-month period.
  - Supplier should include VAT ID of the customer, together with the value of the goods in its EC Sales List filed in the country of dispatch.
  - Supplier and customer should report the respective transaction in their VAT records.
  - The call-off stock simplification can be operated also in case of VAT registration of the supplier in the Member State of arrival, providing the supplier does not have its seat or fixed establishment in that country.
- VAT number as a substantive condition for applying the exemption for intra-Community supplies of goods: customer's VAT ID assigned by the Member State different from the Member State of dispatch becomes a substantive requirement for exemption of intra-EU supplies of goods.
- Documentary evidence of intra-EU supplies of goods: there is a rebuttable presumption for the evidence of the transport to another EU Member State if the supplier can provide two noncontradictory pieces of evidence that are independently prepared and issued by different parties.

- Chain transactions simplification: for chain transactions, the intra-Community supply will be ascribed to the supply made to the intermediary operator who arranges or has the intra-Community transport arranged. If the intermediary operator has communicated to its supplier the VAT number issued to it by the Member State from which the goods are dispatched or transported, the intra-Community supply will be ascribed to the supply made by the intermediary operator.

The rules concerning the documentary evidence of intra-EU supplies of goods valid prior to 2020 were retained in the Slovak VAT Act and can be relied upon by taxpayers in case this is more beneficial for them as opposed to Quick Fixes regulation. The rules are detailed below in section H. Invoicing subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. There were no other derogations implemented in the Slovak Republic in comparison to the wording in the EU Directive/EU regulation.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective countries of the EU.

In the Slovak Republic, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. A transfer of a going concern (TOGC) is considered outside the scope of VAT. The VAT rules in the Slovak Republic require the transferor and the transferee to be VAT registered to fall outside the scope. In the Slovak Republic, the legislation requires the transferee to register for VAT. But a TOGC is not relieved from taxation if the transferee is involved in (mostly) exempt business – the general taxation rules would then apply.

The Slovak VAT legislation is currently in line with the EU VAT Directive TOGC provisions and with the European case law. The process of TOGC registration is administratively complicated and may cause an unexpected adverse cash flow impact, thus the whole TOGC registration process should be managed enough in advance. TOGC regime may be applied on different types of agreements.

Transactions between related parties. If the supplier of the goods or services is supplying goods and services to a customer with a special relationship for a consideration lower than the free-market value, and the customer (recipient) is not a taxpayer or is a taxpayer who is not entitled to a full input tax deduction from these goods and services, the tax base is free-market value.

The free-market value is the amount that the recipient would have to pay to acquire the goods or services in question at the same commercial stage as the supply of goods or services from an independent supplier of goods or services at the time of delivery under the conditions of fair competition.

If a comparable supply of goods or services cannot be identified, the free-market value is:
- On delivery of the goods, an amount that is not lower than the purchase price of the goods in question or similar goods and, if the purchase price does not exist, the costs of creating the goods at the time of delivery
- On delivery of the service, an amount not less than the cost of that service

The persons with a special relationship to the supplier are as follows: statutory body of the company, members of supervisory board, direct or indirect owners of the customer and its statutory bodies, employees, relatives, etc.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any business entity or individual that independently performs any economic activity regardless of the purpose and results of such activity.

The VAT registration threshold for taxable persons that have their seat, place of business or a fixed establishment in the Slovak Republic (Slovak taxable persons) is a turnover of EUR49,790 measured in a maximum period of 12 consecutive calendar months. A Slovak taxable person of which the turnover equals or exceeds the registration threshold must file a VAT registration application by the 20th day of the month following the month in which the threshold is reached.

For the above purposes, turnover includes the value of supplies of goods and services, made in the Slovak Republic (excluding tax). The value of supplies that are exempt from VAT without input deduction (see Section D) is generally excluded from turnover for the above purposes. However, the value of insurance and financial services is included if these services are not provided as ancillary to the main taxable supply. The value of the occasional sale of tangible property (except inventory) and intangible property is excluded from the definition of taxable turnover.

Exemption from registration. As mentioned above, foreign businesses are not obliged to be registered for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic if they are represented by an import VAT representative or intra-Community acquisition VAT representative and if they do not perform any other transactions subject to VAT reporting in the Slovak Republic than the listed ones.

Slovak established persons (i.e., persons having their seat, place of business or a fixed establishment in the Slovak Republic) of which turnover in the preceding 12 consecutive calendar months did not exceed EUR49,790, are not obliged to register for VAT in the Slovak Republic. From 1 January 2023, such registration obligations do not arise if a Slovak taxpayer achieves the stipulated turnover solely from the VAT exempt supply or leasing of immovable property and the provision of insurance or financial services.

A taxable person that plans to supply an immovable property is obliged to register for VAT before making a supply of the immovable property (or before receipt of payment pertaining to such a supply) by which it would exceed the mandatory registration threshold, unless the supply is exempt from VAT.

A taxable person not registered for VAT or nontaxable legal person acquiring goods from another EU Member State is not obliged to register for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic if the value of intra-Community acquisitions (excluding VAT) does not exceed EUR14,000 in a calendar year. On the other hand, if a taxable person not registered for VAT in the Slovak Republic purchases services from other EU Member State subject to the reverse-charge mechanism, with a place of supply in the Slovak Republic, while being considered as a person liable to VAT, it is obliged to register for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic before the actual purchase of the services. Similarly, the Slovak established person not registered for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic is obliged to register for VAT before it supplies services to another EU Member State if these have the place of supply in another EU Member State and the purchaser is considered a person liable to pay VAT.

As of 1 July 2021, the provision on the distance selling model were replaced by the One-Stop Shop (OSS), applicable also for intra-EU distance sales of goods, where the registration threshold of EUR10,000 applies.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Taxable persons with any value of turnover or acquisitions may register voluntarily. Voluntary VAT registration is administratively complex and subject to detailed scrutiny from the Slovak tax authorities due to antifraud measures.

Group registration. VAT grouping allows financially, economically and organizationally linked domestic taxable persons (including fixed establishments of foreign entities) to form a single taxable person. The VAT group is assigned a single VAT identification number. Supplies between the members of the VAT group are outside the scope of VAT. However, records of such supplies must be maintained for VAT purposes.

All members of a VAT group in the Slovak Republic are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and VAT penalties.

The Slovak VAT group registration becomes effective on 1 January if the group VAT registration application is filed by 31 October of the preceding calendar year.

There is no minimum time period for the duration of a VAT group. An exit from the VAT group is possible at any time – the exit of a VAT group member from the VAT group is effective within 30 days after filing the request for exit from the VAT group.

One taxable person may be a member of one VAT group only. A Slovak VAT group can include only taxable persons with their seat, place of business or a fixed establishment in the Slovak Republic.

Holding companies. In the Slovak Republic, a holding company can be a member of a VAT group if it fulfills the general criteria of being a taxable person performing economic activities, as only a taxable person may become a member of a VAT group. The assessment if a holding company fulfills the required criteria qualifying for taxable person requires a detailed validation of activities performed by the holding company. The Slovak tax authorities did not issue any methodological guidance on this matter.

Note that a pure/passive holding company does not typically perform economic activities and therefore should not be considered as taxable person. Therefore, a pure/holding company cannot be member of a VAT group.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f)) has not been implemented in the Slovak Republic.

Fixed establishment. A fixed establishment (FE) for the purpose of the Slovak VAT law is defined as a permanent place of business that has the human and material equipment necessary for the performance of business activities in the Slovak Republic. The Slovak tax authorities follow the interpretation of an FE as stipulated by Council Implementing Regulation (EU) No 282/2011. The registration of a branch in the Slovak Commercial Register does not automatically make the branch meet the fixed establishment criteria.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a foreign business that has no seat, place of business, fixed establishment, residence or habitual abode in the Slovak Republic.

A non-established business must register for VAT in the Slovak Republic before it begins to perform activities that are within the scope of Slovak VAT, except for the importation of goods. Performance of only the following supplies of goods or services in the country does not trigger the registration obligation:

- Certain zero-rated transport services and zero-rated services ancillary to transport services
- Goods and services subject to the reverse charge by the recipient
- Goods transported to other EU Member States if the goods have previously been imported from a non-EU country and the foreign person has appointed an import VAT representative in the Slovak Republic
- Goods transported to other EU Member States or to non-EU countries if the goods have previously been supplied to the Slovak Republic from another EU Member State and the foreign person has appointed an intra-Community acquisition VAT representative in the Slovak Republic

- Goods supplied within a triangular transaction if the non-established business acts as middle party to the transaction (see the chapter on the EU)
- Gas and electricity supplies if the recipient of the goods is required to pay VAT
- Goods and services subject to a VAT exemption without the right for input tax deduction
- Certain types of goods supplied in certain types of custom warehouses defined by the VAT Act
- Supply of goods and provision of services with the place of supply (consumption) in the Slovak Republic applying the OSS simplification scheme

The Slovak tax authorities are obligated to register the non-established person as a taxpayer and to allocate the tax identification number immediately, no later than within seven days of the date of delivery of the application for tax registration. The non-established person shall become a taxpayer from the date shown in the letter providing the tax registration number. From 1 January 2022, the Slovak tax authorities do not issue a certificate confirming tax registration. Instead, the allocated tax identification number is announced by the Slovak tax authorities to the taxpayer. There are no procedural fees related to submission of VAT registration application in the Slovak Republic.

VAT registration is carried out at the following designated office:

Tax Authority Bratislava (Daňový úrad Bratislava)
Ševčenkova 32
P.O. Box 154
850 00 Bratislava
Slovak Republic

In theory, it is possible to file the VAT registration electronically for non-established businesses (using the advanced electronic signature). However, in practice this can be complex and not often undertaken. However, if the non-established taxable person has a representative for tax proceedings (tax advisor or legal attorney, etc.), the electronic communication, including the electronic VAT registration application, becomes an obligation. But in this case, it is the representative acting based on the power of attorney who will be filing the registration electronically on behalf of the non-established business.

The VAT registration threshold for Slovak taxable persons and for Slovak nontaxable legal persons that acquire goods in the Slovak Republic from other EU Member States is EUR14,000 of goods acquired in a calendar year. This type of VAT registration does not confer on the person the status of a taxpayer (that is, no input tax deduction is possible). It only serves the purpose of allowing the person to pay the VAT due on the goods acquired. Registration is required before achieving the threshold.

Tax representatives. The concept of a fiscal representative has not been introduced into the Slovak VAT Act. Nevertheless, foreign or Slovak entities can appoint a representative to act on their behalf in front of the Slovak tax authorities in all tax matters, including VAT registration or compliance process, based on a power of attorney.

A non-established business may appoint a VAT representative for the purposes of making importations of goods that are to be treated as exempt from VAT on the basis of their subsequent intra-Community supply (a zero-rated resale to another EU Member State) by the non-established business. The non-established business must appoint the representative using a power of attorney. The VAT representative must submit tax returns on a monthly basis as well as monthly EU Sales Lists on behalf of the importers. The importer of goods is not required to register for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic.

A non-established business may appoint a VAT representative for the purposes of making intra-Community acquisitions of goods in the Slovak Republic (i.e., acquisition of goods from another EU Member State) provided that these goods are intended to be subsequently supplied to another EU Member State or non-EU country or sold distance selling (with the place of supply in another EU Member State). The VAT representative should be appointed using a power of attorney. The VAT representative is obliged to submit VAT returns, VAT ledgers and EU sales lists on behalf of the represented person on a monthly basis. The person represented by the VAT representative is not required to register for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic provided it does not perform any transactions subject to VAT reporting in the Slovak Republic (other than those described above). A VAT representative can represent more than one non-established business.

Reverse charge. A Slovak taxable person must apply VAT with respect to services provided from another EU Member State or a non-EU country if the following conditions are satisfied:
- The services are taxable and the place of supply of the services is in the Slovak Republic
- The supplier is not the person liable to pay the VAT

VAT is accounted for by the reverse-charge mechanism; the recipient of the service must account for VAT on the service, but it is also entitled to recover the self-assessed VAT if certain conditions are met.

A Slovak taxable person is generally not required to apply the reverse charge if the service provider is established for VAT purposes in the Slovak Republic (in that case, the service provider must account for the Slovak VAT due). However, the reverse charge applies if a taxable person or an entity that is not a taxable person and that is identified for VAT, as a result of intra-Community acquisitions, receives services from a non-established person from another EU Member State or a non-EU country and if the place of supply is in the Slovak Republic as a result of the recipient's seat, place of business or fixed establishment (if the service is attributable to the fixed establishment). In such circumstances, the reverse charge applies regardless of whether the non-established service provider is registered for VAT in the Slovak Republic. If these services are provided to persons in their nonbusiness capacity or to private individuals, the country where the supplier is established is considered to be the place of supply for the services.

The person liable to VAT with respect to goods (except in the case of distance selling) and services supplied by non-established businesses (from EU and non-EU countries) to taxable persons established in the Slovak Republic is the recipient of the goods and services, regardless of whether the supplier (foreign person) is registered for VAT in the Slovak Republic.

Domestic reverse charge. A Slovak VAT payer that purchases the following goods from another Slovak taxable person must apply the domestic reverse charge to the following supplies:
- Gold in the form of raw material, semi-finished product or investment gold
- Metal waste and scrap metal
- Greenhouse gas emission allowances
- Immovable property where the option to tax was elected by the supplier
- Supply of goods following the cession of a reservation of ownership to an assignee and the exercising of this right by the assignee
- Supply of immovable property within enforcement or bankruptcy proceedings
- Supply of construction services, supply of construction under a contract of work (or similar type of contract) if it falls under Section F (Constructions or construction works) of the Statistical Classification of Products, and the supply of goods with installation or assembly, if the assembly or installation falls under Section F of the Statistical Classification of Products; in cases when it is not clear whether the construction service falls under Section F, but the supplier reasonably concludes that this service should be subject to the local reverse charge and includes the sentence on the invoice that the "application of reverse charge" applies, the customer is liable to pay the VAT due

- Supply of goods falling within Chapters 10 (cereals) and 12 (oil seeds and oleaginous fruits, miscellaneous grains, seeds and fruit, industrial or medicinal plants, straw and fodder) of the Common Customs Tariff, which are not commonly intended for final consumption in an unchanged state; it does not apply to the sales of goods where a simplified tax invoice (cash register bill) is issued
- Supply of goods falling within Chapter 72 (iron and steel) and Items 7301 (sheet piling of iron or steel, whether or not drilled, punched or made from assembled elements, welded angles, shapes and sections of iron or steel), 7308 (structures and parts of structures of iron or steel, plates, rods, angles, shapes, sections tubes and the like, prepared for use in structures of iron or steel) and 7314 (cloth, grill, netting and fencing, of iron or steel wire, expanded metal of iron or steel) of the Common Customs Tariff; it does not apply to the sales of goods where a simplified tax invoice (cash register bill) is issued
- Supply of mobile phones that are made or adapted for use in conjunction with a licensed network and work on specified frequencies, if the tax base in the invoice is EUR5,000 or more
- Supply of integrated circuits such as microprocessors and central processing units in a state prior to integration into end-user products, if the tax base in the invoice is EUR5,000 or more

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B, Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the chapter on the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In the Slovak Republic, taxpayers that want to register for application of the OSS should submit to the Slovak tax authorities the registration form for OSS. There are separate application forms designated for OSS, different from the "standard" VAT registrations. If the tax authorities allow the use of a special OSS scheme, the taxpayers who are not already registered for VAT purposes will obtain the confirmation together with the notification of identification number for OSS purposes.

The tax authorities can cancel the registration for OSS for the following:
- Based on the request for cancelation of registration from a taxpayer that has decided not to apply the OSS or when the taxpayer has stopped carrying out the activity covered by the OSS
- The taxpayer does not fulfill the conditions for the application of the OSS in the Member State of identification, e.g., change of registered office
  Or
- The taxable person repeatedly breaks the conditions for the application of OSS, e.g., does not submit tax returns with OSS

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:
- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier registers for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

In the Slovak Republic, the OSS registration process is the same as described above in the Local VAT registration subsection.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the chapter on the EU.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT. For more details about the IOSS, see the chapter on the EU.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination, and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

In the Slovak Republic, the IOSS registration process is the same as described above in the Local VAT registration subsection.

Postal services and couriers scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

In the Slovak Republic there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the EU chapter.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:
- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply).
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes.

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State, as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

In the Slovak Republic there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the chapter on the EU.

Vouchers. The Slovak Republic has adopted the Council Directive (EU) 2016/1065, for the application of VAT on vouchers. A voucher is defined as an instrument in physical or electronic form and is associated with the entitlement of the holder to receive specific goods or services and the commitment of the supplier to accept such voucher as consideration for the delivered goods or services.

For the VAT purposes, it is necessary to distinguish between so-called "single-purpose" VAT (SPV) and "multi-purpose" VAT (MPV) vouchers. For SPV, the place of supply of goods or services and the VAT rate are known already at the time of issuance. For MPV, at least one of these facts is unknown.

The sale of a SPV by a taxpayer acting in their own name is regarded as a supply of goods or services against consideration. The supplier charges VAT upon sale of the SPV, while the VAT will not be charged upon the actual supply of goods/services when SPV is redeemed. The sale of MPV will not be subject to VAT. Only the provision of goods or service itself in return for a MPV will be subject to taxation.

Registration procedures. The following documents should be submitted to Slovak tax authorities by the non-established person for the purposes of VAT registration:
- A completed application form for VAT registration
- An original extract from the Commercial Register or a notarized copy thereof
- An official translation of the extract from the Commercial Register into the Slovak language (not required for the Czech language)
- If the person has appointed a representative, a power of attorney does not need to be notarized, but if the power of attorney is executed in any language other than the Slovak or Czech languages, it must be accompanied by official translation thereof

The VAT application form, together with the required documents, must be filed electronically to the tax authorities.

Deregistration. Taxable persons that cease to conduct economic activities (i.e., activities subject to VAT in the Slovak Republic, as well as in another EU Member State) are obliged to file an application to deregister. The Slovak tax authorities may deregister a VAT-registered person in response to an application or at their own discretion if the VAT-registered person repeatedly fails to comply with administrative duties (e.g., filing of VAT returns, VAT ledgers, payment of VAT or tax audit-related duties).

Changes to VAT registration details. The taxable person is obliged to notify the tax administration electronically of any changes regarding its tax registration details (e.g., a change of business name, address, organization's number, name of the managing director). The deadline for filing the announcement of changes is 30 days from the day the changes occurred.

Split payment. In the Slovak Republic, a split-payment mechanism has been introduced with the aim to mitigate the risk of several and joint liability for unpaid VAT by the supplier. The customer can remit the amount of VAT from the invoice directly to the individual bank account of the supplier held by the tax authorities. By paying the VAT directly to the individual bank account of the supplier, the risk of being held liable for VAT unpaid by the supplier to the tax authorities should be mitigated. The payment order should be made in the same way as if placed by the suppliers themselves.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rate: 5%, 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods
- Intra-Community supplies of goods
- Services related to the export of goods
- International transport of persons
- Financial and insurance services provided to a customer that is not established in the EU

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Supply of building or its parts (including building plots) in relation to state-supported rental housing – not applicable for nonresidential premises
- Reconstruction and restoration of building or its part (including construction and assembly works on the building) in relation to state-supported rental housing – not applicable for nonresidential premises

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Selected pharmaceutical products and medical aids
- Specific newspapers, periodicals, books, brochures and leaflets, and books for children
- Certain food products such as meat, fish, milk and bread, certain types of vegetables
- Accommodation services
- Certain goods and services related to social welfare
- Hotel, restaurant and catering (HoReCa) services

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Postal services
- Health care (except for supplies of pharmaceuticals and health aids)
- Public radio and television broadcasting (except for broadcasting of commercials and sponsored programs)
- Education
- Financial services
- Services related to sports and physical education
- Cultural services
- Social welfare
- Lotteries and similar games
- Transfer and lease of real estate (options to tax available for both except of residential real estate)
- Insurance and reinsurance services (including public social and health insurance)
- Services provided by a legal person to its members (if certain conditions are met)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The transfer of immovable property, wholly or partly, carried out five years after the date of the first official approval of use or five years after the first day of the actual usage, or five years after major reconstruction with or without the change in the purpose of using that property is VAT exempt. The taxpayer may opt to tax the transfer of the immovable property, except for the transfer of residential real estate.

Similarly, the lease of immovable property is VAT exempt. Again, the taxpayer that leases nonresidential real estate to a taxable person may opt to tax the lease.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "chargeability of tax" or "tax point." In the Slovak Republic, VAT generally becomes chargeable on the date on which goods are supplied or services are performed.

Under the general rule, the tax point for goods or services is the date of the supply of the goods or services or the date of the receipt of the payment, whichever is earlier. The date of supply of goods is the date of acquisition of the right to dispose of the goods as owner.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in the Slovak Republic for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. If goods or services are supplied in parts or repeatedly, the goods or services are considered to be supplied at the latest on the last day of the period to which the payment for the goods or services relates.

If a payment for partial or repeated supplies of goods or services is agreed to for a period exceeding 12 calendar months, the tax point arises on the last day of the 12th month, until the supply of goods or services is finished.

A special rule applies if the following circumstances exist:

- A service is supplied partially or repeatedly during a period exceeding 12 calendar months and the agreed payment is for a period exceeding 12 calendar months
- The service is supplied to a taxable person acting as such
- The place of supply is in the Slovak Republic
- The person required to pay VAT is the recipient of the service

In the circumstances mentioned above, the tax point arises on 31 December of each calendar year, until the supply of such service is finished.

Specific rules also apply to partial or repeated intra-Community supplies of goods, partial or repeated supplies of gas, water, heat and electricity that are supplied along with leases of immovable property, and of electronic communication networks and electronic communication services.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in the Slovak Republic for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For reverse-charge services received by a Slovak taxable person, VAT becomes due on the date of supply of the service.

Leased assets. The delivery of goods based on a lease agreement under which ownership to the subject matter of the lease agreement is acquired, at the latest, upon the payment of the last installment is considered a supply of goods.

A lease transaction with purchase options agreed generally remains to be regarded as a supply of services. From 2025, it is the intention to treat a lease with purchase option as a supply of goods in line with the CJEU case law and thus the VAT will be due upon hand over of goods subject to leasing agreements.

The lease of real estate or its part is VAT exempt, except for:
- The provision of accommodation services
- Lease of land for the purpose of parking of vehicles
- Lease of permanently installed equipment and machinery
- Lease of safes

A taxpayer that leases a nonresidential real estate to a taxable person may opt to tax the lease.

Imported goods. The tax point for imported goods is when the customs authority accepts the customs declaration for the release of the goods into a customs regime triggering the payment of VAT. If this is not applicable, the tax point is when the liability to customs duties (including import VAT) arises in a different manner.

Note that postponed import VAT accounting (i.e., VAT deferral upon importation) has not been implemented into the Slovak VAT law.

Intra-Community acquisitions. For intra-Community acquisitions, the tax point is either the date of the issuance of the invoice or the 15th day of the calendar month following the month in which the goods are acquired, whichever is earlier.

Intra-Community supplies of goods. The tax point for goods that are supplied to another EU Member State and that meet the conditions for exemption from VAT in the Slovak Republic is either the date of the issuance of the invoice or the 15th day of the calendar month following the month in which the goods are supplied, whichever is earlier.

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in the Slovak Republic for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

The date is the supply of the goods or the date of the receipt of the payment, whichever is earlier. The date of supply of goods is the date of acquisition of the right to dispose of the goods as the owner.

As of 1 July 2021, only for the taxable persons who facilitate the supply of goods within the territory of the EU, the tax point will arise on the day when the payment is received.

Immovable property. The tax point for a transfer of real estate is the date on which the transfer of the property is registered in the Real Estate Cadaster or the date on which the property is made available for use to the purchaser, whichever is earlier. The tax point for the supply of a newly constructed building is the date of the handing over of the building.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxpayer may recover input tax, which is the VAT charged on goods and services received if it is directly attributable to the taxable person's own supplies for which a deduction entitlement exists (mostly taxable and zero-rated supplies).

Input tax may generally be recovered by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT due on the supplies made. A taxpayer is entitled to deduct input tax if the tax point for the supply in question has arisen with respect to the output and the taxpayer holds a valid VAT invoice or import document.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in the Slovak Republic is five years. However, the taxpayer may deduct input tax in any VAT period after the VAT period in which the right to deduct arose up to the end of the calendar year (or the financial year, if applicable). The taxpayer must possess the required documents (e.g., invoice, import declaration and other documents) by the time of the deadline for submission of the VAT return for that period. If the documents are not available until the end of the calendar (or financial) year, the deduction must be made for the period in which the documents are received. If the taxpayer finds out later that there is an invoice with VAT that was not claimed by the last VAT return in the respective calendar (or financial) year, it is still possible to claim this input tax via filing the supplementary VAT return. Taxpayers can go back and submit supplementary VAT returns up to five years (see Correcting errors in previous returns subsection below).

Taxpayers submitting a supplementary VAT return due to belated receipts of invoices for intra-Community acquisitions of goods are entitled to deduct the respective VAT in this supplementary return if they have the related invoice at their disposal as of the filing date.

Taxpayers are required to correct the amount of deducted VAT within 30 days from the date the tax base was to be corrected by the supplier, even if the corrective invoice is absent.

From 1 January 2023, taxpayers acting as customers are obliged to correct the amount of deducted VAT in case they have not paid for the supply of goods or services, where the supplier was a person liable for VAT and more than 100 days have passed since the liability due date. The correction shall be made to the extent of the amount that taxpayers have not paid for the supply in the tax period in which the 100-day period elapsed.

A taxpayer is entitled to interest on excess VAT if the payment of excess VAT was later than six months after the deadline for its usual refund. The interest is calculated as a percentage of the final amount of excess VAT (as confirmed by the tax inspectors), for the period starting six months after the deadline for its usual refund, until its actual refund. The interest rate applicable should equal twice the European Central Bank rate, valid on the first day of the calendar year for which the interest is calculated, with a minimum applicable annual rate of 1.5%.

Nondeductible input tax. A taxpayer may not recover the following input tax:
- VAT that relates to activities that are not business activities
- VAT that relates to transactions regarded as exempt supplies
- VAT incurred on items of expenditure for which recovery is specifically excluded (for example, input tax related to meals and entertainment)

Input tax on goods that are used for both business and for nonbusiness purposes is generally deductible. However, output tax must be paid on the nonbusiness use.

For fixed tangible assets intended to be used for both business and nonbusiness purposes, the taxpayer may opt not to deduct a portion of the input tax that reflects the nonbusiness use of these assets. As a result, the use of these assets for nonbusiness purposes is not subject to VAT.

The above option applies only to movable tangible assets with an acquisition price exceeding EUR3,319.39 (without VAT) and a useful life over one year. For immovable assets, the taxpayer needs to determine the proportion of use of the immovable asset for its business and nonbusiness purposes and deduct the input tax only to the extent of the business use (for further details, see the subsection on Capital goods below).

For services received by a taxable person that are intended to be used for both business and nonbusiness purposes, the taxpayer may not deduct VAT relating to nonbusiness use. However, if the taxpayer does not expect to use the services for nonbusiness purposes, it may deduct input tax relating to the entire consideration for the services. If the services are subsequently used for nonbusiness purposes, the taxpayer must account for output tax (VAT on sales) on the portion of the consideration that is attributable to the nonbusiness use of the services.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Business entertainment
- The part of input tax on the acquisition of goods and services that represents its nonbusiness use, if the taxpayer elects not to apply output tax on this nonbusiness use

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, lease or hire of vans and trucks
- Taxis
- Hotel accommodation
- Fuel used for business purposes
- Business use of mobile telephones
- Business gifts that are worth less than EUR17 each (not taxed on output)
- Commercial samples of goods for advertising purposes (not taxed on output)
- Parking

Partial exemption. For goods and services that are partially used for the provision of exempt supplies, only the portion of VAT related to taxable supplies may be deducted. For these purposes, taxable supplies include zero-rated supplies, and supplies that are specifically excluded from the application of VAT and that are entitled to input tax deduction.

The deductible proportion is calculated based on the total revenue (or income) generated from taxable supplies made (those for which the input tax is deductible), divided by the total revenue (or income) from all supplies made. All values are exclusive of VAT. Because the terms "revenue" and "income" are not defined for VAT purposes, they should probably be understood in terms of their definitions for accounting purposes. "Revenue" is the term used for double-entry bookkeeping, while "income" is the term used for single-entry bookkeeping.

The following taxable supplies are excluded from the calculation of the deductible proportion:

- Incidental financial services exempt from VAT
- The sale of an enterprise or part of an enterprise (transfer of going concern)
- The sale of business assets (capital goods) excluding inventory
- Incidental real estate transactions (transfer or leasing of immovable property)

The deductible proportion is calculated for the entire calendar (or financial) year and is rounded up to the nearest whole percentage. During the current calendar (or financial) year, the deductible proportion calculated for the preceding year is used. If no percentage exists for the preceding year, the taxpayer may use a percentage agreed to with the tax authorities.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in the Slovak Republic. Special methods are not allowed in the Slovak Republic.

Capital goods. With respect to the purchase of immovable property to be used for both business and nonbusiness purposes, the input tax is deductible only to the extent that the property is used for business purposes. If the nonbusiness use of the immovable property changes over a period of 20 years, a special Capital Goods Adjustment Scheme applies. This rule applies to immovable property acquired on or after 1 January 2011.

The previously valid 10-year period for the adjustment of deducted input tax relating to immovable property is extended to 20 years. Under transitional provisions, the 10-year period applies to immovable property that was subject to the adjustment of input tax deduction in the period from 2004 to 2010, regardless of when the property was acquired. Consequently, the extended 20-year period also applies to immovable property acquired before 1 January 2011 that was not subject to adjustment of the VAT deduction in the period from 2004 to 2010. Taxpayers must retain documentation relating to affected immovable property for a period of 20 years.

Adjustments of deducted input tax relating to capital goods must also be preserved by the legal successor of the entity dissolved without liquidation, such as in cases of reorganizations such as mergers or de-mergers.

Deducted input tax relating to movable capital goods must be adjusted if the proportion between business and nonbusiness use changes over a period of five years after the capital goods were acquired.

In the Slovak Republic, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following services and circumstances:
- In case of services performed on movable assets with a purchase price of EUR3,319.39 or more, and a useful life of more than one year, the obligation for input tax adjustment needs to be analyzed for five years.
- In case of services performed on buildings, building plots, flats and nonresidential premises, the obligation for input tax adjustment needs to be analyzed for 20 years.

Refunds. If the amount of deductible VAT in a VAT period exceeds the amount of output tax in that tax period, the taxpayer may offset the difference against a VAT liability in the following tax period. The remaining difference between the amount of deductible VAT and output tax that cannot be offset is refunded to a taxpayer by the tax authorities within 30 days after the date of the submission of a VAT return for the following tax period.

Taxpayer may request the refund of excess VAT in a shorter period, which is 30 days after the deadline for submission of the VAT return for the VAT period in which excess VAT was reported, if the following conditions are met:
- The taxpayer is a monthly taxpayer
- The taxpayer was registered for VAT purposes for at least 12 months before the month in which the excess VAT was reported
- The taxpayer is not liable for underpayments exceeding EUR1,000 of other taxes, customs duties and mandatory social and health insurance over the six-month period preceding the month in which the excess VAT was reported

If in the period for refund of excess VAT, the tax authorities deliver an appeal (letter) prompting the removal of defects in the submitted VAT return, the period for refund of excess VAT is interrupted from the day of delivery until the day on which the defects are removed. If the taxpayer generates or increases an amount of excess VAT through the filing of a supplementary VAT return, the tax authorities must refund the respective amount within 30 days after the submission of the supplementary VAT return.

If the tax authorities carry out a tax audit to verify the taxpayer's entitlement to a refund, the refund must be repaid within 10 days after the tax authorities complete the tax audit.

If the excess VAT is refunded in a shorter period (mentioned above) based on a VAT return containing incorrect data, the tax authorities impose a penalty amounting up to 1.3% per month of the excess VAT refunded.

Pre-registration costs. The taxpayer may deduct tax related to goods and services purchased before the day the person became the taxpayer if such purchases were not included in tax expenses in calendar years preceding the calendar year in which the person became a taxpayer, except for stock. As to regards of property acquired before the VAT registration, the taxpayer will decrease VAT for property that is depreciated by a proportional part of the VAT corresponding to the depreciation. The taxpayer shall not be entitled to deduct the VAT if the goods and services are not used for the supplies of goods and services as the taxpayer.

Taxpayers are also obliged to take into account the correction of the deducted VAT amount in case they have not paid for the supply of goods or services, whereas the supplier was a person liable for VAT and more than 100 days have passed since the liability due date if this occurred in the period when the taxable person should have already been VAT registered.

Bad debts. The write off of bad debts (i.e., bad debt relief) of unrecoverable VAT is possible in certain situations in the Slovak Republic.

The options when a bad debt relief (refund of the VAT) may be claimed are exhaustively defined in the law:

- More than 150 days have passed since the due date of an unpaid receivable amounting to less than EUR1,000 (including VAT) and the taxpayer is able to prove it has performed any action to obtain receivable reimbursement
- More than 150 days have passed since the due date of an unpaid receivable amounting to more than EUR1,000 (including VAT) and the taxpayer is able to prove that the receivable has been claimed through enforcement or court proceedings
- Customer is in the bankruptcy procedure (certain conditions apply)
- Customer is in the debt relief procedure (certain conditions apply)
- The customer ceased to exist without a successor
- The customer died (certain conditions apply)
- The resolution on the end of the restructuring was published and the receivable was not registered in such proceeding

The bad debt relief should not be applied in cases where the taxpayer performs supply of goods or services to the customer with a specific relationship (i.e., statutory or subsidiary persons), or in cases where the supply took place after the customer applied for bankruptcy procedure or the supplier knew or could/should have known that the customer will not pay for the supply.

The right to claim the bad debt relief by the VAT payer lapses after three years from filing the VAT return for the period in which the supply of goods or services took place, unless a court proceeding, bankruptcy proceeding, etc., are being held.

In cases of the bad debt relief of VAT, a corrective document must be issued by the supplier and provided to the customer. The customer is obliged to make a correction of the deducted VAT in its VAT return. If a supplier corrected the tax base and subsequently any payment from the customer is received, the supplier is obliged to adjust the tax base and VAT liability accordingly.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in the Slovak Republic.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in the Slovak Republic is recoverable. The Slovak Republic refunds VAT incurred by businesses that are not established nor registered for VAT in the Slovak Republic.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU Directive 2008/9/EC. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in the Slovak Republic during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge where the customer is liable to pay VAT; some other minor exceptions apply). For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Find below specific rules for the Slovak Republic:
- The EU business shall claim a refund by submitting the refund application in electronic form via the electronic portal in the Member State in which it has its registered office, place of business, establishment, residence or habitual abode.
- The application for a refund shall be submitted no later than 30 September of the calendar year following the period for which the refund is claimed when the value of VAT exceeds the amount of EUR50.
- If the value of VAT exceeds the amount of EUR400, the application may be filed for any period of at least three calendar months.
- The Bratislava Tax Office shall immediately notify the applicant by electronic means of the date of receipt of the application for a tax refund. If the tax base on the invoice or import document is EUR1,000 or more or in the fuel purchase invoice EUR250 or more, the applicant shall submit a copy of the invoice or import document by electronic means together with the application for a refund.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive. For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

The Slovak Republic applies the principle of reciprocity; that means the country where the claimant is established must also provide VAT refunds to Slovak businesses. There is no list of countries made publicly available by the Slovak tax authorities to which Slovak tax authorities will refund the VAT. However, the foreign business may request the information from the Slovak tax authorities whether non-EU business is eligible for VAT refund in the Slovak Republic (whether the reciprocity exists between the Slovak Republic and the country of its establishment).

Find below specific rules for the Slovak Republic:
- Non-EU businesses are entitled to apply for refund of VAT incurred on:
  – Movable property and services purchased from a Slovak VAT payer
  – Imported goods

  If all conditions set out by the Slovak VAT legislation are met, applicants must file the refund request using the form issued by the Slovak tax authorities (Žiadosť o vrátenie dane z pridanej hodnoty zahraničnej osobe podľa § 56 až 58 zákona č. 222/2004 Z. z).
- The refund application must be submitted in the Slovak or English language. The application form is submitted in paper form to Tax Office Bratislava I:
  Daňový úrad Bratislava
  Radlinského 37
  811 07 Bratislava
- Non-EU business applicants that are registered as non-established VAT payers in Slovakia must submit the refund request in electronic form.
- Requests must be filed with Tax Authorities Bratislava by 30 June of the year following the year in which the VAT was incurred, or the import VAT was paid.

The request must be filed together with the following documents:
- The original invoices or import documents (for imports, documents evidencing payment of the tax must also be included).
- A certificate of status issued by the applicant's local tax authorities confirming that the applicant is registered for VAT in the country where it is established or has its permanent address.
- An annual claim may be filed if the total VAT incurred exceeds EUR50 for the calendar year. A foreign person from a third country may also file a VAT refund application for half a calendar year if the total VAT requested exceeds EUR1,000. If such a request was filed for the first half-year, the amount of VAT requested in the second half should exceed EUR50. The tax authorities must decide on the application for the refund within six months after the date the request is filed.

Late payment interest. If the tax authorities do not refund the VAT within the deadline, the VAT refund applicant (established in another EU Member State) is entitled to a late payment interest. The interest is calculated as three times the basic interest rate of the European Central Bank valid on the last day of the period from which the VAT amount should be refunded. If this interest rate does not reach 10%, the annual interest rate of 10% will be applied. Interest is calculated for each day of delay.

This is applicable only for VAT refund applicants established in another EU Member State. In the Slovak Republic, interest is not paid on late refunds to non-established businesses outside of the EU.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A registered taxpayer must issue a VAT invoice for:
- Supply of goods or services having a place of supply in the Slovak Republic rendered to a taxable person or to a nontaxable legal person
- Supply of goods or services with a place of supply in another EU Member State (if a person liable to VAT is the recipient), even if the supply is exempt from VAT
- Supply of goods or services to a taxable person with a place of supply in a non-EU country
- Supply of goods in the form of distance selling with a place of supply in the Slovak Republic (if an OSS scheme is not applied)
- Intra-Community supply of goods
- Advance payments for goods and services
- Supply of radio, television broadcasting and electronic services with a place of supply in another Member State to a nontaxable legal person under certain conditions

Taxable persons providing services with a place of supply outside the Slovak Republic are obliged to issue VAT invoices at the time the service is being completed or a down payment for that service being received.

The obligation to issue a VAT invoice does not apply to supplies of goods and services with a place of supply in the Slovak Republic that are exempt from VAT with no right of VAT deduction and to supplies of insurance and financial services with a place of supply in EU countries other than the Slovak Republic or in non-EU countries.

The invoice must be drawn no later than 15 days after the date the tax was chargeable, usually (1) the date of supply of goods or services or (2) the date on which the advance payment is received, or no later than 15 days from the end of the calendar month in which the payment was received if it concerns the provision of reverse-charge service.

For intra-Community supplies and services supplied with a place of supply outside the Slovak Republic, the invoice must be drawn no later than 15 days from the end of the month in which the supply of goods or services took place. In cases of corrective invoices, the deadline of 15 days counts from the end of the calendar month in which the facts prompting the correction occurred.

An invoice issued by a member of a VAT group must mention identification details of the group member and the VAT number of the group.

It is necessary to hold a VAT invoice to support a claim for input tax deduction (with the exception of reverse-charge services received from abroad and purchases from abroad of reverse-charge goods supplied with installation or assembly).

Credit notes. If the tax base is corrected as a result of a decrease or increase in the price, the cancellation of all or part of a supply or the return of the goods, the taxpayer must issue a corrective invoice, credit note or debit note. Each document or notification correcting the original invoice should contain a reference to the serial number of the original invoice and the data subject to change. The corrective document (credit note/debit note) must contain the sequential number of the original invoice and all the other data that are being changed. A credit note can, for example, refer to invoice no. 100–130, but it cannot refer to a time period (e.g., invoices issued in October). There must be a specific reference to the invoice number(s), so global credit notes are not allowed to be issued. If the amount of VAT is subject to change on the credit note, there does not have to be any specific comment that the customer should repay it back to the treasury.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in the Slovak Republic, but not mandatory

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in the Slovak Republic. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU and 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU).

There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in the Slovak Republic.

The law allows the sending or accessing of invoices electronically, subject to approval by the recipient of services/goods. An electronic format is not specifically determined, but any method chosen needs to provide for authenticity, legibility and integrity of the document content from its issuing until the end of the obligatory archiving period. Actual payment of an electronically issued invoice is interpreted as approval to its electronic issuance.

The electronic invoice must contain all the compulsory items as the paper invoice. Where electronic invoices are sent or made available to the same recipient in a batch, the details common to the individual invoices may be mentioned only once where, for each invoice, all the information is accessible.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the Ministry of Finance of the Slovak Republic intends to implement a new mandatory system of electronic invoicing and reporting real-time data from both issued and received invoices to the Slovak Financial Administration. For further details, see the subsection Digital tax administration below. However, preparation of Slovak legislation for real-time invoice reporting is on hold and there is no public official information on when or if there will be any legislative framework drafted for the Slovak Republic, independent of what will be agreed on EU level.

For electronic invoicing applicable for the government sector, there will be an obligation to submit electronic invoices for supplies between G2G (government-to-government) and B2G. Testing of the mentioned system has already launched and the reporting obligation is expected to take effect during 2024 at the earliest.

For electronic invoicing between B2B and B2C, the whole legislation process has been postponed, but may be resumed in 2024 or 2025 as per the latest information published from the Ministry of Finance. New legislative initiatives concerning data reporting requirements and electronic invoicing may depend on negotiations at the EU level and the adoption of the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) legislation, which shall be subsequently transposed into the Slovak tax system. For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the European Union.

Simplified VAT invoices. A document produced by an electronic or online cash register for goods and services can serve as a simplified invoice only if the price of the goods or services, including VAT, does not exceed EUR1,000 for cash payments and EUR1,600 for noncash payments. Also, a document issued by an automatic refueling machine may be treated as a simplified invoice if the invoiced amount, including VAT, settled by electronic means does not exceed EUR1,600. Documentation does not need to be produced by the electronic cash register for supplies of goods or services worth EUR100 and less. A simplified invoice does not need to include the unit price and information on the recipient.

A simplified VAT invoice shall not be issued in the following cases:
- Supply of goods or services with a place of supply in another EU Member State (if a person liable to VAT is the recipient), even if the supply is exempt from VAT
- Supply of goods in the form of distance selling with a place of supply in the Slovak Republic (if an OSS scheme is not applied)
- Intra-Community supply of goods

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in the Slovak Republic. Taxpayers may arrange for invoices to be issued by the customer (self-billing) or another person (third-party billing); such invoices must be issued in the name of and on behalf of the taxpayer supplying the goods or services.

Self-billing is subject to a written agreement on the issuance of invoices between the taxpayer and the customer (as per the Slovak VAT Act). An agreement needs to set out the conditions to be fulfilled for the supplier to accept invoices issued by the customer. The taxpayer who supplies the goods or services remains responsible for the accuracy of the information on the invoices and the timeliness of their issuance, even if an invoice is issued by a customer or via another person.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. Goods exported outside the EU or supplied to a taxable person in another EU Member State are zero-rated for a taxpayer that sells upon meeting the conditions specified in the VAT legislation. A taxpayer that exports goods or supplies goods to other EU Member States is generally entitled to recover the related input tax.

To qualify as zero-rated, exports must prove by evidence confirming that goods were exported abroad. A taxpayer must substantiate the export of the goods with the transport document and:
- A certified electronic customs declaration, indicating the date, confirmed by the customs office, for the release of the goods into the customs regime of export with the confirmation of exit of the goods from the EU territory, with the VAT payer required to hold the electronic customs declaration.
- Other proofs, pursuant to a special regulation in case of customs declarations on exportation of goods is provided in verbal form, or an act regarded as customs declaration on exportation goods is performed.

To qualify for zero-rating, an intra-Community supply of goods must be supported by the following documents:
- Copy of the invoice
- Proof of dispatch if transport is arranged by the supplier or customer through one of the authorized postal service companies, or by a copy of a transportation document in which the receipt of goods in another EU Member State is confirmed by the customer or by a person empowered by the customer where the transport is arranged through a third party or, if such documentation unavailable, receipt of goods proven by alternative evidence

- If transport is arranged by the supplier or customer using their own means of transport, the supplier's documentation confirming receipt of the goods by the customer or by a person empowered by the customer, which must include:
  - Identification of the customer, description of the supplied goods and their amount, place and date when the goods were taken over by the customer (if transport performed by the supplier); place and date when transport was finished (if transport performed by the customer)
  - Name and surname of the driver providing the transport and the driver's signature and the registration number of the vehicle used in the transport
- Other documentation, particularly the contract on delivery of the goods, delivery note, payment confirmation on the purchase of goods, confirmation of payment for transportation service

If the transport is arranged by the customer (or on its behalf), the taxpayer must have the documents under bullet two above (i.e., proof of dispatch) and bullet three (i.e., transport arranged by customer or supplier) available within six months after the end of the calendar month in which the supply of goods occurred (as per the Slovak VAT Act). If this is not met, the taxpayer shall apply output tax in the tax period in which the six-month period elapsed.

No special documentation applies in the Slovak Republic for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply.

Foreign currency invoices. If the payment for a supply is requested in foreign currency, the total VAT must be converted into the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR), using the exchange rate published by the European Central Bank on the date preceding the date of the tax point. Alternatively, the taxpayer can opt for a customs foreign exchange rate valid on the date of the tax point to be used over a calendar month. This option may not be revoked during the entire calendar year. For imports, the customs foreign-exchange rate rules apply.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Under the Slovak VAT Act, a taxpayer is not obliged to issue an invoice for the supply of goods and services in the Slovak Republic to a nontaxable person (B2C). An invoice must be issued for supplies to a legal person who is not a taxable person.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales of goods made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In the Slovak Republic, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include detailed records for each tax period on the supplied goods and services and received goods and services; separate records should be kept on delivery of goods and services to another Member State, on acquisition of goods from another Member State and on import of goods.

The records shall contain the information essential for correct computation of the tax.

For the purpose of tax deduction, the taxpayer shall keep the records separately for the goods and services with the input tax deduction and for the goods and services with no input tax deduction and with partial input tax deduction. The taxpayer shall keep records also on any payments received prior to the delivery of goods and services and any payments provided prior to the delivery of goods and services. A member of a VAT group has to keep records on the delivery of the goods and provision of the services to another member of the group.

Separate records must be kept on the following:
- Supply of goods free of charge
- Temporary transfer of goods to another Member State
- Provision of services free of charge, private use of services
- Provision of services to the EU and outside of the EU, including those that are tax exempt

- Supply of goods with installation and assembly in the EU
- Goods transferred and received within call-off stock arrangements (including records on return of goods, replacement of the designated customer)
- Other records according to Section 70 of the Slovak VAT Act

In the Slovak Republic, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. In general, the documents relating to VAT must be kept in the Slovak Republic. However, a taxable person may ask the Ministry for Interior Affairs to allow the export of the records abroad for a certain period of time. A separate request must be filed on regular/annual basis.

Record retention period. Generally, an invoice should be archived for 10 years for VAT purposes. However, if the invoice pertains to certain capital goods, it should be archived until the end of the period for the adjustment of VAT deductions (e.g., 20 years for the adjustment of deducted input tax relating to immovable property).

Taxable persons are required, when retaining invoices, to guarantee the authenticity of the origin, the integrity of the content and the legibility of invoices throughout the retention period. These documents must be retained for 10 years following the year in which the sale or purchase took place. From a VAT perspective, taxpayers are required to retain copies of invoices for a period of 10 years following the year to which they relate. On the other hand, the Accounting Act stipulates a five-year retention period following the year to which the documents relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in the Slovak Republic. Following the EU Invoicing Directive, the Slovak VAT Act provides that tax documents in paper form and in electronic form have equal status. The documents obtained in paper form can be kept and archived electronically under the presumption that the taxable person can ensure (by technical means) the authenticity of the origin (i.e., the assurance of the identity of the supplier or the issuer of the tax document), the integrity of the content (i.e., the content of the tax document was not altered) and the legibility of the document (i.e., it is possible to read the tax document directly or by using a technical device) during the whole archiving period. The documents obtained electronically can be archived only electronically. The tax document may be converted from paper form into electronic form and vice versa for retention purposes.

The taxable person that stores invoices and other documents by electronic means is obliged to enable the tax authority, for auditing purposes, to access, download and use such invoices, upon request. The requirements for the invoice, whether in paper or in electronic form, which must be secured from the time of issue until the end of the period for retention of the invoice.

Obligations concerning invoice reporting (real-time invoicing) are intended to be implemented (estimated to be no earlier than from 2026), to a large extent, based on EU Directive No. 2020/284 of 18 February 2020. At the time of preparing this chapter, no wording of the bill has been made available.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The general tax period is a calendar month. In special cases, a period of a calendar quarter may be applicable.

Slovak VAT returns must be submitted by the 25th day after the end of the tax period. The VAT returns (as well as other VAT filings, such as VAT ledger, EC sales listing) are filed electronically via e-portal of the Slovak tax authorities in XML format.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT liability in full is due by the same date as the return submission deadline, i.e., by the 25th day after the end of the tax period.

The payment must be made via bank transfer to a specific unique IBAN number assigned to the taxable person with a specific variable symbol identifying the tax and the tax period. The deadline for the payment is met when the payment is debited from the bank account number of the taxable person on the due date.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in the Slovak Republic for all taxable persons. VAT returns and all documents for the tax authorities must be submitted electronically by VAT payers, using either advanced electronic signature or other means of electronic filing agreed with the tax authorities.

The taxpayer must complete its VAT return in the standard electronic form issued by the Ministry of Finance. All taxpayers are obliged to communicate only electronically with the Slovak tax authorities. In order to do so, the taxpayer should either use the advanced electronic signature or the taxpayer concludes an agreement on electronic filing with the Slovak tax authority in writing.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in the Slovak Republic.

Special schemes. Secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items and antiques. A special scheme is to be applied for every sale of works of art, collectors' items, antiques and secondhand goods, which have been delivered to the trader in the territory of the European Union, if the goods have been acquired by it from:
- A person who is not identified for tax purposes in the Slovak Republic or in another Member State
- A person who is identified for tax in the Slovak Republic or in another Member State and the supply of goods has been exempt
- Another trader if it applies the special scheme in the Slovak Republic or in another Member State

The tax base is the positive difference between the selling price and the purchase price less the tax. Separate VAT records are to be kept for the transactions falling under the special scheme. VAT cannot be stated on the invoices (or any other document) when applying the special VAT scheme. Input tax deduction is restricted when applying the special VAT scheme. If the trader opts for standard taxation when selling these products, input tax on the purchase (as well as import) may be deducted. The special scheme has to be applied for at least two successive calendar years.

The trader may also use a special scheme for the sale of:
- Works of art, collectors' items and antiques imported from third countries
- Works of art supplied to them by the author of the work of art or their legal successor

The invoice issued by the trader applying the special scheme must contain following wording:
- Adjustment of the surcharge taxation – secondhand goods: "úprava zdaňovania prirážky – použitý tovar"
- Adjustment of the surcharge taxation – works of art: "úprava zdaňovania prirážky – umelecké diela"
- Adjustment of the surcharge taxation – collectors' items and antiques: "úprava zdaňovania prirážky – zberateľské predmety a starožitnosti"

Investment gold. The scheme is applied to gold in the form of bars or bricks and gold coins, both subject to certain specifications.

The supply of investment gold, the acquisition of investment gold from another Member State, the import of investment gold and other certain gold-related transactions specified within the Slovak VAT Act are exempt from VAT. Intermediation of a supply of investment gold in the name and on behalf of another person is exempt from tax.

A taxpayer who produces investment gold or converts gold into investment gold may opt to tax the supply of investment gold if supplied to another taxpayer. Intermediation of the supply of investment gold in the name and on behalf of another person may also be taxed if the taxpayer has decided to tax the supply of investment gold. The input tax deduction is subject to certain limitations for the taxpayer under this special scheme.

Travel agents. The range of entities required to apply the special scheme for travel agents includes those that procure goods and services for the purpose of a journey/travel from other taxable persons ("accommodation and travel services") and those that act in their own name toward customers, whether they are taxable or nontaxable persons.

The special scheme for travel agents does not apply only to travel agencies and travel agents in the traditional sense, but to all taxpayers who procure travel services, such as accommodation and transport, in their own name. The taxpayers applying the special VAT scheme for travel agents should follow all specific rules stipulated by the Slovak legislation for this special scheme (e.g., the taxpayers applying the special scheme should not deduct input tax from the acquired goods and services linked to the accommodation and travel services, the recipients of these services should not be able to deduct the input tax from purchased accommodation and travel services; since the issued invoices for the accommodation and travel services will not show any VAT, the taxpayers should track and keep separate VAT records with respect to the special scheme).

Cash accounting. The cash accounting scheme is available only to domestic taxpayers, who must meet the following criteria:
- The taxpayer's annual turnover did not exceed EUR100,000
- The taxpayer is not in bankruptcy and has not entered into liquidation

Under the cash accounting scheme, the chargeable event (tax point) is only after the receipt of payment for the goods or services supplied and for the amount received from the customer. As it regards the assigned receivables, the tax point of such receivables should be the day of their assignment. General tax point rules do not apply in such a case. The same applies on the input tax deduction right, which arises only after payment of an invoice (if paid partially, only on the amount of payment).

The invoice issued by a taxpayer who has opted for the scheme should include the legible statement "cash accounting scheme." If this information is not stated on the invoice, the VAT liability arises in accordance with standard rules for the determination of the tax point under the Slovak VAT Act. A customer of a taxpayer running the scheme has the right to deduct input tax on the day of payment for the supply (up to the paid amount).

The list of taxpayers who have opted for the cash accounting scheme will be maintained and published on the webpage of the Financial Directorate of the Slovak Republic.

Taxpayers may voluntarily quit the cash accounting scheme only at the end of the respective calendar year; however, if they exceed the turnover of EUR100,000, if they become a member of a VAT group, or if their business ceases to exist, they are required to quit the scheme as of the following VAT period.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in the Slovak Republic.

Supplementary filings. VAT ledger. Taxpayers are obliged to submit a detailed VAT ledger report as a separate filing along with the VAT return. The obligation arises for each VAT period, except when zero returns are filed or for re-exports of imported goods. The report should include the information for every invoice received or issued by the taxpayer, including corrective invoices and down-payment invoices, but excluding invoices for exports, zero-rated and exempt supplies. Simplified invoices are to be reported in aggregate values for the tax period. The exception applies only to simplified invoices received by the taxpayer if the total amount of deductible VAT from these invoices exceeds a threshold of EUR3,000 for a tax period. Such documents have to be reported in the VAT ledger separately and not in an aggregate amount. Information will need to be compiled by the taxpayer electronically and filed by means of the electronic filing portal provided by the Slovak Financial Directorate.

The deadline for submission of the VAT ledger is 25 days after the end of the relevant tax period. The deadline is not tied to the date of the VAT return filing.

Bank account reporting. VAT payers are obliged to register each of their own bank accounts held in a domestic or foreign bank, which they use for business activities within the scope of the Slovak VAT, with the Financial Directorate. The bank accounts shall be registered immediately as of the VAT registration date or the date on which the bank account used for business purposes has been opened (even if used more than one). It is also necessary to disclose to the tax authorities any changes to bank accounts, for example, details of a new bank account should be notified before it is used for business purposes. In the case of not fulfilling the reporting obligation, the VAT payers can be imposed a penalty of up to EUR10,000.

The VAT payers, who, for example, use cash-pooling, may register a bank account owned by another person. However, it is also necessary to identify the actual owner who will be then jointly and severally liable for the VAT stated on the invoice. The notification of the bank account shall be submitted electronically via a special form, which is available on the web portal of the Financial Administration and already pre-filled for registered VAT payers.

The list of registered VAT payers' accounts is published and updated on the website of the Finance Directorate. These registered bank accounts are further used to mitigate the risk of a VAT payer (as a customer) being held liable for the VAT unpaid by its supplier. If the consideration for the supply of goods/services, where the VAT payer claims the input tax deduction is paid on a bank account of the supplier, which is different from the one(s) announced to the Slovak tax authorities (and published on the official list of bank accounts), the VAT payer can be held liable for the unpaid VAT on a previous level in the transaction chain.

Intrastat. A Slovak taxable person that trades with other EU Member States must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of goods dispatched or received exceeds the exemption thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches).

Intrastat information is reported each calendar month (the reference period). Each report must be submitted to the local customs authority by the 15th day of the month following the reference period.

The threshold for both Intrastat reporting obligations (Arrivals and Departures) is EUR1 million. This does not apply to subjects with business activities in agriculture and food industries (registered with the Statistical Office of the Slovak Republic), in case of which the threshold remains EUR200,000 for Arrivals and EUR400,000 for Departures.

If a taxpayer's turnover for the preceding calendar year did not exceed these thresholds, it was not required to submit an Intrastat report. If the threshold is exceeded, the taxpayer is required to submit Intrastat declarations (so-called complete declarations).

If the taxpayer does not exceed the exemption threshold or if the entity is not a Slovak taxpayer, it is not required to report the intra-Community movement of goods using Intrastat. Eligible taxpayers are required to complete and submit Intrastat declarations, including for those months in which zero movements of goods occur. Intrastat returns must be filed in EUR.

EU Sales Lists. A Slovak taxpayer must submit an EU Sales List (ESL) reporting the following transactions:

- Intra-Community supplies of goods
- Exempt transfers of goods to other EU Member States (see the chapter on the EU)
- Supplies of goods within a triangular transaction if the taxpayer acts as first customer
- Supplies of services with the place of supply in another EU Member State to a taxable person or an entity that is not a taxable person but is identified for VAT, for which the recipient is liable to pay the VAT
- Transfer of goods within call-off stock arrangements, including the case of the change of the recipient of the goods and return of the goods

Services exempt from VAT are not reported in ESLs. ESLs must be submitted on a monthly basis by the 25th day following the end of the respective calendar month. If the value of goods supplied during the calendar quarter does not exceed EUR50,000 and if the value of goods supplied during the preceding four calendar quarters did not exceed EUR50,000, the taxpayer can file quarterly ESLs instead of monthly ESLs by the 25th day following the end of the calendar quarter.

The Slovak law requires submission of the ESLs via electronic means.

Correcting errors in previous returns. When the taxpayer finds out the tax shall be higher, or the input tax shall be lower than stated in the filed tax return, it is obliged to file a supplementary tax return by the end of the month following the month of finding out the discrepancies. The increased tax shall be due within the same deadline. The taxpayer is obliged to file the supplementary tax return if it does not contain correct data concerning the performed and received taxable transactions for the relevant tax period.

The taxpayer may file a supplementary tax return if it finds out that tax should be lower, or the input tax should be higher than reported. Filing of the supplementary VAT return is made electronically in a way of voluntary disclosure made by taxpayer.

If the filed VAT ledger of EC Sales List contained any errors, the taxpayer is obligated to file supplementary filings as well.

Digital tax administration. Electronic cash register (eKasa). During the first half of 2019, the amendment of the Act on use of electronic cash registers introduced the requirement for all cash registers in the Slovak Republic to have a direct online connection to the Slovak Financial Directorate (the system called "eKasa"). With the introduction of eKasa, the hardware is no longer relevant for the use and storage of the information as all information is sent automatically directly to the tax authorities. The amendment also introduces the abolishment of the obligation to print bills in case the bill can be send to the customer via email (upon its agreement).

Real-time invoicing. In 2021, the Slovak tax authorities published a preliminary intention to start legislative proceedings toward enacting so-called "live invoice data reporting." Based on the information available from the government, they postponed their intention to impose the new obligations on Slovak businesses for invoice reporting to 2026 or beyond. At the time of preparing this chapter, this initiative is on hold.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for non-fulfillment of a registration obligation can range from EUR60 to EUR20,000. In principle, the Slovak VAT legislation does not allow a retroactive registration of a taxable person. However, a mechanism is in place for reconciling VAT in the event of a late VAT registration. A domestic or non-established person that failed to register for Slovak VAT can reconcile their VAT obligations retrospectively in a single VAT return filed for the period before the late VAT registration, covering all transactions in the period during which it should have been registered.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The penalties for noncompliance with the reporting requirements range from EUR30 to EUR3,000. The penalty for the late submission of a tax return (after the statutory deadline) ranges from EUR30 to EUR16,000. If the taxpayer does not submit the tax return by the deadline stipulated by the tax authorities in an appeal, the penalty for late filing ranges from EUR60 to EUR32,000. If the taxpayer commits more than one offense, the tax authority will levy only one aggregate penalty for the offense that has the highest upper limit.

Interest on late payment applies in the following circumstances:
- The VAT liability is not paid before or at the deadline
- The proper amount of the VAT liability or the amount stipulated in a decision of the tax authorities has not been paid

The rate of interest on late payment is calculated as the higher of the annual interest rate of 15% or four times the basic interest rate of the European Central Bank.

For Intrastat, a penalty may be imposed for late submission or for missing or inaccurate declarations, up to EUR3,320.

For ESLs, if a taxpayer fails to submit an ESL within the statutory deadline, a penalty for noncompliance with non-monetary obligations ranging from EUR60 to EUR3,000 applies. In the event of a failure to submit an ESL after receiving a request from the tax authorities, the penalty may be imposed repeatedly. Because the amount of the penalty for noncompliance with nonmonetary obligations depends on the severity, duration and consequences of the breach of obligations, the penalty for failing to submit the ESL should generally fall in the lower third of the range.

New rules of the so-called "second chance" are expected to be introduced with effect from 1 January 2024. This is in accordance with the proposed amendment to the Tax Procedure Code, such that the tax or customs authority would not impose a penalty on a taxpayer committing the below listed offenses, if these were committed by a taxpayer for the first time and such offense occurred after 31 December 2023:
- Non-submission of a tax return within the stipulated deadline
- Non-fulfillment of a registration obligation within the stipulated deadline
- Non-fulfillment of a reporting obligation within the stipulated deadline
- Non-fulfillment of an obligation imposed by the decision of a tax administrator
- Non-fulfillment of an obligation of a nonmonetary nature

At time of preparing this chapter, the changes outlined above have been proposed in the amendment to the Slovak Tax Procedure Code but have not been approved.

Penalties for errors. A penalty is imposed if the VAT liability or excess VAT refund declared by the taxpayer in the tax return is different from the amount assessed by the tax authorities. This penalty amounts to 10% per annum or three times the base interest rate of the European Central Bank per annum (whichever is higher). The penalty is calculated on the difference between the value declared in the tax return and VAT assessed by the tax authorities.

An option to submit a supplementary tax return within 15 days of the beginning of the tax audit is allowed. This offers taxpayers the possibility of decreasing the imposed penalty, compared to tax audit determination of the tax assessment to 7% per annum or twice the base interest rate of the European Central Bank per annum (whichever is higher).

If the difference is declared by the taxpayer in a supplementary VAT return, the penalty is calculated at 3% per annum or the basic interest rate of the European Central Bank per annum, whichever is higher.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty for noncompliance, which ranges from EUR30 to EUR3,000. The actual amount of the penalty levied is at the discretion of the tax administrator. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Intentional tax evasion (including unlawfully applying for repayment of VAT) may be regarded as a criminal offense, resulting in fines or imprisonment for a term of up to 12 years, depending on the amount of tax evaded and the nature of conduct. Similarly, hindering the tax administration (e.g., submission to the tax authorities of documents that give false or misleading information, failure to comply with a statutory obligation or obligations imposed by the tax authority during a tax audit) may be regarded as a criminal offense, resulting in imprisonment for a term of up to eight years.

The above conduct may give rise to the criminal liability of natural persons (including company directors or other personnel), as well as criminal liability of the company involved (as a legal entity). The Ministry of Finance publishes a list of taxpayers' names on its website detailing amounts of unpaid tax. The list contains taxpayers' tax identification numbers and the amount of tax due in descending order.

Personal liability for company officers. Tax criminal offenses under the Slovak Criminal Code require intentional conduct or omission. Under certain circumstances, company directors (or other personnel) can be held personally liable for including incorrect data in VAT declarations and reporting. Potential penalties include imprisonment (as outlined above), monetary penalties and other sanctions under the Slovak Criminal Code.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in the Slovak Republic is five years. Tax authorities can open tax audits and impose penalties within five years from the end of the year in which the taxpayer was obliged to submit the VAT return, or in which the taxpayer was obliged to pay the tax. However, if there was any tax audit opened within the period of five years that resulted in paying additional tax, the period is calculated again from the end of the year from which the VAT payer obtained the decision about this act. The period can be extended to a maximum of 10 years.

Slovenia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Ljubljana GMT +1

EY
Dunajska cesta 111
1000 Ljubljana
Slovenia

Indirect tax contacts

Matej Kovacic	+386 (41) 395-325 matej.kovacic@si.ey.com
Anka Pogacnik	+386 (1) 583-1754 anka.pogacnik@si.ey.com
Saša Kovač	+386 (1) 583-1855 sasa.kovac@si.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Davek na dodano vrednost (DDV)
Date introduced	1 July 1999
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (Tax Administration) (http://www.fu.gov.si/)
VAT rates
Standard	22%
Reduced	5%, 9.5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	SI12345678
VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration
Established	EUR50,000
Non-established	None
Distance selling	EUR10,000
Intra-Community acquisitions	None
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods or services made in Slovenia by a taxable person, including use of goods forming part of the business assets or for private use or for use of employees.

- The intra-Community acquisition of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person, including intra-community transfer of own goods (see the chapter on the EU)
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in Slovenia
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer

Special rules apply to intra-Community transactions involving new means of transport and distance sales (see the chapter on the EU).

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the chapter on the EU. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

Slovenian VAT legislation follows EU legislation with the following implementations:
- The VAT ID number became a substantive condition for applying the VAT exemption for intra-Community transactions. In addition to the condition of proof of transport of goods, the supplier therefore must indicate the VAT No. on the invoice. Taxable persons can provide that the goods left Slovenia with different documents, including the confirmation from the purchaser who receives the goods from the destination country.
- It adopts unified and simplified taxation rules from EU law for the transfer of goods from one Member State to another when applying call-off stock simplification.
- It simplifies the chain transactions to enhance legal certainty by following the unified rules for successive or chain deliveries of goods.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective countries of the EU.

In Slovenia, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. According to the Slovenian VAT Act, in the event of transfer of a business or a part thereof to another taxable person, it is deemed that no supply of goods or services has taken place. To apply the transfer of a going concern (TOGC) provision, the recipient must continue with the transferred activity and is, for VAT purposes, deemed to be the legal successor of the transferor. Nevertheless, a recipient who uses acquired assets for purposes other than those for which it is entitled to input tax deductions is liable to pay VAT in accordance with the provisions of VAT Act, which applies to the charging of VAT for the use of goods and services for private purposes. To apply the TOGC rule, the recipient must be VAT registered in Slovenia. When conditions for a TOGC are met, the application of the TOGC regime is mandatory.

Transactions between related parties. Slovenia follows the principle of the open market value for transactions between related entities (as defined in the corporate and personal income legislation), which do not have the full right to input tax deduction. The taxable amount for the supply of goods and services between connected persons is equal to the open market value when the consideration for the supply is as follows:
- Lower than the open market value and the recipient of the supply, it is not entitled to full input tax deduction or exemption according to the VAT Act
- Higher than the open market value and the supplier, it is not entitled to a full input tax deduction

The open market means the full amount that the customer or recipient would be required to pay to an independent supplier or contractor for a comparable supply of goods or services in the territory of Slovenia upon acquisition of goods and services in conditions of fair competition. When no comparable supply of goods or services can be determined, the open market value has the following meaning:

- For goods, an amount not lower than the purchase price of goods or of similar goods or, where there is no purchase price available, the cost price determined at the time of supply
- For services, an amount not lower than the full cost to be paid by a taxable person for the services supplied

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any person who independently carries out, in any place, any economic activity, regardless of the purpose or results of that activity.

VAT registration is required before the beginning of taxable activities in Slovenia. Under the VAT law, retrospective VAT registration is not possible.

Exemption from registration. Established businesses performing only VAT exempt transactions, non-established businesses that perform only VAT exempt and/or zero-rated export transactions, and non-established and non-VAT registered businesses who make domestic supplies to a recipient registered for VAT purposes in Slovenia where the recipient is obliged to settle the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism, do not have to register for VAT in Slovenia.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. For small, established businesses (whose taxable turnover in the last 12-month period has not exceeded or is unlikely to exceed EUR50,000), voluntary VAT registration in Slovenia is allowed. In this case, a small business that wishes to register must notify their choice in advance to the tax authorities and be treated as a taxable person for at least 60 months. Voluntary VAT registration is possible also for foreign non-established businesses performing domestic supplies to VAT-registered businesses (see the subsection Exemption from registration above).

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Slovenia.

Holding companies. In Slovenia, a pure holding company cannot be a member of a VAT group, as group VAT registration is not allowed in Slovenia.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f) has not been implemented in Slovenia.

Fixed establishment. Slovenian VAT legislation does not have special provisions to define the term "fixed establishment" and follows EU legislation and practice. Existence of a fixed establishment depends on circumstances of each separate case and should be considered on case-by-case basis. There are no administrative guidelines outlining the conditions to be met for a fixed establishment.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have an establishment in Slovenia. A non-established business must register for VAT purposes in Slovenia if it performs taxable activities in the territory of Slovenia. There is no registration threshold applicable for non-established businesses, which means that a non-established business must register for VAT purposes prior to performing the first taxable transaction. The VAT registration threshold therefore does not apply for non-established businesses.

Consequently, non-established businesses must register for VAT if they make any of the following supplies:

- Intra-Community supplies

- Intra-Community acquisitions
- Distance sales in excess of the threshold
- Supplies of goods and services that are not subject to the reverse charge (for example, goods or services supplied to private persons)

Non-established businesses that perform only VAT exempt and/or zero-rated export transactions do not have to register for VAT. There is also no provision for them to voluntarily register for VAT on this basis. Non-established businesses do not need to register for VAT if they provide domestic supplies to VAT-registered businesses, which are obliged to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism. See the subsection Exemption from registration above.

Tax representatives. A nonresident business (taxable person) with its seat outside the EU (which from 1 January 2021, includes the United Kingdom (UK)) must appoint a tax representative.

A nonresident business (taxable person) from another EU Member State that does not have a registered business or fixed establishment in Slovenia may appoint a tax representative. Individuals and legal entities that are taxable persons in Slovenia can be appointed as tax representatives if they have an establishment or permanent address and VAT ID number in Slovenia and are not a branch of a company.

A nonresident business, either established in another EU Member State or third country that wishes to account for import VAT in a VAT return must appoint a VAT representative. The VAT representative is held jointly and severally liable for any VAT due on imports (which includes the use of postponed import VAT accounting).

Tax representative of non-EU companies or EU companies having Procedure 42 are in general not jointly liable based on the tax authorities' guidelines. This means that tax representatives are only held jointly and severally liable for postponed import VAT accounting.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to supplies of most services made by non-established businesses to taxable persons established and registered for VAT in Slovenia (i.e., business-to-business (B2B) supplies). The reverse-charge mechanism also applies to supplies made by a non-established and non-VAT-registered business to a VAT-registered recipient in Slovenia, where the recipients of goods and services are then obliged to charge and pay VAT. The recipient of the services accounts for the VAT by using the appropriate Slovenian VAT rate. If the reverse charge applies, the non-established supplier is not required to register for VAT in Slovenia.

The reverse charge generally does not apply to the following services:
- Real estate-related services
- Restaurant and catering services
- Cultural, artistic, scientific, educational, sporting, entertainment or similar services
- Valuations of movable tangible property or work on such property
- Short-term rentals of vehicles

Domestic reverse charge. Slovenia applies a domestic reverse-charge mechanism for certain supplies between two VAT-registered businesses. If a supplier is not VAT registered, the general reverse-charge rules may apply, as outlined in the subsection above. The following activities fall within the scope of the domestic reverse charge:
- Certain supplies and services related to immovables falling in Category F of the Slovenian Standard Classification of Activities (e.g., construction services) and the installation of montage houses
- Hiring out of staff used for activities falling in Category F of the Slovenian Standard Classification of Activities
- Supplies of real estate for which the parties opted to tax
- Supplies of used material waste and scrap (special listed goods)
- Trade of greenhouse gas emissions

If a VAT-registered taxable person performs supplies subject to domestic reverse charge, it must file a PD-O Report. Deadline for the submission of the report is the last working day of the month, following the reporting period.

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B, Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the chapter on the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

For detail on the application process in Slovenia, refer to the subsection, Non-established businesses, above.

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:

- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

Where a taxable person chooses Slovenia as the country where they will centrally comply with their VAT obligations, they should notify the Slovenian tax authorities of the date on which taxable activity under OSS rules will commence. The Slovenian tax authorities will assign a VAT identification number to a taxable person who meets the prescribed conditions for the application of this special scheme.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the chapter on the EU.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance ales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

The IOSS in Slovenia can be used by taxable persons that have their registered office or business unit in Slovenia or have their registered office in a third country with which the EU has concluded an agreement on mutual assistance. Taxable persons selling goods imported from third territories or from third countries may join the import regime in Slovenia indirectly by appointing an intermediary with its registered office or business unit in Slovenia to fulfill their obligations under this special regulation.

For more details about the IOSS, see the chapter on the EU.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal services and couriers scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

In Slovenia, a postal or courier service applying this special arrangement must use it for all packages which, upon importation, are submitted to the tax authority on behalf of the recipient and whose real value does not exceed EUR150. A postal or courier service charges the VAT on imported goods, collects it from the recipient of the package upon delivery and pays it to the Slovenian tax authority. A postal or a courier service applying this special regime reports to the Slovenian tax authority on the VAT collected in the monthly reports and pays the total amount of VAT to the tax authority. A postal or courier service should keep good records of transactions, which enable the tax authority to monitor the correctness of the VAT declared and paid.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the chapter on the EU.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons who "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:

- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply).
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes.

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

A facilitator can register for VAT in Slovenia from 1 April 2021. The facilitator should meet the following conditions:
- Display on the webpage the amount of VAT that the buyer has to pay in the EU at the latest when the ordering process is completed
- Ensure that VAT is collected from the buyer on delivery
- Submit a monthly VAT return in electronic form via the government portal for imports in Slovenia
- Keep the records of sales for 10 years if registered in Slovenia

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the chapter on the EU.

Vouchers. Slovenian VAT legislation defines two types of vouchers, single-purpose (SPV) and multi-purpose vouchers (MPV).

The supply of goods or services to which the SPV relates is deemed to be any transfer of a SPV by a taxable person acting on its own behalf. The actual delivery of goods or services in exchange for a SPV accepted by the supplier as payment or partial payment is not considered to be a separate transaction.

If the transfer of a SPV is made by a taxable person acting on behalf of another taxable person, the supply of the goods or services to which the voucher relates is deemed to have been made by the taxable person on whose behalf the taxable person acts.

If the supply of goods or services is made by a supplier that is not the taxable person who issued the SPV in their own name, that supplier is deemed to have supplied the goods or services to which the voucher relates to the taxable person who issued the SPV on their own behalf.

In the case of MPV, the obligation to charge VAT on a such voucher does not arise upon its transfer, but only upon the actual handing over of the goods or the actual provision of the services in return for an MPV accepted as consideration, or part consideration, by the supplier for that supply or provision.

In the case of MPV, the consideration for the voucher constitutes the tax base for the supply of goods or services. In the absence of such information, the tax base is the monetary value shown on the voucher itself, which is reduced by the value of VAT paid for the supply of goods or services.

Registration procedures. VAT registration consists of two phases. In the first phase, the taxable person and its legal representative are entered in the Slovenian tax register and assigned tax numbers (paper forms available in English). Additionally, the taxable person is registered in the electronic filing system of the Slovenian tax authorities (paper forms available in English). For registration in the electronic filing system, a special electronic certificate should be obtained. In the second phase, the applicable form for VAT registration is submitted via this electronic system.

A taxable person must prove, by submitting a variety of documents, that it will perform taxable transactions in Slovenia. As proof that a taxable person intends to perform an VAT taxable activity, the person can submit contracts, a business plan, purchase orders, etc., and a statement that it intends to perform taxable transactions in Slovenia. A non-established taxable person also must provide a VAT certificate of VAT registration in its home country.

Depending on the responsiveness of the tax authorities, the timing of each step varies. A VAT registration usually takes six to eight weeks to complete.

Deregistration. A taxable person can deregister for VAT by submitting a deregistration request to the tax authorities in electronic form through their online portal. The tax authorities should decide within 30 days. The taxable person is deregistered as of the date stated in the tax authorities' decision.

Changes to VAT registration details. In case of any changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details, it is the taxable person's obligation to notify the tax authorities within eight days on a prescribed form, that can be submitted online or in paper. All the information that has been entered into the tax register at the time of tax ID registration (name of company, address, legal representatives, etc.) must be updated when the change occurs.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 22%
- Reduced rates: 5%, 9.5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the reduced rate or exemption.

Some supplies are classified as zero-rated (i.e., "exempt with the right to deduct input tax"), which means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover related input tax. Zero-rated supplies include exports of goods outside the EU and related services and intra-Community supplies of goods and intangible services supplied to another taxable person established in the EU or to a recipient outside the EU.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Books, newspapers and periodicals if they contain no more than 50% of the promotional content or content that includes no more than 50% of music, movies and games, including lottery, as well as shows and events in the fields of politics, culture, art, sports, science and entertainment (these items changed from 9.5% to 5% with effect from of 1 January 2020)
- Typified vehicles, protective equipment, rescue gear and tools designed for firefighting, usually used at the interventions and supplied to public firefighting service or voluntary firefighting brigades (these items changed from 9.5% to 5% with effect from 2 September 2023)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 9.5%

- Foodstuffs (except alcoholic drinks and catering services)
- Water supplies
- Passenger transport
- Services of authors and composers
- Agricultural products and services
- Pharmaceutical products and medical equipment
- Cultural events
- Hotel accommodation
- Use of sports facilities
- Services of undertakers and cemetery services

- Supply and installation of solar power cells if charged directly to the investor, installed on a residential building under social policy and the finished installation constitutes an integral part of the building without changing its purpose of use
- Erecting a fence, which is an appurtenant part of an apartment building under social policy

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Real estate transactions (except "new buildings")
- Financial services
- Insurance transactions
- Betting, gambling and lotteries
- Public radio and television broadcasts
- Education
- Health care and medical services
- Cultural services

Option to tax for exempt supplies. A taxable person may opt to tax real estate transactions (except "new buildings" and building land), provided that the recipient has the full right to deduct, the tax authorities do not need to be notified. However, a written agreement about the option to tax must be made between the contracting parties prior to the supply being made.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "chargeable event" or "tax point." The following are the general rules in Slovenia for determining the chargeable event:

- VAT is due when goods are delivered or when services are performed
- If no invoice is issued for supplied goods or services, VAT is due on the last day of the tax period (month) in which the goods are delivered or the services are performed

Deposits and prepayments. If payment is made before the supply is made (prepayment), VAT is due on the day on which the prepayment is received in case of local supplies and intra-EU supplies of services. For other types of transactions, prepayments do not create a tax point.

Continuous supplies of services. In case of continuous supplies of services where periodical invoices are raised or payments are made, VAT becomes due upon expiry of the period to which the payments or invoices relate. Where services are continuously supplied over a period of more than one year and no invoices are issued or payments are made during that period, VAT becomes due at the end of each calendar year until such supplies of services come to an end.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Slovenia for the supply of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. For reverse-charge services, in general VAT becomes due when services are performed. Prepayments may trigger obligation to self- charge VAT, as explained above.

Leased assets. In case of a financial lease (where the ownership of goods is transferred to the lessee upon payment of the last installment) this is considered a supply of goods and VAT becomes due when the assets are physically handed over. An operational lease is considered a service and VAT becomes due when the service is performed.

Imported goods. VAT for imported goods becomes due when the import is made or when the goods leave the duty suspension regime and are released for free circulation. VAT on imports can be accounted for in the VAT return, subject to certain conditions.

Intra-Community acquisitions. For intra-Community acquisitions of goods, VAT is due on the day when the invoice is issued. If an invoice for the supply is not issued or is issued before the supply is made, VAT is due on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are delivered.

Intra-Community supplies of goods. For intra-Community supplies of goods, VAT becomes due on the day when the invoice is issued. If an invoice for the supply is not issued, VAT becomes due on the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are supplied.

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in Slovenia for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT due on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Slovenia, VAT paid on imports of goods and self-assessed VAT on intra-Community acquisitions of goods and reverse-charge services.

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax recovery.

If a taxable person does not make a VAT deduction in the current tax period, they may make this deduction at any time after this tax period.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Slovenia is no later than the last tax period of the calendar year following the year in which they were granted the right of deduction. For example, input tax for purchases incurred in January 2023 can be claimed back in VAT return for December 2024 at the latest.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Hospitality costs (accommodation, food and drinks, and entertainment)
- Purchase, lease, fuel and maintenance of cars and boats (except if used by driving schools or for public transportation), apart from vehicles and related costs, provided that the motor vehicle is free of carbon dioxide emissions and the value of the motor vehicle, including VAT and other duties, does not exceed EUR80,000

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Advertising
- Purchase, lease, fuel and maintenance of buses and trucks
- Telephones
- Books and newspapers
- Attendance at seminars (except food and drinks)
- Raw materials

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

Input tax directly relating to taxable supplies is fully recoverable, while input tax directly relating to exempt supplies is not recoverable.

To determine the amount of input tax that may be recovered one of the following methods may be used:
- Primarily deduction of input tax should be made by using actual data in the taxable person's books and accounts or other records on the total amount of input tax, including the amount of input tax that is deductible.
- Determination of the amount of deductible input tax using a pro rata method for the whole business, if the taxable person is unable to determine the amount of input tax as described above.
- Determination of the amount of deductible input tax using several deductible amounts for each of its various fields of business activity separately. A "field of business activity" is any level of activity of the taxable person according to a standard classification of activities or organizational units of the taxable person (such as a separate plant or business unit).

Under the pro rata method, the total annual supplies on which input tax is deductible (exclusive of VAT) is divided by the total annual supplies, including exempt supplies, state subsidies and grants.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use any of the partial exemption methods in Slovenia.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired and taken into use. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition and first use. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted over time if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes during the adjustment period.

In Slovenia, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:
- Real estate: adjusted for a period of 20 years
- Other tangible fixed assets: adjusted for a period of five years

In Slovenia, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services. However, if services are booked into the accounts as assets, then the capital goods adjustment does apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a tax period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that same period, the taxable person has an input tax credit. An input tax credit is carried forward to the following tax period. However, a VAT-registered person is entitled to a refund of the input tax credit within 21 days after submitting a VAT return form for the tax period (if the VAT credit is claimed in the relevant VAT return).

The tax authorities pay interest on delayed repayments of VAT. The statutory rate of interest is 0.0247% per day.

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person has the right to deduct input tax incurred prior to the VAT registration in Slovenia (under the assumption that all other conditions for VAT deduction are met (e.g., received correct invoice for purchased goods, use of goods for economic activities of taxable person).

The right to input tax deduction must be exercised by the end of the year following the year in which it was received (e.g., input tax for purchase incurred in January 2023 can be claimed back in VAT return for December 2024 at the latest).

Bad debts. If payment for a supply is not received, a taxable person may adjust (reduce) the VAT amount if, according to the final court resolution of a completed bankruptcy procedure or successfully completed compulsory settlement, the taxable person's receivables were either not settled or not settled in full. The same applies to a taxable person who obtains a final court resolution or another document clearly showing that in the closing execution procedure, the taxable person's receivables were not settled or not settled in full. A taxable person may also adjust the VAT amount if their receivables were not settled due to the fact that the debtor was deleted from the court register or any other relevant register or prescribed records.

Regardless of the above provisions in the Slovenian VAT legislation, the amount of non-paid VAT for outstanding receivables can be adjusted after submission of a claim for the respective receivable in the bankruptcy proceeding or compulsory settlement. However, this claim should first be recognized by the applicable officials in the bankruptcy proceeding or compulsory settlement.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Slovenia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Slovenia is recoverable. The Slovenian VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Slovenia. Non-established businesses may claim Slovenian VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU Directive 2008/9/EC. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Slovenia during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Find below specific rules for Slovenia:

- Requests for refund may relate to the following:
  - Purchases of goods and services for which invoices were issued during the refund period, provided VAT became chargeable before or on the invoice date, or for which the liability to charge VAT was incurred during the refund period, provided that the invoice had been issued before the date when VAT became chargeable
  - Import of goods during the period of refund
  - Invoices or import documents not included in any earlier request for refund and concerning transactions completed during the calendar year in question
- A request for refund may be made for the period of refund that shall not be shorter than three months of a calendar year and not longer than a calendar year. A request may also relate to a period shorter than three calendar months, provided that this period represents the remainder of a calendar year.
- The VAT legislation determines the minimum amount of VAT for which a refund may be claimed:
  - EUR400 when the request relates to a refund period that is shorter than one calendar year but not shorter than three months
  - EUR50 when the request relates to a refund period of one calendar year or to the remaining portion of a calendar year
- VAT refund claims must be submitted no later than 30 September following the expiry of the calendar year in which VAT is charged. If the deadline expires on a nonworking day, then the deadline shall not expire on the first working day that follows.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive.

Slovenia applies the principle of reciprocity; that means the country where the claimant is established must also provide VAT refunds to Slovenia businesses.

Find below specific rules for Slovenia:
- The deadline for refund claims is 30 June following the calendar year in which the tax was incurred. This deadline is strictly enforced.
- Applications for refunds of Slovenian VAT by non-EU businesses must be filed with the Slovenian tax authorities in electronic form using the tax authorities' online portal (https://edavki.durs.si/EdavkiPortal/OpenPortal/CommonPages/Opdynp/PageA.aspx). To gain access to the online portal of the tax authorities, a non-EU business and its legal representative(s) must each obtain a Slovenian tax number.
- A taxable person established in a non-EU Member State may submit a claim for refund with the tax authorities:
  - For a period of time that is less than one calendar year and not less than six months; however, the amount of VAT for which a refund is requested shall not be less than EUR400.
  - For a period of one calendar year or the remaining portion of a calendar year. This claim may also cover invoices or import documents that were not a part of previous claims and relate to transactions completed in the current calendar year; however, the required refund amount must not be less than EUR50.

Late payment interest. Any taxable person who does not receive the surplus VAT returned from the Slovenian tax authorities within the legally prescribed deadline is entitled to the default interest at a daily interest rate of 0.0274%.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies that are made (or deemed to have been made) in Slovenia, including exports and intra-Community supplies. Invoices are not required for a limited range of supplies, including the following:
- Supplies by taxable persons that perform agricultural or forestry activities and sell these products and services to final consumers
- The sale of tickets, season tickets and tokens for passenger transport (trains, buses and cable cars), stamps, court stamps, postal forms, payments for participating in games of chance, periodicals, vending machine sales, sale of mobile phone cards by ATM, GMS network and the internet, sale of tokens from change machines and supplies of services at "teleservice points"
- Exempt financial services performed in Slovenia or outside the EU for which the taxable person issues a large number of documents to recipients. However, the taxable person should issue a consolidated document, such as a separate bank statement, which includes the value of services charged and the clause that VAT is not charged according to the applicable article of the VAT law.

The issuance of an invoice is also not required for a supplier that chooses to account for the VAT under the EU OSS.

Providing an invoice is required for all B2C supplies. Under the Act on Amendments and Additions to the Fiscal Validation of Receipts Act (ZDavPR-B), the taxable person must always give the invoice to the customer, even if the customer does not request it and regardless of the method of payment. The invoice can be provided in a physical or electronic format and must be taken and kept by the customer, as well as provided if requested by a tax or market authority.

Credit notes. If the taxable amount subsequently changes as a result of the return of goods or the granting of a discount, the tax base is lowered accordingly. The taxable person may adjust (reduce) the amount of VAT payable if it informs the recipient in writing (for example, by issuing a credit note) about the nondeductible amount. A credit note must include the information prescribed for a simplified VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Slovenia for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Slovenia. This is in line with EU Directive 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU). This has been in effect from 1 January 2015. Mandatory use of electronic invoicing is applicable for public procurement. The law further mandates the use of the Public Payments' Administration system of the Republic of Slovenia (PPA). The PPA is the single entry and exit point for B2G and G2G exchange of electronic invoices.

For B2B and B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Slovenia. This is in line with the EU Directive 2010/45/EU (see the chapter on the EU). There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Slovenia. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Note that electronic invoicing is expected to become mandatory in Slovenia from 1 January 2028. It is expected that this requirement will apply to all taxable persons, both resident and nonresident, who are registered for VAT in Slovenia and issue invoices to their customers in the jurisdiction. It is expected that the mandate will cover all types of invoices, including credit and debit notes, as well as invoices for domestic and cross-border transactions. At the time of preparing this chapter, there is no information available on whether there will be any thresholds for the application of the e-invoicing mandate in Slovenia. However, further details on this are expected to be provided as the relevant legislation is developed and approved. As for the approval process, the relevant legislation is still in the development stage and has not been published.

Certified cash register. Under the "certified cash register" system, all legal and natural persons that perform cash transactions (or cash equivalent transactions) and are obliged to keep books and records must use certified tax registers. The cash registers are connected to the central information system of the financial authority via the internet, so processed invoices are verified and saved in real time, enabling traceability and effective control over invoices, thus helping to reduce the grey economy.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the European Union.

Simplified VAT invoices. In general, taxable persons can issue simplified invoices for the supply of goods or services carried out in Slovenia, if at least one of the following conditions is met:
- The net amount stated on the invoice does not exceed EUR100
- If a taxable person issues a document or a message that changes the original invoice and refers to it undoubtedly
- If the invoice is issued to a final customer

A taxable person who issues a simplified invoice to another taxable person and needs such an invoice in order to claim VAT deduction has to indicate the name and address of the buyer or customer in the invoice.

A taxable person should not issue a simplified invoice for goods or services supplied to another Member State in which VAT is chargeable or if such taxable person's place of establishment in that Member State does not participate in the supply in terms of Article 192a of Council Directive 2006/112/EC and the person liable to pay VAT is the person to whom the goods or services are supplied.

A taxable person who supplies goods and services in the cases where recipients of goods and services act as persons liable for payment of VAT indicates in the simplified invoice that the reverse charge applies.

If a taxable person supplies goods or services at different tax rates, the amount of VAT in a simplified invoice must be shown by tax rate separately.

Where a taxable person supplies goods or services that are exempt from VAT, it must make reference in its invoice to the valid provision of the Sixth Council Directive 2006/112/EEC or to the corresponding Article of Slovenian VAT Act or any other reference indicating that the supply of goods or services is exempt from VAT.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Slovenia. A self-billed invoice may be issued by the buyer of goods or services for the goods or services supplied to them by a taxable person (self-invoicing) where both parties agree on this procedure in advance and specifically agree on the method of accepting each invoice by the taxable person by whom the goods or services are supplied. The buyer of goods or services must indicate on the self-billed invoice that it is issued on behalf and for the account of the taxable person who supplied the goods or services to the buyer.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. Slovenian VAT is not due on supplies of exported goods or on intra-Community supplies of goods (see the chapter on the EU). However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports and intra-Community supplies must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Slovenia. Acceptable proof includes the following documentation:

- For an export, a copy of the export document, officially certified by customs. In certain cases, an invoice stamped by customs, a mail freight declaration or a transport document is acceptable
- For an intra-Community supply, an invoice with the purchaser's VAT identification number and corresponding transport document (or other suitable document that clearly refers to the freight of goods related to the invoice); in certain cases, a statement by the recipient of the goods confirming its receipt could also be used.

No special documentation applies in Slovenia for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply. In this respect, Slovenia follows Council Implementing Regulation (EU) 2022/432 of 15 March 2022 amending Implementing Regulation (EU) No 282/2011. There is no prescribed form, however, other documents than transportation documentation can be used.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices may be issued in a foreign currency. The VAT amount must always be in the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR). The exchange rate that must be used is the foreign exchange rate of the European Central Bank (ECB) (also published by the Bank of Slovenia) that is valid on the date on which the tax liability arises and that is published by the Bank of Slovenia.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Special rules apply to the place of supply for supplies of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services to nontaxable customers. Slovenian suppliers of these services are required to issue full VAT invoices to nontaxable customers. For further details of the VAT rules on electronic services in the EU, see the chapter on the EU.

VAT-registered suppliers can also issue simplified invoices to non-VAT registered customers (private consumers) only where the invoice amount does not exceed EUR100. If the invoice amount exceeds EUR100, then the VAT-registered supplier must issue a normal VAT invoice.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. Every taxable person is required to keep sufficiently detailed information in its bookkeeping to enable correct and timely VAT calculations and the tax authority's control over the VAT calculations and payments. In case of use of simplifications or exemptions, such as call off stock simplification, temporary movements of goods within the EU, etc., taxable person are required to keep records in respect of such transfers. In general, invoices must be archived in their original form. In Slovenia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include issued invoices, received invoices, invoices issued in their name and on their behalf by a third party, contracts on purchase and sale of short-term financial investments, and borrowing of short-term loans, settlements, transaction accounts and others.

In Slovenia, VAT books and records must be held within the country. Nonresident businesses can hold VAT books and records outside of Slovenia. However, if resident Slovenian businesses hold documents out of Slovenia, they must notify the tax authorities of this choice within 10 days of the decision.

Record retention period. Taxable persons must keep books of account and records (including all received and issued invoices) archived in hard copy or in electronic form until the expiry of the absolute statute of limitations of the right to recover input tax to which they refer – that is amounting to 10 years. The period is 20 years if the records and invoices relate to immovable property.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Slovenia. The condition for electronic archiving is that a taxable person must ensure that the file content cannot be modified or erased while at the same time it can be reproduced if needed.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Slovenian VAT returns are submitted for monthly or quarterly tax periods. Quarterly tax periods coincide with the months of March, June, September and December. A tax period for each taxable person is determined on the basis of its turnover in the preceding calendar year in accordance with the following rules:

- Taxable persons with a turnover up to EUR210,000 submit quarterly tax returns, unless the taxable person engages in intra-Community transactions and is liable to submit a recapitulative statement
- Taxable persons with a turnover greater than EUR210,000 submit monthly tax returns

The tax period for newly established taxable persons is a calendar month for the first 12 months of business activity. The tax period for non-established businesses is always a calendar month.

VAT returns must be submitted and any VAT due must be paid in full by the last working day of the month following the end of each tax period. If the taxable person performs intra-Community supplies and must file a recapitulative statement, the VAT return must be submitted by the 20th day of the month (or earlier if the 20th day is not a working day) following the reporting period (calendar month).

Periodic payments. Any VAT due must be paid in full by the last working day of the month following the end of each tax period. Nonresident businesses must remit the amount payable to the account of the tax authorities. VAT due is paid by bank transfer to the tax authorities.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Slovenia for all taxable persons. VAT returns must be filed through the electronic filing system of the Slovenian tax authorities (eDavki). For registration in the electronic filing system a special electronic certificate should be obtained (see the subsection Registration procedures above).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Slovenia. However, if a taxable person proves that due to reasons over which it has no influence, serious economic damage might occur from making its VAT payment, and the deferment of or payment by installment of the tax would prevent serious economic damage, the tax authorities might grant payment in installments.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. A domestic taxable person whose taxable turnover (excluding VAT and excluding sales of assets) did not exceed EUR400,000 in the previous 12 months and whose turnover is not expected to exceed this limit in the next 12 months, may, under certain conditions, charge and pay VAT on a cash basis; that is, on the basis of payments received for its supplies of goods and services. A taxable person that uses the cash accounting scheme may deduct input tax on its purchases only when the VAT is fully paid. For related companies, the turnover threshold applies to the whole group.

Small taxable persons. A Slovenian taxable person is exempt from charging VAT if in the last 12-month period its taxable turnover has not exceeded or is unlikely to exceed EUR50,000.

Farmers. Farmers are entitled to flat-rate compensation for VAT for the supply of agricultural and forest products under certain conditions.

Travel agents. The taxable amount and the price exclusive of VAT in respect of the single service provided by a travel agent is the difference between the total amount, exclusive of VAT, to be paid by the traveler and the actual cost to the travel agent of supplies of goods or services provided by other taxable persons, where those transactions are for the direct benefit of the traveler.

Secondhand goods, works of art, collectors' items and antiques. The taxable amount is the profit margin made by the taxable dealer, less the amount of VAT relating to the profit margin. A taxable dealer may apply the normal VAT arrangements to any supply covered by the special margin scheme.

Investment gold. Taxable persons who produce investment gold or transform gold into investment gold shall have the right to opt for the taxation of supplies of investment gold to another taxable person.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Slovenia.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. A Slovenian taxable person that trades with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of either its sales or purchases of goods exceeds certain thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches).

The threshold for Intrastat Arrivals for 2024 is EUR220,000. The threshold for Intrastat Dispatches in 2024 is EUR270,000.

Taxable persons exceeding the special threshold of EUR4 million for Arrivals and EUR9 million for Dispatches are required to report three additional items of information in addition to the mandatory data: the terms of supply with the location, the type of transport and the statistical value.

If a taxable entity exceeds any of the thresholds, they are obliged to report for Intrastat statistics, but only after a notification is sent by the Slovenian Statistics office. In practical terms, the taxable person will receive a letter approximately two to three months after first exceeding either threshold and will then need to submit reports from that period onward.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the thresholds for 2024 have not been announced.

Intrastat returns must be submitted by the 15th day of the month following the reporting period (calendar month). If the 15th day is a nonworking day, the Intrastat return must be submitted by the last working day before the 15th day of the month.

Intrastat returns must be submitted in electronic format via the internet (http://intrastat-surs.gov.si/). Intrastat returns must be filed in EUR.

EU Sales List. If a Slovenian taxable person performs intra-Community supplies or reverse-charge services that are taxable for VAT purposes in the other EU state in a tax period, it must submit an EU Sales List (also known as "Recapitulative Statement" in Slovenia) to the Slovenian tax authorities. The Recapitulative Statement is not required for any periods in which the taxable person does not make any intra-Community supplies (i.e., nil Recapitulative Statements).

The Recapitulative Statement must be submitted monthly by the 20th day of the month (or earlier if the 20th day is not a working day) following the reporting period (calendar month).

PD-O Report. If taxable person performs supplies subject to the domestic reverse charge, it must file a PD-O Report. The deadline for the submission of the report is the last working day of the month, following the reporting period.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Errors from previous tax periods must be corrected in a taxable person's current VAT return. A self-disclosure process can be used in case of late submission and/or late payments of VAT. In the case of self-disclosure there are no penalties due; however, the taxable person must pay interest.

A taxable person who has already submitted a VAT return may replace the previously submitted VAT return with a new VAT return until the expiry of the deadline for the submission of the VAT return unless it has requested a VAT refund under the submitted VAT return. The taxable person may, at the latest until the beginning of the tax inspection or until the service of the assessment decision or until the beginning of the misdemeanor or criminal proceedings, include corrections of errors from previous tax periods in the current VAT return. Correction of errors in the calculation of VAT on the basis of self-declaration is no longer possible when one of the circumstances from the previous sentence occurs for the first time.

In the case of correction of errors from previous periods in the current VAT return, due to undercharged VAT or excessive VAT deduction, the taxable person will pay interest of 3% per annum on the amount of VAT subject to correction.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Slovenia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A penalty may be imposed for late registration or failure to register for VAT in Slovenia and for late filing or failure to file VAT returns. Penalties that can be imposed range from EUR4,000 to EUR125,000, depending on the size of the company and gravity of the offense. In addition, a fine may be imposed to the responsible person (i.e., the legal representative of the taxable person) in the range from EUR1,000 to EUR10,000.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For late filing or non-filing of a VAT return, a penalty ranging from EUR4,000 to EUR125,000 may be imposed, depending on the size and type of the organization.

For late payment or nonpayment of VAT, a penalty ranging from EUR4,000 to EUR125,000 may be imposed, depending on the size and type of the organization.

Default interest of 3% per year is imposed for the late payment of VAT due; however, in case of inspection, the interest rate is 7%. For Intrastat, a penalty of up to EUR1,250 may be imposed for late submission, failure to submit or for inaccurate declarations. In addition, a penalty of up to EUR125 may be imposed on a person responsible for the return.

For EU Sales Lists, penalties ranging from EUR4,000 to EUR125,000 may be imposed, depending on the size and type of the organization for late submissions, failures to submit or inaccurate filings.

In addition, a fine may be imposed to the responsible person (i.e., the legal representative of taxable person) in the range from EUR1,000 to EUR10,000.

Penalties for errors. There is no definition of an error in the Slovenian VAT Act. The offenses covered by the Act are listed in Articles 140 and 141 of the Slovenian VAT Act. The penalties imposed for errors are set in the range outlined above for late filing. Some examples of the offenses are failing to charge VAT when the chargeable event occurs, failing to charge VAT on the taxable amount, failing to state the required information or providing incorrect data on the invoice and failing to charge or incorrectly charging VAT for the statutory tax period, etc.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details results in a fine ranging from EUR1,200 to EUR30,000. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. An offense committed by a responsible person of a taxable entity may result in a fine ranging from EUR1,000 to EUR20,000.

The criminal offense of tax evasion is punishable by a term of imprisonment ranging from one to eight years.

Personal liability for company officers. It is possible for company officers to be liable in cases of particularly serious offenses. The penalties range from EUR600 to EUR20,000.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Slovenia is five years. This is from the day when the tax should have been declared, charged, withheld and assessed. The running of the statute of limitations regarding the right to assess tax is interrupted by any official act undertaken by the tax authorities of which the person liable for tax has been notified. After interruption, the statute of limitations will be reapplied and start running again. The tax liability ceases upon the expiry of 10 years from the day tax should have been declared, charged, withheld and assessed (absolute statute of limitations).

South Africa

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Johannesburg GMT +2

EY
Mail address:
Private Bag X14
Sandton 2146
South Africa

Street address:
102 Rivonia Road
Sandton, 2196
South Africa

Indirect tax contacts

Leon Oosthuizen
+27 (71) 312-7372
leon.oosthuizen@za.ey.com

Redge de Swardt
+27 (82) 776-3287
redge.deswardt@za.ey.com

Desigin Soobramoney
+27 (82) 888-8964
desigin.soobramoney@za.ey.com

Jana de Bruyn
+27 (72) 279-5867
jana.debruyn@za.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	30 September 1991
Trading bloc membership	South African Development Community (SADC) Southern African Customs Union (SACU) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Commissioner for the South African Revenue Service (SARS) (http://www.sars.gov.za)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	4220122222
VAT return periods	Monthly, bimonthly, biannually or annually
Thresholds
Registration	ZAR1 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods or services made in South Africa by a registered person
- Reverse-charge services received by a person in South Africa that is not entitled to claim full input tax credits (referred to as imported services)
- The importation of goods from outside South Africa, regardless of the status of the importer

Goods that are imported from countries in the Southern African Customs Union (that is, Botswana, Lesotho, Namibia, South Africa and Eswatini (previously known as Swaziland) are not subject to customs duty, but they are subject to VAT.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In South Africa, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT/GST-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be zero-rated under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as zero-rated of VAT. In South Africa, the legislation provides for the TOGC sale between two VAT-registered persons to be subject to the zero-rate, provided certain conditions are met. Furthermore, the rules provide that certain intragroup transactions as part of a corporate restructuring arrangement, as contemplated under specific sections of the Income Tax Act, not to be a supply. For these corporate restructuring transactions, the supplier and the recipient entities are deemed to be one and the same person.

Transactions between related parties. Transactions between related parties where the recipient entity is not entitled to a full input tax credit is deemed to be at an open market value (arm's length) where there is no consideration charged or the consideration is less than the open market value.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person (i.e., a "vendor") is required to account for output tax on all goods and services supplied in South Africa, unless the supply is specifically exempted by the Value-Added Tax Act.

A "vendor" is a taxable person (business entity or individual) carrying on an activity in or partly in South Africa on a continuous or regular basis during which goods or services are supplied to another person for consideration exceeding the registration threshold. This includes persons who are registered for VAT in South Africa as well as persons who are required to register as taxable persons.

A taxable person is required to register for VAT if the value of taxable supplies exceeds (or is expected to exceed) ZAR1 million in any consecutive 12-month period or a signed contract is in place proving that the ZAR1 million threshold will be exceeded in the following 12-month period (except for some electronic services).

Importers are liable to pay VAT on imported goods at the standard rate. There are certain exemptions where VAT is not chargeable, like when goods are donated by a nonresident to an association not for gain, personal use goods imported by tourists and goods temporarily admitted for processing or repairs.

Recipients of services are liable to pay VAT on imported services to the extent that the services will be utilized or consumed in the making of nontaxable supplies. Imported services are exempt from VAT if the value of the supply does not exceed ZAR100 per invoice.

In addition to actual goods and services supplied by a taxable person, the VAT Act also deems certain supplies to be supplies of goods or services. The person making the deemed supply is liable to pay VAT. Deemed supplies include the following:

- Ceasing to be a vendor
- Short-term indemnity payments
- Change in use
- Excess payments not refunded within four months
- Fringe benefits
- Receipts of payments from any public authority or municipality by designated entities for purposes of taxable supplies
- Trading stock used for private purposes
- Betting and gambling transactions
- Disposal of an enterprise as a going concern
- Consignment or delivery of goods or services to a branch or main business outside South Africa
- Repossession or surrender of goods

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in South Africa does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person whose turnover is below the compulsory registration threshold may register for VAT on a voluntary basis if the value of its taxable supplies exceeds ZAR50,000 in any 12-month period (excluding the provision of commercial accommodation, for which the threshold is ZAR120,000). Certain industries such as welfare organizations, projects funded by foreign donors and municipalities can register even if they don't meet the voluntary registration threshold.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in South Africa.

Fixed establishment. In South Africa, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the registration liability for VAT is not dependent on whether a person has a fixed establishment in South Africa. Provided goods or services are supplied inside or partly inside South Africa on a continuous and regular basis creates a potential registration liability (for both resident and nonresident entities).

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in South Africa. A non-established business that makes taxable supplies of goods or services continuously or regularly in South Africa must appoint a tax representative and open a South African bank account to register for VAT. The VAT authorities may appoint any person as an agent for any other person to recover amounts due to the SARS.

Tax representatives. A taxable person must appoint a natural person residing in South Africa as a tax representative to assist in tax matters and to represent the entity in South Africa. This requirement applies to all taxable persons, not just non-established businesses.

Reverse charge. In South Africa, a reverse charge only applies if the services are intended to be used in the making of nontaxable supplies by the recipient of the services. The recipient of the services is liable to account for the VAT thereon. This means that if the intention is to use the services for the making of taxable supplies, VAT is not accounted for on the supply (i.e., no VAT cash-flow).

Domestic reverse charge. From 1 August 2022, a domestic reverse charge has been introduced for VAT, and as such, VAT must be accounted on the supply of valuable metal between two taxable persons (i.e., both are VAT registered in South Africa), i.e., a business-to-business (B2B) supply. Valuable metal is defined to include any goods containing gold in the form of jewelry, bars, blank coins, ingots, buttons, wire, plate, granules, in a solution, residue or similar forms, including any ancillary goods or services. Excluded is the supply of goods produced from raw material by the holder of a mining right in respect of the mine where the holder carries on mining operations.

Digital economy. The supply of electronic services by a non-established business to recipients in South Africa is subject to VAT. The liability to register for VAT will arise where the electronic services are supplied from a place outside South Africa to a recipient that is a resident of South Africa or where payment to the non-established business originates from a South African bank. This specific inclusion applies where at least two of the following circumstances are present:
- The electronic services are supplied to a South African resident
- Any payment for such services is made from a South African bank
- The electronic services are supplied to a person with a business address, residential address or postal address in South Africa where a tax invoice will be delivered

The term "electronic services" is defined in the VAT Act to mean those electronic services as prescribed by regulation. The foreign supplier becomes liable to register for VAT at the end of the month the value of taxable supplies exceeded ZAR1 million in any consecutive 12-month period.

"Electronic services" is defined as all services supplied by means of an electronic agent, electronic communication or the internet for consideration and qualifies as "electronic services," except for the following:
- Educational services supplied from outside South Africa and regulated by an educational authority in terms of the laws of that country
- Telecommunications services
- Services supplied from a place outside South Africa by a business that is non-established in South Africa to a business that is a resident of South Africa if both those businesses form part of the same group of businesses (which requires a direct or indirect 70% equity shareholding) and the business that is not a resident of South Africa itself supplies those services exclusively for the purposes of consumption of those services by the business that is a resident of South Africa

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in South Africa.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Where electronic services are supplied by an intermediary (such as an online marketplace or platform) who is acting on behalf of another person who is the principal for the purposes of that supply, the supply is deemed to be made by the intermediary and not the principal if the following requirements are complied with:
- The intermediary should be a vendor
- The principal should not be a resident of South Africa and not a registered vendor
- The electronic services are supplied or to be supplied by the principal to a person in South Africa

The effect of the above is that the principal is not required to register for VAT and levy VAT on the electronic services, but the intermediary must do so instead.

Registration procedures. A VAT 101 form needs to be completed and supporting documentation such as the following needs to be presented (note that exact requirements change regularly and can differ per office):
- Company registered in South Africa with the Companies and Intellectual Property Commission (CIPC):
  - Copy of certificate of incorporation

  - Copy of identity document or passport of two members/directors/shareholders/trustees of the company
  - Bank details
  - Original letter from bank
  - Three months' bank statements with original bank stamp from a registered bank
  - Copy of financial information listed as source under financial particulars (to determine value of taxable supplies (no cash flow projections or business plans will be accepted)
  - If a practitioner is submitting the application on behalf of a taxable person, a power of attorney authorizing the practitioner to act on behalf of the taxable person
  - Copy of identity document, driving license or passport of representative taxable person
  - Confirmation of business address
  - Recent copy of the business municipal account or utility bill or CRA01 Form
  - Confirmation of residential address
- Non-established business:
  - Copy of certificate of incorporation – if in a foreign language it must be translated in writing into English
  - Where the non-established business has a physical presence in South Africa, a copy of the municipal account of the business must be submitted
  - Certified copy of passport documents of the members directors/shareholders/trustees of the business
  - Copies of financial information listed as source in the financial particulars section of the application form to determine the value of taxable supplies, if the value is not in South African currency, the South African rand equivalent must be provided (no cash flow projections or business plans will be accepted)
    - Bank details
    - Original letter from bank
    - Three months' bank statements with original bank stamp
    - Relevant material required for representative taxable person/authorized practitioner
    - In case of a practitioner, a letter of authority or power of attorney to authorize the practitioner to act on behalf of the applicant
    - Certified copy of identity document of representative taxable person
- "Electronic service" company:
  - Copy of certificate of incorporation
  - Proof of registration with foreign authority, i.e., issued tax registration certificate issued in the country of residence confirming registration of any tax administered by that foreign country
  - Copy of identity document or passport of the appointed foreign representative or specified contact person with regards to the registration application
  - Copy of a recent bank statement from the South African registered bank in South Africa (if a bank account was opened in South Africa; it is, however, not a requirement to have a South African bank account in the case of registering a foreign electronic service provider)

The registration process for "electronic services," as well as entities already registered with the tax authorities for corporate tax purposes, can often be completed through the SARS e-Filing system. Alternatively, visits to the tax offices may be required.

Deregistration. A taxable person can apply to SARS to be deregistered if its taxable supplies during a 12-month period are below the ZAR1 million threshold. If a taxable person's taxable supplies during a 12-month period are below the voluntary registration threshold of ZAR50,000, the commissioner will automatically deregister the person. The deregistration rules apply to all taxable persons.

If a taxable person ceases to carry on all enterprises, the commissioner must be notified within 21 days.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person is required to notify SARS within 21 days of any changes in its registered details, including any change in the representative, business address, banking details, trading name or if a taxable person ceases trading. These changes can be made by updating the RAV01 Form on e-Filing or submitting the RAV01 Form at a SARS branch if not registered on e-Filing.

In the case of banking details, the taxable person or the authorized representative taxable person must make the changes in person at any SARS branch (preferred) or through the SARS e-Filing system if registered as an e-Filer. SARS may, however, request a taxable person to come into a branch to verify changes to banking details that may have been done on e-Filing.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 15%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods and related services
- International transport of passengers and goods and related services
- Certain supplies of goods that are used exclusively in an export country
- Services supplied outside South Africa and to foreign branches and head offices
- Services supplied directly in connection with land or any improvement thereto outside South Africa
- Certain services supplied to nonresidents
- Services deemed to be supplied to a public authority or municipality
- Certain basic foodstuffs
- Sanitary towels (pads)
- Illuminating kerosene and leaded and unleaded gasoline
- Supply of gold coins issued by the reserve bank
- Supply of an enterprise capable of separate operation as a going concern (provided that all of the requirements are met)
- Supply of fuel levy goods and certain fuels obtained from crude to be refined to produce fuel levy products
- Receipt of certain grants
- Supply of intellectual property for use outside of South Africa
- Supply of services to nonresidents subject to certain provisions
- Triangular supplies (the taxable person supplies goods to a nonresident but delivers them in South Africa; special requirements apply)
- The supply of goods that have been imported and entered for storage in a licensed Customs and Excise storage warehouse but have not been entered for home consumption
- The supply of certain goods used or consumed for agricultural, pastoral or other farming purposes

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services, including Sharia finance premiums

- Fare-paying passenger transport by road or rail
- Educational services
- Childcare
- Donated goods supplied by certain nonprofit (charitable) bodies
- Rental of residential accommodation
- Immovable property located outside South Africa
- The supply of goods by a non-established business before the goods are entered for home consumption, unless the non-established business applies in writing to the SARS to have the supplies zero-rated
- Certain supplies made by bargaining councils to their members are exempt from VAT; the exemption was previously limited to situations in which the supplies were covered by membership contributions

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Where a nonresident nontaxable person supplies goods in South Africa that have not been entered for home consumption, the supply is exempt from VAT. However, the nonresident may apply to the Commissioner to, having regard to the circumstances of the case, direct that the exemption from VAT shall not apply to the person.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

In South Africa, the basic time of supply is the earlier of the issuance of an invoice or the receipt of payment.

Other tax points are used for a variety of situations, including betting transactions, construction transactions, supplies made from vending machines and "lay-by" sale agreements.

The tax point for supplies of goods between related persons is when the goods are removed by or made available to the purchaser or recipient of the goods. The time of supply for the supply of services between related persons is when the services are performed.

The tax point for goods consigned or delivered to a branch or main business outside South Africa is when the goods are actually consigned or delivered. The tax point for services supplied to a branch or main business outside South Africa is when the services are performed.

The supply of immovable property is deemed to take place at the earlier of the following dates:
- The date on which the registration of the transfer is made in a deed's registry
- The date on which payment is received

Deposits and prepayments. The time of supply for deposits and prepayments is deemed to take place at the earlier of when an invoice is issued, or any payment of consideration is made.

Continuous supplies of services. The tax point for periodic supplies is the earlier of the date on which payment is due or the date on which payment is received.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in South Africa for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). It is the earlier of the issuance of an invoice or the receipt of payment.

Reverse-charge services. The time of supply for reverse-charge services is the earlier of when the supplier issues an invoice, or the time payment is made in respect of the supply.

Leased assets. The time of supply for leased assets is to the extent that payment becomes due or is received, whichever is the earlier.

Imported goods. The tax point for imported goods varies depending on the source of the goods being imported. The following are the applicable rules:

- For goods that are imported from a Southern African Customs Union country: when the goods are brought into South Africa at the border post
- For goods imported from other countries: when the goods are cleared for home consumption
- For goods imported and entered into a licensed Customs and Excise storage warehouse: when the goods are cleared from the warehouse for home consumption

Where an importer is registered for VAT purposes and will utilize or consume the imported goods in the making of taxable supplies, the importer may claim the VAT paid on importation as an input tax deduction. Where a customs deferment account is used by the importer (or its clearing agent) the importer needs to ensure that the VAT is paid to SARS before it claims an input tax deduction. The importer is entitled to claim the VAT paid on importation as an input tax deduction in the tax period in which the goods are released in terms of the customs and excise act.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax (that is, VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes) by offsetting it against output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made in a particular tax period provided they have valid tax invoices.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in South Africa and VAT paid on the importation of goods.

A taxable person is entitled to an input tax deduction on the acquisition of secondhand goods located in South Africa from a resident of the Republic. Secondhand goods are specifically defined as goods that were previously owned and used, excluding animals. The definition of "secondhand goods" excludes gold and goods containing gold (i.e., goods consisting solely of gold and gold coins). Other secondhand goods containing gold, such as computers or watches, acquired for the sole purpose of supplying those goods in substantially the same state, still qualify for the notional input tax deduction. In addition, a taxable person must hold a completed VAT264 Declaration for supply of secondhand repossessed or surrendered goods form in order to deduct notional input tax on secondhand goods acquired.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in South Africa is five years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for taxable purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use or services used for making exempt supplies). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for specifically excluded business expenditure, such as entertainment.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase or hire of a motor car (subject to certain exceptions)
- Business and staff entertainment (subject to certain exceptions)
- Business gifts (to the extent that the gift constitutes "entertainment," as defined)
- Club subscriptions

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, hire and maintenance of vans and trucks
- Attendance at conferences and seminars
- Vehicle maintenance costs (including motor cars)
- Mobile phones
- Air transport within South Africa
- Aviation fuel

- Trading stock
- Raw materials
- Marketing expenditure

This list is not exhaustive. Input tax can be claimed to the extent that it is incurred for the making of taxable supplies.

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may recover only a portion of the input tax incurred. In South Africa, the deductible portion is determined using the following two-stage calculation:

- The first stage identifies the input tax directly attributable to taxable and exempt supplies. Input tax directly attributable to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible.
- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, input tax on general business overhead) that cannot be directly attributed to the making of taxable or exempt supplies. Such input tax may be deducted only to the extent that it relates to the making of taxable supplies. In general, the deductible portion is determined by comparing the value of taxable supplies to total supplies. However, a taxable person may apply to the SARS for another equitable apportionment method (for example, apportionment based on floor space or activity), particularly if significant investment income, foreign-exchange gains or other nontaxable passive income is realized.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method (known as the standard turnover-based method of apportionment) in South Africa. However, where the standard turnover-based method is unfair and unreasonable, a taxable person may apply to SARS to use an alternative method.

Capital goods. If a recipient intends to use a capital good (e.g., fixed property) acquired for making taxable supplies, the recipient may deduct the input tax incurred on acquisition, but only to the extent of payment made. If the capital good is intended to be used partially for making taxable supplies and partially for nontaxable supplies, only the portion relating to the intended taxable use may be deducted.

Capital goods are defined as land (together with improvements affixed thereto), any sectional title unit, any share in a share block company that confers a right to or an interest in the use of immovable property, any time-sharing interest and any real right in any such land, unit, share or time-sharing interest.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, a refund of the excess may be claimed.

The SARS pays interest at the prescribed rate if it does not pay the refund claimed within 21 business days after the date on which the VAT return is received by the SARS. The SARS is not liable for interest if the taxable person did not provide bank account details, if the returns furnished were incomplete or defective in any material respect, or if the return is being investigated.

Pre-registration costs. Where goods or services are acquired for or on behalf of a company or in connection with incorporation of that company, the goods or services will be deemed to be received by that company if the person who paid the cost was reimbursed and the goods were acquired in the carrying out of that company's enterprise. The goods or services will be deemed to have been paid by that company in the same tax period during which the reimbursement took place. This shall not apply in any of the following circumstances:

- Expenses occurred more than six months prior to incorporation

- The company does not have sufficient records to substantiate that the goods or services received were taxable supplies
- The expenses relate to secondhand goods

Bad debts. Where a taxable person writes off bad debt, it may deduct a portion of the output tax levied on the supply. The portion of output tax levied that may be deducted is calculated as the ratio of consideration written off to total consideration. The requirements that should be complied with to deduct VAT on bad debt written off are (i) the taxable person should have made a taxable supply for consideration in money, (ii) the taxable person should have submitted a VAT return wherein the output tax levied on the supply was accounted for and (iii) the taxable person should write off so much of the consideration as has become irrecoverable.

A taxable person may not make an input tax deduction in respect of a debt that has:
- Become irrecoverable under an installment credit agreement if the goods supplied in terms of that agreement have been repossessed by or surrendered to the taxable person
- Become irrecoverable if the taxable person accounts for tax on the payment basis
- Become irrecoverable in respect of a taxable supply of goods or services to another taxable person if the vendor and the recipient taxable person are wholly owned members of the same "group of companies" for income tax purposes, for as long both the vendors are wholly owned members of the same "group of companies"
- Been transferred at face value to another person on a non-recourse basis

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in South Africa.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in South Africa is not recoverable. However, VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered in South Africa may be recovered only with respect to goods that are exported from South Africa. The goods must be exported from a designated port within 90 days after the invoice date. A refund may be claimed from the VAT Refund Administrator. No claim may be made with respect to services (such as hotel accommodation and restaurant meals) consumed in South Africa.

A business that regularly or continuously supplies goods or services in South Africa may be liable to register as a VAT vendor, even though the business is neither established nor registered in South Africa, if it carries on an enterprise and meets the registration requirements. In this instance, the non-established business registered as a vendor may recover input tax through the normal VAT return process.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Taxable persons are required to issue a full tax invoice for all supplies made if the consideration (that is, the total amount received inclusive of VAT) amounts to ZAR5,000 or more. In some cases, tax invoices need not be issued (e.g., for certain periodic supplies) if the underlying documentation, such as a rental agreement, includes the information contained in a tax invoice.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note, or debit note may be used to reduce VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services. A credit note or debit note may be issued only if the tax charged is incorrect or if the supplier has paid incorrect output tax as a result of one or more of the following circumstances:
- The supply has been canceled
- The nature of the supply has been fundamentally varied or altered

- The previously agreed consideration has been altered by agreement with the recipient of the supply
- All or part of the goods or services have been returned to the supplier, including goods or services returned to a taxable person who acquired a business as a going concern and the goods or services returned were supplied by the previous owner of the concern
- An error has occurred in stipulating the amount of consideration agreed upon for that supply

If a credit note adjusts the amount of VAT charged, it must be clearly marked "credit note" and must refer to the original tax invoice. It must briefly indicate the reason that it is being issued and provide sufficient information to identify the transaction to which it refers.

Agents must issue a tax invoice within 21 days of making a supply on behalf of a principal. Furthermore, an agent importing goods on behalf of a principal is required to issue a statement to the principal containing certain particulars in regard to importations for a particular period.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in South Africa, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, business-to-consumer (B2C), and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in South Africa. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in South Africa. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

The format of electronic invoices is not prescribed, but it should contain the same particulars as nonelectronic invoices. The electronic transmission and retention of documents is regulated by the Electronic Communications and Transaction Act, which requires that the following requirements are complied with for documents to be presented or retained in its original format:

- The integrity of the information should be assessed from the time when it was first generated in its final form as a data message by considering whether the information has remained complete and unaltered.
- The information should be capable of being displayed or produced to the person to whom it is to be presented.

Taxable persons wishing to issue electronic tax invoices must ensure that they meet all these requirements. Taxable persons do not need prior approval from the Commissioner to implement electronic invoicing.

At the time of preparing this chapter, a VAT modernization discussion paper was released by SARS during September 2023 for public comments. This paper is very high-level on the SARS strategic objective of modernizing its VAT systems to provide digital and streamlined online services like the rest of the world. SARS has also indicated that these updates might take three to five years. No further details have been released.

Simplified VAT invoices. If the total amount in money for the supply is less than ZAR5,000, the supplier may issue an abridged tax invoice, which does not require the name, address and VAT registration number of the recipient to be in the invoice. Where the total consideration for a supply (i.e., VAT inclusive consideration) does not exceed ZAR50, the supplier is not required to issue a tax invoice. However, the supplier is required to provide the recipient with a document such as a till slip or sales docket indicating the VAT charged by the supplier.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in South Africa. A taxable person may issue recipient-created tax invoices subject to the following:

- The Commissioner's approval
- The supplier and recipient agreeing that the supplier shall not issue a tax invoice
- The recipient providing the document to the supplier and retaining a copy

The Commissioner has granted preapproval for issuing recipient-created tax invoices where the recipient carries out the following:
- Determines the consideration for the supply
- Is in control of determining the quantity or quality of the supply, or is responsible for measuring or testing the goods sold by the supplier

Proof of exports. Exports can be classified as either direct exports or indirect exports. Direct exports (that is, the selling taxable person is responsible to deliver the goods at an address outside South Africa) can be zero-rated if certain documentary requirements are met. In the case of indirect exports (that is where the recipient is responsible for exporting the goods from South Africa), the supplying taxable person may only zero-rate the supply if the goods are supplied to a non-established recipient and the supplier ensures that the goods are delivered at a designated harbor or airport from where the recipient exports the goods, or the goods are delivered to the recipients appointed agent that exports the goods via road or rail.

Documentation that must be retained in the case of a direct export where the supplier is (under certain circumstances) entitled to elect to apply a zero-rate is:
- A copy of the zero-rated tax invoice
- The customer's order or the contract between the customer and supplier
- The customs documentation
- Proof that the movable goods have been received by the customer in the export country
- The transport documentation as required for the relevant mode of transport (i.e., road manifest, a copy of the combined consignment note and wagon label issued by the rail operator, or a copy of the container terminal order or freight transit order issued by the container operator or the rail operator, the sea freight transport document or the airfreight transport document)
- Proof of payment for the movable goods supplied to the customer

Where the supplier contracts with a cartage contractor to deliver the goods to a customer outside South Africa, the following additional documentary proof:
- Proof that the supplier paid the transport costs
- In the case of transport by road, a copy of the proof of delivery issued by the cartage contractor that the movable goods have been received by the customer in the export country

Documentation that must be retained in the case of a indirect export where the supplier elects to apply a zero-rate is:
- A copy of the zero-rated tax invoice
- A copy of the customer's trading license (i.e., a document indicating that the customer is carrying on a business outside South Africa)
- The customer's order or the contract between the customer and supplier
- Proof of payment for the movable goods supplied to the customer
- A letter from the customer authorizing a person to represent the customer and a copy of such person's passport
- Proof of delivery of the goods to the harbor or airport
- Export documentation

Documentation that must be retained in the case of an indirect export where the supplier elects to apply a zero-rate and where the customer's agent exports the goods from South Africa via road or rail is:
- A copy of the zero-rated tax invoice
- A copy of the customer's trading license (i.e., a document indicating that the customer is carrying on a business outside South Africa)
- A letter from the customer authorizing a person to represent the customer and a copy of such person's passport
- The customer's order or the contract between the customer and the supplier

- Proof of payment for the movable goods supplied to the customer (the proof of payment must be in compliance with South African Reserve Bank (SARB) requirements where applicable)
- Proof of delivery of the goods to the customer's agent's premises
- A statement from the customer's agent containing an inventory reconciliation of all the movable goods received from the supplier and exported by the agent or a cartage contractor engaged by either the customer or its agent to the customer
- Confirmation of the proof of export from the customer's agent

Foreign currency invoices. In general, a tax invoice must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the South African rand (ZAR). However, if the invoice relates to a zero-rated supply, the tax invoice may be issued in any currency. If an invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the rand equivalent of the net amount, the VAT amount and the gross amount (or just the gross amount with a statement that it includes 15% VAT) must be disclosed on the invoice and must be determined using one of the following exchange rates:

- The daily exchange rate on the date the time of supply occurs
- The daily exchange rate on the last day of the month preceding the time of supply
- The monthly average rate for the month preceding the month during which the time of supply occurs

The exchange rate as published on the following websites may be used:

- The South African Reserve Bank (www.resbank.co.za/Research/Rates/Pages/SelectedHistoricalExchangeAndInterestRates.aspx)
- Bloomberg (www.bloomberg.com/markets/currencies/cross-rates)
- The European Central Bank (www.ecb.europa.eu/stats/exchange/eurofxref/html/index.en.html)

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in South Africa. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In South Africa, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the general ledger, invoices, documents to support the application of the zero-rate, output and input tax calculations, import documents and rulings. In South Africa, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Any records kept outside South Africa require approval from SARS. However, the issuing of these approvals had been suspended in anticipation of changes to this requirement. SARS are in the process of removing the requirement that records must be kept in South Africa, as a large portion of taxable persons keep records outside the country. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, no further details have been announced.

Record retention period. Records, including tax invoices, should be retained for a period of five years from the date that the relevant VAT return in which the input tax is deducted is submitted. Where tax invoices are relevant to an audit or investigation, or if the taxable person has objected or filed an appeal against an assessment, tax invoices should be retained until the audit or investigation is concluded or the assessment becomes final.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in South Africa. Tax invoices should be retained in their original form or in a form, including electronic form. Where documents are retained in electronic form, the following requirements must be complied with:

- The integrity of the electronic record should satisfy the standard contained in the Electronic Communications and Transactions Act. This effectively means that the taxable person should be able to prove that the electronic record remained complete and unaltered from the time that it was created in electronic form.
- The taxable person should, within a reasonable period when required by SARS, be able to provide an electronic copy of the e-invoice to SARS in a format that SARS can access, read and analyze, or be able to send the e-invoice to SARS in an electronic format that is readily accessible by SARS, or provide SARS was a paper copy of the e-invoice.
- SARS should be able to access the electronic records for purposes of performing its functions.

- The e-invoices should be kept and maintained at the place physically located in South Africa. If the e-invoices will be kept at a place outside of South Africa, the taxable person will have to obtain preapproval from SARS.
- The taxable person must ensure that measures are in place for adequate storage of the e-invoices for the duration of the period that it is required to retain the e-invoices. This includes the appropriate storage of the media on which the electronic records are recorded, the storage of all electronic signatures, login codes, keys, passwords or certificates required to access the e-invoices and procedures to obtain full access to electronic records that are encrypted.
- The e-invoices should be available for inspection by SARS at all reasonable times and at premises in South Africa. The e-invoices should also be available to SARS for audit purposes.
- The taxable person should ensure that the electronic system used enables it to demonstrate to SARS during an inspection that these rules are complied with.
- Any electronic signatures, login codes, keys, passwords or certificates that are required to access the e-invoices must be made available to SARS to enable it to carry out an inspection.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax return period is monthly for persons with annual taxable turnover greater than ZAR30 million. The tax return period is bimonthly for persons with annual taxable turnover below ZAR30 million. Other tax periods are available (biannually, i.e., six-monthly, and annually) for special categories of persons with annual taxable supplies lower than ZAR1.5 million, such as farmers, farming enterprises and nonprofit associations, but only with the prior agreement of the SARS.

VAT returns must be filed by the 25th day after the end of the tax period or, if returns are filed electronically through the SARS e-Filing system, by the end of the month following the tax period. If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, the due date is the last business day before the 25th or the last business day before the end of the month in the case of electronic filing.

Periodic payments. VAT must be paid by the 25th day after the end of the tax period or, if paid electronically through the SARS e-Filing system, by the end of the month following the tax period. If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a public holiday, the due date is the last business day before the 25th or the last business day before the end of the month in the case of electronic filing.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing (e-Filing) is allowed in South Africa, but not mandatory. Taxable persons may file returns electronically, via e-Filing, which allows a taxable person to make submissions and electronic payments to SARS electronically. Registration for e-Filing and the submission of VAT returns via e-Filing is compulsory for VAT registered nonresident suppliers of electronic services. Other taxable persons may still submit paper-based VAT returns at a SARS office.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in South Africa.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in South Africa.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in South Africa.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in South Africa.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person can submit an amended return for the correction of an undisputed error made on the return. This means that prior to SARS issuing any assessment, a request for correction can be made on e-Filing on the "Return History" option. If a request for correction is not available on e-Filing, a taxable person will need to lodge an objection.

With a request for correction, input tax may not be increased, and output tax may not be decreased. After correcting a VAT return for the second time onwards (e.g., version three), relevant material must be sent to SARS with the submission to support the changes made.

A taxable person may submit a voluntary disclosure to SARS to limit the exposure to penalties relating to the late payment of tax. This may be submitted on the e-Filing system.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in South Africa.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A taxable person is required to register for VAT within 21 days of becoming liable for registration. A 10% late payment penalty, interest at the prescribed rate (currently 7% per annum) and an understatement penalty of between 5% and 200% of the VAT payable may be levied in a case where a person registers late. Where such late registration is made under a voluntary disclosure application, the understatement penalty will not be levied, and the person can apply for a remission of the 10% late payment penalty.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty equal to 10% of the net VAT due is imposed if the VAT return is submitted late or if the VAT payment is made after the due date. The SARS may remit the penalty if satisfied that:

- The penalty has been imposed for a first incidence of noncompliance or involved an amount of less than ZAR2,000
- Reasonable grounds for the noncompliance exist
- The noncompliance at issue has been remedied
- If exceptional circumstances are present

Interest is charged at the prescribed rate on late payments of VAT, calculated for each month or part of a month. A taxable person may request the SARS to remit interest if the late payment was due to circumstances beyond the taxable person's control (like natural or human disaster, civil disturbance or disruption and serious illness or accident).

Penalties for errors. In the case of an understatement, the taxpayer has to pay, in addition to the VAT payable, an understatement penalty determined according to an understatement penalty percentage table, which ranges between 5% and 200%. An understatement means prejudice to the SARS or the fiscus in respect of a tax period as a result of:

- A default in rendering a return
- An omission from a return
- An incorrect statement in a return

Where a default is disclosed to SARS under a voluntary disclosure application before SARS commences with an audit or investigation, the understatement penalties are reduced to 0%.

Late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details is an offense and upon conviction subject to a fine or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding 24 months. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In the case of an understatement where the taxable person's behavior amounts to gross negligence or intentional tax evasion, the taxable person must pay, in addition to the VAT payable, an understatement penalty of between 100% and 200%.

Personal liability for company officers. A company public officer is responsible for all acts, matters or things that the public officer's company is obliged to do under a tax act. In the case of default, the public officer may be guilty of an offense and on conviction be liable to a fine or imprisonment.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in South Africa is five years. Additional assessments may not be raised after the expiration of five years from the date the original return had been submitted. The limitation will not apply in the case of fraud, intentional or negligent misrepresentation or nondisclosure of material facts or failure to submit a return.

South Sudan

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Juba GMT +3

Direct all queries regarding South Sudan to the persons listed below in the Nairobi, Kenya, office.

Indirect tax contacts

Hadijah Nannyomo
+254 729 847 195
hadijah.nannyomo@ke.ey.com

Marceline Ochola
+254 20 288 6000
marceline.ochola@ke.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Sales tax (ST)
Local name	Sales tax (ST)
Date introduced	27 November 2012
Trading bloc membership	East Africa Community (EAC)
	African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) – At the time of preparing this chapter, South Sudan is a member of AfCFTA, but has not ratified the agreement to become a state party under the Agreement
Administered by	National Revenue Authority (NRA) (https://nra.gov.ss/)
ST rates
Standard	18%
Special	20%
Other	Exempt
ST number format	Tax identification number (TIN) 123-345-678
ST return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	SSP12,000 (services)/SSP100,000 (goods)
Recovery of ST by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

Sales tax (ST) applies to the following transactions:
- Production of goods in South Sudan
- Importation of goods into South Sudan
- Specified services (e.g., hotel, restaurant and bar services)

Note that ST does not apply after production and goods that are exported from South Sudan. Exports are outside the scope of ST (i.e., not subject to the standard rate nor exempt).

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In South Sudan, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in South Sudan. As such, ST applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In South Sudan, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for ST purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

Tax registration in South Sudan is universal for all taxes. Each legal person is required, if liable, to register for ST. This is where any persons who manufacture goods or supply prescribed services (e.g., hotel, restaurant and bar services, telecommunication services and financial services) are subject to ST.

Exemption from registration. The ST law in South Sudan does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The ST law in South Sudan provides for mandatory ST registration for businesses supplying specified services worth more than South Sudanese pound (SSP)12,000 per year. Whereas for local producers the registration threshold is set at supplies worth more than SSP100,000. A business may register for tax including ST if its taxable turnover is less than SSP12,000 for specified services and SSP100,000 for local producers.

Group registration. Group ST registration is not allowed in South Sudan.

Fixed establishment. In South Sudan, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for ST purposes. However, the permanent establishment rules that apply for direct taxation also apply for ST, as the law allows for use of the prevailing Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and United Nations (UN) models.

Non-established businesses. All businesses are treated the same for tax purposes, including non-established businesses. As such, there are no special rules for non-established businesses. However, in cases of restaurant and bar services, non-established businesses that have an annual turnover of less than SSP12,000 or those that do not have a sitting area for customers are exempted from ST. Other non-established domestic producers making taxable supplies with a turnover of less than SSP100,000 are also exempted.

Tax representatives. The ST law in South Sudan allows a taxable person to appoint a tax advisor to represent it on tax matters. A tax representative, a position that carries more responsibility compared to a tax advisor, is not provided in the ST law. However, in South Sudan, these two can be used interchangeably. There is no distinction between the two. A tax advisor is the same as a tax representative, as long as they are an outside agent to the taxable person they are appointed to represent.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge does not apply in South Sudan. ST is not applicable on services purchased abroad, meaning no ST is accounted for imported services. For goods purchased abroad, taxable persons must account for ST at the point of clearing the goods through customs. Subsequently, they are not required to file any return if their ST is through importation only.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in South Sudan.

Digital economy. No special rules exist for the digital economy in South Sudan.

Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) are not required to register and account for ST in South Sudan. The reverse-charge mechanism does not apply in South Sudan, and as such no ST is accounted for on imported services. See the subsection Reverse charge above.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in South Sudan.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in South Sudan.

Registration procedures. Tax registration is performed by making a written application to the National Revenue Authority (NRA). The application includes a cover letter, a completed prescribed form, certificate of registration, Chamber of Commerce certificate, operating license and lease agreement. The NRA may request for a site visit before registering a person for tax.

Deregistration. Tax deregistration can occur under any of the following circumstances:
- An incorporated entity closes down, ceases to exist, sells or transfers a business
- In the case of a sole proprietorship, if the individual dies
- In the case of a partnership, if it is dissolved or there is a change of a partner
- The legal status of the registered person changes
- If a person is registered in error
- In any other case as may be provided by law or regulations

Changes to ST registration details. Every registered taxable person must provide the Director General of Taxation with notice in a prescribed form of any changes in the information pertaining to registration details within 15 days of such change.

Until the date that the Director General of Taxation receives notice of such change, all information in the application for registration shall be deemed to be correct for the purposes of the Taxation Act, including any liability for tax, penalty, additional charge or interest due under the Act. As such, no penalties apply.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of ST.

The ST rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Special rate: 20% (with effect from 14 August 2023)

The standard rate of ST applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provided for a special rate or an exemption.

Note that the standard rate of ST is only applicable for the manufacture of goods (i.e., produced goods) or the supply prescribed services (i.e., telecommunication services and financial services).

Examples of goods and services taxable at 20%

- Imported goods
- Hotel, restaurant and bar services

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to ST.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Exemption from ST is on a case-by-case basis. These exemptions are only granted to diplomatic missions or donor funded projects based on agreements with government of South Sudan.

E. Time of supply

The time of supply rule for produced goods is when goods are released outside the production premises.

The time of supply rule for services is when services are provided.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in South Sudan for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in South Sudan for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in South Sudan for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. Reverse charge is not applicable on services purchased abroad, as no ST is due on imported services.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in South Sudan for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply rule for imported goods is at the time the importation is completed.

F. Recovery of ST by taxable persons

ST cannot be recovered in South Sudan.

G. Recovery of ST by non-established businesses

ST cannot be recovered in South Sudan. As such, input tax incurred by non-established businesses in South Sudan is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

ST invoices. It is mandatory for transactions requiring collection of ST to be accompanied by an invoice detailing the name of the business, taxpayer identification number, description of sale, sale value and ST applicable. This, however, does not include transactions at the time of import.

Credit notes. South Sudan law does not provide detail for the issuance of credit notes. However, in practice, credit notes and similar adjustments and other related transactions should be treated in a similar manner as invoices.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in South Sudan, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in South Sudan. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in South Sudan. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Taxable persons are encouraged to generate all invoices via the eTAX platform to strengthen the validity.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the NRA is considering mandating e-invoicing in the future. No further information has been released on this.

Simplified ST invoices. Simplified ST invoicing is not allowed in South Sudan. As such, full ST invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in South Sudan.

Proof of exports. On exportation, at the point of exit, the South Sudan customs office will sign off and stamp export declaration forms, which serve as evidence of goods having left South Sudan.

Foreign currency invoices. ST invoices can be issued in another currency, as well as the domestic currency, which is the South Sudanese pound (SSP). However, for reporting purposes, any transaction that is recorded in or effected in a foreign currency must be converted into SSP at the prevailing market rate.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in South Sudan. As such, full ST invoices are required.

Records. In South Sudan, examples of what records must be held for ST purposes include all records of daily sales of goods or provision of services subject to tax, including the amount of each transaction. Other records to be kept are transactions completed but not yet invoiced, any nontaxable transaction, and payments of goods and services, including amount paid and the name and address of the supplier.

In South Sudan, ST books and records can be held outside of the country. However, while there are no specific provisions on where the records must be stored, in the event of an audit, physical documents are required to be provided to the tax authorities.

Record retention period. Records must be kept for at least six years. Each taxable person must keep accounts of all transactions and these accounts must be made available in South Sudan for inspection by a revenue officer.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in South Sudan.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax period in South Sudan is a calendar month. Returns must be filed on a monthly basis along with the payment of the tax due. Upon payment of the tax, a tax receipt is issued by the receiving bank. This tax receipt, together with the completed tax return and any other supporting documents, should then be submitted to the nearest NRA office. ST returns must be submitted by the 15th of the following month from the end of the tax period.

Periodic payments. ST due must be paid by the same date as the ST return submission deadline of the 15th of every month. Monthly payments are made directly through a designated commercial bank using a prescribed form.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in South Sudan for all taxable persons. All taxable persons are required to register, file returns and pay taxes through the online platform (eTAX).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in South Sudan.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in South Sudan.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in South Sudan.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in South Sudan.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Filing in South Sudan is done electronically via eTAX. To correct an error previously done, the taxable person can prepare the amended return and submit online or physically to the NRA together with payment receipts if required.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in South Sudan.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Late registration for ST attracts a penalty of SSP500 for each month or part month during which such failure to register continues. Additionally, criminal charges may be brought against person(s) who fail to register for ST.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Late filing of ST returns attracts a penalty of 5% per month for each month the ST return remains unfiled, up to a maximum of 25%. Additionally, late payment of ST attracts a penalty of 5% per month for every month the ST remains unpaid. This penalty is not capped.

A monthly interest rate of unpaid tax is at the rate of 120% of the prime commercial rate for such a period. The prime commercial rate is the average rate commercial banks in South Sudan charge other banks and financial institutions.

Penalties for errors. Where there is an understatement of ST, the following penalties may apply:
- Less than 25% of the tax due, the taxable person shall be liable to a 10% penalty of the understatement.
- Exceeds 25% of the tax due, the taxable person shall be liable to a 50% penalty of the understatement.
- Exceeds twice the times of the tax due, the taxable person shall be liable to a penalty of between 100% to 200% of the understatement.
- If the error is voluntarily disclosed by the taxable person, the taxable person shall be liable to a penalty of 5% of the understatement.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's ST registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Penalty for fraud is not specifically provided in the ST law in South Sudan. However, any offense specifically not provided in law when adjudicated for can attract a maximum penalty of one year in prison.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in ST declarations and reporting in South Sudan.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in South Sudan is three or six years. The statute of limitations for assessment of tax is three years. This is from the date the tax return was filed or the date the tax return was due. The above notwithstanding, an assessment may be made at any time where a taxable person with the intent of evading the payment of tax fails to file a return, files a return that is determined to be incorrect or commits fraud by or on behalf of a person in relation to tax liability.

The statute of limitation for collection of the assessed tax is six years. This is after the date of the notice of assessment and demand of the tax or before the expiration of any period for collection agreed upon in writing by the designated officer and the taxpayer, and in lieu of that, the claim to any tax or other charges shall be forfeited by the Government of the Republic of South Sudan (GRSS).

At the time of preparing this chapter, there is no legislation on a set time period for a taxable person to voluntarily correct errors. In practice, the taxable person notifies the Commissioner and amends the return, paying requisite taxes and penalties that have accrued. There is an option to apply for waiver, which is at the discretion of the NRA.

Spain

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Madrid GMT +1

EY
Calle Raimundo Fernández Villaverde, 63-65
Torre Azca
28003 Madrid
Spain

Indirect tax contacts

Eduardo Verdún
+34 915 727 421
eduardo.verdunfraile@es.ey.com

Hugo Gonzalez
+34915725139 hugoantonio.gonzalezcollazo@es.ey.com

Silvia Bermudo
+34 915-727-749
silvia.bermudoconde@es.ey.com

Barcelona GMT +1

EY
Avda. de Sarriá, 102-106
Edificio Sarriá Fórum
08017 Barcelona
Spain

Indirect tax contacts

María Lorente
+34 933 663 763
maria.lorentelranzo@es.ey.com

Íñigo Hernández
+34 933-666-537
inigo.hernandezzmoneo@es.ey.com

Sevilla GMT +1

EY
Avenida de la Palmera, 33
41013 Sevilla
Spain

Indirect tax contacts

Pedro Gonzalez-Gaggero
+34 915 727 419
pedro.gonzalez-gaggero@es.ey.com

Navarra GMT +1

EY
Avenida de Pío XII, 22
31008 Pamplona
Spain

Indirect tax contact

Alberto Arteaga
+34 948 179 357
alberto.arteagafernandez@es.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto sobre el Valor Añadido (IVA)
Date introduced	1 January 1986
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.aeat.es and http://www.hacienda.gob.es)
VAT rates
Standard	21%
Reduced	4%, 5%, 10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	A – 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 or B – 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 or N – 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 C or W – 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 C (in case of permanent establishment) (ES prefix must be added if the taxable person is included in the VAT Information Exchange System [VIES] census)
VAT return periods	Monthly (if turnover exceeded EUR6,010,121.04 in the preceding year or if the taxable person is included in the monthly VAT refund procedure or if the company is included in a VAT group or if the company applies for the ISI system)
	Quarterly
	Annual statement (required for taxable persons not applying ISI system)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	None
Non-established	None
Distance selling	EUR10,000
Intra-Community acquisitions	None
Electronically supplied services	EUR10,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Spain by a taxable person
- The intra-Community acquisition of goods from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person (see the chapter on the EU)
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer
- Reverse charge on goods and services received by a taxable person in Spain

For VAT purposes, the territory of Spain excludes the Canary Islands, Ceuta and Melilla.

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the chapter on the EU. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

The Quick Fixes were transposed into the Spanish legislation through the Royal Decree-law 3/2020 of 4 February 2020. The Quick Fixes are four specific measures that intend to solve in the short-term period some problems related to the implementation of VAT. These measures are related to (i) call-off stocks, (ii) chain transactions, (iii) proof of transport and (iv) the VAT number of the recipient of an intra-EU delivery of goods. Conversely to the measure related to the proof of transport, which was implemented on 1 January 2020, the other three measures were enforced on 1 March 2020.

Call-off stock. Sales of consignment goods or agreements to reserve stock (i.e., call-off stock), refer to a situation where the supplier sends goods from one Member State to another (e.g., to Spain), for storage (i.e., warehouse) and subsequent pick-up by the customer (e.g., an entrepreneur) in accordance to its needs.

Before the Quick Fixes, a transaction treated as an intra-Community supply of goods (i.e., transfer) in the Member State of departure of the goods and, at the same time, a transaction treated as an intra-Community acquisition of goods in the Member State of arrival, would both be carried out by the supplier. Now as a result of the application of Quick Fixes simplification, it becomes an exempt intra-Community supply of goods in the Member State of departure carried out by the supplier and an intra-Community acquisition of goods in the Member State of arrival made by the customer.

The application of the simplification implies that the supplier would no longer be obliged to be registered in Spain.

Requirements for the application of the simplification:
- The supplier and customer must be taxable persons.
- The supplier must not be established in the Member State of arrival.
- The customer must be VAT registered in the Member State of arrival.
- The simplification applies to goods that are transported from one Member State to another, by the supplier or on their behalf.
- The goods must be called-off or returned to the Member State of dispatch within 12 months of arrival.
- The customer's identity and VAT number must be known by the supplier at the time when transport begins.
- The transport and supplies must be recorded in a register by the supplier.
- The arrival and acquisitions must be recorded in a register by the customer.
- The identity and VAT number of the intended customer must be recorded in the EC Sales List (VIES) by the supplier. VIES returns should be submitted in line with EU VAT regulations when the stock is called off.

Chain transactions. This measure intends to simplify the situation where goods are subject to several deliveries, but they are transported from the first member of the chain to the last one, from one Member State to another. The implementation of this Quick Fix provides clarification regarding which of the parties to the transaction will be able to apply for the exemption in the intra-EU delivery of goods, i.e., which of them will be considered to perform the transportation of goods.

To determine that the operation shall be considered the VAT exempt intra-EU supply of goods in chain transactions, the following rules to allocate the intra-EU transport should be taken into account:
- As a general rule, it shall be considered that the intra-EU transport is linked to the supply performed by the first supplier (A) to the intermediary (B) – A will be the party performing the VAT exempt intra-EU supply.

- However, if B communicates to A a Spanish VAT ID number, the transport will be linked to the supply performed by B and the supply A-B will be a domestic supply – B will be considered the party performing the VAT exempt intra-EU supply to party C.

VAT number of the recipient of an intra-EU delivery of goods. As per the implementation of this Quick Fix, to consider an intra-EU supply of goods exempt, the following requirements should be met:
- The goods should be transported to another Member State.
- The recipient of the goods should have a VAT number granted by the authorities of a Member State other than Spain and must communicate it to the seller.
- The supplier should include the VAT number of the recipient in its EU sales list (Form 349).

Proof of transportation. The Spanish VAT Regulation envisages that any means of evidence admitted by law is valid (i.e., the principle of freedom of evidence). Particularly, the means of evidence envisaged in Article 45 of the Council Implementing Regulation 282/2011 (there is a direct reference of the Spanish VAT Regulation). The Spanish VAT law does not specify any other document. As per the principle of freedom of evidence, any type of document that provides enough evidence of such transport will be acceptable. However, it would be advisable to use the documents established in the EU Regulation, since these will be presumed as valid, providing legal certainty. Also, means of evidence different from the above could draw the attention of the authorities and even their reluctance to accept them.

Consequently, according to the EU Regulation to apply for the exemption in the intra-EU delivery of goods, the transport should be proven by the following means:
- If the transport is carried out by the vendor, it should have at least two noncontradictory means of proof from the list below.
- If the transport is carried out by the acquirer, the vendor should have (i) a statement whereby the acquirer certifies the transport of the goods and (ii) at least two noncontradictory means of proof from the list below.

The allowed means of proofs are the following:
- Documents related to the delivery of the goods, such as a CMR (Convenio relativo al Contrato de Transporte Internacional de Mercancías por Carretera; or Convention on the Contract for the International Carriage of Goods by Road), bill of lading, freight invoice or an invoice of the carrier
- An insurance policy or any bank document that proves the payment of the transportation.
- Documents issued by public bodies that certificate the arrival of the goods in the destination Member State
- Receipt from the depositary of the goods in the destination Member State

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective countries of the EU.

The Spanish VAT law envisages that certain services should be subject to Spanish VAT if their effective utilization or exploitation were to take place within the Spanish VAT territory. The services impacted by the use and enjoyment rules are the following (Article 70 of the Spanish VAT Law has been amended by Law 31/2022 as of 1 December 2023, and Law 13/2023 as of 1 May 2024, to modify the scope of the use and enjoyment rule):
- B2B and B2C services: the leasing of means of transport

- B2C services:
  - Transfers and concessions of copyrights, patents, licences, trademarks or commercial brands and the rest of intellectual property or industrial rights, as well as any other similar rights
  - Transfer or concession of goodwill, exclusive right to trade or perform professional activities
  - Advertising services
  - The services of consultants, auditors, engineers, consultancy bureaus, lawyers, accountants or tax experts and other similar services
  - Data processing and supply of information, including procedures and experiences of a commercial nature
  - Translators, proofreading and editing, as well as those provided by interpreters
  - Insurance, reinsurance and capitalization transactions, as well as financial services
  - Provision of staff
  - Movie dubbing services
  - Hiring out of movable tangible property
  - Services of access to the natural gas or electricity distribution systems, transport or delivery of gas or electricity through such systems, as well as the provision of other services directly related to any of the services included in this paragraph
  - Obligations to refrain from providing, wholly or partially, any of the services mentioned in this list

Transfer of a going concern. In accordance with Article 7.1 of the Spanish VAT law, a transaction consisting of a transfer of going concern (TOGC) will not be subject to VAT provided that certain requirements are met: "Not subject to Spanish VAT will be the transfer of a group of tangible and, if applicable, intangible elements which, comprising the taxable person's business or professional assets, constitute an autonomous economic unit for the transferor, capable of developing a business or professional activity by itself, regardless of the tax regime applicable for other taxes purposes and for paragraph four of Article 4 of this law."

In this regard, the GDT has further defined, based on the Court of Justice of the European Union's criteria, that to consider a TOGC as not subject for VAT it is not necessary that all assets and liabilities of a whole company are transferred, but that the elements transferred are indeed capable of developing a business or a professional activity, as an autonomous unit.

The main requirements to determine whether or not the TOGC relief would apply could be summarized as follows:

- The assets transferred must constitute an autonomous economic unit for the transferor
- The economic autonomous unit must be capable of developing an economic activity by its owns means
- The assets/liabilities transferred must include a minimum organizational structure in terms of material and/or human resources
- The acquirer should affect or intend to affect said assets/liabilities transferred to the performance of a business activity

Transactions between related parties. For a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated as the market value of the goods delivered or services provided.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" is any business entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services, intra-Community acquisitions, imports or distance sales in the course of a business in Spain.

No VAT registration threshold applies in Spain. A taxable person that begins its activity must notify the VAT authorities of its liability to register before the beginning of its activities.

Exemption from registration. Exemption from VAT registration in Spain is allowed for the following legal or individual bodies:

- Taxable persons who only carry out transactions that do not give the right to the total or partial VAT deduction (e.g., exempt supplies cultural, medical, financial transactions) or taxable persons who carry out transactions that are subject to the agriculture, livestock and fishing special schemes, or legal persons that do not carry out transactions as professionals or entrepreneurs, when the intra-EU acquisitions of goods carried out by the mentioned legal persons are not subject to VAT.
- Bodies that do not act as professionals or entrepreneurs that carry out intra-EU acquisitions of new means of transport.
- Bodies that occasionally carry out VAT exempt supplies of new means of transport.
- Professionals or entrepreneurs not established in the Spanish VAT territory who only perform in Spain transactions for which they are not considered to be a taxable person.
- Professionals or entrepreneurs not established in the Spanish VAT territory who only carry out supplies in Spain of intra-EU acquisitions of goods and subsequent supplies of those goods.

In addition to the above, it is important to note that there are two types of VAT registrations in Spain: the limited VAT registration and the full VAT registration.

The limited VAT registration applies in cases where nonresident entities need a VAT number for the purpose of carrying out intra-EU acquisitions of goods or deemed the intra-EU acquisition of goods or imports of goods. However, they are not deemed as taxable persons in respect of subsequent supplies of those goods performed within Spain (since, for instance, the reverse charge applies to the ongoing local supplies of those goods).

The full VAT registration under the general taxable person regime is needed when the nonresident entity is going to perform transactions in Spain for which it is considered to be a taxable person, such as domestic supplies where output tax should be charged, exports of goods or intra-EU supplies of goods.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Spain does not contain any provisions for voluntary VAT registration or special rules for small businesses, as there is no registration threshold (i.e., all entities that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for VAT in the terms described above).

Group registration. VAT grouping is allowed under Spanish VAT law. Notwithstanding this rule, companies that belong to a VAT group must still register for VAT purposes individually. This is such that the VAT group will be assigned by a Spanish tax ID number and, in addition, each entity belonging to the group will have its own Spanish tax ID number.

A VAT group should have a parent company and subsidiaries should have at least 50% participation by the parent company.

The minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group is three years.

All members of a VAT group in Spain are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

Holding companies. As a general rule, pure holding companies (i.e., those that solely acquire and hold shares of their subsidiaries, without carrying out any economic activity or involving themselves in the management of such subsidiaries) are not entitled to deduct and, hence, to recover the input tax borne, to the extent that they do not have the status of a taxable person.

However, if a holding company carries out an entrepreneurial activity, it could recover the Spanish input tax borne on those expenses exclusively used for the purposes of its business activity. Nevertheless, the fact that a holding company has mixed activities would not automatically imply that it would be entitled to deduct its input tax on a 100% basis, insofar as it would be necessary that such input tax is allocated to transactions that grant the taxable person the right to deduct it.

To be part of a VAT group, it is necessary to be a business or professional, so a pure holding company could not be part of the VAT group. However, the fact that a holding company performs management support services for other entities of the group, could lead to a mixed holding company, and therefore this holding company could be part of the VAT group.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f)) has been implemented in Spain. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in Spanish VAT law).

Among other requisites, those services should be used directly and exclusively in the abovementioned activity, and they should be necessary. The members are limited to the reimbursement of the share of joint expenses.

Fixed establishment. A foreign business is deemed to have a fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Spain in the following circumstances:
- The place of management, branch, office, factory, workshop, installation, store, shop and, in general, any agent or representative empowered to conclude contracts on behalf and for account of the entrepreneur.
- A mine, quarry, slag heap, oil or gas well, or any other place for extraction of natural resources
- A construction, installation or assembly project carried out by the entrepreneur and whose duration exceeds 12 months, among others.

The General Directorate of Taxes (GDT) has issued several binding rulings (i.e., V1479-14, V3311-15, V3311-17) according to which a VAT fixed establishment is deemed to exist if the following requirements are met:
- Have a necessary minimum structure in another Member State different from the one in which it is considered as a resident (i.e., a fixed place of business)
- This minimum structure implies having a minimum organization, understood as material and human resources factors that may imply a certain division of the work
- Permanence in time of the fixed place of business
- Autonomy of the VAT fixed establishment in the activities carried out, different from the head office; it should imply a certain capacity of decision in the management of the administrative activities that should be performed

Non-established businesses. A non-established business that makes supplies of goods or services in Spain must register for VAT if it is liable to account for Spanish VAT on the supply.

Tax representatives. A non-established business must register in Spain for VAT purposes if it makes any of the following supplies:
- Intra-Community supplies or acquisitions
- Distance sales in excess of the threshold unless the EU One-Stop-Shop (OSS) system applies
- Supplies of goods and services that are not subject to the reverse-charge mechanism
- Exports

In general, non-established businesses must appoint a tax representative in Spain.

Taxable persons established in the EU, foreign companies established in the Canary Islands, Ceuta or Melilla, and foreign companies established in a country that has a mutual assistance agreement with Spain are exempt from the above general rule. However, in practice, the tax authorities require the appointment of a VAT representative even for companies established in the EU because it is mandatory to have a Spanish address where communications issued by the tax authorities can be easily received. This means that the foreign entities need to request a specific digital certificate to access their notifications or appoint a local representative to receive the notifications on a company's behalf.

A fiscal representative is no longer compulsory when an EU company is going to be registered for VAT in Spain. However, a fiscal representative is required for non-EU companies. The fiscal representative must be tax registered and willing to act as the local tax representative of the company, managing queries and filing obligations of the company for dealings with the tax authorities.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism generally applies to supplies made by non-established businesses to taxable persons. Under this mechanism, the taxable person is the recipient of the goods or services supplied.

If a foreign taxable person supplies goods to a company established in Spain, the recipient of the supply becomes liable for VAT purposes. However, the reverse-charge mechanism does not apply to certain items, including the following:
- Distance sales
- Exempt exports
- Exempt intra-Community supplies

The reverse-charge mechanism also applies if a foreign taxable person supplies goods in Spain to another foreign taxable person.

If a foreign taxable person supplies services to a company established in Spain, the company established in Spain is treated as the taxpayer.

If a foreign taxable person supplies services subject to Spanish VAT to another foreign taxable person, in general, the supplier is liable for the VAT due.

Domestic reverse charge. Apart from the cases described above, the reverse charge also applies to the following domestic transactions in Spain:
- Supplies of certain kinds of gold and gold-processed products, silver, platinum and palladium
- Supplies of certain wastes from iron, paper or glass industries
- Supplies of services related to rights on greenhouse gases
- Supplies of immovable property on the frame of insolvency proceedings, warranty executions or exempt supplies of immovable property when the exemption is waived
- Work executions
- Supplies mobile phones, video game consoles, tablets and laptops
- Supply of plastic and textile waste

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (i.e., e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice, these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see the Section B. Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:
- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.

- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 with effect from 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a One-Stop-Shop (OSS) mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the chapter on the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In Spain there are no additional special rules.

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for the VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:
- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

In Spain, a taxable person must submit Form 035 to the Spanish tax authorities to register for the OSS portal and register for VAT to account for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and B2C supplies of services. To register and pay VAT on all supplies in a single electronic quarterly return, a taxable person must submit Form 369. No other special rules apply in Spain.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the chapter on the EU.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

For more details about the IOSS, see the chapter on the EU.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination, and the Member State can decide freely who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal services and couriers scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the chapter on the EU.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:

- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply).
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes.

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the chapter on the EU.

Vouchers. The regulation on the VAT treatment of vouchers has been implemented through the Resolution dated on 28 December 2018, from the Spanish General Tax Directorate, which is based on the Council Directive (EU) 2016/1065 of 27 June 2016 amending Directive 2006/112/EC as regards the treatment of vouchers. According to it, there are two kinds of vouchers:

- Single-purpose vouchers (SPVs) are those in which the place of supply of the goods or services to which the voucher relates, and the VAT due on those goods or services, are known at the time of issuing the voucher. The taxation of a supply of an SPV is the same as the supply of goods or services to which the voucher is referred. An SPV is subject to VAT at the time of its supply.
- Multi-purpose vouchers (MPVs): are vouchers which, at the time of their issuance, the taxation of the underlying supply cannot be known. In particular, MPVs are those that can be redeemed by goods or services located inside or outside the VAT territory or goods or services taxed at different VAT rates. The supply of the MPVs is not subject to VAT. It will be the supply of goods or services for which the MPVs are redeemed that will be subject to VAT.

Registration procedures. To obtain a Spanish VAT number, an application must be made in Spanish, which requires certain supporting information:

- Excerpt of the Commercial Registry or similar where the company is registered and where the names of the legal representatives are shown
- Power of attorney for the company's fiscal representative
- Passport copies of the legal representatives of the company

- Spanish identification numbers for foreigners (NIE numbers); the Spanish tax authorities require the person or persons signing on behalf of a nonresident entity for the purposes of its registration to have a nonresident ID number in Spain; therefore, a new Form 030 is required by the Spanish tax authorities in connection with the registration of nonresident entities; although this obligation could be argued according to law (it is not required according to the wording of the VAT law currently in force), the Spanish tax authorities are refusing to register nonresident entities without the ID numbers of their representatives
- Census forms (i.e., Forms 036-030)

In principle, the registration should be performed before the commencement of the economic activity in Spain. Once all the necessary information is gathered, the registration should be obtained on the same day that the registration return (Form 036) is filed. The common procedure is to provide the documentation in person to the tax authorities.

Deregistration. To deregister for VAT purposes, the taxable person must submit online, a census return (Form 036) to the Spanish tax authorities.

Deregistering from the census as a professional entrepreneur involves more, as it cancels the tax identification number. The same census return (Form 036) is submitted in the same way, but it must be accompanied by additional documentation.

Changes to VAT registration details. Changes related to the company information, such as business address, corporate form, application to special VAT regimes, etc., should be informed to the tax authority. Generally, the communication should be processed through the electronic filing of a census return (Form 036) within one month of its occurrence.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 21%
- Reduced rates: 4%, 5%, 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Basic foodstuffs (this is a special reduced rate in effect until 30 June 2024)
  - Common bread, as well as frozen common bread dough and frozen common bread intended exclusively to produce common bread
  - Bread-making flours
  - The following types of milk produced by any animal species: natural, certified, pasteurized, concentrated, skimmed, sterilized, UHT, evaporated and powdered
  - Cheeses
  - Eggs
  - Fruits, vegetables, legumes, tubers and cereals, which have the condition of natural products in accordance with the Food Code and the dispositions dictated for its development

Examples of goods and services taxable at 4%

- Books, journals and magazines
- Pharmaceutical products for humans
- Certain goods and services for handicapped persons
- Public subsidized housing when it is delivered by the promoters

- Leases with an option to purchase public subsidized housing
- Feminine hygiene and contraceptive products

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Olive and seed oils and pastas (this is a special reduced rate in place until 30 June 2024)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Food and drink for human or animal consumption
- Pharmaceutical products for animals
- Prescription glasses and contact lenses
- Certain medical equipment
- Services related to agricultural and livestock activities
- Residential dwellings
- Passenger transport
- Hotel and restaurant services
- Garbage collection
- Trade fairs and exhibitions
- Cinema tickets
- Cultural live shows/entertainment
- Supply of electricity (until 31 December 2024)
- Supply of gas (until 31 March 2024)
- Supply of briquettes and pellets of biomass and wood for firewood (until 30 June 2024)

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Immovable property, in certain cases
- Medical services
- Finance
- Insurance
- Universal postal services

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Taxable persons may opt to pay tax on supplies of real estate (land or buildings) if:

- The recipient has the right, total or partial, to deduct input tax.
  Or
- The recipient has no right to deduct input tax, but the goods acquired would be destined, totally or partially, to carry out operations giving the right to deduct input tax.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when the goods are placed at the disposal of the purchaser. The basic time of supply for services is when the service is performed. If the service is ancillary to a supply of goods, the time of supply is when the goods are placed at the disposal of the purchaser. A VAT invoice must generally be issued at the time of supply.

Deposits and prepayments. The tax point for prepayments or advance payments is the date when the advance payment is received.

Continuous supplies of services. The tax point for supplies of continuous supplies of services is when each payment is due.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Spain for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, where the goods are returned, the taxable amount must be modified, and a rectifying invoice should be issued from the supplier.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Spain for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. The tax point for supplies of leased assets is when each payment is due.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the date of importation (according to the customs documents) or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

Intra-Community acquisitions. The tax point for intra-Community acquisitions is the following:
- The 15th day of the month following the commencement of the dispatch or transport date of the goods to the acquirer
- The issuance date of the invoice documenting the supply, if it is issued prior to the commencement of the dispatch/transport

  Or
- The general rule for pre-payments does not apply to intra-Community supplies and acquisitions of goods, i.e., prepayment does not modify the tax point

Intra-Community supplies of goods. The time of supply will take place:
- The 15th day of the month following the commencement of the dispatch or transport date of the goods to the acquirer

  Or
- The issuance date of the invoice documenting the supply, if it is issued prior to the commencement of the dispatch/transport

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in Spain for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is tax charged on supplies made. Input tax may be deducted in the accounting period in which the output tax was charged or in any successive period, up to a period of four years from the time of supply.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Spain, VAT paid on imports of goods, and VAT self-assessed on intra-Community acquisitions of goods and reverse-charge transactions.

A valid tax invoice or customs document is required to apply for input tax deduction.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Spain is four years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used directly and exclusively for business purposes. In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

In general, input tax may be claimed with respect to travel, hotel and restaurant expenses if the Spanish corporate income tax law allows for a deduction.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Business entertainment

- Business gifts (unless of very low value)
- Alcohol and tobacco
- Private expenditure

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- 50% of purchase, hiring, leasing, maintenance and fuel for cars, vans and trucks (a higher percentage of deduction is allowed if the taxable person provides to the authorities the evidence proving that the percentage of time used for business purposes exceeds 50%)
- Attending conferences, seminars and training courses
- Advertising
- Business use of home telephone or mobile phone
- 50% of parking
- Taxis, restaurant meals, hotel accommodation and travel expenses if the expense is allowable under the Spanish income tax or corporate tax law or if the taxable person has the appropriate documentation (generally, an invoice)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is, as a rule, not recoverable. If a Spanish taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. The amount of input tax that a partially exempt business may recover is calculated using the general pro rata method or the direct allocation method. The general pro rata method is usually used unless the taxable person chooses the direct allocation method. However, the direct allocation method must be used if the general pro rata method provides a VAT recovery amount that exceeds by 10% or more the amount of input tax recoverable using the direct allocation method.

General pro rata method. The general pro rata method is based on the ratio of taxable turnover and total turnover during the calendar year. Because the taxable person cannot know its annual ratio for the current calendar year when filing its periodic VAT returns, the pro rata percentage for the preceding year or an agreed provisional percentage is used. The calculation is regularized in the last period of the VAT year (i.e., the actual figures for the year are calculated and applied and any further adjustment is made).

Direct allocation method. The direct allocation method consists of the following two-stage calculation:

- In the first stage, the taxable person must distinguish between input tax that corresponds to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible.
- The remaining input tax that is not allocated directly to exempt and taxable supplies is apportioned using the general pro rata method. The recovery percentage is rounded up to the nearest whole number (e.g., a percentage of 16.3% is rounded up to 17%).
- Taxable persons can opt for the direct allocation method in December of the current year. That method is then applied to the deductions for that whole year and in the following two years.

Deductions in different sectors. If a taxable person undertakes activities in different economic sectors, it must apply different methods to calculate the partial exemption deduction for each sector, as if each economic activity were carried out by an independent business. This rule applies if the business undertakes activities that are subject to different pro rata recovery percentages. A business is deemed to undertake such activities in the following circumstances:

- The activities fall under different groups according to the national classification of economic activities.
- The pro rata percentage for VAT recovery for one economic sector of the business differs by more than 50 percentage points (either higher or lower) from another sector of the business.

If goods or services are used in one of the distinct economic sectors, the VAT paid is recovered according to the pro rata recovery percentage for that sector. However, if goods or services are used by more than one economic sector, the amount of VAT recovered must be based on the general pro rata method.

For the direct allocation method (i.e., the standard partial exemption method), if the application of this method is compulsory because the 10% requirement is exceeded (as per the details outlined above), in the last VAT return of the calendar year (i.e., the December period), the taxable person must indicate the application of this regime and present a census form informing the tax authorities of the application.

For the special methods, i.e., the different sector methods, where goods or services are used in one of the distant economic sectors, the pro rata recovery percentage for that sector must be used. These methods are mandatory, and as such taxable persons are not required to submit a census form reporting to the tax authorities of its application.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over one year and that have an acquisition price exceeding EUR3,005.06. Input tax is deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired and first used. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's pro rata recovery percentage in the VAT year of acquisition and first use. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted over time if the taxable person's pro rata recovery percentage differs by 10 percentage points during the adjustment period or if the goods are transferred or sold during the adjustment period.

In Spain, the capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:

- Immovable property: adjusted for a period of 10 years (the year of the acquisition and first use and the following nine calendar years)
- Movable property: adjusted for a period of five years (the year of the acquisition and first use and the following four calendar years)

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of acquisition and first use, to a fraction of the total input tax (1/10 for immovable property and 1/5 for other movable capital goods). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business increases or decreases, compared with the year in which the capital goods were acquired and first used. In Spain, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable exceeds the amount of output tax payable, a refund may be claimed. A business may choose to request a refund of the excess VAT or to carry it forward to offset output tax in the following four years.

Two different procedures are available with respect to applications for refund of the excess input tax. These procedures are summarized below.

General procedure. Under the general procedure, the taxable person may only apply for the refund in the last VAT return of the year (monthly or quarterly). The tax authorities have a six-month period beginning on the date of the application to analyze whether the taxable person has the right to obtain the refund. After such term is exceeded, delay interest on the refund due is payable to the taxable person.

Special procedure. Under the special procedure, the taxable person may apply for inclusion in the monthly VAT refund census. Taxable persons included in such a census may apply for the VAT refund in each monthly VAT return. The tax authorities have a six-month period beginning on the date of the application to analyze whether the taxable person has the right to obtain the refund. After such term is exceeded, delay interest on the refund due is payable to the taxable person. However, as of the month following the request, the company will be obliged to submit the information related to its invoices through the "Immediate Submission of Information" (ISI) (Suministro Inmediato de Información [SII]) system.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Spain is not recoverable. However, the Spanish courts have accepted it in certain cases.

Bad debts. Entities with an annual turnover of EUR6,010,121 or lower could consider that a credit qualifies as bad debt, and thus, the taxable amount could be modified once six months or one year has elapsed as of the date of the accrual.

The term to amend the taxable base is extended from one to three months, as of the date of bankruptcy declaration.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Spain.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Spain is recoverable. The Spanish VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Spain. Non-established businesses may claim Spanish VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 2008/9/EC Directive. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Spain during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Find below specific rules for Spain:
- The Spanish VAT authorities have made the commitment to pay refunds within six months after the date on which the claim for a refund is submitted, but if additional information is requested, the reimbursement procedure could take up to eight months. Interest is paid on late refunds.
- The deadline for claiming the Spanish input VAT would be the 30th of September of the following year.
- Claims must be submitted using VAT refund claim Form 360.
- Invoices supporting transactions whose taxable base exceeds the amount of EUR1,000 would have to be attached to the VAT refund claim.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive.

Spain applies the principle of reciprocity; meaning the country where the claimant is established must also provide VAT refunds to Spanish businesses. Spanish VAT is only refunded on the condition of reciprocity to taxable persons of Canada, Israel, Japan, Monaco, Norway, Switzerland and the UK (as from January 2021).

Find below specific rules for Spain:
- Non-EU businesses that apply for the refund should appoint a representative that is established in Spain, which should comply with the tax formalities and is jointly liable when applying for the VAT refund.
- The refund procedure starts with the submission of the documents that support the claim with the submission of Tax Form 361.
- The application must be submitted electronically by the fiscal representative of the non-established business in Spain. The amount to be refunded can cover the VAT accrued in the year before the application. The deadline for submitting the application is September 30th of the following year.

- The following documents should be submitted to support the claim:
  - A draft letter with information of the company (such as name, tax ID, address, telephone number, email address), a description of the activities performed by the company in Spain, the VAT period of claiming, the total amount of the refund and a bank account where the refund should be received
  - A commitment to reimburse any amount wrongly received and the statement through which the non-EU business states that no other activity other than that described in the draft letter is being performed in Spain
  - A certificate granted by the tax authorities of the country where the taxable person is established that states that the company performs economic activities
  - A list of the documents that originate the right to deduct input VAT must be available for the STA.; it would be advisable to provide the tax authority with a copy of those documents anticipating its future request

Late payment interest. The tax authorities have a six-month period beginning on the date of the application to analyze whether the taxable person has the right to obtain the refund. After such term is exceeded, delay interest on the refund due is payable to the taxable person. The administrative delay interest for 2023 is 4.06253%. However, at the time of preparing this chapter, the 2024 rate for delay interest has not been approved.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Spanish taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports and intra-Community supplies. VAT invoices are not automatically required for certain transactions if the taxable amount does not exceed EUR400 (EUR3,000 for certain retail transactions). Simplified invoices are issued instead, unless requested by the customer.

A VAT invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction or a refund under the EU 2008/9/EC Directive or the EU 13th Directive refund schemes (see the chapter on the EU).

Credit notes. The Spanish Invoicing Regulations do not foresee the so-called "credit notes" or "debit notes" and consequently the invoices are amended through a rectifying invoice (factura rectificativa), which must be cross-referenced to the original invoice and must contain the same information together with the reason for the amendment and the final corrected position.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Spain for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Spain. This is in line with EU Directive 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU). This has been in effect from 15 January 2015.

For B2B and B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Spain. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU (see the chapter on the EU). However, for B2B supplies, electronic invoicing will become mandatory and soon take effect. The Spanish government recently released a draft implementing regulation. It was approved though law 18/2022, dated 28 September 2022, and will enter into force according to the following deadlines, which are linked to the approval of the implementing regulation (Royal Decree):

- Companies with an annual turnover exceeding EUR8 million: one year after the date of the approval of the implementing regulation
- All other companies and professionals: two years after the date of the approval of the implementing regulation

After the public hearing period, which was due 10 July 2023, the Royal Decree will have to be submitted to the Council of State for its opinion, then approved by the Council of Ministers and finally published in the Official State Gazette (Boletín Oficial del Estado [BOE]). The Royal Decree will not be approved and published before the end of 2023. At the time of preparing this chapter there are no further developments.

The new obligation has two main objectives. First, it aims to combat late payments in commercial transactions. Second, it seeks to promote the digitalization of Spanish companies, especially smaller ones. Under the new requirement, all invoices must be submitted to a public e-invoicing solution, providing details on their content and status. This will enable the Spanish tax authorities to monitor payment deadlines.

The new Spanish e-invoicing system will operate through:
- Private e-invoice platforms that are required to meet the requirements set out in the implementing regulation.
- A public e-invoicing solution that will be run by the Spanish tax authorities (Agencia Estatal de Administración Tributaria).

Companies and professionals must issue, send and receive the B2B e-invoices through the private e-invoicing platforms, the public e-invoicing solution or a combination of both. If the exchange of the e-invoices takes place directly between private e-invoice platforms, an automatically generated copy of each e-invoice must be submitted to the public e-invoicing solution. The public e-invoicing solution will become an e-invoice repository that will (i) allow the Spanish tax authorities to monitor the e-invoices´ content and status, and (ii) entitle the e-invoicing recipients to check the received e-invoices via the public e-invoicing solution.

Companies and professionals affected by the new e-invoicing obligation are primarily those who are Spanish-based or have a permanent established in Spain intervening in the B2B transaction. Some exclusions are provided for certain types of invoices. The draft implementing regulation details the semantic data model of the core elements of the e-invoice and the list of syntaxes allowed. Private e-invoice platform operators will be obliged to interconnect with any other private e-invoice platforms and to accept all interconnection requests. Under client permission, operators might use the public electronic invoicing solution to interconnect.

The recipients of the e-invoices must inform issuers of the following invoice statuses:
- Commercial acceptance or rejection of the invoice and associated date
- Full effective payment of the invoice and associated date; companies obliged to comply with the Spanish electronic VAT books (SII 1 system) must process the effective payment and associated date through an SII book of received invoices within a very tight four-day timeframe

The implementing regulation sets out the technical requirements to be met by the private e-invoice platforms.

Lastly, the Spanish tax authorities will develop a free e-form, which will enable small businesses and professionals to generate the e-invoices and send them to recipients and the Spanish tax authorities under certain circumstances.

The Immediate Submission of Information (ISI) (Suministro Inmediato de Información [SII]) system moves from a system that has been in place for the last 30 years to a new system whereby VAT books are registered with the electronic office of the Spanish tax authorities by supplying invoice information on an almost immediate basis. Companies will be required to keep VAT books with the electronic office of the Spanish tax authorities, by electronically providing invoice details. In this regard, companies are required to send the Spanish tax authorities their invoice data and the Spanish tax authorities will use this information to configure the different VAT books of the company in real time.

In addition, the Spanish tax authorities will use the ISI system to cross-check in real-time the information provided by suppliers and clients. Therefore, discrepancies between information provided by the company and information provided by third parties should be avoided, as they can be immediately detected by the Spanish tax authorities and could have negative consequences for both parties. For more detail on the ISI, see the subsection Digital tax administration below.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the EU.

Simplified VAT invoices. The Spanish Invoicing Regulation foresees, in its Article 4, a list of transactions and circumstances under which the transactions can be documented by a simplified invoice (replacing the former "tickets"). Simplified invoices can be generally used if the amount of the invoice does not exceed the threshold of EUR400 (VAT included) and for amending invoices.

In particular, if the amount of the invoice does not exceed the threshold of EUR3,000 (VAT included) and the transactions correspond to the following supplies:
- Ambulance supply of goods or supply of services
- Home delivered supply of goods or supply of services
- Passenger and luggage transport services
- Hotel and catering services provided by restaurants and similar establishments, as well as the supply of drinks or meals to be consumed immediately
- Services provided by dance halls and discotheques
- Telephone services provided through the use of telephone booths for public use, as well as through cards that do not allow identification of the person who is phoning
- Hairdressing services and those provided by beauty institutes
- Use of sports halls
- Photo development and services provided by photographic studios
- Parking services
- Movie rental
- Dry cleaning and laundry services
- Use of toll roads

In addition, the Spanish invoicing regulation is not in line with the EU rules (which foresee the general invoicing exemption, e.g., for OSS distance sales). Instead, in Spain the supplier must issue invoices under the Spanish invoicing regulation when it applies to the OSS and IOSS scheme, being that Spain is the Member State of Identification.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Spain. Self-billing by the recipient of the transaction is allowed in Spain when the following conditions are met:
- There must be an agreement through which the supplier authorizes the recipient to issue the invoice.
- The recipient must forward a copy of the invoice to the supplier, who must accept and approve the invoice.
- These invoices are considered to have been issued in the name and on behalf of the supplier.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods or on intra-Community supplies of goods (see the chapter on the EU). However, to qualify as zero-rated, exports and intra-Community supplies they must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Spain. Acceptable proof includes the following documentation:
- For an export, the documentation consists of the customs declaration (export SAD) with evidence that it was filed and admitted by the customs authorities, transport documents and an indication on the invoice of the article of the Spanish VAT law that allows exemption with credit for the supply.
- For an intra-Community supply, the supplier must retain a copy of the invoice indicating the customer's valid VAT identification number (issued by another EU Member State), together with a range of commercial documentation, such as bills of lading, transport documentation and proof of payment. Such proof for intra-Community supplies is included within the EU Quick Fixes, coming into effect from 1 January 2020. See the subsection on Quick Fixes above for more information.

No special documentation applies in Spain for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply.

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the values for VAT purposes and the VAT amounts must be converted to the domestic currency, which is the euro (EUR). The exchange rate that is used must be the official selling rate published by the Bank of Spain for the date on which the VAT is due. The VAT amount must be expressly stated in EUR.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. The Spanish Invoicing Regulation foresees, in its Article 4, a list of transactions that can be documented by a simplified invoice (replacing the former "tickets"), for instance in a retail supply (see the subsection above on Simplified VAT invoices).

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In Spain, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include all invoices issued and received, customs documents and accountancy documents.

The ISI system is the record-keeping system in Spain. Under the system, the information related to all the records listed above must be transmitted electronically and almost immediately to the Spanish tax authorities, so that the Spanish tax authorities have all of the information relating to the operations carried out by taxable persons in real time. In particular, the information related to each invoice issued or received must be electronically communicated to the Spanish tax authority within four working days of the date of its issuance or from the date it was accounted for, respectively. For further details, see the Digital tax administration subsection below.

In Spain, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. A taxable person can keep records electronically outside of Spain only if there is a mutual assistance agreement in place with the country where the records are kept. If not, the taxable person should inform the Spanish tax authorities accordingly for approval to keep such records outside of Spain.

Record retention period. For VAT (and tax) purposes, taxable persons are obliged to retain such records for four years, as this is the statute of limitations period. However, the Spanish Commercial Code expresses the generic obligation, for civil and commercial law purposes, that businesses are obliged to retain such records for a period of six years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Spain. The Invoicing Regulation envisages the obligation of keeping the invoices in a format that ensures their readability, authenticity and content. This obligation can be fulfilled by electronic means if the above requirements are met.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Periodic VAT returns are submitted in Spain on a monthly or quarterly basis, depending on the taxable person's turnover and activities.

Taxable persons whose turnover in the previous year exceeded EUR6,010,121 must file their VAT returns on a monthly basis. Taxable persons included in the monthly VAT refund census must also file monthly VAT returns (and the VAT books), because they are entitled to apply for a VAT refund on a monthly basis. Taxable persons within a VAT group must also submit VAT returns on a monthly basis.

Monthly VAT returns must be submitted by the 20th day of the month following the month of the assessment.

Quarterly VAT returns must be submitted by the 20th day of the month following the end of the quarter for the first three calendar quarters and by 30 January of the following year for the last calendar quarter.

Periodic payments. For monthly VAT returns, full payment of the VAT due must be made by the 30th day of the month following the month of the assessment.

For quarterly VAT returns, full payment of the VAT due must be made by the 20th day of the month following the end of the quarter for the first three calendar quarters and by the 30th day of the month following the end of the fourth (and last) calendar quarter (i.e., 30 January).

Whether the VAT return results in a credit position, the taxable person should proceed with the payment to submit the VAT return. In this sense, there are some alternatives:

- The payment can be made through direct debit in a Spanish bank account of the taxable person. In those cases, the VAT return needs to be submitted at least five days before the end of each reporting period.
- The payment can be also made by using the Spanish bank account of the taxable person or even by using a debit card of the company from a Spanish bank account.
- If the company does not have a Spanish bank account, the payment could be done:
  - By a third party with a Spanish bank account
  - Through the procedure of "recognition of tax debt" and making a transfer to the bank of the authorities – this is a special procedure

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Spain for all taxable persons. A VAT return (Form 303) and the Informative Annual Summary VAT return (Form 390) must be filed through electronic means by using an electronic signature owned by the taxable person or a third party duly empowered. When a VAT return (Form 303) results in amounts to be paid, a Spanish bank account number is required.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Spain.

Special schemes. Travel agencies. There is a special scheme for travel agencies that includes, among others, the opt-out possibility in connection with B2B supplies where the normal VAT regime could be applied.

Cash accounting. Under the cash accounting scheme, taxable persons report the VAT charged on sales of goods or supply of services on the date when the payment is received and the right to deduct input tax arises when payment is made. The scheme is optional and is subject to certain requirements.

Simplified regime. The simplified regime allows taxable persons to determine the payable amount on the basis of certain indexes, modules and other parameters. This regime can only be applied by individuals and some other entities conducting certain activities envisaged by the law.

Farming, agriculture and fishing. Under this regime, taxable persons are not obliged to charge VAT for their sales and do not have the right to deduct the input tax borne in the purchases. Additionally, taxable persons are released from most of the formal obligations.

Secondhand, art and antique goods. The special system for secondhand goods is a type of VAT system, applied voluntarily to resellers when acting in their own name and supplying the goods referred to above. These supplies will be charged with VAT by applying the corresponding tax rate on a taxable basis, which will be the profit margin obtained in each transaction.

Investment gold. Mandatory regime applicable to the supplies of gold qualifying as investment gold. In general, the regime implies that the supplies of investment gold are VAT exempt, with a limitation to deduct the input tax and the possibility to waive such exemption.

Retailers. The regime is applicable to any retailers selling goods to final consumers, in case the retailer does not carry out any transformation over the goods to be sold. Under the retailer regime, the supplier of the retailer will charge the latter an extra cost in the invoices (in general 5.2%). By doing this, the retailer avoids all the formal obligations (i.e., submission of VAT returns), but it will not be entitled to deduct the input tax.

Annual returns. All taxable persons not applying the ISI system must complete an annual summary VAT return. The Informative Annual Summary VAT return (Form 390) contains information declared in the periodical VAT returns of the corresponding calendar years and additional information. It must be filed electronically between 1 January and 30 January of the following year.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. A Spanish taxable person that trades with goods with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of its EU sales or purchases of goods exceeds certain thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches).

The threshold for Intrastat Arrivals and Dispatches is EUR400,000.

The Intrastat return submission period is monthly. The submission deadline is the 12th day following each month. A taxable person required to file Intrastat returns must file them each month even if they are nil returns. Intrastat returns must be filed in EUR.

EU Sales and Acquisitions List. If a Spanish taxable person makes intra-Community supplies or intra-Community acquisitions of goods and/or services in any return period, it must submit an EU Sales and Acquisitions List (ESAL) return. An ESAL return is not required for any period in which the taxable person does not make any intra-Community supplies or acquisitions of goods and/or services.

In principle, ESAL returns are submitted on a monthly basis. However, ESAL returns must be filed on a quarterly basis if the intra-EU supplies of goods and/or services performed in the current quarter or during the four preceding calendar quarters do not exceed the threshold of EUR50,000.

ESAL returns must be submitted by the 20th day of the month following the end of the monthly or quarterly filing period. The last monthly or quarterly ESAL return for a year must be filed by 30 January of the following year.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In case the error causes prejudice to the Spanish tax authority (e.g., the right input tax is less than stated as deductible), the amendment should be done through the submission of a supplementary return. However, if the error is prejudicial for the taxable person's interest, in certain cases, it should amend it through the submission of a corrective letter applying for the amendment of the filed VAT return. In other cases, the amendment can be applied in the VAT return corresponding to the period in which the corrective invoice is issued or received.

In case the error is spotted before the deadline for submitting the VAT return, it can be amended through the filing of another VAT return, which is going to replace the one previously submitted.

All the above filings must be done online through the tax authorities' website (https://sede.agenciatributaria.gob.es/).

Digital tax administration. Immediate Submission of Information (ISI). The ISI system entered into force from 1 July 2017. Under the new system, the information related to all invoices issued and received, customs documents and accountancy documents, if any, must be transmitted electronically and almost immediately to the Spanish tax authorities, so that the Spanish tax authorities have all the information relating to the operations carried out by taxable persons in real time.

In particular, the information related to each invoice issued or received must be electronically communicated to the Spanish tax authority within four working days of the date of its issuance or from the date it was accounted for, respectively. The new system is compulsory for businesses and professionals who are required to file VAT returns on a monthly basis, in other words those who:
- Have a turnover of over EUR6 million
- Are included in the monthly refund regime
- Are applying the VAT grouping provisions

The system can be used by any other business or professional by filing a census form, whereby they expressly opt to be included in the system.

Taxable persons who are not obliged to comply with ISI must keep their VAT books in their ERP system and provide them to the Spanish tax authorities upon request. The VAT books must be provided to the Spanish tax authorities upon its request within the deadline provided by the authorities in said request, and as a general rule, this is generally 10 to 15 working days.

The deadline for filing VAT returns for taxable persons who file on a monthly basis is extended to the 30th day of the following month or for the return relating to January, until the last day of February. Additionally, taxable persons obliged to comply with the ISI are not obliged to file the annual summary and the annual return of transactions with third parties (Form 347).

Bookkeeping system for products subject to excise duties (i.e., SILICIE). As of 1 January 2020, compliance with bookkeeping requirements relating to products subject to excise duties and, when applicable, raw materials used in their production, will be carried out via the tax agency's e-office with the electronic delivery of accounting records. The Immediate Submission of Accounting Records for Excise Duties (El Suministro Inmediato de Información de Libros Contables de Impuestos Especiales (SILICIE) will be compulsory to the owners of factories, tax warehouses, tax stores, receiving warehouses and vinegar factories. Under the new system, the information related to the accounting records must be transmitted electronically and almost immediately to the Spanish tax authorities. In general terms, the information must be electronically communicated to the Spanish tax authorities within 24 hours of the date of the movement, the transaction or the process that is recorded.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A penalty of EUR400 may be assessed for late registration. This penalty may be reduced to EUR200 if the taxable person registers voluntarily (albeit late) without receiving a prior request from the Spanish tax authorities.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The following surcharges apply to the late submission of VAT returns or late payment of VAT before any request by the tax authorities:
- Delay up to 12 months: 1% of the tax due for each month of delay
- Delay longer than 12 months: 15% of the tax due plus delay interest

The penalty for late or incorrect Intrastat filings depends on the level of infringement. Penalties range from EUR60 to EUR30,050.

Penalties may be imposed for late, missing or inaccurate ESLs.

Penalties for ISI. Potential penalties that the Spanish tax authorities can impose for not complying with the ISI submission correctly:
- Lack of ISI submission – 1% of the turnover: in case of failing in the obligation to keep the VAT books of invoices through the ISI, the authorities can impose a penalty consisting of 1% of the turnover, with a minimum of EUR600 and without maximum.
- Delay in the ISI reporting – 0.5% of the invoice: the delay in the submission of data in the ISI might imply the imposition of a proportional pecuniary fine of 0.5% of the amount of the relevant invoice, with a minimum of EUR300 per quarter and a maximum of EUR6,000. This penalty may apply when the legal deadlines for reporting the invoices have been surpassed. The deadline for reporting the invoices is four working days as from the issuance date (in case of AR invoices) or posting date (in case of AP invoices), and in any case before the 16th of the following month.

- Inaccuracy or omission of transactions – 1% of the invoice: in case of inaccuracy or omission of transactions (e.g., invoices ISI reported but not correctly), the penalty would be 1% of the amount of the transactions recorded incorrectly, with a minimum of EUR150 and a maximum of EUR6,000.

Penalties for errors. The penalties for errors in VAT returns depend on whether mistakes have caused economic damage to the tax administration or not. If no economic damage has been produced, the penalty for late filing amounts to EUR200, while the penalty for incorrect filing amounts to EUR150. If an error has caused economic damage to the tax authorities (e.g., the taxable person indicates a lower amount of output/payable VAT) the penalty amounts to 50% of the unpaid amount.

For these penalties, an error means any inaccuracy or incorrect data indicated in the VAT returns or any VAT statement to be filed by taxable persons.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Under the Spanish General Tax law, the use of fraudulent means makes any infringement to qualify very severe. In such a case, the applicable penalty related to a particular infringement is considerably increased.

Personal liability for company officers. Company directors can be held liable for the tax debts of a company when, acting on purpose or even negligently, they have not performed the necessary acts to comply with tax requirements or they have agreed with not complying them. Furthermore, in certain cases, they can be held responsible for the penalties imposed on the company.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Spain is four years. This means that the tax authorities cannot review or assess VAT four years after of the VAT liquidation period or four years after of the moment of the infraction. If such period is interrupted according to the rules mentioned in this section, the four-year period of the statute of limitation calculation is re-initiated as from the interruption date.

Sri Lanka

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Colombo GMT +5½

EY
P.O. Box 101
201 De Saram Place
Colombo 10
Sri Lanka

Street address:
Level 5
20 Hedges Court
Colombo 10
Sri Lanka

Indirect tax contacts

Sulaiman Nishtar
+94 77 201 6021
sulaiman.nishtar@lk.ey.com

Ama Seresinhe
+94 77 5811 566
ama.seresinhe@lk.ey.com

Divyana Ranaweera
+94 70 771 8920
divyana.ranaweera@lk.ey.com

Risla Sheriffdeen
+94 77 438 5876
risla.sheriffdeen@lk.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
	Social Security Contribution Levy (SSCL)
Local name	Ekathu Kala Agaya Matha Badu (VAT Badda)
	Samaja Arakshana Dayakathwa Badu (Samaja Arakshana Badda)
Date introduced	1 August 2002 (VAT)
	1 October 2022 (SSCL)
Trading bloc membership	South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC)
Administered by	Sri Lanka Inland Revenue Department (DIR) (www.ird.gov.lk)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
SSCL rates
Standard	2.5%
VAT/SSCL number format	Tax identification number (TIN), nine-digit number with code number 7000 (e.g., 123456789-7000)
VAT/SSCL return periods	Quarterly (both), Monthly (VAT only)
Thresholds
VAT registration	Quarterly revenue of LKR20 million/annual revenue of LKR80 million (At the time of preparing this chapter, this has been proposed to decrease to LKR15 million per quarter or LKR60 million per annum but is not legally enacted.)

SSCL registration	LKR120 million (annual)/LKR30 million (quarter) (At the time of preparing this chapter, this has been proposed to decrease to LKR15 million per quarter or LKR60 million per annum but is not legally enacted.)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The taxable supply of goods or services by a registered person in the course of carrying out a taxable activity in Sri Lanka
- The importation of goods into Sri Lanka

VAT is charged at the time of supply on every taxable supply of goods or services made in a taxable period by a taxable person in the course of carrying on, or carrying out, a taxable activity by such person in Sri Lanka.

While only taxable persons (i.e., upon exceeding the relevant threshold) are liable to account for VAT on supplies made, all importers are liable to payment of VAT on the importation of goods.

Taxable activity means:
- Any activity that is carried on as a trade, business, profession or vocation (other than employment).
- In relation to a club, association or organization, it means the provision of the facilities for consideration (to its members or others) and the payment of a subscription.
- Anything done in connection with the commencement or cessation of any activity or provision of facilities referred to in the two points above).
- There is the hiring or leasing of any movable property or the renting or leasing of immovable property or the administration of any property.
- The exploitation of any intangible property, such as patents, copyrights or other similar assets, where such assets are registered in Sri Lanka, or the owner of such assets is domiciled in Sri Lanka.

With effect from October 1, 2022, SSCL is charged on every person who carries out the following:
- Imports any article.
- Carries on the business of manufacture of any article.
- Carries on the business of providing any service.
- Carries on the business of wholesale or retail sale of any article (including import and sale).

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Sri Lanka, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Sri Lanka. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

There will be no SSCL liability on the transfer of a business on the basis that it does not arise as a result of transactions carried out in pursuance of a business of manufacture, wholesale and retail or provision of services.

Transactions between related parties. In Sri Lanka, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value.

In relation to VAT, if a transaction is between two associated persons, the assessor shall determine the open market value of the supply on which tax shall be charged, having regard to the circumstances of the transaction and the time of supply entered into a transaction, in respect of which the sale of any article or the provision of any service has been made where it is of the opinion that the transaction has happened at less than the open market value (resulting in the avoidance of paying tax).

Similarly, under SSCL, the Assistant Commissioner shall, having regard to the circumstances of the transaction and the time period of the sale of such article or the provision of such service, determine the open market value of such article or service on which the levy shall be charged where it is of the opinion that the transaction has happened at less than the open market value (resulting in the avoidance of paying tax).

C. Who is liable

A "registered person" in terms of the Sri Lanka VAT Act is a taxable person and liable for VAT on the taxable supply of goods and services. This includes any "company" or "body of persons" that makes taxable supplies of goods and/or services in the course of carrying out a taxable activity in Sri Lanka and who is registered for VAT.

VAT registration is required if the taxable supplies exceed LKR20 million per quarter or LKR80 million per annum. At the time of preparing this chapter, this has been proposed to decrease to LKR15 million per quarter or LKR60 million per annum but is not legally enacted.

Further, where any person has proved to the satisfaction of the Commissioner General of the Inland Revenue Department (CGIR), that such person has commenced any business or any project in Sri Lanka and undertakes to make taxable supplies in respect of such business or project within a period of 30 months from commencement of such operation, then the CGIR may register such person, i.e., Section 22 (7). Furthermore, if the CGIR, having regard to the nature of the activity, is of the opinion that a person is required to register, such person must register for VAT.

For SSCL, a person carrying out a business of manufacturing, provision of services or wholesale and retail who exceeds the relevant threshold and persons importing goods to Sri Lanka, are liable for SSCL. A person whose turnover exceeds LKR120 million within 12 months immediately prior to the date of operation of this law is required to register within 15 days of the law coming into operation, i.e., 1 October 2022. Any other person who has turnover exceeding LKR30 million per quarter (or expects the turnover to so exceed) is required to register within 15 days. At the time of preparing this chapter, this has been proposed to decrease to LKR15 million per quarter or LKR60 million per annum but is not legally enacted.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Sri Lanka does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. If a taxable person has commenced making taxable supplies irrespective of whether the value of taxable supplies has reached the relevant threshold, any such taxable person who wishes to register for VAT can apply for registration voluntarily. The application is to be reviewed by the CGIR and it may be refused.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Sri Lanka.

Fixed establishment. In Sri Lanka, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. Only taxable persons carrying out taxable activities in Sri Lanka are liable to register for VAT upon satisfying the relevant threshold. Businesses that have no presence (i.e., no premises, employees or agents) in Sri Lanka are not obliged to register for VAT to carry out taxable activities involving the supply of goods and/or services to persons in Sri Lanka from outside Sri Lanka.

However, if such a taxable person carries on a taxable activity and supplies goods and/or services in Sri Lanka through an agent in Sri Lanka who is acting on behalf of the non-established business, then such agent will be liable to VAT on such supply made on behalf of the non-established business. In Sri Lanka, a taxable activity can be carried on by a non-established business in more ways than via an agent (e.g., via a legal presence/employees). Therefore, a non-established business would not be required to register for VAT unless it carries on a taxable activity in Sri Lanka (directly or via an agent).

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Sri Lanka.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge does not apply in Sri Lanka. Where a non-established business (i.e., a nonresident person) carries out a business in Sri Lanka that would give rise to a taxable activity, such persons will be required to register for VAT if the relevant threshold has been exceeded. Upon registration, the nonresident person carrying out the taxable activity in Sri Lanka will be required to charge VAT on the supplies made and account for the same.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Sri Lanka.

Digital economy. There are no special VAT rules applicable to the digital economy, electronically supplied services or e-commerce in Sri Lanka. Hence, general VAT rules will apply. If the digital services are provided during the course of carrying out a taxable activity in Sri Lanka, an exposure will arise (subject to any exemptions/zero ratings that may be applicable), provided the relevant threshold is satisfied.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) supplies, would be required to register and account for VAT in Sri Lanka once its supplies exceed the registration threshold.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Sri Lanka.

Registration procedures. VAT. A person can obtain a tax identification number (TIN) registration by submitting the relevant documents to the Department of Inland Revenue (DIR) in person or online. This would take approximately two weeks if all the documents are in place.

The relevant documents required to be submitted for registration may vary depending on the person applying for it (e.g., an individual, a foreign company, a resident company). Generally, a resident company can obtain a TIN if the following is submitted with the relevant application form:

- Certificate of incorporation (Form 2A)
- Application for registration of a company (Form 1) (Certified copy issued by the registrar of companies)
- Articles of association with signatures of the shareholders
- Photocopies of the National Identity Card of the directors

Once the taxable person obtains the TIN from the DIR, the person can complete the VAT registration form and submit it to the DIR. This form can be obtained in person (from the Tax Registration Unit) and online (e-services). This can be submitted in person to the Taxpayer's Service

Unit (TPSU) of the DIR, in person or sent by post. It can also be submitted online. The following documents must be submitted with the application:
• TIN certification
• Certificate of business registration

In case of a limited liability company, in addition to the above, the following will be required:
• Articles of association
• List of directors
• Certificate of incorporation
• Copy of the National Identity Cards of the directors of the business
• Particulars of sales to prove the turnover
• Monthly bank statements to verify cash receipts.

A VAT registration may take three to four weeks if all the relevant documents are in place. Upon registration, a VAT Registration Certificate will be issued by the DIR.

SSCL. For SSCL, the application form can be sent to the relevant unit at the tax authority by hand delivery, registered post or through email. However, if the request is made by email, the original application must be sent to the relevant unit.

Deregistration. A taxable person may make an application to have its registration canceled at any time after the lapse of a period of 12 months following the date of registration, where such taxable person has ceased to carry on or carry out a taxable activity or the total value of its supplies during any taxable period within such period does not exceed the VAT registration threshold.

Changes to VAT registration details. Every taxable person must notify the CGIR in writing or by electronic means no later than 14 days after the occurrence of the following changes:
• Name, address and place at which any taxable activity was carried on or carried out by such a person
• Nature of the taxable activity that was carried on or carried out by such person
• Person authorized to sign returns and other documents
• Ownership of the taxable activity

Every taxable person who fails to notify the CGIR of the above changes shall be guilty of an offense under the VAT Act and shall be liable on conviction after summary trial before a magistrate to a fine not exceeding LKR25,000, or to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding six months or both such fine and imprisonment.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
• Standard rate: 18%
• Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

The standard rate of VAT increased from 15% to 18% with effect from 1 January 2024. Previously when the standard rate was 15%, there was a separate special rate at 18% for financial services. As the increased standard rate is now the same as the previous special rate, the special rate is no longer effective.

SSCL is charged at 2.5% on the liable turnover. The liable turnover in respect of each of the taxable persons shall be as follows:

- Importer: 100% of the import value
- Manufacturer: 85% of the turnover (which is the sum receivable from the manufacture and sale of any article in Sri Lanka)
- Registered distributor: 25% of the turnover (which is the sum receivable from the wholesale or retail sale of any article in Sri Lanka)
- Wholesale and retail (other than by registered distributors): 50% of the turnover (which is the sum receivable from the wholesale of any article in Sri Lanka)
- Service provider:
  - Supply of financial services: 100% of the value addition attributable to financial services
  - Real estate and improvements: 100% of the turnover (which is sale value – market value of the bare land to date of sale)
  - Services other than the above: 100% of the turnover (which is the sum receivable from the provision of service in Sri Lanka)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0% for VAT

- Export of goods where payment is received in foreign currency within six months from the end of the taxable period of which such exportation took place
- Services directly connected with movable and immovable property outside Sri Lanka for which payment is received in foreign currency within a period of six months from the end of the taxable period of which supply of such service is provided
- International transportation of goods or passengers
- Repair of any foreign ship or aircraft and refurbishment of marine cargo containers
- Services provided in Sri Lanka that are consumed or utilized outside Sri Lanka to the extent that the payment for such services are received in foreign currency through a bank in Sri Lanka within a period of six months from the end of the taxable period of which supply of such service is provided

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services for VAT

- Supply of bread, rice, rice flour provided such products are manufactured locally
- Import or supply of infant milk powder
- Supply of health care services other than hospital room charges
- Supply of locally manufactured surgical gauze used for surgery
- Supply or import of crude petroleum oil, kerosene, aviation fuel, oil for ships or fuel oil specified under the HS code description for custom purposes
- Services provided in Sri Lanka consumed or utilized outside Sri Lanka for which payment is made in LKR

Examples of exempt supplies for SSCL

- Wholesale and retail of the following:
  - Pharmaceuticals
  - Articles subject to the Special Commodity Levy, where the article is sold by the importer without any processing except for adaptation for sale
  - Any article exported
- Services of the following:
  - Medical services
  - Services of an auctioneer, broker, insurance agent or commission agent of any local product to the extent of the brokerage/commission receivable

  - Life insurance
  - Services provided to the Central Bank of Sri Lanka
  - Services provided by a public corporation out of funds from the Consolidated Fund or a loan arranged by the government
  - Services provided by any government department, ministry or local authority
  - Services provided to UN agencies/specialized agencies, diplomatic missions
  - Services provided by the EPF, ETF, pension fund, provident fund, pension trust fund and gratuity fund
  - Distribution, production and supply and exhibition of films in a cinema
- Import of
  - Articles (not being plant, machinery and fixtures) for the use in, or for, the maintenance of any article for export
  - LP Gas
  - Petroleum and petrol products
  - Fertilizer

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Sri Lanka.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

The time of supply for the supply of goods is the earliest of the following events:
- Date of invoice
- Due date of payment
- Date of receipt of payment/advance
- Delivery of the goods

However, if the invoice is issued within 10 days of delivery, then the time of supply is the date of the invoice.

The time of supply for the supply of services is the earliest of the following events:
- When the invoice is issued.
- When the payment is due.
- When the payment is received.
- When the services are performed.

However, if the invoice is issued within 10 days of performing the service, then the time of supply is the date of the invoice.

Deposits and prepayments. A refundable deposit given in respect of a supply of goods or services is not considered as payment made for that supply unless the supplier treats the deposit as consideration for the supply. Accordingly, a refundable deposit of this nature is not treated within the scope of VAT.

There are no special time of supply rules in Sri Lanka for deposits and prepayments, where they are considered as payments made for a supply of goods or services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Sri Lanka for continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, in situations where an agreement provides for periodic payments the time of supply will be when the payment is due or when the payment is received (whichever is earlier).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Sri Lanka for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). As referred to above, in situations where an agreement provides for periodic payments the time of supply will be when the payment is due or when the payment is received (whichever is earlier).

Reverse-charge services. The reverse charge does not apply in Sri Lanka. As such, there are no special time of supply rules in Sri Lanka for supplies of reverse-charge services.

Leased assets. Leasing is treated as a supply of service. For the supply of leased assets (i.e., governed by agreements that provide for periodic payments), the time of supply is when each installment/rental is paid or where the payment is due. As such, separate tax invoices shall be issued for each installment/rental and the output tax is payable on such invoices. The supply of finance leases will be subject to VAT on financial services (see the Special schemes subsection below).

Imported goods. The time of supply rule for imported goods is the time at which goods are cleared (i.e., at the presentation of the Customs Declaration) by Customs and leave Customs or the Customs-bonded warehouse.

SSCL. The time of supply for SSCL is as follows:

Imported goods. The levy is chargeable at the time such article is imported and collected by the Director General of Customs. The Director General of Customs will make an endorsement on the import invoice relating to such article specifying the amount so collected. This amount is deemed to have been paid to the CGIR on the day on which such amount was so collected by the Director General of Customs.

Manufactured articles. The levy is chargeable at the time the sum is receivable whether received or not, in that quarter, of any article manufactured and sold in Sri Lanka.

Wholesale and retail sale. The levy is chargeable at the time the sum is receivable, whether received or not, from the wholesale or retail sale of any article in Sri Lanka. Services. The levy is chargeable at the time the sum is receivable, whether received or not, from the provision of any service in Sri Lanka.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is the VAT paid by the taxable person on the local purchase of goods and services that were used by it in its trade or business, and any VAT paid on the imports used in such business.

A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax (deduction is restricted to 100% of the output tax), which is the VAT charged on supplies made. For further details on the refund procedure, as well as what happens if a taxable person has excess input tax, see the Refunds subsection below.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Sri Lanka is 12 months from the date of the tax invoice. The input tax should be declared and claimed in the VAT return on or before the expiry of 12 months from the date of such tax invoice. For any imports, the input tax should be declared and claimed before the expiry of 24 months from the date of the customs declaration. If the taxable person declares the input tax in the VAT return within the said period, it can be carried forward in the return until it can be set off against the output tax.

A valid tax invoice or customs goods declaration should generally accompany a claim for input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax credit for VAT cannot be claimed on purchases of goods and services that are not attributable to taxable supplies made by the taxable person. In addition, input tax may not be claimed in respect of certain items of business expenditure.

Under SSCL, there is no mechanism to recover input tax incurred.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Private expenditure where such goods and services are not included in the value of taxable supplies
- Expenditure directly connected to exempt supplies
- Input tax not supported by a valid tax invoice

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Professional services
- Business telephones
- Advertising
- Conferences and seminars

Partial exemption. If a taxable person is engaged in making taxable and exempt supplies (i.e., mixed supplies), only the input tax credit that is relevant to the taxable supplies (i.e., the supplies that are liable to VAT) will be allowed as an input tax deduction against the output tax.

In such cases, the input tax must be apportioned between the amount attributable to taxable supplies and the amount attributable to exempt supplies. Input tax relating to the taxable supplies and the exempt supplies should be separately identified. Accordingly, what is allowed as input tax deduction would be the amount attributable to the taxable supplies.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Sri Lanka. Special methods are not allowed in Sri Lanka.

Capital goods. Input tax on the purchase of capital goods that are used in taxable business activities can be fully claimed. The input tax incurred on the acquisition of a capital asset can be deducted in the taxable period in which it was acquired. Normal input tax rules apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a taxable period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, the taxable person has an input tax credit or input tax surplus. This excess of the input tax cannot be refunded but can be set off against the output tax of the succeeding taxable period.

However, where a taxable person makes an excess payment to the DIR (such as an excess in a tax payment or penalty payment), during a taxable period, then within three years from the end of such taxable period, such taxable person shall be entitled to a refund of the amount paid in excess upon an application for such refund. However, practically, an audit is conducted before a refund is awarded.

Further, any taxable person who has registered under the following categories can claim refunds:

- Exporters or providers of zero-rated services
- A manufacturer that supplies goods (deemed an exporter) manufactured by itself to an exporter
- A value-added service provider who provides services to an exporter that results in improvement of the quality, character or value of the goods manufactured for export
- A project approved by the CGIR under Section 22 (7)
- Any supplier who supplies goods or services to a specified project or a strategic development project

A simplified value-added tax (SVAT) scheme is in place in Sri Lanka to help mitigate processing refunds. For further details, see the subsection Special schemes below.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Sri Lanka is not recoverable.

Bad debts. The amount of tax corresponding to any bad debt incurred in the taxable activity of a taxable person on a debt created on or after 1 April 1998 and that has become bad during such taxable period can be deducted in ascertaining the taxable supply. The amount of tax deductible shall not exceed the amount paid as tax in a previous taxable period in respect of the debt that is to be written off.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Sri Lanka.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Sri Lanka is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide a tax invoice within 28 days for all taxable supplies made to other taxable persons if a request is made within 14 days. A tax invoice should indicate the value of supply and the VAT charged separately, whereas a normal invoice should indicate only the VAT inclusive total consideration. All invoices should contain the VAT registration number, serial number of the invoice, and name and address of the supplier. A VAT invoice is essential to support a claim for deduction of input tax by a taxable person who received the supply.

A taxable person is not entitled to issue a tax invoice to an unregistered person. The invoice to an unregistered person should consist of the total consideration of such supply, including the tax charged.

Credit notes. A credit note must be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply made to a taxable person, i.e., if VAT has been overcharged in the original invoice. A credit note must be cross-referenced to the original tax invoice, must detail the reasons for the adjustment, should be in the form specified by the CGIR and must contain a serial number. However, the adjustment can be made only if the tax credit note has been issued within six months after the issue of the original tax invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Sri Lanka, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Sri Lanka. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Sri Lanka. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

However, the DIR may refuse to accept digitally signed invoices/electronic invoices. Hence, the issuance of paper invoices is recommended if any invoices are requested for inspection in the case of a tax audit by the DIR.

Simplified VAT invoices. Supplies to a registered identified purchaser (RIP) can be made on a suspended tax invoice showing the VAT component as "suspended VAT." Suspended VAT means no VAT is charged on the supply. Such suspended invoices should be issued without any delay. Before making supplies under suspended terms to a taxable person, a registered identified supplier (RIS) is required to make sure the person is a RIP. The lists of which are RIPs/RISs have been published in the official web site of the DIR. For further details, see the subsection Special schemes subsection .

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Sri Lanka.

Proof of exports. Export invoices should be supported by evidence to the effect that goods have in fact left Sri Lanka. In the event any queries are raised, export custom declaration, bill of lading/airway bill, boat note, and other relevant documents should be furnished to prove the export of goods and to be eligible for zero rating.

Foreign currency invoices. If a tax invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the value for VAT should be computed in the domestic currency, which is the Sri Lankan rupees (LKR), based on the official bank (exchange) rate applicable on the date of the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Where a taxable person makes supplies to any person who is not registered for VAT (i.e., a nontaxable person), a commercial invoice is required to be issued to such persons. Such invoices should not show the VAT amount charged separately (i.e., these invoices will only show the total amount charged, including VAT).

Records. In Sri Lanka, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records in respect of goods and services made as part of any taxable supply, deemed a taxable supply, excluded supply or exempt supply, and a suspended supply or deemed a suspended supply, based on the tax invoice, suspended invoice or commercial invoice issued to another taxable person or partnership in a serial order. All records should be kept and maintained by every taxable person up to date with adequate information on the input and output tax to ascertain the liability of the tax payable.

In Sri Lanka, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. There are no specific rules on the location of storage of such records. However, if the records are in relation to any taxable activities in Sri Lanka, it is recommended that the records are archived in Sri Lanka, specifically at the place of business.

Record retention period. Records must be retained for a period of five years from the end of the taxable period to which such records relate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Sri Lanka. The record keeping regulations issued in relation to the VAT law permits the storing of records either as hardcopy or soft copy.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. A VAT return is a form containing information about the supply, purchases, input tax and output tax of the business during a taxable period. The VAT return, together with the schedules (see below), should be filed no later than the last day of the month after the expiry of each taxable period (quarterly or monthly as the case may be).

For any taxable person registered with the simplified value-added tax scheme as a RIP status, or where any person has commenced a business or started a project and has undertaken to comply with certain requirements in the VAT Act, it must file returns on a monthly basis. Any other taxable person must file returns on a quarterly basis.

The schedules should be filed with the VAT return to support the calculations reported in the VAT return. The following schedules are required to be filed with the VAT return:

- Schedule 01 – Output schedule
- Schedule 02 – Input schedule for Local Purchases
- Schedule 03 – Input Schedule for Imports
- Schedule 04 – Credit and Debit Notes Schedule
- Schedule 05 – Deemed Input Schedule for Wholesale and Retail Trade
- Schedule 06 – Goods Export Schedule
- Schedule 07 – Service Export Schedule

The VAT return and the schedules can be filed through the online Revenue Administration Management Information System (RAMIS). The RAMIS system is an online platform provided by the DIR on which the person can opt to register and file tax returns (and schedules) online.

A SSCL return is due on a quarterly basis on or before the 20th of the month immediately succeeding the end of that relevant quarter. To be filed in the specified form, failing which it is deemed not to have been filed.

Periodic payments. Any VAT and SSCL payable must be paid by the 20th of the following month. Generally, the VAT payable is directly deposited to the bank account of the DIR.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Sri Lanka, but not mandatory. The VAT return and the schedules can be submitted electronically via the electronic service maintained by the DIR. It can also be submitted either in person or by posting it to the DIR. However, manual submission is only allowed if the number of entries is less than 20. Electronic filing of the schedules is mandatory in the event the number of entries (i.e., invoices) is 20 or more.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Sri Lanka.

Special schemes. SVAT scheme. The simplified value-added tax (SVAT) scheme was introduced to avoid the requirement to make refunds to exporters and to those who supply goods and services to exporters. The scheme provides for suspension of VAT payable by a taxable person entitled to register under this scheme. This simply means if a customer is registered under SVAT, a supplier can issue an invoice and suspend the VAT arising on same (provided such person is also registered as an SVAT supplier). RIPs and RISs are entitled to be registered under the SVAT scheme.

Any of the following persons are qualified to register as an RIP:
- Any exporter or provider of zero-rated services, having zero-rated supplies that are more than 50% of its total taxable supplies
- Registered person engaged in (i.e., the supply of goods or services to) any strategic development project or in any specific project
- Persons registered under Section 22 (7) who are entitled to claim input tax under the Act
- Manufacturers who supply goods manufactured in Sri Lanka (liable to VAT) to exporters to be utilized for manufacture of goods for export, where the value of such supplies and zero-rated supplies are more than 50% of its total taxable supplies
- Providers of value-added services to exporters that result in the improvement of the quality, character or value of any goods manufactured for export where such supply is more than 50% of its total taxable supply
- Suppliers of goods or services to the above persons where the total of such supply is more than 50% of its total taxable supply
- Any supplier of any goods or services to above RIPs are qualified to register as RISs

Supplies to RIPs can be made on a suspended tax invoice showing the VAT component as "suspended value-added tax." The goods exempt from VAT cannot be supplied under the SVAT scheme. All RIPs should submit VAT returns monthly. All RISs (who are not RIPs) should submit their VAT returns on quarterly basis.

VAT on financial services. VAT on financial services is charged on the supply of financial services on the value addition by "specified institutions" or by "any person" at the rate of 18%. This is with effect from 1 January 2022. It previously was at a special rate of 18%, but with effect from 1 January 2024, 18% is the standard rate of VAT in Sri Lanka.

The VAT Act defines a "specified institution" to mean:
- Licensed commercial bank within the meaning of the Banking Act, No. 30 of 1988
- Finance company registered under the Finance Companies Act, No. 78 of 1988
- Licensed specialized bank within the meaning of the Banking Act, No. 30 of 1988

Further, "any person" has been defined in the VAT Act as "any person carries on the business of supplying financial services."

Every registered specified institution or any person shall be liable to tax for each taxable period on its total value addition, which includes net profits or loss as the case may be before payment of income tax on such profit computed in accordance with the accepted accounting standards (prevailing for that taxable period), subject to adjustments for economic depreciation, emoluments payable to all the employees.

Further, the liable threshold for registration is taxable supplies exceeding LKR3 million at the end of any taxable period of three months or exceeding LKR12 million in the 12-month period. Financial services include the following:

- Operation of any current, deposit or savings account
- Exchange of currency
- Issue, payment, collection or transfer of ownership of any note, order for payment, cheque or letter of credit
- Issue, allotment, transfer of ownership, drawing, acceptance or endorsement of any debt
- Security, being any interest in or right to be paid money owing by any person other than the transfer of nonperforming loans of a licensed commercial bank to any other person in terms of a restructuring scheme of such bank as approved by the Central Bank of Sri Lanka with the concurrence of the Minister
- Issue, allotment, transfer of ownership of any equity security or a participatory security
- Issue, underwriting, subunderwriting or subscribing of any equity security, debt security or participatory security
- Provision of any loan, advance or credit
- Provision of the facility of installment credit finance in a hire purchase conditional sale or credit sale agreement for which facility a separate charge is made and disclosed to the person to whom the supply is made
- Provision of goods under any hire purchase agreement or conditional sale or hire purchase agreement while being used in Sri Lanka for a period not less than 12 months as at the date of such agreement
- Provision of leasing facilities under any finance lease agreement
- Provision of leasing facilities under any operating lease agreement in respect of any installment for any period prior to on 1 November 2016, on any asset other than any land or building, if such agreement is entered into on or after 25 October 2014 and not being an agreement entered into prior to 25 October 2014

The taxable period of every registered specified institution or other person in this regard must be 12 months. Every registered specified institution or other person must furnish a return within six months immediately succeeding the end of that taxable period. Further, every registered person is required to furnish an interim estimate every six months.

SSCL of 2.5% will apply on 100% of the value addition attributable to financial services (to be determined in accordance with the attribution method in Chapter IIIA of the VAT Act).

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Sri Lanka.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Sri Lanka.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Amended tax returns can be filed by taxable persons with an explanatory letter requesting the change. The amended schedules are first required to be submitted online. Subsequently, with the acknowledgment of the online submission, the amended tax returns can be submitted in person to the DIR.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Sri Lanka.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. If a taxable person fails to register or is late to register for VAT, it is subject to a summary trial before magistrate and on conviction will be liable to the following:
- A fine not exceeding LKR25,000
- Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months
  Or
- Both fine and imprisonment

Penalties for late payment and filings. If a taxable person files its VAT return late, the CGIR may impose the following:
- A penalty in a sum not exceeding LKR50,000
- Require such person to pay the penalty
- Require such person to furnish the return required of it within a specified period

Except where the CGIR imposes a penalty as given above, any taxable person shall be liable on conviction after a summary trial before magistrate to the following:
- A fine not exceeding LKR50,000
- Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months
  Or
- Both fine and imprisonment

If a taxable person pays its outstanding VAT due late, it is subject to a penalty of 10% of the tax plus 2% for each month in default subject to a maximum of 100% of the tax due.

SSCL. The penalty for late payment of SSCL is as follows:
- Sum equivalent to 10% of the amount in default
- Where the amount of default is not paid before the last day of the succeeding month, a further sum equivalent to 2% for each period ending on last day of succeeding month/part of such period during which it is in default

The penalty for late filings of SSCL return is a sum not exceeding LKR50,000.

Penalties for errors. The penalty for incorrect information relating to any matter or thing affecting its own liability to tax or the liability of any other person is subject to a summary trial before magistrate and on conviction will be liable to the following:
- A fine not exceeding LKR25,000
- Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months
  Or
- Both fine and imprisonment

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities within 14 days of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details is subject to a summary trial before magistrate and on conviction will be liable to the following:
- A fine not exceeding LKR25,000
- Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months
  Or
- Both fine and imprisonment

Penalties for fraud. The penalties for fraud apply to any taxable person who gives any false answer whether orally or in writing to any question or when requested to furnish information omits from a return any particulars that it should have included in such return or makes any false return or false entry in any return and evades or attempts to evade tax. Any person who assists any other person to evade or to attempt to evade tax is also subject to this penalty.

Such taxable persons are subject to a summary trial before magistrate and on conviction will be liable to the following:

- An amount equal to twice the amount of tax evaded, for which it is liable for the taxable period in respect of which the offence was committed
  And
- A fine not exceeding LKR25,000 or an imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months
  Or
- Both fine and imprisonment

Personal liability for company officers. Where a body corporate has not paid any tax on or before the due date, the VAT Act allows the CGIR to proceed against a manager, director, secretary or any other principal officer of such body corporate, as if such officer is responsible for such default unless it proves the contrary to the satisfaction of CGIR.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Sri Lanka is three years. The DIR can make an assessment before the expiration of three years from the end of the taxable period in respect of which the return is furnished. However, if the taxable person amends the return, then the DIR can make an assessment at any time.

Suriname

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Paramaribo GMT -3

EY
Cornelis Jongbawstraat 17
Paramaribo
Suriname

Indirect tax contacts

Rose Boevé (resident in Willemstad, Curaçao)	+59 (99) 430-5076 rose.boeve@an.ey.com
Kimberly Schreuders	+597 7100-966 kimberly.schreuders@an.ey.com
Dionne Alexander	+597 8176-070 dionne.alexander@an.ey.com

The turnover tax (TOT) regime has been replaced with a value-added tax (VAT) regime as of 1 January 2023. Note that the TOT has a statute of limitation of five years.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Wet Belasting over de Toegevoegde Waarde
Date introduced	1 January 2023
Trading bloc membership	Caribbean Community and Common Market (CARICOM)
Administered by	Inspection of taxes (https://belastingdienst.sr/)
VAT rates
Standard	10%
Special	5%, 25%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	XXXXXXXXXX (10 digits)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	SRD1 million/SRD500,000 (nonresident providers of electronically supplied services)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Supply of services for consideration by a taxable person in Suriname in the course of its business
- Supply of goods for consideration by a taxable person in Suriname in the course of its business
- Importation of goods in Suriname

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Suriname, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

However, there are specific place of supply rules for certain supplies of services that are physically performed in Suriname (e.g., services related to real estate, transport of passengers and goods, cultural/sport/scientific events, restaurant and catering, short term lease of vehicles, outsourcing, marketing, consultancy, financial and insurance and electronic, telecommunication or radio and television broadcasting services).

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Suriname, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

- The transfer must include elements that encompass whole or part of a taxable business with which an economic activity can be performed.
- The transferee is required to continue taxable activities, or at least intend to do so, although it does not have to perform the same activities with these assets as the transferor.

Transactions between related parties. In Suriname, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the fair market value. Where a supply is performed by a taxable person for no consideration or for a consideration that is less than the fair market value of the supply and the supplier and the recipient are related, the value of the supply for VAT purposes is the fair market value of the supply if the input is entirely or partially nondeductible. This does not apply if the businesses are part of the same VAT group because transactions within a VAT group are outside the scope of VAT.

C. Who is liable

In principle, a taxable person is a business entity or individual who supplies goods or provides services (economic activities) in Suriname.

A taxable person whose threshold is more than SRD1 million, excluding VAT per calendar year of gross turnover, is required to register and account for VAT in Suriname.

In addition, a nonresident provider of electronic, telecommunication or radio and television broadcasting services to private individuals in Suriname (i.e., business-to-consumer [B2C]) whose threshold is more than SRD500,000 of gross turnover per calendar year, is required to register and account for VAT in Suriname.

Exemption from registration. Generally, a person that makes only exempt supplies in Suriname is not required to register for VAT. Also, if a person makes or will make taxable supplies during a calendar year that will not exceed SRD1 million (excluding VAT of gross turnover), then that business will not be required to be registered.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A taxable person whose threshold is less than SRD1 million, excluding VAT per calendar year of gross turnover, is not required to register for VAT, but can voluntarily do so.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is allowed in Suriname with approval from the Tax Inspector (Article 1-f-4°). Transactions between taxable persons part of the same VAT group are outside the scope of VAT. Members of a VAT group are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. The legislation and regulations do not stipulate a minimum period for the VAT group.

Fixed establishment. In Suriname, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, based on case law in jurisdictions with a VAT system similar to Suriname, a fixed establishment can be a business establishment in Suriname of an entity established outside of Suriname, characterized by a sufficient degree of permanence and a suitable structure in terms of human and technical resources to enable it to provide the services that it supplies and/or to receive and use the services supplied to it for its own needs. A fixed establishment should be capable of acting as a taxable person independently of the head office.

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses are businesses that are not established and that do not have a fixed establishment in Suriname. A non-established business must register for VAT in Suriname if it is required to account for VAT on supplies performed in Suriname (i.e., if it exceeds the registration threshold). The reverse-charge mechanism applies for services provided by a non-established business to a resident taxable person.

Tax representatives. A taxable person may be represented by a third party based on a power of attorney. A tax representative is not a mandatory requirement for a non-established business, it is optional.

Reverse charge. For services provided by a non-established business to a resident taxable person (i.e., business-to-business [B2B]), the reverse-charge mechanism applies. In this case, the resident taxable person that acquires these services is liable for VAT and must report and pay VAT on these services.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Suriname.

Digital economy. Non-established businesses that provide electronic, telecommunication or radio and television broadcasting services to private individuals (i.e., business-to-consumer [B2C]) supplies will be required to register and account for VAT in Suriname if the threshold of SRD500,000 of gross compensations per current calendar year is exceeded.

Non-established businesses that provide electronic, telecommunication or radio and television broadcasting services other businesses (B2B) supplies will not be required to register and account for VAT in Suriname. Instead, the customer will be required to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Suriname.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Suriname.

Registration procedures. Taxable persons are required to register for VAT online via the tax authorities' online portal registration system. Manual application (i.e., by paper) is not allowed, online application is mandatory. In general, an extract from the Suriname Chamber of Commerce should be downloaded for businesses and included with the VAT application. In case of individuals, or by lack of an extract from the Suriname Chamber of Commerce, other documentation would be required. This depends on the status of the taxable person. The length of time it takes to obtain the VAT registration number strongly varies (can be between a few days up to several weeks).

Deregistration. There are no specific rules on deregistration in the Suriname VAT legislation. However, in practice, all VAT filing and payment obligations should have been met before applying to deregister from VAT. To apply for VAT deregistration, an email should be sent to the Suriname tax authorities. At the time of preparing this chapter, no specific rules (e.g., conditions/ thresholds) have been published by the tax authorities for VAT deregistration, and it is not clear if/when this will be available.

Changes to VAT registration details. At the time of preparing this chapter, no details have been published by the tax authorities for changes to VAT registration details.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 10%
- Special rates: 5%, 25%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for the special rates, the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Long-term rent of real estate of at least three months for permanent residence (until 1 November 2023)
- Import by and the supply of goods and services to:
  - Contractors and subcontractors pursuant to the Petroleum Act 1990 as it reads after the amendments thereto
  - State-owned enterprises pursuant to the Petroleum Act 1990 as it reads after the amendments thereto
  - Certain exceptions should be considered such as VAT on salary in kind and business gifts
- The supply of goods and services to:
  - Gold mining companies following the concerning Mineral Agreement established by law
  - Statutory bodies

The Minister may issue additional rules for the implementation of this appendix.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Supply of water and related activities by state-owned enterprises or government service to household use only and the supply of water in package of at least five gallons (from 1 November 2023)
- Supply of electricity and cooking gas (from 1 November 2023)
- Domestic cargo transport by road, water and air (from 1 November 2023)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 25%

- Automobiles and other motor vehicles designed primarily for passenger transportation with a cylinder capacity exceeding 2,500 cm^3 or with a CIF value of at least USD40,000 with the exception of electronic motor vehicles
- Motorcycles with a cylinder capacity of more than 125 cm^3 (until 6 September 2023, and then subject to the standard rate at 10%)
- Speedboats, personal watercraft, yachts, sports and other recreational crafts (until 6 September 2023, and then subject to the standard rate at 10%)
- Helicopters and aircrafts for the carriage of less than 10 persons (until 6 September 2023, and then subject to the standard rate at 10%)
- Weapons, ammunitions, parts and accessories thereof (until 6 September 2023, and then subject to the standard rate at 10%)
- Fireworks (until 6 September 2023, and then subject to the standard rate at 10%)

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Services related to random/chance games according to the Casino Tax Act (from 1 October 2023)
- Services provided by doctors, dentists, dental technicians, nurses and obstetricians, physiotherapists and remedial therapists, chiropractors, speech therapists, dieticians, psychologists and podiatrists, as well as youth dental care and oral hygiene and the services of alternative healers and other paramedics (from 1 October 2023)
- Supply and import of goods and services by organizations of a social, cultural, charitable, sporting, or religious nature, provided that the organization has no profit motive and there is no serious distortion of competition (from 1 October 2023)
- Services provided by hospitals and laboratories for medical research (from 1 October 2023)
- Import and supply of medical aids and appliances or equipment, including orthopedic articles and appliances, including medical-surgical belts, straps and crutches, dentures, artificial teeth, artificial eyes, prosthetic limbs, and similar articles, hearing aids, splints and other articles and apparatus for the treatment of fractures in the bones, spectacles and lenses (from 1 October 2023)
- Import and supply of medicine as stated by the Ministry of Health (from 1 October 2023)
- Domestic health insurance, accident insurance and life insurance (from 1 October 2023)
- Provision of education which is under the supervision of the Ministry of Education, Science and Culture including educational resources, school supplies and school uniforms (from 1 October 2023)
- Childcare (from 1 October 2023)
- Elderly care, care for those in need of help, homes for the elderly (from 1 October 2023)
- Sick and injured transport (from 1 October 2023)
- Financial services (from 1 October 2023):
  - Money exchange transactions involving foreign currencies, either by exchanging banknotes or coins, by debiting or crediting accounts or otherwise
  - The issuance, payment, collection or transfer of ownership of cheques or letters of credit and similar digital transactions
  - The issuance, assignment, drawing, acceptance, approval or transfer of ownership of debt securities and bonds
  - The issuance, allocation or transfer of ownership of shares or units
  - The granting and mediation of credit
  - Trading derivatives or granting options, with the exception of the delivery of the underlying goods and services
- Domestic delivery for (from 1 October 2023):
  - Domestic supply of gold to licensed gold buyers
  - Domestic supply of fresh fish to licensed fish processing companies and fish exporters
  - Domestic local supply of artwork
  - The import and supply of prepared feed and raw materials for the preparation of feed intended for the livestock and poultry sectors, as well as insecticides, plastics (natural and chemical), chemical pesticides and seeds
- Domestic passenger transport by road and water (from 1 October 2023)
- Basic necessities (a non-exhaustive list: fresh vegetables, fresh chicken, fresh and unprocessed fish, eggs, rice, milk, soya oil, matches, toilet paper, contraceptives, disposable diapers, bath soap, etc.) (from 1 October 2023)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Suriname.

E. Time of supply

In Suriname, the invoice scheme applies for the time of supply. On this basis, the actual time of supply is the date on which the invoice is issued. The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The VAT rule for determining the time of supply for goods is when the goods are supplied. The basic rule for determining the time of supply for services is when the service is rendered or completed.

An invoice must be issued before the 15th day of the month following the month in which the supply takes place if supplies are made to businesses and in other specific cases. The actual tax point is then the date on which the invoice is issued. However, if no invoice is issued or if the invoice is issued late, tax becomes due, at the latest, on the day on which the invoice should have been issued. If the customer is not a taxable person, the tax becomes due on the date of the supply.

If the consideration is paid in full, or in part, before the invoice is issued, the actual tax is due on the date on which payment is received (for the amount received).

Deposits and prepayments. If the customer pays the consideration in installments or makes a prepayment, the supplier must issue an invoice for each installment before the date it is due or when it receives the prepayment. The tax point is the date of the invoice. If no invoice must be issued or is issued too late, the VAT becomes due at the time of receiving the prepayment.

Continuous supplies of services. For continuous supplies of services, the main rule (time of invoice) is applicable. However, there is at least one tax point per year.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Suriname for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The tax point for reverse-charge services arises upon when the services are provided.

Leased assets. For operational leases, the section about continuous supplies of services is applicable. For financial leases, which are normally treated as the supply of a good rather than a service, the tax point is basically the time the invoice is issued (or should have been issued).

Imported goods. For imported goods the "time of supply" is considered to be the moment of importation. The general rule for determining the tax point for imported goods is the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime. There is not any regulation for import VAT deferment at this moment.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. Input tax is generally recovered by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT due on supplies made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Suriname is five years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for taxable or business purposes and for specific items listed below.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Food, beverages, and tobacco products
- Business gifts and other gifts

- Wages in kind and opportunities for relaxation
- Motor vehicles intended for the transport of passengers and of goods or services related to such motor vehicles, with the exception of car dealers, car leasing companies and motor vehicles with a maximum authorized mass exceeding 3,500 kg

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to taxable business use)

- Inventory used to make finished goods
- Equipment used in the business
- Professional and other services provided to the business

Partial exemption. If all supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are taxable supplies (i.e., standard-rated, reduced-rated and zero-rated supplies), the input tax incurred in the period is deductible in full. However, if some, but not all, of the supplies made by the person during the tax period are taxable supplies, and costs incurred relate to both taxable and exempt activities (mixed activities), a partial recovery calculation may be required.

The standard method of apportionment is (A*B/C) where A, B and C represent the following:
A = The total amount of input tax incurred on general or overhead costs, minus the sum of input tax for which deduction is not allowed.
B = The total renumeration for taxable supplies made by the taxable person.
C = The total renumeration for all supplies made by the taxable person (taxable and exempt).

The pro rata recovery right reflects the portion of VAT that can be deducted in the event that the taxable person performs both taxable and exempt activities excluding nondeductible items such as foods and beverages.

Capital goods. The capital goods adjustment applies to real estate for a period of nine years after the year of first use and to movable property for a period of four years after the first use.

Refunds. If the amount of deductible input tax exceeds the output tax due in the period, the difference should be refunded to the taxable person. The refund must in principle take place within one month after the deduction arose.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Suriname should be recoverable as long as the taxable person can prove that the goods or services were used in preparation of a future economic activity.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) can be recovered in Suriname if the taxable person can prove that the renumeration will not be paid. This must be shown by evidence of recovery measures that have been taken and a certain period should have elapsed to conclude that a debt can't be recovered. However, at the time of preparing the chapter, further detail on this regulation has not been specified and information hasn't been provided by the tax authorities on how this will operate in practice.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities, is not recoverable in Suriname.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Suriname is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must issue invoices to businesses (B2B) that are dated and sequentially numbered for all taxable supplies of goods and services. The invoices, which contain the VAT due, must be issued before the 15th day of the month following the month of supply.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply. It must refer to the original VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Suriname, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Suriname. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Suriname.

The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. Invoices sent electronically are accepted by the tax inspector, provided that the authenticity of the origin and the integrity of the content, as well as the legibility thereof, are guaranteed.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Suriname. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Suriname.

Proof of exports. There is no special regulation included in the Suriname VAT legislation with regard to invoices in case of export. However, to evidence the zero-rating, documents of transportation and export documents are sufficient for proof of export in Suriname.

Foreign currency invoices. A taxable person may, on written request and with the approval of the Minister, issue invoices in a different language than Dutch and in a different currency than the domestic currency, which is the Suriname dollar (SRD).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Taxable persons do not have to issue VAT invoices for supplies to private individuals (B2C). If no VAT invoice needs to be issued, the documents (receipts) that are issued do not have to meet all legal invoice requirements.

Records. In Suriname, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records of the taxable persons' assets and of everything relating to their business in such a manner that, at any time, their rights, obligations and all other information relevant for tax purposes are clear and readily available within a reasonable time frame upon request from the tax authorities. Copies of all AR invoices and relevant AP invoices for services must be kept, as well as export documentation.

In Suriname, VAT books and records must be held within the country. While it is unclear whether such records can be kept outside Suriname, and the guidance around this is very nontransparent, in practice records are kept locally in Suriname.

Record retention period. Record retention period is 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Suriname. No special regulation is included in the Suriname VAT legislation regarding electronic archiving. In practice, it is possible so long as the taxable person can provide the documents needed within an acceptable time period.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT period in Suriname is the calendar month. The VAT return must be filed before the 16th day of the month following the reporting period. The VAT due for the period must be remitted together with the return.

Periodic payments. Any VAT due for the VAT period must be remitted by the same date as the return deadline, i.e., before the 16th day of the month following the reporting period.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Suriname, but not mandatory. It is only allowed upon decree from the minister, and follow the instructions provided.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Suriname.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. The cash accounting basis is a special scheme which applies to B2C transactions.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Suriname.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Suriname.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In case a taxable person needs to correct any errors in previously filed VAT returns, it will need to file a new return over the respective period or a supplementary return. It can also file an objection against an incorrectly filed return and thus reclaim an overpayment.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Suriname.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in Suriname for the late registration of VAT. However, if late registration results in a late payment of VAT or late submission of VAT returns, penalties may be imposed. Assessments can be imposed by the tax authorities.

Penalties for late payment and filings. VAT penalties are assessed for the late submission of a VAT return or for the late payment of VAT due in the following amounts:

- For the late or failure of submission of a VAT return, the tax Inspector may impose an administrative penalty of a maximum of SRD10,000
- For the late of failure of payment of VAT due, the tax Inspector may impose an administrative penalty of a maximum of SRD10,000
- If the late payment is caused by negligence or intent, penalties ranging from 5% to 100% of the outstanding VAT due may be imposed

Penalties for errors. The penalties outlined above for late payment and filings, also apply for penalties for errors.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In Suriname, tax fraud occurs when the taxable person by any action or omission commits fraud against the tax authorities by incorrectly calculating the amount of tax due. VAT fraud is punishable by a term of imprisonment, or a fine.

Personal liability for company officers. There is a personal liability for VAT for company officers in Suriname. In case of criminal proceedings against a legal person/taxable person, the judge can order the personal appearance of a director.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Suriname is five years. In general, it is five years after the ending of the financial year in which the VAT became due. In case the VAT due is (partially or entirely) not paid by the taxable person (following action by the taxable person with intent or gross negligence), the statute of limitations is 10 years.

Sweden

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Stockholm GMT +1

EY
Hamngatan 26
P.O. Box 7850
103 99 Stockholm
Sweden

Indirect tax contacts

Martin Carlsson
+46 70 318 97 79
martin.carlsson@se.ey.com

Linnea Jacobsen
+46 76 847 26 24
linnea jacobsen@se.ey.com

Anna Berggren
+46 72 178 74 74
anna.berggren1@se.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Mervärdesskatt (Moms)
Date introduced	1 January 1969
Trading bloc membership	European Union (EU)
Administered by	Swedish Ministry of Finance (https://government.se/)
VAT rates
Standard	25%
Reduced	6%, 12%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	SE 5 5 6 1 2 3 1 2 3 4 0 1
VAT return periods	Monthly (if annual turnover exceeds SEK40 million) Quarterly (if annual turnover is SEK40 million or less, with the possibility to opt for monthly) Annually (if annual turnover is below SEK1 million)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	SEK80,000 (approx. EUR 7,500)
Non-established	None
Distance selling	SEK99,680 (approx. EUR10,000)
Intra-Community acquisitions	SEK90,000 (approx. EUR8,300) (note that the threshold is only applicable when the purchaser has no right to recover VAT or if the purchaser is a legal entity but not a taxable person)
Electronically supplied services	SEK99,680 (approx. EUR10,000)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Sweden by a taxable person
- The intra-Community acquisition of goods in Sweden for goods coming from another European Union (EU) Member State by a taxable person (see the chapter on the EU)
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in Sweden
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU has adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade of goods. For an overview of the Quick Fixes rules, see the chapter on the EU. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

Sweden has implemented the Quick Fixes as per 1 January 2020 through regulation according to the Swedish VAT Act. The Quick Fixes concern the following three items:
- Call-off stock simplification
- Uniform rules to simplify chain transactions
- Simplified proof of intra-Community supply of goods
- Conditions for zero-rating of intra-Community supply of goods

Call-off stock simplification. Under the call-off stock simplification, a supplier's transportation of goods from a stock in another EU Member State to its customer's call-off stock, Sweden would not trigger a VAT registration obligation in Sweden, provided that certain conditions are met. Instead, the supplier would be deemed to make an intra-Community supply of goods in the EU Member State of dispatch, and the customer would be deemed to make an intra-Community acquisition of goods in Sweden.

The scope of simplification applies to a call-off stock arrangement where:
- Goods are moved from another Member State to another taxable person in Sweden under a call-off agreement
- The supplier is not established in Sweden
- The customer is VAT-registered in Sweden
- The supplier knows the customer's identity and VAT registration number at the time of the transfer
- The supplier maintains a call-off stock register and records the transaction in its EC Sales List
- The supply of goods take place within 12 months of arrival

Chain transactions. In the case of several consecutive sales of the same product, where the product is transported from one EU Member State to another EU Member State directly from the first supplier to the last purchaser in the chain, the transport shall be attributed to the supply made to that supplier, other than the first, who transports or has transported the goods (the intermediary).

The transport shall, however, be attributed to the supply made by the intermediary if it has communicated to its supplier its VAT registration number in the EU Member State from which the goods were transported.

Conditions for zero-rating of intra-Community supply of goods. The VAT exemption can be granted to a supplier if the following material conditions are met:
- The goods must be transported from one EU Member State to the customer in another EU Member State by the supplier, the customer or on behalf of either one
- The supplier has received a valid VAT number of the customer in the other EU Member State
- The Intra-Community supply of goods has been reported in the supplier's EC Sales List with reference to the customer's VAT number

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, EU Member States can apply use and enjoyment rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the EU to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the EU from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the EU under the use and enjoyment provisions, a non-EU supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every Member State where it has customers that are not taxable persons. For information regarding the rules relating to VAT registration, see the chapters on the respective countries of the EU.

In Sweden, the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions when provided business-to-consumer (B2C):
- Transfers and assignments of copyrights, patents, licenses, trademarks and similar rights
- Legal services, engineering services, auditing services, data processing and provision of information and similar services
- Bank and finance services (not including the letting of safe deposit boxes)
- Insurance and reinsurance services
- Letting of staff
- The grant of access to, and transmission or distribution through a natural gas system within the community or a gas network connected to such a system, a system for electricity or a system for heating and cooling, as well as services directly connected thereto
- Marketing and adverting services

In Sweden the following supplies are also subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions in Sweden when supplied B2C:
- Admission to activities in Sweden of the following nature: cultural, artistic, sports, science, entertainment or certain trade shows or exhibitions (the same applies for the B2B supply of events in Sweden of the same nature)
- Goods transportation services performed only in Sweden
- Telecommunication services, broadcasting services and electronic services

In Sweden the following supplies are subject to the use and enjoyment provisions in Sweden, irrespective of whether the supply is made B2C or B2B:
- Real estate connected services when the real estate is located in Sweden
- Passenger transportation services only provided in Sweden
- Restaurant and catering services provided in Sweden
- Short-term leasing of vehicles when the goods are provided in Sweden

Transfer of a going concern. A merger or transfer of assets between two taxable persons can, under certain circumstances, be deemed as a transfer of a going concern (TOGC), which is considered a supply outside the scope of VAT and therefore not subject to VAT.

A TOGC is outside the scope of VAT if the following requirements are met:
- The assets must be a part of a transfer of a business as a going concern
- The assets must be used by the acquirer with the intention to carry on the same business as the transferor
- If only a part of the business is transferred, the transferred part must be capable of operating separately
- If the transfer would be subject to VAT, the acquirer would be entitled to recover the VAT charged
- If the transferor is a taxable person the acquirer must be a taxable person or become a taxable person as a result of the transfer

Transactions between related parties. For a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated as follows: supplies between related parties, where the supplier or the recipient has a limited right to deduct VAT, must be made at the market value. Otherwise, a reassessment of the value up to the market value may be done by the Swedish tax agency.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is an individual or business entity that makes taxable supplies of goods or services, intra-Community acquisitions or distance sales for consideration while doing business in Sweden.

A VAT registration threshold of SEK80,000 applies in Sweden. If a taxable person exceeds transactions subject to VAT of SEK80,000 annually, it must notify the tax agency of its liability to register. Any taxable persons conducting business transactions that have not yet exceeded the threshold for the fiscal year are not liable to report and pay VAT for those transactions unless registered for VAT. Taxable persons whose annual turnover subject to VAT does not exceed the threshold may opt to register for and pay VAT.

Special rules apply to foreign or "non-established businesses."

Exemption from registration. Taxable persons that only make supplies that are exempt from VAT (i.e., supplies that are zero-rated) are not required to register for VAT.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A taxable person that is not required to register for VAT as a result of its turnover being below SEK80,000 can still choose to voluntarily register for VAT. If a taxable person does choose to voluntarily register for VAT, it cannot change this decision until at least two years have passed since the end of the business year during which the taxable person was registered for VAT.

Group registration. Companies in the financial sector as well as companies in "an agency relationship" for income tax purposes may form a VAT group. If a VAT group is formed, the group is liable for VAT if it engages in business that accrues a VAT liability.

All members of a VAT group in Sweden are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. If the VAT group does not fulfill its obligation of paying VAT or paying the correct amount of VAT, all members of the VAT group are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

Only entities with a fixed establishment in Sweden may be part of a Swedish VAT group. A VAT group consists of taxable persons that are closely connected to each other "financially, economically and organizationally." All three of these requirements must be satisfied. The following are the applicable rules:

- A "financial link" exists between two companies if one company holds more than 50% of the votes in the other
- An "economic link" exists if the companies continually exchange goods or services
- An "organizational link" exists if the group members have some joint administrative functions, such as joint management or joint marketing

There is no minimum duration that a VAT group must be in place for. Both the forming of and the cessation of a VAT group may, however, only happen following a formal decision by the Swedish tax agency.

Holding companies. In Sweden, a pure holding company cannot be a member of a VAT group. A pure holding company that conducts no other activities than passively holding shares in subsidiaries cannot be regarded as a taxable person. Such a pure holding company can therefore not be part of a VAT group according to the Swedish VAT Act.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f) has been implemented in Sweden. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in Swedish VAT law).

Supplies of services by independent groups of physical or legal persons, who are carrying on an activity that is exempt from VAT or in relation to which they are not taxable persons, for the purpose of rendering their members the services directly necessary for the exercise of that activity, where the renumeration for the services corresponds to the person's cost for providing the services. The exemption only covers situations where applying the exemption does not distort the competition. In the Swedish tax agency's view, this shall be determined based on the nature/character of the services. The more specific the services are for the business, the less the risk for distortion is. The applicability of the exemption must be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Fixed establishment. Sweden has not implemented any legal definition of fixed establishment. According to the Swedish tax agency, the following three should be considered when determining if a fixed establishment is at hand:
- Personnel resources
- Technical resources
- A sufficient degree of permanence

Such criteria are cumulative, meaning that all three criteria need to be met for the requirements for having a fixed establishment to be fulfilled.

Non-established businesses. A non-established business that makes supplies of goods or services in Sweden must register for VAT if it is liable to account for Swedish VAT on the supply or if it makes intra-Community supplies or acquisitions of goods.

The reverse charge applies to supplies made by non-established businesses to taxable persons in Sweden, i.e., a business-to-business (B2B) supply. Under this measure, the taxable person that receives the supply must account for the Swedish VAT due. If the reverse charge applies, the non-established business is not required to register for Swedish VAT. The reverse charge does not apply to the transport of persons, cultural services or supplies made to private persons or nontaxable legal persons.

Consequently, non-established businesses must register for Swedish VAT if they make any of the following supplies:
- Intra-Community supplies or acquisitions (see the chapter on the EU)
- Distance sales in excess of the threshold (see the chapter on the EU)
- Supplies of goods and services that are not subject to the domestic reverse charge

Tax representatives. Businesses that are established in the EU are not required to appoint a tax representative to register for VAT in Sweden. However, EU businesses may opt to appoint a tax representative. This measure also applies to businesses established in any non-EU country that has mutual assistance provisions with the EU or with Sweden.

Businesses that are established outside the EU must generally appoint a resident tax representative to register for Swedish VAT. A tax representative is not jointly liable for VAT debts with the business that it represents.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies to local supplies of goods or services relating to immovable property (other than supplies of construction services provided to companies within the construction industry) made by non-established businesses to taxable persons in Sweden. The reverse charge only applies if the foreign entrepreneur does not have a fixed establishment in Sweden (which intervenes in the supply) and has not opted to be liable for VAT on the supply.

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse charge applies to the following:
- Supplies of construction and building services to other taxable persons selling construction and building services more than occasionally, trading with emission licenses, gold and other specific metals and scrap metal
- Trading with emission licenses
- Gold and other specific metals

- Scrap metal
- Mobile phones, laptops, tablets, game consoles and integrated circuit units (when the tax base in the invoice exceeds SEK100,000) and the seller and purchaser are or shall be registered for VAT in Sweden

Digital economy. Specific VAT rules apply to cross-border supplies of goods and services sold via the internet (e-commerce) in all EU Member States with effect from 1 July 2021. These new rules apply to all direct sales to nontaxable persons (in practice these are mostly private individuals), but we refer to these rules as e-commerce VAT rules because most of these transactions are conducted via the internet. In general, the place of supply is in the country of consumption, i.e., where the goods are shipped to or where the buyer of the goods or services resides, subject to any "use and enjoyment" provisions that may override this rule (see Section B, Effective use and enjoyment subsection above). Therefore:

- For supplies of services made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), the business customer is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, using the reverse charge.
- For supplies of goods made by a nonresident supplier to a business customer (B2B), where the goods are transported from another EU Member State, the business purchasing the goods is responsible for accounting for the VAT due, as an intra-Community acquisition. If the goods come from outside the EU, the purchaser may have to report an importation of goods.
- For supplies of goods or services made by a nonresident supplier to a final consumer (B2C), the supplier is generally responsible for charging and accounting for the VAT due at the rate applicable in the customer's country (unless the supplier's sales fall beneath the distance selling threshold of EUR10,000 (approx. SEK99,680) effective 1 July 2021). This VAT can be reported using a single VAT registration, using a "One-Stop-Shop" mechanism.

For more details about intra-EU distance sales, see the chapter on the EU.

The sale or transfer of digital currencies is exempt from VAT, provided that the digital currency in question can be equated with legal tender. Digital currencies that are not equated with legal tender are usually considered vouchers but could in certain cases also be considered other type of assets. Hence, the VAT treatment of digital currencies should be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Effective 1 July 2021, an e-commerce supplier may have a choice of how to account for VAT on its B2C supplies.

Local VAT registration. A nonresident supplier may choose to register for VAT in each Member State and account for VAT on all supplies made and recover input tax in accordance with local rules (see the Non-established businesses subsection above). Non-EU businesses may be required to appoint a fiscal representative for accounting for the VAT due on these transactions.

In Sweden, the application for a local VAT-registration is made to the Swedish tax agency. The application process normally takes four to eight weeks from the filing of the form.

One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, a supplier can choose to account for VAT due under the EU One-Stop Shop (OSS), which can be used for intra-EU cross-border supplies of goods and all cross-border supplies of services made to final consumers in the EU. Unlike the previous Mini One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) scheme that applied until 30 June 2021, the OSS is not limited to cross-border supplies of electronic services, telecommunication services and broadcasting services.

The OSS is an electronic portal that allows businesses to:

- Register for VAT electronically in a single Member State for all intra-EU distance sales of goods and for B2C supplies of services
- Declare and pay VAT due on all supplies of goods and services in a single electronic quarterly return

The OSS can be used by businesses established in the EU and outside the EU. If a supplier or a deemed supplier decides to register for the OSS, it must declare and pay VAT for all supplies (goods as well as services) that fall under the OSS.

In Sweden there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the operation of the OSS, see the chapter on the EU.

Import One-Stop Shop. Effective 1 July 2021, the Import One-Stop-Shop (IOSS) scheme applies for B2C distance sales of goods from outside the EU.

Effective 1 July 2021, VAT is due on all commercial goods imported into the EU regardless of their value. The actual supply is subject to VAT in the country where the goods are imported (the country of destination). The IOSS facilitates the declaration and payment of VAT due on the sale of low-value goods (i.e., consignments valued at less than EUR150 per consignment). It allows suppliers selling low-value goods dispatched or transported from a non-EU country to customers in the EU to collect, declare and pay the VAT due. If the IOSS is used, the importation into the EU is exempt from VAT.

In Sweden there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the IOSS, see the chapter on the EU.

The use of the IOSS special scheme is not mandatory. If VAT is not collected via the IOSS scheme, the importation of goods into the EU is subject to import VAT in the country of final destination and the Member State can decide who is liable to pay the import VAT, which could be the customer or the seller (or an electronic interface).

Postal Services and Couriers Scheme. If the IOSS is not used and the customer is liable for the import VAT due on the supply (and importation) of consignments with a small intrinsic value (i.e., less than EUR 150), the VAT can be collected using the special scheme for postal services and couriers.

In Sweden there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the special scheme for postal services and couriers, see the chapter on the EU.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the new EU VAT e-commerce rules, effective 1 July 2021, taxable persons that "facilitate" certain B2C sales of goods are deemed to have purchased and then supplied those goods themselves. This means that the single supply from the "underlying" supplier to the final consumer is split into two deemed supplies:

- A supply from the supplier to the facilitator (deemed B2B supply)
- A supply from the facilitator to the final customer (deemed B2C supply). Any intermediation service provided by the facilitator is disregarded for VAT purposes

This provision does not cover all sales facilitated via the facilitator. It only covers distance sales of goods imported from non-EU jurisdictions in consignments with an intrinsic value not exceeding EUR 150. The jurisdiction of residence of the supplier using the facilitator is irrelevant. The supply to the facilitating platform is VAT exempt and the supplies made by that platform follow the e-commerce VAT rules as described above. In addition, the provision also covers sales within the EU, if the supplier is not established within the EU. This applies to both local shipments within one Member State, as well as intra-Community shipments. In both cases, the final customer must be a nontaxable person.

In Sweden there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

For more details about the rules for online marketplaces, see the chapter on the EU.

Vouchers. Sweden implemented the EU Directive on VAT treatment of vouchers into the Swedish VAT Act as of 1 January 2019. The Swedish VAT Act has specific rules that define a voucher, a single purpose voucher (SPV), a multi-purpose voucher (MPV) and when a taxable event takes place and at what value. A voucher may be described as an instrument that businesses are obliged to accept as full or part payment for goods or services. Vouchers may be physical or electronic.

An SPV is an instrument where it is already at the time for issuance possible to establish all facts that are needed to decide in what country VAT shall be paid and with what amount, i.e., which taxable country, what kind of taxable supply, at what tax rate and at what amount VAT should be calculated on. All vouchers that are not SPVs are deemed as MPVs.

VAT is due when an SPV is sold if the voucher refers to a taxable transaction within Sweden. A MPV, on the other hand, is not subject to VAT when sold at a time before it is used as means as payment for goods or services. The VAT is instead due at the time when the MPV is redeemed against goods and services.

Registration procedures. The most effective way to register is online at https://www.verksamt.se/en/web/international/home. A Swedish electronic identification is required to use the online service. Otherwise, fill out the application form SKV 4620 on paper and send it to the Swedish tax agency. Non-established taxable persons use form SKV 4632, application for foreign entrepreneurs. Foreign entrepreneurs need to append a registration certificate not older than six months to the application form.

The Swedish tax agency's website provides a how-to guide, application forms to fill out and other necessary information. The site is also available in English. See www.skatteverket.se. The how-to guide is under the "Employers, Businesses and Corporations" heading and more information is available under the "Tax Information" and "VAT Information" headings.

Normally, it takes four to eight weeks to register for VAT, but it can take longer, especially during summer, and if the Swedish tax agency has questions about the registration.

Deregistration. The most effective way to deregister from VAT in Sweden is to do it online at www.verksamt.se. A Swedish electronic identification is needed to gain access. If the taxable person does not have an electronic identification, it can use form SKV 4639 and send it to the address printed on the form or to send a letter to the Swedish tax authorities requesting a deregistration and explain the reason for deregistering. Non-established businesses must often use hard copies, since a Swedish personal identification number is needed in order to obtain the Swedish electronic identification.

Changes to VAT registration details. A notification of changes for the taxable person, such as change of activities or changes of other information that was provided when registering for VAT, should be submitted either online (www.verksamt.se.) or through the use of form SKV 4639. No time limits/penalties apply for this notification requirement.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 25%
- Reduced rates: 6%, 12%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0% (i.e., exempt supplies with credit)

- Exports of goods and related services
- Supplies of intangible services made to either another taxable person established in the EU or to any recipient outside the EU (see the chapter on the EU)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 6%

- Books and newspapers
- Copyrights and artistic rights
- Cultural services (apart from cinema services, which are taxed at the standard rate)
- Passenger transport
- Reparation of bicycles, shoes, leather goods, clothing and household textiles

Examples of goods and services taxable at 12%

- Foodstuffs
- Hotel accommodation
- Restaurant and catering services

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Immovable property
- Medical services
- Finance
- Insurance
- Pharmaceutical supplies (exempt with credit)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Renting property or premises is an exempt service, but the supplier has the option to treat it as taxable when renting to taxable persons. Suppliers can, under certain circumstances, choose the option to tax by issuing an invoice with VAT.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when the goods are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when the service is completed. If the consideration is paid in full or in part before the goods are delivered or the services provided, the actual tax point becomes the date on which payment is received (but the tax point only applies for the amount paid).

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits and prepayments, the time of supply is the date on which the advance payment is received.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Sweden for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general tax point rules apply (as outlined above). However, for continuous cross-border supply of services for which the buyer is liable to report VAT in Sweden, the time of supply is deemed to be at the end of each calendar year if the services are provided over a period of more than one year and no payments are made during the period in question.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Sweden for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such the normal tax point rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The time of supply for goods or services subject to the reverse charge is the earlier of the date of delivery or the date on which payment is received.

Leased assets. The time of supply for leased assets depends on if it is a prepayment or not (see above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is when the import takes place.

Intra-Community acquisitions. The time of supply for intra-Community acquisitions of goods is the same as the time of supply for domestic supplies.

Intra-Community supplies. An invoice must be issued for an intra-Community supply at the latest on the 15th day of the month following the supply.

Distance sales. The time of supply for supplies of distance sales in Sweden is when the goods are delivered.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Sweden is six years. It is possible to recover input tax incurred in the six years prior to the current year by requesting a re-evaluation of the reporting period the VAT should have been recovered in.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Sweden, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on intra-Community acquisitions of goods and reverse-charge services (see the chapter on the EU).

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally support a claim for input tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchases of cars
- Business entertainment (in excess of the allowable expense limits)
- Private expenditure

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, lease, maintenance and fuel for vans with a weight exceeding 3,500 kg and trucks
- Maintenance and fuel for cars and 50% lease of a car used for taxable business purposes (1,000 km a year)
- Conferences, seminars and training courses
- Advertising
- Business use of a mobile phone
- Hotel accommodation (excluding restaurant expenses)
- Restaurant expenses (SEK300 per person and occasionally alcohol included)
- Business entertainment (SEK180 exclusive of VAT)
- Business gifts (with a value of SEK180 or less exclusive of VAT and valued less than SEK225 inclusive of VAT)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not generally recoverable. If a Swedish taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." "Exempt-with-credit supplies" do not create any partial exemption, as these supplies are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

The amount of input tax that a partially exempt business may recover is generally calculated in the following two stages:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible.
- The remaining input tax that is not allocated directly to exempt and taxable supplies is apportioned based on the value of taxable supplies compared with total turnover, or it is apportioned by another reasonable method. If turnover is used to calculate the recoverable amount, the recovery percentage can in general be rounded up to the nearest whole number.

Approval from the Swedish tax agency is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Sweden. However, if any special methods are used instead, it is common that disclosures are made, especially if the calculation deviates from the turnover allocation method, but this is not a requirement. As long as the special method is deemed reasonable and sufficiently accurate it should be accepted.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax recovered depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must be adjusted over time if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes in any year during the adjustment period or if goods are taken from a taxable sector or activity for use in an exempt sector or activity, or vice versa.

The capital goods adjustment applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:

- Investments made on immovable property that cost more than SEK400,000 exclusive of VAT: adjusted for a period of 10 years
- Machinery and equipment that cost more than SEK200,000 exclusive of VAT: adjusted for a period of five years

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of acquisition to a fraction of the total input tax (1/10 for immovable property and 1/5 for machinery and equipment). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared with the year in which the capital goods were acquired. In Sweden, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services. However, the cost for investments on immovable property typically includes construction services as well as goods. As such, the input tax incurred that is subject to the adjustment is attributable to services received for such costs.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a month exceeds the amount of output tax payable, the taxable person has an input tax credit. A refund of the credit is triggered automatically by the submission of the VAT return.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax on pre-registration costs give a right to deduction if connected to a business taxable for VAT. However, the taxable person has the burden of proof showing that the costs are related to the taxable business. The input tax on pre-registration costs is normally deducted in the first VAT return submitted by the company following registration. In cases of retroactive registration, however, it is possible to deduct the input tax in the period in which the right to deduction occurred (the service or good had been acquired and a proper VAT invoice was received) by including it in the retroactively submitted returns.

Bad debts. Businesses are entitled to adjust their output tax when a bad debt occurs. The reduction should be adjusted in the same period as the bad debt loss is confirmed. The bad debt loss is confirmed when the customer is bankrupt or when a debt collector has been engaged and has established that the customer does not have any assets. From a VAT perspective, it is not enough to just send reminders to the customer. The output tax should be reduced in the period in which the bad debt is confirmed, but there are no formal requirements in terms of the correction of VAT returns or additional information to be submitted to the Swedish tax agency.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Sweden.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Sweden is recoverable. The Swedish VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Sweden. Non-established businesses may claim Swedish VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. For businesses established in the EU, refunds are made under the terms of EU Directive 2008/9. The VAT refund procedure under the EU Directive 2008/9 may be used only if the business did not perform any taxable supplies in Sweden during the refund period (excluding supplies covered by the reverse charge). For full details see the chapter on the EU.

In Sweden there are no additional specific local rules that apply.

Non-EU businesses. For businesses established outside the EU, refunds are made under the terms of the EU 13th Directive. For full details see the chapter on the EU.

Sweden does not exclude claimants from any non-EU country.

Find below specific rules for Sweden:

- The deadline for refund claims is 30 September of the year following the calendar year in which the tax is incurred.
- Application form SKV 5801 should be sent to the Swedish tax agency at the following address:

  Skatteverket
  Utlandsenheten
  SE-205 31 Malmö
  Sweden

- Claims may be submitted in Swedish, English, French or German.
- The minimum claim period is three months, and the maximum period is one calendar year. The minimum period of three months does not apply to a period ending at the end of a calendar year. The minimum claim for a period of less than a year but of at least three months is SEK4,000. The minimum amount for an annual claim or for the remainder of a calendar year is SEK500.
- The average handling period in Sweden is two to three months, and the time limit is six months.

Late payment interest. In case of late VAT payments to EU businesses, interest is paid when the refund is paid late from the Swedish tax agency. Payment shall be made at the latest 10 working days after the decision deadline. The decision deadline is four months from the date of the application or two months after a request for more information from the Swedish tax agency. In Sweden, interest is not paid on late refunds to non-EU non-established businesses.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally issue VAT invoices for all supplies made to other businesses or legal persons. Invoices are not required for retail transactions with private persons.

A VAT invoice containing the information required by the VAT act is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction or a refund for foreign businesses (see the chapter on the EU).

Credit notes. Credit notes may be issued in the following circumstances:
- They may be used to correct genuine errors or overcharges
- They may be issued following the cancellation of a supply
- They may give effect to a bonus or discount
- They may be issued as a result of the renegotiation of consideration for a supply

A credit note must show an unambiguous reference to the original invoice and the reduction in value and VAT on the supply.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Sweden for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Sweden. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Sweden. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

For B2G supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory. This is in line with EU Directive 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU).

For B2B and B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed in Sweden but not mandatory. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU (see the chapter on the EU).

Electronic invoices can only be used if the customer has approved the use of such invoices (except for B2G supplies, where no approval is needed).

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the European Union.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified invoices are permitted if one of the following criteria is met:
- The invoice amount does not exceed SEK4,000 (approx. EUR350)
- Commercial trade or administrative practices or technical limitations makes it difficult to follow the normal invoicing rules
- The invoice is a credit note that is to be treated as an invoice in accordance with the Swedish VAT Act

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Sweden. For a buyer to be allowed to use self-billing, the following conditions must be met:
- There needs to be an agreement in place between the seller and the buyer before the use of self-billing is started
- There needs to be a system in place to facilitate the seller's possibility to confirm each and every self-billing invoice
- The invoice itself needs to contain the words "self-billing" or similar, clearly indicating that it is in fact an invoice issued by the buyer on behalf of the seller

Apart from the above, regular invoicing rules apply to self-billing invoices.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. VAT is not chargeable on exported goods or intra-Community supplies of goods (see the chapter on the EU). However, to qualify as exports and intra-Community supplies, the export or supply must be supported by evidence confirming that the goods have left Sweden. Acceptable proof includes the following documentation:
- For an export, the stamped customs documentation and commercial documentation (such as bill of lading, copy of the invoice, delivery note and proof of payment)

- For an intra-Community supply, a copy of the invoice showing the customer's valid VAT identification number (issued by another EU Member State), plus a range of commercial documentation (such as bill of lading, transport documentation, proof of payment and proof of receipt)

The Swedish courts have ruled that the supplier of goods has the burden to prove that the goods have actually left Sweden. From 1 January 2020, Article 45a of Regulation 2018/1912 should be directly applicable in Sweden. As such, meeting the criteria set out in the Regulation should be deemed sufficient to prove the removal of goods from Sweden. See the subsection on the Quick Fixes above.

No special documentation applies in Sweden for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply.

Foreign currency invoices. Swedish taxable persons may maintain their accounts in either euros (EUR) or the domestic currency, which is the Swedish krona (SEK), depending on the place of supply rules. If a VAT invoice is issued in a different currency, the values for VAT purposes and the VAT amounts must be converted to EUR or SEK.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Suppliers are generally not required to issue invoices to private consumers according to Swedish regulation. Suppliers of new means of transport, construction or development services, and distance sales made from another EU Member State to Swedish nontaxable persons, i.e., consumers, are obligated to issue an invoice.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In Sweden, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include invoices and other records for indirect tax (e.g., receipts, credit notes verifications).

In Sweden, VAT books and records can be kept outside of the country. This is provided that certain conditions are met, and the taxable person has notified the Swedish tax agency or Swedish Financial Supervisory Board. Should these conditions not be fulfilled, the business may apply for a special permit by the Swedish tax agency or the Swedish Financial Supervisory Board.

Record retention period. Records should be held as a minimum for seven years after the end of the calendar year in which the record was received or presented. For certain records for which the capital goods adjustment scheme applies, records need to be retained for seven years after the end of the adjustment period. For immovable property the adjustment period is 10 years, and for other capital goods the adjustment period is 5 years, meaning that the retention period for those records is 17 and 12 years, respectively.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Sweden. Records should be retained in the format in which the record was initially received or presented, meaning that, for example, electronic invoices should be retained electronically, whereas physical invoices should be retained physically. Under certain restrictions, records may be transferred from one format to another, however, records still need to be retained in the original format for at least three years following the end of the calendar year in which the record was received or presented.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Periodic VAT returns are submitted in Sweden for monthly, quarterly or yearly periods, depending on the taxable person's turnover.

VAT liabilities are normally reported on the same tax return form as payroll taxes and employee income tax amounts withheld by employers. Monthly VAT returns must be filed if the taxable person's turnover exceeds SEK40 million. Otherwise, quarterly reporting may apply. However, a taxable person may opt to file monthly. A yearly reporting period applies for taxable persons whose turnover is less than SEK1 million per year. If yearly reporting is applicable, the VAT return should be submitted together with the income tax return. Note that the filing deadline for the income tax return can vary. Also, if a taxable person is registered according to any of the special regimes (MOSS or OSS) or are obliged to submit an EC-sales list, the reporting frequency will follow the rules for those regimes.

Monthly VAT returns generally must be submitted by the 26th day of the month after the end of the reporting period. Quarterly VAT returns must be submitted by the 12th day of the second month after the end of the reporting period. The same rules apply to taxable persons that have yearly turnover of less than SEK40 million and that apply for monthly VAT returns.

Periodic payments. VAT returns must be filed with full payment of VAT. Payment must be made by the same day as the deadline of submission of the VAT return (see above). VAT returns must be completed and return liabilities must be paid in SEK. The payment should be made to the Swedish tax account of the taxable person in accordance with the details as outlined on the filing receipt. Payment of VAT must be made via bank transfer (both local and international are acceptable).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Sweden, but not mandatory. Periodic VAT returns can be submitted electronically by using electronic identification. The electronic identification is personal and only available to someone with a Swedish personal identification number. The right to file electronically can be granted by the authorized signatories of the taxable person, either by using an e-service that requires the authorized signatory to already have obtained electronic identification themselves or by filing in a paper form (SKV 4809). The filing authorization granted applies to multiple filings such as VAT returns, CIT returns, PAYE, excise duty returns and grants reading access to the Swedish tax account of the taxable person.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Sweden.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. Sweden operates a cash accounting scheme with a threshold of EUR350,000 (approximately SEK3.7 million).

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Sweden.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. A Swedish taxable person that trades with other EU countries must complete statistical reports, known as Intrastat, if the value of its annual sales or purchases of goods exceeds certain thresholds. Separate reports are required for intra-Community acquisitions (Intrastat Arrivals) and for intra-Community supplies (Intrastat Dispatches).

The threshold for Intrastat Arrivals in 2023 is SEK15 million. The threshold for Intrastat Dispatches in 2023 is SEK4.5 million. At the time of preparing this chapter, the Intrastat thresholds for 2024 have not been announced.

The Intrastat reporting period is monthly. The submission deadline is normally between the 10th and 15th day following the reporting period for paper returns and between the 13th and 18th day for electronic returns. Intrastat reports must be filed in SEK.

EU Sales Lists. If a Swedish taxable person makes intra-Community supplies in any return period, it must submit an EU Sales List (ESL). An ESL is not required for any period in which the taxable person has not made any intra-Community supplies.

ESLs must be submitted monthly with respect to goods. An ESL regarding supplies of services must be submitted quarterly. However, if a business supplies both goods and services, the reporting must be in accordance with the rules regarding goods. Taxable persons may apply to make quarterly submissions if the total amount of supplies and transfers of goods does not exceed SEK1 million for the current quarter as well as for the preceding four quarters. The due date is the 20th day of the month following the end of the ESL return period for paper ESLs and the 25th day for electronic ESLs.

ESL reports must be filed using amounts expressed in SEK.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person that submits its returns electronically can correct previous returns in the same way, i.e., electronically. In addition, corrections can always be filed on paper by using the return form for the reporting period in question. Further, it is possible to request that the Swedish tax agency correct previous returns via a request for reassessment.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Sweden.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. There is no specific penalty in Sweden for the late registration of VAT. However, interest is charged on any VAT paid late as a result of late registration (see below for details).

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty of SEK625 is imposed for late filing of a VAT return. The penalty is increased to SEK1,250 if the tax agency has ordered the VAT return to be submitted.

Late payment of VAT results in the imposition of an interest penalty. See the subsection Interest below for further details.

In principle, penalties may be imposed for late filing of Intrastat reports or for errors or omissions. However, penalties are rarely imposed. If a penalty is assessed, the courts take several factors into consideration (such as the size of the business and its turnover) in determining the amount owed.

A penalty of SEK1,250 is imposed for late, missing or inaccurate ESLs.

Penalties for errors. A tax penalty may be imposed by the Swedish tax agency for incorrect VAT reporting and VAT reporting accrual errors. The penalty is calculated as 20% of the incorrect reported VAT (i.e., as 20% of incorrectly reported input tax or 20% of such output tax that incorrectly has not been reported). In cases of VAT reporting accrual errors, the penalty is calculated as 2%-5% of the VAT reported in an incorrect VAT reporting period. The tax penalty may be subject to partly or full redemption depending on the matters at hand.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Interest. Late payment and errors of VAT results in the imposition of an interest penalty. This interest is calculated at two different levels, a higher and a lower, depending on the reason for the deficit. The lower interest equals the base interest. The base interest in Sweden is 5%, as of August 2023. The lower interest rate applies, for example, to deferred tax payments. The higher penalty interest rate equals the base interest plus 15 percentage points, i.e., 20%, as of August 2023. The higher interest rate applies to and is calculated on deficits, for example, due to a submitted tax return where no payment has been made by the due date.

Penalties for fraud. There are no specific penalties in Sweden for fraud. Other penalties outlined above should apply. Fraud, as well as incorrect VAT reporting, knowingly or by negligence, may, however, be subject to criminal penalties under the Swedish Tax Evasion Act.

Personal liability for company officers. A representative of a legal person can become personally liable for virtually all unpaid taxes and fees in the legal person's tax account. Representatives normally include legal representative (e.g., CEO and board members). The responsibility may also include a representative that without being a legal representative, in fact has a controlling influence over the legal person.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Sweden is six years. It is possible to re-evaluate previously reported or non-reported VAT (both output and input tax) during the six years prior to the current year. This can be done on the request of the taxable person and by the Swedish tax agency as part of review.

Switzerland

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Zurich GMT +1

EY
Maagplatz 1
CH-8005 Zurich
Switzerland

Indirect tax contacts

Benno Suter
+41 (58) 286-43-86
benno.suter@ch.ey.com

Silke Hildebrandt-Stürmer
+41 (58) 286-32-41
silke.hildebrandt-stuermer@ch.ey.com

Berne GMT +1

EY
Schanzenstrasse 4a
CH-3001 Berne
Switzerland

Indirect tax contact

Benno Suter
+41 (58) 286-43-86
benno.suter@ch.ey.com

Geneva GMT +1

EY
Route de Chancy 59
P.O. Box 48
CH-1213 Petit-Lancy 1 (Geneva)
Switzerland

Indirect tax contacts

Benno Suter
+41 (58) 286-43-86
benno.suter@ch.ey.com

Ashish Shina
+41 (58) 286 59 06
ashish.sinha@ch.ey.com

Zug GMT +1

EY
Gotthardstrasse 26
CH-6302 Zug
Switzerland

Indirect tax contact

Andrea Sohst
+41 (58) 286-75-20
andrea.sohst@ch.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)

Local names	Mehrwertsteuer (MWST) Taxe sur la valeur ajoutée (TVA) Imposta sul valore aggiunto (IVA)
Date introduced	1 January 1995
Trading bloc membership	European Free Trade Association (EFTA)
Administered by	Swiss Federal Tax Administration (https://www.estv.admin.ch) (SFTA)
VAT rates
Standard	8.1%
Reduced and special	2.6%, 3.8%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	CHE-123.456.789 MWST
VAT return periods	Quarterly Biannually (if the taxable person has applied to use the net tax rate method) Monthly (optional if excess of input over output tax occurs regularly)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	CHF100,000 (EUR97,000)
Non-established	CHF1 (EUR1) if worldwide turnover exceeds CHF100,000
Distance selling	CHF100,000 (EUR97,000) of low-value goods
Intra-Community acquisitions	Not applicable
Electronically supplied services	CHF1 (EUR1) for B2C if worldwide turnover exceeds CHF100,000 (EUR97,000)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods or services made in Switzerland for consideration by a taxable person. In this context, it should be noted that Swiss VAT regulation follows a rather broad definition of "supplies of goods" including, e.g., sale of energy (gas, oil, electricity), lease agreements, room cleaning, work performed on goods, even if the goods are not altered by the work but only tested, calibrated, regulated, programmed, checked for their function, etc. Non-established suppliers that are obliged to be VAT registered in Switzerland must account for Swiss VAT on all taxable supplies performed in Switzerland.
- The acquisition by any person in Switzerland of certain types of services or, in some cases, of work on immovable goods from non-established nor registered suppliers (services and work on immovable goods for which the recipient is liable for the VAT due). Services and work on immovable goods purchased by nontaxable persons are not subject to reverse charge if the value of the acquired supplies does not exceed CHF10,000 per calendar year.
- The importation of goods from outside Switzerland and the Principality of Liechtenstein, regardless of the status of the importer.

The Principality of Liechtenstein and DE-Büsingen are considered to be the domestic territory for Swiss VAT and Customs purposes. Likewise, Switzerland is considered to be part of the territory of the Principality of Liechtenstein for the purposes of VAT in the Principality of Liechtenstein (Swiss Customs Territory). However, Switzerland and the Principality of Liechtenstein have their own authorities. The highest Court for the Swiss Customs Territory is the Swiss Supreme Court.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Switzerland, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Switzerland applies the concept of a transfer of going concern as found in several other jurisdictions. It is called the "notification procedure" and requests the transferor to transfer a business or partial business as a taxable, but zero-rated transaction, since the taxation is being notified to the Swiss Federal Tax Administration (SFTA) instead. Furthermore, the transferee assumes any residual values of capitalized input tax from the transferor. Effectively, the notification procedure is mandatory. In addition, a voluntary notification procedure is available upon request with the SFTA.

Transactions between related parties. In Switzerland, there is a mandatory obligation to apply arm's-length pricing to any transactions between related parties. Offsetting of supplies between related parties is forbidden for statutory accounting purposes, but also due to strict VAT rules. All supplies between related parties must be recognized on a gross level (this means that the supplies cannot be set off from each other and compensation must be gross) and with arm's-length pricing. The same applies for barter trades. Global profit split methods and cost sharing are not accepted for VAT purposes if they involve offsetting of supplies. However, the offsetting of cash balances is permissible.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any person (which includes legal entities, partnerships, natural persons, foundations, inheritance partnership, etc.) who, regardless of legal form, purpose or result, carries out a business in Switzerland. Carrying out a business involves the independent exercising of professional or commercial activities, together with the intention to execute regular transactions and acting externally in one's own name.

Exemption from registration. An exemption from liability to register for VAT applies to any person who:

- Generates a worldwide annual turnover from taxable supplies of less than CHF100,000
- Carries on a business based abroad that exclusively makes supplies in the Swiss territory that are VAT exempt with credit and/or supplies of services with its place of supply in Switzerland but subject to the reverse charge in Switzerland
- Provides supplies of electricity power in cables, natural gas via the natural gas distribution grid and district heat to a taxable recipient in Switzerland

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Any person who carries on a business and is exempt from the liability to register (tax liability) has the right to waive exemption from the tax liability, provided it has an establishment or a taxable activity in Switzerland. Exemption from tax liability must be waived for at least one tax period.

Group registration. Legal entities with their seat in Switzerland or commercial units in Switzerland can form a VAT group if they are related as a result of "joint supervision." The group may include Swiss branches of foreign entities, to the extent that the foreign entities are under the same "joint supervision" as the other VAT group members. Although the Principality of Liechtenstein is considered to be domestic territory for Swiss VAT purposes (and vice versa), it is not possible to form a VAT group that includes both Swiss and the Principality of Liechtenstein entities as the Principality of Liechtenstein and Switzerland have independent tax authorities.

The tax group must appoint a tax representative who will deal with the VAT-related proceedings of the group. The minimum period for which the tax group can exist is one year.

VAT group members are treated as a single taxable person with a single VAT number. The VAT group submits a single, consolidated VAT return for all its members. VAT is not chargeable on transactions between group members.

All members of a VAT group in Switzerland are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

From a practical perspective, the creation, modification or liquidation of a Swiss VAT group is regulated by very specific conditions, both in terms of authorization and timeline.

Holding companies. Holding companies can be included in a VAT group in Switzerland, subject to the usual conditions of control (see above). In addition, any other person can be included in a VAT group, even if it is not VAT registered, as long as control is given.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption has not been implemented in Switzerland.

Fixed establishment. A permanent establishment is defined in Switzerland as a fixed place of business through which the activity of the business is wholly or partly carried on.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a legal seat or fixed establishment in the territory of Switzerland. A non-established business that makes supplies of goods or services in Switzerland must register for VAT if it is liable to account for Swiss VAT on the supplies.

A non-established business making any local supply of goods or services in Switzerland that are not subject to reverse charge in Switzerland becomes liable for Swiss VAT if its global turnover exceeds the CHF100,000 threshold. This results in an obligation for any non-established business with a global turnover of more than CHF100,000 annually, to register for Swiss VAT from the first franc of taxable turnover generated in Switzerland (whereas a Swiss-established business is obliged to register for Swiss VAT only once the threshold of CHF100,000 is reached).

Non-established entities supplying low-value goods to Swiss customers for a total of CHF100,000 or more annually need to register for Swiss VAT, import the goods and charge Swiss VAT on the sale to Swiss customers.

Once a non-established business is registered for Swiss VAT purposes, it is liable to charge VAT on all taxable supplies that have a place of supply in Switzerland.

Tax representatives. A non-established business must appoint a Swiss established tax representative if it supplies goods or services subject to Swiss VAT. Swiss VAT registrations of non-established businesses are not possible otherwise. The tax representation relationship must be notified to the tax authorities via the filing of an ad hoc tax representation letter. The tax representative does not assume the VAT liability of represented taxable persons.

Reverse charge. The reverse-charge mechanism applies to the following situations:

- Services acquired by a Swiss recipient where the services are subject to the general place of supply rule, supplied by a supplier domiciled abroad who is not registered for Swiss VAT, and the place of supply is in the Swiss Customs Territory (place of supply in the customer country). Exceptions apply for telecommunication or electronic services to nontaxable recipients and services subject to special place of supply rules.

- Data carriers without market value imported into Switzerland, and certain services and rights are associated with these data carriers.
- Work on immovable goods located in Switzerland provided by a business established abroad and not registered for Swiss VAT purposes, in case the supply has not been subject to import VAT.

Any Swiss recipient is liable for the settlement of VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism if the recipient is a taxable person or if the value of the supplies received exceeds CHF10,000 per calendar year.

As an exception to the general reverse-charge rule, supplies of telecommunication and electronic services to persons who are not registered for VAT are subject to Swiss VAT and require the supplier to register for and charge VAT in Switzerland, if their worldwide turnover exceeds the annual threshold of CHF100,000.

For any other services that fall under the general place of supply rule, the reverse-charge mechanism applies regardless of whether or not the recipient of the services is registered for VAT.

If a non-established supplier becomes registered for Swiss VAT purposes, the reverse-charge mechanism no longer applies, however, and the supplier must charge VAT on all taxable services supplied to Swiss recipients.

The place of supply for most supplies of services is the customer's country (fallback rule). In the circumstances described above, the customer must account for VAT under the reverse-charge procedure. However, some exceptions exist. These exceptions, for which additional consideration regarding the place-of-supply rules needs to be made, include the following:

- Services that require the physical presence of the customer, who is a natural person (i.e., a private individual, and not a legal entity), at the place where the supplier is domiciled (e.g., beauty or curative therapies and treatments, family advisory and childcare), even if exceptionally supplied from a distance
- Services of travel agents and event organizers at the place of supplier. However, tour operators (i.e., those providing travel services) do not fall into this category

The following services are taxed at the place of activity or real estate:

- Services in the fields of culture, art, sport, science, education or entertainment and similar services, including the activities of organizers and related activities
- Restaurant services
- Passenger transport services
- Services related to immovable property (for example, intermediation, administration, valuation, services in connection with the preparation and coordination of construction works such as architectural, engineering and supervising services, land and building monitoring, and accommodation services)
- Services in the field of international development and humanitarian aid

Domestic reverse charge. The domestic reverse-charge mechanism applies to supplies of electricity in cables, natural gas via the natural gas distribution grid and district heat if the Swiss service recipient is a VAT-registered business.

The place of supply of electricity by cable or natural gas via the gas distribution network is based on where the recipient of the supply is established or in the absence of an establishment, where the electricity, gas or heating is consumed, despite the fact that these are supplies of goods and not services.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronic or telecommunication services to non-VAT-registered persons domiciled in Switzerland (i.e., business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies) must register for VAT in Switzerland and charge Swiss VAT, if their worldwide turnover exceeds the annual threshold of CHF100,000. Once VAT registered, the nonresident providers must declare all domestic supplies of goods and services in Switzerland, including services subject to the general place of supply rule regardless of whether the recipient is registered for VAT or not.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services to business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Switzerland. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for VAT due via the reverse-charge mechanism (see Reverse-charge subsection above). There are no other special rules in Switzerland for e-commerce supplies.

At the time of preparing this chapter, it is expected that new rules will come into effect in Switzerland for the digital economy from 1 January 2025.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Contrary to the European Union (EU), Switzerland has not introduced marketplace taxation. For distance selling supplies, mail-order companies and online dealers that supply more than CHF100,000 per year of low-value goods to customers in Switzerland are obliged to register for Swiss VAT. Distance sellers are deemed to execute domestic sales for such goods and are regarded as the importer of record. Consequently, they must charge Swiss VAT to their customers, not only on their sales of low-value goods, but also on all goods for which the amount of import tax exceeds CHF5.

Low-value goods are defined as goods whose import tax amount do not exceed CHF5 (i.e., value of imported goods (including transportation costs), taxable at standard VAT rate of 8.1%, is inferior to CHF65). Low-value goods are exempt from import tax when crossing the border.

Vouchers. Swiss VAT law distinguishes between value vouchers and supply vouchers. A typical distinction is that with supply vouchers the economic risk of price changes resides with the issuer of the vouchers. Contrary to the value voucher, the inflation risk shifts to the voucher holder. Value vouchers have their tax point at the time of their redemption, whereas supply vouchers are to be taxed at their issuance. To reverse any turnover of supply vouchers, a tracking inventory of expirations of supply vouchers is crucial and must be evidenced by the issuer.

Registration procedures. Businesses that intend to register for Swiss VAT need to file an application with the SFTA. The application must be filed electronically via the SFTA's webpage, available in German, French and Italian. Both general and financial information must be provided to finalize the VAT registration process. On average, the application procedure takes about two weeks.

Deregistration. Taxable persons are required to notify the SFTA in writing within 30 days after ceasing their entrepreneurial activities in Switzerland or with concluding the liquidation procedure at the latest. For non-established businesses, the deregistration is due by the end of the tax period in which the last supply was performed in Switzerland.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any relevant changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details (e.g., name, address, business activity) must be announced in a timely manner. The Swiss VAT law does not provide any specific timeline or penalties in this regard.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to VAT at any rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 8.1% (with effect from 1 January 2024, previously 7.7%)
- Reduced rate: 2.6% (with effect from 1 January 2024, previously 2.5%)
- Special rate: 3.8% (with effect from 1 January 2024, previously 3.7%)
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard VAT rate applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%
(i.e., tax-exempt with credit)

- Exports of goods and services
- Supplies of certain goods and services to airlines
- Services with a place of supply abroad
- Supplies of investment gold

Examples of goods and services taxable at 2.6%

- E-books, e-newspapers and e-magazines, as well as printed of the same kind
- Food and drinks (except when provided by hotels and restaurants), except for alcoholic drinks
- Drugs
- Tap water

Examples of goods and services taxable at 3.8%

- Hotel accommodation, including breakfast

The term "tax-exempt without credit" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to tax and that do not give rise to a right of input tax deduction (see Section F). Some supplies are classified as tax exempt with credit (zero-rated), which means that no VAT is chargeable, but the supplier may recover the related input tax.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services
(i.e., tax-exempt without credit)

- Health care (in certain cases)
- Financial services
- Insurance
- Education
- Real estate

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Certain supplies of goods and services may be voluntarily subjected to tax by openly charging VAT on the invoice (option), e.g., certain health care, educational and cultural services as well as renting or leasing of immovable commercial property. However, restrictions may apply and the right to opt should be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In Switzerland, taxable turnover must be reported in the quarter (or month, if monthly declarations are filed) in which the sales invoice for a supply is issued or in which payment is received (if no invoice is issued). If the declaration is made on a cash basis, the turnover must be declared for the quarter in which payment is collected. Exceptions apply in case of VAT rate changes and various other special events. The application of the method on payment collected requires a written application with SFTA.

Deposits and prepayments. The tax point for a deposit and prepayment is when the supplier receives the consideration or when the invoice is issued, whichever is earlier.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Switzerland for continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, exceptions apply when the VAT rates change, and then specific transitional rules would apply.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Switzerland for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The tax point for reverse-charge services for a taxable person is when the invoice is received or when the service fee is paid. In all other situations, including declarations made on a cash basis, the effective payment date is decisive.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Switzerland for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the official date of importation.

Distance sales. There are no special time of supply rules in Switzerland for supplies of distance sales. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, special rules for import VAT and customs duties are applicable.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax to the extent that the associated purchases of goods and services are business related and are not used for exempt supplies or for receiving public subsidies. By the time of the declaration of input tax, the input tax must have been paid or been declared as a reverse charge. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from the output tax.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in the Swiss Customs Territory, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on reverse-charge supplies.

According to a recommendation from the SFTA, a valid tax invoice or customs document and proof that the input tax was paid should support a claim for input tax.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Switzerland is five years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are used for exempt supplies, or do not serve a business purpose (e.g., goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur) or is related to a public subsidy.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Private expenditure

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, hire, lease, maintenance and fuel for cars, vans and trucks (output tax is due on the private use of company cars)
- Parking
- Conferences, seminars and training courses
- Books
- Business use of home telephone (output tax is due on the private element)
- Advertising
- Transport
- Hotel accommodation
- Business gifts (subject to restrictions; output tax may be due)

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies without credit is generally not recoverable. If a Swiss taxable person makes both tax-exempt supplies without credit and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

The amount of input tax that a partially exempt business can recover may be calculated using the following two-stage calculation:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that can be directly allocated to taxable or to exempt supplies without credit. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies without credit is not deductible. Exempt supplies with credit are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.
- The next stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, input tax on general business overheads) that can be partially recovered. The calculation of the recoverable portion can be performed using a general pro rata method based on the respective values of taxable and exempt without credit supplies made. In addition to the general pro rata method, other industry-specific methods are available, such as the lump-sum method for banks.

When applicable, it is recommended to get the partial exemption standard or special method validated up front by the tax authorities. Generally, this applies for special methods, but can vary on a case-by-case basis.

Capital goods. Input tax recovery is allowed on capital goods (i.e., capital assets) in Switzerland. However, the input tax recovery is subject to the capital goods being monitored and corrected in accordance with the actual use of the said capital goods. The useful life of capital goods is defined as 5 years (moveable and intangible goods) or 20 years (immovable goods) and corrections must be considered pursuant to this duration. Capital goods adjustments also apply to input tax incurred on services that represent a durable capitalized asset, such as IP, software invention, and several year licenses.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in the same period, the taxable person is entitled to a refund of the excess amount. A VAT repayment is paid automatically within 60 days after the return is received by the Swiss VAT authorities.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Switzerland is generally not recoverable unless under certain circumstances such as retroactive registrations or via a tax succession by a business transfer.

Bad debts. Bad debt relief applies in Switzerland only once the debt has been written off in the accounts and accounted as a loss from a Swiss accounting perspective. Only then can the output tax due be corrected.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Switzerland.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Switzerland is recoverable. The Swiss VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered for VAT in Switzerland or the Principality of Liechtenstein and that have not made any supplies in Switzerland or the Principality of Liechtenstein. A non-established business may claim Swiss VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses. However, restrictions apply to certain types of expenditure for claimants established in certain countries.

Switzerland applies the principle of reciprocity; meaning the country where the claimants is established must also provide VAT refunds to Swiss businesses. Swiss VAT can only be refunded on the condition of reciprocity to taxable persons established in the following countries:

Australia	Greece	Poland
Austria	Hong Kong	Portugal
Bahrain, Kingdom of	Hungary	Romania
Belgium	Ireland, Republic of	Saudi Arabia

Bermuda
Bulgaria
Canada
Croatia
Cyprus
Czech Republic
Denmark
Estonia
Finland
France
Germany
Israel
Italy
Japan
Latvia
Lithuania
Luxembourg
Macedonia
Malta
Monaco
Netherlands
Norway
Serbia, Republic of
Slovak Republic
Slovenia
Spain
Sweden
Taiwan
Türkiye
United Arab Emirates
United Kingdom
United States

Deadline for refund claims is 30 June following the calendar year in which the supply received was invoiced. This deadline is strictly enforced.

Claims may be submitted in French, German or Italian. The claimant must appoint a representative who is a natural person or a legal entity whose domicile or registered office is in Switzerland.

The claim period is one year. The minimum claim amount is CHF500. Erroneously paid VAT on supplies that are not subject to VAT or exempted from VAT with credit will not be refunded.

The following documentation must accompany the claim:
- Completed VAT refund claim (Forms 1222 and 1223). Form 1222 identifies the Swiss tax representative that needs to be appointed to apply for the refund.
- Original VAT invoices.
- Proof of payment (if requested by the Swiss tax authorities).
- A Certificate of Taxable Status for the claimant, which is issued by the competent tax authorities in the country where the claimant is established, to prove the business status of the claimant.
- Applications for refunds of Swiss VAT may be sent to the following address:

  Eidgenoessische Steuerverwaltung
  Hauptabteilung Mehrwertsteuer
  Schwarztorstrasse 50
  CH-3003 Bern
  Switzerland

- Refunds are generally made within six months after the date of application.

Late payment interest. The SFTA may pay interest on refunds made after the refund period of six months after the date of refund application if reciprocity rules are observed. Late payment interest is paid at a rate of 4% per annum.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Swiss taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. A VAT invoice is necessary to support a refund under the VAT refund scheme for non-established businesses.

Credit notes. A VAT credit or debit note may be used to correct the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services. These documents must be cross-referenced to the original VAT invoice. If sent electronically the receival of the credit note should be tracked.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Switzerland, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Switzerland. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Switzerland. Requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Data and information transmitted and stored electronically that are relevant for claiming input tax, or levying or collecting tax, must meet the following requirements in order to be of the same evidential value as data and information readable without auxiliary means:
• Proof of origin
• Proof of integrity
• Dispatch not contested

These requirements can be met by applying an advanced electronic signature.

Simplified VAT invoices. Invoices issued by automatic cash register systems (receipts), do not need to include information on the recipient of the supply, provided that the consideration disclosed on the receipt does not exceed the amount of CHF400.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Switzerland. No formal additional requirements other than the general invoicing requirements apply to self-billing. However, parties are required to agree on processes, i.e., containing a receival tracking and proxy for the self-billing entity, which entitles the use of the supplier's name and invoicing data.

Proof of exports. Swiss VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, export supplies must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Switzerland. Acceptable proof includes the officially validated customs documentation.

Foreign currency invoices. If a Swiss VAT invoice is issued in a currency other than the domestic currency, which is the Swiss franc (CHF), no conversion rate or CHF amount must be stated on the invoice. The amounts must be converted into CHF in the VAT report only, using the appropriate exchange rates published by the federal tax administration, which are available on its website (monthly or daily rates are available). If no clear tax advantage is gained, the use of a group exchange rate may be allowed.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Swiss VAT law does not, in general, distinguish between B2B or B2C supplies. The only exception is in the context of supplies of telecommunications and electronic services and the application of the reverse-charge mechanism to those services. As such, there are no special rules for invoices issued to private consumers, and therefore full VAT invoices must be issued for all supplies.

Records. In Switzerland, examples of what records must be kept for VAT purposes include VAT returns, agreements, general accounting, invoices, booking vouchers documenting each booking record, etc.

In Switzerland, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Records that must be archived must completely comply with the Swiss archive and bookkeeping requirements and need to be accessible and readable with immediate effect without delay. In principle, records must be kept in the Swiss territory but may also be retained outside, provided Swiss bookkeeping and archiving rules are strictly complied with.

Record retention period. VAT books and records must be held for 16 years (26 years for documents related to immovable property). This takes into account the 10 years of absolute statute of limitations in Switzerland and the 6 additional years specifically for VAT.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Switzerland, but electronically stored documents must meet specific criteria of authenticity, origin and integrity, among other criteria.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Swiss VAT returns are usually submitted for quarterly periods. If the taxable person has applied to be taxed under the net tax rate method (that is, the tax due is calculated by multiplying the gross total taxable turnover by the balance tax rate authorized by the Swiss tax authorities), VAT returns must be submitted on a half-yearly basis. Taxable persons with a regular excess of input over output tax may apply to submit monthly returns. VAT liabilities must be paid in CHF.

VAT returns are due 60 days after the end of the VAT settlement period.

Periodic payments. The VAT amount due must be paid (by bank transfer only) 60 days after the end of the VAT settlement period.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Switzerland for all taxable persons. This is with effect from 1 January 2021. However, filing electronically does not prevent a non-established business from appointing a tax representative.

Data and information that are relevant for claiming input tax or levying or collecting tax can be transmitted and archived electronically or in a similar manner. They have the same evidential value as data and information that are readable without auxiliary means, provided the following requirements are met:
- Proof of origin
- Proof of integrity
- Dispatch not contested

Special legal provisions require the transmission or storage of the data and information mentioned in a particular form.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Switzerland.

Special schemes. Net tax rate scheme. If a taxable person does not generate more than CHF5.020 million turnover from taxable supplies annually and in the same period does not have to pay more than CHF109,000 in VAT, calculated at the net tax rate that applies to it, it may report VAT under the net tax rate method. When using the net tax rate method, the VAT due is determined by multiplying the total of the taxable considerations, including tax, generated in the reporting period in Switzerland by the net tax rate approved by the Swiss federal tax authorities. The net tax rates take into account the input tax amounts usual in the relevant sector of the industry. They are fixed by the Swiss federal tax authorities after consultation with the industry association concerned. Authorization to report under the net tax rate method must be requested from the Swiss federal tax authorities and the method must be used for at least one tax period.

Flat tax rate scheme. In principle, the flat tax rate method is similar to the net tax rate method but may be applied only by public authorities and related institutions, in particular private hospitals and schools or licensed transport undertakings and associations and foundations.

Margin scheme. A VAT margin scheme is applicable to supplies of works of art, antiquities and collector's items. In general, if the taxable person has acquired collectibles such as works of art, antiques and the like, it may deduct the purchase price from the sales price in order to calculate the tax, provided that it has not deducted any input tax on the purchase price (margin tax). If the purchase price is higher than the selling price, the loss can be offset by subtracting the difference from the taxable turnover. If such collector's items are imported by the reseller, the paid import tax may be added to the buying-in price.

Notional input tax deduction. A taxable person may deduct notional input tax if it acquires an individualizable movable good in the course of a business activity entitling it to input tax deductions; and the VAT on the acquisition of the good has not been openly passed on to the business.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Switzerland.

Supplementary filings. Annual turnover and input tax reconciliation. The preparation of an annual turnover and input tax reconciliation is a mandatory requirement in Switzerland. This document, however, does not, have to be filed as such to the SFTA. In case discrepancies are revealed further to the filing of a VAT return, a finalization form (or corrective returns) must be filed.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If a taxable person discovers errors in their tax returns in the course of drawing up their annual accounts, it must correct them at the latest in the so-called finalization return to be filed online (as of 1 January 2021) within 180 days (plus 60 days) after the end of the relevant business year.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Switzerland.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Taxable persons should be registered with the federal tax administration in writing within 30 days after the commencement of their tax liability or 60 days for persons who become taxable solely because of the acquisition tax. A penalty may be levied for late VAT registration. In the case of tax evasion, fines of up to CHF800,000 may be charged. The amount of the fine varies depending on the circumstances.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Late payment interest at a rate of 4% per annum may be assessed for the late payment of VAT. For one-off cases with no recurring intentions, a maximum penalty of CHF10,000 may be charged per incompliance.

Penalties for errors. Any person who willfully or negligently reduces the tax claim to the detriment of the state by wrongly stating output or input tax must be liable to a fine not exceeding CHF400,000.

In addition, if the tax evaded is transferred in a form that entitles the taxable person to make an input tax deduction, the fine must not exceed CHF800,000.

However, any person who reduces the tax due to the state by truthfully declaring relevant tax factors, but by willfully qualifying them incorrectly for tax purposes must be liable to a fine of up to CHF200,000. If the offense is committed through negligence, the fine is up to CHF20,000.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, it cannot be excluded that such failure may eventually indirectly entail situations leading to the levy of penalties. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Any person who willfully or negligently reduces the tax claim to the detriment of the state by not declaring in a tax period all receipts; declaring receipts from supplies exempt from the tax that are too high; not declaring all supplies subject to reverse charge; declaring expenses entitling to an input tax deduction that are too high; obtaining an incorrect refund; or obtaining an unjustified tax abatement can be liable for a fine of up to CHF800,000. If the tax advantage obtained by the act is greater than the threatened penalty and the offense was committed willfully, the fine may be increased to a maximum of two times the tax advantage.

Personal liability for company officers. The Swiss VAT law foresees that such responsible private individuals (i.e., board of directors, CFOs, finance directors) are personally liable for penalties exceeding CHF100,000.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Switzerland is five years. The statute of limitation is, however, interrupted in the event of a written request to establish or correct a tax claim, a ruling, a decision or the commencement of an audit. If the statute of limitation is interrupted by the tax administration, it begins to run again for two years. If the statute of limitation is interrupted by the taxable person, it begins to run again for five years. The absolute statute of limitation is, however, limited to 10 years from the end of the tax period in which the tax claim arose.

Taiwan

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Taipei GMT +8

EY
9/F, 333 Keelung Road, Sec. 1
Taipei 11012
Taiwan

Indirect tax contacts

Vivian Wu	+886 (2) 2757-8888, Ext. 88833 vivian.wu@tw.ey.com
Olivia Li	+886 (2) 2757-8888, Ext. 67105 olivia.yh.li@tw.ey.com
Penny Hsu	+886 (2) 2757-8888, Ext. 67839 penny.hsu@tw.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT) and gross business receipts tax (GBRT)
Local name	Value-added and non-value-added business tax
Date introduced	13 June 1931 (revised June 2017)
Trading bloc membership	Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC)
Administered by	Taiwan Ministry of Finance (MOF) (https://www.etax.nat.gov.tw/)
Rates
VAT	5%, zero-rated (0%) and exempt
GBRT	0.1% to 25%
VAT number format	10001111 (eight digits)
VAT return periods	Bimonthly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the taxes

Taiwan imposes business tax, which consists of VAT and GBRT.

Business tax applies to the following:

- Sale of goods in Taiwan. A transaction involving goods is a transfer of ownership of goods to others for consideration. This is not limited to goods exchanged for money. The exchange of goods for other goods is also included.
- Sale of services in Taiwan. A transaction involving services is the rendering of services to others or supplying goods for the use of others for consideration.
- Import of goods into Taiwan by individuals or businesses.

Taxable persons may be subject to both VAT and GBRT. For example, a bank may be subject to VAT on its rental sales and GBRT on its interest income.

In general, both VAT and GBRT liabilities are based on the sales amount, which includes all of the consideration received from sales of goods and services and expense reimbursements.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons.

In Taiwan, while the use and enjoyment rules are not codified in the VAT law, except for foreign e-commerce operators, similar concepts are applied for sales of services. Specifically, a sale of service in Taiwan refers to the service that is supplied or utilized in Taiwan. In practice, if the ultimate service recipient or ultimate beneficial owner of such service is located in Taiwan, such sale of service is subject to VAT.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Taiwan, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where a company conducts a spin-off or an acquisition of assets or shares pursuant to the Business Mergers and Acquisitions Act, with the shares entitled with voting rights as consideration to pay the company while such shares are at a value not less than 65% of the total consideration, or a company is carrying on the merger/consolidation according to the Business Mergers and Acquisitions Act. Then such commodities or labor service transferred is deemed as not falling within the scope of imposition of VAT.

Transactions between related parties. In Taiwan, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. Generally, an arm's-length principle on transactions between related parties is regulated under Taiwan Transfer Pricing Guidelines. According to VAT rules, in principle, the transaction value should be based on the fair market value.

C. Who is liable

The following persons are considered taxable persons for business tax purposes:
- Taxable persons that supply goods or services
- Consignees or holders of imported goods
- Purchasers of services supplied by non-established businesses that have no fixed place of business in Taiwan. However, if a taxable person purchasing services is solely engaged in the operation of goods or services that are subject to VAT in Taiwan (i.e., a fully taxable business and is entitled to fully recover input tax), the taxable person is not subject to business tax on its purchases of services supplied by a non-established business.
- Foreign taxable persons with no fixed place of business in Taiwan, that meet the threshold of annual sales of digital services to individual buyers in Taiwan (business-to-consumer (B2C) supply of digital services)

Exemption from registration. Taxable persons engaged solely in the business of the sale of exempt goods or services (as outlined below) and government entities of all levels may be exempted from applying for taxation registration.

The following goods or services may be exempted from applying for taxation registration:
- The water supplied to farmland for irrigation
- The medical services, medicine, ward lodging and meals provided by hospitals, clinics and sanitariums

- The social welfare services provided by social welfare organizations or institutions or labor organizations, duly established with permission of the competent authority and social welfare services consigned by the government
- The education services offered by schools, kindergartens and other educational and cultural institutions, including cultural services offered under government's consignment
- The goods or services sold by student-run shops of vocational schools that do not serve outsiders
- The proceeds from goods sold in tenders, charity sales and charity shows held by charity and relief institutions organized according to the law, provided that the total proceeds are solely used by said institutions after deducting the necessary expenditures for the tenders, charity sales and charity shows
- The goods or services sold by employee welfare organizations of government bodies, state enterprises and social organizations that are organized and operated under relevant laws and are not open to the public
- The goods or services sold by prison workshops and their finished goods stores
- Services rendered by post and telecommunication offices in accordance with the law; and business consigned under government mandate
- The service of consigned sale of stamp tax tickets and postage stamps
- The goods or services sold by peddlers or hawkers
- Feed and unprocessed raw agricultural, forestry, fishing and livestock products and by-products; the agricultural, forestry, fishing and livestock products, and by-products of farmers' and fishermen's harvests sold by farmers and fishermen
- The fish caught and sold by fishermen
- The research services supplied by scientific or technological institutions that are established under the approval of the government
- The government at all levels

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Taiwan does not contain any provision for voluntary registration, nor special VAT registration rules for small businesses.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Taiwan.

Fixed establishment. The Enforcement Rules of VAT and the GBRT Act provide the VAT concept of fixed establishment by a definition of "fixed place of business." The term "fixed place of business" means a fixed place for operating business of selling goods or services, including the head office, administrative office, branch, limited partnership branch, business office, factory, maintenance shop, workshop, machine shop, warehouse, mining field, construction site, show room, liaison office, operating office, service station, operating division, branch store, sales outlet, auction house and other similar places.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed place of business in Taiwan. A non-established business must register for VAT only if it sells cross-border electronic services to Taiwan domestic individuals and its annual sales exceeds NTD480,000. This kind of non-established business is called a "foreign e-commerce operator" (FECO). FECOs can only register for VAT via the eTax portal, which is an electronic platform established by the Ministry of Finance, and either by itself or by an appointed tax agent (see the subsections Digital economy and Registration procedures below for further details). Business tax also applies to the following taxable supplies made by nonresidents:

- Taxable sales of goods in which non-established businesses consign goods to Taiwanese entities, that sell the consigned goods on behalf of the foreign non-established businesses. A consignment agreement shall be in place in order to carry out the consignment of goods
- Taxable sales of services by foreign entities that have no fixed place of business in Taiwan to Taiwanese entities described in the third bullet in Taxable persons
- Taxable sales of digital services by foreign entities with no fixed place of business in Taiwan to Taiwanese individual buyers

The business tax rate is 2% for the purchase of core business-related services from foreign financial institutions that do not have a fixed place of business in Taiwan. For purchases of other services, the business tax rate is the standard rate of 5%.

However, public and private schools at any level or educational or research institutions that purchased services provided by foreign enterprises, institutions, groups or organizations that have no fixed place of business within the territory of Taiwan, for educational, research or experimental purposes are not required to pay business tax.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Taiwan. However, filing agents or tax agents are allowed. A filing agent can file the tax returns on behalf of the appointor. Whereas a tax agent can file the tax return and pay the tax on behalf of the appointor; in practice, only filing agents are allowed.

Reverse charge. A non-established business is not required to register for VAT in Taiwan, except for the non-established businesses that import goods into Taiwan. In this regard, for the importation of goods, the VAT will be borne by the importer, generally the domestic purchaser (i.e., via the reverse-charge mechanism).

For the purchase of services supplied by non-established businesses that have no fixed place of business in Taiwan (i.e., for business-to-business [B2B] supplies), they will be subject to reverse-charge mechanism. However, if a taxable person purchasing services is solely engaged in the operation of goods or services that are subject to VAT in Taiwan (i.e., a fully taxable business and is entitled to fully recover input tax), the business entity is not subject to business tax on its purchases of services supplied by a foreign entity.

In addition, for non-established businesses making e-commerce supplies who have no fixed place of business in Taiwan and sell e-commerce services to Taiwanese individuals, they may need to register for the VAT purpose in Taiwan (refer to the Digital economy subsection below).

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Taiwan.

Digital economy. Non-established businesses providing e-commerce services (i.e., FECOs) to Taiwanese individual purchasers (B2C) and that have annual sales that exceed TWD480,000 must register for business (meaning business purpose, as non-established businesses are required to register for this), issue eGUIs, and pay VAT directly or indirectly through appointment of a tax-filing agent. For further detail, see the subsection Non-established businesses above.

Where a non-established business sells physical goods to a Taiwanese customer via a digital platform or the internet, the non-established business is not required to register for business, and the VAT on digital supplies of goods would be imposed on the importer of record upon importation via the reverse-charge mechanism. For further detail, see the subsection Reverse charge above.

Online marketplaces and platforms. If a non-established business e-commerce operator renders digital platform services to local individuals, the non-established business e-commerce operator may need to register for VAT in Taiwan (see the Digital economy subsection above).

Registration procedures. Applications for business tax registration must be filed to the tax authority in paper or online after the completion of company registration but before commencement of operation in Taiwan. The following documentation must be submitted together with the application:

- A photocopy of the Taiwan ID card, a photocopy of household registry or any other valid evidentiary documentation for the responsible person
- When the entity is a company, the company's articles of incorporation
- When the entity is a partnership, a copy of the partnership agreement; if any of the partners is a minor, a document evidencing the approval of the minor's legal agent shall also be submitted, but it is not required for a married minor

- When the entity is a limited partnership, a limited partnership agreement and the written consent of general partners for the elected representative; if any of the partners is a minor, a document evidencing the approval of the minor's legal agent shall also be submitted, but it is not required for a married minor
- In the case of other incorporations, a photocopy of the license for the incorporation's establishment issued by the competent authority and the articles of incorporation
- When the responsible person at a branch unit is different from that of the head office, the letter of authorization shall also be submitted
- In the case of the selling of goods or services via automatic vending machines, the detailed information of the serial numbers of the automatic vending machines, the place of location and the total number of machines shall also be submitted

From 1 January 2023, taxable persons (established businesses only) engaged in supplying goods and/or services via electronic means should submit additional information, such as web domain name and website address for business tax registration. Additionally, the taxable person should disclose its business name and tax identification number.

In principle, the business tax registration process is done automatically by a local tax administration office of the Taiwan tax authority as soon as it receives the approved and filed basic information related to the company's registration from the competent authority in charge of company registration. However, the company may need to submit additional documents if formally requested by a local tax administration office of the Taiwan tax authority.

Foreign enterprises, institutions, groups or organizations, without a fixed place of establishment, providing e-commerce services to Taiwanese individuals are now required to register with Taiwan's tax authority. Foreign e-commerce operators will be assigned a taxable person ID number that should be used when filing bimonthly VAT returns. The registration and VAT return filing obligations are required if the annual e-commerce sales revenue exceeds TWD480,000 (approx. USD16,000). If the sales revenues are in currencies other than TWD, the amount should be converted to TWD at a buying exchange rate announced by the Bank of Taiwan on the last date of the bimonthly VAT filing.

The foreign e-commerce operator should apply for tax registration via the eTax portal (https://www.etax.nat.gov.tw/etwmain/front/ETW118W/VIEW/1063?site=en) by itself or by an appointed agent.

A foreign e-commerce operator that applies for tax registration must submit the following documentation:
- Qualification documents evidencing that the foreign enterprise, institution, group or organization has been approved for registration or establishment by the competent authority for the relevant industry of its home jurisdiction
- Notarization documents for the qualification documents listed above authenticating its taxation/trade registration or establishment provided by a local government agency/court in its home jurisdiction, or by the Taiwan embassy or representative office in its home jurisdiction
- When appointing a tax agent for VAT registration, the power of attorney should be provided
- All documents written in any kind of language other than Chinese shall be accompanied by the Chinese translation

Deregistration. If there is cessation of a business entity, an application for cancellation of registration must be filed with the competent tax authority within 15 days after the occurrence of such an event. An application by a taxable person, for cancellation of registration, may only take effect upon the payment in full of taxes or upon the provision of security.

Changes to VAT registration details. If there is any change to the details of a taxable person, such as name of company, address, type of business, legal representative, etc., an application for an amendment to registration must be filed with the competent tax authority within 15 days after the occurrence of such an event. An application by a taxable person for amendment to registration may only take effect upon the payment in full of taxes or upon the provision of security provided. However, this requirement shall not apply in the case of application for amendment due to merger, consolidation, increase of capital or a change in business address or scope of business.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption. Exempt supplies apply to both VAT and GBRT. Zero-rated supplies apply only to VAT.

The following are the GBRT rates:
- 0.1% for traders in the agricultural wholesale market and small businesses supplying agricultural products
- 1% for small businesses and other taxable persons that are excluded by the MOF from reporting their transactions
- 1% for reinsurance premiums of insurance enterprises (5% for operations other than authorized core businesses)
- 2% or 5% on the sale of services by local financial institutions (for banking and insurance companies: generally, 5%, except for certain transaction types; for the other financial institutions: 2% on their core business revenue and 5% on their noncore business revenue)
- 2% or 5% on the purchase of services from foreign financial institutions
- 15% for nightclubs or restaurants providing entertainment
- 25% for saloons or tearooms, coffee shops and bars offering companionship (in nightclubs, customers can ask wait staff to sit aside, serve drinks, chat and sing karaoke)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Export of goods
- Services related to exports
- Services rendered in Taiwan but used outside Taiwan
- Sales of goods or services to taxable persons in bonded areas for the buyers' operations

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Certain essential and unprocessed foods
- Sale of lands
- Certain bonds and securities
- Sales of fixed assets that are not regularly traded by certain taxable persons subject to GBRT

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Taxable persons may opt to treat the above examples of exempt supplies of goods and services as taxable. A taxable person can apply to the Ministry of Finance to opt to treat an exempt supply as taxable. An application should be filled out with the Sales Analysis Table attached.

E. Time of supply

The following are the rules for the timing of VAT liabilities:
- Goods: at the earlier of the delivery of goods or payment of the proceeds

- Services: in general, on payment of the remuneration or when service is delivered
- Continuous supplies of services: in general, on payment of the remuneration
- For imported goods: on customs declaration

In general, liability for GBRT arises on receipt of payments.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Taiwan for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Taiwan for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. For supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return, the tax is due when the goods are sold. If the goods are returned to the seller, the seller should obtain the qualified documents (e.g., certificate of sales/purchases returns or allowances on merchandise sold) to reverse the entry and adjust the amount of tax payable.

Reverse-charge services. Except for digital services for B2C transactions, the reverse-charge mechanism applies to services rendered by a non-established business that does not have a fixed place of business in Taiwan. However, if a taxable person purchasing services is solely engaged in the operation of goods or services that are subject to VAT in Taiwan (i.e., a fully taxable business and is entitled to fully recover input tax), the taxable person is not subject to business tax on its purchases of services supplied by a non-established business.

The purchaser of such services shall, prior to the 15th day of the period following the period in which the payment is made, compute and pay the tax due on the supply.

In addition, VAT on such goods shall be levied by Customs at the time of importation.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Taiwan for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. For the supply of imported goods, the time of supply is the holder of imported goods is liable to pay the 5% VAT at customs, i.e., at the time of importation.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

Input tax is deductible only with respect to VAT and not recoverable for GBRT.

Input tax is deductible in the current and next filing periods. If a taxable person reports the input tax after the next filing period, the taxable person must provide the reasons in an attachment to the tax return.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Taiwan is 10 years.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax is not deductible if supporting documents with respect to purchased goods or services are not obtained or maintained.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Goods or services that are not used in the principal or ancillary business operations of the purchaser. However, input tax on purchases made for Taiwan defense construction, troop morale and contributions to the government is deductible
- Goods or services for social relations purposes
- Goods or services provided to individual employees
- Passenger cars for personal use

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Any input tax derived from the goods or services that are used in the principal or ancillary business operations of the purchaser shall be deductible, except for the abovementioned nondeductible input tax

Partial exemption. If a taxable person incurring VAT engages on a concurrent basis in the business of tax-exempt goods or services or in the business applying GBRT, the taxable person is prohibited from deducting a certain part of the input tax from the output tax. The taxable person must classify its purchases and importation of goods and services into for use specifically in its taxable business and for use in its tax-exempt business or for common overhead use. Depending on whether or not the taxable person could clearly identify the purchase and importation of goods and services for use, the taxable person may choose to employ the proportional deduction method or the direct deduction method to calculate its VAT recovery percentage. Once the taxable person has decided to adopt the direct deduction method, this cannot be changed within three years following the date of adoption. The nondeductible ratio is subject to be computed according to the prescribed formula as below.

The nondeductible ratio is the following:
The net sales amount of exempt sales + the net sales amount subject to business as financial industries (e.g., banking enterprise), small business (e.g., vendor), and special food and beverage services enterprises (e.g., night clubs) /the total net sales amount for each period.

The net sales amount must be the balance of the total sales amount deducting sales returns and discounts.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Taiwan. The only methods allowed in Taiwan are the proportional deduction method or the direct deduction method.

Capital goods. In Taiwan, there are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. The normal rules outlined above apply. The business tax overpaid on fixed assets obtained could be refunded after verification by the competent tax authority.

Refunds. In general, overpaid tax may be offset against future business tax payable, and the excess input tax not credited against the output tax in the current VAT return shall be carried over to the next period. The competent tax authority shall assess the VAT return and the application for VAT overpaid refund within six months, starting the next day of the filing deadline.

Overpaid VAT (i.e., the input tax remaining after deducting it against the output tax) is refundable after verification by the relevant tax office if any of the following conditions are satisfied:

- The overpaid amount of VAT resulting from zero-rated sales
- The overpaid amount of VAT resulting from the acquisition of fixed assets
- The overpaid amount of VAT resulting from the cancellation of registration through a merger or consolidation, transfer of ownership, dissolution or cessation of business
- Other special circumstances approved by the MOF exist

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Taiwan is recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Taiwan.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Taiwan.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Taiwan is not recoverable. However, a non-established business may qualify for a refund of VAT incurred on the purchases of goods and services with respect to its participation in an exhibition or its engagement in "temporary commercial events" in Taiwan if the following conditions are met:
- The input tax reaches a minimum of TWD5,000 in a year
- Reciprocal treatment is given by the other foreign jurisdiction under the same circumstances

For purposes of the above rule, "temporary commercial events" refer to activities including traveling, training, inspection, market research, procurement, organizing or attending international conferences, tender invitations, information exchanges, marketing seminars and other business activities approved by the MOF that are relevant to the core or ancillary business operations of the companies.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Taxable persons selling goods or services must issue Government Uniform Invoices (GUIs) to purchasers.

GUIs are generally printed and sold by the government. However, qualified taxable persons can apply to print their own invoices. The MOF prescribes the forms, items to be recorded and the uses for the invoices.

The tax authority has regulated a new format of GUIs in the cloud (eGUIs), which are defined as electronic GUIs and issued by taxable persons to purchasers via the vehicles (i.e., email address) approved by the tax authority.

Credit notes. In Taiwan, in the case where the sales amount for the GUIs has been declared to reduce the output tax incurred from the sales return or allowances, a certificate of sales returns/allowances issued by the purchaser is required; such a case, however, shall be limited to instances where the original GUI contains the name and uniform serial number of the purchaser.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Taiwan, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Taiwan. This applies to FECOs who are VAT registered and make B2C supplies. For B2B, business-to-government (B2G) and all other B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Taiwan.

For FECOs conducting B2C sales in Taiwan with sales revenue exceeding NTD480,000 per year, VAT registration is mandatory, and they are required to issue a cloud Government Uniform Invoice (GUI), which is a type of eGUI, to the consumers for B2C transactions. The FECOs are not required to issue eGUIs for B2B or B2G transactions, as they are covered by the reverse-charge mechanism. For further detail, see the subsections Reverse charge and Non-established businesses above.

For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Taiwan. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. A taxable person is qualified to issue electronic uniform invoices once its business registration has been approved by the local competent tax authority. For taxable persons issuing e-invoices, the sales, discounts and returns certificates can also be issued electronically.

The Taiwanese government has been promoting the use of electronic invoicing since 2010. For a taxable person to issue e-invoices (i.e., GUIs), they are required to register for an account (to access the official e-invoice platform) using the electronic certification or signature obtained via the e-invoice service platform or a value-added service center.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Taiwan. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Taiwan. It is only allowed for goods that are produced, imported or purchased by a taxable person, and are used by the taxable person itself or supplied for no consideration. These scenarios are only where the taxable person can issue GUIs to themselves in their own name.

Proof of exports. The following are examples of documentation that may be used to substantiate exports:
- Goods exported: a copy of the international parcel receipt issued by the postal service, except for goods exported through customs that are exempt from such documentation requirement
- For services rendered with respect to exports or services rendered in Taiwan but used outside of Taiwan: a copy of the foreign currency receipt
- For goods sold to entities located in bonded areas: document issued by customs proving that such sale is an export or a copy of the GUI certified by the bonded purchaser

A taxable person applying for a zero-business tax rate on goods or services, for services relating to export or services provided in Taiwan but used overseas must submit the following evidence:
- If the foreign exchange obtained has been settled for sale to or deposited into a bank designated by the Taiwan government, the documentary evidence of the foreign exchange sale or deposit issued by the designated foreign exchange bank
- If the foreign exchange obtained has not been sold and settled or deposited into a bank designated by the Taiwan government, a photocopy of the original receipt of the foreign exchange with the amount specified therein

Foreign currency invoices. GUIs must be issued in the domestic currency, the New Taiwan dollar (TWD), with the exception of non-established e-commerce businesses. The foreign currency can be noted as a remark on the GUIs and there is no need to convert the sales amount in foreign currency to TWD on the GUIs.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. A GUI is generally required for all sales of goods and/or services. However, there are special invoicing rules for non-established businesses providing e-commerce services to Taiwanese individuals (B2C).

The foreign e-commerce operators (FECOs) are required to issue eGUIs aforesaid. The tax authority announced that there will be no penalties (up to TWD1 million) imposed for FECOs not issuing cloud GUIs from 1 January 2019 to 31 December 2019. However, there may be penalties for not issuing eGUIs for the period on or after 2020. See the Penalties for errors subsection below for further details.

When issuing eGUIs, foreign e-commerce operators can use the business' native language. The transaction date on the eGUI should be recorded in AD (i.e., Anno Domini, e.g., 1 January 2018). This is different for Taiwanese taxable persons, as they list the transaction date in local description method (i.e., 1 January 2018 would be listed as 1 January 107, which is the description method for the Taiwanese year) on the GUI. The unit price, the price and the total amount can be listed using the currency native to the business, but the business should indicate the currency used.

Records. In Taiwan, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes includes following:
- Any original transaction receipt, such as GUIs and commercial invoices, issued to the customers or itself and received from the suppliers
- Debit and credit notes

- General ledger
- General journal
- When the business is in merchandising sector, an inventory account book is required
- When the business is in manufacturing sector, a raw material account book, a work-in-process account book, a finished good account book and daily production report are required
- When the business is in construction sector, a construction-in-progress account book and construction daily report are required
- When the business is in service sector, the service volume record, e.g., the traveler registered book, the daily list of carriage, etc., is required

In Taiwan, the VAT books and records can be held outside of the jurisdiction. However, if the tax authority asks the taxable person to provide the records, it must provide the records in a timely and integral manner. Therefore, the tax authority would recommend holding the records at the place of business. Meanwhile, certain taxable persons can hold the records electronically after receiving approval from the tax authorities.

Record retention period. All the accounting documents, except for those that must be permanently preserved or those related to unsettled accounting transactions, must be kept for at least five years after the completion of annual closing procedures.

There is no clear definition on "permanently preserved documents" in Taiwan. In practice, the accounting documentation that the taxable person must preserve permanently is based on the taxable person's own business considerations.

All the accounting books, except for those related to unsettled accounting transactions, must be kept for at least 10 years after the completion of annual closing procedures.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Taiwan. A taxable person is allowed to maintain its accounting documents, accounting books and financial statements of taxable persons digitally. All abovementioned accounting records can be held electronically or stored via a data storage medium. The record retention period for accounting records via electronic archiving shall be the same as traditional paper archiving as described above. Pre-approval from the tax authority is required for certain industries.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns must be filed for two-month periods by the 15th day following the end of the period. It is possible to apply for monthly VAT filings if a taxable person is eligible for zero-rated VAT. VAT returns must be accompanied with all relevant documentation, and excess output tax must be paid to the tax authorities before the returns are filed.

Periodic payments. VAT taxable persons must declare and pay VAT by the 15th day following the end of the period, the same as the return deadline. Taxable persons can submit payment via deposit accounts, credit cards or in person at financial institutions and convenient stores. Payments must be made in TWD.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Taiwan, but not mandatory. However, it has been widely adopted by most taxable persons. Electronic filing is completed via software released by the Ministry of Finance. The software carries out the validation of the input and output tax and subsequently generates the VAT return. The VAT return is then submitted to the Ministry of Finance via the same software.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Taiwan.

Special schemes. Small businesses. If a taxable person is qualified as the definition of "small business," the VAT of the taxable person shall be assessed by the tax authority every three months and the VAT return is not required to be submitted to the tax authority.

The term "small business" refers to taxable persons whose monthly average sales amount is TWD200,000 or less. The "small business" category also includes consignees of the agricultural wholesale markets, small business entities selling agricultural products and massage enterprises run by visually impaired persons.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Taiwan.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Taiwan. However, if a taxable person wants to disclose other information outside of the VAT return, it may attach such information along with its VAT return.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The correction of previous returns must be made by submitting necessary documentation to the supervisory tax authority in paper. If there is VAT payable in excess of the previous calculated VAT payable after correction, the VAT payable in excess of the previous amount must be paid along with interests before submitting the correction to the supervisory tax authority.

The documentation below must be provided to the supervisory tax authority for correcting previous returns if the taxable person found errors in previous returns:
- The previous returns before correction
- The previous returns after correction
- The explanation for difference between the previous and the correct return, as well as the calculation form
- Transaction document evidencing the correction made (e.g., commercial invoice, payment receipt, etc.)
- The VAT payment receipt for the VAT amount in excess of the previous amount (if any)

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Taiwan.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Taxable persons registering late for VAT are subject to the greater of the following penalties:
- Penalty of no less than TWD3,000 and no more than TWD30,000, which may be imposed repeatedly if the registration is not filed within the period prescribed by the tax authority
- Penalty of up to five times the amount of tax evaded

For deregistration, taxable persons failing to notify the supervisory tax authority about the cessation of their business would be subject to a penalty for no less than TWD1,500 and no more than TWD15,000. Failure to comply with the rules within the time limit may result in continuous punishment for each violation until compliance is met.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person that fails to file the sales amount or the detailed list of GUIs used within the prescribed time limit, may be liable to the following penalties:
- If the filing is less than 30 days past due, a surcharge for late filing equal to 1% of the tax payable may be imposed for every two days overdue. The surcharge may not be less than TWD1,200 and not more than TWD12,000.
- If the filing is more than 30 days past due, a surcharge for non-filing equal to 30% of the assessed tax payable may be imposed. The amount of this surcharge may not be less than TWD3,000 and not more than TWD30,000.
- If there is no tax payable, the surcharge for late filing or non-filing shall be TWD1,200 and TWD3,000, respectively.
- If the payment is past due for less than 30 days, a surcharge for late payment equal to 1% of the tax payable may be imposed for every three days overdue up to 10% of the VAT payable. If the payment is past due in excess of 30 days, the case should be referred for compulsory execution with some exceptions.

Penalties for errors. Under the Taiwan tax regime, there is a gray area between errors and fraud. Generally, whether or not a taxable person is intentional or unintentional to avoid its tax obligation is subject to the tax authorities' discretion.

Whether the issue is deemed as an error or fraud is up to the tax authority's discretion. Most penalties are categorized as fraud and not errors.

Whereas a taxable person voluntarily files a supplementary tax return and pays to cover the tax amount failed to pay in the original tax return before any informant's reports or the tax authorities' assessments, the punishments imposed on such tax evasion could be exempted.

If a taxable person were found to have failed to issue GUIs or understated sales amount on GUIs before the statutory period for filing a tax return, in addition to paying the tax calculated on the basis of the understated or omitted sales amount at the prescribed tax rate, the taxable person shall be fined no more than five times the amount of the tax evaded. But the fines shall not exceed TWD1 million.

Moreover, if a profit-seeking entity fails to provide or obtain GUIs to or from others or to keep GUIs as required by the law, upon the verification of the tax authority, a fine equivalent to 5% of the total amount of the relevant GUIs shall be imposed on such entity. But the fines shall not exceed TWD1 million.

Foreign e-commerce operators (FECOs) are required to issue eGUIs. The tax authority announced that there will be no penalties imposed for FECOs not issuing cloud GUIs from 1 January 2019 to 31 December 2019. However, there may be penalties for not issuing eGUIs for the period on or after 2020. If FECOs had not issued eGUIs accordingly, pursuant to the Tax Collection Act, the FECO would be subject to a penalty of 5% on the total amount of relevant GUI. The penalty is limited to TWD1 million. Moreover, if the FECO omits to issue eGUIs (for a transaction or several transactions), according to the VAT Act, in addition to the VAT payable on the omitted revenue, the FECO would be subject to a penalty of up to five times of the tax evaded. The penalty is limited to TWD1 million. For further details, see the subsection Supplies to nontaxable persons above.

Where an event simultaneously violates the penalty for behavior sanction and the penalty for VAT shortfall, the heavier penalty between the two shall be imposed.

Late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details would result in a penalty of no less than TWD1,500 and no more than TWD15,000. Failure in compliance with the rules within the time limit may result in continuous punishment for each violation until compliance is met. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A taxable person may be subject to a fine for tax evasion ranging up to five times of the amount of tax evaded and the closure of the business if any of the following circumstances exist:

- A business is conducted without an application for business registration being filed
- The sales amount or detailed list of GUIs used is not submitted and the amount of business tax due is not paid within 30 days after the prescribed deadline
- The sales amount is not reported or is underreported
- The business is conducted after applying for deregistration or after suspension of business by the relevant collection authority
- The amount of input tax is falsely reported
- Business tax is not paid for the purchase of services provided by foreign entities within 30 days after the prescribed deadline
- Tax is evaded in another manner

Generally, a taxable person who evades tax payments by fraud or other unrighteous means shall be sentenced to imprisonment for no more than five years, and is imposed with a fine of no more than TWD10 million. Moreover, if the amount of the evaded tax payments is greater than TWD50 million, the sentence to imprisonment is aggravated for not less than one year but no more than seven years and is imposed with a fine of more than TWD10 million but not more than TWD100 million. Additionally, a person who assists or instigates another person to evade tax payments shall be sentenced to imprisonment for no more than three years and is imposed with a fine of no more than TWD1 million. Whereas a tax official, an attorney, a certified public accountant or any other authorized agent commits an offense by assisting or instigating the taxable person to evade tax payments by fraud or other unrighteous means, the penalty to be imposed on the above enumerated persons shall be increased by up to one half.

Personal liability for company officers. Where a legal representative of a taxable person evades VAT with illegal strategies or by fraud, this representative could be sentenced to imprisonment for no more than five years, detention or in lieu thereof or in addition thereto, be imposed with a fine of no more than TWD60,000.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Taiwan is five years. However, this can be extended to seven years in cases of fraud, failing to file the returns within the prescribed time frame or tax evasion.

Tanzania

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Dar es Salaam GMT +3

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 2475
Dar es Salaam
Tanzania

Street address:
EY House, Mzinga Way
Plot 162/1,
14111 Oysterbay
Dar es Salaam
Tanzania

Indirect tax contacts

Nsanyiwa Donald +255 (22) 292-4040/41/42
nsanyiwa.donald@tz.ey.com

Beatrice Melkiory
+255 (22) 292-4040/41/42 beatrice.melkiory@tz.ey.com

Fredy Rugangila
+255 (22) 292-4040/41/42
fredy.rugangila@tz.ey.com

This chapter refers to mainland Tanzania throughout, not Tanzania Zanzibar.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 July 2015 (effective date of VAT Act, 2014; VAT introduced on 1 July 1998)
Trading bloc membership	Southern African Customs Union (SADC) East African Community (EAC) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Tanzania Revenue Authority (TRA) (www.tra.go.tz)
VAT rates
Standard	18%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	00-111111-A
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	TZS200 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods and services in Tanzania by a taxable person
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in Tanzania
- The importation of goods from outside Tanzania

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Tanzania, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Tanzania. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Tanzania, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A person that makes supplies of taxable goods and services in Tanzania in the course of furtherance of economic activity is liable for VAT.

VAT registration is required on the attainment of annual turnover of TZS200 million from the supply of taxable goods and services. A taxable person must notify the Tanzania Revenue Authority of its liability to register for VAT within 30 days of becoming liable.

If the business activities of a taxable person change, the taxable person must notify the Commissioner within 14 days after the date of the change.

Exemption from registration. Businesses whose supplies mainly consist of exempt supplies (such as supplying specified agricultural, fisheries, beekeeping and dairy implements, and specific unprocessed agricultural products) are not required to register for VAT, since their turnover will not generally meet the registration threshold. However, a person supplying zero-rate supplies is required to be registered for VAT if the registration threshold is met. Tanzania does not have any provision to exempt such suppliers from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Tanzania provides for voluntary registration for intending traders who expect to reach the registration threshold in a period of 12 months or half of the registration threshold in a period of six months. Also, irrespective of whether the registration threshold is met, suppliers of professional services are required to be registered for VAT.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Tanzania. All subsidiaries of a group are assessed separately. However, a taxable person with more than one place of business (i.e., branches)/ is able to have a single VAT registration that covers all economic activities undertaken by that taxable person. There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a single VAT registration for branches. There is no joint and several liability for branch registration. A taxable person with branches has a single tax identification number (TIN) and VAT registration. Hence, branches are not treated separately for tax purposes.

Fixed establishment. In Tanzania there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the term "fixed place" is mainly used though not defined to establish a place of supply for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed place of business in Tanzania. The law requires a person without a fixed place of business to appoint a resident person in Tanzania to act on its behalf in matters relating to VAT (see the Tax representatives subsection below). A permanent establishment or branch of a foreign business must register for VAT if it makes taxable supplies of goods or services. A person importing goods or services from a nonresident must pay the Tanzanian VAT due.

As per the 2022 VAT regulations, a nonresident taxable person who supplies electronic services to an unregistered person (i.e., business-to-consumer [B2C] supplies) in Tanzania who does not appoint a tax representative, regardless of the registration threshold, shall be required to apply for VAT registration as a taxable person to the Commissioner General. The regulations further provide that a person registered under the regulations shall not claim input tax.

Tax representatives. Where a nonresident carries on economic activities in Tanzania without having a fixed place making taxable supplies, the nonresident is required to appoint a resident VAT representative in Tanzania to act on its behalf in matters relating to VAT. Upon acceptance of the VAT representative appointed by the Commissioner, the VAT representative will perform on behalf of the taxable person all activities required under the VAT act 2014, including the following:

- Applying for registration, canceling registration and fulfilling other obligations in relation to registration
- Paying any VAT or fine, penalty or interest imposed on the nonresident

The non-established business must notify the commissioner, in writing, that a VAT representative has been appointed. A resident person who is a VAT representative of more than one non-established business must register separately for VAT with respect to each non-established business.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge is applicable for imported services for supplies made by non-established businesses-to-business (B2B) customers in Tanzania (i.e., the customer is VAT registered in Tanzania). The customer (i.e., the recipient of the service) will be assumed to be the service supplier, and so the input tax will be the same as the output tax for the service imported. The obligation to account for VAT on imported services lies with the person whose taxable supplies are less than 90% of its total supplies.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic charges in Tanzania.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C i.e., private individuals and non-VAT-registered businesses, are required to register and account for VAT in Tanzania. The nonresident provider who does not have a fixed place of business in Tanzania must opt to register as a taxable person or appoint a VAT representative. The VAT registration is done online through a simplified registration procedure accessible at https://taxpayerportal.tra.go.tz/. After a successful registration, a nonresident will be required to file monthly VAT returns through the same portal.

A supply of electronic services by a nonresident person to an unregistered person (B2C) shall be treated as a supply made in Tanzania when the payment proxy includes credit or debit card information and bank account details of the recipient of the electronic services is in Tanzania; or the resident proxy, including the billing or home address or access proxy including internet address, mobile country code of the SIM card of the recipient is in Tanzania.

The definition of "electronic services" has been extended to include online intermediation and online advertisement services.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B are not required to register and account for VAT in Tanzania. The customer is liable to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Tanzania.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Tanzania.

Registration procedures. If a taxable person's taxable turnover equals or exceeds TZS200 million, a taxable person is obliged to apply for the VAT registration within 30 days of becoming liable to make such an application. A taxable person or anyone that the company appoints can submit the application. The application should be accompanied by the following documents: copies of Memorandum and Article of Association, Certificate of Incorporation, business license, TIN certificate, lease agreement and two passport-size photographs for one of the directors. Complete VAT Application Form No. ITX245.02.E together with a letter demonstrating that registration requirements have been met and submit either the hard copy or electronically within 30 days. Online registration is available at www.tra.go.tz. In practice, however, the registration process is still done manually and the same can be completed within 14 working days, if all the required documents are available.

Deregistration. A taxable person who ceases to be liable for registration must notify the Commissioner in writing within 14 days after ceasing to become liable. If the Commissioner is satisfied with the notice and if the payment of all VAT due is made, the commissioner cancels the registration, effective from the date of the notification.

The Commissioner will cancel the registration if satisfied that the following conditions exist:
- The taxable person is not carrying on an economic activity
- The taxable person has ceased to produce taxable supplies
- The taxable person's taxable turnover falls below the registration threshold

The cancellation of registration shall be effective from the date set out in the notice of cancellation/deregistration.

A taxable person whose registration is canceled must file a final VAT return and pay all taxes due within 30 days after the date of cancellation of registration.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person is required to notify the Commissioner in writing within 14 days of any changes in its VAT registration details. Such changes may include but are not limited to changes on the taxable person's name, business/trading name, address, contact details, places through which the taxable person carries on an economic activity, nature of the economic activities carried on by the taxable person, as well as registration status of the taxable person.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The term "taxable supplies" also refers to imported services, whereby the receiver of the services makes taxable supplies that are less than 90% of its total supplies.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods
- Supplies of goods and supplies of immovable property to an address outside Tanzania
- Exports of taxable services to an address outside Tanzania

- Supplies of goods to a tourist or visitor by a licensed duty-free vendor who holds documentary evidence that the goods have been removed from Tanzania
- Supply of ancillary transport services for goods in transit through mainland Tanzania, where the service is an integral part of the international transport service and in respect of goods stored at the port, airport or a declared customs area for not more than 30 days while awaiting onward transport

A special relief remains in place for taxable persons who entered into a binding agreement relating to exploration and prospecting of minerals, gas or oil with the government of Tanzania before 1 July 2015, the effective date of the VAT Act, 2014.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Agricultural, horticultural or forestry machinery for soil preparation or cultivation, except lawn mower or sports ground rollers and parts
- Agriculture implements (e.g., liquid and powder sprayers, spades, shovels, mattocks, picks, hoes, forks, tractor trailers)
- Agriculture inputs (e.g., fertilizers, pesticides, fungicides, herbicides, rodenticides, fungicides)
- Fishery implements (e.g., nets, vessels, factory ships and other vessels for processing or preserving fishery products)
- Beekeeping implements (e.g., beehives, honey strainers, beehive smokers)
- Crop agricultural insurance
- Dairy equipment (e.g., milking machines, cream separators, milking machines)
- Medicine or pharmaceutical products including food supplements or vitamins supplied to the government entities
- Articles designed for people with special needs (e.g., spectacle lenses, sunscreen for use by albinos)
- Educational materials (e.g., dictionaries, encyclopedias, other printed books, instructional chats, diagrams)
- Health care services (e.g., medical, dental, nursing, convalescent, rehabilitation) provided by an institution approved to provide such services, under the supervision or control of a person who is registered as being qualified to perform the services under Tanzania laws or whose qualifications to perform the services are recognized in Tanzania
- Transportation of persons by any means of conveyance other than taxicab, rental car or boat
- Petroleum products and equipment for natural gas (e.g., petrol, diesel, kerosene, compressed natural gas (CNG) plants equipment, natural gas pipes, transportation and distribution pipes)
- Intermediary services (e.g., financial services supplied free of charge, insurance premiums for aircraft)
- Import of goods by a registered and licensed explorer or prospector for exclusive use in oil, gas or mineral exploration or prospection activities, if also relieved from customs duties
- Educational services
- Immovable property (e.g., sale of vacant land)
- Tobacco not stemmed or stripped
- Preparations of a kind used in animal feeding
- Fertilized eggs for incubation
- A motor vehicle designed for use by persons with disability
- Importation of an ambulance by a registered health facility other than a pharmacy, health laboratory or diagnostic center
- Financial services for which no consideration is charged
- Raw materials (benzalkonium chloride and Glutaraldehyde) of HS code 2916.32.00 for the manufacture of insecticides and acaricides that have been approved by the relevant Minister
- A house sold by a real estate developer at a value not exceeding TZS50 million

- Precious metals, gemstones and other precious stones at refineries, buying stations or mineral and gem houses designated by the mining commission
- Double refined edible oil from locally grown seeds by a local manufacturer until 30 June 2024
- Automobile accessories used to convert a motor vehicle fuel system to natural gas or electricity system to persons engaged in the conversion of such motor vehicles
- Moulds imported by a local manufacturer of pharmaceuticals for exclusive use in manufacturing pharmaceutical products in mainland Tanzania
- Aircraft, aircraft engines, aircraft parts and aircraft maintenance to a local operator of air transportation

In addition to the above list, certain VAT exemptions may be available upon application to the tax authority on the following supplies:

- Importation of raw materials to be used solely in manufacture of long-lasting mosquito nets
- Importation by or supply to a government entity of goods or services to be used solely for implementation of a project funded by the government; or funded by a concessional loan, a non-oncessional loan or a grant through an agreement between the government of Tanzania and another government, donor or lender of a concessional loan or a non-concessional loan; or funded by a grant agreement duly approved by the Minister for Finance entered between a local government authority and a donor, provided such agreement provides for VAT exemption on goods or services
- Importation or supply of goods or services for the relief of natural calamity or disaster
- Importation by or supply of goods or services to an entity having an agreement with the government of Tanzania for the purpose of operating or executing a strategic project, provided such agreement provides for VAT exemption on goods or services
- Importation by or supply of goods by a nongovernmental organization having an agreement with the government of Tanzania solely for a project implemented by the respective nongovernmental organization, provided such agreement provides for VAT exemption on goods or services
- An entity having an agreement with the government of Tanzania for the purpose of operating or executing a strategic project.

Local manufacturers of packaging materials of pharmaceutical products or engaged in poultry farming in mainland Tanzania and have performance agreements with the government may also apply for a VAT exemption on the following:

- Raw materials of polymers of propylene or of other olefins, in primary forms (HS code 39.02) and polyacetals, other polyethers and epoxide resins, in primary forms; polycarbonates, alkyd resins, polyallyl esters and other polyesters, in primary forms (HS code 39.07) to be used solely in the manufacturing of packaging materials for pharmaceutical products
- Prefabricated structures or supply of locally manufactured prefabricated structures (HS code 9406.20.90) to be used solely in poultry farming

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Tanzania.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The tax point is the earliest of the following events:

- The time when the invoice for the supply is issued by the supplier
- The time when the consideration for the supply is received in whole or in part
- The time of supply, which is one of the following:
  - The time at which the goods are delivered or made available.
  - The time at which the services are rendered, provided or performed.
  - The time at which the immovable property is "created, transferred, assigned, granted, supplied to the customer" or "delivered or made available," whichever is earliest.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Tanzania for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, VAT on a taxable supply for which a deposit or prepayment has been made becomes payable when the deposit or prepayment is made.

Continuous supplies of services. For supplies of continuous supplies of services each periodic or progressive supply is treated as a separate supply for determination of the VAT amount.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. For supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return, goods are considered to be supplied at the time when they are delivered or made available.

Reverse-charge services. The time of supply for services is the time when the services are rendered, provided or performed.

Leased assets. The time of supply for supply of leased assets is the earlier of when the property is transferred or made available to the customer.

Imported goods. VAT on imported goods is charged and payable when the custom duty, tax or levy is payable in accordance with the customs law. VAT on imports of capital goods may be deferred.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied for business purposes. A taxable person claims input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Tanzania is six months. Taxable persons must claim input tax within six months from the date of the fiscal receipt.

Input tax credit is only available where the goods or services in which the input tax was incurred, were acquired or imported into mainland Tanzania by a person in the course of economic activity and for the purpose of making taxable supplies.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services purchased in Tanzania and VAT paid on imports of goods and services for which input tax is deductible.

Nondeductible input tax. VAT may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by a taxable person). In addition, input tax may not be recovered with respect to certain business expenses.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase of a passenger vehicle or of spare parts, repair services or maintenance services for a passenger vehicle, unless the person's economic activity involves hiring out or providing transport services in passenger vehicles (with seating capacity of more than 16 persons) and the vehicle was hired for that purpose
- Business entertainment unless involved in the ordinary course of the person's economic activity
- Membership or right of entry for any person in a club, association or society of a sporting, social or recreational nature

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchases of goods for furtherance of economic activity
- Payments for services, such as audit fees

- Advertising
- Consultancy fees
- Accommodation

Partial exemption. A supplier of both taxable and exempt supplies is required to apportion input tax incurred in respect of supplies made by them. A taxable person may claim the whole of input tax directly attributable to taxable supplies but is not allowed to claim input tax directly attributable to exempt supplies.

VAT directly related to making exempt supplies is not recoverable. A taxable person that makes both exempt and taxable supplies cannot recover input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

Under the Tanzanian VAT law, there is only one method for calculating the amount of credit recoverable for input tax purposes if a taxable person supplies both taxable and exempt goods, services or immovable property.

The following are the bases of recovery of input tax:
- If taxable supplies are greater than 90% of total supplies, credit is allowed for all the input tax
- If taxable supplies are less than 10% of total supplies, credit is not allowed for any of the input tax
- In all other cases, there will be partial recovery of the input tax

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Tanzania. Special methods are not allowed in Tanzania.

Capital goods. Capital goods are defined in Tanzania to mean goods classifiable under Chapters 84, 85 and 90 of Annex 1 to the protocol on the establishment of the East African Community Customs Union provided they are not imported for the purpose of resale in the ordinary course of carrying on the person's economic activity.

Input tax credit for capital goods is only allowed where a person incurs input tax on capital goods for purposes of making taxable supplies only. Input tax incurred for purposes of making exempt supplies is not recoverable.

Where a person incurs input tax on capital goods partly for the purpose of making taxable supplies (that is input tax incurred for the purpose of making both taxable and exempt supplies), a person will be required to apportion the part of the input tax that relates to taxable supplies in accordance with the formula provided under the law and claim the credit thereof. The claim for input tax credit is available within six months from the date of the fiscal receipt.

Where capital goods are imported or locally produced, a taxable person may apply for VAT deferment, provided that the VAT payable on each unit of the capital goods should be at least TZS10 million. Once the application is approved, VAT on imported capital goods will not be payable. Unless revoked, the deferment lasts for the period of 10 years from the date of approval. Capital goods for which the VAT deferment may be applied are goods classifiable under Chapters 84, 85 and 90 of Annex 1 to the Protocol on the Establishment of the East African Community Customs Union. VAT deferment on imported capital goods shall cease to apply from 30 June 2026.

The basis for input tax calculation for local supplies shall be the cost of the supply while for imports the base is the sum of costs, insurance, freight, import duty and other duties charged on importation (such as railway development levy and customs processing fee).

Refunds. A taxable person may claim a refund where the excess of input tax over output tax has been carried forward for more than six months and is no less than TZS100,000. The Commissioner-General of the Tanzania Revenue Authority must make a written refund decision within 90 days after the filing of a VAT refund claim. The refund decision shall state the amount of refund allowed and the period during which the refund shall be made. If excess credits arise in successive periods, the taxable person may apply to the commissioner for refunds to be made monthly.

Each VAT refund claim filed with the commissioner must be approved and supported by a certificate of genuineness issued by an auditor registered with the National Board of Accountants and Auditors (NBAA).

Repayments are made if the taxable person qualifies for a refund and has filed all VAT returns. The filing of VAT refund claims can be made within a period of three years after the VAT return is submitted.

Nonprofit organizations are no longer eligible to obtain a refund of input tax credit incurred on the acquisition or importation of taxable goods and services.

Pre-registration costs. A decreasing adjustment is allowed for input tax incurred on goods possessed by a taxable person that were purchased or imported within six months before registration. The goods must have been acquired in the course of economic activity and for the purpose of resale.

The Commissioner must be notified in writing about the adjustment and the taxable person must make the decreasing adjustment in any of the first three tax periods after registration.

Bad debts. Where all or part of the amount payable to the supplier for a taxable supply has been overdue for more than 18 months and the supplier has, in its books of account, written off the amount unpaid as a bad debt, the supplier shall be allowed a decreasing adjustment equal to the amount that remains unpaid after the tax period.

For a decreasing adjustment to be applicable, both conditions must be met that the amount unpaid must be overdue for more than 18 months and the supplier must have written off the amount from the books of account.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Tanzania.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Tanzania is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A supplier of taxable goods and services must issue a fiscal receipt to the purchaser at the time of supply.

A fiscal receipt (i.e., issued through an electronic fiscal device purchased from a supplier designated by the Commissioner), must indicate the date, details of the supplier [i.e., name, address, taxable person identification number (TIN), VAT registration number (VRN)], description of services or goods supplied, consideration payable, and it must include the details of the buyer (i.e., name, address, TIN and VRN). It must also contain features (barcodes) that will enable automatic verification by the electronic financial data management system.

Periodic statements. Financial service providers are required to issue periodic statements to their customers for supplies made each month. The periodic statement must be issued within 10 days following the end of the month to which the tax period relates. The periodic statements are treated as tax invoices.

A periodic statement that is short of the requirements must not be used to support a claim for input tax or any refund claim.

Credit notes. Credit notes and adjustment notes may be used to reduce the VAT charged on supplies of goods or services. Adjustment notes must show the same information as fiscal receipts and the nature of or reason for the adjustment.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Tanzania for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Tanzania. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Tanzania.

There are no specified rules with regards to electronic invoicing or managing digital copies of invoices. All VAT-registered taxable persons are required to issue fiscal receipts generated by an electronic fiscal device for the supply made. In substance, fiscal receipts are considered as electronic invoicing. Invoices are automatically verified by the tax authority through the electronic financial data management system. Suppliers are obliged to use fiscal machines that are capable of issuing invoices that can be automatically verified by the TRA system.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Tanzania. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Tanzania.

Proof of exports. Goods exported from Tanzania are zero-rated. However, to qualify for zero rating, exports must be supported by evidence that proves the goods left Tanzania. Suitable evidence includes the following documents:
- A sales invoice
- A bill of lading, road manifest or airway bill
- Export permit
- In addition to the above, any other evidence requested by the commissioner

Foreign currency invoices. Foreign currency invoices are treated in the same manner as invoices in the domestic currency, which is the Tanzanian shilling (TZS). The tax authorities do not require the use of a standard exchange rate to convert the value of foreign invoices into TZS. In practice, the tax authorities accept the rate used by the taxable person if the rate is within the range of prevailing market exchange rates or if the exchange rate is provided by the Central Bank of Tanzania.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. It is a mandatory obligation for suppliers to use an electronic fiscal device to issue invoices (i.e., fiscal receipts) for all supplies made irrespective of whether the customer is a taxable person or not. Noncompliance with the requirement to issue invoices through an electronic fiscal device is subject to penalties.

Records. In Tanzania, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include records of all accounts, documents, tax returns, as well as other records that are required to be maintained under other tax laws, including but not limited to:
- Tax invoices and adjustment notes issued and received by the person
- Customs documentation relating to imports and exports of goods by the person
- Records relating to supplies of imported services to the person, whether or not those supplies were taxable supplies
- A VAT account that records, for each tax period, all the output tax payable by the person in that period, or the input tax credit the person is allowed in that period, and all the increasing and decreasing adjustments that the person is required or entitled to make in that period
- Records showing the deposit of amounts paid to the Commissioner General under the VAT Act

In Tanzania, VAT books and records can be held outside the country. There are no restrictions as to the location where a taxable person can keep and maintain records. Documents can be maintained outside or inside Tanzania, provided they can easily be accessible once requested by the TRA. However, the Finance Act 2021 outlined that every taxable or liable person that maintains documents in electronic form must maintain a primary data server in Tanzania. A "primary data server" is defined to mean a physical, virtual or any other server that stores data created or collected by a taxable or liable person in the ordinary course of business. The abovementioned server must be accessible by the Commissioner General for the purpose of tax administration in the manner and time prescribed under the Tax Administration Act 2015. This requirement is due to take effect from 1 January 2024.

Record retention period. A taxable person is required to maintain documents for a period of at least five years from the end of the tax period to which they relate; or until a later date on which the final decision is made in any audit, recovery proceedings, dispute, prosecution or other proceedings under the VAT Act relating to that tax period.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Tanzania. The records can be archived in whichever method that is convenient to the business, either electronically or paper. There is no limitation on the methods of document retention.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT period is one month. Returns must be filed by the 20th day of the month following the end of the tax period. If the 20th day falls on a public holiday or a weekend, the VAT return must be submitted on the next working day after that day.

A nil return must be filed regardless of whether there is VAT payable or not.

An electronic document is considered filed by a person and received by the commissioner when a document registration number is created using the person's authentication code.

Periodic payments. Payment of VAT is due in full on the same date as the submission, i.e., by the 20th day of the month following the end of the tax period. Payments are made online through a TRA taxpayer portal.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Tanzania for all taxable persons. Taxable persons are required to file monthly VAT returns by using the TRA taxpayer portal. Daily reports (z-reports) are filed electronically to record all transactions.

There is a VAT e-filing system in place that simplifies the VAT filing process. The system among others, allows amendments of minor errors during filing and it also accommodates for input tax apportionment for taxable persons making both exempt and taxable supplies.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Tanzania.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Tanzania.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Tanzania.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Tanzania. However, a supplier of financial services is required to issue periodic statements to customers that shall be deemed to be tax invoices. The periodic statement must be issued within 10 days following the end of the month to which the tax period relates.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person may apply to the Commissioner to correct genuine omissions or incorrect declarations made in VAT returns. The application must be made within three years after the end of the relevant tax period. Correction of minor errors where the VAT amount does not exceed TZS1 million is through making an increasing or decreasing adjustment in the VAT return for the tax period in which the error is discovered.

Digital tax administration. Daily reports. Daily reports (z-reports) issued by an electronic fiscal device) are submitted electronically to the TRA to record all transactions. The are no exemptions as to issuance of daily z-reports. All taxable persons with an electronic machine for issuance of tax invoices are required to issue daily z-reports to capture all sales made during a particular day. The reports are to be issued even on days where no sales are made, except for weekends and public holidays. In addition, the reports are electronically submitted to TRA using the electronic machine by keying certain functions on the machine.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Traders that meet the registration threshold but do not register are liable for a fine of from 100 to 200 currency points (one currency point equals TZS15,000) where failure is made knowingly or recklessly, and a fine of from 50 to 100 currency points in any other case.

Notwithstanding any penalties imposed for late registration, a person is liable to pay interest on the VAT due. In addition, serious failures may lead to criminal proceedings that could result in a custodial sentence.

A taxable person who ceases to be liable for registration must notify the Commissioner in writing within 14 days after ceasing to become liable. Failure to make such notification, where such failure is made knowingly and recklessly punishable by a fine of 100 to 200 currency points.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The late filing of a VAT return or failure to pay tax by the due date is subject to a penalty of 2.5% of the amount of tax assessable with respect to the tax return less tax paid by the start of the period or 15 currency points, whichever is higher. The penalty is payable for each month or partial month for which the failure continues.

Penalties for errors. A person is liable for penalty upon making a false or misleading statement. The penalty is where the statement or omission is made without reasonable excuse, 50% of the tax shortfall or where the statement or omission is made knowingly or recklessly, 75% of the tax shortfall.

In case of second or subsequent errors or omission, the penalty will be increased by 10%. Where a taxable person makes a voluntary disclosure, a penalty will be reduced by 10%.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may attract a penalty. Where such failure is made knowingly and recklessly, the same is punishable by a fine of 100 to 200 currency points. In any other case, the penalty ranges from 50 to 100 currency points. Serious failures may lead to criminal proceedings that could result in a custodial sentence. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. The penalties for fraud are the same as those for penalties for errors, as outlined above.

Personal liability for company officers. A manager of an entity or a person who was a manager of an entity at the time an entity fails to pay tax due, shall only be jointly and severally liable with the entity in instances of fraud as proven in a court of law. Previously, a manager was not liable if they exercised a degree of care, diligence and skill to prevent the failure to pay the tax due.

A manager includes a director, persons who participate in senior management decisions of the entity, partner, trustee, as well as any other person whose directions and instructions affects an entity.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Tanzania is five years. The time limit for the tax authority to review a taxable person's information and issue a tax assessment is five years from the due date of filing the tax return. However, the law allows the tax authority to go beyond the five-year limit in cases of fraud, neglect or omission by the taxable person. A taxable person may, no later than three years after the end of the calendar month to which a return relates, request the Commissioner General to amend the return for purposes of correcting any genuine omissions, errors or incorrect declarations made in the return.

Thailand

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Bangkok GMT +7

EY
33rd Floor
Lake Rajada Office Complex
193/136-137 New Rajadapisek Road
Klongtoey, Bangkok 10110
Thailand

Indirect tax contacts

Kasem Kiatsayrikul	+66 (2) 264-9090, Ext. 77033 kasem.kiatsayrikul@th.ey.com
William Chea	+66 (2) 264-9090, Ext. 77056 william.chea@th.ey.com
Thitima Tangprasert	+66 (2) 264-9090, Ext. 77035 thitima.tangprasert@th.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	ภาษีมูลค่าเพิ่ม
Date introduced	1 January 1992
Trading bloc membership	Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN)
Administered by	Thai Revenue Department (http://www.rd.go.th)
VAT rates
Standard	7%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (TIN)
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	THB1.8 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services consumed in Thailand by a taxable person
- The importation of goods or services into Thailand
- The export of goods or services out of Thailand

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Thailand, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Thailand. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation, including assets. However, the transfer of business in Thailand could be exempted from VAT, provided that such transfer of business is qualified for the entire business transfer scheme (EBT) or partial business transfer scheme (PBT).

Transactions between related parties. For both related parties' and non-related parties' sale and service transactions, the value of the goods or the services must not be lower than the market price or without consideration unless there is a justifiable ground for such value. Otherwise, the tax authorities are empowered to uplift the selling/service price to be at the market value as of the transaction date.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any entity or person that falls into any of the following categories:
- A seller of goods in the course of a business or profession in Thailand
- A provider of services in the course of a business or profession in Thailand
- An importer of goods and services
- Any person deemed by the law to be a trader, such as a local agent of an overseas corporation that sells goods or provides services in Thailand

Exemption from registration. A small business operator can be exempted from VAT registration if its taxable revenue per annum does not meet the VAT registration threshold.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A business may register for VAT voluntarily if its taxable turnover is below the VAT registration threshold (annual revenue of THB1.8 million). A business may also register for VAT voluntarily in advance of making taxable supplies.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Thailand.

Fixed establishment. In Thailand, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. To register for VAT in Thailand, the non-established business must be engaged in VAT taxable activities in Thailand via a local agent or representative and have a fixed place of business in Thailand.

A non-established business cannot register for VAT simply to claim input tax if it does not have any activities that generate income in Thailand.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Thailand.

Reverse charge. If an overseas service provider or supplier of goods temporarily carries on a business in Thailand but is not registered for VAT in Thailand or if such person provides services overseas for use in Thailand to a payer of service fees in Thailand, the customer for the goods or services in Thailand must self-assess the VAT due and remit it to the tax authorities. Payment must be made by the seventh day of the month following the month of the payment of the income. If the customer for the goods or services is registered for VAT in Thailand, it may recover the VAT paid by crediting it against the output tax.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Thailand.

Digital economy. For local business operators in Thailand, the VAT operator who provides the digital services in Thailand is liable to charge VAT on the chargeable services fee. It is considered as a general provision of services where the VAT liability will be triggered upon the receipt of the fee payment unless the tax invoice is issued earlier.

For e-commerce business, the sale of goods via an online platform by the VAT operator is considered as a general sale of goods, where the VAT liability is triggered upon the delivery of goods, receipt of payment, transfer of ownership or issuance of tax invoice, whichever happens earlier.

For nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies, the business customer in Thailand would be expected to self-assess for VAT for purchases of digital services provided by an overseas business (by way of the reverse-charge mechanism). The customer will need to lodge a separate self-assessment return together with the remittance of the VAT payable by the seventh day for paper filing or the 15th day for e-filing of the following month that the payment is made. The customer (who is VAT registered) is entitled to include the self-assessed VAT remitted as its input tax in computing VAT. The customer is entitled to treat it as input tax in the tax month that the VAT remittance form was filed with receipt obtained from the revenue department, provided that the service payments are related to the taxable business and not prohibited under Thai tax law.

For nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies, the VAT rules are as follows:

- Nonresident e-business operators that provide electronic services to non-VAT operators in Thailand are required to register with the tax authorities to pay Thai VAT and to file VAT returns
- In cases where nonresident e-business operators provide electronic services via an electronic platform operated by another party delivering a continuous service process, from offering the service to payment and to delivery, the platform operator is obliged to pay the VAT on behalf of the foreign e-business operators that use the platform, assuming the duties and responsibilities of the foreign e-business operators
- "Electronic services" are defined as services, including intangible assets, that are automatically transmitted via the internet or other electronic network and that could not be rendered without such technology (e.g., digital music, software programs.), while "electronic platform" is defined as any channel used by numerous operators to provide electronic services to their service recipients. Examples of "electronic services" covered by the new rules include online games, mobile application services and online advertising services
- The VAT registration threshold for foreign e-business operators is the same as for local operators, i.e., THB1.8 million (approx. USD55,000) per annum
- For VAT computation purposes, foreign e-business operators are not allowed to claim any input tax
- Nonresident suppliers may apply for VAT registration via the tax authorities' website (http://www.rd.go.th)

Imported goods are considered as the physical goods that could be delivered to the customer without the usage of the electronic network. Thus, the above rules regarding e-services do not apply to imported goods.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Thailand.

Online marketplaces and platforms. As outlined above, foreign businesses who provide electronic services to non-VAT registrants in Thailand, for use of the services in Thailand, will be required to register and pay VAT to the tax authorities, if annual service income from non-VAT-registered customers exceeds THB1.8 million (approx. USD55,000).

Non-Thai e-platform operators who act as intermediaries for multiple non-Thai e-service providers are also required to register for Thai VAT, but only if they:

- Offer a complete suite of e-services, from presentation to delivery to payment collection
- Receive payment for e-services
- Deliver the e-services on behalf of nonresident e-service providers

If any of these three criteria are not met, an e-platform operator is not required to register as such for VAT purposes. This means that, for example, some online gaming platforms do not need to register, as they may either not collect payment nor deliver services to the end users and therefore do not meet criteria (ii) or (iii), respectively. However, digital platform operators who do not meet all these criteria still need to consider whether they should register as non-Thai e-service providers.

Not every nonresident e-service provider and e-platform operator will be affected. Some e-services are excluded, including telecommunications or live teaching services and sales of e-books or e-magazines. The examples given by the tax authorities are not exhaustive, however, and certain online service providers will need to seek specific advice to ensure they are excluded.

Moreover, only those with income of more than THB1.8 million annually (approx. USD55,000) from providing e-services to non-VAT registrant customers in Thailand will be required to register for VAT, file monthly VAT returns and pay VAT. And unlike Thai-based operators, nonresident operators are neither required to issue a tax invoice to Thai customers nor keep an input tax report.

Registration procedures. VAT registration must be made within 30 days after revenue exceeds THB1.8 million or before the commencement of business. An overseas trader is eligible to register for VAT only if it will do business in Thailand for at least one year or at least three months if engaged in a government project funded by a foreign loan or foreign aid.

The application for VAT registration can be submitted in hard copy to the respective area revenue office or online via the tax authorities' website. The application package must include the corporation documents, office rental agreement, etc.

For a hard copy submission, the registration application and required supporting documents must be submitted to the area revenue office where the business is located. In the case where the taxable person has several branches, the registration application must be submitted to the revenue office where the head office is located. If all required documents are fully submitted, the VAT registration should be approved on the same day.

For an online VAT registration, the applicant, which already has a tax identification number, can submit its application via the tax authorities' website (www.rd.go.th) 24 hours a day. The supporting documents are not required to be uploaded via the website at the time of registration, but the tax official will visit the applicant's registered office to inspect all supporting documents prior to approving the VAT registration. The result of the registration application will be sent by email to the applicant within 15 days of the submission date.

Deregistration. A business that ceases operations must cancel its VAT registration by deregistering with the tax authorities within 15 days after the date of ceasing operations. Failure to do so subjects the taxable person to a fine not exceeding THB5,000.

Changes to VAT registration details. The changes to VAT registration (such as increase or decrease of branch, relocation, transfer or acquire of business, etc.) are required to be notified to the tax authorities within 15 days before or after such a change.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 7%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the 7% VAT rate will be applied for sales of goods, provisions of services and imports of goods until 30 September 2024, unless an extension is announced.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Export of goods to foreign countries and customs free zone in Thailand
- Export of services, i.e., services performed in Thailand must be used in a foreign country, such as R&D that results in services used in foreign country. If the services are partially used in Thailand, the part of the services used in Thailand (if can be segregated) is subject to VAT at a rate of 7%
- International transport services by aircraft or seagoing vessels
- Sale of goods and provision of services to United Nations Organization, an embassy, legation, consulate-general or consulate
- Sale of goods and provision of service between bonded warehouse and the other bonded warehouse between the supplier who carries on the business in free zone

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Sale of agriculture products, animals and animal products (except canned foods)
- Sales of fertilizers, drugs or chemicals for caring for plants or animals and insecticides or pesticides for plants or animals
- Sales of ground fishmeal and animal feeds
- Sales of newspapers, periodicals and textbooks
- Rendering of services in the fields of medicine, auditing or litigation
- Hospital services
- Domestic transportation of all types and international transportation by land
- Leasing of immovable property
- Business subject to specific business tax (SBT)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Operators of the following VAT exempted businesses are entitled to register for VAT:

- Sale of goods not for export or provision of services as follows:
  - Sale of agricultural products
  - Sale of animals
  - Sale fertilizers
  - Sale of fish meals, animal feeds
  - Sale of drugs and chemical products for plants and animals
  - Sale of newspapers, magazines or textbooks
- Provision of domestic transport by aircraft
- Export of goods as the trader in the export processing zone under the laws governing industrial estate of Thailand
- Provision of the service of transporting fuel oils through pipes in Thailand
- Business with the value of tax base not exceeding the value of the tax base for a small business fixed by Royal Decree

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

The tax point for the supply of goods is the time of delivery unless one of the following events occurs earlier:
- Ownership transfer
- Receipt of the payment
- Issuance of the tax invoice

The tax point for the supply of services is the receipt of the payment unless one of the following events occurs earlier:
- Issuance of the tax invoice
- In the case of services provided without charge, the use of the services by the service provider or the other recipient persons

Deposits and prepayments. The time of supply rule for deposits and prepayments (for both goods and services) is the time of receipt of the payment.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Thailand for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Thailand for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. The tax point for supplies of reverse-charge services is by the seventh day of the following month that the payment is made. If the customer for the goods or services is registered for VAT in Thailand, it may recover the VAT paid by crediting it against the output tax.

Leased assets. The tax point for the supply of leased assets will be triggered upon receipt of rental fee or issuance of tax invoice, whichever happens earlier.

Imported goods. For the importation of goods from a seller located outside of Thailand or customs-free zone area, the importer must pay the VAT due to the customs authority, which collects the VAT on behalf of the tax authority at the time of importation.

The tax point for the import of goods is the time of importation, which is the time of customs clearance.

The tax point for the export of goods is the time of payment of export duty or, if the goods are exempt from customs, the date on which the goods clear customs.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Thailand, VAT paid on imports of goods into Thailand and VAT self-assessed on reverse-charge services.

Input tax should be recovered within the month it was incurred. However, if the input tax is not recovered in the month it was incurred, it can be recovered via the monthly VAT returns within six months following the month it was incurred. In addition, the cash refund can be requested within three years as from the date of the issuance of the tax invoice.

For the input tax to be recoverable within a period of six months, the taxable person is allowed to claim and use such input tax as a tax credit in the VAT computation within six months as from the following month that the tax invoice was issued.

However, if such input tax is not recovered within six months, the taxable person is not entitled to use such input tax as the tax credit for VAT computation. However, the taxable person is still able to request for the VAT cash refund within three years after the tax invoice was issued.

Note that the time the invoice is issued and the time the VAT was incurred is the same date. This is because under Thai VAT rules, when the tax liability for the sale of goods/provision of services is triggered (e.g., the delivery of goods, receipt of payment, issuance of the tax invoice, etc.), the taxable person is required to issue the tax invoice to the customer immediately when the tax liability is triggered. However, the input tax from such transaction will be incurred at the issuance date of the tax invoice. Hence, the two scenarios are the same scenario.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure as prescribed under the Thai VAT law.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Entertainment expenses or similar expenses
- Passenger cars (except for car sales or rental business)
- Goods or services relating to passenger cars such as gasoline and repairs (except for car sales or rental business)
- Construction of buildings sold or used for a non-VAT business within three years after completion

In addition, the following input tax is not recoverable:

- Input tax arising from certain types of business activities that are not subject to VAT
- Input tax shown on an abbreviated tax invoice or a tax invoice that bears signs of correction or alteration of the particulars required by law
- Input tax not substantiated by a tax invoice
- Input tax recorded in an incomplete tax invoice
- Input tax shown on a tax invoice issued by a person not authorized to do so

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

Generally, input tax that is attributable on expenses related to the taxable business activities is deductible for VAT computation:

- Input tax on purchase of raw materials
- Input tax on purchase of capital assets
- Input tax on purchase of goods for resale
- Input tax on royalty payment
- Input tax on sale and marketing expenses
- Import VAT paid to customs department for import of goods into Thailand
- Self-assessed VAT paid to the tax authorities via the reverse-charge mechanism

Partial exemption. A taxable person who carries on both taxable and nontaxable activities is required to apportion the input tax attributable on common expenses (i.e., expenses incurred for the benefit of both taxable and nontaxable activities) in accordance with the proportion of the revenues of each category of business.

The apportionment basis must comply with the rules, procedure and conditions as prescribed under Thai VAT laws.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Thailand. Special methods are not allowed in Thailand.

Capital goods. Input tax on the purchase of the capital goods that are used in taxable business activities, can be fully claimed. Normal input tax rules apply.

Refunds. The VAT refund can be made within three years from the last day of filing date. The request for a VAT refund shall be filed in the form prescribed by the tax authorities at the area revenue office where the place of the business is located. In case the taxable person has several places of business, the request of the VAT refund must be filed at each place of business, unless the taxable person has approval for joint filing from the tax authorities.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Thailand is not recoverable.

Bad debts. The taxable person carrying on the business of selling goods or provision of services who has issued a tax invoice and has included an output tax in the VAT computation is entitled to deduct the output tax computing from a portion of bad debts from an output tax in the tax month that the bad debts were written off, if it meets the following conditions:

- Debt must arise from the sale of goods or the provision of service to nontaxable person
- The full tax invoice for such sale of goods or provision of service is issued
- The legal prescription of the bad debt is not expired and there is substantial evidence to file a lawsuit
- The legal procedure prescribed under Thai VAT laws has been complied

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Thailand.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Thailand is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Thai taxable person is required to issue a tax invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. A tax invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction or a refund.

Credit notes. A tax credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply. The credit note must reflect the reasons for its issuance as allowed by the VAT law. The credit note must be cross-referenced to the original tax invoice and must contain the required information as prescribed under the Thai VAT law.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Thailand, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Thailand. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Thailand. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Upon the approval of the tax authorities, an authorized taxable person can issue such electronic tax invoices to all sale and service transactions including B2G, B2B and B2C. A normal taxable person can only issue electronic tax invoices if it is approved by the tax authorities. Basically, the taxable person must have a good internal control system and reliable process to prove that the electronic tax invoices will contain the same accurate details when they are created and have the electronic certificate from the registered service provider and one digital signature.

The electronic tax invoice could be maintained in an electronic copy for the inspection of the tax authorities. Without the approval to issue electronic tax invoices, the taxable person is liable to issue the tax invoice in hard copy and deliver such tax invoice to its customers when the VAT is triggered and maintain the copy of the tax invoice in hard copy for the inspection of the tax authorities.

Electronic tax invoices should include the same information/particulars as traditional paper tax invoices required by Thai VAT laws, and the electronic signature (under the electronic certificate issued by the certification authority) must be affixed in such tax invoices each time before sending to the customer. Importantly, the electronic certificate used for generating such electronic signature must still be valid and cannot be expired at the time of creation such electronic signature.

Similar to hard-copied tax invoices, the electronic tax invoices must be issued at the time when the VAT liability for the sale of goods or the provision of services is triggered (as outlined above under Section E. Time of supply).

In addition, a taxable person can appoint a registered service provider to issue electronic tax invoices on behalf of a taxable person, provided that the name, address, tax identification number and electronic signature of such agent/registered service provider is specified in the electronic tax invoices.

The taxable person, authorized agent or registered service provider is required to submit the electronic tax invoices information to the tax authorities via the tax authorities' electronic system by the 15th of the following month.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the tax authorities in mid-2023 outlined their vision to encourage the "Thailand Digital Tax Ecosystem" and aim to have 100% electronic tax invoices in place for all taxable persons by 2028. No further updates have been released.

Simplified VAT invoices. A taxable person who carries on a retail business is entitled to issue simplified tax invoices if such business meets the following conditions:
- The sale is made directly to customer without intention of resale
- The service is provided in small transaction to a large number of persons

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Thailand.

Proof of exports. An export of goods may be eligible for the zero rate of VAT if the goods are physically exported and if the export is supported by evidence confirming the departure of the goods from Thailand. The evidence required includes the following documents:
- Customs documentation
- Original invoice

Foreign currency invoices. Tax invoices must be issued in local Thai currency, Thai baht (THB). However, tax invoices can be issued in a foreign currency if approval has been obtained from the tax authorities. The exchange rate applied must be presented on the tax invoice.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable person in Thailand. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Thailand, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include VAT reports, tax invoices, evidence for payments and receipts, and the supporting documents.

In Thailand, VAT books and records can be held outside of the jurisdiction. However, this is only allowed subject to the approval of the tax authorities. In general, records must be held at the place of business in Thailand.

Record retention period. All records must be kept for at least five years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Thailand with the approval from the tax authority prior to the electronic storage of VAT documents. However, the original documents must be still provided to the tax authority for inspection if requested.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns (PP30 Form) are submitted monthly and can be filed in hard copy through the respective area revenue office (deadline by the 15th day of the following month) or online via the tax authorities' website (deadline by the 23rd day of the following month).

Periodic payments. A supplier of goods and services must collect VAT from the purchaser of the goods or the recipient of a service and remit it to the tax authorities by the 15th day for paper filing or the 23rd day for e-filing of the month following the event that the tax point is triggered (for example, the time of delivery, receipt of payment or issuance of an invoice; see Section E). The VAT can be paid to the tax authorities in a form of cash or check for paper filing and online payment for e-filing.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Thailand, but not mandatory. Taxable persons can file their electronically monthly VAT returns via the website of the tax authorities with online tax payment, provided it obtains the approval from the tax authorities. An additional eight days of deadline can apply. The VAT can be paid to the tax authorities via electronic banking.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Thailand.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Thailand.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Thailand.

Supplementary filings. Reverse-charge services filing. A separate return is required to report VAT on reverse-charge services. So, where a Thai service recipient accounts for VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism, it is required to remit a filing summarizing such supplies, to the tax authority by the seventh day of the month following the month in which the payment is made.

E-tax invoices filing. Taxable persons who issue electronic tax invoices are required to electronically submit the information of the e-tax invoices within 15 days of the following month.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If the declaration in the submitted VAT returns is incorrect, the taxable person can voluntarily submit the supplement VAT return to correct the previous declaration to the revenue office. The tax shortfall, penalty (at reduced rate) and monthly surcharge might apply.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Thailand.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Penalties are imposed for failure to register for VAT. The penalty is 200% of the VAT payable each month during the period of the failure to register for VAT.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty of 100% of the tax shortfall is assessed for the late payment of VAT, plus a monthly surcharge of 1.5% of the tax shortfall (capped at 100% of the tax shortfall). However, if a taxable person does not receive a notice of call for examination, the penalty may be reduced to the following:

- 2% if the payment is made within 15 days after the due date
- 5% if the payment is made after 15 days but not later than 30 days after the due date
- 10% if the payment is made after 30 days but not later than 60 days after the due date
- 20% if the payment is made more than 60 days from the due date

Penalties for errors. A taxable person who issues a tax invoice, a simplified tax invoice, a debit note, or a credit note containing incomplete particulars shall be subject to the fine not exceeding THB2,000.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details by the prescribed deadlines is subject to a fine not exceeding THB2,000 to THB5,000. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty is imposed for the use of a false tax invoice in computing tax. The penalty is 200% of the VAT payable under the original tax invoice.

In addition, a VAT registrant who intentionally makes use of a false tax invoice for the purpose for tax crediting shall be liable for a fine from THB2,000 to THB200,000 and three months to seven years imprisonment.

Personal liability for company officers. The managing director, director or person acting in a representative capacity of such juristic person shall be liable to the penalty as prescribed for such false action, except where they can prove that they have no consent or no part in such wrongdoing of the juristic person.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Thailand is two to five years. The tax authorities can make an assessment for two years as from the last day of the period for VAT return filing, which could be extended to five years. Nevertheless, for some certain noncompliance cases for which the assessment periods have not been prescribed in the Revenue Code, the assessment period could be extended to 10 years.

The period of the assessment could be extended to five years in cases where it appears to the tax authority that the taxable person might have incorrectly remitted the VAT or not completely filed tax returns. In addition, in case of non-filing the VAT returns [either PP30 or reverse-charge-mechanism (PP36)], the statute of limitations is 10 years starting from the due date of filing.

A taxable person can voluntarily make the declaration of the noncompliance at any time before receiving the assessment letter issued by the tax authority.

Trinidad and Tobago

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Port-of-Spain GMT -4

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 158
Port-of-Spain
Trinidad

Street address:
5-7 Sweet Briar Road
Port-of-Spain
Trinidad

Indirect tax contacts

Gregory Hannays
+1 (868) 622-1364
gregory.hannays@tt.ey.com

Nassim Mohammed
+1 (868) 822-5022
nassim.mohammed@tt.ey.com

Colin Ramsey
+1 (868) 822-5016
colin.ramsey@tt.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 January 1990
Trading bloc membership	Caribbean Community (CARICOM)
Administered by	Board of Inland Revenue (BIR) Value-Added Tax Administration Center (VAT Center) (www.ird.gov.tt)
VAT rates
Standard	12.5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	999999 (6 digits)
VAT return periods	Bimonthly or otherwise determined
Thresholds
Registration	TTD600,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT is charged on the entry of goods imported into Trinidad and Tobago and on the commercial supply of goods or prescribed services by a registered person. In Trinidad and Tobago, taxable supplies are referred to as "commercial supplies."

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Trinidad and Tobago, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally. the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Trinidad and Tobago, for the sale, transfer or other disposition, whether for consideration or not, of a business as a going concern, only the sale, transfer or other disposition of any stock in trade held for the purposes of the business shall be regarded as being a commercial supply (i.e., subject to VAT). The sale, transfer or other disposition of any other assets held by the business shall not be considered to be a commercial supply for the purposes of VAT.

Transactions between related parties. In Trinidad and Tobago, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value. Where the consideration for the supply of goods or services is payable by a person standing in such a relationship as affects the amount of the consideration, i.e., by a related party, the value of the supply shall be deemed to be the open market value. This is defined as the consideration, not including VAT, expected to be payable by a person standing in no such relationship as would affect that consideration.

C. Who is liable

The Trinidad and Tobago VAT law imposes a registration requirement on any person that makes commercial supplies in Trinidad and Tobago greater than TTD600,000 in a 12-month period.

A person that intends to make commercial supplies may apply for registration. However, the application must be supported by additional information indicating that the value of the person's commercial supplies will exceed TTD600,000 in a 12-month period. Suitable evidence includes incorporation documents, contracts showing evidence of commencement of business, bank statements and invoices issued.

Exemption from registration. VAT is due on the importation of goods and the commercial supply of goods and prescribed services. Prescribed services are any services that are not exempt. Hence, if a business is supplying exempt services, there is no requirement to register for VAT in Trinidad and Tobago. Also, if a business makes taxable supplies during a 12-month period and is not expected to exceed TTD600,000, then that business will not be required to register for VAT.

Voluntary registration. Voluntary registration is not allowed in Trinidad and Tobago.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Trinidad and Tobago.

Divisional registration is allowed in Trinidad and Tobago. All members of a divisional registration group in Trinidad and Tobago are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a divisional group.

However, on request, the Board of Inland Revenue (BIR) may approve the separate registration of the divisions of a company, and in such cases, supplies between divisions would be subject to tax.

Fixed establishment. In Trinidad and Tobago there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, generally, a place for the carrying on of a trade or business in Trinidad and Tobago would be considered to be a fixed establishment. There are no permanent establishment rules in the domestic tax legislation. The direct tax rule is that a nonresident carrying on a trade or business in Trinidad and Tobago is taxable on income derived therein.

Non-established businesses. A branch of a non-established business is registered in the same manner as a resident taxable person. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment, i.e., a place for the carrying on of a trade or business in Trinidad and Tobago. A non-established business that makes commercial supplies in Trinidad and Tobago must register for VAT if it meets the registration requirements. However, to register for VAT, a non-established business must set up an external company or branch in Trinidad and Tobago. This is based on the current practice of the BIR.

A non-established business that must register for VAT may need to appoint an agent or manager who is resident to assume the responsibilities of principal relating to compliance under the VAT Act.

If a non-established business wishes to supply goods or services solely to a VAT-registered person in Trinidad and Tobago, for the purpose of the taxable person making commercial supplies in Trinidad and Tobago, the non-established business' supply is regarded as not taking place in Trinidad and Tobago, unless the supplier and recipient agree that the supply is to be regarded as taking place in Trinidad and Tobago. The non-established business is not required to register for VAT if the supply is treated as taking place outside of Trinidad and Tobago, provided the supplier is not required to be registered due to making other supplies.

Tax representatives. A non-established business that registers for VAT in Trinidad and Tobago is not required to appoint a tax representative; however, the business can choose to appoint one. Any person who carries on a business, in Trinidad and Tobago on behalf of a principal may perform the functions under the VAT Act.

In the absence of the appointment of a tax representative, the BIR may deem a person who carries on business on behalf of a non-established business to be its agent for the purpose of compliance and accountability.

Reverse charge. No reverse-charge mechanism applies in Trinidad and Tobago. In Trinidad and Tobago, the responsibility to account for VAT charged on goods and services is with the supplier of the goods or services and not the recipient. VAT incurred on services purchased from abroad is not required to be reported in Trinidad and Tobago and cannot be claimed by the Trinidad and Tobago recipient in its VAT return.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Trinidad and Tobago.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT in Trinidad and Tobago. As such, no VAT is accounted for on the supplies. This is because the services provided are regarded as taking place outside of Trinidad and Tobago.

Note that in a prior budget, the BIR outlined its intention to review the taxation of the digital economy in more detail. However, at the time of preparing this chapter no action has been taken.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Trinidad and Tobago.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Trinidad and Tobago.

Registration procedures. A written hard copy application for registration must be submitted on the prescribed form. The application must be supported by evidence to show that the value of the person's commercial supplies will exceed TTD600,000 in a 12-month period. Such evidence may include incorporation documents, contracts entered into, bank statements and invoices issued. An applicant will be registered within one to two weeks after the receipt of the application provided that all the relevant documentation has been provided. Currently, VAT registration applications may also be submitted via the e-Tax platform, provided by the BIR.

In the case of a non-established business, the VAT registration application form must be signed by the directors, notarized and apostilled. Also copies of the passports of the company directors must be notarized and apostilled.

Deregistration. A taxable person who is not required and will not be required under the VAT Act to be registered may apply to the BIR to have their registration canceled. The BIR may refuse to cancel the registration on the grounds that the person has, within the last two years, made supplies requiring them to be registered.

Changes to VAT registration details. As per section 28 (1) of the VAT law, a taxable person must, within 21 days, give the BIR notice in writing of any of the following changes:
- Any change affecting the accuracy of the particulars provided by their application to be registered for VAT
- The business for which the person is registered is closing down
- Any other matter of which they are required by the regulations to give the BIR notice

If a taxable person dies; becomes bankrupt, goes into liquidation or receivership or becomes a party to an amalgamation, the taxable person or the person responsible for the affairs of the taxable person must, within 21 days, give the BIR notice in writing thereof.

D. Rates

The term "commercial supplies" refers to supplies of goods and prescribed services that are made liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 12.5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exported goods
- Medicines
- Water and sewerage services supplied by a public authority

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services
- Medical services
- Residential property rentals
- Real estate brokerage
- Public postal services
- Prescribed bus and taxi services
- Betting and gaming

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Trinidad and Tobago.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In general, the tax point for goods and services supplied by a taxable person is the earliest of the following events:
- The date of issuance of the invoice by the supplier

- The date of receipt of payment for the supply
- The date on which the goods are made available to the recipient, or the services are performed

A taxable person must account for VAT in the VAT period in which the tax point occurs, regardless of whether payment is received. A taxable person may recover input tax indicated on the tax invoices received.

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits and prepayments, a supply of goods or services takes place when payment is made for the supply. The rule does not vary for refundable or nonrefundable amounts or if the supply does not take place.

Continuous supplies of services. Where a supply of services is continuous (e.g., electricity and telecommunications), the supply takes place when an invoice for the supply is issued by the supplier, but only to the extent of the supply to which the invoice relates.

Where services are supplied under an agreement (e.g., property rental) that expressly provides for the consideration to be paid in periodic payments, whether or not the services are provided periodically, the services are regarded as being successively supplied at the times when the periodic payments are made or become due, whichever is earlier, to the extent that an invoice for the services is not issued by the supplier.

Where goods are supplied progressively or periodically under an agreement that provides for the consideration for the supply to be paid from time to time upon the supplier issuing invoices, the goods are regarded as being supplied at the time when:

- An invoice for the supply of the goods is issued by the supplier
- Payment for the supply of the goods is made
  Or
- Payment for the supply of the goods becomes due

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. Where goods are supplied to a person under an agreement whereby the recipient has an option to return the goods to the supplier, the supply takes place when the goods are made available to the recipient.

Reverse-charge services. In Trinidad and Tobago, the reverse charge for services does not apply. As such, there are no special time of supply rules.

Leased assets. Where goods are supplied under an agreement for hire purchase or lease with an option to purchase, the supply takes place when the goods are made available to the recipient.

Imported goods. VAT on the entry of imported goods becomes due and payable at the time when the goods have entered. The importer is liable to account for the tax and must pay it.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

The VAT paid on goods and services that are acquired for the purpose of making taxable supplies is deductible as input tax. Input tax is offset against output tax, which is the tax charged on the making of commercial supplies. Input tax is deductible when the goods and services are acquired.

Goods or services are deemed to be for the purpose of making commercial supplies if the supplier acquired, imported or produced the goods or services for any of the following purposes:

- Their supply or resupply as a taxable supply
- Their consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly or wholly or partly) in producing goods or services for supply as a taxable supply
- Their consumption or use (whether directly or indirectly or wholly or partly) with respect to a commercial enterprise

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Trinidad and Tobago is six years. Once the taxable person can prove that the claim was not made in a prior period, the claim is generally allowed by the BIR. However, the period of six years from the end of the tax period should not elapse before such a claim is made and even in this circumstance the BIR may deny the claim.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business or where the person only makes exempt supplies.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Input tax is not deductible where invoices do not meet VAT invoicing requirements as set out in the law

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Rental of premises used in the business
- Inventory used to make finished goods
- Vehicles and equipment used in the business
- Professional and other services provided to the business

Partial exemption. The Trinidad and Tobago VAT law provides that if all the supplies made by a taxable person during a tax period are commercial supplies (i.e., standard-rated and zero-rated supplies), the input tax incurred in the period is deductible in full. However, if some, but not all, of the supplies made by the person during the tax period are commercial supplies, a partial recovery calculation is required. The following are the rules for the calculation of allowable input tax:

- All the input tax for the period that is directly related to the making of commercial supplies (regardless of whether the supplies are made during that tax period) is recoverable
- None of the input tax for the period that is directly related to supplies that are not commercial supplies (regardless of whether the supplies are made during that tax period) is recoverable
- A proportion of the input tax for the period that relates both to commercial and noncommercial supplies is recoverable. The recoverable portion is calculated based on the value of commercial supplies made during the period compared with the value of total supplies made during the period

If a taxable person makes no commercial supplies during the tax period, the recoverable input tax is the portion, if any, of the input tax for the period that the tax authorities consider to be "fair and reasonable."

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Trinidad and Tobago. Special methods are not allowed in Trinidad and Tobago.

Capital goods. There are no specific rules for capital goods and there is no definition in the VAT law for capital goods. The same general rules for input tax recovery apply to capital goods.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a VAT period exceeds the amount of output tax payable for that VAT period, the excess may be refunded. VAT returns must be submitted within 25 days after the end of the VAT period. If this deadline is met and if the refund is unpaid after six months, the legislation provides for the tax authorities to pay interest on the outstanding balance, at the rate of 1% per month or part of a month, chargeable from the day after the expiration of the period until the date on which the outstanding amount is satisfied.

VAT bonds. The Ministry of Finance announced that taxable persons with outstanding refunds greater than TTD250,000 can now apply for VAT bonds in settlement of such refunds. Application forms can be accessed through the BIR's website. The forms must be completed online and then downloaded to be signed and then scanned and emailed to VAT-Bonds@ird.gov.tt.

The VAT bonds refund applies to VAT periods prior to 2023. A bond is transferable to any financial institution, The Unit Trust Corporation, The National Insurance Board, any insurance company, any entity dealing in mutual funds, any Credit Union registered under the Co-operative Societies Act. Bonds shall mature three years from the date of issue.

Bonds cannot be cashed before the date of maturity and payment on matured bonds shall be in the currency of TTD. Bonds shall bear interest at the rate of 3.15% per annum from the date of issue of the bond until the date of maturity. Interest accrued on the bonds shall be paid biannually, on 30 June and 30 September, in each of three consecutive years from the date of issue and continuing to the date of maturity.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax may be claimed in respect of any stock in trade that is on hand at the time of registration. Evidence showing that the inventory on hand was audited by a chartered accountant must be produced at the time of registration.

Bad debts. Customers can claim relief for VAT paid on goods/services provided, which were not settled by the customers. The claim for VAT on bad debts is made by deducting the VAT on bad debts from the total output tax due for the period. However, for the claim to be made, the debt must be outstanding for at least 12 months, reasonable efforts should have been made to collect the debt and the amount outstanding has been written off as a bad debt.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Trinidad and Tobago.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Trinidad and Tobago is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. A VAT invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods and services. A credit note generally mentions the same information as a VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Trinidad and Tobago, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Trinidad and Tobago. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Trinidad and Tobago. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

There is no provision in the law on electronic invoicing, but in practice, all taxable persons may issue electronic invoices covering any supply.

Simplified VAT invoices. A taxable person making a commercial supply exceeding the sum of TTD20 is required to provide the recipient a simplified invoice containing the name, address and registration number of the supplier, the date of the invoice and the consideration inclusive of VAT. The supplier is, however, required to issue a full tax invoice if it is requested to do so by the recipient. A simplified tax invoice cannot be used in support of a claim for input tax. Fast-food outlets, gas stations and cinemas are exempted from the requirement to issue a tax invoice, unless one is requested by the recipient of the supply.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Trinidad and Tobago.

Proof of exports. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports must be supported by evidence that the goods have left Trinidad and Tobago. Such evidence includes:
- The commercial invoice, which includes a description of the goods exported, quantum and price
- A CARICOM invoice
- Seaway bill/airway bill as applicable
- Completed Customs Declaration Form (C82 Form), signed and stamped by Customs and Excise

Foreign currency invoices. If a supply is made to a person outside of Trinidad and Tobago, the invoice may be issued in a foreign currency. However, in accounting for the tax payable, the taxable person must account for the tax in the domestic currency, which is the Trinidad and Tobago dollar (TTD). In converting the invoice, the exchange rate must be the rate at which the Central Bank of Trinidad and Tobago would have purchased that currency in the form of notes at the time of the supply.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Fast-food outlets, gas stations and cinemas are exempted from the requirement to issue a tax invoice, unless one is requested by the recipient of the supply.

Records. In Trinidad and Tobago, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include tax invoices, proforma invoices and certificates of waiver given to them and copies of tax invoices and proforma invoices given by them. Every taxable person must keep at its principal place of business in Trinidad and Tobago, or such other place as the board may approve, such books and records, expressed in the English language and the currency of Trinidad and Tobago, as are appropriate to enable the board to ascertain the liability of that taxable person to tax.

In Trinidad and Tobago, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Records may be held outside of Trinidad and Tobago, as long as such records can be provided in a timely manner to the BIR upon request and the records of approval are granted by the BIR.

Record retention period. Books and records are to be kept for six years from the end of the VAT period, except where the person ceases to exist, and the affairs of the person have been wound up.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Trinidad and Tobago. Archiving must be made in paper form only.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax year is divided for taxable suppliers into two-month tax periods, and suppliers are required to submit a VAT return covering all taxable transactions up to and including the last day of each tax period. For administrative convenience, the total number of registrants is divided into two basic categories and an ad hoc category, whose tax periods are as follows:
- Category A: Two-month periods ending with the last day of January, March, May, July, September and November
- Category B: Two-month periods ending with the last day of February, April, June, August, October and December
- Category C: Tax periods as determined by the Board of Inland Revenue

Every registrant is required to submit a VAT return on the prescribed form to the Board of Inland Revenue by the 25th day of the month following each tax period.

Periodic payments. Every taxable person is required to pay the amount of VAT due to the Board of Inland Revenue by the 25th day of the month following each tax period. Payment of VAT must be done by bank transfer or check. In 2021, electronic payment was introduced. The BIR accepts payment of taxes via "TransACH" for transactions between TTD100,000 and TTD499,999 and "safe-tt" for transactions TTD500,000 and over through the Central Bank of Trinidad and Tobago.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Trinidad and Tobago for all taxable persons. This change took place with effect from February 2020. Such filing should be done through the e-Tax system. The website address to access the e-Tax system is etax.ird.gov.tt. Taxable persons can file VAT returns online using the logged-in services or non-logged-in service. However, to access logged-in services (which offer more services) the taxable person must register to obtain a TTConnect ID. To obtain a TTConnect ID, the taxable person must have two forms of Trinidad and Tobago national identification.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Trinidad and Tobago.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Trinidad and Tobago.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Trinidad and Tobago.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Trinidad and Tobago.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Where a taxable person has filed a VAT return and wishes to make amendments to the return, the taxable person is required to write to the BIR requesting the amendments to the return.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Trinidad and Tobago.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A penalty of TTD6,000 is imposed for a failure to notify the tax authorities of changes relating to the registration.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Penalties are assessed for errors and omissions with respect to VAT accounting. A fine of TTD1,000 is imposed for the late submission of a VAT return on summary conviction. In addition, a penalty of 8% and interest at the rate of 2% per month or part of a month is charged on late payments of VAT.

Penalties for errors. There are no specific penalties in Trinidad and Tobago for errors. The penalties for late payment and filings above apply.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of TTD6,000. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Where a person who makes a supply and:
- Falsely represents that tax is charged on that supply
- Falsely represents the amount of tax charged on that supply

  Or
- Recovers or seeks to recover an amount represented to be in respect of tax, the board may assess that person as being liable to pay an amount of tax on the basis of so much of the amount that it appears to the board was represented to be charged as tax, or was recovered or sought to be recovered in respect of tax, as exceeds the amount, if any, that he is authorized by the VAT law, to recover in respect of the supply and, where the person is not registered, the assessment shall be made as if that person were registered and its tax period had been such period as the board may determine

Where an assessment of the tax payable by a person is made or amended under this section wholly or in part as a result of any act or omission of that person that constitutes an offense against the VAT Act, the assessment may include such additional amount by way of penal tax as the board sees fit, but so that the additional amount does not exceed three times the amount of tax (other than penal tax) that is included in the assessment or amendment as a result of the act or omission that constitutes the offense.

Personal liability for company officers. The VAT law provides that where a company commits an offense, every director or other officer concerned in the management of the company is guilty of the offense unless they prove that the offense was committed without their consent or connivance and that they exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the offense.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Trinidad and Tobago is three to six years. An assessment by the BIR cannot be made, amended or vacated after six years from the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates or three years from the date of filing of the return to which the assessment relates, whichever is later.

Tunisia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Tunis GMT +1

AMC Ernst & Young
Boulevard de la Terre
Centre Urbain Nord
1003 Tunis
Tunisia

Indirect tax contacts

Faez Choyakh	+216 (70) 749 111 faez.choyakh@tn.ey.com
Omar Rekik	+216 (70) 749 111 omar.rekik@tn.ey.com
Maryam G Jammouci	+216 (70) 749 111 maryam.g.jammouci@tn.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Taxe sur la Valeur Ajoutée (TVA)
Date introduced	2 June 1988
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	Tunisia Ministry of Finance (http://www.portail.finances.gov.tn)
VAT rates
Standard	19%
Reduced	7%, 13%
Other	Exempt
VAT number format	Tax ID Number/VAT Code A, B, P, D or N/number of establishments
VAT return period	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	TND100,000 (retailers)/None (other businesses)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT is applicable mainly to the following transactions:
- Supplies of goods and services made in Tunisia
- Imports of goods and services
- Industrial activities are generally subject to VAT except for the production of agricultural and fish products (these are outside the scope of VAT)
- Other activities subject to VAT include professional services, wholesale trade (excluding foodstuffs) and retail trade (for traders that make an annual turnover of TND100,000 or more), excluding foods, medicine, pharmaceuticals and products subject to administrative approval tariffs

VAT suspension. VAT may also be suspended. A special authorization from the tax administration is required to obtain a suspension of VAT on purchases. A VAT suspension is available to entities engaged in exporting to financial institutions working mainly with nonresidents, to entities governed by the Hydrocarbons Code, and service provision companies and international commerce companies that are no longer eligible to the VAT suspension regime, even if they are wholly engaged in exportations.

The 2022 Finance Act abolished certain rules applicable to the VAT suspension regime, and therefore the following companies are no longer eligible for the VAT suspension regime:
- Service companies and international trade companies whose turnover from exports or tax-suspended sales exceeds 50% of their total turnover
- Fully exporting service companies and international trade companies
- Service companies and international trade companies that carry out local import and acquisition of materials, products and services necessary for the realization of export operations

Entities subject to VAT may be entitled to VAT suspensions on their local purchases of raw materials and equipment to be used in their projects realized abroad exceeding TND3 million.

Other regimes suspend VAT as well, such as the regime for air transport companies in respect of domestic and international transport, the regime for companies responsible for the implementation of social housing, the regime for Tunisian citizens resident abroad who realize projects in Tunisia, the regime for donations as part of an international cooperation, etc.

VAT suspension may be obtained by requesting a VAT suspension certificate from the tax administration. This certificate may be issued annually or for certain transactions. A copy of the certificate and a copy of the original purchase order certified by the tax authorities are presented to the seller to ensure that the seller does not add VAT to the invoice. The tax administration approval is based on whether the company has the right to be eligible for such "incentive" regime and on whether the company's tax return filings for the different tax heads are up to date.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Tunisia, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Tunisia, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT. However, the VAT law in Tunisia does not contain any specific provision for the transfer of a going concern.

Transactions between related parties. In Tunisia, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated as follows:
- When a company is placed under the dependence of a company whose head office is located outside Tunisia, the VAT is assessed as in the domestic regime. In this regard, it must be outlined that, domestically, the taxable turnover includes the price of the goods, works or services; all costs, duties and taxes included; as well as the value of the objects given in payment, excluding VAT, operating subsidies and conjunctural and compensation levies. The amounts collected for the deposit and non-return of returnable packaging are not included in the tax base.

- When a selling company and a nontaxable buying company are dependent on each other, the VAT due by the first is based not on the value of the deliveries it makes to the second but on the selling price practiced by the latter. However, this provision does not apply with regard to products delivered in large and usual quantities to third parties at the same price as that agreed between them by dependent companies. These provisions are also applicable, even in the absence of a link of dependence, when the taxable person does not provide proof that he acted in the interest of his business.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is an individual or legal entity that is registered for VAT in Tunisia and any other entity that engages independently in taxable transactions other than import sales.

In addition, a person (individual or legal entity) that supplies goods or services for consideration as part of that person's business activities, but who is not required to register for VAT, may opt for a VAT registration if any of the following conditions are satisfied:
- It carries out operations that are not within the scope of VAT.
- It carries out export activities that are exempt from VAT.
- It supplies products or services that are exempt from VAT to persons subject to VAT.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Tunisia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. If a Tunisian customer is required to apply the reverse charge to VAT on cross-border payments, a non-established and nonresident supplier may opt for registering for VAT purposes if the supplier incurs input tax on the purchases that are necessary for the services rendered in Tunisia, and if the input tax generates a VAT-credit position or a VAT-receivable position for that supplier. The input tax credit may be refunded upon request.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Tunisia.

Fixed establishment. In Tunisia, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the direct taxation rules for a permanent establishment (PE) may apply for VAT purposes. There is no definition of a PE in the Tunisian direct tax law. In practice, the Tunisian tax authorities refer to the definitions given by double taxation treaties. However, given that the majority of treaties have not defined the concept of PE for all other services, and that the tax legislation in force in Tunisia has not also addressed this concept and in recognition of the administrative doctrine and the comments of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) model of double taxation treaties, the other services are considered rendered within the framework of a PE in Tunisia when they meet the following conditions:
- They are continuous in time (their duration exceeds six months).
- They are multiple and dependent on each other.
- They form a complete business cycle.
- They require a fixed place of business such as oil well drilling operations, except in the case of drilling operations carried out in Tunisia by a company resident in the United States of America, which are considered carried out within the framework of a PE when their duration exceeds 183 days per period of 365 days.

On the other hand, the products and services supplied and purchased by the PE remain subject to VAT in accordance with the Tunisian tax legislation in force.

Non-established businesses. Nonresident companies that do not have a PE in Tunisia but carry out taxable transactions are subject to VAT. Accordingly Tunisian customers must withhold the entire VAT charge on payments for services supplied by nonresident entities. The nonresident must add Tunisian VAT to its invoice. The customer withholds the VAT amount, remits it to the Tunisian tax administration and pays the amount due for the services, exclusive of VAT, to the foreign provider.

The customer should also obtain a "discharge certificate" in support of the VAT remittance and provide it to the bank transferring the amount due. Failing to be provided with such discharge, the bank performing the transfer could incur penalties of up to 20% of the amount of taxable revenues. However, Tunisian customers that are nonresident, from an exchange regulation standpoint, are exempt from the requirement to obtain such a discharge certificate.

Non-established companies may register for VAT with the Tunisian tax administration. In such case, the VAT withholding procedure is not required.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Tunisia. Nevertheless, where non-established businesses that are not VAT-registered in Tunisia provide supplies to a Tunisian customer, the latter shall fully withhold the VAT due in Tunisia. Alternatively, those businesses may opt to report the VAT withheld directly and deduct the VAT paid on the purchases of goods and services necessary to perform the transactions subject to VAT. To do so, they must:
- Submit a declaration of tax existence by filing a prescribed form with the relevant tax office
- File a VAT return

Reverse charge. The reverse charge applies when services or goods are used/consumed in Tunisia and supplied by nonresident entities. The VAT that has been declared as output tax under the reverse charge may be refundable as if it qualifies as input tax.

Domestic reverse charge. The reverse charge is in general not applicable on domestic transactions. According to Tunisian tax rules, it applies only on payments to nonresident and non-established suppliers when the payment corresponds to a taxable operation in Tunisia, other than an importation of goods. VAT is collected on domestic payments by the supplier who remains liable for the VAT due.

However, the reverse charge is partially applicable on local payments when payment is processed by State Services, local authorities, public companies and establishments. When payments are processed by these bodies, a withholding tax on the VAT amount should be processed at the rate of 25%.

Digital economy. There are no VAT rules specifically applicable to the digital economy.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) or business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are not required to register or account for VAT due on supplies in Tunisia. For B2B supplies, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above). For B2C supplies, the Tunisian regulations do not provide a particular rule for the collection of VAT (neither through VAT registration nor the reverse charge), and as such no VAT is collected.

For imported goods, there is no requirement for the nonresident supplier to collect the Tunisian VAT (neither by direct payment nor through the reverse charge). In practice, the VAT is paid by the Tunisian importer when the goods are cleared at customs.

Nonresident businesses in Tunisia that are selling computer software and internet-based services are subject to a royalty of 3% on the turnover earned with resident individuals and corporate entities. Note, however, that this royalty is not qualified as VAT. The nonresident companies concerned shall proceed with the filing of their abovementioned turnover on a quarterly basis. Reporting and payment procedures will be established by a governmental decree. At the time of preparing this chapter, further details have not been published.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Tunisia.

Registration procedures. Each individual who would practice an industrial, commercial or non-commercial profession, and every legal entity must, before the initiation of the activity, file in person, at the territorially competent tax control office, a declaration of existence according to the preset model required by the tax authorities. Online registration is not allowed.
- A copy of the Articles of Association for the legal entities
- A copy of the agreement or the administrative authorization, if the activity or the place where the activity is performed are subject to a prior authorization

After filing a declaration of existence, the taxable person obtains a tax identification card, which includes the tax identification number.

The application for registration must be submitted by the taxable person itself or its legal representative or by any other person with a power of attorney to register.

Deregistration. In the case of termination of activity, the taxable person submits a termination application, with the tax identification card and declaration of existence, to the territorially competent tax control office.

In case of a deregistration following an optional VAT registration by a person or legal entity not subject to VAT (because its economic activities), the deregistration, or the renunciation of the status of a taxable person, would be made after 31 December of the fourth year that follows the year of the optional registration. The deregistration in this case leads to the regularization of the VAT that has been deducted on the purchased inventories and assets during the period of the optional registration.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the tax authorities with any changes to its VAT registration details when these changes concern the following:
- Corporate name
- Corporate purpose
- Address
- Tax regime
- Share capital amount

In this regard, the taxable person must submit an application to the tax authorities to update the tax registration documents with the changes and provide the tax authorities with the documents that reflect these changes.

The time limit to notify the tax authorities for changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details is 30 days, starting from the date of the decision of such changes.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 19%
- Reduced rates: 7%, 13%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, a suspension or an exemption.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the reduced rate of 13% that applies for real estate transactions only, will increase to 19% effective 1 January 2025. For further details, see the subsection Examples of goods and services taxable at 13%.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 7%

- Transport of goods

- Activities carried out by doctors and analytical laboratories (excluding aesthetic medicine and surgery)
- Materials and supplies for pharmaceutical products
- Tourism activities
- Charging equipment for electric motor vehicles, under customs classification #85044055003 and #853710
- Motor vehicles equipped only with electric motors for propulsion (covered by customs tariff Nos. Ex 87.02, Ex 87.03 and Ex 87.04), bicycles (covered by customs tariff No. Ex 87.12) and motorcycles of different types equipped only of electric motors for propulsion (covered by customs tariff No. Ex 87.11)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 13%

- Sales of low-voltage electricity intended for domestic consumption and the sale of medium- and low-voltage electricity used from the functioning of water pumping equipment for agricultural irrigation.
- Sales of buildings constructed for the exclusive use of housing by real estate developers for the profit of private persons or by public real estate developers (the rate of 13% will increase to 19% effective 1 January 2025). Supplies of buildings constructed for the exclusive use of housing by real estate are allowed to deduct the VAT charged on the stock held on 31 December 2017. The deduction of the VAT does not give rise to the possibility of refund of the non-attributed VAT credit.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies

- Banking interest
- Maritime air transport (except import or output VAT, on motors intended to be incorporated into boats and fishing vessels)
- Food products (e.g., milk and flour)
- Commission on electronic payments via terminal, internet or mobile phone from VAT
- Margin made by distributors of electronic top-up phones and airtime recharge cards

Option to tax for exempt supplies. According to the tax legislation in force, there is a possibility to opt for the VAT regime regarding services, goods and activities exempt for VAT or positioned out of the scope of VAT.

E. Time of supply

The time when the taxable event is considered to have taken place and VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

The time of supply for the sale of goods is when the goods are delivered to the customer.

The time of supply for services is when the service is rendered or when the payment is made (fully or partially) if the settlement is made before the completion of the service.

Deposits and prepayments. For the importation of goods: the VAT is due (paid to customs) by the customs clearance.

For the domestic supply of goods: the tax is due when the goods are supplied. The taxable event is not linked to deposits and advanced payments. The VAT is generally due by the delivery of goods.

For the provision of services: deposits and advanced payments are considered as the time of supply if the settlement is made before the completion of the service. The VAT is generally due by the completion production of the service or by the collection of the price or the advances in case they occur before the provision of the service.

Continuous supplies of services. There are no special time of supply rules in Tunisia for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The tax law does not explicitly refer to goods delivered for approval; the delivery is when the supply is considered to be made. In practice, the VAT is due when the goods are received. If the goods are returned, they should be subject to a credit note on which the amount of the returned goods is mentioned with VAT.

Reverse-charge services. The reverse charge is due when the payment is processed. In fact, the VAT must be withheld by taxable persons registered in Tunisia for tax purposes in one of the following circumstances:

- When the taxable person is the State or local authorities, or businesses and public institutions, 25% of the due VAT should be withheld when the payment is processed.
- When the VAT is due on cross-border payments, 100% of the due VAT should be withheld when the payment is processed.

Leased assets. The tax law does not explicitly indicate the time of supply rules for leased assets. However, according to point three of Article 5 of the VAT code, VAT is collected on services, when the service is rendered or when the overall price or advances are collected before the service is rendered. The same rule applicable for services is applicable to leasing operations.

Imported goods. The time of importation for imported goods is when the goods are cleared at customs.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover VAT with respect to purchases of goods and services that are used for business activities and contribute effectively to the realization of taxable transactions. The VAT deduction is made on the basis of a valid invoice, customs document or withholding VAT certificate.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Tunisia. However, the VAT receivable/credit position can only be refunded where it is less than three years (see the Refunds subsection below).

Companies partially subject to VAT deduct VAT based on the following rules:

- Full deduction is allowed for VAT on purchases used exclusively in a business activity that is subject to VAT.
- No deduction of VAT is allowed for purchases used exclusively in a business activity that is not subject to VAT.
- Deduction on a proportionate basis is allowed for purchases used in both a business activity subject to VAT and a business activity not subject to VAT.

A withholding tax regarding VAT is due at the rate of 25% on amounts equal to or exceeding TND1,000 (including VAT) and must be paid by the state, local authorities, enterprises and public institutions in return of their acquisitions of goods, equipment, services, buildings and businesses.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes and that are considered to be nondeductible expenses for corporate tax purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur).

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Passenger vehicles used for the transport of persons (other than those representing the purpose of the business such as taxi and car rental companies), cars used by hotels for tourist trips, the rental of passenger vehicles and any other expenses incurred in order to ensure their operation and their maintenance.
- Purchases made from individuals or legal entities that are outside the scope of VAT but that have invoiced VAT incorrectly.
- Goods, properties and services fully paid in cash in amounts equal to or exceeding TND5,000 (excluding VAT).
- VAT on goods and services acquired from residents in territories with privileged tax regime.

According to Tunisian rules, input tax that can be deductible is not limited. In fact, any input tax charged on the acquisition of goods or services that are necessary for the operation and so related to a taxable business use can be deductible. However, according to Article 10 of the VAT code, the deduction of VAT cannot be accepted on the items listed below.

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Passenger cars used for the transport of persons other than those that are the object of operation, as well as the rental of passenger cars and all costs incurred to ensure their operation and maintenance.
- Products delivered and the services rendered by the persons who are not subject to the VAT (not liable to collect the VAT).
- Commodities, goods and services equal to or greater than TND5,000, excluive of taxes and paid in cash.
- Amounts paid to persons resident of established in low tax jurisdictions.

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover its input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

A Tunisian taxable person that makes both taxable and exempt supplies may calculate the amount of input tax it may recover in several ways. The standard partial exemption calculation method consists of the following two-stage calculation:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible. Supplies that are exempt with credit are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.
- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (e.g., input tax on general business overhead) that may be allocated to taxable supplies and recovered. The amount of recoverable VAT is determined by making a pro rata calculation based on the respective values of taxable and exempt supplies made.

When taxable persons make both taxable and exempt supplies, the VAT partial regime is directly indicated within the tax identification card based on a prior application to the tax authorities at the time of registration for tax purposes. As such, approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Tunisia. Special methods are allowed in Tunisia.

Capital goods. VAT on investments of all types required for operation (except passenger cars intended for the carriage of passengers and not constituting an object of exploitation) is deductible. This includes capital goods.

However, in case of transfer, contribution, change of use of these assets and in the event of cessation or abandonment of the taxable person's regime, a payment must be operated equal to the amount of the deducted VAT or which should have been paid or reimbursed, reduced by one-fifth for each calendar year or fraction of a calendar year of detention in the case of capital goods or equipment, and one-tenth by calendar year or fraction of calendar year of detention in the case of a building.

If capital goods are used for both taxable and exempt activities, the amount of the deductible tax that should be operated is calculated according to a percentage resulting from the ratio between the following elements achieved during the previous financial year:

- Income subject to VAT plus those resulting from the exportation of taxable goods or services or deliveries made in suspension of such tax and incomes from international air transport operations, including due VAT or VAT of which payment is not required.
- The sums referred to in the above paragraph plus income from exempted business or business situated outside the scope of VAT.

Refunds. VAT liability (i.e., output tax) is computed by multiplying all taxable sales by the applicable VAT rate. The enterprise subtracts the total VAT paid on purchases of goods (i.e., input tax) from output tax and pays the net amount to the tax administration. If the input tax exceeds the output tax, the resulting amount is refunded with a restitution claim made to the tax administration and, in most of the cases, after a tax audit has been completed by the tax administration. The VAT receivable/credit position can be refunded where it is less than three years.

The regime of VAT credit refunds varies according to the source of the credit and the local tax authority.

The common regime, under which the VAT credit is fully refundable, applies in the following circumstances:

- The VAT credit will be refundable without a tax audit if the credit is due to:
  - Exports (refund in 7 days)
  - Withholding tax on VAT
  - Sales with the suspension of the VAT
  - Operations (90 days)
  - Direct investment programs, as defined in Article 3 of Investment Law, performed by companies other than those operating in financial industry energy, mining, real estate development, consumption on premises, trading and telecom operators (refund in 21 days)
  - Investment plans related to upgrade programs approved by the steering committee of the upgrading programme (21 days); this is effective from 1 January 2023 for input tax credit refund applications submitted after this date, or VAT credit confirmed by tax authority

If the VAT credit is due to:

- The normal course of business (for example, the VAT on purchases exceeds the VAT on sales), then the VAT credit is refundable, if it persists on six consecutive tax returns, as part of one of two processes:
  - For businesses that have the legal obligation to designate a legal auditor, if the financial statements are certified with an audit report that requires no modification that has an impact on the tax basis, an advance of 50% of the VAT credit is provided before a tax audit, and the remaining amount is refundable after a tax audit (refund in 60 days).
  - For other cases, an advance of 15% of the VAT credit is provided before a tax audit, and the remaining amount is refundable after a tax audit (refund in 120 days).

- For companies under the control of the Directorate of Large Business (DGE), the VAT credit is fully refundable before a tax audit, in seven days, under the following conditions:
  - The report of the legal auditor does not contain an amendment affecting the tax basis.
  - The legal auditor certifies in a separate audit report that the VAT credit to be refunded is accurate.

If, after a tax audit, the tax authorities confirm the validity of a VAT credit, it is fully refundable notwithstanding the appeals procedures that may follow.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Tunisia is not recoverable. The input tax on pre-registration costs appearing on invoices prior to the tax registration cannot be recovered by a future taxable person before having the status (under incorporation) since the deductibility of input tax needs the issuing of an invoice that includes mandatory mentions pertaining to the payer and that cannot be provided during the incorporation stage (such as tax ID).

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Tunisia.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Tunisia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Tunisia is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Tunisian taxable persons must provide VAT invoices for all taxable supplies and services, including exports, made to other taxable persons. Recipients of supplies must retain copies of invoices.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note as such may not be used to reduce VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods or services. Instead, the initial transaction must be voided, and a new VAT invoice must be issued for the correction of genuine mistakes.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Tunisia, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Tunisia.

For B2G supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for companies that fall under the Division for Large Enterprises.

For B2B and B2C supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Tunisia. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Tunisia for B2B and B2C supplies.

The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing. Taxable persons using electronic invoices must submit a declaration to the competent tax authorities together with a certificate provided by the authorized entity's automated management system for electronic invoices processing. Electronic invoicing users are not obliged to maintain digital copies of invoices, the authorized invoicing entity assumes the responsibility of keeping the digital invoices and may issue to the sender or the receiver a digital copy if requested.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Tunisia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Tunisia.

Proof of exports. VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods in Tunisia. However, to qualify as VAT-free, the exported goods must be documented by a customs declaration proving that the goods have left Tunisia. In addition, persons subject to VAT that are primarily or exclusively engaged in activities relating to exports may benefit from suspended VAT on their purchases of goods and services required for the production of exported goods.

Foreign currency invoices. A VAT invoice for transactions performed between two resident entities must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Tunisian dinar (TND), according to the exchange legislation. If one or both of the parties are nonresident, the VAT invoice may be issued in a foreign currency.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Tunisia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Tunisia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the general journal, the general ledger, the balance and the previous monthly tax returns. In Tunisia, VAT books and records must be held within the country. Such records must be held at the taxable person's premises at the address that is reflected on the taxable person's VAT registration documents.

Record retention period. The accounting system of businesses, financial statements relating to an accounting period, as well as the documents, books, balance and supporting documents relating thereto must be kept by taxable persons for at least 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Tunisia. However, in case of tax audit, all supporting documents should be presented on hard original copies.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Tunisian VAT returns must be filed on a monthly basis. Returns must be filed by the 28th day of the following month for legal entities and by the 15th day of the following month for individuals.

Periodic payments. Payments must be paid by the 28th day of the following month for legal entities or the 20th day of the following month for those taxable persons required to make payments electronic (see below). For individuals, the payment deadline is by the 15th day of the following month for individuals.

The payments must be paid in TND and, it should be processed electronically (via specific payment platform) for taxable persons of which the annual turnover is equal or exceeds TND100,000. There is a system of online tax declaration that allows taxable persons to liquidate and pay their taxes online (www.impots.finances.gov.tn).

The online tax declaration allows to liquidate and pay monthly tax returns and annual tax returns (monthly tax returns, filing of corporate tax returns, declaration of the advance due by partnerships and similar companies, declaration of personal income tax, declaration of the installment). This process is mandatory for persons whose turnover is equal or more than TND100,000.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Tunisia for certain taxable persons. The electronic filing of a monthly VAT return is mandatory for entities whose annual revenue exceeds TND100,000. Below this threshold, electronic filing is optional.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Tunisia.

Special schemes. VAT suspension regime. For sales and purchases under the VAT suspension regime, the purchaser and the supplier must each make an electronic declaration, before the 28th day of the month that follows the quarter of the calendar year. The VAT suspension regime may be granted to special taxable persons, e.g., those that wholly export, supply hydrocarbon and those in the mining sectors.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Tunisia.

Supplementary filings. Quarterly reporting on purchases with the suspension of VAT. A detailed list of invoices is required to be submitted to the tax authority. These are for invoices issued in suspension of VAT according to a model established by the administration including in particular the invoice number object of the benefit, its date, the customer's first and last name or business name, address, tax identification card number, the price excluding tax, the rate and the amount of value added tax having is the subject of suspension and the number and the date of the certificate of purchase in suspension of VAT relating to the sale transaction in suspension of tax. The filings must be submitted to the competent tax control office during the 28 days that follow each calendar quarter.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Omissions, errors and concealments found in the base, rates or liquidation of the declared VAT returns can be corrected as follows:

- Until the end of the fourth year following the year in which the profit, income, turnover, receipt or disbursement of sums or other transactions giving rise to the liability for tax. However, for companies subject to tax under the actual regime and for which the balance sheet closing date does not coincide with the end of the calendar year, the claw back/tax recovery right for a given fiscal year is extended until the end of the fourth calendar year following the year in which the balance sheet is closed
- Within four years from the date of registration of the act or statement, regarding registration rights

However, when an act or judgment with a higher value of buildings in the scope of a declaration of succession occurs within two years from the date of death, the limitation period begins to run from the date of registration of the act or judgment.

A taxable person should consequently correct errors or omissions from prior periodic declarations within the aforementioned period via a rectifying declaration, which may be made online or in person.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Tunisia.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A fine that varies between TND1,000 and TND50,000 is applicable for late registration of VAT. However, this fine does not apply if the taxable person regularizes the situation prior to a tax audit.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For the late filing of VAT returns or underpayments of VAT, penalties are imposed as follows:

- In the case of a spontaneous late filing (prior to a tax audit):
  - A delay penalty of 1.25% per month or fraction of a month
  - A base penalty of 3%, and where the delay exceeds 60 days a penalty of 5%
- In the case of a tax audit:
  - A delay penalty of 2.25% per month or fraction of a month
  - A base penalty of 10%, which can be increased to 20% in the following cases:
    a) A claim for collected turnover taxes and unremitted withholding taxes
    b) A decrease that is equal or more than 30% in reported turnover
    c) Tax fraud
  - The above penalties can be reduced as per the following:
    a) A delay penalty of 1.25% per month or fraction of a month
    b) A base penalty of relief of 50% on the due penalty
  - The following conditions must be met to receive the benefit of the above penalty relief:
    a) Signature of an acknowledgment of debt before notification of the automatic tax order
    b) Undivided payment within 30 days of acknowledgment of debt

The total amount of the above penalties is capped in all cases to the amount of the tax base.

For sales and purchases under the VAT suspension regime, fines and penalties, which would be incurred by the purchaser and the supplier in case they do not comply with some formalities, are as follows:

- The purchaser: In case of undeclared purchase orders, the taxable person must pay a fine that amounts to TND2,000 per undeclared purchase order for the first five purchase orders and TND5,000 each starting from the sixth purchase order. In addition, if the seller makes sales without obtaining an original of the certified purchase order, the customer would be subject to a fine that amounts to 50% of the VAT that would have been invoiced by the supplier if the sales had been made out of the exceptional VAT suspension regime.
- The seller: If the seller makes sales without obtaining an original of a certified purchase order, it would be subject to a fine that amounts to 50% of the VAT that would have been invoiced if the sales had been made out of the exceptional VAT suspension regime.

VAT credits unduly refunded under the full refund without a prior tax audit framework are subject to an administrative tax penalty equal to 100% of the VAT credit:

- Refund of the VAT derived from exportations of goods or services used or consumed out of Tunisia
- Refund of the VAT for the profit of the enterprises under the control of the DGE

Penalties for errors. The same penalties for late payment and filings are applicable for the case of errors. There are no specific penalties for errors.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. However, the tax authorities may consider the taxable person as noncompliant, which can lead to blocking issues with respect to the Tunisian administrations. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty of imprisonment of 16 days to three years and a fine of TND1,000 to TND50,000 for any person who keeps double accounts or uses falsified accounting documents, registers or directories, with the aim of totally or partially to the payment of tax or to benefit from tax advantages or tax refunds.

The above is imposed, in addition to the withdrawal of the license to practice, business agents, tax advisors, experts and all other persons having an independent profession of keeping or helping to keep accounts and who have knowingly established or helped in making false accounts or false accounting documents in order to minimize the tax base or the tax itself. These people are also jointly liable with their customers for the payment of the principal tax and the related penalties evaded by their actions.

Personal liability for company officers. The legal representatives of the company can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting and may therefore be subject to the penalties outlined above under the subsection Penalties for fraud. This means that business agents, tax consultants, experts and all other persons who make an independent profession of keeping or assisting in the keeping of accounts and who have knowingly established or helped to establish false accounts or false accounting documents with the aim of reducing the tax base or the tax itself can be punished by imprisonment from 16 days to three years and assessed a fine of TND1,000 to TND50,000, in addition to the withdrawal of the license to practice.

These people are, moreover, jointly and severally liable with their clients for payment of the principal of the tax and the related penalties evaded by their actions.

The same penalty is applicable to the persons responsible for carrying out or setting up the computer systems or applications relating to the keeping of accounts or the preparation of tax returns in the event that they fulfill the facts outlined above.

However, it should be noted that Article 101 of the Tunisian Tax Rights and Procedures Code provides that any increase in the VAT credit or decrease in turnover to evade payment of the said tax or to benefit from the refund of the said tax entails a sanction that is applied when the reduction or increase is equal to or greater than 30% of the declared turnover or tax credit. As for the sanction, it is a fine from TND1,000 to TND50,000 and imprisonment from 16 days to three years. As for the transaction fee, it is 50% of the amount of the tax principal evaded without the amount of the fine due being less than TND500 or more than TND50,000.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Tunisia is 4, 6 or 10 years. For underpayment of VAT due, omissions, errors and concealments found in the tax base, the rates or the liquidation of declared taxes can be corrected until the end of the fourth year following the year in which the profit, income, turnover, receipt or disbursement of sums or other transactions giving rise to the liability for tax. For noncompliance of filing obligations (i.e., not filing a VAT return), the statute of limitations is 10 years. For filing nil returns or including insufficient reported taxes, the statute of limitations six years.

Türkiye

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Istanbul GMT +2

EY
Maslak Mahallesi Eski
Büyükdere Caddesi
Orjin Maslak Plaza No:27
Kat:1-4 Sarıyer
Istanbul
Türkiye

Indirect tax contacts

Sercan Bahadir	+90 (212) 315-3000 sercan.bahadir@tr.ey.com
Sedat Tasdemir	+90 (212) 315-3000 sedat.tasdemir@tr.ey.com
Gozde Kucukcelebi	+90 (212) 315-3000 gozde.kucukcelebi@tr.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Katma deger vergisi (KDV)
Date introduced	2 November 1984
Trading bloc membership	European Customs Union The system of Pan-Euro-Mediterranean Cumulation
Administered by	Turkish Revenue Administration (http://www.gib.gov.tr)
VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	1%, 10%
Other	Full exemption and partial exemption
VAT number format	1234567890
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- The supply of goods or services made in Türkiye by a taxable person in the course of performing commercial, industrial, agricultural or independent professional activities
- Services received in Türkiye or benefited from in Türkiye by a taxable person or any other person responsible for payment of the tax
- Goods and services imported into Türkiye

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Türkiye, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Türkiye. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. However, merger and acquisition transactions, which are done under the articles of Corporate Tax Law exemptions, may also benefit from the VAT exemption. This is done on a case-by-case basis.

Transactions between related parties. For a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes should be done at on an arms-length basis.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is any person or legal entity that is registered or must register for VAT in Türkiye. Any entity that has a fixed place of business or regularly carries out commercial or professional operations in Türkiye must register in Türkiye.

No VAT registration threshold applies. VAT registration is granted automatically by the tax office when a business registers for corporate and income tax purposes. It is necessary to have a fixed place of business to register for tax. A fixed place of business includes a residence, place of business and registered head office or business center in Türkiye. Only entities that are registered for tax may import goods into Türkiye.

Partial VAT withholding. There is a "partial VAT withholding" mechanism in Türkiye. Under this mechanism, a certain portion of VAT amount is withheld by the recipient (purchaser, service receiver, etc.), and the recipient pays this VAT directly to the tax office instead of the supplier (seller, service provider, etc.). The portion that is not subject to withholding is declared and paid to the tax office by the supplier.

Partial VAT withholding is applied to a list of transactions that covers but is not limited to:
- Construction works
- Maintenance and repair services related to machinery and equipment
- Catering and organization services
- Labor procurement services
- Contract textile manufacturing
- Cleaning, environmental and garden care services
- Delivery of copper, zinc, aluminum and lead products

The rate of withholding varies depending on the type of services.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Türkiye does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Türkiye does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration and no special VAT registration rules for small businesses, as there is no registration threshold (i.e., all entities established in Türkiye that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for VAT).

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Türkiye.

Fixed establishment. In Türkiye, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, there is no VAT-only registration rule in Türkiye. In principle, a taxable person registered for all taxes (including VAT) is responsible for all direct and indirect taxes. Tax registration is done based on the permanent establishment evaluation under the Corporate Tax Legislation and Tax Procedural Code.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that has no fixed establishment in Türkiye. A non-established business may not register for VAT only (other than "Special VAT Registration for Electronic Service Providers" – see the Digital economy subsection below). If a Turkish taxable person receives services from an entity that does not have a fixed establishment in Türkiye, VAT is accounted for using the reverse-charge mechanism (that is, the Turkish recipient of the service must self-assess VAT).

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Türkiye.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge is a form of self-assessment for VAT through which the recipient of services accounts for the tax. The reverse charge applies if certain services subject to Turkish VAT are made by a person that is not a resident in Türkiye or that does not have a permanent establishment or headquarters in Türkiye. The Ministry of Treasury and Finance is authorized to determine the parties responsible for the payment of VAT. The recipient does not need to be a taxable person under Turkish VAT law. The recipient may be an individual or an institution.

The reverse charge applies to the following services performed or used in Türkiye:
- Transfers of copyrights, patents, licenses, trademarks, know-how and similar rights
- Import commissions
- Services of independent professionals, such as engineering, consulting, data processing and provision of information
- Interest payments made to foreign entities other than banks and financial institutions
- Rental services
- Transfer or assignment of the right to use capacity for the transmission, emission or reception of signals, writings, images, sounds or information of any nature by wire, radio, optical or other electromagnetic systems
- Other services not specified in this list

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Türkiye.

Digital economy. Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services to nontaxable real persons (i.e., for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies) in Türkiye are required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Türkiye. Nonresidents mean those businesses that have no resident, business place, legal or business center in Türkiye.

The service providers must register for "Special VAT Registration for Electronic Service Providers." Such service providers declare the VAT related to these transactions electronically with the VAT Return No. 3. There is no VAT registration threshold for these types of suppliers.

These service providers must fill in the form on the Turkish Revenue Administration's website (www.digitalservice.gib.gov.tr) before filing the VAT Return No. 3 for the first time. Upon completing and filing the aforesaid form online, the "Special VAT Registration for Electronic Service Providers" will be registered in the name of the service provider.

Such service providers will be required to file VAT return type No. 3, electronically, by the 28th of the month following the end of the return period. See the Section I. Returns and payment below for further detail.

Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services only to tax-registered entities (i.e., for business-to-business (B2B) supplies) in Türkiye are not required to register and account for VAT in Türkiye. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Türkiye.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Türkiye.

Registration procedures. There is no online registration application system except for "Special VAT Registration for Electronic Service Providers" (see details above under the Digital economy subsection). To register for tax, an application must be submitted to the tax office with the documents listed below:
- Articles of association of the company
- Registration certificate or original trade registry gazette
- Signature circular document indicating the authorized signatories and their signature samples
- Trade registry document of the legal entity founder or authorized signatory (if any)
- Notarized passport copies of the authorized signatories and founders of the company
- Potential tax numbers of the founders and signatories that are obtained from the tax office
- Notarized lease agreement in the name of the company
- Originally signed Form of Commence Business (standard form to be received from the tax authority)
- Power of attorney (only if the application will be conducted by a representative)

Approximately one week after submitting an application with the above documents, the tax officer will conduct an inspection at the registered office of the company. This is to determine whether or not there actually is an office space with adequate equipment. The authorized signatory of the company shall be present for this inspection to sign the necessary documents, or such documents shall be signed by the representative via a power of attorney. Upon completion, the tax number will be issued within a few days.

Deregistration. In the case of the closing down of a business or the dissolution of a legal entity, the person authorized to represent the company must submit written notice to the tax office within one month of the date of closure. After submitting the application for the liability cancellation, a visit to the relevant workplace is performed by the authority to confirm its closure.

Changes to VAT registration details. Taxable persons must notify the relevant tax office online or by post within one month from when there is a change in their registration details.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services liable to a rate of VAT.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20% (the rate increased from 18% to 20% from 10 July 2023)
- Reduced rates: 1%, 10% (the rate increased from 8% to 10% from 10 July 2023)

The standard VAT rate applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate or exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 1%
- Newspapers and magazines
- Basic foodstuffs
- Used passenger cars

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%
- Foodstuffs
- Textile products
- Pharmaceuticals

- Medical products
- Some construction equipment
- Admission charges for cinemas, theaters and operas

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not subject to VAT. "Partially exempt" supplies (as specified in Articles 16 and 17 of the VAT law) do not give rise to a right of input tax deduction (see Section F). Some supplies are classified as "fully exempt," which means that no VAT is due, but the supplier may recover related input tax. These supplies include exports of goods and related services.

Examples of partially exempt supplies of goods and services

- Leasing immovable property by an individual
- Financial transactions
- Supplies to certain cultural bodies
- Supplies by and to certain governmental bodies
- Water for agriculture
- The supply of unprocessed gold, foreign exchange money, stocks and bonds, duty stamps, scrap metal, plastic and certain other items
- Storage services performed at bonded warehouses or temporary storage places
- Delivery of goods or performance of services in free-trade zones

Examples of fully exempt supplies of goods and services

- Exports of goods and services
- Services rendered at marinas and airports for marine and air conveyances
- International transport
- Supplies to persons engaged in petroleum exploration
- Supplies of goods to investment incentive certificate holders
- Sales to the Directorate of the Defense Industry

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Taxable persons may submit a request to opt to tax exempt transactions by applying to the tax office in writing. The taxable persons who have an option to tax approved and become liable for VAT in this way will not be able to change this option for a minimum of three years after the date of the option to tax applying.

The option to tax cannot be requested for:

- Exemptions with the purpose of culture and education, social utility and military
- Exemption regarding the transactions within the scope of banking and insurance tax and the transactions of insurance agents related to insurance activities

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply for goods is when they are delivered. The basic time of supply for services is when they are performed. However, if the supplier issues an invoice before the time of supply, VAT applies to the extent that the supply is covered by the invoice.

Deposits and prepayments. A deposit or prepayment alone does not create a tax point from VAT point of view if the supply has not been made and the invoice has not been issued yet. As outlined above, the tax point occurs when goods are delivered or services are performed, or when an invoice is issued if it is earlier than the time of supply. A deposit or prepayment is basically a transfer of cash in advance before the supply or invoice. Therefore, prepayment alone does not create a tax point for VAT.

Continuous supplies of services. If services are received continuously but payment is made periodically, the tax is declared every month. If the invoice is issued before the declaration period, the tax point is the date of the invoice.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The time of supply for goods sent on approval for sale or return is when the customer accepts the goods, and a supply is made.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Türkiye for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Türkiye for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Türkiye, VAT paid on imports of goods and VAT self-assessed on reverse-charge services.

If the input tax exceeds the output tax, the excess amount is generally not refunded but can be carried forward to subsequent VAT periods.

A valid document, such as an invoice or customs document, must accompany a claim for input tax.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Türkiye is until the end of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the taxable event takes place. The right of deduction may be exercised in the tax period in which the purchase documents are entered into the recipient's books of account, but only until the end of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the taxable event takes place.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax is not recoverable if it is charged on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes and are considered to be nondeductible expenses for corporate tax purposes. In addition, input tax may not be recovered for partially exempt transactions.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Input tax of nondeductible expenses in corporate tax law
- Input tax of passenger cars
- Input tax of lost goods (covering all situations where goods were lost, other than an earthquake, flood disaster or fire disaster that has been announced by the Ministry of Finance as a force majeure)
- Input tax over the surveillance application, anti-dumping, additional financial obligation on imports (abolished through Presential Decision No.7846, with effect from 24 November 2023)

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- All kinds of commercial expenses for operating activities of the entity
- All direct and indirect expenses for commercial purposes of the entity

Partial exemption. An input tax deduction is granted for taxable supplies and for supplies that are exempt with credit. An input tax deduction is not granted for partially exempt supplies. If a taxable person makes both taxable and partially exempt supplies, it may recover only input tax related to supplies that are taxable or fully exempt.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method or special methods in Türkiye.

Capital goods. In general, input tax incurred on fixed assets is recoverable. Taxable persons can deduct the whole amount of VAT paid for fixed assets in the taxation period in which the related invoices are recorded in the legal books.

On the other hand, input tax of lost goods is not deductible and needs to be corrected in the taxation period in which the goods became lost.

However, if depreciable assets are lost (due to fire, being stolen, etc.) after completing their useful lives, then there is no need for VAT correction.

If depreciable assets are lost before fully completing their useful lives, then the portion of input tax corresponding to the remaining useful life needs to be corrected.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in the same period, a refund is, as a rule, not granted. In most cases, the taxable person must carry forward the excess amount to a future VAT period. Refunds of the excess are available only for the following:
- VAT related to supplies of goods subject to a reduced rate
- VAT related to supplies of goods and services that are exempt with credit
- VAT related to supplies in the scope of partial VAT withholding

The amount of the VAT refund may be credited against other tax liabilities.

In addition, it is mandatory to submit all VAT refund certification reports on electronic environment via the internet tax office.

Pre-registration costs. The amount of incurred VAT for the prior costs and expenditures related to the registration process could be deductible after the registration process is complete. The main condition that must be met is that they are related to the registration process. As for recovery, there is no separate/special rule – normal recovery rules apply (as outlined above).

Bad debts. Taxable persons must declare and pay the VAT related to their supplies of goods and services, whether or not they receive the consideration for these supplies.

Taxable persons can deduct the VAT that has been calculated and declared related to the receivables that became a bad debt (as per the article 322 of the Tax Procedures Code).

A "bad debt" is defined as receivables that are no longer possible to be collected according to a judicial decision or a satisfactory document, as per the article 322 of the Tax Procedures Code.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Türkiye.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Türkiye is not recoverable, except for the following:
- Expenses by nonresident international transporters on repairs, fuel and spare parts

- Expenses by non-established businesses on fairs and exhibitions (if the business' country of residence is on mutual terms with Türkiye)
- Expenses by foreign producers of cinematographic works approved by the Ministry of Culture and Tourism

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Turkish taxable persons must provide invoices for all taxable supplies and services. Taxable person recipients of the supplies and services must retain copies of the invoices.

Credit notes. Credit notes may not be used to reduce VAT charged and reclaimed on supplies of goods or services.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Türkiye, for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Türkiye. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

Electronic invoicing is mandatory for the following taxable persons (it is optional for those who don't fall under this list):

- Taxable persons whose gross sales revenue is greater than the following:
  - TL5 million in FY18, FY19 and FY20
  - TL4 million in FY21
  - TL3 million and above for FY22 and subsequent years
- Energy Market Regulatory Authority (EPDK) licensed companies – Special Consumption Tax List (ÖTV) I
- Taxable persons who obtain a charging network operator license from the Energy Market Regulatory Authority within the scope of the Charging Service Regulation and charging station operators certified by these taxable persons
- Special Consumption Tax List (ÖTV) III (Alcoholic/non-alcoholic beverages, spirits)
- Online goods or services sales and online advertisement publishing service providers whose gross sales revenue is greater than the following:
  - TL1 million in FY20 and FY21
  - TL500,000 and above in FY22 and subsequent years
- Fruit and vegetable merchants and commission merchants
- Taxable persons who make supplies of real estate and/or motor vehicles, construction, production, purchase, sale or leasing transactions and act as intermediaries in these transactions with gross sales revenue greater than the following:
  - TL1 million in FY20 and FY21
  - TL500,000 and above in FY22 and subsequent years
- Hotel enterprises that provide accommodation services by obtaining investment and/or business certificates from the Ministry of Culture and Tourism and municipalities
- Medical service providers who signed contracts with social security institutions and medical equipment and drugs/active substances suppliers

The threshold for issuing the invoices is TL4,400. For the sales less than TL4,400, sales receipt can be issued instead.

Those who are registered with the electronic invoicing application should issue an electronic invoice for sales to those who are also registered with the electronic invoicing application (B2G, B2B or B2C).

Those who are registered with the electronic invoicing application should issue an electronic archive invoice for sales to those who are not registered with the electronic invoicing application (B2G, B2B or B2C).

Those who are not registered with the electronic invoicing application should issue an electronic archive invoice for sales to the tax-registered entities with a total amount of more than TL4,400 (B2G, B2B or B2C).

Those who are not registered with the electronic invoicing application should issue an electronic archive invoice for sales to those who are not tax registered with a total amount of more than TL5,000. If the amount is less than TL5,000, then paper invoice can be issued instead.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Türkiye. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Türkiye. In practice, it is used in certain circumstances. For instance, when a taxable person transfers own goods from inventory accounts to fixed assets, they need to issue a self-invoice.

Proof of exports. Turkish VAT is not charged on exports. However, to qualify as VAT-exempt, export supplies must be supported by evidence that confirms that the goods have left Türkiye. The evidence required consists of the customs declaration, which clearly identifies the exporter, the customer, the goods and the export destination, and invoice information.

Foreign currency invoices. An invoice issued for a domestic sale must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Turkish lira (TRY). The invoice may also show the invoiced amount in a foreign currency if the TRY equivalents are stated.

An invoice issued for an export sale may be issued in a foreign currency. The amount of the invoice must be recorded in the supplier's books together with the exchange rate on the date of the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. For supplies made by taxable persons to private consumers (i.e., not VAT registered), where the price of the supply is below TRY4,400 (for 2023), a till receipt is sufficient to be issued from the supplier to the purchaser, and there is no obligation to issue a full VAT invoice unless requested by the purchaser.

Records. In Türkiye, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the legal books (i.e., the journal ledger, inventory ledger) and the substantiating documents (such as invoices, expense vouchers, bank receipts, payrolls, contracts, etc.).

In Türkiye, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Taxable persons have the option to hold records both in and outside of Türkiye. However, if kept outside Türkiye, the records must be presented in a timely manner when requested by the tax authorities.

Record retention period. The record retention period is 5 years as per the Tax Procedures Code and 10 years as per the Turkish Commercial Code. The retention period of five years is only valid for tax purposes. Therefore, considering the Turkish Commercial Code, it is recommended to maintain all files for 10 years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Türkiye. Taxable persons using e-archive system archive their data on an electronic environment. However, they are required to archive original hard copy of the documents that were originally issued in hard copy format.

Taxable persons not using e-archive system archive their data and files in their original format. They will be required to submit these data/files to tax authorities when requested.

Taxable persons who are permitted to use e-invoicing, must e-archive the invoices, and those that are issued electronically must be archived electronically. Taxable persons who are allowed to benefit from the e-archive application have to issue, deliver, archive and, when requested, submit the invoices as e-invoices, which are issued for those who are registered for e-invoicing. Taxable persons may use e-archiving in two methods: through their own information technology system or through a special integrator information technology system authorized by the Revenue Administration.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT return period is monthly. Returns must be submitted electronically through the internet by the 28th day of the month following the end of the return period. Returns must be declared in the form that was designated according to the provisions of Tax Procedural Law. There are five types of VAT returns:

- VAT Return No. 1: Filed by the taxable persons who are subject to real taxation to declare VAT calculated over their supplies
- VAT Return No. 2: Filed by taxable persons responsible to declare reverse charge and partially withheld VAT
- VAT Return No. 3: Filed by the non-established companies to declare VAT on their electronically supplied services to Turkish real persons (B2C)
- VAT Return No. 4: Filed by the taxable persons who are subject to revenue-based taxation system
- VAT Return No. 5: Filed by the enforcement offices and those who are not subject to real taxation to declare VAT on sales made in auction halls

Periodic payments. Payment in full must be made by the 28th day of the month following the end of the return period (i.e., month of submission). Tax return liabilities must be paid in Turkish lira.

For "Special VAT Registration for Electronic Service Providers," payment of VAT is made online via using debit cards (via a Turkish public bank or any foreign banks) and only foreign bank credit cards. Alternatively, there is also EFT option to the bank account of the Large Taxable Person Tax Office.

Partial VAT withholding. There is a "partial VAT withholding" mechanism in Türkiye. Under this mechanism, a certain portion of VAT amount is withheld by the recipient (purchaser, service receiver, etc.), and the recipient pays this VAT directly to the tax office instead of the supplier (seller, service provider, etc.). The portion that is not subject to withholding is declared and paid to the tax office by the supplier.

Partial VAT withholding is applied to a list of transactions that covers but is not limited to:

- Construction works
- Maintenance and repair services related to machinery and equipment
- Catering and organization services
- Labor procurement services
- Contract textile manufacturing
- Cleaning, environmental and garden care services
- Delivery of copper, zinc, aluminum and lead products

The rate of withholding varies depending on the type of services.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Türkiye for all taxable persons. Taxable persons are obliged to submit their tax returns by using the Ministry of Treasury and Finance's system called "e-Beyanname." All tax returns must be submitted through this system and are electronically archived. Tax returns from previous periods are easily retrievable from this system.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Türkiye.

Special schemes. Specified sectors. As of 1 January 2019, a revenue-based taxation system has been established for taxable persons operating in specified sectors in Türkiye. Accordingly, those operating within the sector and occupational groups determined by the President, if requested, may pay a certain percentage of their proceeds (including VAT) by declaring it without considering the deductible VAT amount. Currently, suppliers of public transportation services who fulfill certain conditions are in the scope.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Türkiye.

Supplementary filings. BA-BS forms. Taxable persons are required to file BA-BS forms to declare the transactions over TRY5,000 between the purchaser company and seller company. The purchases from other companies are stated within the BA Form, whereas the sales to other companies are stated within the BS Form. The "BA-BS" stands for "Bildirim Alış-Bildirim Satış" in Turkish, which means notification of purchases and sales.

Correcting errors in previous returns. To correct any errors in a tax return, a new tax return must be filed electronically by including an explanation for the purpose of correction on the return. If a tax amount is corrected, the new tax return must show the final corrected amount and not only the part of amount to be added or deducted.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Türkiye.

J. Penalties

No specific penalties relate to VAT offenses. Penalties are prescribed by the Tax Procedures Code, which defines various acts of noncompliance with the tax laws, as outlined in more detail below.

Penalties for late registration. In case of late registration, the following penalties could apply:
- Tax loss penalty
- Late payment charge (interest)
- Irregularity penalty

Penalties for late payment and filings. Late submission of tax returns on electronic environment is subject to tax loss penalty and special irregularity penalty. In such a case, the special irregularity penalty is TRY7,500 (for 2023) per tax return and the tax loss penalty is the amount of the tax loss itself.

Late payment of taxes due is subject to late payment interest at the rate of 2.5% per month.

The penalty for the failure to account for VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism is the full amount of tax that has not been accounted for (i.e., 100% of the tax due). The amount of interest is calculated starting from the due date of the tax payment until the date on which the penalty notice is issued.

Penalties for errors. Penalties for errors should be evaluated based on the result of error. If, for example, the error causes a tax loss, then the tax loss penalty may apply. If the error does not cause a tax loss but is only related to form, such as not using the correct line of the return to declare a tax, then the irregularity penalties may apply. The amount of irregularity penalties varies depending on the type of irregularity.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a second-degree irregularity penalty of TRY7,500 (for 2023). For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Manipulating or destroying the legal books and accounting records or issuing misleading or forged documents are evaluated under smuggling and penalized. Smuggling acts may result in jail sentence varying between 18 months and five years.

Personal liability for company officers. The directors that have management powers are liable to perform their obligations with due care and to protect the interest of the company. The liability of directors is based on fault, meaning that the directors may be personally held liable due to their fault or negligence while performing their duties against the company, shareholders and other related third parties and compensate the damaged parties. In case the tax debts of a company cannot be collected, in part or in a whole, from the assets of such company and the said tax collection is due to the failure of fulfillment of duty of the directors, then such taxes would be collected from the assets of the directors who have failed to perform their legal duties.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Türkiye is five years.

Uganda

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Kampala GMT +3

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 7215
Kampala
Uganda

Street address:
Ernst & Young House
18 Clement Hill Road
Shimoni Office Village
Kampala
Uganda

Indirect tax contacts

Muhammed Ssempijja
+256 (41) 434-3520/4
muhammed.ssempijja@ug.ey.com

Allan Mugisha
+256 (41) 434-3520/4
allan.mugisha@ug.ey.com

Prosper Ahabwe
+256 (41) 434-3520/4 prosper.ahabwe@ug.ey.com

Blaise Okwero
+256 (41) 434-3520/4
blaise.okwero@ug.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 July 1996
Trading bloc membership	Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) East African Community (EAC) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA)
Administered by	Uganda Revenue Authority (https://www.ura.go.ug) (URA)
VAT rates
Standard rate	18%
Others	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	10-digit numeric tax identification number in the form of 1234567890
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	UGX150 million (annual)/UGX37.5 million (quarter)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- Taxable supplies of goods and services made in Uganda by taxable persons
- Imports of goods other than exempt imports
- Supplies of imported services other than exempt services

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Uganda, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be exempt from VAT under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as exempt from VAT. In Uganda, a TOGC is treated as exempt from VAT where the following conditions are met:

- The supplier disposes of any part of a business that is capable of separate operation (for example a branch of a business)
- Both the seller and the buyer must be registered as taxable persons for VAT
- The Agreement of Sale, which should be duly executed, must make it absolutely clear that the property is a whole or part of the seller's business, which is being sold as a going concern
- Activities of the business must continue after the business is transferred to the purchaser for at least two years
- The supplier supplies to the recipient all of the facilities that are necessary for the continued operation of the enterprise being sold. This may include premises, plant and equipment, stock in trade, intangible assets such as goodwill, contacts and licenses, and all the operating structure and process of the enterprise
- The supplier carries on or will carry on the business until the day of the supply (whether or not as a part of a larger business carried on by the supplier) and that the nature of the business will not change after the transaction
- The transferor and transferee shall within 21 days of the transfer, notify the Commissioner General in writing of the details of the transfer in accordance with section 19 (2) of the VAT Act, Cap.349

Note: a mere disposal of an asset used by the business is not a supply of a going concern.

Transactions between related parties. In Uganda, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at fair market value. The VAT law requires that supplies between associated parties should be made at their fair market value, which is the consideration in money that a similar supply would generally fetch if supplied in similar circumstances at that date in Uganda, being a supply freely offered and made between persons who are not associates.

C. Who is liable

The persons liable for VAT in Uganda vary according to the type of supply. The following persons are liable for VAT in Uganda:

- Taxable supply in Uganda: the taxable person making the supply
- Import of taxable goods: the importer
- Import of taxable services: the recipient of the services

The annual registration threshold is UGX150 million (approx. USD40,500).

A "taxable person" is defined in the Uganda VAT law as someone that is registered or required to be registered for VAT in Uganda.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Uganda does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Uganda contains a provision for application for voluntary registration of persons supplying goods or services for consideration. In exercising the discretion whether to grant the voluntary registration or not, the Commissioner General must be satisfied that the person has a fixed place of abode or business; will keep proper accounting records; will submit regular and reliable tax returns and that the person is a fit and proper person to be registered.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Uganda.

Fixed establishment. In Uganda there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed place of abode or business in Uganda. Non-established businesses are not liable to charge and account for VAT except where they provide specified electronic services delivered remotely to persons who are not taxable persons in Uganda at the time of supply.

Tax representatives. A tax representative is responsible for performing any duty or obligation imposed by the tax law on a taxable person, including the submission of returns and payment of tax. A tax representative making a payment of tax on behalf of the taxable person is treated as acting under the authority of the taxable person. Examples include:
- For an individual under legal disability, the guardian or manager
- For a company, the chief executive officer, managing director
- For a partnership any partner
- For a trust, a trustee of the trust

Tax representatives are therefore required to assist taxable persons who are not able to meet their tax compliance personally.

Reverse charge. Generally, the reverse-charge mechanism is not applicable except for the import of services made by a contractor or licensee in the petroleum or mining sector, or a person providing business process outsourcing services. VAT on imported services does not apply for any exempt service.

An import of a service is an exempt import if the service would be exempt had it been supplied in Uganda. Therefore, reverse charge would also not be applicable on the import of a service that is an exempt import. At the time of preparing this chapter, the Tax Appeals Tribunal had issued a ruling on the issue of reverse-charge VAT on imported services. This issue regarded whether the place of supply provision is applicable to the imported services provision. The Tribunal ruled that VAT is payable on imported services by all recipients, whether taxable or not, and this input tax is not claimable, unless the person is a licensee or a contractor in the petroleum or mining operations or is a person providing business process outsourcing services.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Uganda.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to account and register for VAT in Uganda. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the output tax via the reverse-charge mechanism. However, the output tax declared cannot be claimed as an input credit except if the importer of the services is a contractor or licensee in the petroleum or mining sector, or a person providing business process outsourcing services.

Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services for business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to account and register for VAT in Uganda. The supply is treated as a local service under the place of supply rules. The nonresident would be required to register and account for VAT on its B2C supplies if the electronic services provided are done so remotely (see definition below) and if its supplies exceed the registration threshold. The registration requirement only applies for these types of services.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Electronic services when provided or delivered remotely to a person in Uganda, where the recipient is a nontaxable person or a person whose supplies do not exceed UGX150 million (approx. USD40,500) or a government entity that is not registered for VAT, are deemed as supplied in Uganda and as such are taxable supplies in Uganda. Electronic services are defined to include websites, webhosting or remote maintenance of programs and equipment; software and updating of software; images, text and information; access to databases; music; films; games, including games of chance; political, cultural, artistic, sporting, scientific and other broadcasts and events including television; advertising platforms; streaming platforms and subscription-based services; cab-hailing services; cloud storage; and data warehousing. The Uganda Revenue Authority (URA)has issued a Public Notice that such a person providing these services ought to apply for registration, file a return and account for VAT in Uganda. The return shall be filed within 15 days after the end of three consecutive calendar months. A nonresident person may appoint a tax representative for purposes of effecting the registration and filing requirements. The Commissioner General may, at the cost of a nonresident, appoint another person to prepare and furnish the return on behalf of that person.

Registration procedures. A person that is not already a registered person must apply to be registered in accordance with the VAT Act by the following dates:

- Within 20 days after the end of any period of 3 calendar months during which the person made taxable supplies, the value of which exclusive of any tax exceeded UGX37.5 million (approx. USD10,150)
- At the beginning of any period of three calendar months if reasonable grounds exist to expect that the total value of taxable supplies, exclusive of any tax, to be made by the person during the period will exceed UGX37.5 million (approx. USD10,150)

Applications for VAT registration are done on the URA portal (https://www.ura.go.ug/) using a form/template prescribed by the Commissioner General. A person who applies for registration is registered and issued a certificate of registration if the Commissioner General is satisfied that the person is eligible for registration under the VAT Act and has a fixed place of abode or business. The Commissioner General must also be satisfied that person:

- Will keep proper accounting records relating to any business activity
- Will submit regular and reliable tax returns
- Is a fit and proper person to be registered

Upon submitting the application for registration online, the applicant is required to submit the following physical documents to the URA offices:

- Tenancy agreement; this is required to show fixed place of business
- Invoices or contracts that show the applicant's sales satisfy the VAT threshold of UGX37.5 million for three consecutive months or a contract whose stipulated value exceeds the annual or quarterly threshold

Applicants are also currently required to mandatorily register for the Electronic Fiscal Receipting and Invoicing System (EFRIS).

An inspection of the premises will be done by an officer from the URA and thereafter the application is approved.

Registration for VAT takes an average of two working days from the date a complete application is submitted.

Deregistration. In the following circumstances, the VAT-registered person is required to apply for VAT deregistration by amending the taxable person's tax identification number (TIN):
- If the taxable person has ceased to make supplies of goods or services for consideration as part of their business activities
- If, with respect to the most recent period of three calendar months, the value of taxable supplies exclusive of tax does not exceed UGX37.5 million and if the value of taxable supplies exclusive of tax for the previous 12 calendar months does not exceed UGX112.5 million

However, the Commissioner General may also initiate the cancellation of a person's VAT registration if the Commissioner General is satisfied that any one of the following circumstances exist:
- The taxable person is neither required nor entitled to apply for VAT registration
- The taxable person has no fixed place of abode or business
- The taxable person has not kept proper accounting records relating to its business activity
- The taxable person has not submitted regular and reliable tax returns
- The taxable person is not, in the opinion of the Commissioner General, a fit and proper person to be registered

The Commissioner General is required to serve notice in writing on a taxable person of a decision to cancel or refuse to cancel registration within 14 days of making the decision. The cancellation of registration takes effect from the end of the tax period in which the registration is canceled.

Deregistration does not affect the person's obligations and liabilities while the person was still a taxable person under the VAT act, including the lodging of VAT returns and payments of any taxes due.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any changes made to VAT registration details are made on the profile of the company on the URA web portal, e.g., a change in the nature of the business.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 18%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of supplies of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods or services from Uganda
- International transport of goods or passengers and tickets for their transport
- Drugs, medicines and medical sundries manufactured in Uganda
- Educational materials, including educational materials manufactured in a partner state of the East African Community
- Seeds, fertilizers, pesticides and hoes
- Sanitary towels, menstrual towels, menstrual cups, tampons and inputs for their manufacture
- Leased aircraft, aircraft engines, spare engines, spare parts for aircraft and aircraft maintenance equipment
- The supply of cereals grown and milled in Uganda
- The supply of handling services provided by the National Medical Stores in respect of medical supplies, funded by donors

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Livestock, unprocessed foodstuffs and unprocessed agricultural products except wheat grain
- Postage stamps
- Financial services – the term "financial services" was amended to add "(v) Islamic financial arrangements offered by a person as an Islamic financial business but does not include provision of credit facilities under a lease-based financing." "Islamic financial business" means financial business that conforms to Shari'ah principles and includes the following:
  - The business of receiving property into profit-sharing investment accounts or of managing such accounts
  - Any other business of a person that involves or is intended to involve the entry into one or more contracts under Shari'ah principles or otherwise carried out or purported to be carried out in accordance with Shari'ah principles including:
    a) Equity or partnership financing
    b) Lease-based financing
    c) Sale-based financing
    d) Currency exchange contracts
    e) Fee-based activity
    f) Purchase of bills of exchange, certificates of Islamic deposit or other negotiable instruments
    g) Acceptance or guarantee of any liability, obligation or duty of any person
    h) Providing finance by any means, including through the acquisition, disposal or leasing of assets or through the provision of services that have similar economic effect and are economically equivalent to any other financial business
- Services related to health insurance, life insurance, micro insurance, reinsurance and aircraft insurance services
- Unimproved land
- Sale, letting or leasing immovable property, other than:
  - Sale, lease or letting of commercial premises
  - Sale, lease or letting for parking or storing cars or other vehicles
  - Sale, lease or letting of hotel or holiday accommodation
  - Sale, lease or letting for periods not exceeding three months
  - Sale, lease or letting of service apartments
- Education services
- Veterinary, medical, dental and nursing services
- Imported drugs, medicines and medical sundries
- Social welfare services
- Betting, lotteries and games of chance
- Goods as part of a transfer of a business as a going concern by one taxable person to another taxable person
- Precious metals and other valuables to the Bank of Uganda for the State Treasury
- Passenger transportation services (other than tour and travel operators)
- Petroleum fuels subject to excise duty (motor spirit, kerosene and gas oil), spirit-type jet fuel, kerosene-type jet fuel and residual oils for use in thermal power generation to the national grid
- Dental, medical and veterinary goods, including:
  - Dental, medical and veterinary equipment
  - Ambulances
  - Contraceptives of all forms
  - Maternity kits (mama kits)
  - Medical examination gloves
  - Medicated cotton wool

  - Mosquito nets, acaricides, insecticides and mosquito repellent devices–
  - Disposable medical face masks reusable face masks made of fabric
  - Medical boots
  - Medical impermeable aprons/coverall suits
  - Bouffant nonwoven surgical cap
  - Goggles, protective, indirect side ventilation
  - Infrared thermometers
  - Motorized fumigation pumps
  - Oxygen cylinder or oxygen for medical use
  - Body bags
  - Biohazard bags, container, used sharps, leak proof
  - Disinfectants
  - Medical plastics or rubber gloves
  - Gas masks with mechanical parts
  - Disposable hair nets
  - Paper bedsheets
  - Raw materials and inputs for their manufacture
- Selected machinery, tools and implements suitable for use only in agriculture
- Crop extension services
- Irrigation works, sprinklers and ready-to-use drip lines
- Deep cycle batteries, composite lanterns and raw materials for the manufacture of deep cycle batteries and composite lanterns
- Agriculture insurance premium or policy
- Photosensitive semiconductor devices, including photovoltaic devices, regardless of whether they are assembled in modules or made into panels, light-emitting diodes, solar water heaters, solar refrigerators and solar cookers
- Life jackets, life-saving gear, headgear and speed governors
- Any goods or services supplied to the contractors and subcontractors of hydroelectric power, solar power, geothermal power, or biogas and wind energy projects
- Movie production
- Bibles and Qur'ans and textbooks
- Construction materials for development of an industrial park or free zone to a developer or operator of an industrial park or free zone, the developer's investment capital is at least USD50 million
- The supply of services to conduct a feasibility study, design and construction to a developer of an industrial park or free zone whose investment is at least USD50 million
- Services to conduct feasibility study, design and construction; the supply of locally produced materials for the construction of a factory or a warehouse and the supply of locally produced raw materials and inputs or machinery or equipment to an operator within an industrial park, free zone or any other person carrying on business outside the industrial park or free zone. Minimum investment capital is USD10 million in the case of a foreigner or USD300,000 in case of a citizen; or USD150,000 for a citizen whose investment is placed upcountry who uses at least 70% of the raw materials that are locally sourced, subject to their availability and at least 70% of the employees are citizens earning an aggregate wage of at least 70% of the total wage bill; and who processes agricultural goods, manufactures or assembles medical appliances, medical sundries or pharmaceuticals, building materials, automobile, household appliances; manufactures furniture, pulp, paper, printing and publishing of instructional materials; establishes or operates vocational or technical institutes; carries on business in logistics and warehousing, information technology or commercial farming; or manufactures tires, footwear, mattress or toothpaste, manufactures chemicals for agricultural and industrial use, textiles, glassware, leather products, industrial machinery and electrical equipment, sanitary pads and diapers

- Services to a manufacturer, other than a manufacturer referred to above, whose investment capital is at least USD30 million for a foreign investor or USD5 million for a local investor to conduct a feasibility study or to undertake design and construction, or in the case of any other manufacturer, from the date on which the manufacturer makes an additional investment equivalent to USD30 million for a foreign investor or USD5 million for a local investor – (i) who has the capacity to use at least 70% of the raw materials that are locally sourced, subject to their availability; and (ii) who has the capacity to employ at least 70% of the employees that are citizens earning an aggregate wage of at least 70% of the total wage bill.
- Services to conduct a feasibility study, design and construction; locally produced materials for construction of premises, infrastructure, machinery and equipment or furnishings and fittings that are not available on the local market to a hotel or tourism facility developer whose investment capital is USD8 million with room capacity exceeding 100 guests
- Services to conduct a feasibility study, design and construction; locally produced materials for construction of premises, infrastructure, machinery and equipment or furnishings and fittings to a hospital facility developer whose investment capital is at least USD5 million and who develops a hospital with capacity to provide specialized medical care
- Services to conduct a feasibility study, design and construction; the supply of locally produced materials for the construction of premises and other infrastructure, machinery and equipment or furnishings or fittings for technical or vocational institute operators whose investment capital is at least USD10 million in the case of a foreigner or USD1 million in the case of a citizen
- Earth moving equipment and machinery for development of an industrial park or free zone to a developer of an industrial park or free zone whose investment is at least USD50 million
- Wet processing operations and garmenting, cotton lint, artificial fibers for blending; polyester staple fiber, viscose rayon fiber yarn other than cotton yarn, textile dyes and chemicals garment accessories, textile machinery spare parts, industrial consumables for textile production, textile manufacturing machinery and equipment
- Fabrics and garments made in Uganda by vertically integrated textile mills that operate spinning, weaving/knitting, wet processing operations and garmenting
- Billets for further value addition in Uganda
- Imported mathematical sets and geometry sets used in educational services
- Woodworking machines
- Welding machines and sewing machines
- Imported crayons, colored pencils, lead pencils, rulers, erasers, stencils, technical drawing sets, educational computer tablets, educational computer applications or laboratory chemicals for teaching science subjects used in educational services
- Animal feeds and mixed components, such as eggshells, feed additives, wheat bran, maize bran, premixes, concentrates and seed cake
- Supply of the following services:
  - Software and equipment installation services to manufactures
  - Services incidental to telemedical services
  - Royalties paid in respect of agricultural technologies
- Supply of accommodation in tourist hotels and lodges located upcountry
- Supply of processed milk
- Supply of locally developed computer software, its maintenance and software licenses
- Supply of services to conduct a feasibility study, design and construction; the supply of locally produced materials for construction of premises, infrastructure, machinery and equipment or furnishings and fittings that are not available on the local market to a hotel or tourism facility developer whose investment capital is USD10 million with a room capacity exceeding 30 rooms; or to meetings, incentives, conferences and exhibitions facility developer whose investment capital is not less than USD1 million
- Supply of accommodation in tourist lodges and hotels inside a radius of 50km from the boundaries of Kampala from 1 July 2020 to 30 June 2021

- Supply of liquefied gas and denatured fuel ethanol from cassava
- Supply of assistive devices for persons with a disability
- Supply of airport user services charged by the Civil Aviation Authority

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Uganda.

E. Time of supply

The following are the rules for determining the time of supply:

- If goods are applied for a person's own use, the time of supply is the date on which the goods or services are first applied to the person's own use
- If the goods or services are supplied as a gift, the time of supply is the date on which ownership in the goods passes or the performance of the service is completed
- In all other cases, the time of supply is the earliest of the following dates:
  - The goods are delivered or made available, or the performance of the service is completed
  - The payment for the goods or services is made
  - A tax invoice is issued

If goods are supplied under a rental agreement or if goods or services are supplied under an agreement or law that provides for periodic payments, or goods are supplied to a person offering Islamic financial business for the purpose of sale-based financing, the goods or services are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement or supplied as determined by that law, and each successive supply occurs on the earlier of the date on which payment is due or received.

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits and prepayments, the time of supply occurs, and VAT is due, on the date on which the payment for the goods or services is made.

Continuous supplies of services. For supplies of continuous supplies of services, the goods or services are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement and each successive supply occurs on the earlier of the date on which payment is due or received.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. For supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return, the time of supply occurs, and VAT is due on the date on which the goods are delivered or made available.

Reverse-charge services. Where applicable in cases of import of services made by a contractor or licensee in the petroleum or mining sector, or a person providing business process outsourcing services, the reverse charge and VAT is due at the time of import of the services. The same treatment applies to imported goods.

Leased assets. For supplies of leased assets, the assets are treated as successively supplied for successive parts of the period of the agreement and each successive supply occurs on the earlier of the date on which payment is due or received.

Imported goods. VAT on imported goods is due at the time of import.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A credit can be issued to the taxable person for the tax payable with respect to taxable supplies made to that person during the tax period and all imports of goods made by that person during the tax period if the supply or import is for use in the business of the taxable person. "Business use" of "use in the business" applies only to the related business generating a taxable supply.

On registration, a credit can be issued to a taxable person for input tax paid or payable with respect to taxable supplies of goods, including capital assets, made to the person, and imports of goods, including capital assets, made by the person before registration, if all the following conditions are satisfied:

- The supply or import was for use in the business of the taxable person
- The goods are on hand at the date of registration
- The supply or import occurred not more than 6 months prior to the date of registration or in case of manufacturers, not more than 12 months before the date of registration

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Uganda is six months.

Specifically in relation to Islamic financing, a credit is allowed to the taxable person for the tax payable in respect of:
- A taxable supply to the person offering Islamic financial business for purposes of sale-based financing to the taxable person
- Import of goods by the person offering Islamic financial business for purposes of a sale-based financing to the taxable person if the supply or import is for use in the business of the taxable person.

Nondeductible input tax. VAT may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). VAT may also not be recoverable where the goods or services are not used in generating the specific taxable supply for which VAT is accrued. In addition, input tax may not be recovered for certain business expenses.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is for purposes of making a taxable supply.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible
- Taxable supply or import of a passenger automobile and the repair and maintenance of the automobile, including spare parts
- Entertainment (provision of food, beverages, tobacco, accommodation, amusement, recreation or hospitality of any kind), unless the person is in the business of providing entertainment or supplies meals or refreshments to its employees on premises operated by it, or on its behalf, solely for the benefit of its employees
- Payment for entertainment made by a taxable person for membership of a person in a club, association or society of a sporting, social or recreational nature

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (only if related to a taxable business use)
- A supply or import of a passenger automobile and the repair and maintenance of the automobile, including spare parts, if the automobile is acquired by the taxable person exclusively for the purpose of making a taxable supply of that automobile in the ordinary course of a continuous and regular business of selling, dealing in or hiring of passenger automobiles
- Entertainment if the taxable person is in the business of providing entertainment
- Supplies of meals or refreshments by employers to their employees in premises operated by the employers or on the employers' behalf, solely for the benefit of the employees

Partial exemption. If a taxable supply to, or an import of goods by, a taxable person is partly for a business use and partly for another use, the amount of the input tax allowed as a credit is the part of the input tax that relates to the business use.

If the percentage of the total amount of taxable supplies to the total amount of all supplies made by the taxable person during the period (other than the supply of goods as part of the transfer of a business as a going concern) is less than 5%, the taxable person may not credit any input tax for the period.

If the percentage of the total amount of taxable supplies to the total amount of all supplies made by the taxable person during the period (other than the supply of goods as part of the transfer of a business as a going concern) is more than 95%, the taxable person may credit all input tax for the period.

When a taxable person, who deals in both exempt and taxable supplies, apportions its input tax using the fraction of taxable supplies to total supplies made in any tax period, the taxable person is required to make a calculation of input tax based on the annual value of taxable and exempt supplies within the period following the end of the year.

Approval from the tax authorities is required to use the partial exemption standard method in Uganda. Special methods are not allowed in Uganda.

Capital goods. The VAT law in Uganda does not define "capital goods." In practice this means any goods other than finished consumer goods that may be used in the production process.

Tax incurred on capital goods is claimable where these capital goods are used in the carrying on of the taxable person's business activities. Like with all other input tax incurred where the goods are used for both taxable and exempt supplies, the input tax will be apportioned using the Standard method in order to allow input tax credit in respect of taxable supplies.

The standard method is A*B/C where A is the total amount of input tax for the period, B is the total amount of taxable supplies made by the taxable person and C is the total amount of all supplies made by the taxable person during the period other than an exempt supply of goods as part of the transfer of a business as a going concern by one taxable person to another taxable person.

Where the standard method disadvantages the taxable person, the Commissioner General may approve an alternative method (standard alternative method) to calculate the input tax to be credited. Using this method, the taxable person may directly attribute input tax separately to the exempt and taxable supplies in so far as it is possible and may claim credit for all input tax related to taxable supplies and none of input tax related to exempt supplies.

Refunds. If, for a tax period, a taxable person's input tax credit exceeds the person's liability for tax for that period, the Commissioner General must refund the excess to the person within one month after the due date for the return for the tax period to which the excess relates, or within one month of the date when the return was filed if the return was not filed by the due date.

Notwithstanding the above, if the taxable person's input credit exceeds its liability for tax for that period by less than UGX5 million (approx. USD1,350), the Commissioner General may offset the excess amount against the future liability of the taxable person, except in the case of a licensee or person providing mainly zero-rated supplies. In addition, with the consent of the taxable person, if the taxable person's input credit exceeds its liability for tax for that period by UGX5 million (approx. USD1,350) or more, the Commissioner General may offset the excess amount against the future liability of the taxable person or apply the excess in reduction of any other tax not in dispute that is due from the taxable person.

A claim for a refund of input tax must be made in a return within three years after the end of the tax period in which tax was overpaid.

Pre-registration costs. A credit can be issued to a taxable person on becoming registered for input tax paid or payable in respect of:

- All taxable supplies of goods, including capital assets, made to the person prior to the person becoming registered
- All imports of goods, including capital assets, made by the person prior to becoming registered

Where the supply or import was for use in the business of the taxable person, the input tax paid for those supplies is creditable provided that the goods are on hand at the date of registration and that the supply or import occurred not more than six months prior to the date of registration, or 12 months for manufacturers.

Bad debts. A taxable person may seek a refund for the portion of tax paid that it has not received payment for within two years after the supply. The taxable person should have taken all steps to pursue the payment and reasonably believes that it will not be paid.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Uganda.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Uganda is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person making a taxable supply to any person must issue to that other person, at the time of supply, with an original tax invoice for the supply.

A tax invoice must contain the following particulars:
- The words "tax invoice" written in a prominent place
- The commercial name, address, place of business and tax identification number of the taxable person making the supply
- The commercial name, address, place of business and tax identification number of the recipient of the taxable supply
- The individualized serial number and the date on which the tax invoice is issued
- A description of the goods or services supplied and the date on which the supply is made
- The quantity or volume of the goods or services supplied
- The tax rate for each category of goods and services described in the invoice
- The total amount of tax charged the consideration for the supply exclusive of tax and the consideration inclusive of tax

Credit notes. Where a tax invoice has been issued and the amount shown as tax charged in that tax invoice exceeds the tax properly chargeable in respect of the supply, the taxable person making the supply shall provide the recipient of the supply with a credit note.

A credit note may also be issued by a person where a tax invoice has been issued and tax properly chargeable in respect of the supply that exceeds the amount shown as tax charged in the tax invoice.

A credit note must contain the following particulars:
- The words "credit note" in a prominent place
- The commercial name, address, place of business, and tax identification and VAT registration numbers of the taxable person making the supply
- The commercial name, address, place of business, and tax identification and VAT registration numbers of the recipient of the taxable supply
- The date on which the credit note was issued
- Tax rate
- Taxable value of the supply shown on the tax invoice, the correct amount of the taxable value of the supply, the difference between those two amounts and the tax charged that relates to that difference
- A brief explanation of the circumstances resulting in the issuance of the credit note
- Sufficient information to identify the taxable supply to which the credit note relates

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Uganda for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Uganda. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Uganda.

The Commissioner shall, by notice in the Gazette, specify certain taxable persons for whom it is mandatory to issue e-invoices or e-receipts or employ electronic fiscal devices that shall be linked to the centralized invoicing and receipting system or devices authenticated by the URA. Taxable persons do not have to apply to use electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing became mandatory on 1 July 2020 through a public notice issued by URA that later extended the implementation date to 1 January 2021.

The Electronic Fiscal Receipting and Invoicing System (EFRIS) has been implemented in FY2020/21 (see the Digital tax administration subsection below). This system manages the issuance and centralized tracking of all invoices and receipts (both paper and electronic) by taxable persons in Uganda. Effective 15 May 2022, the following taxable person categories were gazetted to issue fiscal documents using their enterprise resource planning (ERP), billing systems, receipting or invoicing systems and accounting system integrated with EFRIS for system-to-system integration:

- A VAT-registered taxable person operating a business with a billing, invoicing, receipting or ERP system
- A VAT-registered taxable person with a gross turnover of UGX2 billion or more per annum
- A VAT-registered taxable person with a gross turnover of less than UGX2 billion per year but making 100 sales transaction or more per day

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified tax invoices may be issued by registered persons with a taxable turnover below UGX100 million per annum (USD27,000), for taxable supplies made to another registered person, provided the value of any individual item on the invoice does not exceed UGX50,000 (USD14) and the total invoice does not exceed UGX100,000 (USD27).

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Uganda.

Proof of exports. Goods that are supplied by a registered taxable person to a person in another country that are delivered by a registered taxable person to a port of exit for export may be invoiced at the zero rate if the registered taxable person obtains documentary proof and if the goods are removed from Uganda within 30 days of delivery to a port of exit.

The Commissioner General may require that goods for export specified in a notice in the Uganda Gazette be distinctively labeled by the registered taxable person. The Commissioner General will issue guidelines to specify the color, size and type of labels.

For an export transaction to qualify for the zero rate, a registered taxable person must show as proof of export the following:

- A copy of the bill of entry or export certified by the customs authorities
- A copy of the invoice issued to the foreign purchaser with tax shown at the zero rate
- Evidence sufficient to satisfy the Commissioner General that the goods have been exported, in the form of an order from, or signed contract with, a foreign purchaser, or transport documentation that identifies the goods such as transit order or consignment note, copy of bill of lading, copy of airway bill or copy of transit document

If services are supplied by a registered taxable person to a person outside Uganda, the services qualify for a zero rate only if the taxable person can provide evidence that the services are used or consumed outside Uganda. This evidence can be in the form of a contract with a foreign purchaser and must clearly indicate that the place of use or consumption of the service is outside Uganda or that the service is provided for a building or premises outside Uganda.

Foreign currency invoices. Foreign currency invoices are treated in the same manner as domestic currency invoices, which is the Ugandan shilling (UGX). However, the tax authorities require that for purposes of accounting for output tax and input tax, the exchange rate prescribed by the tax authorities for that tax period is used.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Taxable persons (i.e., those registered for VAT or required to be registered for VAT in Uganda) making supplies to any person are required to issue all customers with a VAT invoice. Simplified tax invoices can only be issued by a registered person with a taxable turnover below UGX100 million (approx. USD28,000) per annum to another registered taxable person and in respect to individual items on the invoice that do not exceed UGX50,000 (approx. USD15) and the total invoice value does not exceed UGX100,000 (approx. USD30).

Records. In Uganda, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include tax accounts and records, purchase records, sales records, export records, sales invoices, cash registers, credit and debit notes, computer records, bank deposit books and account statements, sales contracts, stock records, employment contracts and purchase receipts, among others. Any information relating to the business of the company.

Every taxable person is required for tax purposes to maintain in the English language records as may be required to determine or readily ascertain the taxable person's tax liability under a tax law. The records kept shall contain sufficient transaction information, and the case of an electronic format shall be capable of being retrieved and converted to a standard record format equivalent to that contained in an acceptable paper record.

In Uganda, VAT books and records can be kept outside of the country. However, a taxable person is required to readily avail information as and when it is requested by the URA.

Record retention period. The record retention period is a minimum of five years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Uganda. The Tax Procedure Code Act requires every taxable person to maintain records including in electronic format, for a period of five years. Records (including invoices) kept in electronic format should be capable of being retrieved and converted to a standard record format equivalent to that contained in an acceptable paper record.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The VAT tax period is one month. Returns must be filed by the 15th day after the end of the tax period. A "nil" return must be filed if no VAT is payable (either because the taxable person does not make any supplies or input tax exceeds output tax in the period).

If the normal filing date falls on a public holiday or on a weekend, the VAT return must be submitted on the last working day before that day.

A manager of a takaful business is required to file by the 15th day after the end of the tax period on behalf of the participants in each group in the takaful business. "Takaful" means insurance business conducted in accordance with Shari'ah principles.

Periodic payments. Payment must be made in full by the 15th day after the end of the tax period.

Payment is made by generating a payment registration number (PRN) on the URA web portal, selecting preferred mode of payment, i.e., cash, check, EFT, as well as preferred bank. Upon generation of the PRN, payment will be made by the taxable person in the bank or any other preferred mode of payment and URA will acknowledge receipt of payment in the taxable person's account.

For purposes of compliance under the VAT Act, all amounts of money are to be expressed in the Ugandan shilling (UGX). However, a non-established business that is required to file VAT returns in Uganda may file a return and make the corresponding payment in the United States dollar (USD).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Uganda for all taxable persons. All VAT returns are submitted online. The returns are populated and uploaded using return templates designed by the tax authorities. Similarly, amendments to VAT returns are also done online.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Uganda.

Special schemes. VAT withholding scheme. A designated withholding agent for VAT purposes is required to withhold and remit 6% of the taxable value on making payment for taxable supplies. The withholding VAT will not apply to a taxable person who the Commissioner General thinks is satisfied has regularly complied with the obligations imposed on the taxable person by the Value Added Tax Act Cap 349.

If a taxable person is included on the list of designated VAT withholding agents, they are required to withhold VAT from nonexempted suppliers at the rate of 6% of the taxable value of the supply. The list of designated withholding VAT agents was published through legal notice No. 1 of 2020 published in the Gazette on 29 May 2020. The list of exempt persons was issued by the Commissioner General, URA. A public notice issued by the URA on 27 October 2021 notified withholding agents that from 1 December 2021, noncompliance with the requirement to withhold will be punishable under the law.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Uganda.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Uganda.

Correcting errors in previous returns. VAT returns can be amended within a period of three years from filing the original return. This is done through the URA web portal by uploading an amended return. Where there is tax outstanding, a taxable person is required to remit the same to URA.

Voluntary Disclosure Program. Taxable persons are given an opportunity to voluntarily declare the taxes that they did not pay and benefit from the Voluntary Tax Disclosure Program. This tax amnesty will waive interest and penalties for taxable persons who have unpaid tax liabilities and voluntarily declare the same before being prompted by an action or threat by URA, such as initiation of a tax investigation, request for tax information, tax advisory letter, tax health check/review, notice for audit, tax query or compliance visit by the URA officers.

Procedure of voluntary disclosure. A taxable person fills out the voluntary disclosure form (VDF) from the URA web portal in its entirety. Payment must be made for the principal tax due and attach the payment registration number (PRN) form highlighting the payment made. Then the taxable person must submit the form to any URA offices near them or online via email to services@ura.go.ug.

The taxable person may be required to submit a return or amend an existing return subsequent to submission of the VDF. A voluntary disclosure certificate signed by the Commissioner will be issued to the taxable person.

Waiver of interest and penalty. Interest and penalties outstanding as of 30 June 2023 shall be waived where the taxable person pays the principal tax by 31 December 2023. If only part of the principal tax outstanding as of 30 June 2023 is paid by the taxable person by 31 December 2023, then the interest and penalties shall be waived on a pro rata basis.

Digital tax administration. Electronic Fiscal Receipting and Invoicing System (EFRIS). The EFRIS is an automated compliance system that was implemented on 1 January 2021 by the URA. It manages the issuance and centralized tracking of all invoices and receipts by taxable persons in Uganda.

Initiated transactions by the taxable person are transmitted to the URA's bank end system in real time for fiscalization to produce electronic fiscal documents. The use of this system is mandatory for all VAT-registered persons in Uganda to issue e-invoices and e-receipts through EFRIS.

Registration is done on the URA web portal account and completing the e-invoicing section. Currently the channels available are:
- System to system, applicable to taxable persons who use robust accounting systems
- URA web portal that requires manual configuration of the product listings, pricing and inventory details
- Client application that can be downloaded from the URA portal and installed on the taxable person's computer to enable issuance of e-invoices and e-receipts
- The use of an electronic fiscal device attached to the taxable person's point of sale
- Electronic dispenser controller used in the fuel retail sector
- Use of a USSD quick code issued by URA

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A person who fails to apply for registration as required by the VAT law is liable to pay a penalty equal to the higher of double the amount of the tax payable during the period commencing on the last day of the period when the obligation to register arises until either the person files an application for registration or the tax authority registers the person forcefully or UGX1 million.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The late submission of a return is subject to a penalty of UGX200,000 (approx. USD55) per month or an interest charge at 2% compounded for the period the return is outstanding, whichever is higher. A person who fails to pay tax imposed before the due date is liable for a penal tax on the unpaid tax at 2% compounded. The interest due and payable on unpaid tax shall not exceed the aggregate of the principal tax and penal tax. For the avoidance of doubt, where the interest due and payable as at 30 June 2017 exceeds the aggregate referred to above, the interest in excess of the aggregate shall be waived.

Penalties for errors. Where a person makes a statement to an officer of URA that is false and misleading in a material particular or omits any matter or thing without which the statement is misleading and the tax properly payable exceeds the tax assessed based on the false or misleading information is liable to penal tax equal to double the amount of the excess.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details is a tax offense that attracts upon conviction a fine not exceeding UGX1 million or imprisonment not exceeding two years or both. If it was done knowingly or recklessly, a person is liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding of UGX3 million or imprisonment not exceeding six years or both. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Fraud is a criminal offense and will be triable in criminal courts. Fraud varies, and each case will be determined on its own set of facts.

Personal liability for company officers. Where an offense under the tax law is committed by a company, the offense is treated as having been committed by a person who, at the time the offense was committed is the chief executive officer, managing director, company secretary, treasurer or other similar officer of the company or acting or purporting to act in that capacity.

In case the offense is committed by a partnership, every partner at the time of commission of the offense is treated as having committed the offense.

Some of the tax offenses include:
- Failure to furnish a tax return; penalty upon conviction is a fine not exceeding UGX1 million (approx. USD278)

- Failure to maintain proper records is an offense and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX2 million (approx. USD555) or imprisonment not exceeding six years or both. Additionally, failure to maintain proper records attracts a penal tax equal to double the amount of tax payable for the period to which the failure relates
- Use of a false tax identification number knowingly or recklessly on a tax return is an offense and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX3 million (approx. USD833) or imprisonment not exceeding six years or both
- Failure to comply with any obligations under the tax laws is punishable and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX2 million (approx. USD555)
- Failure to issue an electronic receipt, an electronic invoice or employ an electronic device is an offense and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX30 million (approx. USD7,895) or imprisonment not exceeding 10 years or both
- Forgery of electronic receipt or invoice is an offense and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX30 million (approx. USD7,895) or imprisonment not exceeding 10 years or both
- Unauthorized interference with the software or hardware of an electronic fiscal device or electronic dispensing control device is an offense and upon conviction a person is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX30 million (approx. USD7,895) or imprisonment not exceeding 10 years or both
- Making materially false or misleading statements to a tax officer is an offense and a person is liable on conviction to UGX110 million (approx. USD28,947) or imprisonment not exceeding 10 years or both
- Obstructing a tax officer in performance of their duties is also an offense and a person upon conviction is liable to a fine not exceeding UGX5 million (approx. USD1,388) or imprisonment not exceeding 10 years or both Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Uganda is three years. The Commissioner may make an additional assessment within a three-year period from the date the taxable person furnished the self-assessment return, or the Commissioner served a notice of the original assessment or notice of the additional assessment on the taxable person. However, in case of fraud or any gross or willful neglect has been committed by, or on behalf of, the taxable person, or new information has been discovered in relation to the tax payable by the taxable person for a tax period, additional assessments can be made at any time.

Ukraine

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Kyiv GMT +2

EY
Khreschatyk Street, 19A
Kyiv 01001
Ukraine

Indirect tax contacts

Vladimir Kotenko	+380 (44) 490-3006 vladimir.kotenko@ua.ey.com
Anton Melnyk	+380 (93) 490 30 00 anton.melnyk@ua.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Podatok na dodanu vartist (PDV)
Date introduced	1 January 1992
Trading bloc membership	None
Administered by	State Tax Service of Ukraine (http://www.tax.gov.ua)
VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	7%, 14%
Other	Zero-rate (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (TIN): 12, 10 or 9 digits, depending on type of entity
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	UAH1 million
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:

- Supply of goods if the place of supply is within the customs territory of Ukraine, including the free-of-charge transfer and the transfer of title to pledged property to the creditor, transfer of title to goods under a commodity loan and transfer of a financial lease object to a lessee
- Supply of services if the place of supply is within the customs territory of Ukraine
- Import of goods into Ukraine
- Export of goods from Ukraine
- Supply of services with respect to the international transportation of passengers, luggage and shipment of cargo by railway, automobile, sea and air transport
- Deemed supplies in cases specified by law

The following transactions are outside the scope from VAT (the below list is not exhaustive):
- Most banking services
- Issue and placement of securities
- Insurance and reinsurance services and services of securities traders
- Transfer of property with respect to pledges or operational leases
- Reorganization of legal entities (mergers and acquisitions)

In general, supplies of goods and services, where the place of supply is within the customs territory of Ukraine, are considered taxable by Ukrainian VAT.

Place of supply of goods. The following goods are deemed to be supplied in Ukraine:
- Goods located in Ukraine at the time of their supply, if they are not shipped, transported, assembled or installed
- Goods located in Ukraine at the time when shipment or transportation begins
- Goods assembled or installed in Ukraine, if such assembly or installation is performed by the seller or on its behalf

Place of supply of services. The following are the rules for determining the place of supply of services:
- Services related to movable property (for example, repairs and services auxiliary to transportation), services in the areas of culture, art, education, science, sport and entertainment, organization of training courses and seminars and certain other services: the place of their actual supply
- Services related to immovable property: the actual location of the immovable property
- Certain other types of services such as consulting, engineering, legal, accounting, audit, software development, information technology, data processing, telecommunication, advertising, granting of intellectual property rights, provision of personnel, renting, leasing of movable property (except for vehicles and bank safes), broadcasting, production of multimedia content, provision of intermediary services (where the types of services listed above are actually provided to the customer) on behalf of and at the expense of another person, or on its own behalf but at the expense of another person; freight forwarding services; physical transmission rights for electricity and ancillary rights: the place where the service recipient is incorporated
- Digital (electronic) services: if the customer is a business entity – the place where the service recipient is incorporated, if customer is a private individual – the actual location of such recipient

To define the actual location of the recipient of electronic services (private individual), the following factors should be considered:
- Country code of the SIM card used by the service recipient
- Location of the telecommunications provider through which the services have been delivered
- IP address of the device used by the service recipient
- Location of the bank where the service recipient has opened an account (through which payment for the electronic service was made)
- Information on the place of residence provided by the service recipient
- Other services (default rule): the place where the supplier is established

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Ukraine, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Ukraine. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. While a transfer of shares in the legal entity is outside the scope of VAT, sales of particular assets (e.g., equipment, tangible goods, patents) may be viewed as a separate taxable supply, depending on the type of the underlying asset.

Transactions between related parties. In Ukraine, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. Domestic sales between related parties are taxed the same way as where the buyer and seller are not related. For imports of goods, the invoice value of the goods is taken as a basis for customs valuation purposes, if a relationship between the parties did not influence the price of the goods (the importer may need to produce appropriate evidence at customs' request).

C. Who is liable

The following types of persons qualify as a "VAT taxpayer" (i.e., a taxable person) under Ukraine's tax law:

- The person registered as a VAT taxpayer or is subject to a registration as a VAT taxpayer
- The person that imports goods into Ukraine in amounts subject to tax (provided such person is liable for payment of taxes on the import of goods)
- The person who maintains accounting under joint activity (JA) arrangements, as well as investor (operator) under product sharing agreements (PSA)
- The person who performs asset management
- The person who disposes of seized, abandoned or unclaimed property as well as property inherited or transferred to the state (regardless of threshold and tax status of such person)
- The person who is liable to administer tax with respect to services supplied by railway transportation companies
- Non-established foreign entity who supplies electronic services to Ukrainian private customers (not registered for VAT)

If an importer who is not registered for VAT and imports goods in amounts subject to tax, such importer pays VAT during customs clearance, without VAT registration.

If a nonresident entity, including a permanent establishment of a nonresident that has not registered for VAT, supplies services (other than electronic services supplied to private individuals) with a place of supply in Ukraine, Ukrainian service recipient must accrue and pay VAT to the treasury.

A legal entity, individual entrepreneur (except for an entrepreneur who uses the simplified taxation system and belongs to certain groups) or representative office of a nonresident must register as a VAT taxpayer if its taxable supplies exceeded UAH1 million (net of VAT) during the preceding 12 calendar months.

A registrant is assigned a tax identification number (TIN), which is 12 digits for legal entities and permanent establishments of nonresidents (except those for which a 9-digit number applies – see below) and 10 digits for private entrepreneurs. A 9-digit TIN is assigned to the following entities:

- Entities paying tax from a joint activity without establishing a legal entity
- Property managers under property-management agreements
- Investors under product-sharing agreements
- Permanent establishments of nonresidents that do not have an identification number in the Unified State Register of Enterprises and Organizations of Ukraine
- Permanent establishments of nonresidents created through:
  - A building site, construction, assembly or installation project if it lasts more than six months

- Employees/other personnel hired by a nonresident for the provision of services (excluding provision of personnel) if these activities last more than six months within any 12-month period
- Residents authorized to act exclusively on behalf of a given nonresident

Exemption from registration. VAT law in Ukraine does not contain any provisions for exemption from registration for VAT.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A person that does not reach the registration threshold may still opt for a voluntary VAT registration. Existing entities willing to register voluntarily file a registration request not later than 10 calendar days prior to the tax period from which these entities would qualify as taxpayers. Such entities may indicate the date from which they would qualify as taxpayers in their application. Newly registered entities may register voluntarily through applying in writing to the state registrar who then passes this application to the tax authorities.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not available in Ukraine.

Fixed establishment. In Ukraine there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, if a nonresident's activities in Ukraine have resulted in creation of a permanent establishment (PE) for direct tax purposes (under the rules provided by the relevant double tax treaty, as well as domestic PE definition), such PE must register for VAT in Ukraine, after the volume of its taxable supplies has exceeded the threshold of UAH1 million.

Non-established businesses. VAT registration of the non-established foreign businesses (other than nonresidents supplying electronic services to Ukrainian private individuals) is not possible.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Ukraine.

Reverse charge. A reverse-charge mechanism applies if a nonresident entity (including a permanent establishment of the nonresident that is not registered for VAT) supplies services for which the place of supply is within Ukraine.

In these cases, the VAT liability would arise for the service recipient under the reverse-charge procedure. The service recipient would account for the VAT due, at the time the payment for the services is made or the execution of the act of acceptance, whichever occurs first. The service recipient registered as a taxpayer may record a VAT credit after registration of the VAT invoice in the Unified Tax Invoice Register.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Ukraine.

Digital economy. For business-to-business (B2B) transactions, there is no VAT if the payment qualifies as a royalty and is paid for in cash or securities. VAT is expected to apply if the payment represents a service fee (and the service is deemed to be supplied in Ukraine). In this case the customer should self-assess VAT through the reverse-charge mechanism.

Under the general rule, the place where services are supplied is deemed to be at the place of the service provider's establishment. In this case, no VAT implications are anticipated in Ukraine, since the nonresident's business is based outside of Ukraine. However, for certain types of services (e.g., those in the sphere of information technology or data processing, including the use of computer systems, development, supply and testing of software or use of intellectual property objects, including those under license agreements), the place of supply is at the service recipient's place of establishment (i.e., in Ukraine). VAT would apply in those cases, and the customer would have to self-assess VAT through the reverse-charge mechanism.

A temporary VAT exemption may apply to supply of software (including "online services," although there is no certainty as to the scope of this term) and transactions with software where payment does not qualify as royalty (e.g., sale to end-users, sale of data media with software). Eligibility for the exemption should be analyzed and contractual language may be important for this analysis. At the time of preparing this chapter, Ukraine's Parliament decided not to extend the above VAT exemption, thus it is only in effect until 31 December 2022. As from 1 January 2023 supplies of software are subject to VAT at the standard rate.

For business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions (other than digital (electronic) services as described below), the qualification of transactions for VAT purposes should be the same as described above. However, even if VAT should formally apply, there may be no taxpayer in Ukraine since the individual consumer is not regarded as a taxpayer for VAT and cannot reverse charge VAT by itself. Under the law, neither the foreign supplier nor the Ukrainian customer would be legally responsible for administration/payment of VAT in this case.

VAT on electronic services supplied by nonresidents to private Ukrainian customers. Starting from 2022, Ukraine implemented new VAT rules for the supply of electronic services are due to come into force in Ukraine.

If a nonresident entity, which does not have a permanent establishment in Ukraine, supplies electronic services to private individuals who are not registered for VAT (B2C transactions), such services are subject to 20% VAT in Ukraine.

The following electronic services (provided via the internet, automatically, using information technology and mainly without human intervention, including by installing a special application or application on smartphones, tablets, TV or other digital devices) are subject to VAT:
- Providing electronic copies, providing access to images, texts and information, including, but not limited to, by subscribing to electronic publications
- Access to databases, including use of search engines and directory services on the internet
- Supply of electronic copies and/or provision of access to audiovisual works, games
- Provision of services for access to television programs (channels) or their packages
- Providing access to information, commercial, entertainment electronic resources and other similar resources, in particular but not exclusively, hosted on platforms for sharing information or videos
- Provision of distance learning services on the internet, the conducting and providing of which does not require human participation, including by providing access to virtual classrooms, educational resources
- Provision of cloud services in terms of providing computing resources, storage resources or electronic communications systems using cloud computing technologies
- Supply of software and updates to it, including electronic copies, providing access to them, as well as remote maintenance of software and electronic equipment
- Provision of advertising services on the internet, mobile applications and other electronic resources, provision of advertising space, including by placing banner advertising messages on websites, webpages or web portals

The following supplies do not qualify as "electronic services":
- Supply of goods/services, which are ordered via the internet and actually delivered offline (e.g., accommodation services, car rental, catering services, services passenger transport and other similar services)
- Supply of goods and/or other service (different) from electronic services, which include electronic services, if the cost of electronic services is included in the total cost of such goods/services
- Provision of distance learning services on the internet, if the internet is used exclusively as a means of communication between teacher and student

VAT compliance requirements for nonresident providers of electronic services. Nonresidents supplying electronic services to Ukrainian private individuals are liable to register for VAT, if the total amount of their taxable sales for the preceding calendar year exceeds UAH 1M.

Deadline for registration is 31 March, following the year when the registration threshold has been exceeded. For example, where the volume of taxable sales was exceeded in 2023, a nonresident is liable to register for VAT till the end of March 2024.

Failure to timely register is subject to a penalty of 30 minimum wages (approx. USD5,839 as of 2024).

VAT reporting period for the above nonresidents is a calendar quarter (a special type of simplified VAT return to be filed electronically). The VAT base and taxable amount are determined in foreign currency (EUR or USD), input tax (if any) is not deductible.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Under the general rule, an intermediary supplying electronic services on its own behalf is liable for VAT.

At the same time, an intermediary (e.g., marketplace) itself would not qualify as a taxpayer where it:
- Supplies electronic services under intermediary agreements, if the invoices provided to customers contain a list of electronic services and their actual provider
- Only processes payments for electronic services but does not participate in actual provision of electronic services.

Registration procedures. Existing entities that are subject to a mandatory registration file a registration request by the 10th day of the calendar month following the month in which the threshold (UAH1 million) was exceeded.

A registration application is completed in electronic format, using the statutory template (approved by the Ministry of Finance) and must bear a qualified electronic signature of the applicant.

The tax authority includes the entity in the register of VAT taxpayers within three working days after receipt of the registration request or from the date indicated by the requestor (in the case of voluntary registration). The tax authority issues the VAT registration certificate.

VAT registration of a taxpayer is effective from the following dates:
- For voluntary VAT registration:
  - First day of the calendar month indicated by the taxpayer in the registration application as a first reporting period
  - First day of the month following 10 calendar days after filing the registration application (where the taxpayer did not opt to elect the date of its VAT registration in the application)
- For persons opting the single tax system:
  - First day of the calendar quarter (reporting period for the single tax system, which implies accrual of VAT) indi-cated by the taxpayer in the registration application
  - First day of the calendar month (reporting period for VAT) for taxpayers who shifted from the 5% to 3% single tax system
- For mandatory VAT registration:
  - First day of the calendar month when the taxpayer shifted from the single tax to general tax system, implying pay-ment of VAT (if the registration application has been lodged prior to the date of transfer from the single tax to gen-eral tax system)
  - Date of data entry to the registry of VAT payers (for persons who exceeded the mandatory VAT registration threshold, or for those taxpayers who lodged a registration application after the date if shifting from single tax to general tax system)

Note that access to the online VAT taxpayers' database is currently restricted during the martial law period.

Deregistration. An entity registered for VAT for the past 12 months may apply for deregistration if the value of its taxable supplies for the past 12 calendar months was below UAH1 million. Deregistration is also available at the request of the taxpayer or the tax authorities in cases such as the following:
- The entity took a decision to liquidate
- The taxpayer has been registered as a single taxpayer, which does not envisage payment of VAT
- The taxpayer has not been filing VAT return for 12 consecutive months and/or has filed VAT returns evidencing absence of taxable supplies/purchases
- A court judged the entity's statutory documents to be invalid
- A court ruled to liquidate the legal entity due to bankruptcy
- The taxpayer is liquidated under a court decision, or the entity is relieved from VAT under a court decision
- The individual entrepreneur has died
- A joint activity or asset management or production sharing agreement expires

Once deregistered, the entity is not allowed to credit input tax and issue VAT invoices.

Changes to VAT registration details. Changes to a taxpayer's VAT registration details must be notified for the following changes:
- Reorganization of the legal entity taxpayer
- Change in VAT ID of the taxpayer
- Change in name of the taxpayer
- Discrepancies and errors revealed in the previous registration details

Taxpayers must file an electronic request to update the VAT registration data submitted to the tax authorities within 10 working days after occurrence of the relevant changes (except for a change in name of taxpayers who are registered in the Unified State Register of Legal Entities, Individual Entrepreneurs and Social entities).

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rates: 7%, 14%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption applies.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%
- Exports of goods (under customs regime of export, reexport (return of goods), duty-free shop and free customs area)
- International transportation of passengers, luggage and shipments of cargo
- Processing and repairs of imported movable property that is subsequently exported from Ukraine

Examples of goods and services taxable at 7%
- Supplies within Ukraine and import into Ukraine of registered medicines and medical devices that are either duly registered or for which compliance with technical regulations is supported by a compliance certificate

- Supplies within Ukraine and import into Ukraine of medicines, medical devices and/or medical equipment for use in clinical trials permitted by the Ministry of Health of Ukraine
- Supplies of certain services related to admission to shows, theatres, concerts, museums, zoos, exhibitions and similar cultural events, as well as hotel accommodation services

Examples of goods and services taxable at 14%

- Domestic supplies and imports of agricultural products classified under the following Harmonized System (HS) customs tariff (sub)headings: 1001, 1003, 1005, 1201, 1205, 1206 00

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Supplies of certain types of software (temporarily in place, with effect until 1 January 2023)
- Health care and rehabilitation services
- Supplies of baby nutrition
- Educational services
- Charity and humanitarian aid
- Supply of land plots (except for those located under real estate objects and included in their value under legislation)
- Supplies of housing (except for the first supply)
- Supplies of periodical printed mass media (newspapers and journals), books, etc., of domestic production
- Religious and funeral services
- Supplies to embassies, consulates and representations of international organizations (for their own needs) on a reciprocal basis
- Imports of cultural items produced 50 or more years ago
- Disposals by banks and financial institutions of property pledged by non-VAT taxpayer
- Sales or purchases by banks of liabilities on deposits
- Supplies of certain IT-related distance learning services (e.g., computer sciences, cyber security, software development) by the service providers who have elected special "Diia.city" tax regime for IT industry

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Ukraine.

E. Time of supply

Under the general "first event" rule, a VAT liability arises on the occurrence of the first of the following events:

- The date on which goods or services are dispatched or rendered
- The date on which payment is received with respect to a supply of goods or rendering of services

Special rules apply to certain transactions, including the following:

- For the import of goods, the VAT liability arises on the filing of the customs declaration for customs clearance.
- For the import of services (where the place of supply is within Ukraine), the VAT liability arises on payment or execution of the act of acceptance, whichever occurs first.
- For long-term agreements, the VAT liability arises on the delivery of the work results.
- For taxable supplies of electronic services made by non-established foreign suppliers to Ukrainian private individuals, the VAT liability arises on the date of receipt of payment at the supplier's bank account or the date of execution of the document certifying the supply of services, whichever occurs firs.t

- For supplies of goods and services paid from the state budget, the VAT liability arises upon receiving the payment (or remuneration in any other form) by the supplier, regardless of when the goods/services were actually supplied.

Deposits and prepayments. There is no special time of supply rules in Ukraine for deposits and prepayments. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). For prepayments (except for export/import of goods) these normally trigger a VAT event. If the supply does not take place and the seller returns prepayment, the seller and the buyer may adjust the output and input tax, respectively, based on the adjustment note to the VAT invoice properly registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register.

Continuous supplies of services. There is no special time of supply rules in Ukraine for supplies of continuous or rhythmic (two times and more per month) supplies of goods and services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). However, the law prescribes that in such cases the supplier may issue aggregate VAT invoices to each buyer registered for VAT or one aggregate VAT invoice for supplies to buyers not registered for VAT, by the last day of the month. A VAT invoice must be registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register within the statutory deadlines. Generally, a VAT invoice is to be issued when the VAT liability arises.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There is no special time of supply rules in Ukraine for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. A reverse-charge mechanism applies if a nonresident entity (including a permanent establishment of the nonresident that has not registered for VAT) supplies services for which the place of supply is within Ukraine.

In these cases, the VAT liability would arise for the service recipient under the reverse-charge procedure. The service recipient accrues a VAT liability on the payment for the services or the execution of the act of acceptance, whichever occurs first. The service recipient registered as a taxpayer may record a VAT credit after registration of the VAT invoice in the Unified Tax Invoice Register.

Leased assets. The time of supply rules for the supply of leased assets depends on the type of lease (i.e., operational lease or financial lease).

Transfer of assets under the financial lease arrangements is treated as supply of goods for VAT purposes. The lease qualifies as a "financial lease" if at least one of the below conditions is satisfied:

- Leased assets are transferred for a term during which at least 75% of their initial value is depreciated, and the lessee must purchase these assets from the lessor under the contract
- At the time of expiration of the lease arrangement, the residual (balance) value of the leased assets constitutes up to 25% of the initial value of such assets
- The total amount of lease payments equals/exceeds the initial value of the leased assets.
- Leased assets are manufactured under the instructions of the lessee and cannot be used by the third parties, considering the characteristics of such assets

In case of financial leasing, the lessor must accrue VAT liabilities on the value of the assets upon their transfer to the lessee. The lessee is entitled to credit this VAT upon receipt of assets from the lessor.

Transfer and return of assets under operational lease (i.e., all leasing arrangements that do not satisfy the criteria for financial leasing) is not subject to VAT. Leasing fees payable under the operational lease arrangements can be subject to VAT under the general rules for supply of services.

Imported goods. Import of goods is subject to VAT at the standard or reduced rates unless an exemption is available under current legislation. The tax base includes contractual value or customs value of the goods, whichever is higher, including excise tax and customs duty paid. VAT liabilities arise, and VAT is paid during filing import customs declaration for customs clearance of the goods. It is not possible to delay payment of import VAT. The importer may credit import VAT in the tax return for a tax period in which the import VAT was paid. VAT credit should be supported by an import customs declaration. Customs may allow payment of VAT by installments for a period of up to 24 or 36 months during import of certain equipment for own manufacturing needs under the procedure approved by the government. The time of installments depends on the type of the equipment. The VAT amount payable should be guaranteed to customs through a financial/banking guarantee or pledge of the equipment.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

In general, VAT credit is available only for VAT registered taxpayers with respect to input tax paid in connection with the acquisition or production of goods, fixed assets or services.

A VAT taxpayer may claim VAT credit with respect to the following transactions:
- Purchases or production of goods and services
- Purchases (building and construction) of fixed assets
- Import of goods and/or fixed assets into Ukraine
- Receipts of services supplied by nonresidents in the customs territory of Ukraine
- Imports of noncurrent assets into the customs territory of Ukraine under lease agreements

A taxpayer must be able to confirm a VAT credit with a VAT invoice registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register or a customs declaration. A duly registered VAT invoice is sufficient grounds for crediting input tax and no other evidence are required.

The time limit for a taxpayer to reclaim input tax in Ukraine is 1,095 calendar days. Taxpayers are entitled to claim input VAT as a tax credit within 1,095 calendar days starting from the date of receipt of an incoming VAT invoice from the supplier.

A VAT credit is recognized regardless of whether goods or services or fixed assets were used in taxable transactions or whether the taxpayer performed taxable transactions in the reporting period.

Under the "first event" rule for VAT credit, the right to a VAT credit arises on occurrence of the first of the following events (provided other conditions are met):
- The date on which the taxpayer makes the payment for goods or services
- The date on which the taxpayer receives the goods or services

Special rules include the following:
- For the import of goods, the right to VAT credit arises on the payment (accrual) of VAT on the filing of the customs declaration for the customs clearance
- For the import of services, the right to VAT credit arises on the date the VAT invoice is self-issued and registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register
- For long-term agreements, the right to VAT credit arises on the receipt of the work results (execution of the acts of work acceptance)

Nondeductible input tax. At the end of the tax period, the taxpayer must recognize VAT liability and register a VAT invoice in respect of 1) the goods, services or noncurrent assets that are designated for use or start to be used in nontaxable or nonbusiness transactions and 2) noncurrent assets converted into nonproductive assets. However, taxpayer may deduct such VAT for corporate profit tax purposes if certain conditions are met.

Input tax credits are not available for supplier invoices that are not registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register, for imports that are not supported by customs declarations or on purchases that are not related to the business activity.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Business entertainment
- Goods found missing during stock-taking
- Purchases used to make supplies for which the place of supply is outside Ukraine (e.g., advertising services provided to a nonresident customer)

In general, input tax credits are not available from suppliers' invoices that are not registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register, for imports that are not supported by customs declarations or on purchases that are not related to the business activity.

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Corporate business mobile phones
- Hotel accommodation for employees
- Business purchases for an amount up to UAH200 supported by a cash receipt indicating VAT ID of the supplier and an amount of VAT

Partial exemption. If the taxpayer carries on both taxable and nontaxable transactions, at the end of the tax period the taxpayer must recognize the VAT liability and register a VAT invoice for the amount of VAT on purchases used to make exempt supplies, determined on a pro rata basis.

There is only one method of calculation of partial exemption ratio in Ukraine's tax code. The pro rata coefficient is based on the percentage of taxable supplies to total supplies in the preceding calendar year. Based on the current year results, the taxpayer must recalculate the pro rata coefficient according to actual volume of taxable and exempt supplies and adjust VAT credit in the tax return for the last tax period of current year.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Ukraine. Special methods are not allowed in Ukraine.

Capital goods. Taxpayers may deduct the whole amount of input tax incurred upon purchases of capital goods, provided that a duly registered VAT invoice or a customs declaration is available. If purchased capital goods are used both for taxable and exempt transactions, the taxpayer must then accrue VAT liabilities based on the pro rata coefficient (refer above). If capital goods are used not for business (i.e., income generating purposes) or to make exempt supplies, the taxpayer must accrue VAT liabilities based on the balance sheet value.

Refunds. VAT due to the budget is calculated as a positive difference between VAT liability (output tax collected from the customers with respect to sales of goods and services) and VAT credit.

If a taxpayer has a negative difference, the difference may be used to decrease the tax debt or may be carried forward as a tax credit to the next reporting period or claimed as a tax refund in the amount not exceeding the threshold of VAT invoices' registration calculated when the VAT return is filed. A refund may be provided by way of remittance of funds to the taxpayer's bank account or through offset against liabilities/debt on other taxes payable to the State Revenue.

The tax authorities maintain a single register of VAT refund claims. In the register, the refund is available in sequential order depending on the date of the relevant claim (i.e., the earlier the claim is included in the register, the earlier the refund will be provided). The register is publicly available via the tax authority website.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Ukraine is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Ukraine.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Ukraine is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A Ukrainian VAT taxpayer (seller) must provide an electronic VAT invoice registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register to the buyer. The VAT invoice must be issued on a date when the tax liability arises for the seller and is registered by the end of the month (for VAT invoices issued from the 1st to the 15th day of the calendar month) and by the 15th day of the following month (for VAT invoices issued from the 16th day of the calendar month). The VAT invoice must contain all the necessary elements and must bear a duly registered electronic signature. A supplier must issue separate VAT invoices for exempt and taxable supplies.

If a VAT invoice is improperly completed or is not registered in the Unified Register, the buyer does not have the right to a VAT credit, but the supplier must report the relevant VAT liability. Improper completion of the VAT invoice (except for mistakes in the HS code of the goods) still allows identification of the transaction, and such VAT invoice should be allowed for registration.

The authorities may block registration of VAT invoices based on the risk assessment system that automatically monitors all VAT invoices. In this case, the authorities request additional explanations/documentation (to be submitted within 365 calendar days after arising tax liabilities reflected in the tax return) sufficient for unblocking registration of VAT invoices.

Taxpayers must issue electronic excise invoices for all shipments of certain excisable goods (fuel and ethyl alcohol). The excise invoice layout and principles of electronic excise tax administration are similar to VAT rules.

Credit notes. If output/input tax needs to be adjusted (e.g., due to change of compensation, return or goods/advance payment), the seller must issue electronically an adjustment note to the VAT invoice that must be registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register either by the seller (in case of compensation increase) or by the buyer (in case of compensation decrease). The format of the adjustment note is approved by the Ministry of Finance.

In some cases, the buyer has the right to a VAT credit without the VAT invoice on the basis of the following documents:
- Transport ticket or an invoice for hotel or communication services
- Checks for goods or services for an amount not exceeding UAH200 per day
- Customs cargo declaration for the import of goods

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Ukraine for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Ukraine. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Ukraine. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

VAT invoices are filed under statutory template in the format (XML-based) published by the tax authorities. A VAT invoice must contain all relevant elements and bear an electronic signature duly registered in the tax authorities. Only qualified electronic signatures of the taxpayer's authorized persons, as well as an electronic stamp of the company (where available) are accepted for completion of VAT invoices.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Ukraine. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Ukraine.

Proof of exports. Export of goods should be supported by duly executed export customs declaration certified by customs to evidence that the goods actually left customs territory of Ukraine.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices cannot be issued in a foreign currency in Ukraine. All invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Ukrainian hryvnia (UAH).

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Ukraine. As such, full VAT invoices are required (registered in the Unified Tax Invoice Register). However, it is not mandatory to provide a full VAT invoice to private customers (B2C), unless they request it.

Records. In Ukraine, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include source accounting documents (e.g., invoices, service acceptance acts, supply contracts), accounting ledgers, VAT returns, customs declarations, issued and received VAT invoices, and other documents related to tax accounting.

In Ukraine, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. Note that Ukrainian law is silent on whether the records must be kept locally in Ukraine or abroad. However, regardless of where such records are held, they (including hard copies) must be made available to the tax authorities in case of audit.

Record retention period. The statutory retention period in Ukraine is three years (1,095 days) after the deadline for filing a tax return for the relevant reporting period.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Ukraine. Electronic keeping and archiving records are allowed for documents that were initially completed electronically (inter alia these documents should bear a relevant electronic digital signature). Otherwise, physical storage (i.e., paper) must be used.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns are filed on a monthly basis (within 20 calendar days of the following month).

Periodic payments. Tax is payable within 10 days after the filing deadline. VAT liabilities must be paid to the revenue from the special VAT account of the taxpayer (opened in the State Treasury). Taxpayers remit funds to the VAT account from their regular bank accounts. After the expiration of the payment deadline, the Treasury will collect funds to the revenue, based on the amount of tax due indicated in the returns (provided by tax office). All settlements must be made in Ukrainian hryvnia (UAH).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Ukraine for all taxpayers.

A system of electronic VAT administration is based on the interaction of the Unified Tax Invoice Register (UTIR) with the special VAT accounts.

VAT accounts are free for all taxpayers in the State Treasury of Ukraine. Under this system the supplier can register a VAT invoice in UTIR for an amount that exceeds its VAT credit only when the taxpayer pays the corresponding amount of money into its VAT account. The VAT invoice registration threshold is calculated according to a formula. The formula also includes an allowed overdraft calculated as the average monthly amount of VAT that was declared as payment for the past 12 months (overdraft is to be recalculated quarterly). This overdraft is not available to taxpayers registered for VAT for less than 12 calendar months (as of 1 January 2016) or registered as taxpayers after that date and becomes available in the quarter following the quarter in which the 12-month VAT registration period has been achieved.

Taxpayers will be able to replenish their VAT accounts or transfer funds remaining after settlements to their regular bank account (in the latter case, the VAT registration threshold would be reduced but a negative amount is not acceptable). Taxpayer will not be able to transfer money from the VAT accounts at their discretion. Neither funds from customers nor VAT refunds are transferred to the VAT account.

If a VAT taxpayer's registration is canceled, its VAT account will be closed, and the net balance of the account will be transferred to the state revenue.

The treasury communicates data about the net balance of the VAT account to the Unified Register online. If the total of input tax and VAT account balance is insufficient, the taxpayer will not be able to register the issued VAT invoice with the Unified Register. Consequently, the customer of the VAT taxpayer in question will not be entitled to recognize VAT credit.

At the end of the reporting period, the tax on the added value generated by such supplier should be accumulated in its VAT account. VAT payable to the state revenue at the end of the reporting period will be settled by means of funds in the VAT account.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Ukraine.

Special schemes. Tourist operators. For tourist operators who sell tourist products for use in or outside of Ukraine, 20% VAT is applied on a margin calculated as a difference between the value of the tourist product and expenses incurred in relation to creating such a tourist product. For tourist operators acting as intermediaries for foreign tourist service providers and for Ukrainian tourist agents, 20% VAT is levied on a remuneration payable to such entities. Input tax on services included in the tourist product is not creditable whereas input tax on any tourist services not included in the value of the tourist product is creditable.

Works of art. The supply of works of art (HS headings 9701-9706) by dealers is subject to a marginal profit tax scheme if they were purchased from:
- Entities not registered as taxpayer
- Taxpayers where the supply is exempt or not subject to VAT
- Taxpayers using a marginal profit tax scheme
- Authors of works of art or their legal successors

The taxable base includes the seller's marginal profit (excluding VAT). The VAT rate is 20%. The dealer (seller) is not required to issue a VAT invoice. The dealer who buys works of art from the above entities is not entitled to credit input tax. Export of works of art is not subject to zero VAT during export (i.e., input tax, if any, is not recoverable). The dealer is required to maintain separate accounting of transactions involving purchase and sale of works of art.

Cash-basis method. The following types of suppliers may use the cash-basis method for defining the date of arising VAT liabilities and crediting input VAT:
- Contractors/subcontractors performing construction works
- Entities supplying heat energy, natural gas, as well as other power and utilities services to households/apartment building co-owners' associations

Cash basis method assumes that the taxpayer recognizes VAT obligations at time of receiving the funds from the customer, whereas the buyer is entitled to deduct input tax at the moment of payment to the seller.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Ukraine.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Ukraine.

Correcting errors in previous returns. Where a taxpayer identifies errors/omissions in their VAT returns for the previous months, they must complete and send an adjustment calculation to the relevant VAT return.

An adjustment calculation is completed under the standard template in electronic form only. Procedure of filing adjustment calculation is the same as for VAT returns.

Correction of underpayments in the previous VAT returns may trigger penalties. See Section J. Penalties below for details.

Digital tax administration. Electronic cash registers. Taxpayers who are liable to use electronic cash registers must transmit real-time transactional data (information from cash receipts) to the tax authorities. Inter alia, this data includes information on the goods and services supplied, as well as amounts of VAT and excise tax.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Late registration or violation of other tax registration requirements may trigger a fine of UAH340 for self-employed persons and UAH1,020 for legal entities or tax agents. For a repeated violation, the fine increases to UAH680 and UAH2,040, respectively.

If the tax authorities determine that late registration caused tax understatement and reassesses the taxpayer's tax liability, general fines for tax understatement apply (see the subsection Penalties for late payment and filings below). An interest penalty may also apply. In addition, the taxpayer is not eligible for a VAT credit or refund with respect to input tax incurred before VAT registration.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The following are the penalties for failure to file or for the late filing of the VAT declaration:
- UAH340 for each violation
- UAH1,020 for repeated violations within a year

If a failure to properly file the tax return results in the understatement of tax liabilities, additional fines apply.

The following penalties are imposed for late payments:
- 5% of unpaid liabilities if the period of delay is up to 30 days
- 10% of unpaid liabilities if the period of delay exceeds 30 days
- 25% of unpaid liabilities if failure to pay tax was intentional
- 50% of unpaid liabilities for repeated (within three years) failure to pay tax, or where period of delay is over 90 days

Under the tax code, an amount of VAT that is not refunded to the tax authorities on time is considered to be a debt to the state revenue. An interest penalty at a rate of 120% of the National Bank of Ukraine (NBU) rate applies to this debt amount until it is settled.

Penalties for errors. Penalties are imposed for the overstatement of a VAT refund or the understatement of VAT liabilities if the tax authorities increase the amount of VAT liabilities or decrease the VAT refund. The penalties are imposed at the following percentages of the reassessed tax liability or overstated VAT refund:

- 10% for unintentional errors
- 25% for an intentional violation, if it was made for the first time within a three-year period
- 50% if the violation was repeated within a three-year period

It is not clear whether an overstatement of negative VAT (that does not lead to tax understatement or the overstatement of VAT refund) is subject to a fine.

The following are the penalties for the understatement of tax liabilities if the taxpayer corrects the mistake made in the VAT return:
- 3% of the understatement of tax liabilities if it submits an adjustment calculation
- 5% of the understatement of tax liabilities if it corrects the mistake in the tax return for the next reporting period
- 5% of the understatement for the failure to submit an adjustment calculation

The following penalties are applied for failure to timely register VAT invoices in the UTIR:
- 10% of VAT amount if the delay is up to 15 calendar days
- 20% of VAT amount if the delay is from 16 to 30 calendar days
- 30% of VAT amount if the delay is from 31 to 60 calendar days
- 40% of VAT amount if the delay is 61 days to 365 calendar days
- 50% of VAT amount if the delay is over 365 calendar days
- 2% of the volume of supply, but no more than UAH1,020 – for VAT invoices for exempt, zero-rated and certain other transactions (where the taxpayer voluntarily registers belated VAT invoices)
- 5% of the volume of supply, but no more than UAH3,400 – for VAT invoices for exempt, zero-rated and some other transactions (where the tax authorities detect failure to timely register a VAT invoice upon tax audit)

If tax authorities detect failure to register a VAT invoice, they will issue the tax notification decision and apply a penalty in the amount of 50% of the VAT amount. This penalty will not be applied where a VAT invoice is registered prior to tax audit. The above penalties (10%–50%) are not applied where the VAT invoice is registered within 10 calendar days after receipt of the tax notification decision.

If the tax authorities block registration of a VAT invoice based on the risk assessment system, the above penalties are not applied for the duration of the blocking period.

A failure to register a VAT invoice after 10 calendar days following the receipt of the tax-notification decision may attract a penalty in the amount of 50% of VAT.

The following fines are applied for mistakes in a VAT invoice detected by the tax authorities during a documentary out-of-schedule tax audit at the buyer's request. The percentage penalty is based on the VAT amount due, and the timings are based on if the mistake is not corrected within such number of calendar days:
- UAH170 and obligation to correct the mistake
- 10% (15 days)
- 20% (16 to 30 days)
- 30% (31 to 60 days)
- 40% (61 to 90 days)
- 50% (91 to 120 days)
- 60% (121 to 150 days)
- 70% (151 to 180 days)
- 100% (after 181 days)

These penalties are applied for mistakes in a VAT invoice regarding indication of the tariff code of goods or code of services under the State Classifier of Products and Services.

In addition to the above, the interest penalty may apply for tax understatement and late payment. The interest penalty for late payment applies from the first business day on which the tax liability becomes overdue (that is, after expiration of the deadline for settling the tax liability indicated in the tax return or in the tax-notification decision issued by the tax authorities). Where taxpayers voluntarily correct errors in tax returns, late payment interest applies from the 91st calendar day after expiration of the deadline for payment of tax. The interest penalty for tax understatement applies to the whole period of understatement of the tax liability, even though the taxpayer may have recourse to the administrative or court appeal procedure.

The rate of the interest penalty equals 120% (100% in cases where taxpayers voluntarily correct errors in tax returns) of the yearly NBU discount rate for each day of tax understatement.

In addition to financial sanctions, administrative or criminal liability may apply.

Failure to notify tax authorities in case of the taxpayer's reorganization would result in revoking VAT registration. Fines for violation of the registration requirements (UAH340–UAH2,040) may also apply.

If the taxpayer fails to retain primary accounting documents requested by the tax authorities upon audit, this will trigger a fine of UAH1,020 (UAH2,040 for repeated violation).

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Deliberate tax evasion committed by a taxpayer is recognized as a criminal offense under the Criminal Code of Ukraine. Tax evasion may trigger criminal responsibility, if the total amount of underpaid tax (including financial sanctions) exceeds 3,000 statutory nontaxable minimum income (for 2024 the threshold is UAH4,542,000 [approx. USD124,000]). At the time of preparing this chapter, the threshold of criminal liability for tax evasion for 2024 has been updated based on the Law on State Budget for 2024, which has been approved by the Ukraine Parliament and awaits the president's signature.

The potential penalties for tax evasion include fines (the amount gradually rises depending on the amount of unpaid tax liability), restriction to occupy certain positions or conduct certain activities for up to three years and, in certain cases, confiscation of property.

Ukrainian Criminal Code does not envisage any special provisions on criminal liability of tax advisors.

Personal liability for company officers. Administrative penalties for violation of tax rules (including late registration/filing, underpayment of tax, errors in VAT returns, etc.) are levied on the company as a whole.

In addition, criminal penalties for tax evasion (refer above) are imposed on the relevant natural persons/employees of the taxpayer (in practice this may include directors and chief accountants).

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Ukraine is 1,095 days. This is starting from the filing deadline (20th calendar day of the month following the reporting months). During this period, the tax authorities can audit taxpayers, as well as assess tax and apply penalties for a failure to comply with the VAT law.

The statute of limitations does not apply (i) where the taxpayer fails to file a VAT return or (ii) the taxpayer is found guilty of tax evasion by the court.

K. VAT during martial law

Tax administration rules. The president of Ukraine announced martial law in Ukraine by the Decree No. 4/2022 of 24 February 2022. Martial law is periodically extended by the President and Ukraine's Parliament. The following VAT-related administration rules are valid during the martial law period:

- If the taxpayer is unable to timely fulfil its tax obligations (due to force majeure circumstances), e.g., with respect to settlement of taxes, submission of tax returns, VAT invoice registration, then penalties for violation of the tax law would not apply, provided that such taxpayer would actually perform relevant obligations within six months after the termination or cancellation of martial law in Ukraine.
- Taxpayers are allowed to retain input tax credit in respect of the following goods:
  - Destroyed/lost due to force majeure circumstances during martial law
  - Goods donated to the state/local authorities (including voluntary military units), as well as donated to any third parties for the purposes of securing Ukraine's defense
- Free-of-charge supplies of goods and services to the military units, civil state authorities, as well as to health care institutions do not represent a VAT-able supply.
- Where the taxpayer detects and corrects errors occurring in the tax periods during martial law, penalties and late payment interest do not apply.
- Late payment interest does not apply where the state authorities failed to timely refund VAT due to force majeure circumstances during martial law.
- During martial law, as well as within six months after termination/cancellation of the martial law, the deadlines for registration of the VAT invoices in UTIR are as follows:
  - For VAT invoices issued from the 1st to the 15th day of the calendar month – no later than by 5th calendar day of the following month
  - For VAT invoices issued from the 16th day of the calendar month – no later than by 18th calendar day of the following month
- Reduced amounts of penalties for late registration of the VAT invoices apply:
  - 2% of VAT amount if the delay is up to 15 calendar days
  - 5% of VAT amount if the delay is from 16 to 30 calendar days
  - 10% of VAT amount if the delay is from 31 to 60 calendar days
  - 15% of VAT amount if the delay is 61 days to 365 calendar days
  - 25% of VAT amount if the delay is over 365 calendar days
- Most types of tax audits (excluding desk audits, factual audits, currency control audits, audits of VAT refund claims exceeding UAH100k, as well as audits performed at taxpayer's request/ in case of liquidation of the legal entity, etc.) were initially suspended/banned after the introduction of martial law.

According to the law adopted by Ukraine's Parliament in 2023, unscheduled tax audits are allowed from 1 December 2023 (excluding certain categories of certain categories of the taxpayers, e.g., those located at temporary occupied Ukrainian territories, zones of military hostilities etc.). As regarding scheduled audits, these are possible solely for certain types of taxpayers (e.g., excisable goods suppliers, gambling operators, financial services providers, nonresidents and other taxpayers meting the risk criteria specified by the law).

During martial law, the tax audits may be performed only where there are sufficient safety conditions, including access to the company's premises, records, stock-taking, etc.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the draft law was adopted by Ukraine's Parliament and awaits the president's signature.

VAT reliefs for import and supply of strategical goods. Importation and domestic supplies of the following types of goods/services are exempt from VAT during martial law:

- Protective helmets and armor vests, as well as certain materials for manufacture thereof
- Medicines and medical devices for use by the healthcare institutions and persons involved in the defense activities
- Defense goods (under the list of customs tariff codes approved by the law) purchased under the defense public procurement procedure
- Services related to the military software subject to export control regulations (including supplies, development and testing of military software, development of documentation, as well as supply of IP rights thereto, etc.)

United Arab Emirates

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Dubai GMT +4

EY
ICD Brookfield Place
Al Mustaqbal Street
Dubai International Financial Center
P.O. Box 9267
Dubai

Indirect tax contacts

Aamer Bhatti	+971 50 8050 757 aamer.bhatti@ae.ey.com
Sana Azam	+971 54 3054 736 sana.azam@aey.ey.com
Stuart Halstead	+971 50 7683 629 stuart.halstead@ae.ey.com
Stefan Majerowski	+971 54 7911 861 stefan.majerowski2@ae.ey.com

Abu Dhabi GMT +4

EY
Nation Tower 2
Corniche
P.O. Box 136
Abu Dhabi

Indirect tax contacts

Sana Azam	+971 54 3054 736 sana.azam@ae.ey.com
James Bryson	+971 56 199 2349 james.bryson@ae.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	ضريبة القيمة المضافة
Date introduced	1 January 2018
Trading bloc membership	Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) Greater Arab Free Trade Area (GAFTA)
Administered by	Federal Tax Authority (FTA) (www.tax.gov.ae)
VAT rates
Standard	5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	XXXXXXXXXXXXXX (15-digit combination)
VAT return periods	Quarterly (general)/Monthly (discretion of the FTA)

Thresholds
Registration	AED375,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply (and deemed supply) of goods and services made in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) by a taxable person
- The acquisition of goods from another Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) Member State by a taxable person
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in the UAE
- The importation of goods into the UAE, regardless of the status of the importer

Designated Zones. A "Designated Zone" specified by a decision of the UAE Cabinet shall be treated as being outside the UAE and outside the GCC, subject to the following conditions:
- The Designated Zone is a specific fenced geographic area and has security measures and customs controls in place to monitor entry and exit of individuals and movement of goods to and from the area
- The Designated Zone shall have internal procedures regarding the method of keeping, storing and processing of goods therein
- The operator of the Designated Zone complies with the procedures set by the authority

Note that not all Free Zones in the UAE qualify as Designated Zones for VAT purposes.

A transfer of goods between Designated Zones shall not be subject to VAT if the following two conditions are met:
- Where the goods, or part thereof, are not released and are not in any way used or altered during the transfer between the Designated Zones
- Where the transfer is undertaken in accordance with the rules for customs suspension according to the GCC Common Customs Law

Where goods are moved between Designated Zones, the FTA may require the owner of the goods to provide a financial guarantee for the payment of the VAT, which that person may become liable for, should the conditions for movement of the goods not be met.

If a supply of goods is made within a Designated Zone to a person to be used by him or by a third person, special rules apply. The place of supply shall be the UAE unless the goods are to be incorporated into, attached to or otherwise form part of or are used in the production or sale of another good located in the same Designated Zone that itself is not consumed.

The place of supply of water or any form of energy shall be considered to be inside the UAE if the place of supply is in a Designated Zone.

Goods located in a Designated Zone on which the owner has not paid VAT will be treated as imported into the UAE by the owner, with VAT chargeable subject to normal rules if the goods are consumed by the owner. An exception to this applies where these goods are incorporated into, attached to or otherwise form part of or are used in the production of another good located in a Designated Zone that itself is not consumed.

Any person established, registered or who has a place of residence in a Designated Zone shall be deemed to have a place of residence in the UAE for the purposes of the VAT law.

There are minimal special rules or exemptions for services rendered in Designated Zones. If the place of supply is in the Designated Zone, the service is considered to be provided within the UAE. This means that services provided in a Designated Zone may be taxable under the normal VAT rules. A special rule does, however, exist for certain services related to the shipping and delivery of goods supplied within a Designated Zone or moved from a Designated Zone to a location within the UAE.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In the UAE the "use and enjoyment" provisions are applicable to businesses making supplies of telecommunication and electronic services. Where a business is making such supplies to a non-VAT-registered customer in the UAE (i.e., business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies), it may have an obligation to register in the UAE and account for VAT. For further details, see the subsection Digital economy below.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In the UAE, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the following conditions are met:

- There must be a transfer of a whole or an independent part of a business (for example, a transfer of shares does not constitute a whole or independent part of a business, nor does a standalone transfer of inventory/assets where such assets are not all things necessary to allow the recipient to operate the whole or independent part of the business being transferred)
- The transfer must be made to a taxable person
- The recipient intends to continue the business which was transferred

Transactions between related parties. The value of the supply or deemed supply or the value of any import of goods or services that is undertaken between related parties shall be considered to be equal to the market value in cases where the original value of the supply is actually lower than market value (or supply for no consideration, in some cases) and the recipient of the supply cannot claim the related input tax in full. There is no explicit difference in the valuation methods for supplies of goods and services. The same principle outlined here shall apply.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" is any person registered or required to register for VAT in the UAE.

Every individual/business who has a place of residence in the UAE, or in another GCC Member State, where the total value of all taxable supplies made in the past 12 months, or expected taxable supplies in the next 30 days, exceeds AED375,000, must register for, collect and remit VAT.

Where a person has a requirement to register based on the above, they must apply to the FTA to register within 30 days of being required to register. Where a person does not file its VAT registration application despite being required to do so, the FTA shall register that person with effect from the date on which the person first became liable to be registered for VAT and impose the necessary penalties.

For registrations based on supplies made in the last 12 months, the registration will take effect from the first day of the month following the month in which the person is required to register or from an earlier date as agreed between the FTA and the person.

For registrations based on expected supplies in the next 30 days, the registration will take effect from the date on which there are reasonable grounds for believing the person will be required to register or from an earlier date as agreed between the FTA and the person.

A taxable person who has been late in registering for VAT is liable to account for and pay to the FTA the VAT due on all taxable supplies and imports made by that person before registering.

Exemption from registration. A taxable person providing zero-rated supplies only may, upon application to the FTA, be excepted from the mandatory VAT registration obligation. Any taxable person excepted from the VAT registration obligation must inform the FTA of any changes to its business that would make it subject to VAT within 10 business days of making such supplies.

The FTA has the right to collect any VAT due and to levy administrative penalties for the period of exception if the taxable person was not entitled to the exception from VAT registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A taxable person who is not obliged to register for VAT may apply for VAT registration where its taxable supplies or expenses over the past 12 months exceeded AED187,500. Alternatively, an application for voluntary registration can also be made where it is expected that its supplies or expenses will exceed AED187,500 in the next 30 days. It should be able to provide evidence of an intention to make taxable supplies or incur expenses that are subject to VAT (at the standard rate) greater than AED187,500.

Where a taxable person applies to register for VAT voluntarily, the FTA shall register it with effect from the first day of the month following the month in which the application is made or from an earlier date as agreed between the FTA and the person.

Group registration. Two or more taxable persons may apply for VAT registration as a tax group if all of the following conditions are met:

- Each taxable person has a place of establishment or fixed establishment in the UAE
- The taxable persons must be related parties
- One or more taxable persons must control the other taxable person(s), i.e., there must be common ownership

A tax group must select one of its registered members to act as the representative member of the tax group.

An application to form a tax group must be made by a taxable person. This person is the representative member of the tax group.

Any goods or services supplied to any of the members of the tax group (including imports) will be deemed to be supplied to the representative member. Any supplies made by a member of the tax group shall be deemed to be made by the representative member, which includes output tax charges or input tax incurred by any of the members.

All members of a VAT group in the UAE are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties. While the representative member is deemed to have made supplies and acquisitions (and account for output tax and input tax) for the members of the VAT group as if it had made them itself, all members of a tax group shall be personally and jointly liable for the payable tax of the VAT group (reported by the representative member on behalf of the VAT group) during any tax period that the member is part of the VAT group.

Any supplies made by a member of the VAT group to another member of the same group may be disregarded for VAT purposes. The tax group registration takes effect from the first day of the tax period following the tax period in which the application is received, or any date as determined by the FTA.

Where the FTA establishes that two or more taxable persons are associated as a result of their economic, financial and regulatory practices in business, the FTA may register them as a VAT group. Such notice may only be issued where the FTA is satisfied that to treat such businesses separately would create a VAT advantage. In this scenario, the FTA may only register a taxable person as part of a tax group if the taxable person's business includes making taxable supplies (or imports) and would exceed the mandatory registration threshold.

There is no minimum time period required for the duration of a VAT group.

Self-supplies. Goods or services that a taxable business (same legal person) supplies to itself are not taxable (i.e., outside the scope of UAE VAT). This includes instances where one member of a tax group provides goods and services to another member of the same tax group.

Supplies and acquisitions of goods and/or services between a head office and/or its branches should be disregarded, being a supply between the same legal person (i.e., outside the scope of UAE VAT).

Fixed establishment. The term "place of residence" is defined as a place where a person has a place of establishment or fixed establishment, as outlined below.

For the place of establishment, this is the place where a business is legally established in a country pursuant to its decision of establishment, in which significant management decisions are taken or central management functions are conducted.

For a fixed establishment, this is any fixed place of business, other than the place of establishment, in which a person conducts its business regularly or permanently and where sufficient human and technology resources exist to enable the person to supply or acquire goods or services, including the person's branches.

Non-established businesses. Every individual/business that does not have a place of residence in the UAE or in another implementing GCC Member State, and where no other taxable person is obliged to pay the VAT due on these supplies in the UAE (i.e., via the reverse-charge mechanism) must register for VAT with the FTA if they make taxable supplies of goods or services in the UAE. There is a nil registration threshold for nonresidents. A GCC Member State is only regarded as an implementing state if it is fully compliant with the provisions of the Common VAT Agreement of the States of the GCC and recognize the UAE as implementing state. At the time of preparing this chapter, none of the Member States that have implemented VAT in the GCC recognize another Member State as an implementing GCC Member State.

An individual/business who has a place of residence in a UAE Designated Zone shall be deemed to have a place of residence in the UAE for the purposes of UAE VAT.

The FTA shall register a non-established business from the date on which it started making taxable supplies in the UAE or from an earlier date as agreed between the FTA and the business.

A non-established business may not take into account the value of goods and services imported into the UAE to determine whether they are entitled to apply for VAT registration if the calculation of VAT for such goods and services is the responsibility of the importer via the reverse-charge mechanism.

Tax representatives. A registered tax agent may act on a taxable person's behalf in respect of lodging VAT returns in the UAE for the taxable person, by submitting a notification. Notwithstanding the appointment of a tax agent, the taxable person shall maintain individual responsibility for all such obligations. In performing their duties as a tax agent, the tax agent may rely on information provided to them by the taxable person unless the tax agent has reasonable grounds for believing that the information may be incorrect. The FTA may also rely on the information provided to it by the tax agent in the case of a tax audit, even after the expiry of the agency engagement or the dismissal of the tax agent. It is not permitted for any person to practice the profession of a tax agent in the UAE unless it is listed as a tax agent with the FTA and licensed for this purpose by the Ministry of Economy and the competent local authority.

A local tax agent must be licensed and registered with the FTA, where a file shall be kept regarding all matters of professional conduct associated with the tax agent. For the tax agent to be registered with the FTA, he must satisfy several conditions, including (but not limited to):
- To be of good conduct and behavior
- Has never been convicted of a crime or misdemeanor
- Has the ability to communicate orally and in writing in both Arabic and English
- Passes any tests to meet qualification standards as may be specified by the authority
- Performs his activity through a legal person approved by the Ministry of Economy and the local competent authority

The FTA shall not deal with any tax agent where the FTA has been informed that the agency engagement has ended or that the tax agent has been dismissed.

Reverse charge. Generally, reverse-charge VAT is applicable to the purchase of goods or services from a place outside the UAE. Imports into the UAE by a VAT-registered person are required to be accounted for under the reverse-charge mechanism. Imports of goods by a non-VAT registered person will be subject to VAT at import, with an actual payment of VAT required. The goods may not be released until the VAT has been paid (a registered freight-forwarding agent can also be used to clear and pay the import VAT on their behalf).

Domestic reverse charge. A domestic reverse charge is applicable to supplies made in the UAE of any crude or refined oil, unprocessed or processed natural gas, or pure hydrocarbons, and the recipient of these goods intends to either resell the purchased goods as any of these types of goods, or to use these goods to produce or distribute any form of energy.

The domestic reverse charge is also applicable to supplies of gold, diamonds and any products where the principal components are gold or diamonds. The supplies must be made to recipients registered for VAT in the UAE who intend to either resell such goods or use them to produce or manufacture any such the goods.

The domestic reverse-charge provisions can also apply to certain supplies of electronic devices and electronic parts when supplied within the UAE and where the VAT-registered recipient intends to either resell such devices or use them for production of electronic devices.

This domestic reverse charge shall not apply in any of the following situations:
- Before the supply takes place, the customer has not provided a written confirmation to the supplier that their acquisition of the goods is for the purpose of resale (or for other specified approved purposes in the case of a supply of an electronic device)
- The customer is VAT registered and the supplier has not verified the VAT registration of the customer by means approved by the FTA
- Where the supply would have been subject to the zero-rate VAT as a direct or indirect export of goods
- Where the supply includes a supply of goods or services other than crude or refined oil, unprocessed or processed natural gas, or any pure hydrocarbons
- Where the supply includes a supply or import of investment precious metals as specified under the VAT Executive Regulations that is subject to the zero rate of VAT

If the supplier was aware (or was supposed to be aware) that the customer was not VAT registered at the time the supply takes place, the supplier and the customer shall be jointly and severely liable for any VAT due and relevant penalties.

Digital economy. For the purposes of UAE VAT, telecommunication services include those supplied using communications equipment or devices that can deliver, broadcast, convert or receive communications, such as wired/wireless communications, music, viewable images and signals used to operate machinery, etc.

Where telecommunication and electronic services are supplied within the UAE, the place of supply will be within the UAE to the extent that the use and enjoyment of the supply is within the UAE. Where the services are supplied outside the UAE, the place of supply shall be outside the UAE to the extent that the use and enjoyment of the supply is outside the UAE. The actual use and enjoyment shall be where the recipient consumes and enjoys the services, regardless of the place of contract or payment.

Telecommunications services may be zero-rated where the supplier has a place of residence within the UAE and makes the supply to either:
- Another telecommunications supplier who has a place of residence outside the implementing states
- A person who is not a telecommunications supplier but who has a place of residence outside the UAE, where the services are initiated outside the implementing states

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies are required to register and account for VAT on the supplies made in the UAE. This is because for nonresident suppliers, the registration threshold is nil.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for business-to-business (B2B) supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on the supplies made in the UAE. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due via the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse-charge subsection above).

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in the UAE.

Online marketplaces and platforms. Electronic services include those delivered automatically over an electronic network or marketplace, including the supply of domain names, web hosting, software (including updates), images, music, magazines, advertising space, distance learning and livestreaming.

At the time of preparing this chapter, the respective tax authorities of the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and Oman are not treating each other as implementing states. Consequently, until being recognized as implementing states by the UAE, GCC Member States are treated the same as non-GCC jurisdictions. Therefore, the zero-rating provisions should still be considered in the context of GCC Member States. This situation should, however, be monitored as going forward GCC Member States that implemented VAT may be recognized as implementing states. Note that where we refer to the GCC, we are referring to GCC Implementing States.

Registration procedures. A UAE VAT registration application must be made online on the FTA portal (www.eservices.tax.gov.ae). The following details must be provided:
- Company information: including, the UAE trade license; if the company has a place of residence in the UAE; legal name of the company in English and Arabic; certificate of incorporation
- Details of the authorized signatory and manager of the business: including copy of the signatory's/manager's passport; copy of the signatory's/manager's Emirates ID; signatory's/manager's scanned copy of proof of authorization, for example, power of attorney
- Contact and bank account details for the taxable person
- Actual or estimated financial information, for example, audited or non-audited financial statements or revenue forecasts

- Cross-border flows of goods and/or services, specifying if they will be in relation to any other GCC Member States
- Details and evidence of business relationships

Upon receipt of the application, the FTA will usually process the application within 20 business days. If the application is successful, the taxable person will receive its VAT registration certificate, containing the tax registration number, registered address, effective registration date, first and subsequent registration periods and VAT return due date.

Deregistration. A taxable person must apply to the FTA to deregister from VAT within 20 business days of the occurrence of any of the following cases:
- If the taxable person stops making taxable supplies and does not expect to make any such supplies over the next 12-month period
- If the value of the taxable supplies made over a period of 12 consecutive months is less than AED187,500 and the taxable person does not expect its total value of supplies (or costs subject to VAT to be incurred) will exceed AED187,500 during the next 30-day period

If the deregistration application is approved, the FTA shall cancel the VAT registration of the taxable person with effect from the last day of the tax period during which the taxable person has met the conditions for deregistration or from another date determined by the FTA.

A taxable person may not apply for VAT deregistration within 12 months of the date of VAT registration (where registered voluntarily).

Where a taxable person requests to be deregistered from VAT due to the reduction of its taxable supplies to less than AED375,000, the FTA will, if in agreement with the taxable person, cancel the VAT registration. This is in effect from the date requested by the taxable person in the application, or the date on which the request is made if the taxable person did not indicate a preferred deregistration date. The FTA, in accordance with the specified controls and conditions in the UAE VAT regulations, may also issue a deregistration decision to a taxable person in instances where the integrity of the tax system is prejudiced. It should be noted that deregistration of the taxable person shall not result in the relinquishment of the FTA's right to claim any due tax or administrative penalties.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any changes to the business details already submitted to the FTA at the time of obtaining VAT registration should be reported to the FTA within 20 days from the change in circumstance.

For certain types of changes, such as change in business activities or customs registration information, the taxable person is only required to update the details on the FTA's portal. Further approvals are not required for these changes.

For updates regarding the applicant's details, contact details, banking details, etc., the taxable person is required to initiate an amendment application on the FTA's portal. The changes will appear on the FTA's online portal with the taxable persons updated details and on the VAT registration certificate (where applicable) only after the FTA has approved the amendments. The FTA may ask for more information while reviewing the amendment application.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- A direct or indirect export of goods to outside of the UAE (with certain evidence and timings)
  - A movement of goods into a Designated Zone from a place in the UAE or a supply of goods to a Designated Zone shall not be considered an export of those goods
- Export of services, where the following conditions are met:
  - The services are supplied to a recipient of services who does not have a place of residence in the UAE and who is outside the UAE at the time the services are performed
  - The services are not supplied directly in connection with real estate situated in the UAE or any improvement to the real estate or directly in connection with moveable personal assets situated in the UAE at the time the services are performed
  - The services are actually performed outside the UAE or are the arranging of services that are actually performed outside the UAE
  - The supply consists of the facilitation of outbound tour packages, for that part of the service

For the export of services outlined above, a recipient shall be considered as being "outside the UAE" if they only have a presence in the UAE of less than a month and the presence is not effectively connected with the supply. One of the exceptions of zero-rating the export of services is where the supply is made to a nonresident recipient and all the following conditions are met:
a) The performance of the services will be received in the UAE by another person, including but not limited to, an employee or a director of the nonresident recipient of services
b) The other person in the UAE will receive the services in the course of making supplies for which input tax is not recoverable in full

- Export of telecommunications services, in the following situations:
  - A supply of telecommunications services by a telecommunications supplier who has a place of residence in the UAE to:
    - A telecommunications supplier who has a place of residence outside the GCC
    - A person who is not a telecommunications supplier and who has a place of residence outside of the UAE for a telecommunications service that is initiated outside the GCC
- Intra-GCC and international transport of passengers and goods, which starts or ends in the UAE, including transport-related services
- The supply or import of sea, air and land transport services for the transportation of passengers and goods (including related goods and services designed for the operation, repair, maintenance or conversation of these means of transport, and supply or import of rescue planes and ships for the provision of sea and air help in addition to fishing vessels)
- The supply or import of investment precious metals (gold, silver, platinum that is a metal of purity of 99% or more and the metal is in a form tradeable in global bullion markets) as being for investment purposes
- The first supply of residential buildings of the following cases:
  - Within three years of its completion, either through sale or lease in whole or in part
  - Specifically designed to be used by charities through sale or lease
  - Buildings converted from nonresidential to residential through sale or lease
- The supply or import of crude oil and natural gas
- The supply of educational services and related goods and services, for nurseries, preschool, school education and higher education institutions owned or funded by federal or local government and providing the curriculum and the educational institution are recognized by the competent federal or local government entity
- The supply or import of preventive and basic health care services and related goods and services, made by a health care body or institution, doctor, nurse, technician, dentist or pharmacy, licensed by the Ministry of Health or by any other competent authority – this includes the supply of medications and medical equipment registered with the Ministry of Health and Prevention or imported with permission or approval

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services, as outlined below, that are not conducted in return for an explicit fee, discount, commission and rebate or similar. Also, any Islamic financial products, being financial products under contract that are certified as Islamic Shariah compliant, which simulate the intention and achieve effectively the same result as a non-Shariah compliant financial product, will be treated in a similar manner as the equivalent non-Shariah financial product for the purpose of applying exemption from VAT
  - Issue, allotment, or transfer or ownership of an equity security or debt security
  - Provision or transfer of ownership of a life insurance contract or the provision of reinsurance in respect of any such contract
  - Exchange of currency, whether effected by the exchange of bank notes or coin, by crediting or debiting accounts or otherwise
  - The issue, payment, collection or transfer of ownership of a cheque or letter of credit
- The issue, allotment, drawing, acceptance, endorsement or transfer of ownership of a debt security
  - The provision of any loan, advance or credit
  - The renewal or variation of a debt security, equity security or credit contract
  - The provision, taking, variation or release of a guarantee, indemnity, security or bond in respect of the performance of obligation under a check, credit, equity security, debt security
  - The operation of any current, deposit or savings account
  - The provision or transfer of ownership of financial instruments such as derivatives, options, swaps, credit default swaps and futures
  - The payment or collection of any amount of interest, principal, dividend or other amount whatever in respect of any debt security, equity security, credit and contract of life insurance
  - Agreeing to do or arrange any of the activities outlined above, other than advising thereon
- Supply of residential buildings, unless it is zero-rated, where the lease is more than six months, or the tenant of the property is a holder of an ID card issued by the Federal Authority for Identity and Citizenship
- Supply of bare land, meaning land that is not covered by completed or partially completed buildings or civil engineering works
- Supply of local passenger transport services in a qualifying means of transport by land, water or air from a place in the UAE to another place in the UAE

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in the UAE.

E. Time of supply

The time at which VAT becomes due is called the "date of supply" (referred to as "time of supply" or "tax point" in this section). The time of supply is the earliest of any of the following dates:

- The date on which the goods were transferred (if such transfer was under the supervision of the supplier)
- The date on which the recipient of the goods took possession of the goods (if the transfer was not under the supervision of the supplier)
- Where the goods are supplied with assembly and installation, the date on which the assembly or installation of the goods was completed
- Where the goods are supplied on a returnable basis, the date on which the recipient of the goods accepted the supply or a date no later than 12 months after the date on which the goods were transferred or placed under the recipient of goods disposal
- The date when the performance of services has taken place
- The date of receipt of payment or the date on which the tax invoice was issued

Deposits and prepayments. The receipt of a deposit or prepayment would create a tax point where this forms part of the total payment of a particular supply if it precedes the issuance of a tax invoice.

Continuous supplies of services. The date of supply of goods or services for contract that includes periodic payments or consecutive invoices shall be the earliest of any of the following dates:
- The date of issuance of any VAT invoice
- The date payment is due as shown on the VAT invoice
- The date of receipt of payment
- The date of expiration of one year from the date the goods or services were provided

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in the UAE for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Reverse-charge services. Generally, reverse-charge VAT is also applicable to the purchase of goods or services from a place outside the UAE. Where these types of purchases are made, which would be taxable if supplied in the UAE, the taxable person shall be treated as making a supply to itself. Therefore, the taxable person is responsible for all applicable VAT obligations and accounting for the tax due in respect of these supplies.

The above mechanism applies where the following conditions are satisfied:
- The taxable person is UAE VAT registered at the time of import
- The taxable person keeps sufficient and appropriate records concerning the supply received
- In the case of goods, the taxable person has given the FTA its customs registration number
- The taxable person has cooperated and complied with the FTA in respect of the import

In terms of the time of supply, the taxable person who has received the goods and/or services must declare and pay the due tax in the VAT return that relates to the tax period at the date of supply for which the purchase took place. Where any relevant VAT amount is expressed in a currency other than AED, the amount must be converted to AED using the daily rate prescribed by the UAE central bank at the date of supply. Supplies within the same legal entity, e.g., branch to branch or head office to branch are, however, disregarded.

Leased assets. At the time of preparing this chapter, there are no special time of supply rules in the UAE for the supply of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules applies (as outlined above). It is expected that both operational and finance asset leases are treated as continuous supplies of services (see below subsection), provided that legal title to the goods does not pass to the recipient and there is no express contemplation that the title will transfer at some point in the future. Goods supplied on terms that expressly contemplate that the title will transfer at some point in the future (e.g., under hire-purchase or conditional sale agreements) are treated in the same way as a normal sale of goods where title passes at the outset. Unless periodic VAT invoices are issued and the payments do not exceed one year from the provision of such goods/services, the time of supply should be linked to the basic tax point (see above). This means that the full amount of VAT may become payable up front, instead of being due as and when installment payments are made. It is also expected that leases made under Islamic finance arrangements should follow the same VAT treatment as their conventional finance equivalents.

Imported goods. For the supply of imported goods, the time of supply rule is the date when the goods are imported into the UAE, under the customs legislation.

Other supplies. Deemed supplies. The tax point of a deemed supply of goods or services shall be the date of their supply, disposal, change or usage or the date of deregistration, whichever is applicable.

Vouchers. The tax point of a supply of a voucher shall be the date of issuance or supply thereafter.

Vending machines. The tax point of supply, in cases where payment is made through vending machines, shall be the date on which the funds are collected from the machine.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. Recovery is by way of deducting input tax against output tax, which is the VAT charged on supplies made by the business.

Input tax includes VAT accounted on imports of goods and self-assessed through the reverse-charge mechanism, and the importer must receive and retain invoices and other import documents as supporting documents to substantiate the recovery of VAT.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in the UAE is the first tax return period or a later tax period as outlined below. The key test for recovering input tax is that it must be recovered in the first tax period in which two conditions are satisfied:
- The tax invoice is received
- An intention to make the payment of consideration of the supply before the expiration of six months after the agreed date of payment is formed

Upon receipt of a tax invoice, a taxable person can recover input tax only when an intention to make the payment within a prescribed period is formed. Therefore, if the intention to make the payment is formed in a tax period that is later than the tax period in which the tax invoice is received, the input tax can be recovered only in the later tax period.

Where the timeframe above is not met, then a taxable person must submit a voluntary disclosure to recover any outstanding input tax (see the Correcting errors in previous returns subsection below, under Section I. Returns and payment).

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered in respect of certain expenses specifically listed as nondeductible.

The following lists provide examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- VAT incurred for making exempt supplies
- Provision of entertainment services to anyone not employed by a taxable person, including customers, potential customers, officials, or shareholders or other owners or investors
- Where goods or services were purchased to be used by employees for no charge to them and for their personal benefit, including the provision of entertainment services, except in certain specific cases
- Where a motor vehicle was purchased, rented or leased for use in the business and is available for personal use by any person
- Business gifts supplied for no consideration, unless the total value of these gifts is less than AED500 per recipient within a 12-month period
- Health insurance for dependents, except in respect of non-national Abu Dhabi employees
- Staff party expenses

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Motor vehicles not available for private use where this can be sufficiently evidenced
- Where an employee requires hotel accommodation/subsistence for an overnight stay on a domestic business trip
- Food and drink in the normal course of a business meeting (e.g., simple refreshments)

- Short-term accommodation provided to a new employee joining the business (i.e., less than one month)
- Phones, airtime and data packages for use by employees solely for business purposes where this can be sufficiently evidenced

Partial exemption. Input tax related to goods and services used to provide supplies that are subject to VAT and other supplies that are exempt, may be deducted in accordance with the proportion of costs related to the supplies subject to the VAT.

The standard partial exemption method consists of the following two-stage calculation:
- Attribution of input tax exclusively used in making either taxable or exempt supplies
- Apportionment of non-attributable input tax using the standard input-based calculation, which will calculate the percentage of recoverable input tax. This percentage is based on respective values of VAT incurred wholly to make taxable supplies and VAT incurred to make wholly exempt and outside-the-scope supplies

The percentage calculated shall be rounded to the nearest whole number.

The percentage calculated shall be multiplied by the amount of total non-attributable input tax incurred to establish the recoverable portion of that input tax.

The calculations referred to above shall be undertaken in respect of each tax period where input tax incurred relates to making exempt supplies or to activities that are not in the course of business.

At the end of each tax year the taxable person shall undertake the calculation outlined above, but in respect of the entire tax year just ended (not on a tax period but by tax period basis as above) and include the result in the first tax period of its subsequent tax year ("annual wash-up adjustment"). The amount calculated for the tax year shall be compared to the input tax amount actually recovered in all the tax periods making up the tax year, and an adjustment to the recoverable tax shall be made in the tax period. The FTA prescribes a number of different methods to ascertain the actual use via the annual wash-up adjustment, depending on the nature of industry/business of the taxable person. There may be a difference between the recoverable tax amount calculated and the amount of a calculation that reflects the actual use of the goods and services to which the input tax relates. If that difference exceeds AED250,000, the taxable person shall, in the tax period for the tax year, make an adjustment to the input tax.

If the calculation outlined above would give a result that the taxable person considers would not reflect the actual extent to which the input tax relates to making taxable supplies, it may apply to the FTA to authorize the use of an alternative basis of calculation based on the list of accepted mechanisms issued by the FTA.

Special methods are allowed in the UAE where the standard method is not appropriate for the business. The taxable person should apply for approval from the tax authority to use a special method to calculate its input tax apportionment to the extent the standard method is not appropriate for the business

Capital goods. Capital assets are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. If capital assets are supplied or imported by a taxable person, they shall assess the period of use of the assets and make the necessary adjustments to the input tax paid, in line with the capital assets scheme.

For purposes of the capital asset scheme, a capital asset is a single item of expenditure of the business amounting to AED5 million or more, excluding VAT, on which VAT is payable and which has an estimated useful life equal to or longer than 10 years in case of a building or a part thereof and 5 years for all capital assets other than buildings or parts thereof.

Items of stock, which are for resale, shall not be treated as capital assets.

Expenditure consisting of smaller sums that collectively amount to AED5 million or more shall be treated as a single item of expenditure of AED5 million or more, where the sums are staged payments for any of the following:
- For the purchase of a building
- For the construction of a building
- In relation to an extension, refurbishment, renewal, fitting out or other work undertaken to a building, except that where there is a distinct break between any such works being undertaken, they shall be taken to be separate items of expenditure
- For the purchase, construction, assembly or installation of any goods or immovable property where components are supplied separately for assembly

A taxable person shall keep the records related to capital assets for at least 10 years.

A capital asset eligible for the capital asset scheme shall be monitored and the input tax incurred shall be adjusted, over a period of 5 or 10 years (as outlined above), commencing on the day on which the owner first uses the capital assets for the purposes of its business.

Refunds. The amount of VAT reclaimed must be supported by a valid VAT invoice and (if necessary) the customs documents that prove the taxable person is the importer of the goods in accordance with the GCC Common Customs Law. The recoverable input tax may be deducted through the VAT return relating to the first tax period in which the taxable person receives and keeps the tax invoice. As a condition for input tax recovery, the taxable person must also pay the consideration for the supply or for any part thereof. The taxable person shall be treated as having made a payment of consideration for a supply to the extent that the taxable person intends to make the payment before the expiration of six months after the agreed date for the payment of the supply.

If the taxable person entitled to recover the input tax fails to do so during the tax period, it may include the recoverable VAT in the VAT return for the subsequent tax period.

A taxable person can recover input tax only when it has crystalized its intention to make payment within the next six months and where it has a valid tax invoice in its possession. Where a tax invoice has been received, the input tax cannot be recovered until the period in which the intention to pay has also been crystalized.

Where a taxable person's recoverable input tax exceeds the output tax payable in the same tax period, the taxable person may opt to apply for a refund or carry forward any excess recoverable VAT to the subsequent tax periods and offset such excess against VAT payable or any administrative penalties imposed, until such excess is fully utilized. If a refund is chosen, the request must be submitted through the prescribed form. As part of the application process, the taxable person must submit a letter to verify its banking details and agree to submit additional documentary proof to support the VAT refund application, if requested by the FTA.

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person may recover input tax incurred before its VAT registration on the VAT return submitted for the first tax period following the VAT registration. It can relate to input tax paid of the supply of goods and services made to them (and the import of goods by them) prior to the date of the VAT registration. This is on the basis that these goods and services were used to make supplies that give the right to input tax recovery upon VAT registration.

Input tax may not be recovered in any of the following instances:
- The receipt of goods and services for purposes other than making taxable supplies (for example, supplies made prior to the taxable person's VAT registration effective date)
- Input tax related to the part of the capital assets that depreciated before the date of the VAT registration

- If the services were received more than five years prior to the date of VAT registration
- Where a taxable person has moved the goods to another GCC Member State prior to the VAT registration in the UAE

Bad debts. A taxable person may reduce the output tax in a current tax period to adjust the output tax paid for any previous tax period, if all the following conditions are met:
- Goods and services have been supplied and the VAT due has been charged and paid
- Consideration for the supply has been written off in full or part as a bad debt in the accounts of the supplier
- More than six months has passed from the date of the supply
- The supplier has notified the customer of the amount of consideration for the supply that has been written off

The customer shall reduce the recoverable input tax for the current tax period related to a supply received during any previous tax period where the consideration has not been paid and all the following conditions are met:
- The supplier reduced the output tax by way of an adjustment for bad debts and the customer has received a notification from the supplier of the consideration being written off
- The customer received the goods and services, and the relevant input tax was deducted
- The consideration was not paid in full or in part for the supply for over six months

The reduction shall be equal to the VAT related to the consideration that has been written off. Any adjustment on account of VAT related to bad debt relief should be made in the "adjustment column" of the VAT return.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in the UAE.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in the UAE is recoverable.

The FTA may refund VAT paid for any supply received by or import carried out by any of the following:
- A citizen of the UAE in respect of the goods and services related to the construction of a new residence that is not part of the person's business
- A nonresident who is not a resident of a GCC Member State and conducts a business and is not a taxable person
- A nonresident, for goods supplied to them in the UAE that will be exported
- Foreign governments, international organizations, diplomatic bodies and missions according to treaties that the UAE is a party to
- Any persons or classes listed in a cabinet decision issued at the suggestion of the minister

Designated persons. The FTA may allow certain persons to apply for a refund of VAT paid by them on supplies of goods or services received in the UAE. These persons include (officials of) foreign governments, international organizations, diplomatic bodies and missions. A claim may be submitted to the FTA requesting a repayment of the VAT incurred.

This mechanism is subject to the following conditions:
- The goods and services are for official use
- The jurisdiction in which the person is established excludes the same type of entities from the burden of any VAT in that jurisdiction, i.e., reciprocity
- The refund claim is consistent with the terms of any international treaty or other agreement concerning the liability to tax of such persons

- Officials of the person should not hold UAE nationality nor have a residence visa under the sponsorship of an entity other the person
- The person should not carry out any business in the UAE

Designated charities. The FTA may allow certain charities to apply for a refund of VAT paid by them on supplies of goods or services received in the UAE for the purposes of charitable activities, to the extent that the VAT paid does not relate to onward exempt supplies made or those expenses are not blocked from input tax recovery.

Refund of VAT to taxable persons in other GCC Member States. Persons who are registered for VAT in another GCC Member State may submit an application for refund of VAT incurred in the UAE in accordance with the mechanism agreed between the GCC Member States.

Refund of VAT to taxable persons nonresident in the UAE. The FTA has implemented a business VAT refund scheme for foreign businesses to allow the repayment of VAT on expenses incurred in the UAE by a foreign entity that has no place of establishment or fixed establishment in the UAE or in an implementing GCC Member State and is not taxable in the UAE. The foreign entity must be registered as an establishment with a competent tax authority in the jurisdiction in which it is established, and that foreign jurisdiction should have a reciprocal arrangement to provide refunds of VAT to eligible UAE businesses. The FTA has provided a list of jurisdictions that may be eligible for VAT refunds. In the event that a jurisdiction is not on the approved list or does not have a VAT system, the Ministry of Finance of that jurisdiction would have to contact the UAE Ministry of Finance for inclusion on the approved list.

A foreign entity is not entitled to make a claim under the VAT refunds for foreign businesses scheme in the following cases:

- If it makes supplies that have a place of supply in the UAE or implementing GCC State, unless the recipient of the goods or services is obliged to account for VAT on those supplies through the reverse-charge mechanism
- If the input tax relates to goods or services for which the VAT is not recoverable
- If the foreign entity is from a jurisdiction that does not in similar circumstances provide refunds of VAT to entities that belong to the UAE (per the above, the FTA has specified a list of jurisdictions it considers eligible)

The claim for any refund shall be made on an electronic form as will be provided for the purpose by the FTA. The period of the claim shall be 12 calendar months ("calendar year"). The minimum claim amount of VAT that may be submitted under the VAT refunds for foreign businesses scheme shall be AED2,000. This may comprise single or multiple purchases.

The FTA will only process refund applications for six months from the date the business can first make a claim, i.e., from 1 March of the year following the calendar year. Note: the condition that the period of claim shall be one calendar year does not apply in the case of residents in any GCC Member State that is not considered to be an implementing state.

Refund of VAT to tourists. The cabinet issued a decision in July 2018 that introduced the tax refunds for tourists' scheme. The decision specified the following:

- The goods are purchased from a retailer who is participating in the scheme
- The purchase of the goods from the retailer is conducted in accordance with requirements as determined in a decision issued by the chairman
- The export of goods is conducted in accordance with requirements as determined in a decision issued by the chairman
- The goods are not excluded from the scheme by the authority

The following conditions shall apply to the tax refunds for tourists' scheme:
- The goods that are subject to the tax refunds for tourists' scheme must be supplied to an overseas tourist who is in the UAE during the purchase of the goods from the supplier
- At the date of supply, the overseas tourist intends to depart from the UAE within 90 days from that date, accompanied by the goods
- The relevant goods are exported by the overseas tourist to a place outside the implementing states in the GCC, within three months from the date of supply, subject to such conditions and verifications as may be imposed by the FTA

The phrase "overseas tourist" means any natural person who is not resident in any of the implementing states in the GCC and who is not a crew member on a flight or aircraft leaving an implementing state. The FTA may publish a list of goods that shall not be subject to tax refunds for tourists' scheme. Hence residents of other GCC jurisdictions will be treated as "overseas tourists" until their jurisdiction of residence is recognized by the UAE as an implementing state. VAT shall not be refunded under the scheme in respect of any claim where the value of tax inclusive purchases is less than AED250 from the same supplier.

The authority may charge an administrative fee amounting to 15% of the amount of VAT to be refunded to the overseas tourist as well as a fixed fee of AED4.8 per refund claim. These fees are deducted from the refundable amount. The cash VAT refund is limited to a maximum of AED35,000 per overseas tourist per 24 hours.

The following goods are excluded from the tax refunds for tourists' scheme:
- Goods that are not accompanied by the overseas tourist at the time of leaving the UAE
- Goods that have been consumed, in full or in part, in the UAE or any other Implementing State.
- Motor vehicles, boats and aircrafts

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. The supplier of taxable goods and services must issue and deliver a tax invoice or a similar document either upon partial or full receipt of the goods and services and also for deemed supplies. This can be in the form of a printed copy or in an electronic format.

The supplier must issue a tax invoice within 14 days as of the date of supply, as per the tax point rules.

Where the VAT chargeable on a supply is calculated to a fraction of a fils, the taxable person is permitted to round the amount to the nearest fils on a mathematical rounding.

Where the supply is a wholly zero-rated supply and there are or will be sufficient records available to establish the particulars of a supply, a taxable person is not required to issue a VAT invoice for the supply.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and claimed on a supply and for deemed supplies. A credit note must be issued within 14 days from the date of occurrence of the event requiring issuance of the credit note.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in the UAE, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in the UAE. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in the UAE. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

A taxable person may issue a VAT invoice and VAT credit note by electronic means provided that:
- The taxable person must be capable of securely storing a copy of the electronic VAT invoice or VAT credit note in compliance with the recordkeeping requirements
- The authenticity of origin and integrity of content of the electronic VAT invoice or VAT credit note must be guaranteed

At the time of preparing this chapter, the UAE tax authorities are working on making electronic invoicing mandatory in the future. However, there is no official information available to confirm its applicability and possible threshold or type of supplier that will be covered for the purpose of electronic invoicing.

Simplified VAT invoices. A simplified VAT invoice may be issued in either of the following situations:
- Where the recipient of goods or services is not VAT registered
- Where the recipient of goods or services is VAT registered and the consideration for the supply does not exceed AED10,000

The FTA may at its discretion grant an exception to standard rules applicable to VAT invoices, VAT credit notes, length of tax period, VAT staggers and standard time period for export of goods from the UAE. The FTA considers requests for an exception on a case-by-case basis, depending on each applicant's individual circumstances.

Third party. Where an agent who is VAT registered makes a supply of goods and services for and on behalf of the principal of that agent, that agent may issue a VAT invoice in relation to that supply, as if that agent had made the supply, and provided that the principal shall not issue a VAT invoice. The same rules apply for an agent issuing a VAT credit note.

Summary invoices. A taxable person does not need to issue separate VAT invoices in respect of supplies where it makes more than one supply of goods or services to the same person and those supplies are included on a summary VAT invoice. The summary VAT invoice must be issued to the recipient of the goods or services, in the same calendar month as the date of supply of the goods and services supplied.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in the UAE. Where a recipient agreed to raise a VAT invoice on behalf of a VAT registered supplier, in respect of a supply of goods or services, that document shall be treated as if it had been issued by the supplier if the following conditions are met:
- The recipient of the goods or services is VAT registered
- The supplier and the recipient agree in writing that the supplier shall not issue a VAT invoice in respect of any supply between the parties
- The VAT invoice shall contain the full VAT invoicing requirements (as outlined above)
- The words "tax invoice raised by buyer" are clearly displayed on the VAT invoice

Under self-billing, any invoice issued by the supplier shall be deemed to not be a VAT invoice. The same rules above apply for issuing VAT credit notes.

Proof of exports and intra-GCC supplies. Where a taxable person makes a supply of goods from the UAE to a person who has a place of residence in an implementing GCC Member State, and the supply requires the goods to be physically moved to that other GCC Member State, the taxable person shall retain official and commercial evidence of export of those goods to that other GCC Member State.

Where a supply of the goods and goods or services is considered as supplied in another implementing state in the GCC, the taxable person must include the following additional particulars in the document issued:
- The VAT registration number of the recipient of the goods or services issued to them by the competent authority of the implementing state in which the supply is treated as taking place
- A statement identifying the supply between the UAE and the implementing state
- Any other information specified by the FTA

At the time of preparing this chapter, the respective tax authorities of the UAE, Bahrain, Oman and Saudi Arabia are not treating each other as implementing states and the tax treatment of supplies/acquisitions with counterparties in these jurisdictions should be assessed under the general VAT rules.

Foreign currency invoices. Tax invoices must be issued in the domestic currency, which is the UAE dirham (AED). If the supply is made in a currency other than AED, the amount stated on the tax invoice must be converted into AED according to the exchange rate approved by the UAE central bank at the date of the supply.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. In the UAE, a taxable person is not required to provide a full tax invoice for goods and services where the recipient is not registered. Simplified VAT invoice provisions exist, with the requirements as outlined above in the Simplified VAT invoices section.

Records. Records of all goods and services supplied by a taxable person or on its behalf, showing goods and services, suppliers and their agents, must be kept and retained in sufficient detail to enable the FTA to readily identify goods and services, suppliers and agents.

VAT return data, records and documents can be submitted to the FTA in English, except for where the FTA specifically states that it will accept the information submitted by the taxable person to be in Arabic. This decision is at the discretion of the FTA and it may request that some or all the information is translated into Arabic. The taxable person bears the responsibility of ensuring the translated document's accuracy and correctness.

In the UAE, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Records of all supplies and imports of goods and services
- All tax invoices and alternative documents related to receiving goods or services
- All tax credit notes and alternative documents received
- All tax invoices and alternative documents issued
- All tax credit notes and alternative documents issued
- Records of goods and services that have been disposed of or used for matters not related to business, showing taxes paid for the same
- Records of goods and services purchased and for which the input tax was not deducted
- Records of exported goods and services
- Records of adjustments or corrections made to accounts or tax invoices
- Records of any taxable supplies made or received in respect of the reverse-charge mechanism, including any declarations provided or received in respect of those taxable supplies
- A tax record that includes the following information:
  - VAT due on taxable supplies
  - VAT due on taxable supplies pursuant to the reverse-charge mechanism
  - VAT due after the error correction or adjustment
  - Recoverable VAT for supplies or imports
  - Recoverable VAT after the error correction or adjustment
- Accounting records and commercial books for UAE tax purposes, including:
  - Records of payments, receipts, purchases, sales, revenue and expenditure
  - Balance sheets and profit and loss accounts
  - Records of wages and salaries
  - Records of fixed assets and inventory

In the UAE, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. There is no legal requirement to keep the records of supplies within the country. Taxable persons are allowed to store records anywhere as long as these records are readily available for the FTA in the event of an audit. Further, a taxable person who makes taxable supplies of goods or services in the UAE must keep records of such transactions to prove the Emirate in which the fixed establishment related to the supply is located. If the taxable person who makes a taxable supply of goods or services does not have a fixed establishment in the UAE, the taxable person must keep records of the transaction to prove the Emirate in which the supply is received.

From 1 July 2023, taxable persons supplying goods and services through e-commerce that exceeds AED100 million over a calendar year are required to report taxable supplies in the emirate in which the supply is received for the following periods:
- For businesses making supplies amounting to more than AED100 million in sales during the year ending on 31 December 2022, the above rules shall apply for 18 months starting from the first tax period after 1 July 2023.
- For businesses making supplies amounting to more than AED100 million in sales for any year after 2022, these rules shall apply for two years starting from the first tax period of the year after they cross the AED100 million threshold.

For the purposes of the above reporting, the term "e-commerce" is defined as "the process of selling goods or services through electronic means, an electronic platform, a store in social media, or electronic applications in accordance with criteria and conditions determined by the Minister."

Record retention period. The taxable person must hold and maintain these records for a period of five years after the end of the tax period to which they relate, or the concerned document was created, in the case of nontaxable persons. This period is extended to 15 years for records relating to real estate.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in the UAE. VAT records may be archived electronically in any location, provided that the authenticity, integrity and legibility of the content of source documents (invoice data) is protected and any records can be produced in a readable form (within a reasonable period of time) upon request by the FTA.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. A VAT return must be received by the FTA no later than the 28th day following the end of the tax period concerned or by such other date as directed by the FTA.

A person whose registration has been canceled must provide a final VAT return for the last tax period for which it was registered.

The standard tax period is three calendar months (i.e., quarterly) ending on the date that the FTA determines.

The FTA may assign a taxable person a shorter or longer time period where it considers that a nonstandard tax period length is necessary or beneficial to:
- Reduce the risk of tax evasion
- Enable the FTA to improve the monitoring of compliance or collection of tax revenues
- Reduce the administrative burden on the FTA or the compliance burden on a taxable person

Where a taxable person is assigned the standard tax period, it may request that the tax period ends with the month as requested by them, and the FTA may accept such request at its discretion.

The four staggers of tax periods and tax years are as follows:
- 31 January, where the tax period ends 31 January and quarterly thereafter (stagger group 1)
- Last day of February, where the tax period ends last day of February and quarterly thereafter (stagger group 2)
- 31 March, where the tax period ends 31 March and quarterly thereafter (stagger group 3)
- Last day of the calendar year, where the tax period ends on 31 January and monthly thereafter (stagger group 4)

As part of the administrative exceptions, businesses in a constant refund position, as well as small and medium enterprises that do not receive official funding approved by any government entity and making taxable supplies equal to or less than AED9 million per 12-month period, may apply to change the length of the tax period to 6 months.

At the time of preparing this chapter, it is expected that the VAT return format may be updated in the future to include reporting for intra-GCC supplies once each of the GCC states recognize each other as GCC VAT implementing Member States.

Periodic payments. Payment of UAE VAT due by a taxable person in respect of a tax period must be made at the latest by the 28th day of the month following the end of that tax period. The person making the payment must provide details of the tax registration number of the taxable person and the tax period or tax periods to which the period relates.

Payment can be made by several means, including:
- Visa/Mastercard bank transfer: there may, however, be other associated fees levied by the bank
- Bank transfer: electronic fund payments can also be made to the tax authority using the taxable person's GIBAN, which is a unique IBAN number allocated to every taxable person

Where any relevant VAT amount is expressed in a currency other than AED, the amount must be converted to AED using the daily rate prescribed by the central bank on the date that the relevant VAT amount becomes due.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in the UAE for all taxable persons. VAT returns must be submitted online on the FTA's portal and pay any VAT due electronically.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in the UAE.

Special schemes. Profit margin scheme. A taxable person may calculate VAT on any supply of goods by reference to the profit margin scheme in the following situation:
- Where it has made a supply of the following types of goods, which have been subject to VAT before the supply takes place:
  - Secondhand goods, meaning tangible movable property that is suitable for further use as it is or after repair
  - Antiques, meaning goods that are over 50 years old
  - Collectors' items, meaning stamps, coins and currency and other pieces of scientific, historical or archaeological interest
- The goods (as outlined above) were purchased from either:
  - A person who is not VAT registered
  - A taxable person who calculated the VAT on the supply by reference to the profit margin

The profit margin is the difference between the purchase price of the goods and the selling price of the goods, and the profit margin shall be deemed to be inclusive of VAT.

A taxable person may not elect to calculate VAT on the profit margin in respect of the goods (as outlined above) if a VAT invoice or other document is issued for the supply, mentioning an amount of VAT chargeable on the supply.

Where a taxable person has charged VAT in respect of a supply under the profit margin scheme, the taxable person shall issue a VAT invoice that clearly states that the VAT was charged with reference to the profit margin, in addition to all other information required to be stated in a VAT invoice except the amount of VAT.

The taxable person must keep the following records in respect of supplies made under the profit margin scheme:
- A stock book or similar record showing the details of each good purchased and sold under the profit margin scheme
- Purchase invoices showing details of the goods purchased under the profit margin scheme. Where the goods are purchased from non-VAT registered persons, the taxable person must issue an invoice showing details of the goods itself, including at least the following information:
  - The name, address and VAT registration number of the taxable person

- The name and address of the person selling the good
- The date of the purchase
- Details of the goods purchased
- The consideration payable in respect of the goods
- Signature of the person selling the good or authorised signatory

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in the UAE.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in the UAE.

Correcting errors in previous returns. A taxable person in the UAE is required to make a voluntary disclosure to notify the FTA where an error or omission is made in its periodical VAT return, tax assessment or tax refund application. The regulations state voluntary disclosures should be made where:

- A filed VAT return or a tax assessment is incorrect, resulting in a calculated tax liability that is understated by more than AED10,000
- A filed VAT return or a tax assessment is incorrect, resulting in a calculated tax liability that is understated by up to AED10,000 and there is no VAT return through which the error can be corrected
- A filed VAT return resulting in an error or omission resulting in no difference in the amount of due tax
- A filed VAT refund application is incorrect, resulting in a calculation of a refund to the taxable person of more than the correct amount, unless the error was a result of an incorrect VAT return or tax assessment

A voluntary disclosure cannot be submitted upon expiry of five years from the end of the relevant tax period. Voluntary disclosures can be made by using the tax authority's online portal by the taxable person. The taxable person is also required to upload details and supporting documents by way of a letter, which may provide the background information and a detailed description of the errors intended to be rectified by the taxable person with the FTA. This letter should also indicate the reasons for the voluntary disclosure and the errors disclosed, as well as the impact on the relevant sections/boxes of the VAT return. The letter will assist the FTA in acknowledging a taxable person's request.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in the UAE.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Any taxable person who has not applied for VAT registration within the set time frame shall receive a penalty of AED10,000.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A taxable person who fails to submit a VAT return within the prescribed time frame, shall receive a fixed penalty of AED1,000 for the first instance and AED2,000 in case of repetition within 24 months. If a taxable person fails to pay the VAT due within the prescribed time frame, e.g., within 28 days from the end of the taxable person's tax period, the following late payment penalty is levied up to a maximum of 200%:

- 2% of the unpaid tax is immediately levied when the payment is not received by the FTA on the due date
- 4% monthly penalty is due after one month from the due date of payment, and on the same date monthly thereafter, on the unsettled VAT amount to date

For the purposes of the above penalty, the due date of payment in the case of the voluntary disclosure and tax assessment is as follows:

- 20 business days from the date of submission, in the case of a voluntary disclosure
- 20 business days from the date of receipt, in the case of a VAT assessment

The FTA may impose a VAT assessment on a taxable person irrespective of a VAT return filed by the taxable person. The FTA may make a new VAT assessment to amend a previous assessment made by it. The FTA must notify the taxable person of a VAT assessment within five business days.

The FTA may not issue or amend an assessment in respect of any tax period, after a period of five years after the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates.

In cases where any transaction is being carried out with the intention of breaching the provisions of the UAE VAT law and regulations, or in cases where a person is required to register but fails to do so, the FTA may issue or amend assessments up to a period of 15 years after the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates.

Penalties for errors. If a taxable person recognizes an error in an already submitted VAT return, it has 20 days to notify the FTA of the error by submitting a correction form. If the error results in a discrepancy of VAT due under AED10,000, the correction can be made by adjusting the net VAT on the business's next VAT return.

Any taxable person who carries out the following:
- Files an incorrect VAT return to the FTA
- Amends a VAT return after filing or files any document with the FTA due by them that results in an error and, hence, in an amount that is less than the VAT due, shall be liable for both a:
  - Fixed penalty: AED1,000 for the first time and AED2,000 for subsequent voluntary disclosures. Where the incorrect VAT return results in a tax difference that is less than the fixed penalty amount of AED1,000 or AED2,000, the FTA will impose a penalty equal to higher of the VAT difference and AED500.
  - Percentage-based penalty based on the amount unpaid due to the error and resulting tax benefit:
    - 5% on the difference, where the voluntary disclosure is submitted within one year from the due date of submission of the VAT return, the VAT assessment or the relevant refund application
    - 10% on the difference, where the voluntary disclosure is submitted within second year from the due date of submission of the VAT return, the VAT assessment or the relevant refund application
    - 20% on the difference, where the voluntary disclosure is submitted within the third year following the due date of submission of the VAT return, the VAT assessment or the relevant refund application
    - 30% on the difference, where the voluntary disclosure is submitted within the fourth year following the due date of submission of the VAT return, the VAT assessment or the relevant refund application
    - 40% on the difference, where the voluntary disclosure is submitted after the fourth year following the due date of submission of the VAT return, the VAT assessment or the relevant refund application

A taxable person must notify the FTA within 20 days of becoming aware of an error or incorrect amount, by submitting a voluntary disclosure. This notification must be given if the taxable person becomes aware of an error or an incorrect amount in a filed VAT return; or becomes aware of such facts which should have led him to be aware of such error or incorrect amount, which has resulted in the amount of VAT payable to the FTA being understated and that amount of net tax payable is more than AED10,000.

In cases where a taxable person becomes aware of an error or an incorrect amount in a filed VAT return that has resulted in the amount of VAT payable to the FTA being overstated, the taxable person may correct that error at any time, by submitting a voluntary disclosure.

Subject to the above, if the understatement of net VAT is less than AED10,000, the taxable person may correct that error by adjusting the net VAT in its next VAT return. If there is no VAT return through which the error can be corrected, the taxable person must instead make a voluntary disclosure.

No correction to any VAT return relating to an overstatement of VAT in respect of a tax period may be made after a period of five years has passed from the end of the calendar year in which the tax period takes place. In the case of an understated amount of VAT payable or an overstated amount of VAT refundable that is notified by the FTA pursuant to a tax assessment, two penalties may apply:

- Fixed penalty: AED1,000 for the first time and AED2,000 for subsequent voluntary disclosures
- Percentage based penalty based on the amount unpaid due to the error and resulting tax benefit:
  - 50% of the underpaid tax along with 4% of the underpaid tax per month from the due date of the VAT return

A taxable person who fails to issue a tax invoice or alternative document, as appropriate, shall be liable for a fine of AED2,500 for each detected case.

A fine of AED20,000 shall be imposed on any taxable person that:

- Fails to submit data, records and documents related to UAE VAT in Arabic to the tax authority when requested
- Prevents or obstructs the employees of the tax authority or anyone working for the tax authority from performing their duties

Where the taxable person has failed to comply with the conditions and procedures regarding the issuance of electronic tax invoices and electronic tax credit notes, they shall be liable for a separate fine of AED2,500 for each detected case.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of AED5,000 being charged for the first default and AED10,000 in case of repetition. For further details, see the subsection Changes to a VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Tax evasion shall be punishable by a prison sentence and/or a fine not exceeding three times the amount of VAT evaded. By way of example, the following would be classified as tax evasion for UAE VAT purposes:

- A taxable person who deliberately understates the actual value of its business or fails to consolidate its related businesses with the intent of remaining below the required registration threshold
- A person who charges and collects amounts from its clients claiming them to be tax without being registered
- A person who deliberately provides false information and data and incorrect documents to the authority
- A person who prevents or hinders the authority's employees from performing their duties
- A person who deliberately decreases the payable tax through tax evasion or conspiring to evade tax

The imposition of fines shall not prejudice the payment of any tax due, and the application of any other penalty stipulated by any other UAE law. In cases where any transaction is being carried out with the intention of breaching the provisions of the UAE VAT law and regulations, or in cases where a person is required to register but fails to do so, the FTA may issue or amend assessments up to a period of 15 years after the end of the tax period to which the assessment relates.

A prison sentence and a monetary penalty not exceeding AED1 million, or either of the two, shall be imposed on anyone who commits any of the following acts:
- Deliberately providing false information, data and incorrect documents to the FTA
- Deliberately concealing or destroying documents, information and data, or other material that is required to keep and provide to the FTA
- Stealing documents or other materials that are in the possession of the FTA or deliberately misusing or destroying them
- Deliberately preventing or hindering the FTA's employees from performing their duties

Other penalties. The FTA shall issue an administrative penalty assessment to the taxable person and notify the taxable person within five business days as of the date of issuance in any of the following cases:
- Failure by the taxable person to display prices inclusive of VAT (AED5,000)
- Failure by the taxable person to notify the authority of applying VAT based on the profit margin (AED2,500)
- Failure to comply with the conditions and procedures related to keeping goods in a Designated Zone or moving them to another Designated Zone (penalty is the higher of AED50,000 or 50% of the tax chargeable in respect of the goods as a result of the violation)
- Failure by the taxable person to issue a tax invoice or an alternative document when making any supply (AED2,500 for each detected case)
- Failure by the taxable person to issue a tax credit note or an alternative document (AED2,500 for each detected case)
- Failure by the taxable person to comply with the conditions and procedures regarding the issuance of electronic tax invoices and electronic tax credit notes (AED2,500 for each detected case)
- Failure by the taxable person conducting business to keep required records (AED10,000 for first offense, AED20,000 in case of repetition)
- Failure by the taxable person submit records in Arabic when requested by the FTA (AED20,000)

If it is proved that a person who is not VAT registered acquires goods (crude or refined oil, unprocessed or processed natural gas, or pure hydrocarbons, or gold or diamonds), claiming that they are VAT registered for the purposes of the reverse charge, it shall be considered as having committed tax evasion and shall be subject to penalties.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers cannot be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in the UAE.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in the UAE is five years. This is the standard period except in the following cases:
- Where a notice for audit/assessment is issued by the FTA and the audit/assessment is completed within four years from the date of notice
  Or
- The taxable person has submitted a voluntary disclosure in the fifth year from the end of the relevant tax period and the FTA concludes the audit/assessment within one year from the date of lodgment of such voluntary disclosure.

The FTA may not conduct a tax assessment after the expiration of five years from the end of the relevant tax period, except in cases of proven tax evasion or non-registration of a taxable person for VAT purposes. If tax evasion is proven, the FTA has 15 years from the end of the tax period in which the tax evasion occurred to conduct a tax assessment. If a taxable person fails to register for tax purposes, FTA may conduct a tax assessment within 15 years of the date the taxable person should have registered.

United Kingdom

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

London — GMT

EY
1 More London Place
London SE1 2AF
England

Indirect tax contacts

Andrew Bailey	+44 (20) 7951-8565 abailey1@uk.ey.com
David Bearman	+44 (20) 7951-2249 dbearman@uk.ey.com
David Latief	+44 (20) 7951-5712 david.latief@uk.ey.com
Kevin MacAuley	+44 (20) 7951-5728 kmacauley@uk.ey.com
Jamie Ratcliffe	+44 (121) 535-2255 jratcliffe@uk.ey.com
Ali Anderson	+44 (20) 7951-5248 aanderson@uk.ey.com
Rosie Higgins	+44 (20) 7980-9194 rhiggins@uk.ey.com
Liam Larke	+44 (20) 7980 9303 liam.larke@uk.ey.com
Ben Woodfield	+44 (20) 7197 1123 ben.woodfield@uk.ey.com

Aberdeen — GMT

EY
Blenheim House
Fountainhall Road
Aberdeen AB15 4DT
Scotland

Indirect tax contact

Niall Blacklaw	+44 (1224) 653-293 nblacklaw@uk.ey.com

Belfast — GMT

EY
Bedford House
16 Bedford Street
Belfast BT2 7DT
Northern Ireland

Indirect tax contact

Mark Pickard	+44 7880-780736 mpickard1@uk.ey.com

Birmingham GMT

EY
1 Colmore Square
Birmingham B4 6HQ
England

Indirect tax contact
Carolyn Norfolk
+44 (12) 2339-4646
carolyn.norfolk@uk.ey.com

Cambridge GMT

EY
1 Cambridge Business Park
Cowley Road
Cambridge CB4 0WZ
England

Indirect tax contact
Carolyn Norfolk
+44 (12) 2339-4646
carolyn.norfolk@uk.ey.com

Edinburgh GMT

EY
Atria One
144 Morrison Street
Edinburgh EH3 8EX
Scotland

Indirect tax contact
Stewart Mathieson
+44 (191) 247-2761
smathieson@uk.ey.com

Glasgow GMT

EY
G1 Building
5 George Square
Glasgow G2 1DY
Scotland

Indirect tax contact
Stewart Mathieson
+44 (191) 247-2761
smathieson@uk.ey.com

Leeds GMT

EY
1 Bridgewater Place
Water Lane
Leeds LS11 5QR
England

Indirect tax contact
Andy Jones
+44 (113) 298-2344
andy.jones@uk.ey.com

Manchester GMT

EY
2 St Peter's Square
Manchester M2 3DF
England

Indirect tax contact
Mark Pickard
+44 7880-780736
mpickard1@uk.ey.com

Newcastle GMT

EY
City Gate
St James' Boulevard
Newcastle upon Tyne NE1 4JD
England

Indirect tax contact
Stewart Mathieson
+44 (191) 247-2761
smathieson@uk.ey.com

Reading GMT

EY
R+ Building
2 Blagrave Street
Reading RG1 1AZ
England

Indirect tax contact
Sarah Johnson
+44 (1189) 281-363
sjohnson3@uk.ey.com
Warren McQuillan
+44 7392-879917
warren.mcquillan@uk.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 April 1973
Trading bloc membership	The UK left the European Union on 31 January 2020. The transition period came to an end on 31 December 2020 at 11:00 p.m. UK time. The UK-EU Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA) governs the UK and EU's economic and trading relationship now that the Brexit transition period has come to an end. The UK is free to adapt its own VAT rules going forward with the exception of Northern Ireland (NI), which will operate a "dual" or "mixed" VAT regime and for the time being, follows EU VAT rules for goods and UK VAT rules for services.
Administered by	HM Revenue & Customs (https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/hm-revenue-customs)

VAT rates
Standard	20%
Reduced	5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	GB 999 9999 99
	XI 999 9999 99 (for businesses trading under the Northern Ireland Protocol)
VAT return periods
Quarterly	General rule
Monthly	If requested by a business that receives regular repayments
Annual	If requested by a small business (annual turnover less than GBP1.35 million excluding VAT)
Thresholds
Registration
Established	GBP85,000
Non-established	None
Deregistration	GBP83,000
Distance selling	Pan EU threshold of EUR10,000, including Northern Ireland (NI) (not applicable in Great Britain (GB)
Intra-Community acquisitions	GBP85,000 NI only (not applicable in GB)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in the United Kingdom (UK) by a taxable person
- The intra-Community acquisition of goods from another EU Member State by a taxable person (see the chapter on the EU). (This concept no longer applies in GB but continues to apply in NI).
- Reverse-charge services received by a taxable person in the UK
- The importation of goods from outside the EU, regardless of the status of the importer

Brexit – United Kingdom. For VAT purposes, the UK consists of Great Britain (GB) (England, Scotland and Wales) and Northern Ireland (NI). It does not include the Channel Islands or Gibraltar.

The UK left the European Union (EU) on 31 January 2020. However, the transition period came to an end on 31 December 2020 at 11:00 p.m. UK time. Thereafter, the UK-EU Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA) governs the UK and EU's economic and trading relationship. The United Kingdom (UK) is free to adapt its own VAT rules going forward with the exception of Northern Ireland (NI), which will operate a "dual" or "mixed" VAT regime, and for the time being follows EU VAT rules for goods under the Northern Ireland Protocol (as amended by the Windsor Agreement in 2023) and UK VAT rules for services.

Brexit – Great Britain. Movement of goods. From 31 December 2020 at 11:00 p.m. UK time, GB is a third country in relation to the remaining EU 27 Member States and therefore no longer has the concepts of EU acquisitions or dispatches for goods. Goods leaving and entering GB will be treated as imports and exports. Customs and excise duties and import VAT may apply.

Imports. To continue moving goods from EU countries into GB from 31 December 2020 at 11:00 p.m. UK time, GB businesses needed to complete a number of actions, including deciding how to make customs declarations, checking whether imported goods are eligible for staged import controls and obtaining relevant Economic Operator Registration Identification (EORI) numbers.

An EORI number is used by tax authorities to identify a business for customs purposes. Businesses may need more than one EORI number depending on where they are moving goods. An EU EORI number is required to: import and export goods into and out of the EU 27; a GB EORI number (separate from its EU EORI number) is required to import into or export from GB; and in some scenarios, an EORI number starting with XI may be required to move goods into NI from GB, move goods from NI to another non-EU country, make a declaration in NI or apply for a customs decision in NI. However, businesses do not need an EORI number that starts with XI if an EU EORI number is already held, goods are only moved on the island of Ireland or between NI and an EU country or the business is "established" in an EU country but not in NI (in the latter case, an EU EORI number is required).

Postponed import VAT accounting. Postponed import VAT accounting (PVA), where import VAT is accounted for on the VAT return can be used by businesses if goods are imported into GB from anywhere outside the UK or into NI from outside the UK and EU. PVA can also be used for goods moved between GB and NI that are declared into a customs special procedure when they are removed from that special procedure.

Tax representatives. If a business is not established in the UK, a third party established in the UK must deal with any customs formalities on behalf of the business. Non-established taxable persons can have their nominated intermediary account for import VAT on the intermediary's VAT return.

In addition, a non-established taxable person can nominate an intermediary who will be able to account for the import VAT on its VAT return. Businesses do not need to be authorized to use postponed import VAT accounting.

In GB, appointing a fiscal representative for UK established entities is not a legal requirement; however, HMRC may request the use of one in special cases. Appointing a VAT fiscal representative for customs purposes may be necessary for non-UK established businesses to act as the importer of record in the UK.

Exports. To export goods to EU countries, GB businesses must have a GB EORI number.

Services. From a services perspective, the UK is now a non-EU country and the application of use and enjoyment rules, which vary by Member State, will apply differently (see the Effective use and enjoyment section for further details). In addition to use and enjoyment changes, certain supplies of services to nonbusiness customers outside the UK have seen a shift in the place of supply to where the customer belongs. The services affected by the latter are: transfer and assignment of copyrights or patents, etc., (business-to-consumer [B2C] only); advertising services (B2C only); consultants, lawyers, accountants, engineers, etc., (B2C only); banking, financial and insurance (B2C only); the provision of access to, or transmission or distribution through, a natural gas system; an electricity system or a network through which heat or cooling is supplied (B2C only); supply of staff (B2C only); letting on hire of goods other than means of transport (B2C only) and emissions allowances.

VAT registration. Certain VAT registrations are no longer available post-Brexit, including UK Mini One-Stop Shop registrations for GB businesses and UK distance selling registrations for GB businesses. Distance selling still operates in NI after 1 July 2021, when new rules were introduced, albeit with a change in threshold.

Input tax recovery. Businesses are (subject to the normal rules) able to reclaim input tax attributable to the export of certain financial services products to the EU (as is the case for those exports to non-EU countries).

Case law. Post-Brexit, UK lower courts (First-tier Tribunal, Upper Tribunal and High Court) remain bound by European case law. However, the Court of Appeal of England and Wales, and equivalent courts and upward across the UK, have the power to depart from retained EU case law. The test for doing so is that which is currently applied by the Supreme Court as to whether to depart from one if its own judgments, namely whether it is right to do so. In practice, this power has been exercised very sparingly by the Supreme Court to date. The Retained EU Law (Revocation and Reform) Act has now received Royal Assent. The Act abolishes the principle of supremacy and other general principles of EU law in the UK after 2023. At the time of preparing this chapter, the Autumn Finance Bill (which should be enacted as Finance Act 2024) contains legislation to clarify how VAT and excise legislation should be interpreted in the light of changes made by the Retained EU Law (Revocation and Reform) Act 2023. The Act may be amended before being enacted and, in any event, the way that this legislation will be applied by the courts and therefore its impact on the status of retained EU law remains unknown.

Brexit – Northern Ireland. Goods sold between GB and NI. In most cases, VAT will continue to be accounted for as it was prior to Brexit on goods sold between GB and NI. This means that the seller of the goods will continue to charge its customers VAT and should show this on its invoices. The VAT charged will be accounted for as output VAT on the supplier's VAT return in the same box as it is now. This VAT is import VAT even though it is charged by the supplier. Where the customer receives an invoice from the seller showing that VAT has been charged, it may use this as evidence to reclaim the VAT as input tax, subject to the normal rules.

Where the movement of goods falls within one of these exceptions, the customer or importer will account for the VAT:
- Declared into a special customs procedure when they enter NI or GB
- Currently subject to domestic reverse-charge rules
- Subject to an onward supply procedure
- Sold by an overseas seller through an online marketplace

Businesses moving their own goods from GB to NI. The business will need to account for VAT on the movement. This should be included as output tax on the UK VAT return. The VAT may be reclaimed as input tax on the UK VAT return, subject to the normal rules. Where a business uses goods for exempt activities, or where the goods are put to a taxable use and exempt use, it may be required to make an adjustment to its partial exemption calculations, to ensure the appropriate recovery of VAT. However, if a UK business has suffered a restriction on input VAT recovery on movement of the goods into GB, then a relief may apply (by enabling VAT recovery on the import into GB) to ensure a double restriction does not apply.

Businesses moving their own goods from NI to GB. A business will not be required to account for VAT when it moves its goods from NI to GB, unless these goods have been subject to a sale or supply to its customer.

VAT on goods sold from GB, transported via NI, to an EU Member State. For goods transported via NI to an EU Member State, the VAT treatment will depend on the specific circumstances or arrangements agreed between the seller and customer. Broadly, it will depend upon where the goods are situated at the point at which the transfer of rights to the goods takes place. If the goods are located in GB at the time of sale to an EU customer and transported by the seller via NI to that EU customer, the seller will zero-rate the sale of goods as an export to the EU. The seller will, however, also be required to account for VAT on the import of those goods into NI. The UK seller is required to include the amount of import VAT in the price charged to the EU customer so that the customer pays it. This amount should be included as output tax on the seller's return. The EU customer can recover this "import VAT" using the EU refund scheme if it is not registered in the UK (or on its UK return if VAT registered).

Goods sold between GB to NI and within NI by members of a UK VAT group. UK VAT groups continue to operate largely as they did pre-Brexit. VAT groups will continue to be able to include members that are established in NI as well as members that are established in GB. However, there are a number of changes to the way in which a VAT group will operate when the group moves goods from GB to NI or where goods in NI are sold between members.

Supplies of goods between VAT group members are usually disregarded. However, where goods are supplied by members of a VAT group and they move from GB to NI, VAT will need to be accounted for on that movement in the same way as a movement of own goods.

If supplies are made between members of a VAT group and the goods are in NI at the time of supply, the transaction is only disregarded if both members are established or have a fixed establishment in NI. If one or both have establishments in GB, the supply cannot be disregarded, and VAT must be accounted for by the representative member of the VAT group. VAT charged may be recoverable subject to the normal rules.

Goods sold onboard ferries between GB and NI. These will continue to be taxed domestically. UK VAT will be due and this will be accounted for on the seller's UK VAT return.

Where goods are sold on journeys that visit GB and NI as part of a voyage to third countries, the supply will be treated as taking place outside the UK and so are outside the scope of UK VAT.

Where goods are sold on journeys between NI and an EU Member State, these will be taxed in the place of departure, as now. UK VAT would therefore be due where the journey departs from NI.

Services. There are no special VAT rules for services between NI, GB and the EU. See the Services subsection above under the Brexit – Great Britain section.

VAT registration. NI is, and remains, part of the UK's VAT system. Businesses trading under the Northern Ireland Protocol will need to put an "XI" prefix in front of the UK VAT number when communicating with an EU customer or supplier (invoices will show an XI number ahead of the VAT number – for example, XI 123456789 – instead of GB); and complete an EC Sales List when selling goods from NI to VAT-registered customers in the EU (a notification to HMRC is required before the XI prefix is used.) Businesses are considered to be trading under the Northern Ireland Protocol where:

- Goods are located in NI at the time of sale
- Goods are received in NI from VAT-registered EU businesses for business purposes
- Goods are sold or moved from NI to an EU Member State

Intra-EU simplifications. Simplifications, such as triangulation, will not be available for movements of goods involving GB.

Such simplifications will be available for movements of goods involving EU Member States and NI or where the intermediary is identified as moving goods in, from or to NI in the course of its business.

Margin Scheme. In line with EU rules, margin schemes involving goods, such as the secondhand margin schemes, will not usually apply for sales in NI where the stock is purchased in GB (however, see below for an exception for cars). The VAT on these sales will be subject to the normal rules and must be accounted for on the full value of the supply.

Margin schemes remain available for sales of goods that are purchased in NI or the EU, whether sold to customers in NI, GB or the EU. Margin schemes also remain available for sellers in GB selling stock originally purchased in NI or GB, selling to those in GB.

The secondhand motor vehicle payment scheme has replaced the VAT margin scheme for secondhand vehicles that are bought in GB (England, Scotland and Wales), moved to NI and then resold. A dealer who sells motor vehicles in NI that were bought in GB, NI or the EU can benefit from the VAT secondhand margin scheme subject to the rules of the scheme. It is also available for sales from NI to GB and NI to EU.

Quick Fixes. Pending introduction of a "definitive" system for the VAT treatment of intra-Community supplies of goods to taxable persons, the EU adopted Quick Fixes for intra-Community trade in goods. For an overview of the Quick Fix rules, see the chapter on the EU. For documentary requirements, see Section H. Invoicing, subsection Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies.

From 1 January 2020, four Quick Fixes aiming to simplify and harmonize EU VAT rules in relation to intra-Community supplies of goods were introduced across the EU. The Quick Fixes were implemented in the UK.

NI has retained the EU Quick Fixes, although for GB, they applied only from 1 January 2020 to 31 December 2020 11:00 p.m. UK time.

The four Quick Fixes are as follows:
- Uniform call-off stock simplification rules
- Uniform rules for the VAT treatment of chain transactions in terms of which party zero rates the supply
- Uniform evidence requirements for zero rating intra-EU supplies of goods
- Mandatory VAT registration number requirements to support the zero rating of intra-EU supplies of goods

From a call-off stock perspective, the UK, for the purposes of NI, defines a "small loss" (whereby deemed acquisitions may be ignored) as 5% or less of the quantity of "relevant goods" delivered into the UK warehouse in any (rolling) 12-month period. The loss can relate to goods that are destroyed, lost or stolen within that same 12 months. Only the goods destroyed, lost or stolen in excess of the 5% measure must be accounted for as a deemed acquisition into the UK.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons.

In the UK, the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions:
- The letting on hire of goods (including means of transport)
- Electronically supplied services (business-to-business (B2B) only)
- Telecommunications services (B2B only)
- Repairs to goods under an insurance claim (B2B only)
- Radio and television broadcasting services

Effective use and enjoyment rules apply to the aforementioned services when they are either supplied by a UK supplier but consumed outside the UK or supplied by a non-UK supplier but consumed in the UK.

Other services affected by Brexit may include certain supplies of services to nonbusiness customers outside the UK, which will see a shift in the place of supply to where the customer belongs. This is due to the effect of the term "which is not a Member State (other than the Isle of Man)" being substituted by the term "other than the United Kingdom or the Isle of Man" in Schedule 4A, Paragraph 16 (1)(b) VATA 1994. The services affected are as follows:
- Transfer and assignment of copyrights or patents, etc., (business-to-consumer [B2C] only)

- Advertising services (B2C only)
- Consultants, lawyers, accountants, engineers, etc., (B2C only)
- Banking, financial and insurance (B2C only)
- The provision of access to or transmission or distribution through a natural gas system
- An electricity system or a network through which heat or cooling is supplied (B2C only)
- Supply of staff (B2C only) and letting on hire of goods other than means of transport (B2C only)

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) is the sale of a business, including assets that must be treated as "neither a supply of goods nor a supply of services" by virtue of meeting certain conditions. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is mandatorily outside the scope of UK VAT.

For there to be a TOGC for VAT purposes in the UK, all of the following conditions must apply:
- The assets, such as stock-in-trade, machinery, goodwill, premises and fixtures and fittings, must be sold as part of the TOGC
- The buyer must intend to use the assets in carrying on the same kind of business as the seller
- Where the seller is a taxable person, the buyer must be a taxable person already or become one as the result of the transfer
- In respect of land or buildings that would be standard rated if they were supplied, the buyer must notify HMRC that they have opted to tax the land by the relevant date, and must notify the seller that their option has not been disapplied by the same date
- Where only part of the business is sold it must be capable of operating separately
- There must not be a series of immediately consecutive transfers of the business

Transactions between related parties. In the UK, for a transaction between related parties, the value for VAT purposes is calculated at the open market value. Special valuation rules apply for the following:
(a) The value of a supply made by a taxable person for a consideration in money is (apart from this paragraph) less than its open market value
(b) The person making the supply and the person to whom it is made are connected
(c) If the supply is a taxable supply, the person to whom the supply is made is not entitled to credit for all the VAT on the supply

HMRC may direct that the value of the supply shall be taken to be its open market value. A direction shall be given by notice in writing to the person making the supply, but no direction may be given more than three years after the time of supply.

C. Who is liable

A "taxable person" is any entity or person that is required to be registered for VAT. The term includes any entity or individual that makes taxable supplies of goods or services, intra-Community acquisitions (relevant only in NI) or distance sales in the UK in the course of a business in excess of the relevant turnover thresholds.

The VAT registration threshold is GBP85,000. This VAT registration threshold only applies to businesses established in the UK. A nil registration threshold applies to businesses not established in the UK. As a result, any non-established business that makes a taxable supply (not covered by an existing VAT simplification) in the UK is required to register for VAT, regardless of the value of the supply. Non-established businesses involved only in distance sales of goods to NI private consumers who are not taxable persons are subject to the EU distance selling threshold.

Exemption from registration. A taxable person whose turnover is wholly or primarily zero-rated (see Section D) may request exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A business may register for VAT voluntarily if its taxable turnover is below the VAT registration threshold. A business may also register for VAT voluntarily in advance of making taxable supplies. In this case, the business needs to demonstrate to the UK VAT authorities it has the firm intention to make taxable supplies.

Businesses with a taxable turnover of GBP150,000 or less (excluding VAT) may apply to HMRC to use the VAT Flat Rate scheme. Refer to the Special schemes section for further details.

Businesses with annual taxable turnover (excluding VAT) of less than GBP1.35 million may apply to complete an annual VAT return rather than quarterly returns. Refer to the Special schemes section for further details.

Group registration. VAT grouping is a facilitation measure by which two or more eligible persons can be treated as a single taxable person for VAT purposes. Eligible persons are bodies corporate, individuals, partnerships and Scottish partnerships. Bodies corporate includes companies of all types.

Corporate bodies and certain noncorporate entities that are under "common control" and are established or have a fixed establishment in the UK may apply to register as a VAT group.

The control condition is met where all members of the group are controlled either by one member of the group, which can be a body corporate, an individual, a partnership or a Scottish partnership, or a single other "person" who is not one of the members of the group. Where control is exercised by a person that is a partnership, control must be exercised through the partnership and not by the partners as individuals. The company shares will normally be assets of the partnership.

VAT group members share a single VAT number and submit a single VAT return. No VAT is charged on supplies made between group members.

All members of a VAT group in the UK are jointly and severally liable for VAT debts and penalties.

There is no minimum time period for the duration of a VAT group.

Holding companies. A pure holding company can be included in a VAT group to the extent that it meets the eligibility criteria. VAT recovery on costs will depend on whether any taxable supplies are made and either the direct link that exists between those costs and taxable supplies or the link from those costs to the business activities of the VAT group as a whole.

Cost-sharing exemption. The VAT cost-sharing exemption (in accordance with VAT Directive 2006/112/EEC Article 132(1)(f) has been implemented in the UK. This provides an option to exempt support services that the cost-sharing group supplies to its members, providing certain conditions are met (in accordance with specific requirements laid out in UK VAT law).

The cost-sharing exemption can be used when two or more organizations with exempt and/or nonbusiness activities join together to purchase services on a cooperative basis, and in doing so form a separate entity, a cost-sharing group (CSG), to supply themselves with qualifying services at cost.

There are two fundamental requirements that must be met to qualify for exemption:

- The CSG must consist only of operators carrying out an activity that is exempt from, or not subject to, VAT. The only businesses or organizations that can use the exemption are those that engage in exempt activities that fall within public interest exemptions, including postal services, education, health and welfare, subscriptions to trade unions, professional and other qualifying bodies, sports, sports competitions and physical education, fund raising by charities and cultural services

- The group must not exist for the purposes of gain and must only charge its members for expenses incurred by it to meet their requirements

Fixed establishment. A fixed establishment is an establishment other than the business establishment (a business establishment is usually a head office, headquarters or seat from which the business is run on a day-to-day basis and central administration takes place), which has the human and technical resources necessary for providing or receiving services. A business may have several fixed establishments, which may include a branch or agency. Where there are establishments in more than one country, it will be necessary to determine which one is most directly linked to a supply.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment in the UK. A non-established business must register for VAT if it makes any of the following taxable supplies in the UK, regardless of the value of the supply:

- Goods located in the UK at the time of supply
- Services to which the reverse charge (see the subsection Reverse charge below) does not apply
- Supplies of telecommunications, broadcasting and electronic services (digital services) to non-taxable customers in the UK (see subsection Digital economy below)

EU businesses not established in the UK must also register for VAT if they make distance sales in NI greater than the distance selling annual threshold. From 1 July 2021, the distance selling rules changed across the EU with a new pan European threshold applied on an EU basis, which is relevant for NI businesses. From 1 January 2021, the distance selling rules no longer apply in GB.

A non-established business that registers for VAT may normally do so from its place of business outside the UK.

From November 2023, all businesses will need to register for VAT online unless they are either exempt from applying online or it is a specific type of registration. Guidance from HMRC on this has been issued online (https://www.gov.uk/register-for-vat/how-register-for-vat).

Tax representatives. A non-established business may choose to appoint a tax representative or agent to act on its behalf in relation to UK VAT matters.

The UK VAT authorities may require that a non-established person appoint a tax representative. However, this condition may be imposed only if the business is established in a country outside the EU that has not agreed on mutual assistance provisions with the UK.

Reverse charge. If a non-established business supplies services to a UK taxable person but does not register for VAT, the taxable person may be required to account for the VAT due under reverse-charge accounting. This means that the taxable person charges itself VAT. The self-assessed VAT may be deducted as input tax (that is, VAT on allowable purchases) depending on the taxable person's partial exemption status (see Section F). This measure does not apply in all circumstances. For example, it applies only if the place of supply of the services is in the UK.

Domestic reverse charge. Telecommunication services. Purchasers of wholesale supplies of telecommunication services are required to account for VAT under a domestic reverse-charge accounting procedure rather than paying VAT to the supplier. The domestic reverse charge does not apply to supplies made to a member of a corporate group for onward supply within that corporate group, and where the corporate group members consume that supply. When making a supply to which the domestic reverse charge applies, the supplier must show all the information normally required to be shown on a VAT invoice. The supplier must also annotate the invoice to make it clear that the domestic reverse charge applies, and the customer is required to account for the VAT. No additional notification or reporting requirements apply to these transactions.

Domestic supplies of mobile phones and computer chips. Purchasers of certain designated goods (broadly, mobile phones and computer chips) must account for the VAT due under a domestic reverse-charge accounting procedure, rather than paying the VAT to the supplier. The domestic reverse charge applies for supplies greater than GBP5,000 (exclusive of VAT). When making a domestic sale to which reverse-charge accounting applies, the supplier must show all the information normally required to be shown on a VAT invoice. The supplier must also annotate the invoice to make it clear that the reverse charge applies, and that the customer is required to account for the VAT.

Domestic supplies of emissions allowances. Purchasers of specified emissions allowances must account for VAT under a domestic reverse-charge accounting procedure, rather than paying VAT to the supplier. When making a domestic sale of emissions allowances to which reverse-charge accounting applies, the supplier must show all the information normally required to be shown on a VAT invoice. The supplier must also annotate the invoice to make it clear that the reverse charge applies, and that the customer is required to account for the VAT.

Domestic wholesale supplies of gas and electricity. Purchasers of wholesale supplies of gas and electricity are required to account for VAT under a domestic reverse-charge accounting procedure, rather than paying VAT to the supplier. The domestic reverse charge does not apply to supplies of gas and electricity made under supply license or metered arrangements to residential and business premises (supplies for consumption). VAT-registered businesses that do not resell or trade the gas or electricity are not affected. When making a supply to which domestic reverse-charge accounting applies, the supplier must show all the information normally required to be shown on a VAT invoice. The supplier must also annotate the invoice to make it clear that the domestic reverse charge applies, and that the customer is required to account for the VAT.

Domestic B2B supplies of construction services. The domestic reverse charge applies to standard (20%) or reduced rate (5%) supplies of building and construction services, where payments are required to be reported through the Construction Industry Scheme (CIS). Therefore, supplies between subcontractors and contractors (i.e., B2B supply), as defined by the CIS, will be subject to the reverse charge unless they are supplied to a contractor who is an end user.

Digital economy. E-commerce changes. The UK introduced changes to the VAT rules relating to e-commerce sales effective 1 January 2021. These changes are similar to the EU e-commerce VAT changes, which were implemented from 1 July 2021, For an overview of the EU e-commerce changes, see the chapter on the EU.

In GB, these changes came into effect from 1 January 2021. Although NI follows EU VAT rules for goods, it has released separate guidance relating to e-commerce. As a result, we have highlighted the differences in the NI treatment where applicable. The UK changes coincide with the removal of the low-value consignm ent relief in the UK.

Import of low-value goods for sales to customers in GB and NI. From 1 January 2021, the low-value consignment relief (LVCR), which relieved import VAT on consignments of goods valued at GBP15 or less, was removed for goods imported from outside the UK. Further, the EU VAT distance selling regime no longer applies to the sale of goods to customers in GB from 1 January 2021.

As a consequence of the above changes, VAT is chargeable on all imports into GB (including imports from the EU) and NI. However, different VAT rules apply to the import of goods in consignments valued at GBP135 or less and consignments valued at more than GBP135.

For non-excisable goods imported from outside GB and NI in consignments not exceeding GBP135 in value, the goods will no longer be subject to import VAT. Instead, VAT will be applied at the point of sale. These rules apply irrespective of the place of establishment of the supplier.

If the supplier making such imports is not registered for VAT in the UK, from 1 January 2021 they would be required to obtain UK VAT registration for such imports. If the supplier is making imports in NI, then they would also be eligible to use the Import One-Stop-Shop scheme to account for this VAT in NI.

Similar rules apply to both B2B and B2C transactions involving imports into GB and NI. However, if the customer provides the supplier with a UK VAT registration number, then the customer is required to self-assess VAT under the reverse-charge mechanism.

Import One-Stop Shop. The Import One-Stop Shop (IOSS) may be used by non-EU businesses making consignments of less than EUR150 to customers in the EU and NI. Local VAT registrations may still be appropriate for consignments over EUR150 to facilitate returns and to avoid the need for the customer to act as importer.

Online marketplaces and platforms. There is a distinction for sales of goods to customers in GB and NI and specific rules for joint and several liability of vendors and online marketplaces.

- Sales of goods to GB customers through online marketplaces. Starting from 1 January 2021, if an online marketplace (OMP) facilitates the B2C sales of goods by sellers, the OMP is treated as the deemed supplier of the goods for VAT purposes under the following two scenarios:
  - Goods imported from outside GB into GB in consignments not exceeding GBP135 in value for sales to customers
  - Goods located in GB at the point of sale and are owned by a supplier established outside the UK

In the above scenarios, the OMP is liable to account for VAT as a deemed supplier regardless of its place of establishment. In the above cases, if the customer is VAT registered and it has provided its UK VAT registration number to the OMP, then the OMP is not viewed as a deemed supplier.

The term OMP has been defined as "a website or any other means by which information is made available over the internet, which facilitates the sale of goods through the website or other means by persons other than the operator (whether or not the operator also sells goods through the marketplace)." The term "operator" is defined as "the person who controls access to, and the contents of, the online marketplace," provided that the person is involved in all the following:
- Determining any terms or conditions applicable to the sale of goods
- Processing or facilitating the processing of payment for the goods
- The ordering or delivery or facilitating the ordering or delivery of the goods

- Sales of goods to NI customers through online marketplaces. Where an OMP facilitates the B2C sales of goods by sellers, the OMP is treated as a deemed supplier for VAT purposes, but only in the following three scenarios:
  - Where goods are imported from outside of the UK and EU into NI in consignments not exceeding GBP135
  - Where goods located in GB are supplied to NI and are owned by an overseas seller (i.e., based outside of the UK)
    Or
  - Where goods located in NI are supplied to GB and they are owned by an overseas seller (i.e., based outside of the UK)

The only exception to the above rules is in circumstances where the customer is VAT registered, and it has provided its UK VAT registration number to the OMP. The OMP is not liable for UK VAT on the sale of goods that are in NI at the point of sale and that are sold domestically in NI.

The seller is required to register for UK VAT (if not already registered) and account for UK supply VAT on the sales of the goods (at the appropriate rate). In all the above scenarios, the OMP is liable to account for VAT as a deemed supplier regardless of its place of establishment.

- Joint and several liability. Where an overseas trader who operates through a fulfillment house/online marketplace is liable to be registered and account for UK VAT and they fail to do so, HMRC has powers in place to hold the online marketplace jointly and severally liable for any UK VAT due. In addition to the joint and several rules, if a business stores goods in the UK for sellers established outside the UK, the business may need to apply for the Fulfillment House Due Diligence scheme. However, if a business stores goods in NI for sellers established in the EU and GB only, the business will not be required to apply for the Fulfillment House Due Diligence scheme.

Vouchers. The EU Voucher Directive has been implemented into UK law and aims to make the rules for the tax treatment of vouchers consistent. These rules still apply under current UK law, even though the UK is no longer a Member State of the EU. The UK rules apply to vouchers issued on or after 1 January 2019 and refers only to a single-purpose voucher (SPV) and a multi-purpose voucher (MPV).

An SPV is one where the place of supply of the underlying goods or services is known (i.e., the country in which the supply will take place) and the relevant goods or services have a single liability to VAT (i.e., standard rate, zero rate, reduced rate or exempt) at the time the voucher is issued and transferred (such that the applicable VAT rate is known at the time the voucher is issued/transferred). Both the issue of a SPV, and its subsequent transfer represent a supply of the underlying goods or services, and any VAT payable is due at this time. The consideration is the amount charged for the issue and transfer of the voucher.

Any voucher that is not an SPV will be an MPV. With an MPV, at the time the voucher is issued or transferred, the VAT rate of the underlying goods or services is not known (e.g., the place of supply and/or rate of the goods is unknown) and thus the underlying goods or services are only taxed when the voucher is redeemed. The issue or transfer of the voucher is disregarded (i.e., not a supply for UK VAT purposes).

Registration procedures. From November 2023, all businesses will need to register for VAT online unless they are either exempt from applying online or it is a specific type of registration. Guidance from HMRC on this has been issued online (https://www.gov.uk/register-for-vat/how-register-for-vat). Those in the latter category will have to call the VAT helpline to request a VAT1 paper form. The electronic VAT1 form will also need to be used when submitting other registration applications such as VAT grouping.

When registering online, a VAT online account (sometimes known as a "Government Gateway account") must be created. Businesses should receive a VAT registration certificate within 30 working days, although it can take longer. Further details on how to register are available on the HMRC website (https://www.gov.uk/vat-registration).

Deregistration. A taxable person that ceases to be eligible for VAT registration must deregister. A taxable person may also request deregistration if its taxable turnover drops below the deregistration threshold (GBP83,000) or if its taxable turnover is wholly or primarily zero-rated (see Section D below). However, deregistration is not compulsory in these circumstances.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must keep its VAT registration details up to date. Details can be changed online (through a VAT online account), by post (using form VAT 484), by webchat or phone.

The form VAT2 must be sent to the VAT Registration Service to report any changes to a partnership.

HMRC must be notified about any changes to the following within 30 days or a financial penalty could be due:
- The name, trading name or main address of a business
- The accountant or agent who deals with VAT
- The members of a partnership, or the name or home address of any of the partners

HMRC must be told at least 14 days in advance if bank details are changing. HMRC must be told within 21 days if the VAT responsibilities have changed as a result of someone who has died or is ill. This can be done by sending form VAT484 in the post, including details of the date of death or the date the illness started.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 20%
- Reduced rate: 5%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Books, newspapers and periodicals (from 1 May 2020, this also applies to digital formats of these publications)
- Certain foodstuffs
- Children's clothing and footwear
- Drugs and medicines supplied by prescription
- New housing
- Transport services
- Exports of goods and related services
- Certain international services
- Intra-Community supplies of goods
- Services supplied to customers outside the EU
- Installation of certain energy-saving materials in residential accommodation in GB from 1 April 2022 to 31 March 2027 and in NI from 1 May 2023 to 31 March 2027
- Women's sanitary products (the scope is to be extended to include reusable period underwear from 1 January 2024)

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%

- Fuel and power supplied to domestic users and charities
- Installation of certain specified energy-saving materials in residential buildings in GB before 1 April 2022 and in NI before 1 April 2022 until 30 April 2023 (from 1 April 2027, the 5% rate will apply again in NI and GB)
  Building materials for certain residential conversions
- Sanitary protection products
- Children's car seats
- Smoking cessation products
- Grant-funded installation of heating appliances and qualifying security goods
- Certain larger holiday caravans
- Small, cable-based passenger transport systems

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Betting and gaming
- Education
- Finance
- Insurance
- Land and buildings (in most cases)
- Postal services (in most cases)
- Human blood products
- Medical services
- Shared service arrangements in circumstances in which two or more organizations (whether businesses or otherwise) with exempt and/or nonbusiness activities join together on a cooperative basis to form a separate, independent entity (a cost-sharing group), to supply themselves with certain services at cost (the VAT cost-sharing exemption applies only in very specific circumstances and does not cover all shared-service arrangements)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The UK operates an option to tax in respect of land and buildings. However, certain supplies of land and buildings are not affected by an option to tax (generally buildings intended for residential use or a qualifying charitable use).

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The "basic" tax point under UK law is the point when the goods are either removed from the supplier's premises or made available to the customer, or when the services are performed.

The basic tax point may be overridden by the creation of what is termed an "actual" tax point. An "actual" tax point occurs in the following circumstances:

- Before the basic tax point: if the supplier issues a VAT invoice or receives payment with respect to a supply, a tax point is created to the extent covered by the invoice or payment (whichever is earlier).
- After the basic tax point: if an invoice is issued within 14 days after the basic tax point, the date of the invoice becomes the tax point. Taxable persons may request permission to extend this 14-day invoicing tax point up to a maximum of 30 days after the basic tax point.

When the amount of VAT to be charged on a supply goes up or down, UK law allows businesses to choose to charge VAT using the basic tax point (i.e., for discrete supplies the date at which the goods are removed, or services performed) rather than the actual tax point (for discrete supplies the date payment has been received or a VAT invoice issued). If a tax invoice has been issued and a lower VAT rate is applied, a credit note must be issued within 45 days of the VAT rate change.

For continuous supplies, there is a tax point every time a VAT invoice is issued, or a payment is received, whichever happens first, so opportunities for using the basic tax point when there is a VAT rate changes may be more limited.

Deposits and prepayments. The receipt of a deposit or prepayment normally creates an actual tax point if the amount is paid in the expectation that it will form part of the total payment for a particular supply. A tax point is created only to the extent of the payment received.

The unfulfilled supplies prepayment rules mean that all prepayments for goods and services are brought into the scope of VAT where customers have failed to collect what they have paid for and have not received a refund.

Continuous supplies of services. If services are supplied continuously and payment is made periodically, a tax point is created each time a payment is made or a VAT invoice is issued, whichever occurs earlier.

Goods sent on approval or for sale or return. The tax point for goods sent on approval or sale or return is the earlier of the date on which the goods are accepted by the customer or 12 months after the removal of the goods from the supplier. However, if a VAT invoice is issued before these dates, the invoice creates an actual tax point, up to the amount invoiced.

Reverse-charge services. The tax point for reverse-charge services is governed primarily by when the service is performed, and a distinction is made between single and continuous supplies. For single supplies, the tax point is the earlier of the date of completion of the service or the date of payment for the service. For continuous supplies, the tax point is the end of each billing or payment period (or the date of payment, if earlier). For continuous supplies that are not subject to billing or payment periods, the tax point is 31 December each year unless a payment has been made before that date, in which case the payment creates a tax point.

Leased assets. Under current UK VAT law, operational and finance asset leases are treated as continuous supplies of services (see above), provided that legal title to the goods does not pass to the recipient and there is no express contemplation that title will transfer at some point in the future. Goods supplied on terms that expressly contemplate that title will transfer at some point in the future (e.g., under hire-purchase or conditional sale agreements) are treated in the same way as a normal sale of goods where title passes at the outset. Unless a VAT invoice is issued, the time of supply will be linked to the basic tax point (see above). This means that the full amount of VAT will become payable up front, instead of being due as and when installment payments are made.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime. Postponed import VAT accounting may be used for GB and NI imports by UK VAT-registered businesses.

Intra-Community acquisitions. The time of supply for an intra-Community acquisition of goods in NI (not applicable in GB) is the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are removed (that is, sent to, or taken away by, the customer). However, if the supplier issues an invoice before this date, the tax point is when the invoice is issued.

Intra-Community supplies of goods. For intra-Community supplies of goods in NI (not applicable in GB) the time of supply is the earlier of the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are removed or the date of issuance of a VAT invoice.

Distance sales. The time of supply for supplies of distance sales in NI (not applicable in GB) is the 15th day of the month following the month in which the goods are removed (that is, sent to, or taken away by, the customer). However, if the supplier issues an invoice before this date, the tax point is when the invoice is issued.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made. Where input tax exceeds output tax in any period, the taxable person will receive a refund.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in the UK, VAT paid on imports of goods into the UK and VAT self-assessed on the intra-Community acquisition of goods (NI) and reverse-charge services (see the chapter on the EU).

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax.

A monthly Postponed Import VAT Statement (MPIVS) available online will form the primary evidence for input tax recovery for imports when using the Customs Declaration Service (CDS).

The MPIVS will be published online via the taxable person's tax account and the UK VAT-registered importer will have access to the statement as soon as it is published. If the business used the Customs Handling of Import and Export Freight (CHIEF) service, a C79 certificate will be sent to the business in the post. The last day to make import declarations through CHIEF was 30 September 2022.

See the section above for goods sold between GB and NI (no import VAT certificate is required).

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in the UK is four years. The time limit for deducting input tax starts to run from the due date for the return that the business is liable to make after it has both incurred the input tax and received the VAT invoice. If the taxable person does not account for input tax in the appropriate period, this is an error, and the taxable person may be required to make an error correction notification. Input tax cannot be claimed more than four years after the date by which the return for the first period in which input tax could be claimed is required to be made (arguably this restriction does not apply unless the taxable person holds the invoice or the document that may be considered to serve as an invoice).

Special rules apply to the recovery of input tax on expenditure incurred before registration and after deregistration.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may be recovered only on purchases of goods and services that are used for business purposes (this excludes, for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). However, input tax may not be recovered on some items of business expenditure.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is related to a taxable business use.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase of a car (unless the car is available exclusively for business use)
- 50% of VAT incurred on the rental or lease of a car used for mixed business and private purposes
- Private expenditure
- Business entertainment and hospitality (except if provided to overseas customers)
- Import VAT where the taxable person is not the owner of the relevant goods

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Conferences, exhibitions, training and seminars
- Taxi services
- Restaurant expenses for employees
- Accommodation
- Motoring expenses and fuel for business purposes (subject to specific rules)
- Business use of a home telephone

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to making exempt supplies is generally not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover its input tax in full. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption."

A UK taxable person that makes both taxable and exempt supplies may calculate the amount of input tax it may recover in several ways. The standard partial exemption calculation method consists of the following two-stage calculation:

- The first stage identifies the input tax that may be directly allocated to taxable and to exempt supplies. Input tax directly allocated to taxable supplies is deductible, while input tax directly related to exempt supplies is not deductible. Supplies that are exempt with credit are treated as taxable supplies for these purposes.

- The second stage identifies the amount of the remaining input tax (for example, input tax on general business overhead) that may be allocated to taxable supplies and recovered. The amount of recoverable VAT is determined by making a pro rata calculation based on the respective values of taxable and exempt supplies made.

If the standard calculation method gives an unfair or distortive result, a special calculation method may be agreed with the UK VAT authorities. Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in the UK. A business must use the standard method, unless HMRC has given approval to operate a special method. However, in some cases, the UK VAT authorities may impose the use of a special calculation method.

Capital goods. Capital goods are items of capital expenditure that are used in a business over several years. Input tax is deducted in the VAT year in which the goods are acquired. The amount of input tax deductible depends on the taxable person's partial exemption recovery position in the VAT year of acquisition. However, the amount of input tax recovered for capital goods must then be adjusted over time if the taxable person's partial exemption recovery percentage changes during the adjustment period.

In the UK, the capital goods adjustment scheme applies to the following assets for the number of years indicated:

- Land and buildings and related property expenditure valued at GBP250,000 or more: adjusted over a period of 10 years
- Computer hardware valued at GBP50,000 or more: adjusted over a period of five years
- Ships and aircraft valued at GBP50,000 or more: adjusted over a period of five years

The adjustment is applied each year following the year of acquisition to a fraction of the total input tax incurred (1/10 for land and buildings and 1/5 for computer hardware, ships and aircraft). The adjustment may result in either an increase or a decrease of deductible input tax, depending on whether the ratio of taxable supplies to total supplies made by the business has increased or decreased compared with the year in which the capital goods were originally acquired.

In the UK, the capital goods adjustment does not apply to any services.

Refunds. If the amount of VAT recoverable exceeds the amount of VAT payable in a period, a refund may be claimed. This is done automatically by submitting the periodic VAT return. A taxable person that receives regular repayments of VAT may request permission to submit monthly returns to improve cash flow.

Pre-registration costs. Where a business buys goods or services before registering for VAT to support its taxable business activities, it can recover the VAT provided that certain conditions are met. In the case of goods, they must remain on hand at the date of registration and must be used in the newly registered business. These goods must also have been bought no more than four years before the date of registering for VAT. Different rules apply to capital goods within the capital goods adjustment scheme (see the subsection on Capital goods above). In the case of services, they must have been bought no more than six months before the date of registration.

Bad debts. Where a business has made supplies to its customers and has not been paid, it can claim relief for the VAT on bad debts provided a number of conditions are met. The main conditions for claiming VAT bad debt relief are that the business must already have accounted for the VAT on the supplies and paid it to the UK VAT authorities, the business must have written off the debt in its VAT accounts, and the debt must have remained unpaid for a period of six months after the date of the supply and the date payment was due, whichever is later.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in the UK.

VAT incurred on purchases that are used partly for business purposes and partly for nonbusiness purposes must normally be apportioned between economic and noneconomic use before dealing with any partial exemption calculation.

Government bodies, local authorities and similar organizations can recover VAT incurred on certain costs relating to their nonbusiness activities under s41 and s33 of the VAT Act 1994.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in the UK is recoverable. The UK VAT authorities refund VAT incurred by businesses that are neither established nor registered (or required to be registered) for VAT in the UK. Non-established businesses may reclaim UK VAT to the same extent as VAT-registered businesses.

EU businesses. Businesses established in NI that incur VAT on goods in the EU, and EU businesses that incur VAT on goods in NI, will be able to recover this VAT through the electronic cross-border refund system. This enables a business to recover that VAT directly from that country (the UK or EU Member State of refund), provided that it is not established in the country of refund and makes no supplies there. For VAT incurred on services in NI, the rules for non-EU businesses making claims must be followed (see below). For EU established businesses incurring UK VAT in GB, the rules for non-EU businesses making claims must be followed (see the Non-EU businesses subsection below).

GB businesses that have incurred VAT in the EU can claim refunds of VAT from the EU but need to refer to the local EU Member State, as each EU Member State has its own process for refunding VAT to non-EU businesses. For full details, see the chapter on the EU.

Non-EU businesses. Businesses established outside the EU, need to follow these rules in the UK for VAT refunds, which are similar to the rules under the 13th Directive.

The UK does not generally exclude businesses from any country from eligibility.

Find below specific rules for the UK:
- Refunds are based on a "prescribed year" running from 1 July to 30 June. Applications for a VAT refund based on the EU 13th Directive must be submitted within six months after the end of the prescribed year in which the VAT was incurred (that is, before 1 January).
- Claims must be submitted in English.
- The minimum claim period is three months, while the maximum claim period is one prescribed year. The minimum claim for a period of less than a year is GBP130. Where a claim covers the full 12 months of the prescribed year, the minimum VAT claim is GBP16.
- When submitting a claim, businesses must apply for a certificate of status showing that it is registered for business purposes in its own country and send this to HMRC before the relevant claim deadline.

Applications for refunds of UK VAT must be sent to the following address:

HM Revenue and Customs
Compliance Centers
VAT Overseas Repayment UnitS1250
Benton Park View
Newcastle Upon Tyne
NE98 1YX
United Kingdom

Late payment interest. For refunds of UK VAT for EU businesses incurred on or before 31 December 2020 or NI VAT incurred on goods by EU businesses, HMRC will communicate the date the application was received. Within four months of that date, the business will be told if the application is accepted; is partly or completely rejected; or needs more information. If more information is needed, this must be supplied within one month of the date on which the request is received. HMRC has eight months in which to tell a business of its decision about an EU cross-border refund claim (provided the supplier sends all the necessary information within that time). Unless an application has been rejected, payment should be made within 10 working days of HMRC's decision. If payment is late, interest will be paid at the same rate applied to taxable persons within the UK from the date payment was due until the date it is made.

For refunds of VAT for non-EU businesses, the refund should be made within six months of receiving a satisfactory application. If the application is in order, the invoices showing that VAT has been paid will be returned as soon as the application is authorized for payment. Late payment interest may be due if payment is late.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A UK taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made to other taxable persons, including exports and intra-Community supplies (see the chapter on the EU). Invoices are not automatically required for retail transactions, unless requested by the customer.

A VAT invoice is required to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the amount of VAT charged on a supply. The credit note must reflect a genuine mistake, an overcharge or an agreed reduction in the value of the original supply.

Where a change in consideration is agreed by a supplier and customer (e.g., faulty goods) after the original date of supply and VAT has been accounted for in an earlier period, a VAT adjustment can only be made where a credit/debit note is issued within 14 days and, in the case of a reduction in consideration, a "payment" has been made. Where a VAT invoice is not required to be issued in the first place (e.g., retail customer), a debit/credit note will not be required. The credit note should also refer to the number and date of the original VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in the UK, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in the UK. This is in line with EU Directive 2010/45/EU and 2014/55/EU (see the chapter on the EU). There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in the UK. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

For the EU VAT in the Digital Age (ViDA) proposals, refer to the chapter on the European Union.

Simplified VAT invoices. There is no requirement to issue a VAT invoice for retail supplies to unregistered businesses. Retailers may assume that no VAT invoice is required unless a customer asks for one in which case, if the charge made for the individual supply is:

- GBP250 or less (including VAT), an invoice can be issued showing the retailer's name, address and VAT registration number, the time of supply (tax point), a description that identifies the goods or services supplied, and for each VAT rate applicable; the total amount payable, including VAT shown in GBP and the VAT rate charged. Exempt supplies must not be included on this type of VAT invoice
- More than GBP250, then either a full VAT invoice or a modified VAT invoice must be issued, showing VAT inclusive rather than VAT exclusive values

If the taxable person is not a retailer, and the total value of the supply does not exceed GBP250, the supplier may issue the customer with a simplified invoice. If the charge made for the individual supply is:

- GBP250 or less (including VAT), an invoice showing the supplier's name, address and VAT registration number, the time of supply (tax point), a description that identifies the goods or services supplied, and for each VAT rate applicable, the total amount payable, including VAT shown in GBP and the VAT rate charged. Exempt supplies must not be included on this type of VAT invoice
- More than GBP250, then either a full VAT invoice or a modified VAT invoice must be issued, showing VAT inclusive rather than VAT exclusive values

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in the UK. Self-billed invoices may only be issued by a customer to a supplier if:

- The supplier has agreed to this method of accounting
- A self-billing agreement has been set up
- Certain rules have been followed including:
  - The raising of self-billed invoices for all transactions with the supplier named on the document for the period of the agreement/contract
  - The completion of self-billed documents showing the supplier's name, address and VAT registration number, together with all the other details that make up a full VAT invoice and should also be clearly marked with "Self-Billing." HMRC following statement on each self-billed invoice raised: "The VAT shown is your output tax due to HMRC"
  - The customer keeps the names, addresses and VAT registration numbers of the suppliers with whom a self-billing agreement is held

HMRC authorization is not required to operate self-billing as long as all the relevant conditions are met.

Proof of exports and intra-Community supplies. After the end of the post-Brexit transitional period, the UK is no longer required to harmonize its VAT legislation with the EU VAT system. However, for NI a dual/mixed VAT regime exists that follows EU VAT rules for goods and UK VAT rules for services as a result of the Northern Ireland Protocol. See the above subsection, Northern Ireland, for further details.

- From a GB perspective, all movements out of GB to any country other than NI will be treated as exports and follow export rules rather than intra-Community rules
- Movements out of NI to EU countries will continue to be treated as intra-Community supplies.
- Movements out of NI to non-EU countries will continue to follow export rules
- Supplies between GB and NI should be considered imports and exports from a VAT perspective. For goods sold between GB and NI, the seller of the goods will charge customers VAT and should show this on the invoice. The seller will not be able to claim this back as input tax. Where the customer receives an invoice from the seller showing that VAT has been charged, it may use this as evidence to reclaim the VAT as input tax, subject to the normal rules
- Where own goods are moved from GB to NI, import VAT should be self-accounted for through the UK VAT return
- Where own goods are moved from NI to GB there are no reporting requirements, unless these goods have been subject to a sale or supply

UK VAT is generally not chargeable on intra-Community supplies of goods, except distance sales (see chapter on EU). Distance sales no longer apply in GB from 1 January 2021. An EU-wide distance selling threshold applies in NI (and across the EU) from 1 July 2021. From 1 January 2020, the VAT Quick Fixes came into effect across the EU and aim to harmonize certain requirements. NI retains the EU VAT Quick Fixes.

The Quick Fixes introduce two material conditions that the supplier must comply with to zero-rate the supply:
- The supplier must obtain the customer's VAT number and include it on their invoices
- The supplier must include the supply of goods in its EC Sales List

The Quick Fixes also introduced rules on harmonizing the proof required for the intra-EU transport of goods.

A business can either rely on the EU Quick Fixes proof of dispatch requirements or follow national rules on the proof of dispatch requirements if they prefer.

No special documentation applies in NI for evidencing the application of the Quick Fixes. Normal intra-Community documentation rules apply.

For intra-Community supplies, the UK proof of dispatch rules require a range of commercial documentation, such as customer orders, sales invoices, transport documentation and packing lists. The evidence must clearly identify the supplier, the customer, the goods, the mode of transport and route of movement of the goods, and the destination. The evidence must be obtained within three months after the time of supply and be retained for at least six years. The proof of dispatch conditions under the Quick Fixes requires the seller to hold two documents evidencing dispatch, this is enough to prove that the goods have been transported. The evidence must not be contradictory, and the tax authorities may still disapply the zero-rating if they find evidence to the contrary.

The evidence should be issued by two different parties that are independent of each other, as well as independent of the seller and the customer.

If the buyer arranges the transport, they will also need to provide the supplier with a written statement giving details of the transport and Member State of arrival. The buyer must provide this written statement to the supplier by the 10th day of the month following the supply.

For further information on the Quick Fixes, see the Quick Fixes subsection above.

Foreign currency invoices. If a VAT invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the domestic currency, which is British pound sterling (GBP), equivalent of the VAT amount must also be stated on the invoice. Suppliers may use any of the following acceptable exchange rates:
- The UK market selling rate at the time of the supply (rates published in UK national newspapers are acceptable as evidence of the rates in force at the relevant time)
- The UK VAT authorities' published period rates of exchange
- Any other acceptable rate that is used for commercial purposes (and not covered by the two alternatives above), subject to agreement in writing with the UK VAT authorities

Supplies to nontaxable persons. In the UK, a taxable person is not required to provide a VAT invoice for B2C (e.g., retail) supplies of goods and services. In practice, this will normally mean issuing a VAT invoice to any customers who ask for one.

Supplies of digital services to EU consumers are subject to VAT in the Member State where the customer belongs. Although the vast majority of EU Member States, and the UK, do not require VAT invoices to be issued for cross-border B2C supplies, UK taxable persons making B2C supplies of digital services to customers in other EU Member States should check invoicing requirements in the customer's Member State. For further details of the VAT rules on digital services in the EU, see the EU chapter.

Distance selling. For intra-Community distance sales made B2C, a full VAT invoice must be issued. However, if the supplier operates the OSS regime, then no full VAT invoice is required unless requested.

Records. In the UK, the records that must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Copies of all invoices issued
- All invoices received (originals or electronic copies)
- Self-billing agreements
- Name, address and VAT number of any self-billing suppliers
- Debit or credit notes
- Import and export records
- Records of items VAT cannot be claimed on – for example business entertainment
- Records of goods given away or taken from stock for private use
- Records of all the zero-rated, reduced or VAT exempt items bought or sold
- A VAT account

General business records, such as bank statements, cash books, cheque stubs, paying-in slips and till rolls must also be kept.

In the UK, VAT books and records can be kept outside of the country. HMRC practice is not to specify where the records must be kept, but they expect them to be accessible to them when required and follow Making Tax Digital (MTD) rules (see Digital tax administration subsection for further details).

Record retention period. VAT records must be kept for at least 6 years (or 10 years if you used the VAT Mini-One-Stop-Shop (MOSS) service pre-Brexit). All taxable persons (as per the MTD regime, see the subsection Electronic filing below) must keep VAT records digitally, as well as a number of other digital records, including business name, address and VAT registration number, any VAT accounting schemes used, the time of supply, the net value of the supply and VAT on everything bought and sold. All transactions must be added to the digital records, but paper records like invoices or receipts do not need to be scanned. Additional records must be kept if digital services are supplied in the EU and the VAT MOSS scheme was used.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in the UK. However, it is not mandatory. If records are kept digitally, for example, under MTD, these should be archived electronically. However, records not required to be kept digitally can be archived in paper format.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns are generally submitted quarterly. VAT return quarters are staggered into three cycles to ease the UK VAT authorities' administration. The following are the cycles:
- March, June, September and December
- February, May, August and November
- January, April, July and October

Each taxable person is notified at the time of registration of the return cycle it must use. However, the UK VAT authorities will consider a request to use VAT return periods that correspond with a taxable person's financial year. In addition, a taxable person whose accounting dates are not based on calendar months may request permission to adopt nonstandard tax periods.

Taxable persons that receive regular repayments of VAT may request permission to submit monthly returns to improve cash flow.

VAT returns must generally be submitted by the last day of the month following the end of the return period. However, in most cases, taxable persons that submit their VAT returns electronically have an additional seven calendar days after the normal due date in which to file their returns and make payment. Businesses that use the annual accounting scheme or are required to make payments on account do not qualify for this seven-day extension.

Periodic payments. Payments of VAT due must be made electronically. Payment must generally be made by the last day of the month following the end of the return period. However, in most cases, taxable persons that submit their VAT returns electronically have an additional seven calendar days after the normal due date in which to file their returns and make payment (businesses that use the annual accounting scheme or are required to make payments on account do not qualify for this seven-day extension and must make a number of payments throughout the period).

VAT returns must be completed in GBP but return liabilities may be paid in GBP or euros (EUR).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in the UK for all taxable persons. This is in line with the Making Tax Digital (MTD) requirements and applies to all VAT registered businesses.

However, the rules do not apply to Government Information and National Health Trusts, which have been advised that MTD will not apply until April 2025 at the earliest. MTD requires that the nine-box VAT return is submitted using an application programming interface (API), i.e., MTD-compatible software (see the subsection on Digital tax administration below). Digital links must also be in place. VAT records may be archived electronically in any location, provided that the authenticity, integrity and legibility of the content of source documents (invoice data) is protected and any records can be produced in a readable form (within a reasonable period of time) upon request by the UK VAT authorities.

Payments on account. Payments on account are generally not required in the United Kingdom, except for certain taxable persons. Taxable persons that have an annual VAT liability of greater than GBP2.3 million must make payments on account, which are interim payments made at the end of the second and third months of each VAT quarter. The VAT return is due at the normal time together with a balancing payment for the period. The level of the payments on account is generally calculated as 1/24th of the taxable person's VAT liability for the preceding 12 months. Electronic transfers must be used for all payments on account.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. Businesses with an annual taxable turnover (excluding VAT) of less than GBP1.35 million are eligible to use the cash accounting scheme, which allows VAT to be accounted for on the basis of cash or other consideration paid and received. However, if their annual taxable turnover (excluding VAT) subsequently exceeds GBP1.6 million, they must stop using the scheme.

Annual accounting. Businesses with annual taxable turnover (excluding VAT) of less than GBP1.35 million may apply to complete an annual VAT return. Businesses that use annual accounting must make either three quarterly or nine monthly interim VAT payments. Any balancing payment must be made with the annual return. The annual return is due on the last day of the second month following the end of the taxable person's annual VAT accounting period. However, if their annual taxable turnover (excluding VAT) subsequently exceeds GBP1.6 million, they must stop using the scheme.

Special accounting. A special accounting scheme (known as the Flat Rate Scheme (FRS)) exists for small businesses with VAT-exclusive annual taxable turnover of up to GBP150,000. The business must also not be eligible to be registered for VAT in the name of a group, registered for VAT in the name of a division or associated with another person. Under the FRS, eligible businesses calculate the amount of VAT due based on a fixed percentage of their total (VAT-inclusive) turnover. The VAT flat rate used usually depends on the business type, but a different rate may apply if the business only spends a small amount on goods. A business is a "limited cost business" if goods cost less than either 2% of turnover or GBP1,000 a year (if costs are more than 2%). In that case, the business pays a higher rate of 16.5%. If a business is not a limited cost business, the business type is used to work out the flat rate with the percentage ranging from 4% to 14.5%. Businesses also get a 1% discount the first year as a VAT-registered business. A business ceases to be eligible for the FRS if their annual taxable turnover (including VAT) exceeds GBP230,000 in the period of 12 months ending with the anniversary of their certification for the AFRS or is expected to in the next 12 months; or total income in the next 30 days alone is expected to be more than GBP230,000 (including VAT) at the end of a month; as well as if the person becomes eligible to be registered for VAT in the name of a group, registered for VAT in the name of a division or associated with another person.

Retailers. A retail business with an annual VAT-exclusive turnover over GBP130 million must agree a bespoke scheme with HMRC. For other retail businesses there are five standard retail schemes available to choose from, provided conditions are met and HMRC has not disallowed its use:

- Point of Sale scheme – VAT due is calculated by identifying the correct VAT liability of supplies at the time of sale, e.g., by using electronic tills
- Apportionment Scheme 1 – designed for small retail businesses with an annual VAT-exclusive turnover not exceeding GBP1 million. Each VAT period, the retailer must work out the value of purchases for resale at different rates of VAT and apply the proportions of those purchase values to sales
- Apportionment Scheme 2 – a retailer must calculate the expected selling prices of standard-rated and reduced-rate goods received for retail sale. The retailer must then work out the ratio of these to the expected selling prices of all goods received for retail sale and apply this ratio to takings
- Direct Calculation Scheme 1 – for retailers with an annual VAT-exclusive turnover not exceeding GBP1 million. To work the scheme, a retailer must calculate expected selling prices (ESPs) of goods for retail sale at one or more rates of VAT so that the proportion of takings on which VAT is due can be calculated
- Direct Calculation Scheme 2. This scheme works in exactly the same way as Direct Calculation Scheme 1 but requires an annual stock-take adjustment

Secondhand goods. To avoid double taxation on goods that have previously borne VAT when sold as new, a business can opt to charge VAT on the profit margin on supplies of works of art, antiques or collectors' items; motor vehicles; secondhand goods; and goods through a person who acts as an agent, but in their own name, in relation to the supply.

The UK also offers a Global Accounting Scheme in the UK under which VAT is accounted for on the difference between the total purchases and sales of eligible goods in each VAT period rather than on an item-by-item basis.

Tour operators. The Tour Operators' Margin Scheme (TOMS) is a special scheme for businesses that buy in and resell travel, accommodation and certain other services as principals or undisclosed agents (i.e., that act in their own name). In many cases, it enables VAT to be accounted for on travel supplies without businesses having to register and account for VAT in every EU Member State in which the services and goods are enjoyed. The rules are complex.

Post transitional period, the UK introduced a UK version of TOMS that applies in a similar way to EU TOMS, except the scope of the zero rate has been extended so the margin on all travel services enjoyed outside the UK will be zero-rated. This puts travel services enjoyed in EU Member States in the same position as travel services enjoyed in the rest of the world.

Other schemes. There are also special schemes for gold traders and farmers.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in the UK.

Supplementary filings. Intrastat. Intrastat declarations apply to businesses registered for VAT in the UK dispatching goods from NI to EU Member States or receiving arrivals of goods in NI from EU Member States, with a value exceeding the following thresholds:

- GBP500,000 for arrivals (NI acquisitions from EU)
- GBP250,000 for dispatches (NI dispatches to EU)

An NI taxable person whose intra-Community trade in goods exceeds GBP24 million (for either arrivals or dispatches) must also provide additional information concerning the terms of delivery on the supplementary declaration.

Intrastat declarations must be submitted electronically on a monthly basis and be filed in GBP. The deadline for the submission of Intrastat declarations is the 21st day of the month following the end of the reference period (normally a calendar month) to which they relate.

EU Sales Lists (ESLs). VAT-registered businesses in the UK supplying goods from NI to VAT-registered customers in an EU Member State (including transfer of own goods) or an intermediary identified as trading/operating under the protocol in triangular transactions between VAT-registered business in EU Member States must complete an EC Sales List to show:
- Details of EU customers
- The GBP value of the supplies made to them
- The customer's country code
- The VAT number of the new intended acquirer if call-off stocks are reassigned to a new intended acquirer.

The ESL reporting period for intra-Community supplies of goods is per calendar month for supplies over GBP35,000 (excluding VAT) in the current or four previous quarters. For supplies under GBP 35,000 in the current or four previous quarters, the ESL reporting period is each calendar quarter ending 31 March, 30 June, 30 September, and 31 December but businesses may choose to submit monthly if preferred.

Businesses that submit annual VAT returns can contact HMRC to apply for approval to submit an EC Sales List once a year if total annual taxable turnover does not exceed GBP145,000; the annual value of supplies of goods from NI to EU Member States is not more than GBP11,000; and sales do not include new means of transport. Businesses not submitting annual VAT returns can apply to submit an annual EC sales list if goods supplied from NI are valued at GBP11,000 or less, the supplies do not include new means of transport and the total taxable turnover does not exceed GBP93,500.The following are the deadlines for submitting ESLs to the UK VAT authorities, for all frequencies of submission with respect to both goods and services:
- For paper ESLs: 14 days from the end of the reporting period
- For electronic ESL submissions: 21 days from the end of the reporting period

Businesses only making low-level supplies of goods from NI to VAT-registered customers in an EU country may not need to fill in the full EC Sales List. Businesses can contact HMRC to ask if to send in a simplified annual EC Sales List, if:
- The value of total taxable turnover in a year is not more than the VAT registration threshold, plus GBP25,500
- Supplies of goods from NI to VAT-registered customers in EU countries are not more than GBP11,000 a year
- Sales do not include new means of transport

Movements of call-off stock cannot be reported on a simplified annual EC sales list.

Correcting errors in previous returns. VAT errors can be adjusted on the next VAT return if the net value of the error on the VAT return for the period of discovery is GBP10,000 or less; or the error is up to 1% of the box 6 (net sales) figure (subject to a maximum of GBP50,000).

Taxable persons must separately disclose errors in writing to HMRC (i.e., they cannot be adjusted on the next VAT return) if they are above the reporting threshold (see above); or an error has been made deliberately.

To make a separate error correction in writing, form VAT652 must be completed and sent to the VAT Error Correction Team. Taxable persons must keep details about the inaccuracy, for example, the date it was discovered, how it happened, the amount of VAT involved and the value of the inaccuracy.

Penalties and interest may be due if an error is due to careless or dishonest behavior (see Section J, Penalties below for further details).

Digital tax administration. Making Tax Digital for VAT. HMRC's Making Tax Digital (MTD) program applies to VAT and other taxes. It came into effect for VAT from 1 April 2019 for businesses registered for VAT in the UK, with a taxable turnover above the VAT registration threshold limit (currently GBP85,000). From 1 April 2022, the regime was extended to businesses with taxable turnover below the VAT registration threshold, with the exception of Government Information and National Health Trusts (GIANT) users, who have until 1 April 2025 at the earliest before MTD becomes mandatory.

Businesses that fall within the MTD rules must keep their records digitally (for VAT purposes only), evidence a digital journey from source systems through to submission of the VAT return and submit the VAT return to HMRC using MTD-compatible software.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A penalty is assessed for late VAT registration. This penalty is calculated as a percentage of the VAT due (output tax less input tax) for the "relevant period." The "relevant period" begins on the date on which the business is required to be registered and ends on the date on which the UK VAT authorities became fully aware of this liability. The penalty rate that applies may range from 30% (in most cases) to 100% (with respect to deliberate and concealed acts) of the VAT due. However, measures exist for the reduction of such penalties if the business voluntarily discloses the failure to register to the UK VAT authorities. The degree of mitigation of the penalties depends on the "quality" of the disclosure. No penalty arises where there is a "reasonable excuse" for the late registration.

Penalties for late payment and filings. For VAT accounting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023, a new VAT penalty regime applies to the late submission of VAT returns and late payments. The regime replaces the default surcharge regime. There are also changes to the way in which VAT interest is calculated.

For each VAT return submitted late, one late submission penalty point is awarded. Once a penalty threshold is reached, a GBP200 penalty will be issued unless a reasonable excuse applies, in which case points and penalties can be appealed. A further GBP200 penalty will be issued for each subsequent late submission. The penalty points threshold will vary according to VAT return submission frequency:

Submission frequency	Penalty points threshold	Period of compliance
Annually	2	24 months
Quarterly	4	12 months
Monthly	5	6 months

Points can be reset to zero if VAT returns are submitted on or before the due date for the period of compliance and all outstanding returns due for the previous 24 months have been received by HMRC.

Late payment penalties. For late payment penalties, the sooner the payment is made, the lower the penalty rate will be:

- A penalty will not be charged if the VAT owed is paid in full or a payment plan is agreed with HMRC on or between days 1 and 15.

- A first penalty calculated at 2% on the VAT owed at day 15 if the VAT due is paid in full or a payment plan is agreed with HMRC on or between days 16 and 30.
- A first penalty calculated at 2% on the VAT owed at day 15 plus 2% on the VAT owed at day 30 where the VAT is paid in full, or a payment plan is agreed on or after day 31.
- If the VAT is more than 31 days overdue, a first penalty will be calculated at 2% on the VAT owed at day 15 plus 2% on the VAT owed at day 30. A further penalty will be calculated at a daily rate of 4% per year for the duration of the outstanding balance.

To provide time to get used to the changes, HMRC will not charge a first late payment penalty for the first year from 1 January 2023 until 31 December 2023, if the VAT owed is paid in full within 30 days of the payment due date.

Interest. When an amount of VAT is not paid by the due date, late payment interest will be charged to the taxable person from the date that payment was due up until the date the payment is received by HMRC. Late payment interest will apply to VAT returns, VAT amendments, assessments and payments on account. Late payment interest is calculated at the Bank of England base rate plus 2.5%.

Repayment interest. A repayment supplement will be withdrawn for accounting periods starting on or after 1 January 2023. From that date, HMRC will instead pay repayment interest on any VAT owed. This will be calculated from the day after the due date or the date of submission (whichever is later) until the day HMRC pays the repayment VAT amount in full. Repayment interest will be calculated as the Bank of England base rate minus 1%. The minimum rate of repayment interest will always be 0.5% even if the repayment interest calculation results in a lower percentage.

Intrastat and ESL penalties. Penalties may be imposed if a taxable person's Intrastat declarations (NI only) are persistently late, missing or inaccurate. The penalty regime is a criminal one and could result in proceedings in a magistrate's court. This could lead to a maximum fine of GBP2,500 being imposed for each offense. There could be the opportunity to "compound" any proceedings that involve the offer of an administrative fine in lieu of any court proceedings.

Penalties may be assessed for the late submission of ESLs (NI only) and for material inaccuracies in ESLs. If an ESL is late, HMRC may serve a notice confirming that there is a default but will usually take no further action if the default is remedied within 14 days of the notice. The notice may also state that the person will become liable, without further notice, to penalties if any more defaults are committed before a period of 12 months has elapsed without there being a default. Where such a notice is served, the person will become liable to a penalty of the greater of GBP50 or GBP5 for each day the default continues after the 14-day period (up to a maximum of 100 days). In respect of any other ESL in relation to which there is a default, the last day for submission of which is after the service and before the expiry of the notice, a penalty of the greater of GBP50 or, GBP5, GBP10 or GBP15 for each day the default continues up to a maximum of 100 days. The daily fine is GBP5, GBP10 or GBP15 depending upon whether the ESL in question is the first, second or third or subsequent ESL.

Where a person has submitted an ESL containing a "material inaccuracy" and within six months of discovering that inaccuracy, HMRC has issued a written warning identifying the statement and stating that future inaccuracies might result in the service of a notice under these provisions, subsequent material inaccuracies could lead to a penalty of GBP100.

Penalties for errors. If a business makes an error on a VAT return despite taking "reasonable care," it should not be liable to a penalty. Otherwise, the penalty rate depends on the behavior giving rise to the error (rather than the size of the error) and may range from 30% (for "careless" errors) to 100% (for "deliberate and concealed" acts) of the VAT due. However, provisions exist for the reduction of such penalties if the business makes an unprompted (voluntary) disclosure to the UK VAT authorities. The degree of mitigation also depends on the "quality" of the disclosure.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a range of potential penalties. The amount would depend on the nature of any regulatory breach and the business's compliance history. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A penalty for participating in VAT fraud will be applied to businesses and company officers who "knew or should have known" that their transactions were connected with VAT fraud. The penalty is a fixed rate penalty of 30%.

Disclosure of tax avoidance schemes. Scheme promoters are primarily responsible for disclosing indirect tax avoidance schemes to HMRC. The scope of the current regime includes all indirect taxes and moves the responsibility for disclosing VAT avoidance schemes to HMRC from scheme users to scheme promoters. The measure affects those who promote schemes.

In addition to these rules, the corporate criminal offense of failing to prevent the facilitation of tax evasion, concerns when an "associate person," such as an employee, agent, contractor or subsidiary, facilitates the evasion of tax of a third party while acting on behalf of the business. The intention of the legislation is to attribute criminal liability to businesses for the criminal acts of employees, agents or those that provide services for or on their behalf.

If that business (defined as "relevant body") cannot evidence that it had reasonable preventative procedures in place to prevent the facilitation of tax evasion by persons acting on its behalf, then it could be subject to a corporate criminal conviction and an unlimited fine. While this is UK legislation, the impact is far reaching and could result in overseas businesses being prosecuted because the definition of a relevant body is "a body corporate or partnership (wherever incorporated or formed)."

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers may have to pay some or all of the company's penalty if the penalty is due to their actions and one or more of the following applies:

- They have gained or attempted to gain personally from a deliberate inaccuracy
- The company is or considered to be about to become insolvent – even if the officer did not gain personally from the deliberate inaccuracy

If the company pays the penalty, HMRC will not ask the individual officers to pay. A company officer is a director, shadow director, company secretary or manager of a company, or a member of a limited liability partnership.

If a company officer is nominated as a senior accounting officer (SAO) under the SAO regime (which covers VAT, as well as a number of other taxes), the SAO can be held personally liable for a penalty of up to GBP5,000 for failure to provide a certificate or providing a certificate that contains a careless or deliberate inaccuracy, if the SAO does not have a reasonable excuse. The SAO is responsible for taking reasonable steps to ensure that the company and each of its subsidiaries establishes and maintains appropriate tax accounting arrangements, takes reasonable steps to monitor these accounting arrangements and to identify any respects in which the arrangements are not appropriate.

In addition, in certain cases of tax evasion, if it appears to HMRC that conduct, in whole or part, is attributable to the dishonesty of a person who is (or at the material time was) a director or "managing officer" (the named officer) of the body corporate, HMRC may serve a notice on the named officer proposing to recover all or part of the penalty from them. The portion specified is then assessable and recoverable as if the named officer were personally liable to that part of the penalty. The body corporate is then only assessed on the balance, if any, and is discharged from liability on the amount assessed on the named officer.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in the UK is four years. The time limit for tax authorities and taxable persons in respect of careless errors or errors made despite taking reasonable care is:

- Four years from the end of the prescribed accounting period in which the error occurred in respect of underdeclared and overdeclared output tax and overclaimed input tax
- Four years from the due date of the return for the prescribed accounting period in which the error occurred in respect of underclaimed input tax

In cases of deliberate inaccuracies, the time limit is 20 years.

United States

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Washington, DC GMT -5

EY
National Office
1101 New York Avenue, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005
United States

Indirect tax contacts

Ali Vahdat	+1 (213) 977-3941
(resident in Los Angeles)	ali.vahdat@ey.com
Scott Norton	+1 (805) 778-7056
(resident in Los Angeles)	scott.norton@ey.com
Karl Nicolas	+1 (202) 327-6585
(resident in Washington, DC)	karl.nicolas@ey.com

A. General

The United States (US) does not impose a national-level sales or value-added tax. Instead, sales taxes and complementary use taxes are imposed and administered at the state (subnational) and local (substate) levels. Currently, 45 of the 50 US states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico impose some form of sales and use tax (see the chapter on Puerto Rico). Only Alaska, Delaware, Montana, New Hampshire and Oregon do not impose such state-level taxes (note that several localities within Alaska do impose a sales and use tax at nonuniform rates up to 9.5%). Taking into account both the state-level and local-level aspects of sales and use taxes, approximately 13,000 taxing jurisdictions exist in the US.

The laws, rules and procedures with respect to US state and local sales and use taxes are not uniform among these jurisdictions, and issues such as tax-base calculation, taxability of specific items and tax rates vary considerably among the jurisdictions. Sales and use taxes are generally imposed on transactions involving the sale of tangible personal property. However, several states also tax certain specified services and digital property (for example, electronically delivered software).

B. Tax rates

Sales and use tax rates vary among the states. For each state that imposes a sales and use tax, most apply one uniform rate at the state level. However, several states impose a lower rate on certain items, such as food, clothing, selected services and medicine, instead of exempting such items outright, while some also impose higher rates on items such as alcohol. Excluding additional local sales and use taxes, US state-level sales and use tax rates range from 2.9% (Colorado) to 7.25% (California). The highest combined state and local tax rate is 10.75% (Alameda, Calif.).

Local rates, if authorized within a state, may vary significantly. In addition, a single situs within a state may lie within several different local taxing jurisdictions. For example, sales made in one store may be subject to city, county and district taxes, in addition to the state-level tax, while sales made from a store in a different geographic location may be subject only to a county tax, in addition to the state-level tax. As a result, it is possible that two identical transactions within the same state may be taxed at substantially different rates based solely on the local sourcing of the transaction. In certain states, local rates may approach 10% and constitute a greater portion of the total sales tax due than the state-level rate.

Not all states authorize the imposition of local sales and use taxes, while some states that do not impose a state-level sales tax (e.g., Alaska) allow localities to impose the tax. Others require rate uniformity across the state or minimum local rates (e.g., California).

C. Imposition of tax

Sales taxes are transaction-based taxes imposed on intrastate retail transactions (sales made between a buyer and seller located within the same state) and are calculated as a percentage of the receipts derived from the transaction. The legal incidence of state sales tax laws may be on the buyer ("consumer" taxes) or on the seller ("vendor" or "privilege" taxes). However, regardless of the form of the tax, the consumer generally will bear the actual cost of the tax, while the vendor will bear the compliance cost.

Use taxes, which complement sales taxes, are imposed on the use, storage or consumption in a state of property or taxable services that have not been subjected to a sales tax. Essentially, use taxes are designed to prevent the avoidance of sales taxes on interstate retail transactions (sales made between a buyer and seller located in different states) by taxing goods and services procured in one state but intended for use or enjoyment in another state. To the extent that sales tax is paid in one state on such interstate transactions, a credit is allowed against any use tax that is ultimately owed.

D. Jurisdiction to tax

The key issue with respect to US state and local sales and use taxation is the jurisdiction to tax, or what is commonly referred to as "nexus." This concept deals with the power of one state or local taxing jurisdiction to compel a seller to collect and remit the sales or use tax due on a transaction. Prior to the ruling rendered by the U.S. Supreme Court (the Court) on 21 June 2018 in South Dakota v. Wayfair Inc. (Wayfair), nexus was deemed to exist only if the seller had some physical presence within the taxing state or local jurisdiction (either by itself or through an agent or affiliate that had "established and maintained" an in-state market for the seller) and if such presence was more than de minimis.

Direct physical presence. Even if unrelated to a seller's sales activity, direct physical presence automatically created (and still creates even after the Wayfair ruling) a registration and collection or payment obligation. Physical presence may be deemed to exist based on the ownership of real or tangible personal property, the in-state presence of employees, the temporary storage of inventory or any other entry into the state by the seller or its employees (for example, delivery of goods sold in the seller's own vehicles). Physical presence may also be attributed to a seller based on activities conducted by third parties in the state on the seller's behalf. Essentially, if an agent or affiliate of a seller that does not have nexus with a state enters the state and conducts activities on the seller's behalf that serve to "establish and maintain a market" for the seller's goods (for example, soliciting sales, providing repair or installation services or providing training services), the seller may be deemed to be physically present in the state and be subject to the state's sales and use tax jurisdiction.

It is worth noting that, during the height of the COVID-19 pandemic, a number of states adopted temporary policies of not asserting nexus based on the in-state presence of teleworkers. By the end of 2023, these emergency provisions have lapsed in all states, and the presence of teleworkers may again create nexus for sales and use tax purposes.

Remote sellers. Between 1999 and 2018, several states enacted laws that required remote sellers with no in-state physical presence to register for sales and use tax purposes, and to collect and remit tax on sales to in-state customers based on their in-state sales volume. These laws, which many considered unconstitutional under the case law at the time, were challenged in each jurisdiction where they were enacted. In April 2018, the Court heard an appeal of the challenge to the state of South Dakota's law, which imposed a registration and collection obligation on any remote seller that had annual sales of USD100,000 or that entered into at least 200 transactions with South Dakota customers. On 21 June 2018, the Court issued its ruling in the Wayfair case, concluding that the physical presence standard established under earlier precedent was "incorrect and unsound" under the Commerce Clause of the U.S. Constitution and was no longer applicable. The Court further held that states were free to compel remote sellers to collect and remit tax so long as their mechanism for doing so did not unduly burden or discriminate against interstate commerce. As of May 2020, every state that imposes a sales and use tax has enacted new laws or adopted formal positions that apply an economic nexus standard based solely on sales directed to customers in the state.

Marketplaces. Also, in response to the Wayfair decision, and as of May 2021, every state that imposes a sales and use tax has extended collection responsibilities to marketplace facilitators and providers (i.e., businesses that operate and maintain a platform to allow sellers to market and sell their goods and services). In most instances, the states have required that the marketplace facilitator or provider have a physical presence in the state or meet the state's economic nexus sales threshold. A few states (e.g., Colorado, Hawaii, Maryland), however, have remained silent on whether such stand-alone nexus is required. In these states, sales and use tax collection and filing responsibilities with respect to any transactions made through the marketplace are with the marketplace facilitator or provider. These new laws have created significant complexities, given that the state definitions of "marketplace facilitator" and "marketplace provider" vary considerably and can be broad, pulling in a number of businesses that would generally not be perceived as operating "traditional" marketplace forums.

Businesses that are not physically present in the US should be aware that the US states hold the view that their remote seller economic nexus and the marketplace facilitator/provider provisions apply equally to businesses that lack any US presence or permanent establishment. Moreover, while enforcement by the states may present a challenge, noncompliance creates potentially significant accounting and financial statement implications, pursuant to Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 450, for non-US companies that do not comply with these collection and registration requirements.

Third parties. In addition to these economic nexus provisions, more than 30 states have also enacted laws that specifically attribute certain activities of in-state third parties on behalf of remote sellers to such remote sellers, thereby creating a presumption of an in-state physical presence. These laws operate parallel to the new economic nexus standards and present a separate consideration. In many states, certain affiliate relationships with in-state entities also will create a presumption of an attributional physical presence for a remote seller. Finally, since 2010, more than 10 states have adopted a requirement for remote sellers that lack nexus with a state but make sales to in-state customers to provide notice to their customers that use tax is due and is the responsibility of the customer, and to provide the state revenue agency with a list of in-state customers and the value of their annual purchases. Despite the historic ruling in Wayfair, which drastically expanded the reach of states to enforce sales or use tax compliance by remote sellers, these provisions remain in effect and apply in the event nexus is not otherwise established (either through direct physical presence, meeting one or more state-specific sales or transactions thresholds, or by way of attributional or affiliate presumptions).

If a seller does establish nexus with a state for sales and use tax purposes through one of these means, the seller is generally required to register in that state for sales and use tax purposes, and the seller is required to collect and remit sales and use taxes due on its taxable transactions with customers in the state. The seller is also required to file monthly, quarterly or annual sales and use tax returns (depending on state law) and remit the taxes collected. Failure to comply with the specific state requirement may result in the seller becoming liable for any tax due on a transaction, plus penalties and interest.

E. Retail sales

State sales and use taxes apply to receipts from taxable property and services sold and purchased at retail. A "retail sale" generally is defined as the transfer of title and possession of property from the seller to the ultimate consumer in exchange for consideration. Wholesale sales (discussed below), also referred to as "sales for resale," are exempt from sales and use tax in all states that impose a traditional sales and use tax scheme. However, Hawaii, whose sales and use tax effectively is a gross receipts-based tax on "doing business in the state," imposes a 0.5% wholesale sales tax rate on resale transactions.

Taxation of services that are ancillary to the sale of taxable tangible personal property, such as delivery and installation, varies among the states. Most states have explicit statutory or regulatory provisions dealing with the treatment of such services. In many cases, such treatment is determined based on the state's specific definition of "receipts" for sales and use tax purposes.

Drop shipments. Retail sales involving three parties (retailer, buyer and supplier), in which title to the property sold passes from the retailer directly to the buyer, but possession is transferred from a third-party supplier directly to the buyer, are classified as "drop shipment" transactions. In a drop shipment transaction, the retailer is generally responsible for sales and use tax collection. However, if the retailer does not have nexus with the buyer's state, state law may determine that a supplier with nexus in the state may be held liable for sales and use tax collection on the transaction. Alternatively, states may attempt to assert nexus over the out-of-state retailer under a "flash title" theory (that is, by asserting that the retailer takes title to the property for an instant while the property is within the state and, accordingly, has physical presence in the taxing state) or assess use tax liability directly against the buyer.

Lease transactions. Leases are treated as taxable retail sales in most states. The tax generally applies separately to each lease payment. However, certain states, such as Illinois and New Jersey, require lessors of tangible personal property to pay the sales tax in full on acquisition and before any subsequent lease or rental. In these states, tax is not charged on the subsequent lease. Complications can arise when regularly leased property is brought in from a state that allows a lessor to purchase such property exempt from sales tax. In such cases, the state into which the property is brought may assert that use tax is due on the entire original purchase price or value of the property that is subsequently leased in the state. Careful consideration of the origin of leased property and the relevant and varied state approaches is recommended.

Lease transactions that are deemed to constitute "financed sales" (i.e., arrangements under which total lease payments approximate the sales price, with the lessor having the option to purchase the leased item for a nominal price at the end of the lease term) are generally treated as straight sales in most states and are subject to immediate sales and use tax. Thus, if a lease is reclassified as a financed sale, in virtually all states, sales or use tax is due in full at the time of inception of the lease, generally at the original purchase price of the leased property.

Taxable base. Sales and use taxes are imposed on receipts derived from taxable retail sales transactions. In most states, taxable receipts may be reduced by the value of any goods traded in by the purchaser as part of the transaction and by any coupons, rebates or discounts issued by the vendor.

F. What is taxable

State sales and use taxes generally apply to sales of tangible personal property, which is defined by statute in most states as personal property that can be seen, touched, measured and weighed or is otherwise perceptible to the senses. On the other hand, services are generally not broadly subject to sales and use taxes unless the state's sales tax law specifically enumerates such services as taxable. The sales tax treatment of both sales of tangible property and services is not uniform across the states.

Real property. Real property (e.g., land, buildings and fixtures) is not considered to be tangible personal property, and the sale or lease of real property is not subject to sales and use taxation (except in certain limited circumstances, the leasing of real property is subject to sales and use tax in Arizona, Hawaii (general excise tax) and Florida while in New York City a specialized lease transaction tax applies). State and local jurisdictions may, however, impose transfer taxes on real property that are administered separately and apart from the state or local sales or use taxes. Among the oldest taxes levied in the US, these tax laws vary widely from state to state and even within some states can vary not only as to rates but also applicability from locality to locality.

Intangible property. The sale of intangible personal property, such as securities and intellectual property, is generally not subject to sales and use taxation. However, the sale of certain intangible digital goods (such as computer software and electronically delivered photographs, music and video files) may be subject to tax, depending on the specific state's laws. For example, items such as music downloaded from the internet and canned (non-custom) computer software that is delivered electronically may be considered to be tangible personal property in several states and are subject to tax. California sales and use tax law, on the other hand, continues to treat any such goods delivered electronically as intangible property not subject to tax. Similarly, depending upon the jurisdictions involved, cloud-based software (software-as-a-service, or SaaS) may be classified as taxable tangible personal property, nontaxable intangible property or a service (that may or may not be taxable).

Many states classify utility services, such as the sale of natural gas or electricity, as the sale of taxable tangible personal property. In such states, sales of these utility services may be subject to sales and use tax in addition to any applicable utility transmission fees or excise taxes that may be applied and collected separately.

In recent years, the number of states that have introduced legislation that would extend the sales and use tax to cover certain digital products and services has grown significantly. In early 2021, Maryland became the first state to adopt a broad-based excise tax (separate from the state's sales and use tax regime) on revenue from Maryland-sourced sales of digital advertising services. The tax became effective on 1 January 2022 and was almost immediately the subject of two lawsuits challenging its validity. In October 2022, a Maryland state court struck down the tax as being both unconstitutional and violative of federal law (namely, the Internet Tax Freedom Act, or ITFA). However, the Maryland state attorney general challenged the ruling and in May 2023, the Maryland Supreme Court vacated that ruling on grounds that the taxable persons had not exhausted their administrative remedies before filing suit in the courts (the ruling did not reach the merits of the case and is expected to be refiled in the Maryland Tax Court, which is an administrative body). The uncertainty surrounding the legal validity of the tax has led several other states to pause the process of enacting identical legislation until the matter is resolved. Nevertheless, a number of other states have moved toward expanding their existing sales and use taxes to cover digital advertising and other related transactions, such as the selling of customer data. Still more states have proposed a flat per-user fee on entities that operate as "social media companies." While none of these measures have been enacted – apart from Maryland's – it is expected that more proposals will be introduced and acted upon in 2024.

G. Situs of sales

Where a sale is deemed to take place is crucial in determining which jurisdiction's tax laws and rates apply. For intrastate sales, the situs of the sale determines which local sales and use taxes (if any) are imposed in addition to the state-level tax and which locality receives the revenue. For interstate transactions, the situs of the sale determines which state's laws have control and which state is entitled to the tax revenue.

In general, sales are sourced based on the nature of the transaction. For example, if a sale occurs at a fixed location, such as an over-the-counter sale at a store, the sale is sourced to that location. For intrastate remote sales that involve a buyer and seller (and possibly the goods sold) at separate locations, the transaction may be sourced to where the goods are received by the buyer, where the order is accepted by the seller or from where the goods are shipped.

For interstate remote sales, tax generally is imposed at the destination (that is, where the goods are received by the buyer), regardless of where title passes to the ultimate customer. In such cases, use tax, rather than sales tax, is due, and it must be collected and remitted by the seller if the seller has nexus with the destination state. To the extent that the seller lacks nexus with the destination state, the purchaser must self-assess and pay use tax to the state. The elimination of the physical presence requirement by the Wayfair decision is expected to make such use tax transactional obligations much less frequent.

Sourcing for intrastate sales varies among the states. Most states apply local taxes on a destination basis, which means that local sales and use taxes at the customer location will apply. Others apply local taxes on an origin basis, which means that local sales and use taxes at the vendor or shipper location will apply.

Sourcing of intangible goods (e.g., digital products, software) or services that may be used in multiple locations present unique challenges. Many states will allow a purchaser to allocate the sales tax due based on usage, either by providing the seller with a use allocation schedule at the time of sale or by filing refund claims subsequent to the purchase and payment of tax. The appropriate procedures and methodology for dealing with such transactions will vary from state to state.

H. Tax exemptions

Exemptions from state sales and use taxes is a significant component of the sales and use tax system in the US. Many of these exemptions are largely driven by tax policy and they may be based on federal or state law.

Federal exemptions. Exemptions based on federal law include excluding from state and local sales and use tax transactions that involve Indian tribes or occur on Indian reservation lands (although many Indian tribes may separately impose and collect their own sales and use taxes independent of the states in which such reservations are located). Moreover, sales made to the federal government may be expressly exempt from state and local sales and use tax and also would be excluded under precedent issued by the U.S. Supreme Court.

State and local exemptions. Other state- and local-level exemptions vary by jurisdiction, but may be grouped into the following four distinct categories:
- Entity based
- Property based
- Use based
- Transaction based

Like other aspects of state and local taxation, the availability and operation of sales and use tax exemptions and the procedures for claiming the exemptions vary widely among the states and, in some cases, even among the local taxing jurisdictions in the same state that impose such a tax.

Entity-based exemptions. Sales made to entities that qualify for exemption in a state (for example, religious or charitable organizations and state and federal governmental agencies) are not subject to tax. Issues may arise with respect to contractors performing work for or on behalf of such exempt entities. In general, contractors must pay tax on items purchased in fulfilling a contract with an exempt entity. However, tax is generally not due if the contractor is acting as an agent for the entity in procuring items for the entity's own use. Wide variations in these exemptions exist among the states and, in some cases, certifications of the exemption may be required.

Property-based exemptions. Many states deem certain specific items to be exempt from tax as a matter of policy. For example, several states do not tax the purchase of grocery food, clothing or medicine, or they provide for a reduced tax rate on such items. Certain states set thresholds for such items. For example, Massachusetts exempts clothing purchases up to USD175 per item. With the recent trend toward taxing digital products, including SaaS, at least one state (Maryland) has enacted a broad exemption for customization of SaaS and software, in addition to an exclusion for SaaS and software used for commercial purposes in an enterprise environment.

Use-based exemptions. Items that otherwise are subject to the tax may be exempt based on their actual use by the purchaser. Most notably, items used in manufacturing, research and development and pollution control typically are eligible for exemption. In addition, many states provide specific exemptions for enumerated items purchased and used in designated enterprise and economic development zones in the state.

Transaction-based exemptions. The most common sales and use tax exemptions are based on the type of transaction involved. In the retail context, the "sale for resale" or "wholesale sale" exemption is most often claimed. Such exemptions are a structural component of the sales tax in the US intended to generally provide that tax only applies to the ultimate retail sale to the consumer.

Sales for resale. To avoid multiple taxation and maintain the general objective of only imposing tax on the last transaction involving the ultimate consumer, most states that impose a sales and use tax regime provide an exemption for wholesale sales. To claim this exemption, the purchaser must purchase the taxable items with the intention of reselling or leasing the items at retail. Any subsequent use by the purchaser of the items purchased under a resale exemption (e.g., taking items from inventory and distributing them as samples to customers) results in use tax becoming due. However, the seller is not required to collect such tax unless it knew at the time of sale that the purchaser intended to use the items.

Occasional sales. Most states provide an "occasional sale" exemption, also referred to as the "casual sale" or "isolated sale" exemption. This exemption typically applies in the context of business restructurings, mergers and acquisitions, and infrequent sellers, such as individuals selling personal property in single, limited transactions such as a garage or yard sale. Again, as with other exemptions, the occasional sale exemption rules vary widely among taxing jurisdictions.

The theory underlying this exemption is that the sales tax is meant to apply to retail transactions only, and one-time sales are not sufficiently systematic to indicate that the seller is in the business of engaging in such transactions. In states that do not provide specific exemptions for business reorganizations (for example, incorporations, mergers and spin-offs), the occasional sale exemption may apply to limit the application of sales and use taxes to transactions that involve the transfer of assets.

Temporary storage. Several states allow an exemption from use tax for property that is not used in the state but is stored temporarily in the state and is intended for ultimate shipment outside of the state. This exemption typically applies to items fabricated or produced in a state and to items purchased and warehoused in a state but intended for ultimate transport outside of the US.

Claiming exemptions. The process for claiming any of the exemptions described above varies depending on the type of exemption claimed and the state or states involved. In most instances, to claim an exemption, purchasers must provide the seller with a valid exemption certificate or statement in the form prescribed by law. In a number of states, the parties to the transaction must be registered for sales and use tax purposes in order to validly claim the exemption.

If the seller takes an exemption certificate in good faith (that is, the seller does not know of any reason why the exemption does not apply), the seller is relieved of any tax collection requirement with respect to the transaction. "Good faith" standards are not uniform among the states. If a seller does not accept such a certificate and if the seller is otherwise required to collect tax but does not do so, the seller may be personally liable for any tax due on the transaction. In several states, a seller making an exempt sale must be registered for purposes of that state's sales and use tax to be able to accept an exemption certificate from a purchaser in good faith. This requirement may present a challenge for sellers not based in the US that are making sales for resale, or sales under some other exemption to customers located in the US, because registration often requires that the seller first obtain a federal employer identification number. In recent years, several states have greatly increased their scrutiny of the exemption certification process.

Exclusions, whereby an item or transaction is per se deemed not to be taxable, do not require an exemption certificate, but should be documented internally.

I. Local (substate)-level sales and use taxes

Local sales and use taxes are authorized in 37 states (including Alaska and Montana, which have no state-level sales and use tax). In most of these states, the local sales and use tax base mirrors the state-level sales and use tax base. On the other hand, rates may differ significantly among the localities within a particular state and multiple local taxing jurisdictions (such as counties, municipalities and special taxing districts) may impose separate rates. Thus, as indicated above, a single address within a state may fall within multiple local taxing jurisdictions for determining the applicable rate to apply to a specific transaction.

In most states, local sales and use taxes are administered at the state level. However, in a limited number of states, such as Alabama, Colorado and Louisiana, such taxes may be administered by the locality imposing the tax. Thus, separate registrations and filings may be required in addition to registrations and filings with the state. In these states, not only may rates differ but so may the applicable tax base (i.e., transactions exempt from state tax may nevertheless be subject to local sales and use taxes). Sellers that have nexus with a state are generally considered to have nexus with every locality within that state, regardless of whether they maintain any physical presence within a specific locality, but this position is not universal (e.g., Colorado's Department of Revenue recently declared that despite the decision in Wayfair, physical presence was still required to collect local sales and use tax by those few jurisdictions in the state that exercised home rule authority).

J. Registration, filing and compliance issues

Sellers that have nexus with a state (see Section D) must register with the state taxing agency for sales and use tax purposes. Registered sellers must collect and remit sales and use tax on all taxable transactions and maintain exemption certificates received from their customers. Sales and use tax returns are due on a monthly or quarterly basis, depending on the specific state's laws. Sellers that do not make any taxable sales for a given period may be relieved from filing regular returns, or they may be required to file "zero" returns indicating that no taxable sales occurred.

Most states impose successor liability on the purchasers of substantially all of the assets of a business for any sales or use tax deficiencies of these businesses. This liability may be avoided if the seller complies with certain bulk sales and notice requirements, the rules for which vary between states, and they often are required in addition to the general requirements applicable to commercial transactions generally under the applicable commercial law of the state.

K. Penalties

All states impose penalties for failure to file returns and pay sales and use taxes as required by law. Penalty rates vary among the states. With respect to cases not involving fraud, the penalties range from 5% to 25% of the tax due. In cases involving the failure to file or pay as a result of fraud, penalties can exceed USD100,000 and result in imprisonment for any officers deemed responsible for the willful failure. The penalties here are not based on percentages but are applied as a fixed penalty amount and/or prison time limit. In both instances – civil and criminal – company directors may be held personally liable for the payment of any taxes due by the business entity to the state, but not remitted.

Similarly, all states impose interest on tax determined to be due that was not paid. In general, interest is assessed from the due date for any tax determined to be payable until the date of payment. The interest rate charged varies among the states. In general, interest rates vary from 1% to more than 15% annually. Some states determine their interest rates based on the prime rate, plus some additional percentage. Other states set rates legislatively. Rates set legislatively change less frequently, while those tied to the prime rate generally change quarterly, semiannually or annually, depending on market conditions.

Uruguay

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Montevideo GMT -3

EY
Avda. 18 de Julio 984
4th and 5th Floors
Palacio Brasil
P.O. Box 1303
11100 Montevideo
Uruguay

Indirect tax contacts

Inés Eibe
+598 (2) 902-3147
ines.eibe@uy.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto al valor agregado (IVA)
Date introduced	29 December 1972
Trading bloc membership	MERCOSUR
Administered by	Directorate General of Taxes (http://www.dgi.gub.uy)
VAT rates
Standard	22%
Reduced	10%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (RUT), which contains 12 digits
VAT return periods	Monthly (small taxable persons, as determined by the VAT authorities, must file annually)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods or services made in Uruguay by a taxable person
- The importation of goods from outside Uruguay, regardless of the status of the importer

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Uruguay the following services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions (B2B/B2C):

- The provision of services through the Internet, technological platforms, computer applications, or similar, when they are destined for, are consumed, or used economically in the country, are considered to be carried out entirely within the country.

The services to which it refers are those of production, distribution and intermediation of cinematographic films and "tapes," as well as those derived from direct television transmissions and transmissions of any audiovisual content, including those carried out through the Internet, technological platforms, computer applications, or other similar means, such as accessing and downloading movies, will be considered entirely from Uruguayan sources, provided that the applicant is in national territory. For further details see the subsection below Digital economy.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Uruguay. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Uruguay, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

A VAT taxable person is any taxable person for corporate income tax purposes that makes taxable supplies of goods or services in the course of doing business in Uruguay. Additionally, taxable persons of personal income tax for independent activities are subject to VAT as well as nonresidents rendering services in Uruguay or performing business activities. No registration threshold applies. The definition of a VAT taxable person applies to a permanent establishment of a foreign business in Uruguay.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Uruguay does not contain any provision for exemption from registration. Registration before the tax authority is always mandatory for residents and nonresidents with permanent establishments in Uruguay. For other nonresidents, registration is not mandatory, as long as the foreign VAT taxable person is subject to withholding for the obligations.

Voluntary registration. The VAT law in Uruguay does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration, as there is no registration threshold.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Uruguay.

Fixed establishment. A fixed establishment for VAT purposes in Uruguay is defined (within Article 10 of Title 4 of IRAE) as when a nonresident carries out all or part of its activity through a fixed place of business in Uruguay, it will be understood that there is a fixed establishment of the nonresident. The term fixed establishment includes, among others, the following cases: headquarters, branches, offices, factories, workshops, mines, oil or gas wells, quarries or any other place of extraction of natural resources. The term fixed establishment also includes:

- Construction or installation works or projects, or related supervision activities, whose duration exceeds three months
- The provision of services, including consulting services, by a nonresident through employees or other personnel hired by the company for such purpose, provided that such activities are carried out (in relation to the same or a related project) during a period or periods that in total exceed six months within any 12-month period.

The term permanent establishment does not include:

- The use of facilities for the sole purpose of storing or displaying goods or merchandise belonging to the nonresident
- The maintenance of a warehouse of goods or merchandise belonging to the nonresident, with the sole purpose of storing or displaying them

- The maintenance of a warehouse of goods or merchandise belonging to the nonresident, with the sole purpose of transforming them by another company
- The maintenance of a fixed place of business for the sole purpose of purchasing goods or merchandise, or collecting information, for the nonresident
- The maintenance of a fixed place of business for the sole purpose of carrying out for the nonresident any other activity of an auxiliary or preparatory nature
- The maintenance of a fixed place of business for the sole purpose of carrying out any combination of the activities mentioned above, provided that the overall activity of the fixed place of business resulting from that combination retains its auxiliary or preparatory character

When a person acts in Uruguay on behalf of a nonresident, this nonresident shall be deemed to have a fixed establishment in Uruguay with respect to the activities that said person carries out for the nonresident, if that person:

- Holds and habitually exercises in Uruguay powers that empower it to conclude contracts on behalf of the nonresident, unless the activities of that person are limited to those mentioned above under the fourth point and, if they have been carried out through a fixed place of business, would not have determined the consideration of said fixed place of business as a fixed establishment in accordance with the provisions of that subsection
- It does not hold said powers, but habitually maintains in Uruguay a warehouse of goods or merchandise from which it regularly makes deliveries of goods or merchandise on behalf of the nonresident

The nonresident is not considered to have a permanent establishment by the mere fact that they carry out their activities in Uruguay through a broker, a general commission agent or any other independent agent, provided that said persons act within the ordinary framework of their activity. However, when the activities of such agents are carried out exclusively, or almost exclusively, on behalf of said nonresident, and the conditions accepted or imposed between the nonresident and the agent in their commercial and financial relations differ from those that would exist between independent entities, that agent shall not be considered an independent agent within the meaning of this subsection.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment in Uruguay. To register as a taxable person, a non-established business must have an address in Uruguay.

Tax representatives. To register as a taxable person, a non-established business must have an address in Uruguay and must appoint a tax representative to undertake its VAT obligations (such as filing returns).

Reverse charge. In Uruguay, there is no reverse-charge mechanism, but imports of goods by the acquiring taxable person are taxed and the provision of services from abroad when the nonresident comes to Uruguay to provide them. Therefore, the importer entity should pay VAT on the taxed goods, no matter if it is a local or foreign entity.

Regarding services, when a Uruguayan taxable person acquires a service from abroad, it will not pay VAT unless the nonresident comes to Uruguay to provide the service. In this case, the Uruguayan taxable person will account for the service plus VAT and in turn will withhold VAT from the foreign company for not being a registered taxable person.

Domestic reverse charge. Even though in Uruguay there is no reverse charge, there are some withholding agent regime measures related to VAT that are regarding goods and services that apply in the following cases:

- In the case of security, surveillance and cleaning services rendered to CIT payers for amounts higher than UYU40,000 excluding VAT (approx. USD1,005), withholding would be 90% of the VAT
- Moreover, if a taxed service is rendered in Uruguayan territory by a nonresident, a 22% VAT should be withheld by the CIT taxable person client

Also, some public bodies are appointed as VAT withholding agents for purchases of goods and services. In general, the withholding amount should be 60% of the total VAT.

Digital economy. Income derived from mediation and intermediation services related to the supply and demand of services rendered through the internet, technological platforms, computer applications or other similar means are considered to be Uruguayan-sourced income and, therefore, they are subject to VAT when both parties are located in Uruguay. Intermediation services means all services that are automated, require minimum human intervention and are not available outside of an application or similar software.

To determine whether the service provider is local, the provider will have to verify if the main business is located in Uruguay. To determine whether the acquirer is local, the location of the IP address of the device used for contracting the main service will have to be considered. If the provider's address or acquirer's IP address cannot be verified, regulations will treat the acquirer as located in Uruguay whenever the service is paid by electronic means administered from Uruguay. For mediation and intermediation activities, the withholding obligations are suspended. These provisions will be applicable exclusively when such activities are performed by nonresident entities that do not have a permanent establishment in Uruguay.

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for both business-to-business (B2B) and business-to-consumer (B2C) supplies are required to register and account for VAT on their supplies in Uruguay.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Uruguay.

Online marketplaces and platforms. For VAT purposes, audiovisual services provided directly through the internet, technological platforms, computer applications or similar means are considered entirely Uruguayan-sourced, as long as the acquirer is located in Uruguayan territory. Additionally, the service acquirer is considered as located in Uruguayan territory when the IP address of the device used to contract the service, or the billing address, is located in Uruguay. In the case of continuous services (e.g., subscriptions), the determination of the acquirer's location must be performed at the time the service is contracted. If the IP or billing address cannot be verified, the acquirer will be deemed as located in Uruguay whenever the service is paid for by electronic means that are administered from Uruguay (e.g., electronic currency, credit or debit cards, and bank transfers).

The aforementioned does not apply to income derived from publicity, promotion and technical services (including distant learning), even if rendered through the internet.

Uruguayan corporate income taxable persons, state and local governments, and others are appointed as withholding agents responsible for collecting VAT on payments or credits for electronic services. Unless the income obtained by the foreign entity is all subject to withholdings, entities are required to register locally, assess their tax and pay, as well as comply with formal requirements locally (e.g., advance payments, tax returns).

Registration procedures. Two printed copies of form 0351 should be submitted to the tax office. Additionally, form 0352 (individuals) or 0353 (legal entities) may have to be submitted in order to register representatives. The registration should be done when operations would take place. Additionally, a notary certification in Spanish would be needed containing information of the company and the representatives. If all documents are duly provided, the registration is finished on the same day the form is submitted. The corresponding representatives of the company submit the registration. The form should be signed by a person authorized by the company, but the submission to the tax office can be done by a third party. In general, the procedures are carried out in person at the tax authority's office, but there are certain cases (for example, sole proprietorships, or foreign companies that provide digital services) that can be registered through the tax authority's website.

Deregistration. Deregistration is accomplished by submitting form 0355, establishing that the entity is no longer a taxable person. To deregister, the business should stop carrying on the activity that was taxed by VAT.

VAT taxable persons include, among others, CIT taxable persons who perform taxed activities, personal income taxable persons for self-employed activity and nonresident income tax (NRIT) payers, except when their activities are related exclusively to obtaining capital gains or yields of capital.

Changes to VAT registration details. Any change in the taxable person's registration data (for example: name, address, activity carried out) must be communicated to the tax administration within 30 days from the date of the change.

The procedure can be done online or in person. If it is online, the data in the online services system must be changed, modifying what corresponds. In case of being in person, form 351 must be submitted.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 22%
- Reduced rate: 10%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate applies to all supplies of goods or services, unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate, the reduced rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods

Note that the supply of goods and services to final consumers who pay for such supplies with debit cards or similar electronic instruments, benefit from a reduction in the VAT rate. This measure has been extended from 31 December 2022 to 31 December 2023. This is not a reduced rate as such, but a benefit for using a certain payment method.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Basic foodstuffs
- Soap
- Medicines
- Services supplied by hotels in "high season" to resident individuals
- Tourist services
- Health services

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Foreign currencies, securities, bonds, stocks and other financial transactions
- Milk
- Books, newspapers, magazines and educational material
- Water supply (unbottled) for basic family consumption
- Services supplied by hotels in "low season" to resident individuals

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Uruguay.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." The basic time of supply is either when the goods are transferred or when the services are performed. The invoice for the transaction must be issued at the time of supply.

Deposits and prepayments. In principle, the taxable event for the supply of goods and services is deemed to have taken place on the date of the invoice. However, the tax authority is empowered to establish another date whenever there is an omission, anticipation or delay in the billing.

In addition, it is important to note that the tax authority may authorize generally, for all the taxable person's transactions, that the tax determination should be based on the date of the contracts.

Therefore, deposits and prepayments are not taxed if the taxable event does not ultimately take place (that is, if the services are not rendered or the delivery of goods does not happen) as the payments could not be considered to be the taxable event in themselves.

Continuous supplies of services. For ongoing supplies of services, the taxable event established in the Uruguayan VAT regulations is determined on a monthly basis.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The time of supply rules provide that for VAT purposes, the taxable event occurs whenever goods are delivered and property rights are transferred (i.e., the owner can economically dispose of them at its will).

If goods are sent for "approval" or "for sale or return," the transfer of property on these goods would not happen. Therefore, no VAT is accounted for.

Reverse-charge services. Even though a VAT for reverse-charge regime for supplies of goods and services does not exist in Uruguay, if services are rendered in Uruguayan territory by a nonresident, the service provider is considered to be a VAT taxable person and, thus, a withholding obligation arises for the taxable person.

Leased assets. In Uruguay there are two types of leasing: operative and financial. Both are treated as continuous supplies of services from a time of supply perspective (see above).

In accordance with Uruguayan law, by operative leasing includes a contract that gives the purchase option to the client at the end of the contract, but as long as such option implies a small amount (under certain circumstances determined on local regulations). Otherwise, it would be a financial leasing.

Leasing of real estate property in accordance with the Civil Code is exempt from VAT. Other operational leases are subject to VAT. Financial leasing is considered as sales and is subject to VAT depending on the goods supplied.

The tax treatment for "leasing" transactions with financial institutions is exempt from VAT. The leasing charge is exempted from VAT in the following circumstances:

- The contract must last at least three years
- The goods subject to the contract must comply with the definition of a utility vehicle given by the Uruguayan law and cannot be a real estate property affected to housing
- The user must be a taxable person of one of the following taxes: CIT, farming CIT or transfer of agricultural and livestock assets tax

If any of the circumstances outlined above is not met, the VAT applicable to the leasing would be calculated by the total amount of the payments expected in the contract, including the price of the asset and the accessory services.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax (or credit VAT), which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax (or debit VAT), which is VAT charged on supplies made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Uruguay is one fiscal year. Once the tax return is filed at the end of the fiscal year, if the tax authority considers that there was an excess in the payment of VAT, it will allow that amount to be deducted in the following fiscal year.

Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services supplied in Uruguay and VAT paid on imports of goods.

A valid tax invoice or customs document must generally accompany a claim for input tax credit.

Credit VAT would be recovered only if related, directly or indirectly, to sales subject to VAT or exports.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for making taxable supplies or for other business purposes (for example, goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered for some items of business expenditure.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase of a car, van or truck by professional individuals

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Business gifts
- Purchase, lease or hire of cars, vans and trucks, except by professional individuals
- Advertising and sponsorship
- Parking
- Travel expenses
- Attendance at conferences and seminars
- Business use of home telephones and mobile telephones

Partial exemption. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax. If purchases of goods and services are not used for making taxable supplies or for business purposes, input tax may not be recovered. Input tax related to both taxed and exempted income (other than exports), should be apportioned and recovered based on the taxable person's taxable and exempt income.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Uruguay. Special methods are not allowed in Uruguay. The taxable person must make the apportionment based on the structure of its income, taking into account that the information presented by the accounting is reliable. The tax administration can question it in case it is inspected.

Capital goods. There are no special input tax recovery rules for capital goods. As such, the normal input tax recovery rules apply.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax (credit VAT) recoverable in a month exceeds the amount of output tax (debit VAT) payable, the excess credit may be carried forward to offset output tax in the following tax period. Nevertheless, input tax related to export sales can be recovered through credit certificates issued by the tax authorities.

For annual VAT returns, if the annual purchase VAT is greater than the annual sales VAT, the VAT credit is carried forward to the next fiscal year until it has been absorbed by VAT on sales.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Uruguay is not recoverable.

Bad debts. A bad debtor is considered to exist in the following situations:
- 18 months after the expiration of the payment obligation
- A check payment without funds
- Other similar situations

When the bad debt is recognized, the VAT that was accounted for by the supplier is reduced in the current VAT period. If the debtor subsequently pays, the company must recompute the VAT deducted previously.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Uruguay.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Uruguay is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A VAT taxable person must generally provide a VAT invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. A separate invoice is not required to be issued for an amount of less than UYU190, but all sales made in amounts lower than UYU190 must be recorded together in a general invoice prepared at the end of each business day. A VAT invoice is necessary to support a claim for an input tax credit.

Credit notes. A VAT credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged and reclaimed on a supply of goods and services. A credit note must contain the same information as a VAT invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Uruguay for certain taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for certain taxable persons in Uruguay.

Mandatory electronic invoicing is based on the size and category of certain taxable persons. Where it is mandatory for a taxable person to use electronic invoicing, it must apply to do so from the tax authorities. The tax authorities have established a calendar detailing mandatory reporting deadlines according to the amount of sales made by each taxable person. According to this calendar, the taxable persons whose sales exceeded 305,000 indexed units (approx. UYU1,775,000) at the end of their fiscal year in the first semester of 2023, must adhere to electronic invoicing by 1 February 2024. If their fiscal year ends in the second semester of 2023, and by then they exceed the same amount, they must adhere to electronic invoicing by 1 August 2024.

Even though the system is not mandatory for all taxable persons, any taxable person can voluntarily request to be included in the system.

There is no need for an agreement between the issuer of the e-invoice and its customers when a taxable person becomes an electronic issuer. When a taxable person becomes an electronic issuer or wants to become an electronic issuer, it should start the reporting process established by tax authorities, which includes complying with a number of mandatory requirements.

An agreement between the electronic issuer and its customers could be necessary in the following scenario: for documents issued by the company to taxable persons who are not included in the electronic invoicing system or to final consumers, for which the issuance of the hard copy of the document involved is required. A hard copy may not be issued if the transaction does not involve the transfer of goods and the recipient expressly authorizes the receipt of the document through other means (e.g., email). This authorization must be obtained separately from the main agreement.

Additionally, a number of modifications were implemented in December 2023. The tax authority has issued a number of resolutions (No. 2,389/023 and 2,548/023) that extend to all taxable persons the obligation for the mandatory use of electronic invoices, via the electronic invoicing system. According to the resolutions, taxable persons registered for VAT as of 31 July 2023 and between 1 August 2023 and 30 April 2024 are required to issue electronic invoices (and as such obtain the status of electronic issuer) before 1 January 2025. This provision also applies to taxable persons who restart their activities or become VAT payers in this period, or between 1 May 2024 and 31 December 2024. For taxable persons who exclusively provide personal services as a freelancer, the deadline to acquire the status of electronic issuers is before 1 January 2025.

This provision does not apply to taxable persons who meet any of the following conditions:
- Exclusively perform agricultural activities and whose income is below 4,000,000 indexed units (IU4m) during the fiscal year (approx. USD584,000) (note this threshold is determined using the IU value on the last day of the corresponding fiscal year)
- Solely carry out value-adding activities in the construction of real estate with no commercial purposes
- Subject to nonresident income tax
- Exempt from taxes on all their transactions, except for direct and indirect users of Free Trade Zones
- Included in the Monotributo, Monotributo Social Mides or Aporte Social Único PPL

When taxable persons included in the first bullet item above exceed the income threshold, the taxable persons must obtain electronic-issuer status starting from the first day of the fifth month following the closing of the fiscal year in which the taxable persons' income exceeded the threshold.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Uruguay. Nevertheless, a separate invoice is not required to be issued for sales to final customers (i.e., for B2C not B2B sales) amounting to less than UYU170. In such cases, a general invoice should be issued at the end of each business day, including all sales that were not documented due to this exception.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Uruguay.

Proof of exports. Uruguayan VAT is not chargeable on supplies of exported goods. However, to qualify as VAT-free, exports must be supported by customs documents confirming that the goods left Uruguay (called a DUA – "Documento Único Aduanero" – which is a single administrative document).

Foreign currency invoices. If an invoice is issued in a foreign currency, the amounts may be converted to the domestic currency, which is the Uruguayan peso (UYU), using the buyer exchange rate bill used between banks on the day before the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Taxable persons are always required to issue invoices for transactions. Documentation related to sales should also include separately the tax to be paid and the applicable tax rate. However, this last requirement does not exist when invoices are printed in the form of tickets using cash registers or electronic tickets (e-tickets).

Records. In Uruguay, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
• Inventory book (which contains the balance sheets of the company)
• Diary book (which contains the accounting entries of the company)

Special accounts for VAT should also be kept and 22%-rate and 10%-rate transactions should be separated.

In Uruguay, VAT books and records must be held within the country. These records must be kept at the address recorded by the tax authorities.

Record retention period. The general statute of limitations for tax obligations in Uruguay is 5 years, which may be extended to 10 years in cases of tax fraud, or other periods may apply for promoted investment projects.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Uruguay. Physical records should be kept physically (e.g., books), and electronic records should be kept electronically (e.g., accounting system).

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns are generally submitted monthly for "medium and large taxable persons." "Small taxable persons" must submit returns annually. The mentioned classification of taxable persons is determined by the tax authorities.

Monthly VAT returns are due in the month following the month in which the transactions are reported. The deadline is published by the tax administration at the beginning of each year.

Small VAT taxable persons must file annual tax returns in the fourth month following the end of the taxable person's fiscal year. For example, if a small VAT taxable person closes its fiscal year in December, its annual VAT return is due in April. The exact date for payment depends on the taxable person's registration number.

In case of professional individuals, VAT returns must be submitted annually (between June and August of the following year, depending on the calendar issued by the tax authority). But payments would be done bimonthly and paid the month following the end of the bimonthly period. For example, the January to February bimonthly period would be due in March.

Periodic payments. All VAT taxable persons must make VAT payments monthly. Monthly payments are due in the month following the month in which the transactions are reported. The exact date for payment depends on the taxable person's registration number (RUT). VAT return liabilities must be paid in Uruguayan pesos (UYU).

Payment is made by submitting the VAT affidavit monthly for taxable persons included in the medium or large taxable person group. Once that tax return is presented, the tax administration's website will show that the company has an amount to pay for VAT. By following the steps on the page, the taxable person will proceed with payment (either by bank debit or with credit certificates if available).

For taxable persons included in the small taxable person group, since VAT is filed annually, they must anticipate the difference between VAT on sales and VAT on purchases for the current month on a monthly basis. The procedure is the same as the aforementioned, except that instead of submitting an affidavit, they will make a ticket payment (form found on the website) where the data will be completed indicating what will be paid.

Digital economy taxable persons (i.e., those who have income derived from the digital economy, such as those supplies mentioned in the above subsection Digital economy) may choose to file their tax returns (and execute their tax payment) in USD as long as:

- All transactions are documented in that currency
- The taxable person does not carry out other taxed activities in the country, or if they do, they are subject to withholding

If taxable persons choose this option, it must be maintained for at least three fiscal years, provided the conditions to access the option are still met.

For annual VAT returns, if the annual purchase VAT is greater than the annual sales VAT, the VAT credit is carried forward to the next fiscal year until it has been absorbed by VAT on sales.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Uruguay for all taxable persons. There are, however, some exceptions, for example, if a tax return is reassessed and it includes a fiscal credit.

Payments on account. Payments on account are generally not required in Uruguay, except for certain taxable persons. In certain situations, taxable persons must perform payments in advance before their annual tax return, depending on the company and its activities. The total advanced payments could cover the actual tax due for the whole fiscal year, and therefore, the taxable person could benefit from filing a provisional annual tax return, filed prior to the compulsory date in which it should be submitted, obtaining as a result fiscal credit (see the Annual returns subsection below).

Special schemes. VAT for small enterprises. Small taxable persons that have not exceeded certain revenue thresholds in the previous fiscal year (approx. UYU1,775,000) can opt to account for VAT through a special regime called "VAT for small enterprises." Taxable persons using the scheme make reduced and fixed VAT payments on a monthly basis.

Annual returns. A VAT taxable person can submit a provisional annual tax return with the sole purpose of requesting fiscal credits with the tax administration. This is because in certain situations taxable persons must perform payments in advance before their annual tax return, depending on the company and its activities (see the Payments on account subsection above). The taxable person could benefit from filing a provisional annual tax return, filed prior to the compulsory date in which it should be submitted, obtaining as a result fiscal credit. This must be analyzed on a case-by-case basis to verify that the company is in a position to request a tax credit from the tax authority to, for example, cover the payment of other taxes.

Supplementary filings. There are several supplementary filings that apply, depending of the type of business, the type of VAT regime and the type of operation. Examples include:

- Informative form 2181, including details of VAT on sales and purchases, which is applicable only to relevant or large taxable persons
- Informative form 2183, including details of some VAT withholdings

Correcting errors in previous returns. In case of errors or omissions in previous returns, what must be done is to resubmit the affidavit. To do this, the taxable person must present the tax return again entering all data that had been presented at the time and fixing the error or omission.

If an amount to be paid arises, the amount must be paid with fines and surcharges calculated, taking into account the date on which the amount should have been declared and the date on which it will actually be paid (see the Penalties for errors subsection below). Otherwise, if the result is a tax credit, it may be requested through credit certificates and it may be used later for the payment of other taxes collected by the tax administration.

Digital tax administration. Electronic invoicing. The only transactional reporting requirement in Uruguay is that electronic invoices are sent digitally in real time through the tax authorities' system. To do this, the taxable person hires an electronic invoicing provider that develops personalized software for the taxable person and invoicing is carried out through it. In this software, the taxable person can obtain different reports that are useful to control their billing with what is subsequently declared in the VAT affidavits. For further details, see the subsection Electronic invoicing above.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for late registration established by the tax authority is an economic fine of UYU1,050.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty of 5%, 10% or 20% is imposed for late payment of VAT, and a penalty of UYU730, UYU760 or UYU830 is imposed for late submission of the VAT return. The penalty rate depends on the date of payment. In addition, interest is charged on late payments of tax at a rate that varies.

Penalties for errors. There are no specific penalties in Uruguay for errors. If taxes are not paid, irrespective of whether or not this arises as a result of an error, the penalties that can be imposed are those outlined above in Penalties for late payment and filings and below in Penalties for fraud.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details will generate fines for breach of formal duties, the amount of which depends on the delay in communication, as outlined below:
- Within 90 days – UYU720
- Within the next year – UYU2,840
- More than a year – UYU4,050

In the case of individuals, sole proprietorships, de facto partnerships and undivided successions, the maximum fine for omission of communication of the modifications will be UYU720. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. In cases of tax fraud, fines could total from 1 to 15 times the amount of unpaid taxes due to the infraction and the offense could be punished with a penalty of six months to six years in prison.

Personal liability for company officers. Entities will be sanctioned for the infractions they commit without the need to establish the responsibility of a person.

Notwithstanding to the pecuniary responsibility of the person, their representatives, directors, managers, administrators or agents will be sanctioned for their personal actions in the infraction. Therefore, company directors can be held liable in the event they have not acted with the due diligence for the position they represent.

Penalties will depend on the particular case, not being able to exceed the value of the assets they have, as long as it has not acted with fraud.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Uruguay is five years. The tax authority's right to claim payment of taxes expires five years from the end of the calendar year in which the taxable event occurred.

The statute of limitations shall be extended to 10 years when the taxable person or responsible party has incurred in fraud, does not comply with the obligations to register, does not comply with reporting the occurrence of the taxable event, does not comply with filing tax returns, and, in cases where the tax is determined by the tax authority, when the latter was not aware of the taxable event.

Penalties and interest have the same statute of limitations corresponding to the penalized event, except in case of contravention penalties and those related to public instigation not to pay taxes, in which case the period shall always be five years. These terms will be calculated from the end of the calendar year in which the violations were committed.

In case of surcharges and interest, the terms will be calculated as from the end of the calendar year in which they were generated.

Uzbekistan

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Tashkent GMT +5

EY
Inconel Business Center
3rd Floor
75 Mustaqillik Avenue
Tashkent 100000
Uzbekistan

Indirect tax contacts

Doniyorbek Zulunov
(resident in Almaty, Kazakhstan)
+998 78 140 6482
+7 727 258 5960
doniyorbek.zulunov@kz.ey.com

Maryna Tarnavska
+998 78 140 6482
maryna.tarnavska@uz.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Qo'shilgan qiymat solig'i (QQS)/Налог на добавленную стоимость (НДС)
Date introduced	1992
Trading bloc membership	None. Observer status at Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU)
Administered by	State Tax Committee (www.soliq.uz)
	Ministry of Finance (www.mf.uz)
VAT rates
Standard	12%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	12-digit number (XXXXXXXXXXXX), where X is a digit between 0-9
	9-digit for nonresident VAT payers supplying electronic services
VAT return periods	Monthly/Quarterly (nonresident VAT payers supplying electronic services)
Thresholds
Registration	None (nonresident providers of electronically supplied services)/UZS1 billion (other businesses)
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT is levied on turnover derived from the supply of goods and services in Uzbekistan (based on place of supply rules), including imports, unless they are zero-rated or specifically exempt. Any excise taxes paid are included in the taxable base for VAT purposes.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Uzbekistan, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Uzbekistan. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Uzbekistan, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. However, the direct tax rules for transfer pricing can be applied for VAT and to transactions with both related and unrelated parties. If the tax authorities identify a deviation from the market/arm's-length price on transactions, they may assess additional taxes (including VAT) and tax penalties of 40% of understated tax liabilities. Taxable persons should maintain the appropriate documentation supporting the prices used in related-party transactions which should be available upon the tax authorities' request. In addition, taxable persons should file the notification on transactions with related parties not later than the deadline for submission of annual financial reports.

C. Who is liable

A taxable person is a person or legal entity that carries out a taxable transaction. A taxable transaction is a transaction involving the sale or importation of goods or services that is subject to VAT even if such transaction occurs only once. A person liable to VAT in Uzbekistan must register with the local tax service. In addition, the state authorities can be recognized as taxable persons based on the decision of the President of Uzbekistan or the Cabinet of Ministers of Uzbekistan.

Uzbek legal entities, individual entrepreneurs with an annual turnover more than UZS1 billion, as well as permanent establishments of foreign legal entities must register with tax authorities for VAT purposes. Importers of goods must register with tax authorities for VAT purposes regardless of the annual turnover.

Exemption from registration. The tax law in Uzbekistan does not contain any provisions for exemption from VAT registration, except for the threshold for Uzbek legal entities and entrepreneurs (see the Voluntary registration and small businesses subsection below).

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Uzbek legal entities and individual entrepreneurs with an annual turnover less than UZS1 billion (except importers of goods and certain other organizations) are eligible to pay revenue-based tax under simplified tax regime instead of CIT and VAT. There is no requirement for them to register for VAT; however, they may voluntarily register for CIT and VAT.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Uzbekistan.

Fixed establishment. In Uzbekistan, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, direct tax rules for a permanent establishment (PE) apply for all tax purposes, including VAT. PEs in Uzbekistan do not have any organizational or legal form – a PE is a pure tax concept in the form of tax registration only and is not a legal vehicle. Under a general rule, a PE is determined as a permanent/fixed place of activity through which a nonresident carries out its business in Uzbekistan through an authorized person, dependent agent either fully or partially. A PE includes, inter alia, a place of management, office, bureau, room, agency, place of production, processing, packing, as well as special types of PEs, established as a result of carrying out special types of activities:

- Construction site, construction, assembly or assembly facility or related supervisory (control) activities, provided that such site, facility or activity exists or continues for more than 183 days during any consecutive 12-month period

- Provision of services, including consulting services, performed by this foreign legal entity through its employees or other personnel hired by it for these purposes, provided that such activities continue (for the same or related project of a person or a related party of a foreign legal entity) for at least 183 days during any consecutive 12-month period
- A foreign legal entity carrying out insurance activities, except in cases of reinsurance, if it collects insurance premiums in Uzbekistan or insures against risks through a dependent agent
- A person acting in Uzbekistan on behalf of a foreign legal entity and usually concluding contracts or playing a major role in concluding contracts for the transfer of ownership (provision of services) or granting the right to use property on behalf of this foreign legal entity, etc.

Non-established businesses. Non-established businesses or foreign individuals registered as entrepreneurs in accordance with the law of the foreign jurisdiction, selling goods or services in the territory of Uzbekistan are subject to VAT if the place of supply is deemed to be Uzbekistan. The basic place of supply rule for services is where the recipient of the service is located. There are some exceptions to the general place of supply rule, for example, for advertising services and immovable property (located in Uzbekistan).

If the recipient of services supplied by a non-established supplier is registered for VAT in Uzbekistan, the recipient is responsible for accounting for the respective VAT (via the reverse-charge mechanism).

For supplies made by non-established businesses or foreign individuals registered as entrepreneurs in accordance with the law of the foreign jurisdiction, where the contract states VAT, the recipient in Uzbekistan withholds VAT at source. If the contract does not state VAT, the recipient accounts for VAT by way of the reverse-charge or withholding mechanism.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required as the concept of tax representatives is not used in Uzbekistan. However, the rules for VAT on digital services were introduced from 1 January 2020. As such for non-established businesses supplying digital services to individuals in Uzbekistan, i.e., business-to-consumer (B2C), digital services are subject to VAT, and the non-established business must register for VAT in Uzbekistan. For further details, see the subsection Digital economy below.

When registering for digital VAT in Uzbekistan, a non-established business must indicate its officer (i.e., an authorized person/tax representative) who will be provided with the access details for the online platform for filing electronic VAT tax returns and interacting with the tax authorities.

Reverse charge. For supplies of services made by non-established businesses or foreign individuals registered as entrepreneurs in accordance with the law of the foreign jurisdiction, to businesses in Uzbekistan, i.e., business-to-business supplies (B2B), where the contract does not state VAT, the recipient must self-account for VAT by way of the reverse charge. However, this does not apply to supplies of digital services supplied to consumers (B2C). See the Digital economy subsection below for more details.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Uzbekistan.

Digital economy. Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2C supplies are required to register and account for VAT in Uzbekistan (if place of supply is deemed to be Uzbekistan).

Digital services subject to the rules outlined above do not include the following:
- Supply of goods, if the goods are delivered without using the internet, even if they are ordered through the internet
- Supply (transfer of rights of use) of software for computers (including computer games) and databases, if the transfer is carried out on tangible data storage mediums
- Supply of consulting services via email

• Provision of internet access services

Nonresident providers of electronically supplied services for B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT on supplies in Uzbekistan. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due by way of the reverse charge (or withholding (depending on contractual terms) (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

The import of goods is subject to import VAT at customs. There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Uzbekistan.

Online marketplaces and platforms. The definition of digital services includes rendering services on provision of technical, organizational, informational and other opportunities, via the internet, carried out with the implementation of information technologies and systems for the purposes of establishing contacts and deals between sellers and purchasers (including the provision of a trade platform or marketplace, operating online where potential customers bid their price through the automated procedures, and parties are informed about sales by automatically generated messages).

Hence, services of online marketplaces and platforms may be subject to Uzbek VAT (if rendered to Uzbek private individuals, i.e., B2C). If digital services are provided by a non-established business to Uzbek private individuals through intermediary nonresidents that are collecting money from Uzbek private individuals based on commission, assignment, agency and other similar agreements with the supplier, then such foreign intermediary organization may be considered as a taxable person for Uzbek VAT purposes, and it would have an obligation to independently calculate and pay the VAT due.

Registration procedures. For Uzbek-established businesses, registration for VAT is completed by submitting an online application. In special circumstances, registration for VAT can be carried out by filing a paper application.

For non-established business supplying B2C digital services, the relevant notice for registration for VAT should be submitted to the tax authorities via the online platform (website http://tax.uz/en) or by an application in a written form. Based on using the platform, the following information is required to be filled in the application form for VAT registration:
• Company's name
• Address
• Website
• Official email address
• Country of registration
• Other identifying information
• Information about the services provided
• Information about the authorized person

Additionally, an application must include an extract from the register of legal entities of the respective country where the non-established business is registered (or another document confirming the legal status of the non-established business in its home country).

There are no established rules for the process of registration for non-established businesses that do not supply B2C digital services. As outlined in the subsection Non-established businesses above, B2B supplies of services made by a non-established business are subject to the reverse charge or withholding (depending on contractual terms), and there is no requirement for the non-established business to register. Import of goods is subject to import VAT at customs.

Deregistration. Taxable persons may deregister for VAT if their turnover falls below the registration threshold (only for those taxable persons to whom the threshold may apply). Taxable persons for whom the threshold does not apply (such as foreign legal entities with a permanent establishment in Uzbekistan or rendering B2C digital services) may deregister in the same way as a general taxable person or when they cease to have taxable turnover (whichever is applicable).

Changes to VAT registration details. When there is a change in the name of a taxable person, re-regigtration for VAT purposes is made automatically by the tax authorities based on the changes in the database of Center of State Services (where re-registration of the business name is applied for by the business) with subsequent notification to the taxable person.

Where there is a change in other details of a taxable person (e.g., address, bank details, etc.), the taxable person is required to file special forms to the tax authorities (generally online) informing them about the respective changes.

The procedure of notification can be done online via the personal portal of the taxable person (https://my.soliq.uz), by attaching and submitting the changing registration data of a taxable person. Alternatively, the forms can also be submitted manually, on paper.

A change of location (postal address) must be reported within 10 days from the date of the change; other changes generally must be reported within 30 days from the date of the change.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 12%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

The standard rate of VAT was reduced from 15% to 12% with effect from 1 January 2023.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods
- International transportation services
- Utility services provided to private consumers (until 1 April 2024)

The term "exempt" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Financial services (e.g., certain types of banking and insurance services)
- Sale of pharmaceuticals (e.g., drugs and medicines) (until 1 April 2024)
- Sale of prosthetic and orthopedic products, inventory for persons with disabilities, as well as services provided to persons with disabilities in orthopedic prosthetics, repair and maintenance of relevant products and inventory
- Educational services
- Veterinary services (until 1 April 2024)
- Passenger transportation services provided by the government (i.e., the public transport system)
- Turnover on the sale of goods and services purchased by state-funded organizations, state-owned enterprises and companies with a state share of 50% or higher within the framework of projects that are fully or partially implemented at the expense of public external debt from international financial institutions and foreign government financial institutions (excludes borrowed funds refinanced or refinanced through banks) (until 1 January 2028)

Option to tax for exempt supplies. The option to tax exempt supplies is not available in Uzbekistan.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point."

The basic time of supply for goods is the earlier of when the goods are shipped, the invoice is issued, or the ownership title is transferred to the purchaser.

The basic time of supply for services is the earlier of the issuance of the invoice or other document confirming the delivery of the service. There is no payment or performance tax point for services. When services are rendered on a free-of-charge basis (i.e., no payment), the tax point is determined as per the general rule – earlier of the issuance of a VAT invoice or other document.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Uzbekistan for deposits and prepayments (that are deductible from the total consideration for the supply). As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

However, deposits and prepayments that are not deducted from the total consideration for the supply are generally not within the scope of VAT, and as such, no time of supply rules apply for such payments.

Continuous supplies of services. The time of supply rule in Uzbekistan for the supply of continuous supplies of goods and services (e.g., sale of electricity, heating, water, gas, utilities, communication services, goods transported through pipes and other continuous supplies) is the last day of the month in which supplies are provided.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Uzbekistan for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

However, the time of supply rule in Uzbekistan for the supply of goods that are returned is the time the VAT is corrected in the invoice issued by supplier.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Uzbekistan for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Leased assets. The time of supply rule in Uzbekistan for the supply of leased assets (i.e., transferring assets on financial leasing) is the date of transfer of the assets to the lessee as per the act of acceptance signed by the lessor and lessee.

Imported goods. The time of supply rule in Uzbekistan for the supply of imported goods is the date of formalization of the import cargo custom declaration.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

Input tax is VAT charged on goods and services acquired by an entity for business purposes. A taxable person generally recovers input tax by deducting it from output tax (VAT charged on supplies made). Input tax consists of VAT charged on goods and services purchased in Uzbekistan, VAT paid on imports of goods and reverse-charge VAT paid.

VAT payable to the budget is generally determined as output tax charged less allowed input tax paid on purchases.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Uzbekistan is the reporting month for which the invoice is dated.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax incurred on purchases used to make supplies of exempt goods and services and on nonbusiness costs cannot be offset against output tax.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Input tax incurred in connection with the purchase of goods, services and fixed assets used to make exempt supplies
- Input tax incurred by nontaxable persons
- Input tax incurred from the purchase of representation and nonbusiness expenses
- Input tax incurred from the purchase of cars, motorcycles, helicopters, ships, airplanes and fuel for those vehicles, as well as alcohol and tobacco products, unless the purchase of those goods is related to the taxable person's business activity

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Input tax incurred on purchased goods, services and fixed assets used to make taxable supplies (including zero-rated supplies) and in connection to which a proper electronic VAT invoice or another equivalent document is received
- Import VAT paid on goods and reverse-charge VAT paid on services supplied by non-established businesses

Partial exemption. Input tax directly related to the making of exempt supplies is, as a rule, not recoverable. If a taxable person makes both exempt and taxable supplies, it may not recover input tax in full. The amount of input tax that a partially exempt business may recover is calculated using the general pro rata method or the direct allocation method. The method that is used is based on the tax accounting policy of the taxable person.

For the direct allocation method, all input tax incurred that relates directly to taxable turnover can be offset in full. Then the input tax incurred for overheads is recoverable based on the distributed ratio of turnover (total taxable turnover over total nontaxable turnover).

For the proportionate method, the taxable person calculates the ratio of total taxable and nontaxable turnovers. That ratio is then applied to all input tax incurred.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the chosen partial exemption method in Uzbekistan. A taxable person must, however, indicate the method used in its tax accounting policy. Special methods are not allowed in Uzbekistan.

Capital goods. Input tax incurred on capital goods (i.e., fixed assets) can be offset against output tax. This is, however, provided capital goods are used to make taxable supplies, the purchase price and the respective amount of VAT has been paid (they were not received free of charge), and a full VAT invoice is received.

Refunds. The excess of qualifying input tax to be offset against the amount of output tax for the reporting period is accounted toward future output tax (to following tax periods) or can be refunded to the taxable person. The refund option is available with effect from 1 July 2020. Before this date, excess input tax over output VAT could only be refunded for amounts related to zero-rated supplies, such as exports.

To request a refund, the taxable person must notify the tax authorities when filing a respective tax return, requesting the refund to the tax authorities. Then an in-house (desktop) tax audit is carried out on the refund amount requested. If, based on the results of the in-house (desktop) tax audit, the tax authority decides to fully or partially refund the tax amount claimed for refund, the indicated tax amount is returned to the taxable person no later than 30 days from the date of filing the tax refund application.

A "desktop tax audit" is a limited tax audit conducted remotely (i.e., without a physical visit to the premises of the taxable person) by the tax authorities to check the correctness and fullness of payment of a particular tax with regard to a specific issue/question, based on the tax returns, information, documents available to the tax authorities and obtained by the request from the taxable person.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Uzbekistan is generally not recoverable. However, in relation to input tax on inventory (purchased in the 12 months prior to VAT registration) and fixed assets accounted in the balance sheet as of the date of registration for VAT, the taxable person is eligible for offset in certain cases. This is provided that all other criteria for offset are also met (e.g., presence of full VAT invoice).

Bad debts. A taxable person can adjust the amount of output tax in relation to the write off of bad debts (as defined by the Tax Code in certain cases) within a limited time period of not later than one year after the event occurred. A bad debt is defined as a debt that cannot be settled due to cessation of liability as per a decision of court, bankruptcy, liquidation, death of the debtor or due to expiration of the statute of limitations. A bad debt is eligible for write off and subsequent offset/deduction only based on statutory documents confirming the occurrence of the above events.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Uzbekistan.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Uzbekistan is not recoverable. This is, however, subject to certain potential exceptions, for example, for diplomatic missions, consular offices of foreign states and organizations equated to them, accredited in Uzbekistan.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. There is a specific VAT invoice format in Uzbekistan, which is considered as a strictly accountable document based on which VAT is assessed. There are general invoicing rules, which must be used. Invoices should be issued upon completion of the services or upon transfer of the goods. Invoices must be retained for input tax to be offset. If the services are rendered on an ongoing basis, the invoice should be issued at the end of the month.

Credit notes. If there are changes in the terms of the supply (e.g., change in the volume of supply, a price change or if there is a return of the goods) the supplier may issue a correcting (adjusting) a VAT invoice that serves as the basis for the VAT adjustment (i.e., a credit note).

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Uzbekistan for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Uzbekistan. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Uzbekistan.

As of 1 January 2023, it is obligatory for VAT-registered taxable persons to issue full VAT invoices in electronic form using the tax authorities' special electronic invoicing online system, unless otherwise stipulated by the legislation for exceptional cases. For transactions with customers or suppliers that do not have access to the electronic invoicing system (for example nonresidents), taxable persons may issue VAT invoices unilaterally.

There are no mandatory software providers for electronic invoicing, while taxable persons may use different platform operators for such purposes. Data from the electronic VAT invoicing platform is absorbed automatically as data for output and input tax to draft VAT returns.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Uzbekistan. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Uzbekistan.

Proof of exports. Proof of exports to support zero-rated VAT (exemption with credit) are the commercial and transportation documents related to export sales, e.g., export customs declaration. Export customs declarations should have the mark of the customs authorities where the goods have been exported from. Depending on the type of activity carried out by a taxable person, other documents may be required to be submitted to confirm the export of goods (the list of documents and the procedure for their submission are approved by the Cabinet of Ministers of Uzbekistan).

Foreign currency invoices. Hard copy invoices issued to foreign customers can also be issued in USD or EUR, depending on the commercial terms of the agreement. However, electronic VAT invoices specifically issued for tax purposes to reflect supplies to foreign customers can only be issued in the domestic currency, which is the Uzbekistan so'm (UZS). If supplies are made within Uzbekistan, the invoices must be issued only in UZS. The Central Bank exchange rates must be used for the conversion, which are published on a weekly basis.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. In certain cases, such as retail B2C sales, taxable persons are required to issue unilateral electronic VAT invoices (i.e., an invoice issued by the taxable person in the system that does not have to be accepted by the counterparty of supply), to record such cases for VAT reporting purposes.

Records. In Uzbekistan, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include accounting records and supporting documents, invoices, contracts and transportation documents. Generally, all business transactions conducted by Uzbek legal entities should be supported by documents (e.g., agreements, VAT invoices, acts of acceptances).

In Uzbekistan, VAT books and records can be held outside of the country. However, there is no provision in the Uzbek tax law outlining where records should be held, and in practice, records are usually held in Uzbekistan. If held outside of Uzbekistan, records must be readily available to the tax authorities upon their request. There may be certain restrictions in accordance with the legislation on personal data.

Record retention period. Records must be retained for at least three years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is not allowed in Uzbekistan. Archiving must be made in paper form. However, as electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Uzbekistan, new rules may be issued by the tax authorities for electronic archiving. At the time of preparing this chapter, no rules on the implementation of electronic archiving have been issued. As such, physical records must be kept for now.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The filing of VAT returns is on a (calendar) monthly basis in Uzbekistan. Filing is due before 20th day of the month following the reporting period.

Tax reports (including returns and calculations) must be compiled and submitted by the taxable person to the local tax authority with which the entity is registered.

Periodic payments. Taxable persons must make VAT payments before 20th day of the month following the reporting period. Taxable persons must make VAT payments in UZS via wire transfer from their bank accounts to special treasury accounts of the budget. Non-established business registered for VAT in Uzbekistan can pay VAT in any foreign currency from a bank account.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Uzbekistan for all taxable persons. VAT returns must be filed electronically, via the tax authority's website (https://my.soliq.uz). To file VAT returns electronically, the taxable person must have an electronic signature from the tax authority's website to submit files online. However, if there is no possibility to submit VAT returns electronically, paper filing is still allowed (in special cases).

To file all applicable tax returns and tax reports electronically using the tax authorities' online system, the taxable person should obtain an electronic digital key (i.e., an "electronic digital signature" or "e-key").

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Uzbekistan.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Uzbekistan.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Uzbekistan.

Supplementary filings. VAT invoice register. A VAT invoice register must be submitted with the VAT return by the same deadline (see the Periodic returns subsection above). The VAT invoice register must include details of all VAT invoices issued and received in the VAT reporting period.

Correcting errors in previous returns. To correct errors in previously filed returns, a taxable person is required to file an additional VAT return correcting such errors, including any omissions in the original returns. Additional VAT returns are normally submitted online, in the same manner as a normal VAT return (as outlined under the subsection Electronic filing above).

Digital tax administration. Electronic invoicing reporting. Electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Uzbekistan. There are no mandatory software providers for electronic invoicing, while taxable persons may use different platform operators for such purposes. Data from the electronic VAT invoicing platform is used automatically as the data for output and input tax to automatically create draft VAT returns. For further details, see the subsection Electronic invoicing above.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for late registration of VAT is 5% of the revenue subject to VAT, the penalty applies from the date when the VAT registration was due, until the actual date of registration. The penalty cannot be less than UZS5 million (approx. USD405).

Penalties for late payment and filings. For nonpayment or late payment of VAT or for incomplete payment, a penalty is due of 20% of the amount underpaid or paid late.

For late or non-filing of the VAT return, the official representatives of the taxable person may be liable under the code of administrative liability.

Late payment interest is calculated 1/300th of the Central Bank's interest rate of the amount due, for each day of delay.

Penalties for errors. If an error leads to an understatement of VAT, late payment interest is due.

If an error leads to an overstatement of VAT, no penalties are due. An updated VAT return is required to be submitted to the tax authorities.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in administrative penalties. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. A range of penalties may be applicable in the case of VAT fraud, but there is no specific fine for fraud.

For the concealed understatement of the tax base, a penalty is due of 20% of the concealed understated amount (i.e., a deliberate evasion). In addition, criminal sanctions and administrative fines may be imposed if the amount in question is significant.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers may be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Uzbekistan. Penalties may be charged for failure to meet administrative responsibilities, intentional evasion of taxation, criminal penalties and sanctions.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Uzbekistan is three years. This is with effect from 1 January 2024. This is from the end of the tax period under examination. Before 1 January 2024, the statute of limitations was five years.

Venezuela

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Caracas GMT - 4½

Mendoza, Delgado, Labrador & Asociados
Avenida Francisco de Miranda
Centro Lido, Torre A, Piso 13
Caracas 1060
Venezuela

Indirect tax contacts

José Antonio Velazquez	+58 (212) 905-6621 jose.a.velazquez@ve.ey.com
Ivette Jimenez	+58 (212) 905-6753 ivette.jimenez@ve.ey.com
Damian Gomez	+58 (212) 905-6788 damian.gomez@ve.ey.com
Saul Medina	+58 (212) 905-6716 saul.medina@ve.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Impuesto al Valor Agregado (IVA)
Date introduced	1 October 1993
Trading bloc membership	MERCOSUR
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.mppef.gob.ve/) Tax Administration (SENIAT) (http://declaraciones.seniat.gob.ve)
VAT rates
Standard	16%
Other	Additional rates (5%–25%); zero-rated
VAT number format	Tax ID number (known as RIF) J-XXXXXXXX-X (numbers established by the tax administration)
VAT return periods	Monthly for VAT ordinary taxable persons/fortnightly for special taxable persons (high level of income taxable persons)
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The sale of tangible movable goods
- The final importation of goods
- The export of goods and services
- The provision of independent services performed or used in the country, including those coming from abroad

The definition of "services" includes the following activities:
- Any independent activity in which an obligation "to do something" is a principal element
- The provision of water, electricity, telephone and garbage collection services
- Civil works contracts, including personal and real property
- The lease of personal and real property intended to be used for purposes other than residential use
- The assignment of use of rights included in and regulated by the laws on industrial property (patents and marks) and intellectual property (copyrights) for valuable consideration

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Venezuela, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. A transfer of a going concern (TOGC) is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. In Venezuela for a TOGC, the transfer of immovable property and intangible goods (e.g., intellectual property rights, goodwill, contracts) are outside the scope of the tax. There are no conditions to be met for such transfers. However, tangible movable assets transferred as part of the TOGC will be subject to VAT at the standard rate.

Transactions between related parties. In Venezuela, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties.

C. Who is liable

Taxable persons are ordinary taxable persons such as habitual importers of goods, manufacturers, traders, service providers, and, in general, individuals or legal entities that as part of their business activities carry out activities classified as taxable for VAT purposes.

Financial leasing companies and banks are ordinary taxable persons with respect to the portion of the tax payable on the amortization of the price of tangible movable property, excluding interest.

Recipients of imported goods and services purchased from non-domiciled persons or entities are responsible for the tax due. As the "party responsible for the tax," the service recipient must declare and pay the VAT due on the imported goods or services. The tax paid by the recipient is treated as input tax for the responsible party and must be included in the tax return corresponding to the tax period in which the taxable event occurs.

Occasional taxable persons are non-habitual importers of tangible movable property.

Formal taxable persons are persons that exclusively carry out activities or operations that are exempt or exonerated from VAT.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Venezuela does not contain any provision for exemption from registration.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The VAT law in Venezuela does not contain any provision for voluntary VAT registration, as there is no registration threshold (i.e., all entities that make taxable supplies are obliged to register for VAT). The only exception would be a non-domiciled entity, which is not subject to registration, but still can file for a voluntary registration.

This will be applicable unless the foreign entity is conducting direct business in Venezuela and carries out VAT-taxable transactions on a permanent basis, in which case the VAT registration is mandatory.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Venezuela.

Fixed establishment. In Venezuela, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the permanent establishment rules for direct taxation may apply for VAT.

Subsequently, according to Article 7 of Income Tax Law, it defines a PE as any of the following:
- Fixed place through which the business of a foreign enterprise is wholly or partly carried on, either directly or indirectly through a representative or an employee. It specifically encompasses a place of management, a branch, an office, offices, factories, workshops, installations, warehouses, stores or other establishments; works of construction or installation, when its duration extends for more than six months, agencies or representations with the authority to bind the corporation in the country, a mine or any other form of extraction of natural resources (hydrocarbon, agricultural, farming, forestry, livestock farms)
- The undertaking of professional or artistic activities through a fixed place of business either by itself or through its employees, agents, representatives or other personnel hired for that purpose also trigger the creation of a PE
- Agents acting independently are excluded from this definition, unless they have the power to conclude contracts on behalf of the principle

Non-established businesses. Entities that conduct business in Venezuela are required to register and obtain a taxable person identification number even if they are not domiciled in the country. The non-domiciled taxable persons must request a temporary taxable person ID (RIF) from the tax authority, which is issued online.

Tax representatives. Appointing a tax representative is mandatory in Venezuela. Part of the required process for becoming a VAT-registered entity is to appoint a tax representative. Tax representatives are responsible for the companies in front of the tax administration. Said representatives can be directors, managers, administrators or legal representatives of the entities who will be appointed through the website of the tax administration (SENIAT).

Reverse charge. As a result of the "reverse-charge mechanism," the obligation to self-assess the VAT is switched to the recipient of the service. The law states the tax is self-assessed by the recipient "responsible" and "on behalf of the provider," but the input tax belongs to the recipient (the Venezuelan entity).

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Venezuela.

Digital economy. No specific VAT rules apply for digital economy transactions. For business-to-business (B2B) digital transactions, the customer is required to self-assess the corresponding VAT using the reverse-charge mechanism, only when the provider is not domiciled in Venezuela.

For business-to-consumer (B2C) digital transactions, since individual consumers are unlikely to be registered taxable persons, no VAT is anticipated. As such, non-established businesses that provided electronically supplied services (B2C) do not need to register for VAT. There are no other e-commerce rules for imported goods.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplace and platforms in Venezuela.

Registration procedures. Individuals, corporations and entities, domiciled or not domiciled in the country, that conduct business in Venezuela are required to obtain a taxable person identification number (RIF). Registration must be submitted online. Having an RIF is not a per se condition for being considered a taxable person.

The documents required by the tax administration for VAT registration are as follows:
- Datasheet of the tax administration (SENIAT), download from the website, which must be signed by the legal representative
- Bylaws of the company
- Identification of the legal representative and the document that proves their capacity
- Receipt of any public service or document that proves the fiscal address

The registration of the information should be online through the website of SENIAT; however, the formalization of the registry is required to be in person to file the documents and that the tax administration can validate the information provided in the datasheet.

Deregistration. This occurs upon notification to the tax administration. This applies when taxable persons are liquidated or merged within another entity, in which cases the taxable person ID of the entity that is absorbed or eliminated shall be deregistered.

Changes to VAT registration details. Taxable persons have the obligation to inform the tax administration, within a maximum period of one month of the event, the following events:
- Change of directors, administrators, reason or social denomination of the entity
- Change of fiscal domicile
- Change of the main activity
- Cessation, suspension or halt of the habitual economic activity of the taxable person

The change of any information should be made online and must be formalized in person with the file of the notification before the tax administration.

Withholding of VAT. The tax administration in Venezuela (SENIAT) has designated taxable persons qualified as "special taxable persons" as the persons responsible for the payment of VAT in their capacity as withholding agents. Special taxable persons must serve as withholding agents of the VAT generated by the purchase of personal property, or the provision of services provided by suppliers who are ordinary taxable persons.

The term "special taxable persons" is a category created by the tax administration referred to specific taxable persons that due to their high level of income or its business sector (i.e., oil and gas) are appointed as such by SENIAT and therefore are subject to additional obligations and formalities (specific calendar of compliance with tax returns/obligations as VAT withholding agent/VAT tax return made on a fortnightly basis).

The amount to be withheld is calculated by multiplying the price invoiced for the goods or services provided by 75% of the proportional tax rate (currently 16%). As a result, the effective withholding rate is 12%.

The VAT withheld is treated as an advance payment for the supplier and may be deducted from the tax liability in the period in which the withholding is made or in the period in which the withholding receipt was received, whichever is later.

If the tax withheld is higher than the VAT proportional rate in the relevant fortnightly period, the excess tax paid may be carried forward to the following periods until it has been deducted in full. If three periods expire and the excess has not been deducted, the taxable person may choose to request a refund of the amount from the tax authorities.

If the withholding is made in the period from the 1st to the 15th day of the month, the tax withheld must be submitted by the withholding agent to the national treasury within the following five working days. If the withholding is made from the 16th to the last day of the month, the tax withheld must be paid to the national treasury within the first five working days of the following month. For taxable persons who have been qualified by the SENIAT as "special taxable persons," a different due date applies in accordance with the calendar issued by the SENIAT.

The VAT withheld must be submitted on a fortnightly basis, considering the calendar issued by the tax administration.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 16%
- Additional rates: 5%–25%
- Zero-rate: 0%

VAT law indicates that the minimum rate is 8% and the maximum rate is 16.5%. The National Executive also has the authority to determine the respective VAT rate (general rate and luxury consumption rate) within ranges provided in the VAT law. The luxury consumption (additional rate) is currently 15%. The 15% rate also applies to the sale or import of certain goods specified in the VAT law and specific services.

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services unless a specific measure provides for a different rate.

The additional rate between 5% and 25% applies to goods and provision of services paid in foreign currency, cryptocurrency or crypto assets other than those issued and backed by Venezuela (e.g., petro, a cryptocurrency created by the Venezuelan government).

At the time of preparing this chapter, the additional rate has not entered into force, considering that the National Executive has not established what the corresponding additional rate is.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of tangible personal property and tangible movable property
- Exports of services

Exempt goods and services are not liable to tax. The Venezuelan VAT law provides for the exemption and exoneration from VAT. Exemption is the entire or partial exemption of the payment of the tax obligation, granted by the special tax law. Exoneration is the entire or partial exemption of the payment of the VAT obligation, granted by the executive power.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 15%

- Membership and maintenance fees of restaurants, nightclubs and bars with restricted access
- The rental of ships or aircraft for civilians, among others, for recreational activities or sports
- Services provided by third parties through text messaging or other technological means
- Cars imported or manufactured in the country with a value equal to or higher than USD40,000
- Motorcycles imported or manufactured in the country with a value equal to or higher than USD20,000
- Airplanes used for exhibitions, advertisement, recreation or sports purposes
- Ships and vessels for recreation and sports purposes or for particular use of its owner
- Gaming machines that use coins or cards
- Caviar
- Lease of ships for recreation and sports purposes or airplanes used for exhibitions, advertisement, recreation or sports purposes
- Services rendered on behalf of third parties, through text messages or other technological means

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Food and goods for personal consumption such as bread, rice, salt, sugar, coffee, milk, pasta and margarine
- Books, newspapers and magazines
- Education provided by institutions registered in the Ministry of Education, Culture and Sports and the Ministry of Superior Education
- Public transportation of passengers by land or sea
- Tickets to national parks, museums and cultural centers
- Banking and insurance services
- Imports made by diplomatic agents, in accordance with international treaties subscribed to by Venezuela
- Medical assistance services
- Residential electricity
- Fertilizers

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Option to tax for exempt supplies is not allowed in Venezuela.

E. Time of supply

VAT generally becomes due when the taxable event occurs.

For sales of tangible personal or tangible movable property the following is the time of supply:
- For sales to public entities: when the payment order is authorized
- For all other sales: when the invoice or the necessary documents are issued, or when the payment is due or made, or the tangible property is delivered, whichever is earlier

For supplies of services, the following is the time of supply:
- For supplies of electricity, telecommunications and broadcasting and television services: when the invoice is issued
- For services rendered to public entities: when the payment order is authorized
- For services rendered on a recurrent basis: when invoice is issued, payment is due or made, whichever is earlier
- For other services: when the invoice or equivalent document is issued, when the payment occurs or when the service is provided, whichever is earlier
- For services received from abroad that are not subject to customs procedures: when the service is received

For all other supplies, the time of supply is when the invoice or equivalent document is issued, when payment is made or when the property is received, whichever is earlier.

Deposits and prepayments. There are no special time of supply rules in Venezuela for deposits and prepayments. As such, therefore the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). This establishes that for all other supplies not listed in the VAT law, the time of supply is when the invoice or equivalent document is issued, when payment is made or when the property is received, whichever is earlier.

Continuous supplies of services. VAT becomes due in cases of services rendered on a recurrent basis when invoice is issued, payment is due or made, whichever is earlier.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. There are no special time of supply rules in Venezuela for supplies of goods sent on approval for sale or return. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). This establishes that for all other supplies not listed in the VAT law, the time of supply is when the invoice or equivalent document is issued, when payment is made or when the property is received, whichever is earlier.

Reverse-charge services. There are no special time of supply rules in Venezuela for supplies of reverse-charge services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). This establishes that for all other supplies not listed in the VAT law, the time of supply is when the invoice or equivalent document is issued, when payment is made or when the property is received, whichever is earlier.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Venezuela for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above). This means that VAT must be accounted for upon issuance of the invoice, payment or when the consideration is enforceable.

Imported goods. The time of supply for imports is when the registration of the customs return is due.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

Input tax (tax credit) is tax paid on supplies of goods and services acquired in the course of a taxable business activity. Input tax is deducted from the amount of output tax, which is the tax charged on the taxable person's operations during the tax period. Input tax credit arises from the tax paid on the purchase and import of personal property or the receipt of services that are related to costs or expenses properly incurred in the habitual economic activity of the taxable person. Under the VAT law, input tax is considered to be effectively paid by the recipient of the goods or services when the taxable event occurs.

If the input tax is higher than the output tax in the relevant monthly/weekly period as the case may be, the difference may be carried forward to the following periods until it has been fully deducted.

There is no set time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Venezuela. This means that effectively the input tax (VAT credit) may be carried forward indefinitely until its complete recovery. If the input tax is reflected in the VAT return, it can be used at any time to be offset with output tax.

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for making taxable supplies. Input tax may not be recovered if no documentation supports the transaction or if one or more formal invoice requirements are not fulfilled.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Input tax is deductible on every item that complies with the requirements (subject to VAT and related to a taxable business use)

Partial exemption. In Venezuela, partial exemption is not applicable. There are, however, exonerations (total or partial exemption from the payment of the tax obligation, granted by the Executive Power in the cases authorized by the law) that are temporary and can last up to one year. In case of input tax partially associated to taxable transactions, it can be recognized as input tax only on a pro rata basis, in cases where no separate accounts are used to discriminate both taxable and nontaxable transactions.

Capital goods. There are no specific input tax recovery rules for capital goods. As such, the general input tax rules apply. The acquisition and sale of tangible movable assets will be taxable for VAT purposes whether or not such goods are referred to capital goods. In cases where acquisition of goods is used for both taxable and exempted activities, the attribution of the input tax shall be on a pro rata basis, in cases where it is not separately recognized. Regarding the use of the input tax from acquisition of goods note that such right is applicable for 12 months after issuance of invoice. This is the general rule to be observed under VAT law.

Refunds. If the amount of the deductible input tax is greater than the total tax payable in a tax period, the resulting difference is treated as a tax credit in favor of the taxable person, which may be carried forward to the next or subsequent tax periods.

The right to offset tax paid (tax credit) against the tax payable on sales (tax debit) is a personal right of each ordinary taxable person. This right may not be transferred to third parties, except in the following cases:

- Drawback of tax credits related to the purchase and acquisition of goods and services in the normal course of export activities (see Drawback of tax credits for exporters)
- Merger or absorption of companies; in a merger, the resulting company enjoys the remaining balance of the tax credit that corresponded to the merged companies

Drawback of tax credits for exporters. Ordinary taxable persons that export domestic goods or services are entitled to a drawback of the tax credits paid for the acquisition and receipt of goods and services with respect to their export activities.

Application for drawback. To obtain the drawback of credits, the exporter must file an application with the SENIAT, stating the amount of the tax credit claimed. The SENIAT must give its opinion on the admissibility of the application within 30 business days. If the SENIAT does not express its opinion with respect to the application in the period of 30 business days, the taxable person may choose to wait for the decision or consider the expiration of the period to be equivalent to the rejection of the application. In the latter case, the taxable person may take the appropriate judicial action.

The drawback becomes effective on the issuance of special tax drawback certificates (Certificados Especiales de Reintegro Tributario, or CERT), with a face value equal to the amount approved by the SENIAT with respect to the claim. The exporter may use this amount to offset its own tax payments due to the National Treasury or it may transfer the credit to third parties.

Suspension of tax credits. A taxable person that is involved with the development of an industrial project that takes more than six tax periods to be developed may suspend the use of the tax credits generated during the preoperational stage of the project. The taxable person may use domestic and imported capital goods and purchase services that add value to the goods or that are necessary for the goods to perform the function for which they are designed, until the tax period in which they begin to generate taxable income. The tax credits are adjusted taking into account the consumer price index for the Caracas metropolitan area published by the Central Bank of Venezuela, from the period when the tax credits arose until the tax period in which the first tax payment is generated.

With the approval of the SENIAT, taxable persons that are involved in industrial projects aimed essentially towards exporting or generating foreign currency may choose to be refunded the tax paid during the preoperational stage.

Recovery of tax credits for special taxable person. In the case where the withheld tax is higher than the tax quota of the respective tax period, the surplus that has not been discounted can be carried forward to the next tax period or the following ones, until its total discount. If after three tax periods there is a surplus that has not been discounted, the taxable person can request the full or partial recovery of the accrued amount.

Recovery of tax credits for exporters. Taxable persons that carry out export activities related to goods or services of national production are entitled to recover the tax credits supported by the acquisition and reception of goods and services for their export activities.

Recovery of tax credits for oil industry. Mixed companies (empresas mixtas) that carry out activities related to oil and gas. Such companies are entitled to the recovery of tax credits related to the sale of natural hydrocarbons created in the country to Petroleos de Venezuela, S.A. or its subsidiaries.

Pre-registration costs. Input tax incurred on pre-registration costs in Venezuela is not recoverable.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Venezuela.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Venezuela.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Venezuela is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. Taxable persons must provide VAT invoices for all sales of goods and supplies of services. Invoices may be replaced by other documents authorized by SENIAT after such authorization is granted.

Credit notes. The VAT ruling establishes that the exchange or return to the seller of goods, merchandise or products purchased, made because they are in poor condition, expired, damaged, for not matching quality or characteristics to those actually acquired, or other causes will not constitute a new sale, but will give rise to the issuance of credit notes or the issuance of new substitute invoices of the previously issued ones, which will be annulled.

If the merchandise is returned only in part, the tax credit will be limited to the part of the price corresponding to such part. The credit notes must be registered with a negative sign in the invoice column of the sales book. When substitute invoices are issued, it must be recorded in the sales book, in the same column where the amount of the voided invoice was recorded.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Venezuela, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Venezuela. In Venezuela, electronic invoicing is only permitted for taxable persons that are large services providers (usually utilities) and can be private or public legal entities, as per the following operations:

- Electricity
- Travel agencies and similar
- Airlines.
- Insurance companies
- Cargo courier and messaging
- Issuance of vouchers, coupons, tickets and electronic cards for food, health, toys and other social benefits
- Drinking water
- Domestic gas
- Urban cleaning
- Basic telephone services
- Mobile telephone services
- TV by subscription
- Internet

In addition to executing business activities identified above, taxable persons must comply with the following requirements:

- Issue more than 10,000 monthly invoices
- The database has an activity record in which all actions carried out for the issuance, modification or cancellation of invoices and other documents are electronically recorded
- Have technical capacity or hire the services of a third party to back up on a daily, weekly and monthly basis the information contained in invoices

Electronic invoices must be stored in a database and have the technical capacity to be able to safeguard and support all the information contained in the digital invoices (in accordance with the provisions of number 3 of Article 4 of Administrative Order No. SNAT/2014/0032 of 2014).

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified invoices issued by tax machines (tickets) are allowed for ordinary VAT taxable persons, duty free shops and those that are not considered ordinary taxable persons, when the annual gross income is higher than 1,500 tax units (1 tax unit is equivalent to VE0.9/USD0.25 and/or where businesses mainly execute transactions with customers that will not be using the invoice to support an expense claim, among other conditions.

Self-billing. Self-billing is allowed in Venezuela. However, it is only allowed for supplies under the reverse-charge mechanism (i.e., the import of services).

Proof of exports. The document (e.g., commercial invoice, bill of lading, custom/export return) filed before the customs authority would be sufficient proof of export for VAT purposes. The sale made to a qualifying exporter would be subject to VAT. There is no legislation in respect of any special wording or legislative references required on a VAT invoice relating to an export sale.

Foreign currency invoices. A VAT invoice can be issued in foreign currency, but it must also indicate the value of the supply in the domestic currency, which is the Venezuelan bolivar (VES), using the exchange rate published by the Venezuelan Central Bank on its website for the date of the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Venezuela. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Venezuela, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include books, invoices and other accounting documents, such as magnetic media, discs, tapes and the like or other elements, which have been used to make the corresponding entries and records. In Venezuela, VAT books and records must be held within the country.

Record retention period. Records must be kept during the statute of limitation. Under Master Tax Code, the statute limitation is a period between 6 and 10 years. The 10-year record retention period is limited to taxable persons that do not comply with the obligation to declare taxable events or file the corresponding tax returns on time. For further details see the Statute of limitations subsection below, under Section J. Penalties.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Venezuela. Records must be kept and archived in hard copy and electronically. Records must be available in case of any requirement from the tax administration.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax is assessed for monthly tax periods. Tax returns must be submitted within the first 15 days following the tax period. It should be filed online.

In the case of special taxable persons, the VAT return shall be filed on a fortnightly basis after the taxable events occur. The due date is established by the tax administration on a special calendar. "Special taxable persons" is a category created by the tax administration that refers to specific taxable persons that, due to their high level of income or their business sector (i.e., oil and gas), are appointed as such by SENIAT and therefore are subject to additional obligations and formalities (specific calendar of compliance with tax returns/obligations as VAT withholding agent/VAT and income tax advance tax return made on a fortnightly basis).

Periodic payments. The payment of any tax due must be submitted within the required timing, i.e., for ordinary taxable persons – 15 days after monthly period concludes or special taxable persons one week after the fortnightly period concludes, based on calendar issued by tax administration. It should be filed online and should be paid before any bank institution that is appointed as tax collector (major banks and public banking institutions).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Venezuela for all taxable persons. Electronic filing should be made through the portal website of SENIAT (http://declaraciones.seniat.gob.ve/portal/page/portal/PORTAL_SENIAT).

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Venezuela.

Special schemes. Special taxable persons. The taxable persons qualified as "special" (high level of income) by the tax administration will act as withholding agents for the VAT invoiced by their suppliers of goods or services. The tax administration defined high level of income for entities and corporations to those who have obtained gross income equal to or greater than the equivalent of 30,000 tax units, as indicated in their last annual affidavit filed, in the case of taxes that are settled for annual periods, or that have been made sales or provision of services for amounts equal to or greater than the equivalent of 2,500 tax units per month, as indicated in any one of the six last returns filed, in the case of taxes that are settled by monthly periods.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Venezuela.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Venezuela. However, there is an obligation to maintain a sales book, among other books (i.e., a daily book, inventory book, mayor book (ledger), shareholder book, shareholders meeting minutes book). Nevertheless, these books must be provided to the tax authority only when it is required through a legal procedure. In this sense, it is not considered a supplementary filing.

Correcting errors in previous returns. In accordance with the VAT law, a substitute tax return will only be required to be filed for the periods subject to adjustments when these originate a difference in tax payable, taking into account the payment made in a substituted declaration, if applicable, and without prejudice to the interest and corresponding penalties.

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Venezuela.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. The penalty for late registration is closure of the office (when applicable) for 5 days and a fine of the equivalent of 50 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The penalty for late payment and filings will be:

- Less than one year from the expiration date
  - Late filing: a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela
  - Late payment: a fine of 0.28% of the amount due for each day of delay up to maximum of 100%
- After one year but less than two years from the expiration date
  - Late filing: closure of the office (when applicable) for 10 days and a fine of the equivalent of 150 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela
  - Late payment: an additional fine than previously indicated equivalent to 50% of the amount due

- Delay exceeding two years from the expiration date
  - Late payment: an additional fine to what was previously indicated equivalent to 150% of the amount due

The penalty for nonpayment of VAT is a fine between 100% and 300%.

Failure to withhold VAT may result in the following penalties:
- For not withholding, a penalty equivalent to 500% of the tax not withheld will be applicable
- For applying a withholding in a lower amount, 100% of the 100% of the tax not withheld will be applicable
- For late payment of the withholding tax (WHT), a penalty equivalent to 5% of the amount withheld for each day of delay up to a delay up to a maximum of 100 days will be applicable delay up to a maximum of 100 days will be applicable
- For nonpayment of WHT, a penalty of 1,000% of the WHT due and possible imprisonment between six months to seven years will be applicable

Supplementary VAT returns (substitutive) are allowed when there is a VAT amount to be paid (output tax higher than input tax). Submission of substitutive (rectifying) declarations is subject to fines only after the file of the second substitution or when the first substitute declaration is submitted after the 12 months following expiration of the deadline for the presentation of the substituted declaration. In these cases, a fine equivalent to 50 times the official exchange rate of the currency of greater value published by the Central Bank of Venezuela will apply.

In case of failing to notify the tax authorities of a change in VAT status, the taxable person will be sanctioned with closure of 5 continuous days of the office or establishment, in case is applicable, and a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.

In those cases, in which more than one substitute tax return is filed or the first substitute tax return is filed after the term established in the respective regulation, a fine equivalent to 50 times the official exchange rate of the currency of greater value published by the Central Bank of Venezuela will apply.

Penalties for errors. Noncompliance of formal duties are sanctioned as follows:
- Filing of the declaration in a form not authorized by the SENIAT
  - Penalty: fine equivalent to 50 times the official exchange rate of the currency of greater value published by the Central Bank of Venezuela will apply.
- Failure to exhibit accounting books when ordered to by the SENIAT
  - Penalty: closure of the office (when applicable) for 5 days and a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.
- Providing the SENIAT with false information
  - Penalty: fine equivalent to 100 times the official exchange rate of the currency of greater value published by the Central Bank of Venezuela will apply.
- Breaching the SENIAT's requirements for purchases and sales books
  - Penalty: closure of the office (when applicable) for 5 days and a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.
- Failure to issue invoices or required documents
  - Penalty: closure of the office (when applicable) for 10 days and a fine of the equivalent of 150 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.

- Issuing invoices that do not comply with tax requirements
  - Penalty: closure of the office (when applicable) for 5 days and a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela.
- Failure to notify changes
  - Penalty: closure of the office (when applicable) for 5 days and a fine of the equivalent of 100 times the official exchange rate of the highest value currency, published by the Central Bank of Venezuela. See the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. The penalty for tax fraud is a term of imprisonment, ranging from six months to seven years.

Personal liability for company officers. The directors, managers, administrators or representatives of entities and corporations are jointly liable for the taxes, fines and accessories derived from the assets they administer.

In cases of commission of illicit punishments with restrictive penalties of freedom, their directors, managers, administrators, representatives or trustees who have personally participated in the execution of the illicit will be responsible.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Venezuela is 6 or 10 years. These two limitations apply to different actions, as outlined below.

- Six-year limit:
  - The action to verify, supervise and determine the tax obligation with its accessories
  - The action to impose tax sanctions, other than the restrictive penalties of freedom
  - The action to demand the payment of tax debts and definitive financial penalties
  - The right to the recovery of taxes and the refund of undue payments
- Ten-year limit:
  - The taxable person does not comply with the obligation to declare the taxable event or to file the corresponding tax returns
  - The taxable person does not comply with the obligation to register in the control registers established by the tax administration for the purposes
  - The tax administration has not been able to know the taxable event, in the cases of verification, tax audit and determination ex officio
  - The taxable person has extracted from the country the goods subject to the payment of the tax obligation or in the case of taxable events linked to acts carried out or to goods located abroad
  - The taxable person does not keep accounting or records of the operations carried out, does not keep them during the established period, or keeps double accounting or records with different contents

Vietnam

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Hanoi GMT +7

EY
Corner Stone Building
8th Floor
16 Phan Chu Trinh Street
Hoan Kiem District
Hanoi
Vietnam

Indirect tax contacts

Huong Vu
+84 (24) 3211- 6662
huong.vu@vn.ey.com

Trang Pham
+84 (24) 3211-6665
trang.pham@vn.ey.com

Ho Chi Minh City GMT +7

EY
Bitexco Financial Tower
28th Floor
2 Hai Trieu Street
District 1
Ho Chi Minh City
Vietnam

Indirect tax contacts

Robert M. King
+84 (28) 3629-7744
robert.m.king@vn.ey.com

Thinh Xuan Than
+84 (28) 3629-7775
thinh.xuan.than@vn.ey.com

Anh Tuan Thach
+84 (28) 3629-7366
anh.tuan.thach@vn.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Thue Gia tri gia tang (GTGT)
Date introduced	1 January 1999
Trading bloc membership	Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN)
Administered by	Ministry of Finance (http://www.mof.gov.vn)
VAT rates
Standard	10%, 8% (a short-term VAT rate reduction policy applies at 8% for all standard-rated supplies, apart from certain qualified goods/services that remains at 10%, and this is in place until 30 June 2024)
Reduced	5%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Tax ID number - 9999999999 (10 digits)

VAT return periods	Monthly or quarterly
Thresholds
Registration	None
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to goods and services used for production, business and consumption in Vietnam, including goods and services purchased from foreign suppliers, except for those specifically identified as not subject to VAT.

VAT on imported goods is payable by the importer within the same time limit for declaring and paying import duty.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment" rules that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in every jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Vietnam, no services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be outside the scope of the tax under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Vietnam, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where the certain conditions are met. When transferring assets upon division, separation, consolidation, merger, or transformation of an enterprise, the enterprise is not required to issue an invoice as well as declare and pay VAT, provided that the enterprise having the transferred assets must have an asset-transfer order, enclosed with a set of documents on the origin of assets. In addition, the transfer of an investment project to produce VAT taxable goods or services in accordance with the Law on Investment is not subject to VAT.

Transactions between related parties. In Vietnam, under the general rules, the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties must be based on the market price, except for where fixed assets are in use. Specifically when such assets are depreciated when transferring at the carrying value between an enterprise and its 100%-owned units or between its 100%-owned units to serve the production and business of goods and services subject to VAT, then such parties are not required to issue invoices as well as declare and pay VAT. Enterprises with fixed assets to be transferred must have an asset-transfer order enclosed with a set of documents on the origin of assets.

C. Who is liable

Organizations and individuals that produce and trade in taxable goods and services in Vietnam or who import taxable goods and services from overseas (referred to in this chapter as "businesses") are liable to pay VAT. Businesses for these purposes include the following:

- Business organizations with business registrations issued under Vietnamese laws
- Economic organizations of political, social and professional organizations and units of the people's armed forces

- Enterprises with foreign-owned capital incorporated under Vietnamese laws, foreign party to a business cooperation contract under the investment law, and foreign corporations and individuals conducting business in Vietnam that have not established a legal entity in Vietnam
- Individuals, family households, partnerships and other forms of businesses conducting production, trading or import activities in Vietnam
- Organizations and individuals conducting production and business in Vietnam and purchasing services (including services attached to goods) from foreign organizations without a permanent establishment in Vietnam or foreign individuals who are nonresidents of Vietnam
- An Export Processing Enterprise (EPE) and its branches (if any) that are established to trade in goods and do the tasks related to goods trading in Vietnam in accordance with the laws of Vietnam
  - An EPE imports goods for manufacturing and then re-exports the goods. An EPE is generally not subject to the requirement of VAT filing in Vietnam. However, under current regulations an EPE is also allowed to do some trading activities that are indicated in an EPE's business license. To perform trading activities, an EPE is required to separately account and declare relevant expenses/revenues from its manufacturing operations. Accordingly, an EPE is liable to register, declare and make payment of VAT for its trading activities. This means that trading activities conducted by an EPE and its branches (if any) shall be treated similarly to transactions of local entities

No VAT registration threshold applies in Vietnam.

In certain cases, VAT declaration and payment are not required. Examples of cases where tax declaration and payment are not required:

- Organizations and individuals that receive revenues from compensation (including compensation for land and land-attached assets upon land recovery under decisions of competent state agencies), bonus, support, transfer of emission rights and other financial revenues (except for compensation/cash supports received for the purpose of performing service of repair, warranty, sales promotion or advertising to supporters, in which case VAT declaration and payment are required)
- Services provided by foreign organizations that do not have a permanent establishment in Vietnam, limited to the following: repair of vehicles, machinery and equipment (including supplies and spare parts); advertising and marketing; investment and trade promotion; goods sale and service provision brokerage; training; and sharing of charges for international post or telecommunications services provided outside Vietnam between Vietnamese and foreign partners, and lease of communication and transmission lines and foreign satellite frequency bands in accordance with law
- Assets sold by nonbusiness individuals or organizations (which do not have to pay VAT when selling their assets)
- Organizations/individuals that transfer investment projects on production or trading of goods or services liable to VAT to enterprises and cooperatives
- Assets used for capital contributions

Exemption from registration. The VAT Act in Vietnam does not contain any provision for exemption from registration. Notwithstanding, EPEs and suppliers of nontaxable supplies are exempted from VAT filings (see detail above in respect of EPEs).

Voluntary registration and small businesses. Ongoing enterprises and business cooperatives that (1) adopt full Vietnamese Accounting Standards, as well as accounting books (together with invoices) under Vietnamese regulations and (2) generate revenue less than VND1 billion per year from the supply of goods and services subject to VAT, may apply to register voluntarily to deduct VAT.

A foreign individual or corporation doing business in Vietnam may also register if it satisfies the following conditions:
- It has a contract with a Vietnamese entity for 183 days or more or is a resident of Vietnam
- It has a permanent establishment in Vietnam
- It adopts full Vietnamese Accounting Standards or keeps accounting books in accordance with Vietnamese accounting laws

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Vietnam.

Fixed establishment. In Vietnam, there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes. However, the corporate income tax (CIT) law's definition of permanent establishment for a foreign enterprise also applies for VAT. This is defined as a permanent place of business where the activities of the enterprise take place in part or in full.

Non-established businesses. Foreign contractors that have a permanent establishment in Vietnam, that conduct business in Vietnam for 183 days or more and that adopt the Vietnamese Accounting Standards/Hybrid Method pay VAT in accordance with the tax credit method and pay their tax liabilities directly to the tax office. Otherwise, they must pay VAT on a withholding basis.

As outlined above, there are two methods for VAT calculation (under the current VAT regulations) in Vietnam:
- Credit method: declare the input and output tax and pay to authority the offset amount between output and input tax
- Withholding method/direct method: fixed tax rate on added value/revenue

A foreign contractor will elect the most suitable method for its VAT filings in Vietnam, subject to fulfillment of relevant conditions. For example, if it anticipates that it will incur a lot of local input tax, it will apply credit method.

The tax authority will issue a tax number for each foreign contractor (FC) when they register directly with the tax authority. Otherwise, the Vietnamese contracting party will be responsible for registering and declaring the tax liability for the FCs on their behalf.

Foreign nonresident entities selling goods and services in Vietnam via digital and e-commerce platforms must directly register and pay taxes in Vietnam or authorize a Vietnamese party to do so on their behalf. Tax liabilities are determined based on fixed tax rates on revenue. Detailed guidance on tax registration, declaration and payment has been issued and took effect from 1 January 2022. The tax authorities' online portal went live on 21 March 2022, and foreign nonresident entities are required to submit their tax registration and declarations via the portal.

If foreign nonresident entities fail to register to declare and pay taxes, relevant parties, including Vietnamese contracting parties or commercial banks/intermediary payment service providers, will be responsible for registering and declaring the tax liabilities on their behalf. For further details, see the Digital economy subsection below. In addition, non-established businesses are required to retain all related information used for determining their Vietnam-sourced income in accordance with the Law on Tax Administration in the event of a future tax audit by the Vietnamese tax authority.

Tax representatives. Tax representatives are not required in Vietnam.

Reverse charge. Reverse-charge services relate to foreign contractors who apply the foreign contractor tax (FCT) declaration under the deemed method. Upon making the payment, the Vietnamese purchasers must self-assess and withhold the FCT amount (including VAT and corporate income tax).

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Vietnam.

Digital economy. For business-to-business (B2B) transactions, the supply of a lease/rent/license for the right to use intellectual property (IP) may be subject to VAT, since it is not considered as a transfer of ownership right in accordance with the Vietnam law on intellectual ownership rights. If the supplier is a nonresident business and does not register to declare and pay taxes in Vietnam, the customer should withhold, declare and pay VAT via the withholding tax regime. The applicable VAT rate for the payment of such activities is 5%.

For business-to-consumer (B2C) transactions, the individual customer makes payment directly to the nonresident business (e.g., by way of credit card). By regulations, there would be a FCT of 5% VAT on the payment. The withholding parties would be commercial banks/intermediary payment service providers. Nonresident business must register to declare and pay taxes directly to the tax authority.

Regulations on the import/export procedure for e-commerce goods are being developed. At the time of preparing this chapter, such regulations are at the drafting stage.

Online marketplaces and platforms. New rules came into effect 1 July 2020 for cross-border business activities based on digital intermediary platforms. The foreign parties must register for VAT directly with the tax authority or authorize a representative in Vietnam to do so on their behalf. Otherwise, VAT will be withheld by Vietnamese counterparties, commercial banks or payment service providers who facilitate the offshore payment. Detailed guidance on the implementation of these new rules has been issued and took effect from 1 January 2022. The tax authorities' online portal went live on 21 March 2022, and foreign suppliers are required to submit their tax registration and declarations via the portal.

Registration procedures. For newly established businesses that have completed incorporation procedures and received an incorporation license, the incorporation number shown on the license serves as the tax registration number. No separate registration procedures are required. The local business registration office/authority shall – internally – inform the local tax office where a newly established business is located. The application for new enterprise can be submitted online or by paper, including the following documents:

- Enterprise registration request form
- Enterprise charter
- List of investors/members and identification documents of individual investors, business registration certificate of organization investors
- Decision on enterprise establishment
- Investment registration certificate for foreign investors as stipulated under the Law on Investment

When a newly established business has an office, factory, branch or outlet engaging in direct sales in another province, different from the locality of the headquarters, such office, factory, branch or outlet must separately pay VAT to the local tax office where it is located, except for certain cases in which the head office can declare and pay VAT. However, there is no need to register with the local tax office of such office, factory, branch or outlet. When the headquarter sets up an office, factory, branch or outlet in another province, it shall need to update its tax registration information with a local business registration office/authority in the locality where its office, factory, branch or outlet is located. This registration office/authority shall internally inform the local tax office the number of this newly licensed office, factory, branch or outlet, which is also the tax number.

Other businesses (e.g., foreign contractors having a permanent establishment in Vietnam) must register for tax purposes within 10 working days from the date on which contract award agreements are signed. This registration requires the regulated form (i.e., Form 04-DK-TCT), a copy of contractor license (or the equivalent issued by competent authority) and a copy of the acknowledgment/confirmation of the registration of the project office establishment (or the equivalent issued by the competent authority). Within three working days of receiving the sufficient dossier, the tax authority will issue the tax code for the taxable person.

Currently, there is no process for registering for a tax code online.

Deregistration. When the organization/individuals end their business in Vietnam, they need to proceed with the closure of the tax code after clearance of current tax liabilities (Article 14, Section 4, Circular 105/2020/TT-BTC).

Changes to VAT registration details. Upon any change to taxable person registration information (e.g., company name, address, type of business), taxable persons must notify the changes and apply for amendment of its business registration certificate (if required) to the licensing authority (i.e., Business Registration Division of local Department of Planning and Investment where the company's headquarters is located) within 10 working days with changes to business registration information as prescribed. The local business registration office/authority shall – internally – inform the local tax office where a newly established business is located.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 10%, 8% (a short-term VAT rate reduction policy applies at 8% for all standard-rated supplies, apart from certain qualified goods/services that remains at 10%, and this is in place until 30 June 2024)
- Reduced rate: 5%, 8%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services, unless a specific measure provides for a reduced rate, the zero-rate or an exemption.

From 1 November to 31 December 2021, taxable persons in sectors heavily affected by COVID-19, such as transportation services (e.g., transport by railways, water, air, road), lodging services, food service, etc., could obtain a 30% reduction on VAT rates (i.e., the applicable VAT rates will be reduced by a third). For example, when a taxable person issues a VAT invoice with 10% VAT, it would indicate 10%*70% on the tax rate line.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%
- Exported goods and services, including goods and services sold to overseas organizations or individuals outside Vietnam, as well as goods and services supplied to organizations or individuals in non-tariff areas
- Construction and installation carried out overseas or within export processing zones
- International transportation

Examples of goods and services taxable at 5%
- Water (except for bottled water)
- Medicine and medical equipment (except for medicine included in medical service package)
- Teaching tools
- Agricultural products
- Residential housing for sale or lease

In 2022, the government issued a decree to introduce a 2% VAT reduction applicable to the goods and services subject to 10% (i.e., a reduced VAT rate of 8%). The 8% rate applies to all supplies except for supplies subject to a reduced rate (at 5%) or the standard rate (at 10%). Initially this 8% VAT rate was applicable from 1 February to 31 December 2022. On 30 June 2023, the government issued another decree to apply a 2% VAT reduction for the same scope of application for the period from 1 July to 31 December 2023. At the time of preparing this chapter, the National Assembly has just released a resolution to extend the above VAT reduction period for another six months, i.e., the concessional treatment shall be continued till 30 June 2024.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 10%

- Telecommunications services
- Information technology services
- Financial activities, banking, securities and insurance services
- Real estate business services
- Metal production and manufacture of products from prefabricated metal
- Mining industry (excluding coal mining), production of coking coal, refined petroleum, production of chemicals and chemical products
- Goods and services subject to special consumption tax.

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Raw agricultural products
- Livestock
- Aircraft, oil rigs and ships that are not locally produced and that are leased from overseas
- Land-use rights
- Credit activities, credit guarantees, financial leases and financial derivative services
- Capital transfers
- Securities transfers
- Life insurance services
- Health services, veterinary medicine services, including medical examination and treatment services for humans and animals
- Care services for elderly people and disabled people
- Education and vocational training
- Publication of newspapers, magazines and certain kinds of books
- Public transportation by bus and electric car
- Reinsurance services
- Technology transfers
- Public sewage services
- Foreign currency trading
- Debt transfers
- Credit card issuance
- Factoring
- Exported natural resources that are not processed or cover 51% into other products inclusive of energy cost

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Option to tax for exempt supplies is not allowed in Vietnam.

Foreign contractors. Foreign contractors that supply goods and services to Vietnam are subject to the following deemed VAT rates:

- Trading goods (separate value from service in the contract): exempt
- Services: 5%
- Construction and installation with supply of materials and equipment: 3%
- Construction and installation without supply of materials and equipment, or if supply of materials and equipment is subcontracted: 5%
- Supply of machinery and equipment with installation, training, operation and trial operation services, if the value of each activity is not calculated separately in the contract: 3%
- Transport and production: 3%
- Other business: 2%

VAT is withheld at source by the Vietnamese party to the contract unless the foreign contractor has registered for tax.

Business individuals. Business individuals who have annual income of over VND100 million are subject to the following deemed VAT rates:
- Supply of goods: 1%
- Construction (without supply of materials) and services (including leasing of assets): 5%
- Construction (with supply of materials and equipment), manufacturing, transportation: 3%
- Other business: 2%

E. Time of supply

For goods, the time of supply for VAT purposes (the tax point) is when the ownership or use rights of the goods are transferred, regardless of whether the payment is made.

For services, the tax point is when the service is completely performed or when the invoice for the service is issued, regardless in both cases of whether the purchaser makes payment.

Deposits and prepayments. For deposits or advance payments that are made to ensure the execution of contracts for provision of accounting, audit, financial consulting, taxation services, valuation services, technical survey and design services, supervision consulting services, and investment construction project formulation services, the tax point is not determined at deposit payment or advance payment and no invoice issuance is required. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

For all other deposits and prepayments, the tax point is when the prepayment is made, requiring an invoice to be issued.

Continuous supplies of services. There is no special time of supply rules in Vietnam for supplies of continuous supplies of services. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The time of supply rules for goods sent on approval for return is, in principle, the same as that for sale, i.e., when the transfer of the ownership has occurred. If goods are returned to the seller because the buyer finds that the goods are not in line with a previous agreement between the parties in respect of their quality, quantity and characteristics, etc., an adjustment invoice should be issued by the buyer or the seller that clearly states the reason for the return and the amount of VAT.

Reverse-charge services. Reverse-charge services relate to foreign contractors who apply the Foreign Contractor Tax (FCT) declaration under the deemed method. Upon making the payment, the Vietnamese purchasers must self-assess and withhold the FCT amount (including VAT and corporate income tax).

Leased assets. There is no special time of supply rules in Vietnam for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Imported goods. For supplies of imported goods, VAT becomes due at the time of registration of the customs declarations.

Installment sales. For supplies of installment sales, VAT becomes due when the purchaser possesses the right to use the goods.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

Businesses may claim input tax paid on goods or services used for the production or trading of goods or services that are subject to VAT. Businesses recover input tax by offsetting it against output tax (VAT on sales).

To be entitled to VAT credit, a document evidencing payment made through a bank is required except for the case where the purchase value is less than VND20 million. Bank payments must be made from the bank account of the buyer(s) to the bank account of the supplier(s).

In general, a valid tax invoice must be retained to support claims for input tax credits. The tax invoice must state the pretax price, the VAT and the total amount payable.

The basis for determining the amount of deductible input tax is the amount of VAT stated on the following:
- Valid tax invoice for the goods or services
- Documentation evidencing VAT payment at the stage of importation
- Documentation evidencing VAT payment on behalf of a foreign party

If a business establishment discovers that it has not deducted an amount of VAT in its declaration because the tax invoice or receipt of the tax payment was omitted, it may make an additional declaration requesting the credit. However, any additional VAT credit declaration must be made before the tax authority announces a decision about any tax inspections carried out at the premises.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Vietnam is, in principle, the period during which the input tax is incurred, whether the products are used or still in storage. If the taxable person finds that the input tax is incorrectly declared, an adjustment may be made before the tax authority, or a competent authority, announces the decision on tax inspection at the taxpayer's premises.

Nondeductible input tax. Businesses may not claim input tax paid on goods or services used for producing or trading nontaxable goods or services. They also cannot claim the input tax of the unrelated expenses or incorrect payment method as regulations.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Golf expenses for employees
- House rental fees for foreign employees who have signed labor contracts with the company; in cases in which these expatriates are assigned to work in Vietnam by the foreign parent company but remain employees of the foreign parent company during their secondment period in Vietnam (i.e., they receive salaries and other benefits from the foreign parent company), and the Vietnamese entity and the foreign parent company enter into a written agreement that states that the Vietnamese entity shall bear all accommodation fees for these expatriates during their secondment period in Vietnam, input tax of these accommodation fees is creditable
- Expenses for invoices paid in cash with the value of more than VND20 million

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Expenses paid for raw materials, offices supplies, transportation, etc.

Partial exemption. Businesses that produce or trade taxable and nontaxable goods or services must maintain separate accounts for input tax paid on goods or services used for taxable and nontaxable goods or services. If no separate accounts are maintained, the deductible input tax is calculated using a ratio based on the proportion of taxable turnover compared with total turnover.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method or special methods in Vietnam.

Capital goods. "Capital goods" are defined as tangible fixed assets such as building, machines, equipment, etc. When capital goods are purchased and relate to both taxable and exempt supplies made by a taxable person, an apportionment must be calculated to work out the percentage of the goods that relates to the taxable supplies. This percentage can only be deducted as input tax, and the remaining percentage that relates to the exempt supplies is not allowed to be deducted. There are no special rules for capital goods in respect of time and duration of use.

Refunds. Businesses that pay VAT using the tax credit method (see the Non-established businesses subsection above for detail on this method) are eligible for a refund of VAT in the following circumstances:

- The business exports goods and services (including goods imported to export) during a month or quarter and has a credit balance of input tax of at least VND300 million at the end of that month. The refund is granted monthly or quarterly.
- An incorporated establishment is entitled to a refund if it is in the investment stage of a new project (except investment projects that construct houses for sale, investment projects without constituting any fixed assets) and if it has accumulated input tax of at least VND300 million that has not been credited against output tax of its operating businesses. Business establishments of conditional business lines shall be eligible for VAT refund for investment projects as prescribed above if their investment projects fall into the following cases:
  - Investment projects in the investment stage and have been granted licenses to engage in conditional business lines by competent state agencies according to regulations of laws on investment and specialized laws under one of the following forms: licenses, certificates or documents on verification and approval
  - Investment projects in the investment stage that are yet to be required to apply for licenses to engage in conditional business lines issued by competent state agencies according to regulations of laws on investment and specialized laws under one of the following forms: licenses, certificates or documents on verification and approval
  - Investment projects that are not subject to licenses to engage in conditional business lines according to laws on investment and specialized laws under one of the following forms: licenses, certificates or documents on verification and approval
- In the following events, a business shall not be eligible for a refund but can carry forward remaining deductible VAT on its investment project to the subsequent period:
  - The charter capital of the investment project of the business has not been fully contributed as registered as per the laws
  - An investment project is carried out by a business that undertakes conditional trade(s) but is not satisfying business conditions as per the Investment Law; in other words, such investment project is run by a business that engages conditional trade(s) but is not licensed by the competent authorities to engage in conditional trade(s) under one the following forms: licences, certificate or documents on verification and approval or does not meet conditions to perform conditional trade(s) without needing a written verification or approval according to laws on investment (except the case entitled to a VAT refund mentioned above)
  - An investment project is carried out by a business that undertakes conditional trade(s) but fails to sustain business conditions during its operations; in other words, such investment projects are run by a business that engages in conditional trade(s) but has its relevant license(s) (licences, certificate or documents on verification and approval) revoked during its operations; or during the operation the business fails to meet the conditions to undertake conditional trade(s) as per the laws on investment. In these events, the business shall be ineligible for the refund of VAT upon the revocation of one of the said documents or upon being exposed by competent government authorities as having failed to meet the conditions for conditional trades
  - An investment project for extraction of natural resources and minerals that has been licensed since 1 July 2016 or an investment project for production of goods of which the value of natural resources and/or minerals plus the energy cost makes up 51% of its prime cost or above, except for oil and gas field exploration and development projects as regulated
- The business establishment that uses the deduction method shall receive a refund of the surplus VAT or the VAT that is not completely deducted when there is a change of ownership, or when the enterprise is converted, merged, amalgamated, divided, dissolved and bankrupt or shut down

- Foreigners and Vietnamese people residing abroad who have passports or entry papers issued by foreign competent authorities shall receive refunds of VAT paid on goods purchased in Vietnam and taken abroad
- VAT will be refunded when paid by programs/projects using nonrefundable ODA, nonrefundable aid or humanitarian aid
- A taxable person eligible for diplomatic immunity who purchases goods and services in Vietnam shall receive a refund of the VAT stated on the VAT invoice or the receipt that indicates the VAT-inclusive price
- Refunds will be paid when a business establishment receives a decision on VAT refunds from the competent authorities and when VAT refunds are due according to international agreements to which the Socialist Republic of Vietnam is a signatory

An application for a refund must be submitted to the tax authority (that is, to the tax department or to the general tax department in some special cases). Taxable persons may file an electronic claim online or file a physical claim directly or by post to the supervisory tax authority.

The notice detailing the outcome of the tax refund application shall be sent to the applicant within six working days (in the case of refund before examination) or within 40 days (in the case of examination before refund).

Pre-registration costs. A taxable person may recover input tax it incurred prior to registering for VAT. It must hold the invoices bearing the name of the authorized business. The invoices of which the value is VND20 million or more (inclusive of VAT) must be reimbursed via the bank of the company and not via the tax authority.

Bad debts. Output tax accounted for on supplies that do not get paid by the recipient (i.e., bad debts) cannot be recovered in Vietnam.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Vietnam.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses, such as household businesses and individual businesses that pay VAT under the method of VAT calculation directly based on added value, not the tax credit method, is not recoverable. From a tax perspective, individual businesses are resident persons having business operation and are granted separate tax codes. "Household business" means a business or manufacture facility established by an individual or members of a household who take responsibility with all of their property for its business operation.

A VAT refund is allowed only for businesses using the tax credit method. A foreign contractor that has no legal presence in Vietnam but conducts business or derives income from activities in Vietnam may recover VAT if it adopts the Vietnam Accounting Standard/Hybrid and it satisfies certain bookkeeping and tax registration requirements. To be eligible for VAT recovery, a foreign contractor must meet all the following conditions:

- It has a permanent establishment in Vietnam or is a resident of Vietnam
- It conducts business in Vietnam under the contractor's or subcontractor's contract for 183 days or more beginning on the date on which the contract takes effect
- It adopts the Vietnam Accounting Standard/Hybrid Method

Foreign contractors that do not apply the Vietnam Accounting Standard/Hybrid Method may not recover input tax unless a specific international agreement entered into by Vietnam provides otherwise.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A taxable person must provide an invoice for all taxable supplies made, including exports. There are four categories of invoices:
- Invoices of exports for exporting transactions; from 1 July 2022, all exporting transactions are required to use VAT e-invoices or sales e-invoices (see the Electronic invoicing subsection below); commercial invoices can be still used for customs procedures for exportation
- VAT invoices for transactions of taxable persons applying the tax credit method
- Sales invoices for transactions of taxable persons applying the direct method or Export Processing Enterprise (EPE)
- Others, including receipts, tickets and other vouchers

The invoices can be presented in the following forms:
- Invoice printed by order: produced by a printing house by order of tax authorities for provision or sale to taxable person
- Electronic invoice: must be created, issued and processed on computers of issuer under the law on e-transactions

The tax authorities may sell only blank invoices to a few specified persons such as nonbusiness organizations, individuals and households that generate sale revenue.

A valid invoice is necessary to support a claim for input tax deduction.

Credit notes. Credit notes are not available in Vietnam. An adjustment or cancellation to a supply is reflected by way of an adjustment invoice. If it is return of goods, the buyer or the seller is required to issue an invoice accordingly..

When a seller discovers that an e-invoice with a certified code from the tax authority that has not been sent to a buyer contains errors, the seller shall inform the tax authority by using a provided form for the cancellation and prepare a new e-invoice. If an e-invoice with or without a certified code from the tax authority that has been sent to the buyer is detected by either the buyer or seller to contain errors, it shall be handled as follows:

a) If the buyer's name or address is wrong but the tax code and other information are correct, the seller shall inform the buyer of the errors and is not required to reissue the invoice. The seller shall inform the tax authority of the erroneous e-invoice by using a provided form, unless data about the erroneous e-invoice is not yet sent to the tax authority.
b) If the information about the tax code, amount, tax rate, tax amount or goods on the invoice is wrong, the seller shall (1) create an e-invoice to correct the erroneous one; or (2) issue a new e-invoice to replace the erroneous one. The seller and the buyer may agree to prepare a document specifying the errors before the seller issues a correction invoice for a new replacement invoice.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Vietnam for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory in Vietnam. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Vietnam. This is with effect from 1 July 2022.

All taxable persons must prepare to meet the information technology infrastructure requirements for e-invoicing. Some taxable persons, such as SMEs, that fail to meet the information technology requirements after 1 July 2022 can use the VAT invoices (paper-based) issued by the tax authority for a maximum 12 months, and the tax authority shall enforce gradual transition into e-invoice.

The electronic invoices can be presented in the following two forms:

- Electronic invoice with a certified code from the tax authority: an electronic invoice that is assigned an identification code by the tax authority before an organization or individual selling goods or providing services sends it to buyer
- Electronic invoice without a certified code from the tax authority: an electronic invoice that an organization selling goods or providing services sends to the buyer in the absence of a tax authority's identification code. Subject to the approval of local tax authority, business entity shall register to use such kind of electronic invoice via the portal of General Department of Vietnam Taxation

At the time of preparing this chapter, the government is considering issuing a decree to revise some regulations in current Decree 123 on e-invoices. It is not clear, however, when the amendment decree will be issued and when it will take effect.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified invoices are only allowed to be issued in the following circumstances:

- An e-invoice does not necessarily have the customer's electronic signature (including goods/services sold to overseas customers)
- E-invoices separately issued by tax authorities do not necessarily bear the digital signatures of the buyer and the seller
- E-invoices for oil/gas supplies to nontaxable persons (B2C) can omit invoice name, form number, reference number and number of the invoice; the buyer's name, address, tax code number and electronic signature; the seller's digital or electronic signature; and VAT rate
- Electronic documents for air transport services being considered as e-invoices issued via websites and e-commerce systems to nontaxable persons (B2C) following international practices do not necessarily bear the reference number, form number and number of the invoice, VAT rate, the customer's tax code number and address, and the supplier's digital signature
- Invoices for construction and installation, or construction of houses for sale under installment plans do not necessarily bear the unit, quantity and unit price
- Delivery and internal transfer note are not required to contain tax rate, tax amount and total amount payable
- Invoices for interline payment between airliners issued in accordance with regulations of the International Air Transport Association (IATA) do not necessarily have the reference number and form number of the invoice; name, address, tax code number and electronic signature of the customer, unit, quantity and unit price
- Invoices issued by an airline to its agents according to reports verified by two parties and general statements do not necessarily contain the unit price
- Invoices for construction, installation, production or provision of products/services of enterprises servicing national defense and security in accordance with the government's regulations do not necessarily bear the unit, quantity and unit price

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Vietnam.

Proof of exports. Exports of goods and services are zero-rated. Proof of export is required. The required documents to claim a refund of input tax include contracts for the sale of goods, legitimate invoices, customs declarations for exporting goods or evidence of exporting services consumed outside of Vietnam for exporting services and proof of payment through a bank by foreign parties.

Foreign currency invoices. If an invoice is allowed to be issued in a foreign currency in accordance with regulations of the law on foreign exchange, all values on the invoice must be reported in the foreign currency without having to be converted into the domestic currency, which is the Vietnamese dong (VND). The seller must use an acceptable exchange rate on invoices.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. Suppliers using electronic invoices must issue a full VAT invoice for each transaction, except for transactions that do not require VAT declaration and payment as aforementioned (see section C. Who is liable above).

Records. In Vietnam, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include documents and other accounting records (including VAT invoices and related documents supporting input tax claims).

In addition, non-established businesses are required to retain all related information used for determining their Vietnam-sourced income in accordance with the Law on Tax Administration in the event of a future tax audit by the Vietnamese tax authority.

In Vietnam, VAT books and records cannot be held outside of the country. In general, records must be physically kept at the premises of the enterprise or at Vietnamese storage supplier during their operation in Vietnam. Upon termination of operations in Vietnam, the legal representative of the entity shall decide where to store the books and records, which can be in Vietnam or outside.

Record retention period. The following general guidelines apply to the retention of documents and other accounting records (including VAT invoices and related documents supporting input tax claims):

- Documents to be kept for at least five years include those used for management or operation of the enterprise
- Documents to be kept for at least 10 years include accounting data, accounting books, financial statements and reports of independent auditing firms
- Documents to be kept permanently include those that are significant in terms of economics, national security and defense

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Vietnam. Enterprises can choose whether to keep the records in physical form or electronically. E-invoices must be maintained in electric form (XML format), kept in a secured manner to protect them from being altered and assessable to tax authority upon request. Upon the request from competent authorities for the purpose of inspection, enterprises might be required to print out the electronic records, sign and seal to provide.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. Businesses are generally required to file a monthly tax return to the tax office by the 20th day of the following month. Exceptions are taxable persons that make quarterly declarations, of which the deadline is the last day of the first month of the following quarter (this is permitted for businesses whose revenue in the previous year is VND50 billion or lower). Newly established entities are eligible to choose the option of filing VAT on a quarterly basis. After 12 months of operation as of the following calendar year, if eligible for quarterly VAT declarations for satisfaction of the condition on revenue of goods/services of the prior full calendar year, the entity can request permission of the local tax authority to continue declaring VAT quarterly.

If the entity is eligible for paying VAT on a quarterly basis and would like to change from the quarterly to monthly VAT declaration, it is required to notify the local tax office under statutory Form No. 01/DK-TDKTT within the deadline of the first month of the year it commences the monthly VAT declarations at the latest. The method of VAT declaration must be fixed for a calendar year.

Periodic payments. Businesses are generally required to remit the monthly VAT payable to the tax office by the 20th day of the following month or quarterly VAT payable by the last day of the first month of the following quarter. This deadline changed from the 30th day of the following quarter, with effect from 1 July 2020.

Any excess input tax paid may be credited in the following period or refunded if the business is eligible for a refund (see Section F).

A business that imports goods subject to VAT must file a customs declaration and remit VAT payable on each occasion when goods are imported. The time limit for notices and payments of VAT with respect to imported goods is the same as the time limit applicable to notices and payments of import duties.

VAT liabilities must be paid in Vietnamese dong (VND). Tax payment can be made via banks. This is done by the taxable person filling out a payment to state budget form and submitting to the commercial bank (which can be done online or in person), and therefore not paying directly to state treasury, but via a commercial bank instead.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is allowed in Vietnam, but not mandatory. Where a taxable person is carrying out business in a locality with online access, it must make its declarations, pay tax and make transactions with the tax authority as prescribed by the laws on electronic transactions. Different online systems (i.e., both online and offline software such as eTax, iHTKK) have been deployed across Vietnam to facilitate electronic filing.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Vietnam.

Special schemes. Business individuals and household business. There is a special scheme that applies for business individuals and household business (in terms of tax rates). Periodical filings apply to large-scale household businesses and individual businesses or other household businesses and individual businesses that choose to pay taxes under periodical filings. For this, they must comply with accounting, invoices and documents. In addition, they are not required to finalize taxes. Individual businesses that have casual business operations and do not have fixed business locations shall pay taxes when arisen.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Vietnam.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Vietnam. However, in case the tax declaration dossier submitted to the tax authority is erroneous or inadequate, supplementary documents may be provided within 10 years from the deadline for submission of the erroneous or inadequate tax declaration dossier but before the tax authority or a competent authority announces a decision on tax document examination.

In addition, non-established businesses are required to retain all related information used for determining their Vietnam-sourced income in accordance with the Law on Tax Administration in the event of a future tax audit by the Vietnamese tax authority.

Correcting errors in previous returns. If the taxable person detects errors in a submitted VAT return after the deadline, the taxable persons may submit supplementary filings to correct errors in previous returns, which can be done online or in paper. The revised returns can be submitted to the local tax authority in any working days, regardless of the next deadline, as long as it is submitted before the local tax authority announces its decision on tax inspection at taxable persons' premises. Supplementary documents include:
- The supplementary tax returns
- The explanation for the supplementation and relevant documents

Noted that if the supplementary filing gives rise to additional tax payable, the taxable person will be subject to late payment interest.

When the decision on tax inspection has been issued:
- Adjustments can be made if errors in the submitted returns are not relevant to the scope of inspection and the inspection periods and late payment interest will be imposed

- Adjustments can be made if errors in the submitted returns are relevant to the inspection period but not relevant to the scope of inspection and late payment interest will be imposed
- Adjustments can be made if errors that are relevant to the inspected periods and the scope of inspection lead to an increase in the amount of tax payable or a decrease in the amount of tax refunded or a decrease in the amount of overpaid taxes. In this case, taxable persons will incur penalty as if such errors are detected by the local authority during tax inspection

If the local tax authority has issued the decision to settle the increase/decrease of deductible input tax, taxable persons shall adjust tax returns of the period during which the decision is received (no supplementary filing is required).

Digital tax administration. There are no transactional reporting requirements in Vietnam.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. Failure to comply with registration requirements (if applicable) may result in a fine. The penalty for late registration ranges from VND1 million to VND10 million, depending on the length of the delay.

Penalties for late payment and filings. Interest is imposed for late payment of VAT at the progressive rate of 0.03% per day from 1 July 2016.

Failure to comply with tax filing requirements may result in a warning or a fine ranging from VND2 million to VND25 million, depending on the length of the delay.

Penalties for errors. The fine for understatement of tax payable or overstatement of refundable tax, exempt tax shall be 20% of the tax arrears or overstated refundable tax, exempt tax.

Late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a warning or a fine ranging from VND500,000 to VND7 million, depending on the specific circumstance. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Tax evasion or tax avoidance if incurring may result in a fine ranging from one to three times of the tax arrears.

Personal liability for company officers. In general, company officers are not personally liable for the company's tax violations, unless criminal intent is detected.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Vietnam is 2, 5 or 10 years. The tax authorities can go up to 10 years back to review returns and identify errors and impose a shortfall amount of tax and late payment interests. For administrative penalties, the time limit is two or five years, depending on the violation. Taxable persons that fail to apply for a tax registration shall pay all the tax arrears and late payment interest that ever arose before the day of discovering the violations.

Zambia

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Lusaka GMT +2

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 35483
Lusaka
Zambia

Street address:
Plot No. 354437
Alick Nkhata Road
Lusaka 10101
Zambia

Indirect tax contacts

Patrick Mawire
+260 (211) 37 8300
patrick.mawire@zm.ey.com

Towera Temba-Nkanza
+260 (770) 70 8664
towera.temba-nkanza@zm.ey.com

Sam Kabanga
+260 (211) 37 8312
sam.kabanga@zm.ey.com

Nsatusile Mgode
+260 (211) 37 8312
nsatusile.mgode@zm.ey.com

At the time of preparing this chapter, the Zambian Government passed legislation that indicated that sales tax will not come into effect and VAT will remain in place.

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 July 1995
Trading bloc membership	Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA) Southern African Development Community (SADC) African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) At the time of preparing this chapter, Zambia is a signatory to the AfCFTA and has submitted the instruments of ratification.
Administered by	Zambia Revenue Authority (ZRA) (www.zra.org.zm)
VAT rates
Standard	16%
Other	Zero-rated (0%) and exempt
VAT number format	Taxable person identification number (TPIN) – 100XXXXXXX
VAT return periods	Monthly
Thresholds
Registration	ZMW800,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	Yes, subject to certain conditions

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
• Supply of goods and services in Zambia by a taxable person

- Reverse charge on services provided by a nonresident to a taxable person in Zambia
- Importation of goods and services from outside Zambia, regardless of the status of the importer

Effective 1 January 2024, the VAT Act provides that a recipient of an imported service is liable to pay tax on the importation of that service if:
- The recipient of the service did not pay tax in the jurisdiction from which the service was exported from.
- The supplier of the service is not a Zambian resident and has not appointed a tax agent.
- The services supplied do not fall under the Act's definition of cross-border electronic services.

Input tax accrued from imported services cannot be claimed, deducted or form a tax credit.

In addition, effective 1 January 2024, it has been clarified that the VAT on the importation of goods shall be charged as if the tax as a duty under the Customs and Excise Act and is accordingly payable by the importer of the goods.

The VAT Act provides that goods are regarded as being supplied in Zambia if:
- The goods are exported from Zambia.
- The goods are supplied within Zambia.
- The supply of the goods involve entry into Zambia.
- The supply involves installation or assembly of the goods at a place in Zambia.

Withholding VAT. Withholding VAT is a mechanism where the responsibility to account for and pay the VAT due on the supply of goods or services is shifted to the person making the payment, i.e., the customer. Withholding VAT works very much in the same way as normal VAT. The revenue authority through the Commissioner-General appoints agents for purposes of withholding VAT on payments made to VAT-registered suppliers. Normally, large companies with a lot of suppliers are appointed as withholding VAT agents, e.g., mining and manufacturing companies. Once the agent is appointed, the legal obligation of the VAT due on all supplies shifts to the agent from the supplier. Therefore, ultimately, the responsibility to ensure that all the VAT that is due on the agents' purchases is properly accounted for and is remitted to the revenue authority by the due date shifts to the agent.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Zambia, electronically supplied services are subject to the "use and enjoyment" provisions (for both business-to-business [B2B] and business-to-consumer [B2C]). The requirement means that a tax agent must be appointed by the non-established supplier to register for VAT and comply with regulatory obligations.

Transfer of a going concern. Transfer of going concern rules do not apply in Zambia. As such, VAT applies to all sales of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets.

Transactions between related parties. In Zambia, there are no specific rules that indicate the value for VAT purposes for transactions between related parties. However, the Transfer Pricing Regulations (Statutory Instrument No. 24 of 2018), outlines that such transactions must be valued at arm's length. This means that the results of a controlled transaction should be consistent with the results that would have been realized in a comparable transaction between independent persons dealing under comparable conditions. This entails that such transactions involving goods and services supplied in Zambia must be at arm's length, subject to VAT at the appropriate rate.

C. Who is liable

Any person who makes supplies of taxable goods and services in Zambia in the course of a business is liable to register for VAT if the person's turnover exceeds either of the following thresholds:
- Turnover of ZMW800,000 in any 12 consecutive months
- Turnover of ZMW200,000 in any three consecutive months

Turnover tax. Turnover tax (tax charged on gross sales) rather than VAT applies to certain businesses, including those with a turnover of less than ZMW800,000. This tax is calculated at the rate 4% of the total turnover and the remittance cards for returns are to be submitted both manually and electronically. Manual submissions are made by the 5th of the following month to which the return relates, and electronic submissions are made on the 14th of the month following the month in which the transaction occurred. However, the remittance of turnover tax is due by the 14th of the month following the month in which the sales are made.

Exemption from registration. The VAT law in Zambia does not contain any provision for exemption from registration where an entity qualifies as a taxable person. However, where the Commissioner-General is satisfied that all supplies of a business are zero-rated, they may by notice waive the requirement of the business to register. However, the Commissioner-General reserves the right to rescind the decision any time they deem it necessary.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. A taxable person with an annual turnover of less than the statutory registration threshold has the option to register under a voluntary registration if it satisfies the prescribed conditions.

A business registered under voluntary registration is required to:
- Renew the registration every 12 months
- Notify the Commissioner-General in writing 30 days before the expiry of the 12-month period of its intention to renew the registration

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Zambia.

Fixed establishment. In Zambia there is no legal definition of a fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. A "non-established business" is a business that does not have a fixed establishment in Zambia. A foreign company may not register for Zambian VAT unless it has a place of business in the country. It must also make taxable supplies of goods or services.

A foreign business that makes supplies in Zambia must appoint a representative who is responsible for registration for and payment of VAT. If an agent is not appointed, the non-established business may not deduct input tax (see Section F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons).

Tax representatives. Foreign companies or persons who do business in Zambia but do not reside in Zambia can appoint resident Zambians to act as their representatives. The representatives can be held responsible for tax purposes on behalf of their principals in their representative capacities only.

A tax agent is liable on behalf of the supplier to ensure the following:
- Keep and preserve, or produce records or accounts
- Furnish a tax return
- Pay tax or interest under the VAT Act
- Comply with any requirement of the Commissioner-General in respect of the business

However, it is worth noting that a supplier is not able to deduct, create a tax credit or claim input tax except in the case whereby the supplier at time of lodging the return where the deduction, tax credit or claim is made has the following documents:
- A tax invoice issued from a serially numbered invoice book.
- A tax invoice issued from a computer package authorized by the Commissioner-General for the purpose of invoicing taxable supplies.
- An invoice issued from the approved system.
- An invoice with contents in accordance with the administrative rule made by the Commissioner-General.
- In the case of imported goods, import bills of entry and documentary evidence of the payment of tax that Commissioner-General may, by administrative rule determine.

Reverse charge. A reverse charge may apply for services received by a taxable person in Zambia from a non-established service provider. The Zambian VAT law requires that a taxable person must act on behalf of a non-established supplier of services with respect to matters relating to tax, in the following circumstances:
- The supplier is a company that does not have a business establishment in Zambia.
- The supplier is an individual or partner in a partnership that does not have a usual place of residence in Zambia from which to appoint a person resident in Zambia as a tax agent.

If a tax agent is appointed, the agent invoices the recipient of the services for the VAT payable, collects the tax and accounts for it to the tax authorities. The recipient of the services may claim input tax relief on the basis of the invoice issued by the tax agent (see Section F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons).

If no tax agent is appointed, the recipient of the service must self-assess for the VAT due and declare the output tax as if it were the supplier. However, in this case, no input tax relief may be claimed.

Domestic reverse charge. There are no domestic reverse charges in Zambia.

Digital economy. The taxation of electronic services in Zambia is whereby tax is payable on the provision of an electronic service in Zambia where that service is performed, undertaken or utilized in Zambia or the benefit of the supply is for a recipient in Zambia regardless of whether the provider of the service has a place of business in Zambia, or the service is paid for outside Zambia.

Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services to B2C supplies are required to appoint a tax agent resident in Zambia. The tax agent is then responsible for registration and payment of VAT on behalf of the supplier on its supplies.

Nonresidents providing electronically supplied services to B2B supplies are not required to register and account for VAT in Zambia. Instead, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT via the reverse-charge mechanism (see the Reverse charge subsection above).

Effective 1 January 2024, the definition of an "electronic service" has been redefined in the VAT Act to mean, a service provided or delivered through the internet, electronic or digital network. Additionally, "cross-border electronic services" have been defined to mean electronic services supplied in Zambia by a supplier who is resident or carries on business outside Zambia. Notably, the amendment VAT Act has repealed and not replaced the applicable section with regard to the tax chargeable on electronic services. At the time of preparing this chapter, the tax authority's practice note for detailed and practical guidance on the implication has not been released. As with other imported services, if the non-established business has no registered office in Zambia, the supplier will be required to appoint a tax agent resident in Zambia to account for VAT. In absence of tax agent, the customer would account for the VAT as output tax. For further details, see the subsection Tax representatives above.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Zambia.

Online marketplaces and platforms. No special rules exist for online marketplaces and platforms in Zambia.

Registration procedures. Businesses are required to apply for VAT registration if they make supplies of taxable goods/services, and their turnover exceeds registration threshold of ZMW800,000 per annum.

Businesses apply by filing a prescribed ZRA application form either manually (by paper) or using e-registration. The following documents must be attached:
- Sketch of map of location
- Bank statements covering a period of three months
- Business plan
- Certificate of registration or incorporation
- Evidence records like cash book, purchase daybook, sales daybook, invoice books, a set of accounts and confirmed orders/signed contracts for existing business
- Tax clearance certificate
- VAT knowledge form

Businesses whose turnover does not meet the statutory threshold may register for VAT voluntarily.

Deregistration. A taxable person whose turnover falls below the registration threshold for VAT can deregister after the end of the relevant accounting year. The taxable person is required to notify the Commissioner-General in writing through Form VAT 99. To complete any deregistration, the taxable person is required to ensure that there are no tax obligations on that account.

Changes to VAT registration details. Changes to VAT registration details (such as the change in the trading name of the business or the name and/or address of any partner in the business, a change in the address of the principal place at which the business is carried out) shall not require the cancellation of registration. The taxable person must notify any Domestic Taxes Office for amendment of such details and update these details online.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero-rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 16%
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods or services unless a specific measure provides for the zero rate or an exemption.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods
- Books and newspapers
- Foreign aid donations
- Medical supplies and drugs
- Petrol and diesel
- Bread and wheat

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that does not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Health and educational services
- Supply of water and sewerage services
- Most public transport services
- Real estate transactions
- Financial services (except fee-based banking services, which are subject to VAT at the standard rate)
- Insurance services (except property insurance and casualty insurance, which are subject to VAT at the standard rate)
- Basic foods
- Agricultural supplies

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Option to tax for exempt supplies is not allowed in Zambia.

E. Time of supply

The time when VAT becomes due is called the "time of supply" or "tax point." In Zambia, the tax point is when the earliest of the following events occurs:

For the supply of goods:
- The time when they are removed from the seller or supplier's premises.
- The time when made available to the person to whom they are supplied.
- Then a payment is received.
- The time when a tax invoice is issued.

For the supply of services:
- The time when a of supply for prepayments is the date when payment is received.
- The time when a tax invoice is issued.
- The time when they are rendered or performed.

Deposits and prepayments. Most deposits serve primarily as advance payments, and they therefore create tax points when received. However, certain deposits are not consideration for a supply and their receipt does not create a tax point. This latter treatment includes deposits taken as security to ensure the safe return of goods hired out, provided that they form part of the consideration, the time of supply is when the deposit is refunded when the goods are returned safely.

Continuous supplies of services. If a supplier provides services on a continuous basis and receives payments regularly or from time to time, the tax point is the earliest of the conditions as stated above being met. Examples include supplies of water, gas or any form of power, heat, refrigeration or ventilation, etc.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. When a business supplies goods on "sale or return" terms, the goods have not been sold and the supplier still owns them until such time as the customer adopts them. Adoption means the customer pays for them or otherwise indicates willingness to keep them. Until the goods are adopted, the customer has an unqualified right to return them at any time, unless there is an agreed time limit. The tax point for these consignments is the earliest date of adoption, payment or invoicing.

Reverse-charge services. The time of supply for the supply of reverse-charge services is the time when tax is due and payable. It is, the earliest of the following:
- The time when a payment is received.
- The time when a tax invoice is issued.
- The time when the services are rendered or performed.

Leased assets. The time of supply for the supply of leased assets is whichever is the earliest of the following times:
- The time when payment of the lease rental is received from the lessee.

- The time when the lessor issues a tax invoice.
- The time when the leasing services are rendered, and this condition will only be satisfied at the expiry of the lease period.

In practice, a lease rental will generally be received by the lessor before the conditions listed under the second and third points above can occur, and this is taken to be the tax point.

Imported goods. The time of the supply for imported goods is either the date of importation or the date on which the goods leave a duty suspension regime.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A taxable person may recover input tax, which is VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes. Input tax is claimed by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made.

The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Zambia is three months. The claim can only be made within three months after the invoice was issued. Input tax includes VAT charged on goods and services purchased in Zambia and VAT paid on imports of goods and services.

Nondeductible input tax. VAT may not be recovered on purchases of goods and services that are not used for business purposes (e.g., goods acquired for private use by an entrepreneur). In addition, input tax may not be recovered on certain business expenses, including the provision of food, beverage, entertainment, amusement, recreation or hospitality of any kind and any incidental transportation provided to any person by a taxable supplier whether directly or indirectly, in connection with a business carried on by a taxable supplier.

The following lists provide some examples of items of expenditure for which input tax is not deductible and examples of items for which input tax is deductible if the expenditure is for purposes of making a taxable supply.

Examples of items for which input tax is nondeductible

- Purchase and hire of passenger cars
- Business gifts valued at more than ZMW100
- Office, home and mobile telephone service
- Domestic refrigeration equipment, air conditioners, mobile phones, motor vehicle parts, digital satellites, television sets, decoders, video players, curtains and construction of dwelling houses for staff
- Business entertainment
- Fuel for passenger vehicles
- Petrol
- Diesel (recovery restricted to 90%)

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Purchase, hire and maintenance of commercial motor vehicles
- Business gifts valued at less than ZMW100
- Mobile telephone handsets
- Hotel accommodations
- Utilities
- Educational material

Partial exemption. Where a taxable person incurs input tax that relates to both taxable and exempt supplies, the input tax that is wholly attributable to the taxable supplies can be recovered in full (subject to the partial exemption rules). Input tax that is fully attributable to exempt supplies cannot be recovered. This situation is referred to as "partial exemption." In Zambia, if a taxable person supplies both taxable and exempt goods and services, the amount of input tax recoverable is calculated using a simple pro rata method based on the value of taxable and exempt supplies made.

The tax authorities have prescribed four partial exemption methods in practice. Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use any of the four prescribed partial exemption methods in Zambia.

Capital goods. No special input tax rules apply to VAT incurred upon capital goods. As such, normal input tax recovery rules (as outlined above) apply.

It is worth noting, however, that capital goods are subject to VAT at the standard rate except where expressly exempted. Thus, input tax would be claimable by a taxable supplier subject to the normal recovery rules. However, when goods are imported into Zambia (which includes removing them from an approved bonded warehouse), VAT, together with any import duties, is payable at importation except for exempt goods. There may be some exceptions for goods import pursuant to the Customs and Excise (General) Regulations.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax in a period exceeds the amount of output tax due, a taxable person may request a VAT refund. VAT refunds are generally paid within three months, subject to the audit of the respective period and approval of the refund by the tax authorities. However, no interest is payable if the refund is paid late.

Pre-registration costs. Businesses registered within one month after becoming liable to register are eligible to claim input tax incurred three months prior to registration.

However, special provisions for intending traders allow for registration and for VAT incurred prior to trading to be claimed for a period up to four years. This four-year period suspends the three-month validity period for claiming input tax. Intending traders are suppliers registered for VAT before trading activities. Such registration is normally for the sole purpose of claiming input tax, which relief is granted as follows:

- Up to 10 years for traders engaged in exploration
- Up to four years for traders engaged in electricity generation, farming and mining
- Up to two years for all others

Bad debts. VAT paid to the authority but not received from a customer may, subject to the rules below, be claimed back:

- The debt has been outstanding for 18 months or more
- The debtor has been declared insolvent by a court of law, i.e.,
  - If the defaulting customer is a person, sole trader or partnership who has been declared bankrupt by the courts
    Or
  - If the debtor is a limited company, the court has ordered it's winding up and an appointed liquidator or receiver has issued a certificate to the effect that in its opinion the company would not meet the debts of unsecured non-preferential debts

To satisfy the revenue authority that claims to bad debt relief are valid, VAT-registered suppliers claiming bad debt relief should retain the following documentary evidence:

- A copy of the tax invoice issued to the debtor in connection with the supply that later became a bad debt
- Evidence that the VAT being claimed as bad debt relief was remitted to the authorities
- Copies of correspondence referred to in the bullet points above on the status of the debt and debtor

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable in Zambia.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Zambia is generally not recoverable. However, a refund scheme allows a VAT refund to be paid to a non-established business that purchases goods from a Zambian VAT-registered supplier for onward export.

The refund scheme applies to foreign passport holders that are on a business visit to Zambia. The scheme applies only to commercial export consignments that do not otherwise qualify for VAT zero rating. The refund is restricted to VAT paid on goods supplied by a participating supplier. VAT incurred on other expenditure in Zambia is not recoverable using this scheme.

The foreign exporter pays the full VAT amount on the export consignment to a participating supplier at the time of purchase. The first time that the scheme is used, the participating supplier must issue a commercial export tax invoice (Form VAT 283) and a commercial export authorization (Form VAT 284). For subsequent exports, the supplier need only issue Form VAT 283. The exporter must declare the goods to Customs at the port of exit from Zambia, and at the same time submit Forms VAT 283 and VAT 284 for verification and certification.

Customs officials at the port of exit retain copies of Forms VAT 283 and VAT 284 for first exports and subsequently dispatch them to the Zambia Revenue Authority for processing. The exporter may retain a certified copy of the forms for its records.

After the refund has been processed, the amount is sent to the exporter's destination address, or an authorized representative may collect the refund in Lusaka. The exporter must indicate an authorized representative on Form VAT 284.

To qualify for this scheme, the export should be sent through the following designated exit points from Zambia:
- Lusaka International Airport
- Mpulungu Border Post
- Kasumbalesa Border Post
- Mwami Border Post
- Nakonde Border Post
- Chirundu Border Post
- Kazungula Border Post
- Victoria Falls Border Post

To participate in the scheme, a foreign business must apply in writing to the Commissioner of VAT. An application form (Form VAT 282) may be obtained by writing to the following address:

The Assistant Commissioner – VAT Credibility
Zambia Revenue Authority
1st Floor, Eastern Wing
Revenue House
Private Bag W136
Lusaka
Zambia

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A supplier of taxable goods and services must issue a tax invoice to the purchaser. A valid tax invoice is required to accompany all claims for input tax deduction. The period for which tax invoices can be used to support input tax recovery is three months.

All tax invoices must be issued with a ZRA approved software package. Taxable persons can apply for approval from the tax authority of their accounting packages prior to the issuance of invoices.

Credit notes. A credit note may be used to reduce the VAT charged on a supply of goods or services. Credit notes should show the same information as tax invoices.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is mandatory in Zambia for all taxable persons.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is mandatory for all taxable persons in Zambia. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Zambia. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

From 1 January 2024 it is mandatory for all taxable persons to use the electronic invoicing system (EIS). The amended VAT Act defines EIS as "the core system which has a fiscal memory capable of generating and storing fiscal information and transmitting production, invoicing and stock data in real time to the tax authority and has the capacity to generate and record data and other reports and includes software applications and web-based applications."

Taxable persons must have the EIS in place at the time of registering for VAT. The application for EISs can be done electronically (via the tax online system) or physically (by paper in person). The statutory provision allows for the Commissioner-General to apply their discretion in approving the use of a document, device or equipment other than an EIS for a certain category of taxable persons. It is mandatory to capture and electronically transmit to the ZRA the taxable person identification number (TPIN) and names of both the buyer and seller of goods and services in all B2B and B2G transactions.

An electronic payment machine must be available at a point of sale for use as a mode of payment for the customer.

Eligible accounting packages must have the capacity to:
- Print tax invoices, credit notes and debit notes bearing all the mandatory features of a tax invoice.
- Generate automatic and consecutive document numbering with inbuilt safeguards against reallocation or resetting of the numbers in any circumstance; transactions, once posted and a tax invoice has been printed, must become read-only to all users. Or, where editing is possible, a read-only audit trail showing the original details are built into the program.
- Produce periodic transaction reports showing the invoice number, invoice date, customer's name, description of goods or services supplied, value before VAT and VAT amount.

The Commissioner-General may allow a taxable supplier to use accounting software (electronic fiscal devices) to issue a tax invoice if that accounting software is integrated with the tax invoice management system.

Simplified VAT invoices. Simplified VAT invoicing is not allowed in Zambia. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Self-billing. Self-billing is not allowed in Zambia.

Proof of exports. Goods exported from Zambia are zero-rated. However, to qualify for a zero rating, exports must be supported by customs evidence (for example, copies of export documents, copies of documents showing importation in the receiving country and proof of payment by the customer) that proves the goods have left the country.

Foreign currency invoices. Invoices issued using a foreign currency must indicate the equivalent in the domestic currency, which is the Zambian kwacha (ZMW) using the exchange rate for the date of the transaction.

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons. As such, full VAT invoices are required.

Records. In Zambia, examples of what records must be held for VAT purposes include tax invoices and credit notes, proof of importation and exportation of goods. All records and accounts must be preserved in English.

In Zambia, VAT books and records can be kept outside of the country. However, while the VAT Act is silent on whether records need to be kept locally or can be kept outside the country, in practice, taxable persons tend to keep records locally as it is easier to retrieve the documents once requested for by the tax authorities. The only requirement is for information to be provided upon request from the Commissioner-General.

Record retention period. All records and accounts must be held for at least six years and be made available for inspection to authorized officers of the ZRA on demand.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Zambia. However, the VAT Act does not specifically provide for electronic archiving. It is recommended to archive records electronically in addition to manual archiving (i.e., by paper).

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. The tax period for VAT is one month. Returns must be filed by the 16th day for withholding VAT and the 18th day for normal VAT after the end of the tax period. Electronic filing of VAT returns is mandatory if there are 10 or more transactions.

Periodic payments. Full payment is due by the same date as the filing deadline of the VAT return (see above). A payment registration number (PRN) is generated online, and this number will be used to make payment via online banking.

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Zambia for all taxable persons. These returns are filed on the tax online system of the Zambia Revenue Authority (Tax Online 2). However, the law provides for submission of manual returns for taxable businesses with less than 10 transactions in a tax period.

Payments on account. Payments on account are not required in Zambia.

Special schemes. Cash accounting. All VAT-registered businesses are required by law to account for tax based on the invoices issued, except where the law has given relief for cash accounting. The businesses, which are permitted to use the payment or cash accounting basis, are required to account for VAT to the extent that payment has been made or received. Therefore, output tax is accounted for on payments received and input tax is recovered only on those invoices where payment has been made for taxable supplies received.

The cash accounting concession is restricted to businesses that carry on mining activities and are licensed under The Mines and Mineral Development Act and to members of the Association of Building and Civil Engineering Contractors (ABCEC). Intending traders are automatically required to adopt cash accounting if an application has been made and approved by the tax authority. These include businesses that carry on exploration, electricity generation, farming, etc.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Zambia.

Supplementary filings. No supplementary filings are required in Zambia.

Correcting errors in previous returns. The new online system, Tax Online 2, does not allow amendments to be made online. Therefore, all amendments for returns should be made in writing to the Commissioner-General stating the reasons for need of amendment to the return.

Digital tax administration. Electronic invoicing system. Effective 1 January 2024, taxable persons are required to use the EIS. The use of EIS is considered real-time reporting/live invoicing in Zambia. For further detail, see the Electronic invoicing subsection above.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. ZMW3,000 (10,000 penalty units) for each tax period that the taxable person is eligible to register but remains unregistered. The taxable person is also liable to an assessment on the sales made in the same period; input tax deduction is not allowed.

Penalties for late payment and filings. The penalty for late payment is 0.5% of the tax payable in respect of the period covered by the return for each day the payment is late. Interest is charged at the Bank of Zambia Discounted Rate plus 2%.

Penalties for late filings are ZMW300 (1,000 penalty units) per day or 0.5% of the tax due, whichever is greater, for each day the return is late.

Effective 1 January 2021, the penalty for failure to use an electronic payment machine at a point of sale is ZMW27,000 (90,000 penalty units).

Penalties for errors. Interest is charged at the Bank of Zambia discount rate plus 2% on amounts underdeclared on VAT returns, e.g., under-declarations discovered and assessed following a VAT inspection visit.

Failure to issue a tax invoice from an approved computer package, preprinted tax invoice book or a fiscalized cash register can result in a penalty of ZMW90,000 (300,000 penalty units). There is an increase of the penalties for the failure to use an electronic invoicing system and willfully refusing or failing to issue a tax invoice from an electronic invoicing system. The change reflects the following penalties: a penalty of ZMW30,000 for the first offense, ZMW60,000 for the second offense, and ZMW90,000 or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or to both for the third or subsequent offense.

A taxable supplier who fails to issue a tax invoice commits an offense and is liable to receive a penalty not exceeding ZMW30,000 for the first offense, ZMW60,000 for the second offense and ZMW90,000 or a term not exceeding three years or both for the third or subsequent offense.

There are no specific penalties associated with the late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Penalties for the issuance of false returns and statements attract a fine of up to ZMW6,000 (20,000 penalty units) or imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or both. Penalties for fraudulent evasion of tax attract a fine of up to ZMW90,000 (300,000 penalty units) or six times the amount of the tax sought to be evaded or recovered, whichever is greater, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or both.

An escalatory fine is also chargeable on false returns and statements.

Personal liability for company officers. The VAT Act provides that where an offense under the Act is committed by a company, with the knowledge of its director, manager, partner or shareholder, the individual will be liable for the offense and may be convicted to the penalty or term of imprisonment specified for that offense.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations is Zambia is six years. The tax authority can go back six years to review any returns that were previously submitted.

Zimbabwe

ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides

Harare GMT +2

EY
Mail address:
P.O. Box 702 or 62
Harare
Zimbabwe

Street address:
Angwa City
Cnr Julius Nyerere Way
Kwame
Nkrumah Avenue
Harare
Zimbabwe

Indirect tax contacts

Fungai Vongayi
+263 (24) 2750-905-14
+263 (24) 2750-979
fungai.vongayi@zw.ey.com

Shelton Kusotera
+263 (24) 2750-905-14
+263 (24) 2750-979
shelton.kusotera@zw.ey.com

Sifelani Nhliziyo
+263 (29) 276111
sifelani.nhliziyo@zw.ey.com

Ndakaitei Chimutashu
+263 (24) 2750-905-14
+263 (24) 2750979
ndakaitei.chimutashu@zw.ey.com

A. At a glance

Name of the tax	Value-added tax (VAT)
Local name	Value-added tax (VAT)
Date introduced	1 January 2004
Trading bloc membership	African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) Common Market for Eastern and Southern Africa Southern African Development Community
Administered by	Commissioner General, Zimbabwe Revenue Authority (ZIMRA) (http://www.zimra.co.zw)
VAT rates
Standard	15%
Other	Zero-rated and exempt
VAT number format	Tax identification number (TIN) 2000001000 – 10 numeric characters, and business partner (BP) number 200100001 – 9 numeric characters
VAT return periods	Monthly or bimonthly
Thresholds
Registration	USD25,000
Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses	No

B. Scope of the tax

VAT applies to the following transactions:
- The supply of goods and services in Zimbabwe by a "registered operator" (see Section C)
- The importation of goods into Zimbabwe by any person
- The supply of imported services by any person
- The supply of electronic services or satellite broadcast services by a nonresident person to a resident person (for both business-to-business [B2B] and business-to-consumer [B2C] supplies)
- The supply of goods and services through an auctioneer

Withholding VAT. Value-added withholding tax on taxable supplies is at the rate of one-third of the VAT payable on an invoice. With effect from 1 January 2021, a VAT withholding tax agent can be appointed to withhold and pay VAT in the currency in which goods and services were purchased. VAT withholding tax is considered not paid if paid using a different currency than the currency specified.

Effective use and enjoyment. To avoid instances of non-taxation or double taxation, jurisdictions can apply "use and enjoyment rules" that allow a service that is "used and enjoyed" in the jurisdiction to be taxed or prevent a service that is "used and enjoyed" outside the jurisdiction from being taxed. If a service is taxed in the jurisdiction under the "use and enjoyment" provisions, a non-established supplier of the service may be required to register for VAT in that jurisdiction where it has customers that are not taxable persons. In Zimbabwe the "use and enjoyment" provisions (B2B/B2C) apply to supplies of electronic services or satellite broadcast services by a nonresident person to a resident person. The nonresident person suppling the services is deemed to be operating from Zimbabwe and invariably required to register and account for VAT. It applies to both B2B and B2C transactions.

Transfer of a going concern. Normally, the sale of the assets of a VAT-registered or VAT-registrable business will be subject to VAT at the appropriate rate. However, a transfer of a business as a going concern (TOGC) may be subject to VAT at the zero-rate under certain conditions. A TOGC is the sale of a business or part of a business capable of separate operation including assets. Where the sale meets the conditions, the supply is treated as outside the scope of VAT. In Zimbabwe, a TOGC is treated as outside the scope of VAT where both registered operators elect in writing to transfer a business or part of a business as a going concern. The transferor and transferee must be VAT registered. The transferred business must immediately be able to trade.

Transactions between related parties. Transactions between related parties are chargeable to VAT at the standard rate. Where both parties are VAT registered, the value of the supply of the transacted goods or services is any amount charged by the parties. However, where the transferee is not registered or required to be registered for VAT, the consideration of the supply shall be the open market value of the supply.

C. Who is liable

A "registered operator" is required to account for output tax on all goods and services supplied unless the supply is exempt or zero-rated.

A "registered operator" is a person who is or is required to be registered under the VAT act. The person must be trading wholly or partly in Zimbabwe. A person includes a public authority, local authority, company or body of persons, whether corporate or unincorporated, the estate of a deceased or insolvent person and a trust fund.

The VAT registration threshold from 2012 to 2019 was USD60,000. With effect from 1 January 2020 to 31 December 2020 the threshold was RTGS1 million. With effect from 1 January 2021 the threshold is ZWL7.8 million. A taxable person must notify ZIMRA of its obligation to register for VAT within 30 days of becoming obligated to register.

The auctioneer through whom a non-registrant supplies goods and services is responsible for the VAT on the supply of such goods and services.

Exemption from registration. Traders of exempt supplies and supplies by exempt bodies under the Geneva Convention are exempt from VAT registration in Zimbabwe.

Voluntary registration and small businesses. The law requires a trader to satisfy the Commissioner General that they are eligible to register for VAT before it is approved There are no special rules for small businesses. The approval is on a case-by-case basis. A company cannot apply for VAT registration for the sole purposes of recovering input tax.

Group registration. Group VAT registration is not allowed in Zimbabwe.

Fixed establishment. In Zimbabwe, there is no legal definition of fixed establishment for VAT purposes.

Non-established businesses. A non-established business is a person who supplies goods or services and does not have a fixed place of business in Zimbabwe. Generally, the Revenue Authority does not register for VAT purposes a resident who does not have fixed place of business.

However, a non-established business that trades, that is, makes supplies of goods or services in Zimbabwe must register and charge VAT on supplies of goods or services in Zimbabwe. Trade is defined in the VAT Act as meaning "any trade or activity that is carried on continuously or regularly by any person in Zimbabwe or partly in Zimbabwe and in the course or furtherance of which goods or services are supplied to any other person for a consideration, whether or not for profit …" The foreign registered operator must appoint a representative to account for VAT on its behalf. The representative must be a resident in Zimbabwe.

Tax representatives. Foreign companies or persons who do business in Zimbabwe but do not reside in Zimbabwe can appoint resident Zimbabweans to act as their representatives. The representatives can be held responsible for tax purposes on behalf of their principals in their representative capacities only.

Reverse charge. The reverse charge is applicable with regard to imported services and where a price can be ascertained by the customer and not the supplier. For example, on the sale of farm produce where weighing or grading must be carried out before a price is set. This requires prior approval of the Commissioner.

An importer of goods is required to pay VAT. The recipient of "imported services" is required to self-assess and to declare the tax to ZIMRA. VAT on imported service is due on the 25th of the following month. Prior to this, VAT on imported services was due 30 days from date of invoice or date of payment, whichever is earlier.

Domestic reverse charge. Applicable in limited situations. The Commissioner's approval is required before it is applied. The domestic reverse charge applies to the following:
- Supplies of commodities
- Supplies made within the mining sector
- Supplies of returnable containers (upon agreement between the supplier and customer)

For such supplies, the customer is required to self-account for the VAT due. It is also allowed to self-bill for the supplies made, as it is only the purchaser who can exactly quantify what and how much has been supplied, due to the nature of the supplies and sectors in scope.

Digital economy. With effect from 1 January 2020, foreign suppliers of satellite broadcasting services and electronic commerce operators to residents of Zimbabwe with at least annual income of ZWL1 million must register and account for VAT. See the Online marketplaces and platforms subsection below. This applies to both B2B and B2C transactions.

The supply of radio and television services from outside Zimbabwe to an address in Zimbabwe or of electronic service by an electronic commerce operator domiciled outside Zimbabwe to a person resident in Zimbabwe shall be deemed to be a supply made in Zimbabwe. The VAT is chargeable at the standard rate of 14.5%. This means operators are supposed to charge VAT at the standard rate. The obligation to charge and account for tax shall be that of the supplier or their duly appointed representative in Zimbabwe. Operators are required to appoint a representative taxpayer who will be responsible to account for the tax.

There are no other specific e-commerce rules for imported goods in Zimbabwe.

Online marketplaces and platforms. From 1 January 2020, VAT is due on supplies made through online marketplaces and platforms in Zimbabwe. Electronic commerce suppliers are required to complete the Rev 1E application form to register with ZIMRA. It is mandatory to appoint a local representative who will be responsible to discharge the obligations of the nonresident supplier.

Registration procedures. Registration with ZIMRA must be made within 30 days of meeting the registration threshold. Registration can be done manually (i.e., by paper) or online. The regulator requires a minimum of five working days to process the VAT registration application form. Registrations are done online or application forms can be emailed.

Application for registration is made on form REV 1. The following documents should be attached to the REV 1:
- VAT 1
- Company registration documents or national identity document of public officer
- Bank statements (at least three previous months)
- Location of the company
- Invoices issued in the last three months prior to registration
- Appoint a public officer or local representative

Deregistration. A registered operator may apply to be deregistered if the taxable turnover of goods or services in a period of 12 months does not exceed USD25,000 (or equivalent in local currency) or is not expected to exceed USD25,000 (or equivalent in local currency) in the period of 12 months commencing at the beginning of any tax period.

Taxable person may object to the Commissioner's decision to refuse to register or deregister for VAT.

Changes to VAT registration details. A taxable person must notify the Commissioner on form VAT4 of any changes to its VAT registration details within 21 days of the change taking place. Documentary proof should be attached to the notification.

D. Rates

The term "taxable supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are liable to a rate of VAT, including the zero rate.

The VAT rates are:
- Standard rate: 15% (with effect from 1 January 2023)
- Zero-rate: 0%

The standard rate of VAT applies to all supplies of goods and services, unless a specific measure provides for the zero-rate or an exemption.

With effect from 1 January 2024, the Second Schedule (which provided a list of zero-rated goods or services) was repealed. A special set amount is charged on exports of unbeneficiated hides and select minerals, as follows:
- Hides: the higher of USD0.75 or 15% of the gross value

- Lithium: 1% of export proceeds
- Platinum: currently suspended

Withholding VAT. Value-added withholding tax agents collect one-third of VAT on an invoice to suppliers and remit the same to ZIMRA. The agent must issue a VAT withholding tax certificate to the supplier who uses the same to claim a credit.

Examples of goods and services taxable at 0%

- Exports of goods (including financial services other than short-term insurance)
- Exported services
- International transport of goods and services and ancillary transport services
- Sales of businesses as going concerns to registered persons
- Gold sales to the central bank, Fidelity Printers and Refiners, and commercial banks
- Services (other than accommodation) provided by operators of designated tourist facilities, such as hotels, tour operators and car-hire companies
- Intellectual property rights for use outside Zimbabwe
- Certain supplies of goods that are used exclusively in an export country (until 1 January 2024)
- Services supplied outside Zimbabwe to foreign head offices by Zimbabwean branches or to nonresident persons that are outside Zimbabwe when they are rendered (until 1 January 2024)
- Certain foodstuffs except rice, margarine, cereals, mahewu, pork, beef, fish, chicken and potatoes, which are now exempt (until 1 January 2024)
- Supply of domestic electricity (until 1 January 2024)
- Certain goods used for agricultural purposes, such as animal feed, fertilizers, seed, animal remedies, pesticides, plants, tractors and, when exported, specified agricultural implements (until 1 January 2024)
- Prescription medicines (until 1 January 2024)
- Building bricks (until 1 January 2024)
- Goods used by disabled persons (until 1 January 2024)
- Fixed charges on commercial and domestic electricity (until 1 January 2024)
- Supply of pipeline transportation services (until 1 January 2024)
- Livestock (until 1 January 2024)

The term "exempt supplies" refers to supplies of goods and services that are not liable to VAT and that do not qualify for input tax deduction.

Examples of exempt supplies of goods and services

- Medicines and medical services provided by public medical services institutions
- Water supplied through a pipe for domestic use
- Commission charges on tobacco sales at tobacco auction floors
- Tobacco supplied on tobacco auction floors
- Tobacco not sold at auction floors
- Agriculture equipment and machinery of heading 8424, 8432 and 8433
- Fuel and fuel products and ethanol fuel
- Goods covered under the first schedule to the VAT Act
- Sanitary ware
- Basic goods like maize (corn), rice, salt, margarine, cooking oil, sugar cane, wheat, milk, etc.

Option to tax for exempt supplies. Option to tax for exempt supplies is not allowed in Zimbabwe.

E. Time of supply

The time of supply is the earlier of the following:

- The issuance of an invoice by the supplier or the recipient with respect to the supply
- The receipt of a payment of the consideration by the supplier with respect to the supply

- In the case of supply of an immovable goods, at the time the recipient takes possession of said goods
- In the case of a supply of a movable good, at the time of its removal from the place of sale
- In case of a supply of a service at the time the service is performed

Other time of supply rules apply to various situations, such as change of use, repossessions, betting transactions and lay-by sale agreements (the purchaser makes partial payments over time, and when a predetermined amount has been reached, the goods are released to the purchaser).

Deposits and prepayments. The time of supply for prepayments is the date when payment is received. If deposits form part of the consideration, the time of supply is when the deposit is paid or received. The time of supply for a deposit may be delayed if the supply of goods or service is conditional.

Continuous supplies of services. The time of supply for periodic supplies is the earlier of the date on which the payment is due, the date on which payment is received or the date on which an invoice relating only to that payment is received.

Goods sent on approval for sale or return. The time of supply is dependent on the "cooling off period" under the agreement of sale. If goods are returned during a cooling off period, there is no supply. The date of decision to buy during the cooling off period is the time of supply. If goods are not returned, the time of supply is on the day the cooling off period expires.

Reverse-charge services. These are permissible subject to the Commissioner's approval. As the VAT due on imported services is accounted for by way of the reverse-charge mechanism (i.e., the customer self-accounts for the VAT), the tax point for imported services is the earlier of the receipt of the invoice or receipt of payment.

Leased assets. There are no special time of supply rules in Zimbabwe for supplies of leased assets. As such, the general time of supply rules apply (as outlined above).

Rental agreements. The time of supply for rental agreements is the earlier of the date on which the payment is due or the date on which payment is received.

Installment credit agreements. For installment credit agreements, the supply is deemed to take place at the earlier of when the goods are delivered or when a payment of the consideration is received.

Immovable property. The time of supply for the supply of fixed property is the earlier of the date on which the change of ownership is registered in the deeds office or the date of receipt of a payment of the consideration. If the sale is settled over a period, VAT is payable on each installment.

Imported goods. VAT is paid at the earlier of the time of importation or on removal of goods or bond.

Supplies between related persons. Two value of supply rules apply for supplies between related persons. Where both are VAT registered, the value of supply is any amount agreed to. Where the customer is not registered or not required to register, the value of supply is the open market value of the supply.

F. Recovery of VAT by taxable persons

A registered operator may claim input tax (that is, VAT charged on goods and services supplied to it for business purposes) by deducting it from output tax, which is VAT charged on supplies made. Input tax may be deducted if all the following conditions are satisfied:

- The expenses are incurred in the making of taxable supplies
- The claimant has a valid tax invoice or bill of entry (imports)

- The claiming of input tax deduction is not specifically prohibited by the VAT Act
- Input tax is only claimed when supported by fiscal tax invoices. The invoice must carry the words "fiscal invoice" prominently displayed
- Tax clearance certificates will not be issued to registered operators whose fiscal devices are not interfaced with ZIMRA servers
- The time limit for a taxable person to reclaim input tax in Zimbabwe is 12 months. This is from date of the invoice
- Input tax is claimed on domestic purchase of goods and services, imported goods and on VAT on imported services

Nondeductible input tax. Input tax incurred on goods and services used for nontaxable purposes is not deductible. It is only deductible where exempt supplies are less than 10% of total supplies during a tax period.

Examples of items for which input tax is non-deductible

- The hire, purchase and importation of a passenger motor vehicle
- Fees or subscriptions paid by registered operators with respect to memberships in clubs, associations or societies of a sporting, social or recreational nature
- Amounts with respect to goods or services acquired for the purposes of business or staff entertainment
- VAT payable on exports of unbeneficiated hides and unbeneficiated platinum

Examples of items for which input tax is deductible (if related to a taxable business use)

- Maintenance and repair costs of passenger motor vehicles
- Purchase, hire and maintenance costs of non-passenger motor vehicles, such as vans and trucks
- Cost of inputs made in the supply of food and leisure for which VAT is chargeable
- Expenses incurred by registered operators in the making or importation of taxable supplies, such as trading stock, raw materials, administration expenses and marketing costs

Partial exemption. VAT incurred in the making of exempt supplies is not deductible. Where a registered operator makes both exempt and taxable supplies (mixed supplies) input tax must be based on their relative weighting.

If VAT is incurred in the making of both exempt and taxable supplies, deductible input tax is determined using a two-stage calculation, which is described below.

Direct attribution. For direct expenses, the first stage is to identify expenses incurred in making taxable supplies and those incurred in making exempt supplies. VAT paid on expenses incurred in making taxable supplies is deductible as input tax while VAT paid on expenses incurred in making exempt supplies is not deductible.

Apportionment. For overheads, the turnover method or another apportionment method acceptable to the ZIMRA must be used to allocate the VAT between taxable supplies and exempt supplies. Input tax related to taxable supplies is deducted, while input tax related to exempt supplies is not deducted. If taxable supplies exceed 90% of the total supplies made by a registered operator, all the VAT incurred by the registered operator is deductible as input tax.

Approval from the tax authorities is not required to use the partial exemption standard method in Zimbabwe. Special methods are not allowed in Zimbabwe.

Capital goods. The sale of capital goods is subject to VAT. Equally input tax incurred on capital goods that are used in the producing taxable supplies is deductible. Where capital goods are used to produce exempt supplies and taxable supplies, input tax claimed proportionately. The input tax amount shall bear the ratio of intended use of the goods. If goods are used for more than 90% to produce taxable supplies, they are regarded as having been acquired or used wholly for the purpose of making taxable supplies. In the event of change of use of the capital goods, an adjustment must be made to reflect the usage change.

Refunds. If the amount of input tax recoverable in a tax period exceeds the amount of output tax payable in that period, the excess is refunded by the Commissioner. Amounts below ZWL1,000 may be claimed as a credit on subsequent VAT return. The Commissioner does not refund amount below ZWL1,000. In addition, any VAT refund can be utilized to settle other tax liabilities.

Pre-registration costs. VAT incurred on capital goods prior to VAT registration is claimed as input tax deduction on the first VAT return upon registration. The goods should have been used for making taxable supplies. There is no time limit for such an input tax claim. However, input tax on consumables stocks, can only be claimed for prior periods not exceeding six months.

Input tax cannot be recovered on services prior to VAT registration.

Furthermore, costs incurred six months prior to incorporation of a company or in connection with the incorporation of a company qualify for input deduction provided the goods and services were acquired solely for the purpose of a trade to be carried on by the company, and the purchaser is reimbursed by the company for the whole amount of the consideration for the goods and services.

Bad debts. A taxable person is permitted to claim relief for the VAT on bad debts written off. The taxable person is required to satisfy the Commissioner that they have taken all reasonable steps to collect the bad debt without success. The amount should be included in the prior period VAT returns and should still be due to the taxable person.

Noneconomic activities. Input tax incurred on purchases that are used for noneconomic activities is not recoverable.

G. Recovery of VAT by non-established businesses

Input tax incurred by non-established businesses that are not registered for VAT in Zimbabwe is not recoverable.

H. Invoicing

VAT invoices. A registered operator must provide a fiscalised VAT invoice to the recipient for all taxable supplies made at the time of supply. In certain circumstances, subject to ZIMRA approval, the recipient of goods and services issues a VAT invoice to the supplier. The VAT Act requires invoices to be issued through fiscal devices linked to the Revenue Authority online.

Effective 1 January 2024, all invoices are required to include the tax identification number (TIN) and business partner (BP) number, electronic signatures, authentication codes and quick response codes for verification of the fiscal invoice. These requirements are in addition to the requirement to include the words "fiscal tax invoice" displayed in a prominent place to qualify for an input tax deduction.

All VAT-registered taxable persons are required to install (at the time of registering for VAT) electronic registers or electronic signature device, with prescribed specifications to record taxable transactions. They must have real-time interface with ZIMRA. Fifty percent of the cost of acquiring these prescribed, "fiscalized" electronic registers is deductible from VAT payable.

Credit notes. The issuance of a credit or debit note is permitted. It is issued by the supplier and the customer where permission was received from the Commissioner.

A credit or debit note must contain the words "credit note" or "debit note," as well as the full VAT invoicing requirements. It must also be refenced to an invoice it is correcting, as well as the reasons for its issuance.

Electronic invoicing. Electronic invoicing is allowed in Zimbabwe, but not mandatory.

Scope of electronic invoicing. For B2B, B2C and business-to-government (B2G) supplies, electronic invoicing is allowed but not mandatory in Zimbabwe. There is no threshold beyond which taxable persons are required to adopt electronic invoicing in Zimbabwe. The requirements related to electronic invoicing are the same as those for paper invoicing.

However, note that there is no provision for electronic invoicing in the VAT law. If an invoice is issued electronically the recipient should print and file a printed copy.

Simplified VAT invoices. A simplified VAT invoicing system is used in exceptional circumstances. This is subject to the Commissioner's approval, and then an agreement may be used as an invoice, even though it does not have all features of a full VAT invoice.

Self-billing. Self-invoicing is allowed in Zimbabwe. However, this is subject to the approval by the Commissioner. Self-billing may apply to the following:
- Supplies of commodities
- Supplies made within the mining sector
- On agreement between supplier and customer

Proof of exports. Exports can be classified as direct or indirect exports.

Direct exports arise if the registered operator is responsible for consigning or delivering the goods to an address in an export country. These exports can be zero-rated if the documentary requirements are met.

Indirect exports arise if the registered operator does not consign the goods to an address in an export country but instead delivers them to the purchaser that is responsible for taking them out of the country. The registered operator must satisfy ZIMRA that it will comply with all exchange-control regulations relating to the export of goods. If ZIMRA is satisfied that the goods were not taken out of Zimbabwe, the seller of such goods is liable to VAT at a rate of 15%.

The registered operator must provide proof of export to zero-rate the supply. The required documents are as follows:
- Tax invoice
- Debit and credit notes
- Sales agreement
- Lease agreement
- Contract document
- Export documents bearing a ZIMRA stamp at the point of exit or placement of goods on rail, airline or post office
- Acquitted Customs Declaration Form No. 1 (CD1) showing receipt of export proceeds
- Other receipts if applicable
- Other documents acceptable to ZIMRA

Foreign currency invoices. Zimbabwe uses multiple currencies. With effect from 1 January 2019, VAT is paid using the currency received from the customer. Zimbabwe's functional currency is the Zimbabwe dollar (ZWL). In cases where another currency other than the USD is used, the international cross rate is used to determine the USD equivalent. Invoices may be issued in any currency. However, payments to the Revenue Authority in cases of other foreign currencies other than USD should be converted to USD at the international cross rate.

As part of measure to enforce payment of VAT in the currency of receipt, the following measures were introduced with effect from 1 December 2020:
- Registered operators to configure fiscal devices to capture all transactions in the currency of trade
- Interface systems with the ZIMRA server with effect from 1 December 2020
- Registered operators required to issue invoice in currency of trade
- Failure to comply – the registered operator faces exclusion from buying foreign currency from weekly foreign currency auctions conducted by the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe. The registered operator may be blacklisted from participating in the weekly foreign currency auctions for noncompliance with payment of tax in foreign currency where goods and services are sold in foreign currency

Supplies to nontaxable persons. There are no special invoicing rules for supplies to nontaxable persons in Zimbabwe. As such, full VAT invoices are required. However, all VAT-registered taxable persons are required to install fiscal devices at all points of sale.

Records. In Zimbabwe, every registered operator must maintain and keep records. This also applies to non-established businesses.

In Zimbabwe, examples of what Records must be held for VAT purposes include the following:
- Sales and purchases records
- A record of all goods and services supplied by or to the registered operator showing suppliers or agents in sufficient detail
- A record of all importations of goods and documents relating thereto
- The charts and codes of account, the accounting instruction manuals and the system and program documentation
- Any documentary proof required to be obtained and retained

In Zimbabwe, VAT books and records must be held within the country. Specifically, they must be held at the local registered office.

Record retention period. VAT records must be held for a period of six years from the date of the last transaction in any book or within six years after the completion of the transaction, acts or operation of which they relate. The records must be ready for the Commissioner's inspection. However, the Companies and Other Businesses Act requires company records to be retained for eight years.

Electronic archiving. Electronic archiving is allowed in Zimbabwe. However, there is no provision for electronic archiving in the VAT law, and as such, generally, taxable persons are required to maintain physical archiving (i.e., paper, computer print outs). Where records are electronically archived, the system should have capacity to produce printed copies on request. Generally paper records must be held as well as electronic (if opted), because the paper records must be kept as alternatives.

I. Returns and payment

Periodic returns. VAT returns can be filed monthly or bimonthly in Zimbabwe. The filing frequency is split into three categories, depending on levels of annual taxable supplies.

For monthly returns there is one category – C. All registered operators with annual taxable supplies greater than RTGS19.2 million have a monthly tax period.

For bimonthly returns, there are two categories – A and B. Category A is the two months starting with an even number and ending with an odd one, e.g., December/January. Category B is the two months starting with an odd number and ending with an even one, e.g., January/February. The threshold for category A and B is RTGS7.8 million to 19.2 million.

Additionally, category D is allocated to traders whose income is discretely received, such as income form pastoral activities.

In terms of the filing deadline, VAT returns must be filed by the 25th day of the month following the tax period. If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or public holiday, the due date is the last business day before the 25th.

Periodic payments. The payment of VAT and submission of the returns are done concurrently, by no later than the 25th day of the month following the tax period. Payment of VAT is done through bank transfer or bank deposits or other online platforms. The Commissioner of Taxes does not accept cash payments.

VAT deferment is allowed on imported capital equipment. Deferment ranges from 90, 120 or 180 days from the date of importation. To qualify for this deferment, the value of such imported plant, equipment and machinery must be USD100,000 to USD1 million (90 days), USD1 million to 10 million (120 days) or more than USD10 million (180 days).

Electronic filing. Electronic filing is mandatory in Zimbabwe for all taxable persons. VAT returns must be submitted through the Zimbabwe Revenue Authority web portal. The exception is where the return has failed to go through the revenue authority e-services portal (for example, due to a technical issue). In this case the return must be scanned and emailed instead.

Payments on account. Payments on account are optional in Zimbabwe. Registered operators may apply to the Commissioner for specific payment terms. Interest at 25% is charged for payments received after due date.

Special schemes. No special schemes are available in Zimbabwe.

Annual returns. Annual returns are not required in Zimbabwe.

Supplementary filings. Supplementary filings are only required at the instance of the Commissioner, where revenue was understated.

Correcting errors in previous returns. VAT returns can be amended within a six-year prescription period. Registered operators (i.e., those who are registered or are required to be registered under the VAT Act) are encouraged to submit a voluntary disclosure to reduce or eliminate any penalties. A manual (i.e., paper) amended return is required to correct errors. In case of additional tax payable interest at 25% is charged.

Digital tax administration. Real-time transactional reporting. All VAT-registered taxable persons are required to install (at the time of registering for VAT), electronic registers or electronic signature devices, with prescribed specifications to record taxable transactions. Fifty percent of the cost of acquiring these prescribed, "fiscalized" electronic registers is deductible from VAT payable. The law requires transmission of sales data online to ZIMRA through a server-to-server connection. Therefore, all transactions are transmitted to the ZIMRA on a real-time basis. Note, these fiscal devices are to be phased out after the introduction of a virtual fiscalization solution.

J. Penalties

Penalties for late registration. A person becomes liable to pay tax from the time that person first becomes liable to be registered. A penalty of up to 100% of the amount of VAT and 25%, interest thereon is assessed for the period interval when the person first became liable to be registered and the late-registration date.

Penalties for late payment and filings. A penalty is imposed for late payment of VAT at a rate of up to 100% of the outstanding tax for each month. Additional tax equal to 100% of the relevant tax may be levied in cases of fraud. With effect from 1 January 2024, failure to pay tax by the due date is an offense liability to a fine not exceeding level seven or imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months. The property of a taxpayer who fails to pay tax on due date may be attached.

Payment is allowed of the principal amount first before payment of penalty and interest. Interest is charged on outstanding tax at a rate of 200% or 10% per year where VAT is payable in local or foreign currency.

For late submission of VAT returns, a civil penalty of USD30 per day per tax return is imposed. Those daily penalties continue during the first 91 days that each return is in default. If the person continues to be in default after the 91 days, he or she shall be guilty of an offense and liable, on conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 14 (USD5,000) or imprisonment for a period not exceeding five years or to both the fine and imprisonment.

Where a taxable person received income in foreign currency but pays the tax in local currency or does not pay the tax at all, they are eligible to a primary civil penalty of twice the USD tax payable.

Penalties for errors. A civil penalty of up to USD25 per point of sale per day is charged for failure to use prescribed "fiscalized" electronic registers. A similar penalty is imposed on approved suppliers of electronic signature devices and fiscalized or non-fiscalized electronic registers who fail to supply them within six weeks of an order with payment in full. Specific fiscalisation offenses and penalties are as follows:

- Failure to issue fiscal invoice or receipt is an offense liable to a fine of USD1,000 or local currency equivalent
- Failure to acquire or use electronic fiscal device attracts a penalty of USD1,000 or equivalent in local currency. In addition, civil penalty of USD25 per point of sale the operator remains in default for a period not exceeding 90 days.
- If the operator remains in default after the specified period, such operator shall be guilty of offense and liable to a fine not exceeding level seven or imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months or to both fine and imprisonment
- Any person who manufactures, offers for sell or distributes fiscal memory device without ZIMRA approval is liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding level 14 or imprisonment not exceeding five years or to both such fine and imprisonment
- Failure to interface within 96 hours of receipt or expiry of civil penalty order attracts a fine of USD25 per point of sale for each day the operator remains in default up to a maximum of 90 days. If the operator remains in default after the specified period, it shall be guilty of offense and liable to a fine not exceeding level seven or imprisonment for a period not exceeding 12 months or both such fine and imprisonment
- Deliberate tampering with electronic fiscal devices attracts a penalty of USD1,000 or equivalent in local currency or three time the taxes involved, whichever is greater. If the operator continues in default, it shall be liable to a penalty of USD50 per day to a maximum of 90 days. The operator is also guilty of an offense and is liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding level 14 or imprisonment not exceeding five years or to both such fine and imprisonment

Fines, imprisonment or both may also apply to various other offenses, including making false statements and obstructing a revenue officer.

Failure to pay in the prescribed currency will result in a penalty double the amount payable. Failure to pay the penalty will result in a civil penalty of USD30 per day that the penalty remains unpaid up to 181 days.

The late notification or failure to notify the tax authorities of changes to a taxable person's VAT registration details may result in a penalty of USD30 for each day the taxable person remains in default, not exceeding a period of 181 days. For further details, see the subsection Changes to VAT registration details above.

Penalties for fraud. Any person or agent who with intent to evade the payment of tax or obtain a refund that they are not entitled to is liable for any of the following actions:

- Makes or causes or allows to be made any false statement or entry in any return
- Prepares or maintains or authorizes the preparation or maintenance of any false books of accounts or authorizes the falsification of records
- Gives any false answer to any request of information
- Make use of any fraud or false statement
- Issue erroneous or incomplete invoice, credit and debit note

They shall be guilty of an offense and liable to a fine of level 12 (USD3,000) or imprisonment not exceeding two years.

Personal liability for company officers. Company officers can be held personally liable for errors and omissions in VAT declarations and reporting in Zimbabwe only for fraudulent activities. See the Penalties for fraud subsection above for more details on what penalties can apply.

Statute of limitations. The statute of limitations in Zimbabwe is six years. If fraud and misrepresentation is not suspected, the prescription period is six years. Recent court rulings indicate that submission of a return with errors is considered misrepresentation. This interpretation creates a potential risk that assessments can be reopened beyond six years.

Table of VAT, GST and sales tax rates

Jurisdiction	Standard rate*	Other rates
Albania	20%	6%, 0%
Algeria	19%	9%
Angola	14%	7%, 5%, 0%
Anguilla	13%	0%
Antigua and Barbuda	ABST: 17%	ABST: 0%
Argentina	VAT: 21%	VAT: 27%, 10.5%, 0%
	IIBB: 1%–4% (industrial), 2.5%–5% (commerce and services) and 4.9%–8% (commission and intermediation)	IIBB: 0%
Armenia	20%	0%
Aruba	RT: 4% (combined rate of BBO [2.5%] and BAVP [1.5%]) HT: 3%	N/A
Australia	10%	0%
Austria	20% (rest of Austria), 19% (regions of Jungholz and Mittelberg)	13%, 10%, 0%
Azerbaijan	18%	0%
Bahamas	10%	10%, 9%, 8%, 6.5%, 6%, 4%, 2.5%, 1%, 0.1%, 0%
Bahrain, Kingdom of	10%	0%
Bangladesh	15%	10%, 7.5%, 5%, 4.5%, 2.4%, 2%, 1.5%, 0%
Barbados	17.5%	22%, 10%, 0%
Belgium	21%	12%, 6%, 0%
Bhutan	7%	0%
Bolivia	13% (effective rate 14.94% because VAT must be included in the sales price)	0%
Bonaire, Sint Eustatius and Saba (BES Islands)	Goods: 6%–8% Services: 4%–6%	30%, 25%, 22%, 18%, 10%, 7%, 5%, 0%
Bosnia and Herzegovina	17%	0%
Botswana	12%	0%
Brazil	ICMS: 0%–35% IPI: 0%–300% ISS: 0%–5% PIS-PASEP: 0.65%, 1.65% COFINS: 3%, 7.6%	ICMS: N/A IPI: N/A ISS: N/A PIS-PASEP: N/A COFINS: N/A
Bulgaria	20%	9%, 0%

Jurisdiction	Standard rate*	Other rates
Cambodia	10%	0%
Canada	GST: 5% HST: 13%–15% QST: 9.975% PST: 6%–7%	0%
Chad	19.25%	9.9%, 0%
Chile	19%	15%–50%
China Mainland	13%	9%, 6%, 5%, 3%, 0%
Colombia	19%	5%, 0%
Congo, Republic of the	18% (effective 18.9% as surtax at 5% applies at the same time as VAT, and is not deductible)	5%, 0%
Costa Rica	13%	4%, 2%, 1%, 0%
Côte d'Ivoire (Ivory Coast)	18%	9%, 0%
Croatia	25%	13%, 5%, 0%
Curaçao	6%	9%, 7%
Cyprus	19%	9%, 5%, 3%, 0%
Czech Republic	21%	12%, 0%
Democratic Republic of the Congo	16%	8%, 0%
Denmark	25%	0%
Dominican Republic	18%	16%, 0%
Ecuador	12%	8%, 0%
Egypt	14%	5%, 0%, special table tax rates
El Salvador	13%	0%
Equatorial Guinea	15%	6%, 0%
Estonia	22%	13%, 9%, 5%, 0%
Eswatini	15%	0%
European Union	N/A	N/A
Fiji	15%	0%
Finland	24%	14%, 10%, 0%
France	20%	10%, 5.5%, 2.1%, 0%
Georgia	18%	0%
Germany	19%	7%, 0%
Ghana	15%	5% (proposed), 3%, 0%
Greece	24%	13%, 6%, 4%, 0%
Guatemala	12%	5%, 4%, 0%
Guinea	18%	0%
Guyana	14%	0%
Honduras	15%	18%
Hungary	27%	18%, 5%, 0%
India	28%, 18%, 12%, 5%, 3%, 0.25%, 0%	N/A

Jurisdiction	Standard rate*	Other rates
Indonesia	11%	0%
Ireland, Republic of	23%	13.5%, 9%, 0%
Isle of Man	20%	5%, 0%
Israel	17%	0%
Italy	22%	10%, 5%, 4%, 0%
Jamaica	15%	25%, 10%, 5%, 0%
Japan	10%	8%
Jersey, Channel Islands	5%	0%
Jordan	GST: 16% SST: Various (20 types of goods and one type of service are subject to percentage rates or fixed amounts)	GST: 10%, 5%, 4%, 2%, 1%, 0% SST: N/A
Kazakhstan	12%	0%
Kenya	16%	0%
Korea, Republic of	10%	0%
Kosovo	18%	8%, 0%
Kuwait	5%	0%
Kyrgyzstan	N/A	N/A
Lao, People's Democratic Republic of	7%	0%
Latvia	21%	12%, 5%, 0%
Lebanon	11%	0%
Lesotho	15%	10%, 0%
Liechtenstein, Principality of	8.1%	3.8%, 2.6%, 0%
Lithuania	21%	9%, 5%, 0%
Luxembourg	17%	14%, 8%, 3%
Malawi	16.5%	0%
Malaysia	Sales tax: 10% Service tax: 6% on prescribed taxable services (proposed to increase to 8% from 1 March 2024)	Sales tax: 5%, several specific rates for certain petroleum products, 0% Services tax: specific rate of RM25 per year on the provision of credit card or charge card services
Maldives	GST: 8% TGST: 16%	GST: 0% TGST: N/A
Malta	18%	12%, 7%, 5%, 0%
Mauritania	16%	0%
Mauritius	15%	0%
Mexico	16%	8%, 0%
Moldova	20%	8%, 0%
Mongolia	10%	0%
Montenegro, Republic of	21%	7%, 0 %

Jurisdiction	Standard rate*	Other rates
Morocco	20%	10%, 0% and transitional reduced rates of 16%, 13%, 12%, 11%, 8%
Mozambique	16%	5%, 0%
Myanmar	N/A	N/A
Namibia	15%	0%
Nepal	13%	0%
Netherlands	21%	9%, 0%
New Zealand	15%	9% (effective rate based on GST valuation rules), 0%
Nicaragua	15%	0%
Nigeria	7.5%	0%
North Macedonia	18%	10%, 5%, 0%
Norway	25%	15%, 12%, 0%
Oman	5%	0%
Pakistan	Goods: 18% Services: 13%–16%	Goods: 0%–16% Services: 0%–19.5%
Panama	7%	15%, 10%
Papua New Guinea	10%	0%
Paraguay	10%	5%
Peru	18%	10%
Philippines	12%	0%
Poland	23%	8%, 5%, 0%
Portugal	Mainland: 23% Madeira: 22% Azores: 16%	Mainland: 13%, 6% Madeira: 12%, 5% Azores: 9%, 4%
Puerto Rico	10.5%	7%, 4%, 1%
Qatar	5%	0%
Romania	19%	9%, 5%, 0%
Rwanda	18%	0%
Saint Kitts and Nevis	17%	10%, 0%
Saint Lucia	12.5%	10%, 0%
Saint Vincent and the Grenadines	16%	11%, 0%
São Tomé and Príncipe	15%	7.5%, 7%, 2%, 0%
Saudi Arabia	15%	0%
Senegal	18%	10%, 0%
Serbia	20%	10%, 0%
Singapore	9%	0%
Sint Maarten	5%	N/A
Slovak Republic	20%	10%, 5%, 0%
Slovenia	22%	9.5%, 0%
South Africa	15%	0%
South Sudan	18%	20%

Jurisdiction	Standard rate*	Other rates
Spain	21%	10%, 5%, 4%, 0%
Sri Lanka	VAT:18%	VAT: 0%
	SSCL:2.5%	SSCL: N/A
Suriname	10%	25%, 5%, 0%
Sweden	25%	12%, 6%, 0%
Switzerland	8.1%	3.8%, 2.6%, 0%
Taiwan	VAT: 5% GBRT: 0.1%–25%	VAT: 0% GBRT: N/A
Tanzania	18%	0%
Thailand	7%	0%
Trinidad and Tobago	12.5%	0%
Tunisia	19%	13%, 7%
Türkiye	20%	10%, 1%
Uganda	18%	0%
Ukraine	20%	14%, 7%, 0%
United Arab Emirates	5%	0%
United Kingdom	20%	5%, 0%
United States	2.9%–10.75%	N/A
Uruguay	22%	10%, 0%
Uzbekistan	12%	0%
Venezuela	16%	5%–25%, 0%
Vietnam	10%, 8% (with effect until 30 June 2024)	5%, 0%
Zambia	16%	0%
Zimbabwe	15%	0%

* Rate shown here is the most common standard rate; for regional variations, see each chapter.
 Reduced rates for special supplies, as explained in each chapter.
 Final legislation has not been published at the time of preparing the 2024 Worldwide VAT, GST and Sales Tax Guide, so these are the expected, not confirmed, rates.

Table of currencies

The following list sets out the names and codes for the currencies of jurisdictions included in this Guide.

Jurisdiction	Currency	Code
Albania	Albanian lek	ALL
Algeria	Algerian dinar	DZD
Angola	Angolan kwanza	AOA
Anguilla	Eastern Caribbean dollar	XCD
Antigua and Barbuda	Eastern Caribbean dollar	XCD
Argentina	Argentine peso	ARS
Armenia	Armenian dram	AMD
Aruba	Aruban florin	AWG
Australia	Australian dollar	AUD
Austria	Euro	EUR
Azerbaijan	Azerbaijani manat	AZN
Bahamas	Bahamian dollar	BSD
Bahrain, Kingdom of	Bahraini dinar	BHD
Bangladesh	Bangladeshi taka	BDT
Barbados	Barbadian dollar	BBD
Belgium	Euro	EUR
Bhutan	Bhutanese ngultrum	BTN
Bolivia	Bolivian bolivianos	BOB
Bonaire, Sint Eustatius and Saba (BES Islands)	United States dollar	USD
Bosnia and Herzegovina	Bosnian convertible mark	BAM
Botswana	Botswanan pula	BWP
Brazil	Brazilian real	BRL
Bulgaria	Bulgarian lev	BGN
Cambodia	Cambodian riel	KHR
Canada	Canadian dollar	CAD
Chad	Central African CFA franc	XAF
Chile	Chilean peso	CLP
China Mainland	Chinese yuan	CNY
Colombia	Colombian peso	COP
Congo, Republic of the	Central African CFA franc	XAF

Jurisdiction	Currency	Code
Côte d'Ivoire (Ivory Coast)	West African CFA franc	XOF
Costa Rica	Costa Rican colón	CRC
Croatia	Euro	EUR
Curaçao	Antillean guilder	ANG
Cyprus	Euro	EUR
Czech Republic	Czech koruna	CZK
Democratic Republic of the Congo	Congolese franc	CDF
Denmark	Danish krone	DKK
Dominican Republic	Dominican peso	DOP
Ecuador	United States dollar	USD
Egypt	Egyptian pound	EGP
El Salvador	Salvadoran colón	SVC
Equatorial Guinea	Central African CFA franc	XAF
Estonia	Euro	EUR
Eswatini	Swazi lilangeni	SZL
European Union	N/A	N/A
Fiji	Fijian dollar	FJD
Finland	Euro	EUR
France	Euro	EUR
Georgia	Georgian lari	GEL
Germany	Euro	EUR
Ghana	Ghanaian cedi	GHS
Greece	Euro	EUR
Guatemala	Guatemalan quetzal	GTQ
Guinea	Guinean franc	GNF
Guyana	Guyana dollar	GYD
Honduras	Honduran lempira	HNL
Hungary	Hungarian forint	HUF
India	Indian rupee	INR
Indonesia	Indonesian rupiah	IDR
Ireland, Republic of	Euro	EUR
Isle of Man	British pound sterling	GBP
Israel	New Israeli shekel	NIS
Italy	Euro	EUR
Japan	Japanese yen	JPY
Jamaica	Jamaican dollar	JMD
Jersey, Channel Islands	Jersey pound	JEP

Jurisdiction	Currency	Code
Jordan	Jordanian dinar	JOD
Kazakhstan	Kazakhstani tenge	KZT
Kenya	Kenyan shilling	KES
Korea, Republic of	Korean won	KRW
Kosovo	Euro	EUR
Kuwait	Kuwaiti dinar	KWD
Kyrgyzstan	Kyrgyz som	KGS
Lao, People's Democratic Republic of	Lao kip	LAK
Latvia	Euro	EUR
Lebanon	Lebanese pound	LBP
Lesotho	Lesotho loti	LSL
Liechtenstein, Principality of	Swiss franc	CHF
Lithuania	Euro	EUR
Luxembourg	Euro	EUR
Malawi	Malawian kwacha	MWK
Malaysia	Malaysian ringgit	RM
Maldives	Maldivian rufiyaa	MVR
Malta	Euro	EUR
Mauritania	Mauritanian ouguiya	MRU
Mauritius	Mauritian rupee	MUR
Mexico	Mexican peso	MXN
Moldova	Moldovan leu	MDL
Mongolia	Mongolian tughrik	MNT
Montenegro, Republic of	Euro	EUR
Morocco	Moroccan dirham	MAD
Mozambique	Mozambican metical	MZN
Myanmar	Myanmar kyat	MMK
Namibia	Namibian dollar	NAD
Nepal	Nepalese rupee	NPR
Netherlands	Euro	EUR
New Zealand	New Zealand dollar	NZD
Nicaragua	Nicaraguan córdoba	NIO
Nigeria	Nigerian naira	NGN
North Macedonia	Macedonian denar	MKD
Norway	Norwegian krone	NOK
Oman	Omani rial	OMR

Jurisdiction	Currency	Code
Pakistan	Pakistani rupee	PKR
Panama	Panamanian balboa	PAB
Papua New Guinea	Papua New Guinean kina	PGK
Paraguay	Paraguayan guaraní	PYG
Peru	Peruvian sol	PEN
Philippines	Philippine peso	PHP
Poland	Polish zloty	PLN
Portugal	Euro	EUR
Puerto Rico	United States dollar	USD
Qatar	Qatari rial	QAR
Romania	Romanian leu	RON
Saint Kitts and Nevis	Eastern Caribbean dollar	XCD
Saint Lucia	Eastern Caribbean dollar	XCD
Saint Vincent and the Grenadines	Eastern Caribbean dollar	XCD
São Tomé and Príncipe	São Tomé and Príncipe dobra	STD
Saudi Arabia	Saudi riyal	SAR
Senegal	West African CFA franc	XOF
Serbia	Serbian dinar	RSD
Singapore	Singapore dollar	SGD
Sint Maarten	Antillean guilder	ANG
Slovak Republic	Euro	EUR
Slovenia	Euro	EUR
South Africa	South African rand	ZAR
South Sudan	South Sudanese pound	SSP
Spain	Euro	EUR
Sri Lanka	Sri Lankan rupee	LKR
Suriname	Suriname dollar	SRD
Sweden	Swedish krona	SEK
Switzerland	Swiss franc	CHF
Taiwan	New Taiwan dollar	TWD
Tanzania	Tanzanian shilling	TZS
Thailand	Thai baht	THB
Trinidad and Tobago	Trinidad and Tobago dollar	TTD
Tunisia	Tunisian dinar	TND
Türkiye	Turkish lira	TRY
Uganda	Uganda shilling	UGX
Ukraine	Ukrainian hryvnia	UAH

Jurisdiction	Currency	Code
United Arab Emirates	United Arab Emirates dirham	AED
United Kingdom	British Pound sterling	GBP
United States	United States dollar	USD
Uruguay	Uruguayan peso	UYU
Uzbekistan	Uzbekistani so'm	UZS
Venezuela	Venezuelan bolívar	VES
Vietnam	Vietnamese dong	VND
Zambia	Zambian kwacha	ZMW
Zimbabwe	Zimbabwe dollar	ZWL

EY | Building a better working world

EY exists to build a better working world, helping to create long-term value for clients, people and society and build trust in the capital markets.

Enabled by data and technology, diverse EY teams in over 150 countries provide trust through assurance and help clients grow, transform and operate.

Working across assurance, consulting, law, strategy, tax and transactions, EY teams ask better questions to find new answers for the complex issues facing our world today.

About EY Tax Services
Your business will only succeed if you build it on a strong foundation and grow it in a sustainable way. At EY, we believe that managing your tax obligations responsibly and proactively can make a critical difference. More than 50,000 talented tax professionals, in 150 countries, give you technical knowledge, business experience, consistency and an unwavering commitment to quality service — wherever you are and whatever tax services you need.

EYG no. 001391-24Gbl
ED None

ey.com

Access Global Tax Guides
Read the Worldwide VAT, GST and Sales Tax Guide on EY website or on your tablet where it is accompanied by timely, country-specific Global Tax Alerts. You will also find the Worldwide Corporate Tax Guide and the Worldwide Personal Tax and Immigration Guide as well as guides on transfer pricing, estate and inheritance taxes, research and development incentives, oil and gas taxes, digital tax and tax relief on capital expenditures.

Global Tax Guides at your fingertips
ey.com/GlobalTaxGuides