

How COVID-19 is impacting global payroll

Payroll is integral to businesses. Now more than ever, global payroll business continuity is critical. Fast-changing employment and tax legislation, coupled with business continuity issues for people and technology, are leading to unprecedented times and new challenges for HR, Finance and Payroll professionals.

On 16 April 2020, a panel of EY professionals hosted a webcast and discussed actions industry professionals can take to prepare for the April payroll amid the COVID-19 pandemic. During the event, we asked the participants the level of disruption to their payroll operations, their areas of concern for their payroll function during COVID-19, and the types of challenges they met when sourcing for payroll-specific regulatory updates.

The audience of over 2,000 professionals were treated to a short “around the world” trip for selected countries. We started with United States, Canada and Brazil, shortly followed by a jaunt around Europe with France, Germany, Netherlands, Spain, United Kingdom, and ended with Australia and Singapore.
