Malaysia Budget 2022
Guided by the 12th Malaysia Plan, Budget 2022 sets the economic compass for Malaysia’s recovery. As Malaysia transitions to the endemic phase, Budget 2022 proposes a balanced set of measures to strengthen recovery, build resilience and drive reforms.

There is a significant focus on funding the healthcare and education sectors and the reskilling and upskilling of Malaysia’s workforce and future talent to meet industry needs in the digital and advanced technology arenas. These sectors are integral to propagate a healthy and conducive ecosystem for the rakyat and businesses to thrive.

It is important that appropriate emphasis and governance are put in place for the effective implementation of the many initiatives and programs identified in the Budget, to ensure their objectives are met.

Budget 2022 perspectives

Budget 2022 was unveiled against the backdrop of projected economic growth of 3% to 4% this year and 5.5% to 6.5% in 2022, which is encouraging and signals a return to the pre-pandemic annual GDP growth trend.

With Malaysia moving into a post-pandemic economic recovery phase, the RM332.1 billion Budget 2022 is the largest ever Malaysian Budget. Budget 2022 is comprehensive and inclusive. In line with the “Keluarga Malaysia” spirit, Budget 2022 ensures that no person or business is left behind or neglected in Malaysia’s development. The focus on education, healthcare, sustainability, diversity, SMEs and the B40 group is commendable. Malaysia has shown her resilience during the pandemic and the Budget 2022 proposals will allow us to remain a competitive trading and exporting nation. We hope that the implementation of tax revenue-raising measures will be balanced against maintaining Malaysia’s attractiveness as an investment destination of choice. Where relevant, appropriate refinements to or transitional rules for the tax proposals should be introduced, to support businesses.

The formulation of Budget 2022 shows a continuing trend of consultation, focus group discussions and engagement by the Ministry of Finance, including the publication of a Pre-Budget Statement and four Public Consultation Papers. Such initiatives are consistent with international best practices and help ensure that the Budget proposals have taken into account the views of a diverse range of stakeholders. The announcement that the Prime Minister will chair an oversight committee coordinated by the Ministry of Finance to ensure the proposals achieve the targeted objectives, will enhance the governance and effective implementation of the various programmes and projects.

► Sustainability

In line with Malaysia’s commitment to becoming a carbon-neutral nation by 2050, various measures were announced to accelerate decarbonization, including:
► establishment of a platform by Bursa Malaysia under the Voluntary Carbon Market, to facilitate the trading of carbon credits among the owners of green assets embracing low-carbon practices,
► the introduction of a RM1 billion Low Carbon Transition Facility by Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM), for micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) to adopt sustainable and low carbon practices,
► full import duty, excise duty and sales tax exemption on electric vehicles (EVs), and
► individual tax relief of up to RM2,500 for various costs relating to the charging equipment for EVs.

With the 26th United Nations Climate Change Conference (COP26) taking place in Glasgow from 31 October 2021 to 12 November 2021, we can expect to see more specific measures being announced in line with Malaysia’s commitment to achieve its Sustainable Development Goals. These would include further developments on the proposed carbon tax and domestic emissions trading scheme announced recently by the Ministry of Water and Environment.

► Diversity and inclusiveness

To encourage diversity and inclusiveness, it was proposed that all public listed companies on Bursa Malaysia be mandated to appoint at least one woman to the Board of Directors. While this is encouraging, Malaysia should move quickly towards having more balanced Boards, as we do not want to have this “one woman” requirement being seen as sufficient. Studies have shown that companies with diverse boards tend to perform better.
Key tax measures

► Businesses
A higher income tax rate of 33% is proposed on chargeable income in excess of RM100 million, for the year of assessment (YA) 2022 only. Chargeable income of up to RM100 million will continue to be taxed at 24%.

Other notable corporate income tax proposals are the extension of the carry-forward period for unabsorbed business losses, from seven YAs to 10 YAs, and the extension of the reinvestment allowance tax incentive for a further two YAs, to YA2024, for companies that have exhausted their existing reinvestment allowance period. These proposals will be welcomed by companies suffering from the pandemic as well as companies looking to reinvest as the business climate improves.

► Foreign-sourced income
From 1 January 2022, foreign-sourced income earned by Malaysian tax residents and received in Malaysia will no longer be tax exempt. This is a revenue-raising measure and would also help remove Malaysia from the European Union (EU)'s so-called “grey list”.

► Key indirect tax measures
A Special Voluntary Disclosure Program (SVDP) will be implemented for indirect taxes. The SVDP will be implemented in phases, with penalty remissions of 100% in Phase 1 and 50% in Phase 2. The remission of indirect taxes may also be considered, on a case-by-case basis. The SVDP represents a unique opportunity for taxpayers to regularize their indirect tax positions, pay reduced or no penalties, and move forward with a clean slate.

In addition, the sales tax exemption on passenger vehicles will be extended to 30 June 2022.

► Real Property Gains Tax (RPGT)
Malaysian citizens or permanent resident individuals who dispose of real property or real property company shares, will not be subject to RPGT where the disposal takes place after more than five years of ownership.

Our views
The measures which would concern taxpayers the most would be the proposed 33% corporate income tax rate on chargeable income over RM100 million for YA2022, and the removal of the foreign source income exemption (FSIE).

In particular, the removal of FSIE in its entirety would be perceived negatively, as this would be a fundamental change to the Malaysian tax system, more so during turbulent economic times. Taxpayers and investors would also note that Singapore and Hong Kong are maintaining their territorial regimes, with corporate tax rates which are far lower than Malaysia’s. Whilst Hong Kong has also been placed on the EU’s grey list, it has committed to retaining its territorial regime, with the possible introduction of substance requirements for corporates to continue enjoying the FSIE. This may be something for Malaysia to consider.

Tax-raising measures are necessary to narrow the Budget deficit and the proposals above may contribute significant tax revenue to the country, but potentially only in the short-term. There is a need to formulate longer term measures that will generate sustainable growth in tax revenue while maintaining the country’s competitiveness without jeopardizing stability.

We believe that the key to achieving this would be to transform and digitize the tax administration system and to broaden the consumption tax base. There are various examples of jurisdictions significantly increasing their tax revenues while clamping down on evasion and leakages, simply by using technological tools such as e-invoicing and data analytics. Even with these measures, these countries continue to attract investments and grow their economies.

- Budget speeches from 2014 to 2021, Ministry of Finance (MoF)
- MoF economic reports
The Malaysian economy is projected to grow between 3% to 4% in 2021, supported by various economic stimulus packages and the implementation of the National Recovery Plan (NRP)*. In 2022, the economy is expected to grow by 5.5% to 6.5%, driven by normalization in economic activities, resumption of development projects and strong external demand.

The expected inflation rate for 2021 is 2.4%, due to the increase in crude oil prices as well as gradual resumption of economic activities.

In 2021, total trade is estimated to reach RM2.08t, increasing 16.8% year-on-year (YoY) from 2020. It is expected to rise to RM2.12t in 2022.

The projected recovery in global trade is expected to support Malaysia’s export growth in 2022.

As of 30 September 2021, Malaysia’s total international reserves amounted to RM482.5b, equivalent to 8.2 months of retained imports and 1.3 times external short-term debt.

In 2022, most sectors are expected to return to pre-pandemic levels, propelled by domestic demand recovery and improvement in consumer sentiment, private consumption and labor market conditions.
