Is Gen Z the spark we need to see the light?

2021 Gen Z Segmentation Study Insights Report

The better the question. The better the answer. The better the world works.
Gen Z is different. They are a generation that will not be put in a box. They defy labels. And they are here to challenge your perspective of the world.

Gen Z is shifting societal paradigms, creating new norms around activism, wellness, and success.

These seismic shifts bring major implications for businesses from both a consumer and employee perspective.

Businesses can better predict future trends when they look through the eyes of the generation that comes next.

What do we really know about Gen Z?
While Gen Z, born between 1997 and 2007, represent just 14% of the U.S. population, they out-punch their weight in influence – setting the pace of change for prior generations, as well as providing indicators of what generations that follow will come to expect. Together, Gen Z and those that follow represent 28% of the U.S. population, and their influence and spending power will far exceed even that high percentage.

In this report, “Gen Z” refers those born between 1997 and 2007, unless otherwise noted.

46.4 million

Methodology

Ernst & Young LLP surveyed a representative sample of 1,509 members of Gen Z from across the United States. The online survey was completed between 24 March 2021 and 8 April 2021. To be considered a member of Generation Z, a person had to have been born between 1 January 1997 (age 24 in 2021) and 31 December 2007 (age 14 in 2021). The survey recruited 40% ages 14-17 and 60% ages 18-24.
These digital natives have had access to real-time, unlimited and unfiltered content practically since birth.

Born into digital, Gen Z has only known instant and unfettered access to friends, news and entertainment all through a single device. With this, they have gained an ability to learn at a rate that was inconceivable to past generations.

They can imagine what others think impossible and they are not afraid to question convention and propose new normals.

Through it all, they are changing societies, redefining cultural norms and challenging geopolitical and business assumptions that have been in place for decades.
Gen Z instantly experiences it all – for better or worse.

Against this backdrop, how did Gen Z cope with the powerful realities of a global pandemic?
As the global pandemic raged, Gen Z experienced the realities of an economic, health, and social crises. Their response will define their generation.

69% worried about running out of food.

Q: Since March 2020, how often did you worry that your food would run out before your household got money to buy more?

47% of Gen Z know someone who was seriously ill or died from COVID-19.

Q: Do you personally know someone who was seriously ill or died from COVID-19, or do you not know anyone like that?

28% either lost their job or had someone in their family lose a job.

Q: Did you or anyone in your family lose their job because of COVID-19’s effects on the economy, or did that not happen?
The global pandemic brought fundamental changes to this generation, as they tried to come to grips with home schooling, lockdowns and social injustice.

It activated their activism.

It challenged their mental health.

It redefined how they find meaning.
Trying to define Gen Z defies the realities of Gen Z. They are, by far, the most diverse generation yet.

As we've seen with millennials, and every generation that preceded them, there is no single perspective that defines Gen Z. Instead, they're a generation full of plans, passions and paradoxes. Their diverse experiences and strong opinions will have a profound impact on society. And their time is now.

This study focused on engaging and recruiting an audience as diverse as the generation itself.
In the EY 2020 Gen Z Segmentation Study – published just before COVID-19 was declared a global pandemic – we identified five unique segments within Gen Z.

Just one year later, the pandemic has created measurable change among this generation’s segments. There is no longer tolerance for indifference and stress levels are rising across the board.
